AGED MAN BURNED TO DEATH AT SOUTH QUINCY

Peter Burke Loses Life In Fire Of Unknown Origin

Peter Burke, aged about 50 years, and a widower was burned to death Sunday morning, at a fire which distroyed a small building on Jackson street, owned by Louis Grossman.

The building was used as a store shed and adjoined the stable. Burke who was employed by Grossman, slept in the building.

The last seen of Burke alive was early Saturday evening when he entered the building for the night.

Just how the fire started will probably never be known. The fire must have been burning some time before it was discovered for it was a roaring mass of flames when the alarm sounded.

A milkman on Independence avenue three fourths of a mile away saw the burning building and knowing that an alarm had not sounded rushed to the residence of Chief Williams, and aroused him.

The Chief telephoned the Central Fire station and the apparatus was well on its way to the scene of the fire when the alarm from Box 36 was sounded at 4.40.

It did not take long after the firemen arrived to get the fire under control but it had been burning so long that the shed was practically destroyed, entailing a loss of $300.

It was known that Burke was probably in the building and it was not long before his badly burned body was found. Medical Examiner Jones was notified and the body was removed to Hall's undertaking rooms.

Natali Bizzozero Arraigned in Court for Drunkenness.

Natali Bizzozero, was a very different looking person when he appeared in court this morning, from what he was Saturday night when he fell into the hands of Officer Curtin. At that time he was full of exhilaration and dressed in the garments prescribed for females. This morning he wore the garments of a man and was very much subdued.

For a time Saturday night Natali kept the police on the alert. During the early part of the evening the telephone wires leading to the police station were kept hot with complaints of a queer acting woman, and Sergeant Barry was nearly distracted until the party was safely inclosed in one of the steel cages in the rear of the station.

According to complaints received, a person gaudily attired in woman's clothing was acting queerly and in a very unlady-like manner. A young woman complained that the bold thing had taken hold of her arm and attempted to talk with her. That when repulsed the party had used saucy language. Other complaints came thick and fast and Sergeant Barry sent out an imergency call to every officer on duty to look out for the female and forthwith bring her to the station.

The secret service men in plain clothes were sent out and the brass buttoned men laid plans to capture anything that came in sight that resembled the alluring female.

There are some handsome men on Quincy's police force and it was figured out that the capture of the supposed female was sure should they meet her, for there are few who can resist the charm of a brass buttoned officer, especially if that officer happens to have a charming personal appearance. It was some time, however, before the capture was made and then it fell to the lot of Officer Curtin. He with others was keeping a sharp lookout when his attention was attracted to a woman who fell in a heap. He gallantly rushed to her assistance and was surprised to find that the woman was drunk. He promptly escorted her to the police station where Sergeant Barry soon discovered that the woman had too much hair on her face to be a female and it quickly dawned upon him that the much wanted woman was before him.

"What's your name? asked Dave.

"Natali Bizzozero," replied the prisoner.

In response to further questions the man said that he lived on Liberty street and that he was drunk.

He was given a private room and told to sleep it off. Sunday morning some friends brought him his own clothing so that he could make a presentable appearance in court this morning.

Chief Burrell swore out a warrant against him for drunkenness and the court said that $15 would do this time. Natali did not have the necessary amount and at last accounts was impatiently waiting for some of his friends to come forward with the cash. If they do not show up by noon he will go to Dedham for a few weeks.

HOSPITAL TRUSTEES TAKE ACTION

Vote to Request Mayor to Withdraw Hospital Bill

At a meeting of the trustees of the City Hospital Saturday it was voted to request the Mayor to withdraw his bill now before the legislature to authorize the city to build a ward for contagious diseases near the City Hospital.

It seemed to be the general opinion of the trustees that some other plan than that proposed should be adopted.

The Mayor himself suggested that the Newton plan be looked into, as it was his opinion that it was better than the Quincy plan.

Under the Newton plan the City Hospital leases a piece of land to the city for a number of years. The city then builds a contagious hospital which it leases to the City Hospital for periods of ten years each.

All patients of the city are sent to the hospital the city being charged with the cost for the care of such patients as it sends to the hospital contagious ward.

HEARING ON MAYOR'S BILLS.

A hearing on the bill to amend the City Charter so as to provide that the Mayor shall be chairman of the School Committee, ex-officio, has been assigned by the Committee on Cities, of the legislature for Wednesday, Mar. 3, at 10.30.

The bill which provides that the city may provide a ward at the City Hospital for contagious diseases also comes up before the same committee at the same time.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RELIGIOUS UNIONS

Boston Federation Holds Mid-Year Meeting in Wollaston

The mid-year meeting of the Boston Federation of Young People's Religious Unions was held in the Wollaston Unitarian church Sunday.

The afternoon session at four o'clock opened with a devotional service led by the Rev. George F. Pratt of Dorchester, following which Fred M. Rollins welcomed the guests in behalf of the Wollaston union. After hearing and accepting various reports, and transacting other business, the guests adjourned to the vestry, where the entertaining union served a bountiful lunch of salad, sandwiches, coffee and cake.

Rev. Christopher R, Eliot of Bulfinch Place church opened the evening meeting at 7.30 with a devotional service, after which Miss Helen Loud of Weymouth rendered a very pleasing solo.

Reports from the various unions present told of their work and play, and gave their plans for the future. Miss Marion Moorhouse of Wollaston then contributed a delightful 'cello solo. The regular collection was taken, followed by another solo by Miss Loud.

Sanford Bates, presiding officer of the Federation, then introduced the speaker of the evening, the Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers of Cambridge, who gave a most interesting talk on "The Romance in Religion."

The meeting closed with a benediction by the Rev. Carl G. Horst. A hundred and thirty delegates were present, and the church for the evening service was well filled.

The committee in charge was Fred M. Rollins, chairman; Misses Gertrude Jones, Marion Browne, Elsie Snow, Persis Thompson, Priscilla Robinson, Dorothy Fay and Louis Weston, Harry Hooper, Ernest Arnold and Lucien Thayer.

NEW POSTOFFICE OPENED.

Councilman Flynn Buys First Stamp in New Building.

The honor of purchasing the first stamp at the new postoffice and the mailing of the first letter goes to Councilman William H. Flynn.

The transfer of the postoffice from its quarters on Granite street to the new Federal building, which will be its future home, took place Sunday.

As soon as the Granite street office closed Sunday, the work of moving was commenced and all the mail matter was quickly transferred. The regular outward mail was forwarded from the new office Sunday night.

The first inward mail arrived at the new office this morning and business went on with no interruption.

The boxes at the new office are key boxes and box holders were obliged to get a key before they could open their box.

A deposit of twenty cents was required for eac hkey. This amount the government returns upon the surrender of the box and key.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Wollaston, Mass., Mar. 1, 1909.

Editor Quincy Ledger:

In your issue of Saturday, there appears what purports to be a report of the proceedings before the Legislative Committee on Election laws in which you quote the writer as saying, "Mr. Chase said that there never was a more non-partisan administration than the present one." As this is exactly the opposite of what was said, and the opinion I hold, that you will oblige me by correcting it, lest some of my acquaintances who may have read your paper conclude I am a fit candidate for the imbeciles' home.

Yours etc.,
Wm. M. Chase.

LITTLE LIQUOR FOUND.

Chief Burrell, Inspector Goodhue, with Officers Bishop, DeCoste and Curtin raided the premises of Santiago Abad at 9 Brooks road Sunday night. But little liquor was found although the police carried off a lot of empty bottles, etc. Abad was arraigned in court this morning.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

Letters remain undelivered at the Quincy post office for: Emily Blanchard, William A. Bell, Mrs. Eliza Brown, J. Campbell, H. M. DeGraw, D. J. Fenton, Miss aMry Gay, B. F. Hall, Mrs. W. T. Jelliason, John E. King, Augusto Marcuso, Miss Florence Mason, Miss Franky May Morris, Jer. O'Connell, John Whalen.

QUINCY BOYS CAPTURE STATE ATHLETIC MEET

Local Team Runs Up Total Of Eighty-Four And One Half Points

Over 130 boys representing the Y. M. C. A.s. in Quincy, Somerville, Cambridge, Malden, Lynn, Gloucester, Milton and Newton gathered in the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday afternoon for the annual state athletic meet. The meet was open to all Y. M. C. A.s. in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, but only boys in the vicinity of Boston competed.

The Quincy boys ran away with meet running up a total of 84 1-2 points, with Somerville second, with 54 1-2 points. Milton failed to score a point in any event. The events contested were, 15 yard dash, running high jump, standing broad jump, Pull ups, 12-pound shot put, three broad jumps, potato race and relay races.

The events were so arranged that all boys up to 18 years of age had a chance to compete. There were three classes of boys represented, these being 11 to 14 years, 14 to 16 years and 16 to 18.

All the events were closely contested, the boys in the various classes being very evenly matched.

In the relay races there was considerable enthusiasm shown. Quincy was represented in five races and won all of them, which added 25 points to the total score.

Silver cups were given to the winners and ribbons to those who took second and third places.

The points were awarded as follows: five for first place, four for second, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth. This gave every team a good chance to score at least one point. The following is the summary of the events, giving the winners of the first three places:

15 yard dash, 11 to 14 years—Raymond, Cambridge won; R. Prout, Quincy, second; Binney, Somerville, third; time, 2 3-5 seconds.

15 yards dash, 14 to 16 years—H. Prout, Quincy won; R. Prout, Quincy, second; hall, Quincy, third, time 2 2-5 seconds.

15 yards dash, 16 to 18 years—Kimball, Cambridge won; Gardner, Somerville, seond; Waid, Lynn, third; time, 2 2-5 seconds.

Running high jump, 16 to 18 years—Huntington, Lynn, won; Kimball, Cambridge, second; Gardner, Somerville third; distance, 5 feet 1 in.

Standing broad jump, 11 to 14 years—Raymond, Cambridge, won; Jennings, Quincy, second; R. Prout, Quincy, third; distance, 7 feet, 11 1-2 inches.

Pull ups, 11 to 14 years—Murphy, Gloucester, won; Kennedy, Quincy, second; Binney, Somerville, third; number of pull ups, 20.

Pull ups, 14 to 16 years—Hodgkins, Malden, won; Hall, Quincy, second; Hewitt, Lynn, third; number of pull ups, 18.

Potato race, 11 to 14 years—Binney, Somerville, won; Harris, Malden, second; Jennings, Quincy, third.

Potato race, 14 to 16 years—Martin, Somerville, won; Adams, Newton, second.

Potato race, 16 to 18 years—Dudley, Lynn, won; Gardner, Somerville, second; Pinel, Quincy, third.

Relay race, 12 to 14 years, Somerville vs. Malden, won by Malden; Cambridge vs. Quincy, won by Quincy; Gloucester vs. Quincy 2d, won by Quincy.

Relay race, 14 to 16 years—Newton vs. Somerville, won by Somerville; Cambridge vs. Quincy, won by Quincy; Somerville vs. Lynn, won by Somerville; Malden vs. Quincy 2d, won by Quincy.

Relay race, 16 to 18 years—Cambridge vs. Quincy, won by Quincy; Somerville vs. Lynn, won by Somerville.

The points were credited as follows: Quincy, 84 1-2; Somerville, 54 1-2; Cambridge, 26 1-2; Lynn, 21; Malden, 15 1-2; Newton, 12; Gloucester, 5; Milton, 0.

THREE HOUSES ENTERED.

Burglars Make Clean Get-A-Way at Houghs Neck.

Some daring burglars were at work Saturday night at Houghs Neck and the houses of Myles B. McCabe and William N. Reed of Manet avenue, and the bungalow of Benjamin Johnson at Post Island were entered.

All the houses were ransacked and at Reed's two valuable rugs and considerable clothing was taken. The loss at the other houses cannot be ascertained until the owners arrive at the beach.

This is the eighteenth break at the beach during the winter. The burglars wait until after the lamp-lighter lights the gas and then turn it off and get in their work. In last night's breaks as well as in the others entrance was gained by forcing open windows. The police are at work on the case.

MATINEE CONCERT.

A matinee conecrt was given Saturday in Colonial hall by Miss Carrie F. Spear, assisted by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, pianist, Laurence Fjelbeck, violinist and the following soloists, Miss Bertha J. Carlson, Miss Ruth Colin and Barbara Harris.

An orchestra of eight pieces furnished musical numbers during the afternoon. Seven of these eight were girls, Louise Alexander, Ruth Packard, Elizabeth Pattee and Marguerite McCarthy, violins; Dorothy Alexander, violincello ;Harriet Pierce, cornet and Ruth Alexander, pianist. The eighth member of the orchestra was Laurence Fjelbeck.

There were seventeen numbers on the program, including piano, vocal and violin solos and duets.

The ushers were Miss Edna Hammock, Miss Emma Harris and Miss Beatrice Morrison .

Tickets are selling rapidly for the entertainment to be given by the Knights of Malta tomorrow night in Electa hall. Concert, dance and whist.

Sharp and cold this morning but March came in like a lamb. Will it go out like a lion?

One of the largest churches in Atlanta, Ga., is making preparations on a large scale to have its own theatre, plays and actors. Salome's and Comic Operas however will be barred.

One of the important matters to come before the City Council at its meeting tonight will be a public hearing on the matter of a school lot at Houghs Neck. According to the notice of the hearing an invitation is extended to all parties, having suitable lots to present plans, and a price at which the same will be sold, at the hearing.

The necessity of increasing the police force so that the city shall be throughly patrolled both day and night, was strongly emphasized at the fire in South Quincy, Sunday morning.

The fire, as far as the destruction of property went was a small one, but the fact that it proved fatal to a human being changes the aspect of things.

Had there been an officer on the beat the fire would probably have been discovered, in time to warn the lone occupant of the shed.

As it was the fire had evidently been burning for some time, and when discovered by a passing milkman, it was too late to save the building or its occupant.

At the present time the night officers go off about four o'clock, and the day men go on at nine, leaving only one officer on street duty in the whole city, for about five hours.

If Quincy was a small town this might to, but it is hardly safe or up-to-date in a city, the size of Quincy.

All night officers and all night lights are two things Quincy badly needs at the present time.

Many people wondered why "Bob" Evans absented himself from the homecoming of the fleet at Hampton Roads. The Brockton Enterprise says: Quite likely the truth of the matter was told by Admiral Evans himself, who is now in the far west lecturing. He said that Sperry deserved to be made a vice-admiral; that it was Sperry's day, and he shouldn't want to break in upon the man anyway at such a time; and with pathos he said that it was a sad thing for a man to realize that his day was past and that his life had been lived. It is quite likely that all of this was entirely the truth. Evans is the retired admiral, Sperry the younger commander; and the elder man knows what is due the man in the centre of the stage at a time like this. In time Sperry will give way to a younger man still, and then it will be his place to stand back and allow his successor to stand in the limelight and receive the plaudits. The star must not be dimmed by a past performer.

There is probably more truth to this explanation than to the rumor that, through his lectures Admiral Eavns had made himself unpopular at the White House.

Blew Top of Head Off

Whitman, Mass., March 1.—Without any known cause Alfred Vignault, 37 years old, committed suicide at the home of his parents here by blowing the top of his head off with a shotgun. Vignault had been a railroad station agent in South Hanson for several years.

Worried Over His Eyesight

New York, March 1.—George W. Jackson, prominent in the labor councils of the Big Six Typographical union, committed suicide by throwing himself in front of a subway express train. Jackson had become despondent over his failing eyesight.

The Pope's Indisposition

Rome, March 1.—The indisposition of the pope continues. The attending physicians say that the suspension of audiences was brought about chiefly because of hoarseness and they expect that the pope will be entirely recovered in a few days.

Steamer Is Overdue

New Orleans, March 1.—Some anxiety is felt for the British steamship Nannette, which sailed from New York Feb. 16 for New Orleans. She should have reached here four days ago.

SURPRISED BY HER FRIENDS.

At the home of her parents, Owens place, South Quincy, Miss Bertha Booth was tendered a surprise party, Feb. 26th and presented with a gold locket and chain as a token of esteem and respect of her many friends. The presentation was made by Miss Rebecca Nelson.

Games were enjoyed throughout the evening after which refreshments were served. Among those present were: Mildred Moyle, Rebecca Nelson, Florence Blomquist, Chester Moyle, Etta Spargo, Carl Johnson, Roger Nelson, Raymond Johnston, Ellen Johnson, Evelyn Cowe, Florence Gustafson, Maud Johnston, Lemuel Murray, Violette Spargo, Delia Hanson, Joseph Halbert, William Clements, Russell Pierce, Ethel Pierce.

TELLER RETIRES VOLUNTARILY

Was a Republican When Seated In 1876, but Turned Over to Democracy—Platt and Foraker Have Also Seen Long Service—Hepburn and Sherman Lead Representatives In Length of Service in Lower Branch

Washington, March 1.—Twelve senators and seventy-seven representatives who are members of the present congress will be absent when the Sixty-First congress assembles in special session on March 15. The re-election of Mr. Hopkins (Ills.) and Mr. Stephenson (Wis.) not having taken place, it is possible that their failure of election will augment the number of senatorial absentees to fourteen. These changes in the personnel of the senate and house include many whose names are bywords to every reader of newspapers.

Of the seventy-seven representatives who will retire on March 3, one, Mr. Hepburn (Ia.), has served twenty-two years in congress, and another, Mr. Sherman (N. Y.), who becomes vice president, has served twenty years. Mr. Cousins (Ga.) and Delegate Smith (Ariz.), have each served sixteen years, while Jenkins (Wis.), Cooper (Tex.), Overstreet, (Ind.), Williams (Miss) and Acheson (Pa.), each have served fourteen years.

Of the other representatives who will soon retire eight served twelve years, two ten years, six eight years, nine six years, fifteen four years, and twenty-eight two years or a single term.

In years of service, Senator Teller (Col) is the nestor of the retiring legislators, having been elected senator upon the admission of his state to the union and taking his seat Dec. 4, 1876, since when he has been continuously and prominently in the public eye. He resigned from the senate in 1882 to enter the cabinet of President Arthur as secretary of the interior, re-entering the senate March 4, 1885.

A Republican in politics, Teller withdrew from the Republican national convention in June, 1896, because of the financial plank adopted by that party, which he has never since approved. He was re-elected to the senate as an independent silver Republican, and in 1903 was re-elected as a Democrat, with which party he has been affiliated since he withdrew from the Republican convention. His conspicuous ability as a lawyer and his familiarity with legislation covering a long series of years have given him an eminent place in the senate, from which he will retire voluntarily on March 4, having declined re-election. He is a member of the national monetary commission and will continue his public service in that connection.

Senator Platt (N. Y.) served in the Forty-Third and Forty-Fourth congresses as a member of the house, entering the senate in 1881. On May 16 of that year, when Senator Conklin resigned his seat because of his difficulties with President Garfield, his colleague, Platt, joined him, thereby gaining the designation of "me too" Platt. It has always been understood that Platt chafed under this nickname, and determined to return to the senate as a vindication of his act, which he did March 4, 1897. Although he has been in very feeble health for several years, his attendance on the sessions of the senate on all important occasions has generally been marked with regularity.

Senator Foraker, whose political career is fresh in the minds of everyone, has served in the senate twelve years.

Senator McCreary had also been long in the house of representatives, having entered that body in the Forty-Ninth congress. After serving six terms he entered the senate six years ago.

Other senators who will retire on March 4 are Ankeny (Wash.), Fulton (Ore.), Gary (S. C.), Hansborough (Neb.), Kittredge, (S. D.), Long, (Kas.) and Milton, (Fla.).

Representative Hepburn has been conspicuously interested in all matters relating to interstate commerce, his connection with public affairs going back to ante-bellum days, for he was a delegate to the Republican national convention of 1860. John S. Williams, former minority leader of the house, retires to enter the senate two years hence. Representative Bede (Minn.), who has contributed to the humor of many campaigns, and Bourke Cockran (N. Y.), who has figured in many contests, also will retire. Cockran was in the Fiftieth congress, dropped out one term and reappeared in the Fifty-Second and Fifty-Third congresses. He was then out eight years, returning to the house six years ago.

SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE.

New Law Provides Safe and Cheap Insurance for Wage Earners.

How the State of Massachusetts has put opportunities for all its citizens to get the advantages of industrial life insurance and old age pensions at rates that just cover the cost is known to most readers of this paper. But for the sakes of those who need to review the subject a little it should be recalled that legislation permitting any of the savings banks of the Bay State to establish departments competent to issue life insurance policies of a value not exceeding $500 old age annuities up to $200, was passed in the spring of 1907.

Under the act the state provides all the necessary machinery for giving the wage earner a chance to get safe and cheap life insurance.

Savings banks in Massachusetts are famous for conservative and economical management. The whole scheme is secured through a General Guaranty Fund to which those banks that have established insurance departments are required to make contributions according to the amount of insurance they do. A State Actuary has established rates and standard forms of policies. A state medical examiner has prescribedthe conditions of the physical examinations which have to be taken to secure life insurance but not old age pensions. Both the bank commissioner and the insurance commissioner supervise the insurance departments of savings banks. No other insurance is so absolutely safe.

The new law went into effect November, 1907, so that the plan seems to be more than a year old, it was not until last summer that the machinery for the operation of the scheme was ready.

The premium rates were fixed in accordance with the mortality statistics of Massachusetts where the death rate is highest in order that no local savings bank may find itself in difficulty because a great many people die off in the community in which it is situated. Provision is made, of course, for the return to the policy holders of any profits that are made in the business. This rebating may take the form of cash dividends or of increased insurance.

The first institutions to start an insurance department was the Whitman Savings Bank. The example of this bank was soon followed by the People's Savings Bank of Brockton.

Something about the agencies which these banks have established in other places will be told in another article of this series.

—The beauty of the Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's $1,000,000 model tenement house on the East Side, where tuberculosis patients and their families will be able to live under conditions similar to those provided at the most up-to-date sanatoria, is that it is not necessarily a charity.

The owner can make the property pay reasonably on the investment and still keep rents way down.

There is no reason why other investors should not imitate this plan. They do not need to be philanthropists. But the fight in New York, as in Boston, has made it clear that it is in the home that we must fight consumption.

Mrs. Vanderbilt has learned this by five years of work in connection with the clinic of the Presbyterian hospital. This is now the time to put what we have learned into operation.—Boston Record.

—To spend money for battleships without encouraging the provision of auxiliary ships equally indispensable is as illogical as a war policy, as the construction of a $500,000,000 canal without a merchant marine in sight is indefensible on economic grounds.—Springfield Union.

TOWN MEETING IN OLD QUINCY

First Monday In March Big Day of Year

TOWN HALL AND SQUARE THE CENTER OF INTEREST

Constables with Silver Badges Kept Politicians From Getting too Excited

Today many of the towns of the good old commonwealth, about Quincy, are holding their annual town meetings and the voters are having their say as to who shall be the guiding spirits of their town affairs for the coming year. They are also acting on the various articles "To see if the town will vote to do this or do that."

"Mr. Moderator" is the common word in use. All of these meetings serve to remind the older citizens of Quincy of the good old days when they too were assembled in town meeting to transact business.

What a change there has been in Quincy. Close your eyes for a minute, if you please, and let your mind drift back to the first Monday in March of years ago. In the street in front of the town hall were the various bakers wagons selling "lection cake" and woe be to the family man who came home from town meeting without a loaf of this cake tucked away under his arm.

Running the gauntlet of the group of electioneers, of the various candidates, the broad stone steps are mounted, and passing through the green doors half way up the steps, you find yourself in the hall with its floor covered with sawdust. Here you find men with the different ticket for on some town meeting day there were several tickets in the field. Other men were found with their hands full of stickers, or rather other men with stickers found you.

You were urged to place a sticker bearing the name of the running candidate on your ticket. These sticker men were very persistent and many an election was won by their systematic work. Circulating about the hall were the constables whose duty it was to preserve order. There were no uniformed police then, for the peace of the community was looked after by constables, whose only mark to distinguish them from the ordinary citizen was the big silver badge pinned to their left breast.

These constables were not so officious, as some of the police now a days, for the constables were elected by ballot the same as other town officers, and to be too severe meant that a line would be drawn through your name or a sticker placed over it.

Standing about in little groups were local orators expounding the merits of their particular candidates and speculating on the final outcome of the voting.

At the end of the hall in front of the stage are the selectmen, who act as election officers. Passing behind the rail you give your name, it is checked off, the cover of the box is raised and in your ticket goes, and this part of your duty as a good citizen is over.

John Quincy Adams is moderator, with a rap of the gavel he announces that the ballot is closed. Then comes the counting and as the counters call off the names of Hodges, Eaton, Fellows or Spear, Field, Chamberlin or Robertson, anxious men standing near by with paper and pencil in hand check them off so that they may know bofere the official count is announced who has won out.

The voting over the consideration of the remaining articles in the warrant are taken up. Here is where the famous wisdom corner shone, for it must indeed be an unimportant matter if the voice of one of more of this group was not heard to shout "Mr. Moderator." Funny indeed were some of the motions made, and how they would wrangled on some unimportant matter, such as perhaps painting the Niagra engine and how they would roar when some wit moved that the engine be painted green.

Later came the recommendations of the famous committee of fifteen, whose duty it was to consider the several articles in the warrant, other than the election of town officers, and it not unfrequently happened that their recommendation "That the article be indefinitely postponed" was objected to by such well known men as George Cahill, John Field, Edwin Marsh, Henry Faxon and Seth Dewing, all now gone to the great beyond.

Sometimes it so happened that the arguments were so long that more than one day was required to complete the consideration of the articles, but there was never as much interest manifested as on the day of the annual meeting, for it was on these days that many refrained from following their usual vocation that they might assist in transacting the business affairs of the town.

Those days are now gone probably never to return. In the place of the tickets used at town meetings, have come the Austrailian ballot, now almost universally used in Massachusetts, and with it has come the time when a ward heeler, although he may promise to deliver a certain number of votes for a consideration, is not able to deliver the goods, for once inside the little booth, a voter is his own master and none have the right to question how he shall vote.

It is pleasant however to recall these old days and to live over again the scenes of a town meeting day in old Quincy.

IN MEMORY OF C. H. BOND.

Concert to be Held in Neponset Wednesday Evening.

A concert of more than passing interest is to be given in the Trinity Congregational church at Neponset, Wednesday evening, March 3d, in memory of the late Charles H. Bond, who did so much in his life time to encourage young and promising artists in their preparatory work. It is especially appropriate that much of the evening's program should be furnished by some of the many professional singers and readers who, "Having shared the kindliness of his heart and the generosity of his hand," now cherish his memory with affectionate regard.

Tributes are to be brought from the Emerson College of Oratory by the President,Professor Henry Lawrence Southwick; and the Leland Powers School of Expression will be represented by Leland Powers himself. Professor William Whitney of the International School of Music will provide a special number, as will also the New England Conservatory of Music Through Mr. Bond's devoted friend Mr. Flanders. Miss Eva Lee will bring tribute from the Faelten Pianoforte school. Miss Mary Fay Sherwood, the well-known soprano will sing, and Miss Maud Huntington Benjamin of Malden recite.

AFTER THE REVIVAL.

Rev. John Hopkins Denison of the Central Congregational church, Boston said very truly Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Young Men's Congregational club: "Lots of the drunkards converted at the Chapman-Alexander revivals," he said, "will backslide, and people will point to them and say, "The revival is a failure," but I tell you it isn't such an easy thing to be good, and I'd like to see those who criticise go out and stand what those converted drunkards have to. It is the conditions that surround them. It's no use converting a man and asking him to be good and putting him up against those conditions of poverty and other trials that surround him."

After speaking of group selfishness as even more detrimental to advancement than the selfishness of the individual, he said that for Boston to become heaven the selfishness of employer, employee, labor union, city ward, individuals and corporations must be superseded by a desire to help the other fellow, of sacrificing self for the common good.

BOSTON MOTOR SHOW.

A week hence and Boston will witness the greatest industrial exhibit that has ever been held within its confines—namely the seventh annual show of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association. In keeping with the record established at motor shows since the inauguration of the present season this show should surely be the one par excellent; for the simple reasons that in the matter of decorations this city is somewhat more advanced and likewise for the reason that the show coming somewhat later than the others permits the makers to display their very latest and best products. Manager Chester I. Campbell said yesterday. "Without going into detail I am under the impression we shall show something like 175 different models of motor vehicles, something like 35 different makes of motor cycles, while the accessory end will be greater than any previous show. As regards the matter of peace." The music and soloist for the week will be of the best. The Empire Women's orchestra, Miss Rita Mario, conductor, will occupy the beautiful band stand erected especially for the show in the centre of Grand Hall. Mme. Louise Arnold Kenyon will be the soprano soloist. In Exhibition hall the Imperial Ladies' orchestra will be heard with Miss Katharine Connors, director and Frank V. Russell, xylophone soloist. In departments C and D, Russell's orchestra will hold forth with F. V. Russell, leader. On this floor will also be located the cafe.

CITY DRESSED IN HER BEST

Influx of Organizations to Take Part In Inaugural Parade Begins With Arrival of New England Coast Artillery—Roosevelt and Taft Confer —President Calls Senate In Extraordinary Session on March 4

Washington, March 1.—Inaugural week was ushered in with Washington ready with gaily decked buildings, newly erected stands and clean swept streets for the reception of the thousands who will come here to witness the induction into office of President Taft next Thursday.

The advance guard of the unattached delegations has begun arriving at the Union station, where 125 special policemen recruited from practically every large city in the country are on duty to prevent the ingress of pickpockets and other undesirables known to them.

With the arrival today of the New England Coast Artillery, Massachusetts, 800 strong, the influx of the organizations which will participate in the inaugural parade begun. Other organizations expected today are the second division of the Rhode Island naval battalion of Newport, the Now-and-Then club of Salem, Mass., and the Saratoga club of Saratoga, N. Y.

President Roosevelt attended church Sunday for the last time as chief executive of the nation. He did not accompany the president-elect, who worshipped at All Souls Unitarian church, of which he is a member, but went to Grace Reformed church, where he has been a regular attendant since he first came to Washington.

The president walked to the church accompanied only by two secret service men. A large crowd had gathered at the entrance and greeted him as he passed quickly inside. After the service the president tarried near the door for a few minutes to say goodbye to several close friends. He reached the White House just in time to greet as host Mr. Taft, who made his way there directly from his church. The two spent several hours in conference.

In accordance with the custom of the retiring president, Mr. Roosevelt issued a proclamation calling the senate in extraordinary session at noon on March 4 next. The session is to be held for the purpose of receiving "such communications as may be made by the executive," among them probably the nominations of his cabinet officers.

The full text of the proclamation is as follows:

"Whereas, public interests require that the senate of the United States be convened at 12 o'clock on the fourth day of March next to receive such communications as may be made by the executive;

"Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim and declare that an extraordinary occasion requires the senate of the United States to convene at the Capitol, in the city of Washington, on the fourth day of March next at 12 o'clock noon, of which all persons who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice.

"Given under my hand and the seal of the United States at Washington, the twenty-seventh day of February in the year of our Lord 1909, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-third."

Two-Cent Postage to Newfoundland Becomes an Accomplished Fact

Washington, March 1.—Beginning today, a 2 cent stamp will carry a letter from Newfoundland to the United States, and vice versa, instead of 5 cents, as heretofore.

The reform is said to be due largely to the efforts of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the famous missionary to Labrador, who recently interviewed President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Meyer on the subject.

IT IS NOT A DYE

A Wonderful Cure

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly, and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff. I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it and almost at once was benefited by it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. MRS. E. A. ROSS. Sharon, Mercer Co., Pa.

MARCIA FLETCHER.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin G. Fletcher on Garfield street was not large enough Sunday afternoon to hold all the friends who gathered to pay their last respects to the little daughter Marcia, who passed away on Thursday of pneumonia.

Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Paddock of the Universalist church and Rev. Mr. Thompson of the First United Presbyterian church. "Lead Kindly Light" and "Sweet Day," favorite hymns of the deceased were sung most feelingly. The floral tributes were beautiful, some seventy pieces banking the casket and filling the room.

The sympathy of many friends goes out to the bereaved parents in the loss of their only daughter.

FORE RIVERS LOSE.

The Fore River Soccer team was defeated by the Fall River Rovers Saturday afternoon at Fall River by the score of 6-0. The game was one of the roughtest in years and there were several free fights, one of the Fore River players being knocked unconscious by the bare knuckle of a Rover.

The Fore River players claim it was Referee Gore's bad work that caused them to lose themselves. So bad was it that only three men were in the game during the last fifteen minutes of play the others leaving the field. The three who remained left before the end of the half and the game was awarded to the Rovers.

The game was in the New England league series and will be protested by the Fore River team. At the next meeting of the league the matter will come up and both sides will receive a hearing.

More About Crusoe.

Robinson Crusoe had just discovered human footprints on his island.

He followed them up.

They led him to a knoll overlooking the sea on which somebody had put up a billboard with this inscription painted upon it:

Use Bunk's Pills
For All Liver Troubles.
25 Cents a Bottle.

Owing to the avarice and greed of the publishers, however, who refused to incorporate this incident in the story unless paid regular advertising rates, it was omitted, and the book went to press in the garbled and incomplete form with which the reading public is familiar.—Chicago Tribune.

The First Monotheists.

So far as we know, the Egyptian priests were the first monotheists. There existed in Egypt two kinds of religious teaching, the "exoteric" and the "esoteric," that for the masses of the people and that for the select few, the little company of the "wise." The masses were polytheists, believing in a multitude of gods, while the few believed only in one god, of whom Osiris, head of the popular deities, was but a weak reflection.—New York American.

WEYMOUTH

The funeral of Charles Edward Hoffses took place from his late residence on Washington street, Saturday afternoon and was largely attended. A delegation attended from the wholesale department of the Singer Sewing Machine, Boston, where deceased was employed as shipper for 35 years, also from Governor Greenhalge lodge, New England order of Protection Boston, of which deceased was a charter member. The service was conducted by Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity church and there was singing by members of the church choir.

There were many handsome floral tributes. Interment was in the family lot at Village cemetery.

The annual town election is being held today and there is a big vote being cast. There is a hot contest over the school committee. The Republican candidates are T. V. Nash and Fred Revinius, while John F. Reardon is running on nomination papers. He has served on the committee for the past three years and is secretary of the board.

There is also a contest over the office of tax collection. The present incumbent and republican nominee W M. Tirrell is opposed by John B. Whelan who is running on nomination papers. These are the only two offices for which there is much of a contest. Abbot Healey is a candidate for selectman and the socialists have a full ticket in the field. But they do not look for the election of any of their nominees althought it is thought that John Doran socialist candidate for selectman will poll a good vote.

LOCALS.

CHARITIES WILL GET A MILLION

Bulk of Tompkins' Fortune For Benefit of the Blind

Boston, March 1.—A million dollars given to charities was disclosed when the announcement of the probating of the will of the late Eugene Tompkins, former theatrical manager of Boston and New York, was made.

The present beneficiaries are Mrs. Eugene Tompkins, who receives $50,000 and the income of the estate, which is valued at over $1,000,000; former members of the staff of the Boston theatre and the Academy of Music of New York, $31,000; to relatives and friends, $45,000, and $2000 each to the steward and butler.

The beneficiaries on the death of Mrs. Tompkins include fifteen institutions, the residue of the estate, approximately $750,000, being left to the Perkins Institute for the Blind, South Boston.

WOMAN UNDER SUSPICION

New Jersey Seminary Upset by Mysterious Fires In Dormitories

Trenton, March 1.—Mysterious fires in the dormitories of Pennington seminary have thrown the students and faculty of that institution into a furore. No one was allowed to leave the school for the usual Sunday vacation, pending an investigation by the county prosecutor of the origin of the flames, which are believed to have been incendiary.

The first fire occurred last Wednesday and caused a loss estimated at $3000. Many of the girl students lost valuable gowns. A similar fire broke out on Thursday while the students were at dinner.

A young woman living in a south New Jersey town is under suspicion.

FAITH OF FOUNDERS

It Has Wrought Great Things For Trinitarian Congregational Church

Boston, March 1.—The usual Sunday religious services at the Park Street (Trinitarian Congregational) church were elaborated upon and enhanced by the service of the centennial anniversary celebration. The unwavering loyalty of the score of incorporators of this, the first meeting-house of the Trinitarian belief, was dwelt upon in each of the addresses heard during the day and evening.

The anniversary sermon was delivered by Rev. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of the church, who dwelt largely with the history of the congregation and church, and the effect of the faith first upheld by its incorporators.

OFFENDED ANTI-SALOONISTS

Resignation of College Professor Who Voted "Wet" Is Demanded

Richmond, Ind., March 1.—The resignation of W. N. Trueblood, professor of English at Earlham college, is demanded in resolutions adopted by a meeting of the Friends church at Dublin, because he voted "wet" in the recent local option election, which resulted in the defeat of the anti-saloon factions.

Wayne county is the only one in Indiana that has yet gone "wet" in an option election. Earlham college is closely connected with the Friends church.

FROM DEATH FARM VICTIM

Court Asked to Award Money Obtained by Mrs. Guinness

Laporte, Ind., March 1.—The first of several cases to recover money obtained by Mrs. Belle Guinness from the men she lured into her murder house on the promise of marriage has been brought in the Laporte circuit court.

Ansel Heiglein sues for $2893.20, the amount Belle Guinness is said to have got from Andrew Helgelein before she killed him. Helgelein was the last known victim of "Murder Hill Farm."

WITH SEVERE RAZOR CUTS

Chicago Man Wandered About Streets For Several Days

Chicago, March 1.—With his throat cut and the arteries in both wrists opened with a razor, Joseph O'Conner wandered about Chicago and nearby towns semi-conscious for several days. Sunday he was sent to a hospital by the police and the physicians say he may live.

Last Thursday O'Conner attempted to commit suicide, but failed to kill himself. He then apparently lost his nerve.

Crowley Outruns Fowler

Boston, March 1.—James F. Crowley of New York defeated Robert Fowler of Cambridge in a fifteen mile Marathon race by a reserve sprint which enabled him to lead by seventy yards at the finish. Crowley's time was 1:32:40.

Dropped Dead In Church

Philadelphia, March 1.—While sitting in a pew at the Bible class exercises of the Tioga Presbyterian church, Samuel M. Burnett, a wealthy retired carpet manufacturer, died of heart disease. He was 62 years old.

BASKET BALL OTHER SPORTS

Makarias Defeat Brockton Intermediates at Y. M. C. A.

Makaria and the Brockton intermediates had a hot game of basket ball Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. gym., the local team pulling away in the second half and winning 37 to 28.

Both sides showed some good teamwork, but the Makaria team had a better eye for baskets. Tupper and McKenzie were the high scorers for the Quincy five, the former scoring seven baskets and the latter five. Casey and Baker were the stars of the Brockton team. The summary:

MAKARIA	BROCKTON INT.
McKeezie, rf	lb, Ellis
Gourlie, lf	rb, Coleman
Tupper, c	c, Casey
Morris, rb	lf, Baker
Mundie, lb	rf, Folsom

Score, Makaria 37, Brockton Int, 28. Goals from floor, McKenzie 5, Tupper 7, Morris 2 Mundie 2, Ellis, Coleman, Casey 6, Baker 5, Folsom, Goals from fouls, Tupper 4, Morris. Referee Duncan. Scorer, Mundie. Timer, Howard. Time, 20m periods. Attendance, 200.

The preliminary game was between the Quincy Employed Boys and the Montello boys. The latter didn't have a look-in, scoring 14 points while the home team ran up 52. All the Quincy boys scored more than once except Melville, who played a strong game in the backfield. Childs excelled for Montello. The summary:

QUINCY E. BOYS	MONTELLO E. BOYS
Glover, rf	lb, Liberty
Pinel, lf,	rb, Green
Dakers, c	c, White
Jenkins, rb	lf, Childs
Melville, lb	rf, Rich

Score, Quincy Employed Boys 52, Montello Employed Boys 14. Goals from floor, Glover 9, Pinel, 5, Dakers 6, Jenkins 4, Liberty, White Childs 3, Rich. Goals from fouls, Glover 4, Childs 2. Referee, Duncan. Scorer, Mundie. Timer, Howard. Time, 20m periods. Attendance, 200.

A hot game of basket ball is scheduled for tonight, when the semi-professional champions, Hyde Park, meet the professional East Boston team at Magnolia hall, Hyde Park. Hyde Park hasn't been defeated in Magnolia hall for two years and the fans are speculating on the outcome of tonight's clash.

The Quincy High five is scheduled to play the Boston College High team tomorrow afternoon at the local school's gym. The B. C. five has been trimming the best in the state this season and is composed of five men who have played together three years. It will be a hot game between these two teams.

PATRICK'S PETITION

Recites That Life Imprisonment Is More Horrible Than Death

New York, March 1.—Before the appellate division of the supreme court today appeared Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer convicted of the murder by poison of Millionaire William Marsh Rice, on a writ of habeas corpus. His appearance before the state court is a continuation of his fight for liberty, which failed in the United States supreme court.

Patrick is seeking freedom on the ground that the cummutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment by the late Governor Higgins was not warranted in that it was a change to a punishment not provided by statute for the crime of which he was convicted and that the change was to the prisoner's disadvantage in that it was an imposition of a different and greater punishment. His petition says that "life imprisonment is not only entirely different from but is in fact greater and more horrible to endure than the death penalty, alone prescribed by general law for murder, first degree."

Patrick asserts that his conviction was procured by fraud and collusion of "divers persons of vast influence, power and wealth." His petition for freedom is opposed by the city, county and state authorities.

MUST RENOUNCE CLAIMS

Servia Has Neither Sympathy Nor Support Among the Powers

St. Petersburg, March 1.—The Russian government has sent a telegram to the Servian government, counselling Servia to renounce all territorial claims and await the direction of the powers.

This advice was given in response to a note from the new Servian cabinet, assuring Russia of Servia's sincere desire for peace and firm resolve to abstain from any provocation or aggressive acts.

The Russian minister at Belgrade has been instructed to assure Servia that its damages for territorial compensation would find neither sympathy nor support among the powers and might entail war with Austro-Hungary.

ETHEL ROOSEVELT IS NOT ENGAGED

Statement Is Authorized From the White House

Washington, March 1.—An emphatic denial of the report that the president's youngest daughter, Miss Ethel, is engaged to marry Third Assistant Secretary of State William Phillips, was given out from the White House last night.

Secretary Loeb authorized the statement that Miss Roosevelt is not engaged to be married, and he characterized as without the slightest foundation a story from Boston to that effect.

MRS. WILCOX IS HELD

Charged With Intent to Defraud an Insurance Company

Leominister, Mass., March 1.—Mrs. Helen M. Wilcox, aged 48, who formerly kept a lodging house in the Tavern building, was bound over to the grand jury, charged with setting a fire in the building with intent to defraud an insurance company.

The fire occurred on Feb. 7 and apparently started in the kitchen of Mrs. Wilcox's apartments on the second floor of the structure. Judge Bascom found probable cause and held the respondent in bonds of $1500.

A WARNING TO SOLDIERS

Reminded That Death Lurks In Wood or Denatured Alcohol

New York, March 1.—Major General Wood, commanding the department of the east, has issued a general order to the officers in the department commanding them to impress upon the enlisted men the deadly effects that follow the drinking of wood alcohol.

The order is now in the hands of the post and company commanders in New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia.

Billion Dollar Congress Outclassed

Washington, March 1.—The appropriations for the sessions of congress which will end this week will probably be the largest on record, even exceeding the $1,008,000,000 provided for at the first session. As only one of the fifteen general appropriation bills of this session has been sent to the president for his signature, an accurate statement of the amount to be appropriated is impossible.

France In Blizzard's Grasp

Paris, March 1.—Snow has been falling in Paris for the past forty-eight hours and a blizzard of unprecedented proportions prevails throughout France. Many deaths are reported from exposure.

That you don't do anything of the kind—when the friend of your bosom is some fifty pounds heavier than you are—but just gulp down your resentment and get more credit for doing the sympathy act?

TODAY'S COURT.

Natali Bizzozero was fined $15 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Fred A. Thayer was arraigned for threatening assault at Quincy and was ordered to recognize in $200 to keep the peace for three months.

Santiago Abad was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Case continued until Thursday.

CARD OF THANKS.

The undersigned desire to express their sincere thanks to the friends who sent floral tributes and words of sympathy to comfort them in their great bereavement.

ALREADY FOR RACE.

Scout Cruisers To Start For Azores Tomorrow.

All is now in readiness for the race of the three scout cruisers, Salem, Birmingham and Chester, from Newport, R. I., to the Azores and return, which is to start tomorrow. Work has been rushed along on the naval greyhounds and they are tuned to the minute.

When the three big fliers start for their 5000-mile race, it will mark as unprecedented a naval occurrence as the battleship cruise around the world and for the coming three weeks the eyes of the world will once more be focussed on the American navy.

The object of the trip is to ascertain the comparative value of three different types of engine, the triple expansion, with which the Birmingham is equipped, the Parson turbines of which the Chester has four, and the Curtis turbines, two of which are on the Salem. It will be also a test of the worth of the wireless system as an attempt will be made to keep the three vessels in wireless touch for the entire distance.

The race will be to Ponta Del Gada on the west coast of the island of San Miguel about 400 miles east of the coast of Portugal and return again to this country. Intense rivalry has been aroused over the event, as the crews and officers of each ship feel confident that their respective ships will come home a winner despite what is being said about the Salem being the fastest of the three.

All three ships were built in New England and this makes the interest in their performance greater than one can ipagine. The Chester was launched at Bath, while the other two were built at the Fore River Works and were delivered to the government less than a year ago. They are well shaken down, are in good trim, and all existing records should be broken as the result of the keen rivalry existing.

MICHAEL O'BRIEN BURIED.

The funeral of Michael O'Brien, aged 78, was held this morning from the home of his daughter Mrs. John H. Ryan, 72 Common street and was largely attended. A requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. Francis Walsh of Charlestown.

Seated inside the sanctuary was Rev. John Deagan of St. Gregory's church, Milton. Both Fr. Walsh and Fr. Deagan were old friends of Mr. O'Brien. The pall-bearers were six grandsons of the deceased. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. O'Brien was a life-long resident of West Quincy and was very well known. He was the father of Michael F. O'Brien of Bates avenue, a former member of the board of registrars and well-known in granite circles.

He was also grandfather of Andrew J. O'Brien, Boston College '06, now studying for the priesthood in the American College at Rome, and one of the most brilliant students that ever attended the college.

—Report from Atlantic City says that, drawn by jibes of friends to eat 13 oysters on a plate which he had refused to accept because he believed the number unlucky, a man of that city discovered a $200 pearl in the 13th oyster. If there is an oyster trust we suspect its work in circulating this report.

GIVES LECTURE ON COOKING

Mrs. Janet M. Hill Pleases Audience at Wollaston

The first of Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill's demonstration lectures on cooking under the auspices of the Wollaston Kindergarten committee, was given Monday afternoon in Brasee hall, Wollaston, and was well attended and highly appreciated. There were nearly a hundred ladies present and each expressed herself as very much pleased with the lecture. Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham introduced Mrs. Hill in a few well chosen sentences, ending with the verse from Lucile.

"We may live without poetry, music and art,
We may live without conscience and live without heart,
We may live without friends and live without books,
But civilized man cannot live without cooks."

Mrs. Hill began her lecture by brief remarks on right food and proper things. During the first few years of a child's life build up a good stomach and strong teeth. A great deal depends on the food you give your family.

If one had the fundamental principals of cooking an egg and potato properly, they had mastered the whole thing. Eggs are usually cooked at too high a temperature, that is in water actually boiling. An egg, should be of a jelly like consistency to be digestible, that is cooked in water below the boiling point as should milk and chicken.

She spoke of the fireless cooker as being an ideal way of cooking as all the heat was retained and by the slow process of cooking meats there is not so much shrinkage and the delicious odors and juicies are saved making the food more nourishing. She gave useful hints on preparing meals for Sunday.

Mrs. Hill made a most delicious Tomato Rarebit using a simplex electric chafing dish. She explained all about cheese, how to cook it so that it was digestible and spoke of the usual method of cooking it which made it very indigestible, the reason of soda in the receipt was not because of the tomato but that in making cheese the

ONLY TWO LOTS OFFERED FOR NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

Hearing On Houghs Neck School Site Chief Feature Of Council Meeting

There was a very large attendance of citizens at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. Not only were all the the seats on the main floor occupied but there were quite a few in the gallery. Many were doubtless attracted by the public hearing on the purchase of a lot of land at Houghs Neck for a school building.

Councilman Cherrington was the only absent member.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Mayor with inclosure from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for an appropriation of $30,000 for extension of the sewer system. Referred to Committee on Sewers,

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Ezekiel C. Sargent as City Engineer. Placed on file.

From the Mayor with inclosure from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for an additional appropriation of $4,200 for the resurfacing of a portion of Farrington street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

From the Commissioner of Public Works inclosing agreement with the Telephone, Electric Light and Street railway Co., for trimming trees. Placed on the table.

From the City Solicitor giving his opinion on the questions asked by Councilman McDevitt relative to the pay of laborers of the city. Placed on file.

From the Mayor appointing Hugh P. Tracy a constable. Confined.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on the petition of the Telephone Co., for attachments and location for poles. Mr. Hyland appeared for the Telephone Company and answered a number of questions. The hearing was then closed and the order recommitted.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Citizens' Association asking for the use of the Council Chamber for the public lecture by Lloyd E. Chamberlain, March 10, on the New York, Brockton and Boston canal.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Gilson offered an order granting the use of the Council chambers on that date. Adopted.

PETITIONS.

A petition was received for the acceptance of Beich street. Referred to the Committee on Streets.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the matter of the purchase of a school lot at Houghs Neck.

A representative of William Norteman was the first speaker. He offered the city a lot of land, located in the centre of the school district. If 50,000 feet were taken he would sell for 10 cents per foot, if 60,000 feet were taken for 9 cents per foot and if 70,000 feet were taken he would sell it for $6,000.

In reply to a question he stated that he would sell a lot of 100,000 square feet for 7 cents per foot. That he would give a right of way to the lot from Sea street, but would not build the street.

Frank Whall representing Mr. Peterson stated that he had a lot containing 56,000 feet which he would sell for 10 cents per foot. His lot was near the Norteman lot. There were now two houses on the lot which he would move away.

No more lots were offered but several spoke on the needs of a school at Houghs Neck.

Henry W. French advocated purchasing a large lot that a playground might he provided. The Norteman lot was in the geographical centre of the school district.

Ex-Councilman Teasdale asked if the children would go to the school lot for play except during school hours.

Mr. French replied not frequently at present. Probably only during school hours.

Frank Whall spoke of the great need of a school building at Houghs Neck.

Mr. Fosdick said there was now 173 school children at Houghs Neck, other than those attending the High school. There was a great need of a school building in this section.

The hearing was then closed.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting several minor licenses. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing March 15, on petitions of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported reference to the Executive on the petition of Jeremiah Sheehan for damages by change of grade on Grove street. Accepted.

The Finance Committee reported a substitute order for the order appropriating $6,000 for house connections with the public sewer. The substitute order gave the department the receipts from house connections for 1909 for that purpose. Adopted.

The Committee on Fire Department reported reference to the Mayor on the order for a first alarm box on South Central avenue. Accepted.

MOTIONS, ORDERS ETC.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for an ordinance providing that after Jan. 15, 1910 city laborers shall receive $2 per day for eight hours. To Ordinance Committee.

SEWER EXTENSION.

Councilman Bean offered an order for $30,000 to extend the main sewer of the city. Referred to Committee on Sewers.

FIRE ALARM BOXES.

Councilman Whiton offered an order appropriating $475 for the location, and relocation of fire alarm boxes at Houghs Neck. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

NEW STONE CRUSHER.

Councilman Russell offered an order appropriating $2,300 for the purchase of a portable stone crusher. Referred to Committee on Streets.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

Councilman Bean offered an order appropriating $40,000 for the extension of the water system of the city. Referred to Committee on Water Supply.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for a light on Perkins street. Referred to the Executive.

CALENDAR.

The orders granting the Electric Light company a location for poles and the Telephone Co., attachments took their second reading and were passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 8.58 until March 15.

AUDITOR'S STATEMENT.

The City Auditor furnishes the following statement of receipts from taxes, sewers, and water departments from Jan. 1 to March 1, in comparison with the years 1907 and 1908:

1907—Water, $31,284.35; sewer, $1,288.81; taxes $28,129.43.
1908—Water $37,717.12; sewers $921.20; taxes $31,230.29.
1909—Water $37,259.69; sewers $2,282.43; taxes $55,819.61.

GIVES TALK ON UNIONISM

Labor Leader Speaks at Men's Club Meeting.

James Duncan, secretary of the Granite Cutters' International association, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Men's club of Christ church, held in the parish house Monday evening.

Mr. Duncan spoke interestingly and instructively for nearly two hours and answered many questions put to him by the members.

"The Tendency of Labor Unions in the General Uplift" was the subject of Mr. Duncan's address and as he knows about all there is to know concerning unions and what they are doing, he was able to give a thorough review of unionism and its meaning.

Mr. Duncan said that an increase in pay and a reduction in hours were stepping stones in the general upward move. The reason for this he said was because it makes people happy, because of their success and gives them ambition to continue along the same lines.

Child labor was another important topic touched upon by Mr. Duncan. He said that this great national evil was not found where unions were strong and flourishing. He told several interesting stories of child labor in the South and of the sweat-shops that have caused so much trouble.

The speaker then proceeded to tell some of the principles of unionism. He said that unions believed in free and compulsory education and free books. The children are the future of the nation to care for and uplift them is a work for the whole country in general.

Naturally in a talk on unions, strikes came in for their share of attention. Mr. Duncan told of the origin of strikes, saying that the first strikes were of a religious nature. He said people rebelled at being forced to worship in a certain specified manner. They believed in worshipping as they pleased and hence they rebelled.

And thus it came about that people rebelled about their wages and work, and hence the labor strikes of today. Mr. Duncan said that it was the opinion of the unions that strikes should be settled by arbitration and not by warfare and bloodshed.

Mr. Duncan also told of a law that the unions were trying to pass, to prevent the killing of so many men by the large manufacturing companies. Of course, he said, the men are not killed purposely, but the carelessness that generally causes the fatal accidents, ought to be done away with by law.

According to statistics the speaker said there were 35,000 workmen killed and 2,000,000 injured in the country in 1907.

After his address Mr. Duncan answered many questions put to him by interested auditors.

An entertainment and lunch followed the address of Mr. Duncan, who was given a rising vote of thanks for his kindness in appearing before the club.

In Missouri they want to compel the lobyists to wear uniforms. Missouri still insists on being shown.

The prohibition wave is spreading. Even Niagara is going dry.

It is getting to be a long time between revolutions in Central America.

One difficulty about Wall street is that there the magazine writers are half through exposing one set of tricks the financiers have learned a lot of new ones.

An enterprising poet has discovered thirty-seven rhymes for "liar." The organization of the Ananias Club has stimulated endeavor along decidely original lines of late .

"Tafts to continue Roosevelt's policies, but not his method," says a headline in the Boston Herald. Going to equip the ship of State with something akin to these new Maxims, noiseless guns, eh?

"It is hoped that Carrie Nation will not come while eggs are 40 cents a dozen," says the Memphis Commercial Appeal. Nevertheless, her experiences of late doubtless will suggest to her that now is her one golden opportunity to come.

By a vote of 210 to 101 Congress, Saturday, passed the senate bill, giving the discharged negro soldiers of the 25th infantry an opportunity to prove their innocence of the shooting up of Brownsville Texas on the night of August 13, 1906.

Although violent opposition to the bill was encountered from members of the Texas delegation, and from some of the southern representatives, the champions of the bill, made practically a clean sweep.

Now after the President has affixed his signature the bill will become a law and the negro soldiers will have a chance to square themselves.

If they are innocent just separation should be given them, for what they have suffered by being dishonorably discharged from the United States service.

Shall the school committee be made a political body? Shall one of the largest departments of the city that has not exceeded its appropriation be interferred with?

These are two of the many questions the citizens of Quincy will have to decide next fall ,if the legislature passes the bill making the Mayor chairman of the school committee.

While there is little likelihood of the legislature passing the bill, it is just as well that the voters should know what the bill really is, therefore we are printing it in full.

Section 1. The school committee of the city of Quincy shall consist of nine members, as provided in chapter three hundred and forty-seven of the acts of eighteen hundred and eighty-eight, and the mayor of said city, who shall ex-officio be a member thereof and its chairman, but shall not have the right to vote on any matter that may come before said committee. In the absence of the mayor from any meeting of said committee the members present shall elect one of their number temporary chairman who shall serve during the absence from said meeting of the mayor.

Section 2. This act shall be submitted to the voters of said city for their acceptance at the municipal election to be held in said city on December next. The following question shall be placed on the official ballot at said election,—Shall chapter of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and nine making the mayor ex-officio a member of the school board and its chairman, be accepted by this city? The affirmative vote of a majority of the voters voting on said question shall be required for the acceptance of this act.

Section 3. So much of chapter three hundred and forty-seven of the acts of eighteen hundred and eighty-eight and all acts in amendment thereof and in addition thereto as are inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 4. So much of this act as authorizes the submission of the question of its acceptance to the legal voters of the said city shall take effect upon its passage, but it shall not take further effect unless accepted by the legal voters of said city as herein prescribed and if so accepted shall take effect January first, nineteen hundred and ten.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The value of the submarine bell has recently been tested in New York harbor. On the lightship was the bell, and three miles off was a tug on which a receiving apparatus was installed. The pilot of the tug was blindfolded, and directed only by the sound of signals by the bell he steered his boat to the lightship itself. The wheel was turned solely by orders given by the blindfolded pilot, and he guided the tug with unerring directness to the point where the lightship was anchored. With wiresless telegraphy to keep up communication with land and sea and a submarine bell to direct the course of vessels through the fog, the safety of navigation is greatly increased. If ships will add the bell to their equipment they might send and receive signals that would prevent such an accident as occurred to the liner Republic.—Lynn Item.

The business men in our neighbor city have become imbued with a new purpose to boom the industrial interests of their municipality, and they have merged two more or less defunct organizations into one which is to be known as the Montpelier board of trade. At the merger meeting Thursday evening there was a fine spirit in the air which is thus described by the Montpelier Argus:

"Every man present last night seemed to be impressed with the same idea, to do something. They want a live organization, live officers, a get up and get spirit, no groaners, all boosters ,and a long steady pull for a bigger, better and busier Montpelier. The spirit is among the members. Success is what the organization will make it."

With such enthusiasm to start with there ought to be enough left to carry things through to a successful issue, although the hope that within ten years Montpelier's population will be 20,000 is perhaps a trifle extravagant. But allowing for whatever excess exuberance that is likely to come with the conviction of a work well started, there nevertheless is much promise back of the new board of trade. It is backed by many of the leading hustlers in Montpelier and it concentrates their efforts into a single purpose to boom the city. Montpelier has enjoyed a steady growth ever since the Barre quarries were opened in earnest; but both Barre and Montpelier have been too dependent upon the granite industry. They should both seek to encourage other lines of industrial life, desirable as is the granite business. We trust that Montpelier's new board of trade will go afield after new kinds of manufacturing work, a shoe factory perhaps or some other business similar to it.—Barre (Vt.) Times .

The position taken by Dr. Peters in regard to authorizing the sale upon the market of beef "slightly infected" with tuberculosis is lamentably weak. There may be a controverted question in the technical interpretation of the law, but the peril of error on the side of too great latitude is unquestionable.

Massachusetts stands alone among the States of New England in this respect. Answers to inquiries by the Post of the health authorities in other States show that Maine enforces the law that "under no condition is meat suspected of being diseased with tuberculosis allowed to be sold for food"; that Vermont prohibits it with equal emphasis; that in New Hampshire such sale has never been permitted when infection exists "in any degree"; that the same prohibition exists in Rhode Island. Even in distant Ohio the statutes are equally drastic and are enforced.

Here in Massachusetts we have undertaken to extirpate the "white plague." Millions are expended in the endeavor. Public funds and private benevolences aid in the work. And while public sentiment sustains and applauds this endeavor, and justifies the spending of money for its furtherance, the sale of tuberculosis beef is defended by the officials appointed to avert this peril.

This most terrible disease is held out with one hand while it is let in by the other. It is a downright fraud upon the people. Who is there who would not know what food he puts upon the table for his children? The laws seem to guarantee its purity, its healthful character. But we are told that we must be satisfied if it is only "slightly infected."

Wake up to the outrage of this thing. It is an offence to the arising demand for pure food in which the whole nation rises to the necessity of the hour and Massachusetts alone in New England seems indifferent.—Boston Post.

"SUPERFICIALLY QUIET"

But Affairs In Central America Are Causing Some Uneasiness

Washington, March 2.—Admiral Swinburne, commanding the Pacific fleet, has dispatched the armored cruisers California and Pennsylvania from Panama to Amalapa, Honduras, where they are to keep in touch with and inform this government of any developments in the Central American situation, which is causing considerable uneasiness.

The only advices from Central America made public at the state department is that everything is "superficially quiet." The good offices of the department will be exerted to keep the peace.

STANDARD OIL RETRIAL

But One Farmer Is Included In the Newly-Drawn Jury

Chicago, March 2.—Roy G. Cunningham of Blevidere is the only farmer on the Standard Oil retrial jury, which was completed in United States District Judge Anderson's court Monday.

The preponderance of agriculturalists on the first panel of veniremen caused its dismissal at the request of the defense, Attorney Miller vividly remembering that it was a farmers' jury which made possible Judge Landis' fine of $29,240,000.

CRUM TO STEP DOWN AND OUT

Will Retire From Office When Present Adminstration Quits

TAKES A BURDEN FROM TAFT

Incoming President Would Have Probably Experienced Great Embarrassment Over Appointment of Negro Collector of Customs—Latter Says No Pressure Has Been Brought Upon Him to Resign

Charleston, March 2.—With the resignation of William D. Crum as collector of customs at this port, to take effect March 4, a situation which threatened to cause President-Elect Taft considerable embarrassment is avoided.

No appointment made by President Roosevelt has given rise to more discussion than that of Crum, whose appointment was vigorously opposed because he is a negro. A long and hard fight against his confirmation was made by Senator Tillman and others when he was first named in 1902, and within the last few weeks, after his re-appointment, Tillman conducted a successful filibuster against his confirmation.

Crum says that no pressure has been brought to bear upon him now to cause him to resign, but that he does so in part because he wishes to save Mr. Taft from any possible embarrassment as to his reappointment and chiefly because he feels that he has been especially identified with President Roosevelt's administration and he wishes to retire with his chief.

In his letter to President Roosevelt, after thanking the president for appointing him six years ago and for renominating him for a second term and wishing him "God speed and a long life," he says in part:

"Since assuming the duties of this position I have striven diligently to justify the confidence imposed in me. During all these years, so far as I know, not a single charge has been brought against my moral character, or a single adverse criticism made in regard to the performance of my official duties. I wish to further add that those employed in this office under me, composed of both races, have been at all times courteous, kind and interested, and we have all worked together to make the office work successful and satisfactory.

"During all these years I have been treated with kindness and courtesy by all those who have had official business with the office, and have not had unpleasant contact with anyone in the city."

MERGER PROBE SMASHED

Senate Committee Disagrees on the Tennessee Absorption

Washington, March 2.—The senate committee on judiciary voted to report a disagreement on the resolution providing for an investigation of the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company by the United States Steel Corporation.

The decision not to submit either of the reports of the sub-committee was reached after a great deal of discussion. Finally Senator Fulton moved that a disagreement be reported and that each senator should have the individual right reserved to him to make such expression of views to the senate as he desired.

This motion was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5.

GAMBLING PALACE BURNED

Became Property of James May Through Turn of Roulette Wheel

Reno, Nev., March 2.—Fire destroyed the Arcade Hotel and the Palace Hotel and gambling house owned by James May. The damage is $100,000. Several men were injured by falling bricks.

The Palace gambling house was one of the most noted in the west. It has been the scene of many spectacular plays. One night two years ago, after a run of hard luck, May put a $1000 bill on No. 4 on the roulette wheel and won $35,000. In lieu of cash he received an interest in the palace, which later he bought outright.

Cook's Attack on Roosevelt

THE CARMACK AUTOPSY

Doctor Who Performed It Sold by Prosecution to Defense

Nashville, March 2.—The spectacle of counsel on one side not only selling a witness to the opposition, but haggling over the terms was one of the incidents in the trial of the alleged slayers of E. W. Carmack.

The subject of the commercial transactions was Dr. McPheeters Glasgow, who was employed by the prosecution to perform an autopsy on Carmack's body. He reported his findings to the prosecutors. He was subpoenaed by the state but was not used. The defense learned of the autopsy and summoned the doctor.

The defense finally bought "the goods in the bag" and Glasgow became their witness. His testimony went to show that any one of the three wounds sustained by Carmack was instantly fatal, and if he did not fire the first shots he could not have fired at all.

BEATEN WITH A CLUB

Three Italians Lure a Priest From His Home and Assault Him

Boston, March 2.—With no known motive for their act, three unknown Italians lured Rev. Francis Leberti, pastor of the Church of My Lady of Mount Carmel, from his home in East Boston last night, and when he had reached a remote spot fell upon him and beat him with a club into unconsciousness.

Two hours later Leberti recovered sufficiently to drag himself to the office of a doctor, where his wounds were dressed.

Although he had some money with him, nothing was stolen from the priest and he could ascribe no motive for the deed. Two years ago the same priest was held up, assaulted and robbed of $200. The clergyman was badly cut about the face and head, but the injuries are not likely to prove of unusual seriousness.

PITTSBURG GRAFTERS ARE CONVICTED

Jury Finds Three Councilmen Guilty of Conspiracy

Pittsburg, March 2.—After the jury had been out for nearly fifty-three hours a verdict of guilty was returned against President of Common Council Brand and Councilmen Klein and Wasson, charged with conspiracy.

The three convicted men were charged with having conspired to secure the passage of an ordinance for the paving of certain streets with wooden blocks upon the payment of certain sums of money by a detective, posing as a wood block contractor, and his assistants. Klein and Ramsey had already been convicted of bribery in individual cases. An appeal will be taken by the convicted men.

UNION ORDERS STRIKE

Stitchers Charge the Douglas Company With Bad Faith

Brockton, Mass., March 2.—Employes of the stitching department of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company who do not leave their work today will be regarded by the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in the light of strike breakers. The stitchers' local of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union declared a strike against the company.

The union claims the company has acted in bad faith in not answering a proposition submitted by the union to the company relative to wages and conditions under which the work of five women lining makers is done in the No. 3 factory of the company in Monticello.

THIRTY YEARS OF SERVICE

Captain Hutchins Now Wishes to Retire From the Navy

Washington, March 2.—An application for retirement under the law permitting this after thirty years of service is before the president in the case of Captain Hamilton Hutchins of the battleship Kearsarge, who was relieved from duty at his own request by Rear Admiral Sperry.

Ill health is the basis of the application as made, following an examination into the captain's mental and physicial condition conducted by a special board appointed by Secretary Newberry.

Powder Plant Wiped Out

Lebanon, O., March 2.—With a thunderous report that shook material things for miles around, an explosion rent the smokeless powder department of the King Powder works at King's Mills. With the utter destruction of the plant, Walter Thompson, the only man about the building at the time, was killed. There is no one to tell the story of how the explosion occurred.

DRAPER ISSUES A STATEMENT

"Slightly Infected" Beef Need Not Be Marked For Sale

NOT CONSIDERED DANGEROUS

Resolution Introduced In Senate Calls For an Investigation—Its Author Says State Laws Strictly Forbid Sale of Meat of a Diseased Animal —Surprised That Governor Had Failed to Take Action

Boston, March 2.—At about the same time that an order was introduced in the state senate calling for an investigation of the manner of disposal of cattle affected with tuberculosis or other diseases in Massachusetts, a lengthy statement of the conditions governing such disposal was issued by Governor Draper, who says:

"There is no occasion for excitement about existing conditions. Substantially all the beef that is sold and consumed in the commonwealth is killed under government conditions, which are the best known in this or any other country. The very small quantity not under government inspection is under the inspection of local officers appointed by the local boards of health."

With reference to demands which have been published recently in local papers that the state should require that the meat of "slightly infected" cattle be so marked when offered for sale, the governor says:

"The United States government does not require the marking for sale of 'slightly infected' beef. No state in the union, as I am informed, at the present time marks meat offered for sale as 'slightly infected.' It is of course understood that this meat referred to as 'slightly infected' is not considered by the United States authorities as dangerous to the people."

The resolution introduced in the senate was offered by Senator Parker of Boston and was referred to the committee on rules. It calls for an investigation by the committee on public health, with instructions to report to the legislature as early as practicable.

Following the governor's statement came a very short report from Senator Parker, who has an order before the legislature for the investigation of the entire system of handling meat in this commonwealth.

Senator Parker declared that Governor Draper had put his statement that the tainted meat being sold was government inspected against the laws of the commonwealth, which explicitly state that neither diseased meat nor the meat of a diseased animal shall be sold, under a fine and jail penalty.

That Parker's statement means war between the senator and the governor over the tuberculosis meat question is admitted by the most conservative who read the sharp reply of the senator. The latter introduced his order by saying that he had waited for Draper to take action, and was surprised that the governor had failed to do so.

Never has there been an issue before the legislature that has created greater interest. The sentiment is that the matter ought to be inquired into, considering the charge of Chief Melvin of the United States bureau of animal inspection that there are hundreds of cattle being slaughtered every year without any inspection at all.

How far the contention of Dr. Peters that he has discretionary powers in such matters has affected the entire system of administration and demoralized it, is a very pressing question for inquiry.

It is covered by the Parker order for a probing of the transportation, quarantining, inspection and sale of the meat of tuberculosis cows. If that order is passed the people of the state will be given an opportunity to know just how a very important part of its food supply is being administered.

GOING ON RETIRED LIST

Probable Result of Hearing of the Case of Colonel Tucker

Washington, March 2.—The case of Colonel William F. Tucker of the pay department of the army is before General Bell, chief of staff, preparatory to its submission to the president for final action.

It is understood that the board found the officer incapacitated for active duty and recommended that he be transferred to the retired list.

Proposed Monument to Garfield

Washington, March 2.—A $50,000 monument in memory of President James A. Garfield is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Langley (Ky.). The measure provides that the memorial shall be erected on or near the Middle Creek Battlefield in Kentucky, General Garfield having commanded the union forces in that engagement.

BILL FOR NEW CONTAGIOUS WARD

Hearing on Mayor's Petition To Be Held Tomorrow.

At the request of some of our subscribers, we are printing the following bill accompanying the petition of Mayor Shea, for legislation to authorize the city of Quincy, to erect and equip on the premises, of the city hospital, an isolation ward for persons suffering from diseases, dangerous to the public health.

An act to authorize the city of Quincy to contract with the City Hospital of Quincy for the Erection and Equipment of an Isolation Ward.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. The city of Quincy is hereby authorized to contract with the city hospital of Quincy for the erection and equipment on the premises of said city hospital of Quincy, in Quincy in the county of Norfolk, for an isolation ward, for the reception and care of persons suffering from diseases dangerous to the public health, and for that purpose may raise by taxation and pay the authorities of said hospital a sum not exceeding fifteen thousand dollars: provided, however, before such a contract is entered into in behalf of the city, the location of said ward and the plans and specifications therefor, and of its equipment shall first be approved by the board of health of said city, and said contract shall when executed contain an assent by both parties thereto to the provision of this act.

Section 2. Said ward after its erection shall be forever maintained by said city hospital of Quincy and be used solely for receiving and treating such persons suffering from disease dangerous to the public health as the board of health of said city may order admitted thereto, and said patients shall be admitted and treated therein when ordered by said board of health to the extent of the accomodations of said ward.

Section 3. Said city hospital of Quincy shall furnish all patients admitted to said ward with sufficient and proper medical treatment, nursing, medicines, supplies and care and shall defray all expenses incidental thereto or that may be incurred in connection therewith, including the maintenance and operation of said ward and its equipment.

Section 4. For the purpose of assisting said city hospital of Quincy in maintaining said ward and complying with the provisions of section three hereof, said city may annually raise by taxation and pay to the authorities of said hospital a sum not exeeding twenty-five hundred dollars. Nothing in this section shall be construed as affecting the right of the city to raise by taxation and pay money to said hospital as provided in chapter one hundred and forty-eight of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-six.

Section 5. The physicians, nurses, attendants, patients and all persons approaching or coming within the limits of said ward, and all furniture or other articles used or brought there shall be subject to the regulations of said board of health.

Section 6. Reasonable expenses incurred in treating and caring for a patient admitted to the ward shall be paid to the said city hospital of Quincy by the patient or his parents if he or they are able to pay. If the patient or his parents be unable to pay said expenses, then said expenses shall be paid to said hospital by the city or town in which he has a legal settlement, upon the approval of the bill by the board of health of such city or town or by the state board of charity. If the person has no settlement, such expense shall be paid by the commonwealth, upon the approval of bills therefor by the state board of charity. In all cases of persons having settlements, a written notice sent within the time required in the case of aid given to paupers, shall be sent by the authorities of said hospital to the board of health, or to the officer or board having the powers of a board of health in the city or town in which such person has a settlement, who shall forthwith transmit a copy thereof to the overseers of the poor of the place of settlement. In case the person has no settlement, such notice shall be given to the state board of health: provided, however, whenever such patient has a legal settlement in said city of Quincy, and he or his parents are unable to pay said expenses, then no charge shall be made for his care and treatment, and in no event shall the city of Quincy be liable therefor.

A hearing on the above bill will be held at the State house tomorrow morning at 10.30.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

Replying to "J. A. B." in issue of 26th last and "A. B. H." in issue of 17th who are the same authors and the same person writing, only using another person's initials so as to cover up his own foot prints. The signer "J. A. B." is not the person who wrote this article, only his initials are used maliciously, the gentleman who bears the initials of "J. A. B." is too honorable and American in his ideas to allow such nonsense and ridicule to appear in print the very next hour after a letter of mine is placed favoring the topic which is discussed more and more every day. The whole country unite in favor of the removal of the wreck in discussion. "Why, does not this correspondent come out like a man, and sign his own name in full. And not cat paw and scratch placing the responsibility on some other person.

If "J. A. B." were a military man serving in the navy as stated, he would use different grammatical terms and designations. "J. A. B." states that it is sentiment of the navy not to remove the wreck, but allow her to remain as a monument where she now lies. "J. A. B." should quot the naval attache that he alleges made this statement.

In the issue of your paper dated 25th last, careful consideration should be given the mention where it is shown that the debris of the Battleship "Maine" is a menace to navigation in the harbor. Regarding the removal "J. A. B." should read the Boston Herald containing, Arouckle's proposition to the U. S. Government. "J. A. B.," you are not so enlightened as a "naval man(?)" ought to be.

There is in our city of Quincy today a gentleman who can raise the wreck, remove what remains of the bodies, inter the bodies honorably and bring the wreck to this country and place her in the same position as she now lies in Havana harbor.

Mr. naval man(?), who saw a combat(?), needs to overhaul his manual and ascertain whether he or the wreck, should be "Undisturbed by unwise experimenters." Perhaps my nautical expressions are foreign to the correspondent. If he were a true ship-mate to the memory of the ill-fated battleship "Maine" the sarcasm quotation in which he indulges and states about "rushing in letters on dead questions, like the question of raising the Maine," would never be tolerated. Public sentiment feels this expression to be unamerican and certainly against the patriotic spirit of our country.

Mr. naval man(?) should you reply to this letter, be honorable, sign your lawful name in full, your ship, commissions and designations, then your authority may be recognized.

Respectfully submitted,
Henry J. Matthews,
Member Council of Administration.

Editor Daily Ledger:

Now that the new Post office is open for business, travel on Maple street has increased very considerably and will no doubt increase further. The sidewalks on this street need immediate attention to put them in proper condition, and a glance will suggest the necessity of prompt attention to the matter.

Yours truly,
Arthur B. Hultman.

TIME TO ACT.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit by Quincy People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches, and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Quincy prove the effectiveness of the great kidney remedy.

H. A. Vinton, living at 558 Washington street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of kidney trouble which had been in my system for at least ten years. Before using this remedy I had severe pains in my back and loins, and they seemed to be of a rheumatic nature, I consulted a doctor and tried many remedies but received only temporary relief. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, and began their use. They quickly banished the pains in my back and my health is better today than for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MEMORIAL MASS.

A memorial mass for the repose of the soul of the late William E. Brown was celebrated this morning at 7.30 in St. John's church. Rev. John J. Coan was the celebrant. John Mahon presided at the organ and Miss Mary McConarty sang the "Pie Jesu."

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas McDonnell was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended.

—Farmers in the west say that farm products continue to be high in price because the patented breakfast foods are demanding so much of the grain that the poor cattle and hens have to go hungry or pay fancy prices for what they eat. And so those who thought to find in the ready-to-eat corn-cobs and bran a way to reduce living expenses, are discovering that a saving in one direction means greater expense in another.—Old Colony Memorial.

—Wesleyan having voted to force the young women students out, in the future, the issue will be further emphasized, probably at neighboring Tufts where President Hamilton has pointed out the distressful preponderance of young women, who not only manifest a vexatious eagerness for attendance but an equally embarassing aptitude for excelling in classes. Judged merely on the basis of value received, it might be better to keep the young women and dispense with the young men.

Given Lecture On Cooking

potash salts are lost, cream or ale could be used in place of the tomato. We borrow from nations and from the Italians the use of tomato, no nutriment but they make things taste nice.

Mrs. Hill made a chicken soup in which for seasoning she used a kitchen spice bag which was certainly new to her audience judging by the questions asked about it, she told them how she came to know about them and where to procure them. The soup was served in cups with the white of egg and was was most delicious.

It was a good dish for convalescents as it contained no butter but was thickened with tapioca.

She made a Marshmallow cake with a marshmallow icing so exceedingly light and fluffy that it called forth much praise, she also gave a receipt for white cake which she considered very good as well as economical.

Mrs. Hill made a pineapple sponge in the chafing dish which was served hot with whipped cream, which every one liked. She said the Hawaiin pineapple was the best grade she knew of, because it was canned on the island on which it grew, and she told why pineapple was good to serve with a meal that contained cheese.

Her chocolate dipped Titbits simply melted in one's mouth, she dipped almelted in one's mouth she dipped almonds, peanuts and oysteretts, explaining just the kind of chocolate to use, the right temperature etc., it is so easy a child could do it.

She also mentioned many other things that could be dipped.

Mrs. Hill not only showed the best way of making all these good things but she gave many numerous valuable hints about the preparation, the care of cooking utensils, etc.

After the lecture there were for sale Mrs. Hill's cook books, magazine and a sheet of the receipts used, a fireless cooker, baking tins, moulds, spoons, etc. As the committee get a commission on the sale of these articles they were very much gratified to have them sell so well.

The next lecture on March 8 will be on Entrees and those attending are asked to bring their own spoon and napkin for this and subsequent lectures.

PARKER—CALDWELL.

Two popular Quincy young people, Charles H. Parker and Miss Agnes R. Caldwell were united in marriage by Dr. E. N. Hardy at the parsonage Monday evening. Mr. Parker is the son of the well known contractor and builder Albert H. Parker of Merrymount road. He is assistant physical director at the Brockton Y. M. C. A. Miss Caldwell, whose parents are deceased, came to Quincy some two year ago from Lowell and has made her home with friends here in the city since that time. Mr. and Mrs. Parker will reside in Brockton.

INAUGURAL PARADE PLANS

Taft and Sherman Will Be Accompanied by Wives

CITY'S POPULATION IS SWELLED

Every Train and Boat Entering Washington Is Burdened With Humanity—Detectives on Guard at Every Point of Arrival—President-Elect Declares That He Feels Comfortable and He Appears So

Washington, March 2.—For the first time in the history of the country, the wives of the president and vice president will, on March 4, participate in the inaugural parade. Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Sherman will join their respective husbands when they leave the Capitol after the inauguration ceremonies and will proceed with them to the White House.

This change of program was decided upon by the committee on arrangements, and following is the official announcement made by Chairman Knox:

"After the inaugural ceremonies are finished, the President and Mrs. Taft, escorted by the joint committee on arrangements, will return to the White House in the carriage in which the president rode to the Capitol and the Vice President and Mrs. Sherman will immediately follow them in the carriage used by the vice president.

"This change is made and Mrs. Taft and Mrs. Sherman have consented to it in response to the urgent request of the committee to have them accompany their respective husbands from the time the official program is completed at the Capitol.

The national capital is the mecca toward which the inauguration hosts are making their pilgrimage. The advance guard of throngs which quarennially visit Washington to witness the induction into office of a new president began Monday in earnest.

The visitors have swelled the city's population by many thousands. From every point of the compass every train and steamboat entering Washington is burdened with humanity, several military, civil and other organizations being represented. The arrival of each military organization at the Union station is signalled by the blare of trumpets, the tooting of fifes, the roll of drums and the crash of cymbals.

This city has put on the holiday garb and the streets are swarming with visitors.

Extraordinary precautions are being taken by the authorities to prevent inauguration visitors from loss by pickpockets and thieves. At every point of arrival and other places, an array of keen-eyed detectives have been placed to keep a sharp watch out for unwelcome individuals.

The first casualty incident to the inaugural occurred at the pension office building, where the inaugural ball is to be held. While working on one of the stands E. M. Swann, a carpenter, fell a distance of fifteen feet, striking his head on the stone floor below, receiving a fractured skull from which he died.

A rush of morning callers, interrupted for a long walk in the afternoon and attendance last night at the special dinner given in his honor by the "Taft Philippine Expedition," brought President-Elect Taft to within two days of his inauguration with less serious demands on his time than he has experienced during any day since his landing from Panama at New Orleans.

The apparent excellent physical condition, the incessant good humor and the absence of any worry and nervous strain of Taft make a uniformly gratifying impression on the many statesmen, politicians and friends who are received by him daily. His jovial remark is that his inaugural address is prepared, his cabinet selected, the inaugural committee is preparing all details for the ceremony on Thursday, and why should he feel otherwise than comfortable.

Jeffries Will Fight Johnson If He Gets Into Proper Condition

Chicago, March 2.—"I will fight Johnson for the heavyweight championship of the world if I am able to get into condition to do myself justice," said James J. Jeffries, who was in Chicago on his way to New York.

"The report that I said I would fight Johnson as soon as I finished my vaudeville engagement is not true," he continued. "I must have more time to analyze my condition before I will make any definite plans."

Steel Mills Shut Down

Portland, Me., March 2.—The plant of the Portland Iron and Steel company, employing 150 workmen, has shut down for an indefinite period. The mills were running day and night during the six months ending the first of this year.

Encouraging Large Families

Honolulu, March 2.—The house of representatives of the territorial legislature adopted a bill which provides that fathers of six or more children be exempted from poll tax.

WEYMOUTH

The annual town election was held Monday and resulted in a big victory for the friends of good government, over the machine politicians.

The whole fight was over school committee, and John F. Reardon who was a candidate on nomination papers to succeed himself received the highest vote of any of the candidates, 1007. Thomas V. Nash was second with 1006 voters. Fred C. Revinius the man picked by the machine to defeat Reardon got 799 votes.

The program was to elect Mr. Revinius and he expected to ask the superintendent A. A. Badger who resigned a short time ago to withdraw his resignation.

The result of the vote means that Mr. Badger will retire May 1.

John B. Whelan candidate for tax collector got a flattering vote in his home ward.

One of the surprises was the big vote of Reardon in Ward three, where he polled 245 votes. Even his most ardent supporters did not expect him to receive over 200.

Those elected were as follows. Selectmen and overseers of the poor, W. J. Dunbar, E. W. Hunt, Bradford Hawes, George L. Newton and Gordon Willis. Park commissioner, W. H. Clapp. Town clerk, John A. Raymond. Town treasurer, John H. Stetson.

Collector of taxes, W. M. Tirrell.

Assessor, Waldo Turner.

Water commissioner, Frank H. Torrey.

School committee, John F. Reardon, Thomas V. Nash.

Auditors, Frank A. Blanchard, John P. Hunt and W. H. Pratt.

Trustees Tufts library, Louis A. Cook, William F. Hathaway, John B. Holland.

Tree warden, Gordon Willis.

Constables, Michael Allen, George B. Bayley, G. W. Connant, Thomas Fitzgerald, John L. Maynard, Arthur H. Pratt, Nathaniel B. Peare, Benjamin F. Richards, Isaac H. Walker, John D. Walsh.

The town voted no license by a big majority and also voted to accept chapter 513 of the acts of 1908 requiring certain cities and towns to provide public playgrounds.

*—Re-elected

—Goldwin Smith, writing to the Cornell Era, expresses views regarding college athletics which are finding increasing support among serious-minded alumni of many colleges. "Let us have," he says, "games by all means, but games which exercise, not exhaust, and in which all alike can take part." But the gladiatorial spirit will not so easily be quenched in the undergraduates who delight to take their exercise along the sidelines.

—If, as is held by accepted authorities, every employed person represents a value to the country of $1,000 then figuring this capitalized labor at a yearly interest of 6 per cent, and placing the number of unemployed at 6,000,000 the loss to the nation would amount to $560,000,000 ,or more than $1,000,000 for each working day. If the unemployed number more than 10 per cent. of the total number of workers, its loss would be still greater.—Banker and Tradesman.

C. E. UNION HOLDS OLD TIME RALLY

Every District Represented By Delegates

A rally of the East Norfolk C. E. Union was held in Bethany church last night. The church was decorated with C. E. bunting and a large monogram studded with red and white electric lights was suspended over the platform.

The meeting opened with music led by a chorus under the direction of Madame Morey, with solos by Mr. A. L. Hayden. The devotional exercises were conducted by Dr. Hardy, Rev. A. M. Thompson and Victor E. Landstrom the president of the Union.

William Shaw, General Secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor was the speaker of the evening. Mr. Shaw's subject was "The Past, Present and Future of Christian Endeavor." He told how in 28 years the number of societies has grown to 173,000 and how the movement has spread to every cuntry to which Christianity has been admitted. The need of a permanent international headquarters building was described and all were urged to contribute to this cause. It is proposed to erect the new building in Boston where sufficient funds are procured.

Mr. Shaw's talk was very interesting and afforded his hearers an unusual opportunity to become informed regarding the progress of the work of the society.

After the address an offering was taken to be devoted to the Clark Memorial fund which is for the erection of a temple in Boston.

LOST CHILD FOUND.

Richard Walsh Wanders Away and Police Ring in Lost Child Alarm.

The lost child signal that was sounded at 4.23 Tuesday afternoon was for little Richard Walsh, aged 6, of 16 Gay street. Richard departed for the Adams school in the morning and did not return at noon. His parents thinking he was in or about the school waited until the close of the afternoon session to see if he came back.

When he did not return at 4 o'clock the police were notified and the lost child signal was rung in on the fire alarm. Shortly after the boy was found on Glencoe place where he had wandered in company with companions.

MISS CORA BOWERS.

The funeral of Miss Cora Bowers, aged 18, was held Tuesday afternoon from the home of her father Philip C. E. Bowers of 308 Water street. Rev. R. J. Davis, of the Calvary Baptist church, conducted the services. The burial was in Hall's cemetery, West Quincy.

HEARING ON MAYOR'S BILLS

Majority of Speakers Opposed To Any New Legislation

There does not seem to be much sentiment in favor of the proposed amendment to the City Charter, making the Mayor a member of the school committee on the proposed bill relative to a contagious disease hospital, if anything can be judged by what transpired at the hearings at the State House this morning. In fact there was a decided opposition especially to the bill making the Mayor chairman of the school committee.

Hearings were held on both bills by the Committee on Cities this morning.

There were quite a number of citizens present including Mayor Shea, Representatives Langelier and Thomas, ex-Senator E. H. Sprague, ex-Mayor J. O. Hall, President Hobbs of the City Council, ex-Councilmen W. F. Nichols, Fred B. Rice, Henry M. Faxon, N. G. Nickerson, C. J. McGilvray, Dr. N. S Hunting, chairman of the school committee, ex-City Solicitor Paul R. Blackmur and H. Y. Follett.

City Solicitor McAnarney was detained in court, and was unable to be present.

Mayor Shea was the only one to appear in favor of the bill to make the Mayor chairman of the school committee all the others to speak being in opposition to the proposed bill.

The Mayor in opening the hearing said that there had been a feeling for some time that the City Council should be represented on the school board. He had no charges, however to make against the school committee.

This bill was the result of the unanimous request of the City Council. His own view was that the Mayor should be a member of the school committee. All he said he asked was for an opportunity for the citizens to decide if they wanted the Mayor on the school board. He said the Mayor should not be prevented from being there if the citizens wanted it. He said members of the school committee are elected by parties but he had never heard of politics entering into their conduct of affairs.

He said that the charge that the Mayor would bring politics into it was not well founded. He should be there to discuss financial matters and school plans. The Mayor now attends the school committee meetings only by courtesy. He should go by right.

Paul R. Blackmur said the Citizens' Association opposed the bill in any form. It was an ex-Mayor who rushed the bill into the City Council and it was passed.

The Mayor appoints all administrative boards and has the right of removal. Even the law relative to continuous board of Assessors does not apply to Quincy. In other words the Mayor is it with the exception of the school committee. He has trouble enough of his own without that. The excuse offered for the bill will not hold water. He does have the opportunity to know the financial matter. He has a right to take part in the consideration of it in the Council.

This would allow him to discuss it in the school committee, the City Council and afterward he can veto it.

The present Mayor is giving us a good administration. It is the principle we object to. Some other man might dominate the school committee. They will be debating teachers which we do not want to do.

Mr. Blackmur said their Mayor would not, but there will come a time when the Mayor will. We do not want politics in our school board.

Speaking of the referendum Mr. Blackmur said people are not educated in this matter. They do not look into it and will vote unthinkingly. In his judgment the bill would do harm. There had never been any friction between the Mayor and school board. Quincy has always had the utmost confidence in its school board.

In reply to a question by Mayor Shea as to how many were present at the meeting of the Citizens' Association when the vote was passed against the bill, Mr. Blackmur said, there were 15 or 20 but the matter had been thoroughly discussed before.

Representative Langelier opposed the bill. The matter was brought up in the Council just after the inaugural address and the new members naturally relied on the old members. He had heard members who voted for it then, opposed it since. At a public meeting held later the matter was thrown down so hard it made the city rock. He said we have an intelligent class of voters but they will not inform themselves on such subjects.

Ex-Councilman Walter F. Nichols spoke of the unique charter of Quincy. The school department has absolute control creating a responsibility that has worked most admirably.

If there is anything in our charter it is the separating of the departments. There had been no friction between school department. They had always shown a disposition to cut their estimates to the lowest possible amount. There had been no demand for the Mayor to be a member of the school board.

Ex-Senator Eugene H. Sprague said the bill was then introduced by an ex-Mayor because he could not bamboozle the school committee as he did everyone else. There was not a particle of merit in it. There is more politics in this bill than anything else brought to the legislature. The people do not want it.

Dr. Hunting chairman of the school committee said it was the unanimous feeling of the school committee that the bill should not be passed.

He said, it was a radical change designed to do away with the division of three bodies of the city. He said he thought it would bring politics into the school committee. There had been times when a candidate for Mayor had asked the superintendent to appoint a certain teacher to help along his campaign. But it was not done.

He might use his power to favor his own political aspirations. The school committee has always been non partisan. Its meetings are open to the public and the Mayor and any citizen has a right to attend.

Mr. Blackmur said he would like to ask President Hobbs of the City Council if his views were in favor of the bill.

Mr. Hobbs replied not in its present form.

The hearing then closed.

On the bill relating to the erection of a contagious disease hospital Mayor Shea said no agreement had been reached with the trustees and he would like a continuance or withdraw the bill.

The chairman of the committee said it would complete its work by this month and a continuance would be impossible.

Mayor Shea then withdrew the bill.

The committee on cities reported in the house this afternoon by Mr. Stearns of Cambridge, leave to withdraw on the petition of Mayor Shea that the city of Quincy erect and equip an isolation ward in the City Hospital for the treatment of persons suffering from contagious and dangerous diseases.

MEMORIAL CONCERT AT FIRST CHURCH

Historical Society Celebrates Birth of Famous Composers

One of the best musicales of the season was held in the chapel of First church Tuesday evening.

The affair, which was given under the auspices of Quincy Historical Society was in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Mendelssohn and Chopin.

The opening address was made by Brooks Adams president of the society. This was followed by a personal sketch of the lives of the composers given by Mrs. George G. Saville. Mrs. Saville in an interesting manner told of the births of Mendelssohn and Chopin, and of their struggle to win recognition. Following Mrs. Saville, Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, pianist, played three numbers by Chopin.

Mrs. Smith is an artist of high merit, and her sympathetic rendering of Chopin's music was enjoyed by all present. She followed the composers varying moods with wonderful accuracy, and was given hearty encores at the end of each piece.

The next number on the program was a solo by J. Garfield Stone. Mr. Stone has a voice of wide range and splendid tone and it showed up to perfection last night.

Following Mr. Stone, Mrs. Florence Nickerson King sang an aria from Elijah, which was enthusiastically received, the audience repeatedly recalling the singer.

The program closed with two pieces for violin played by Walter E. Loud. Mr. Loud, who is an artist in every sense of the word, is too well known in Quincy to need any comment.

The concert was under the personal direction of Mrs. Otho Hayward, who deserves much credit for its success.

Following is the program:

AMUSEMENTS FOR ALL.

Knights of Malta Give Pleasing Entertainment.

A very pleasing entertainment was given Tuesday evening in Electa hall under the auspices of the John Adams Commandery, No. 355, Knights of Malta. Prof. W. D. LeRoy of Boston, the well-known magician, mystified the large audience with his wonderful tricks of the black art. W. A. Clarke of Waltham a black comedian provided the rest of the entertainment. He was very good, singing many funny parodies, cracking jokes and telling stories.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until 12 o'clock. Whist was also played during the evening. so that there was amusement for everybody. Mrs. Effie Rhines presided at the piano.

GREAT EVENT OF THE SEASON.

One of the great events of the season will take place at Y. M. C. A. hall tonight at eight o'clock. For weeks the older fellows of the association have been rehearsing on a three act farce entitled "All Tangled Up." They have been under the careful coaching of Mrs. Isabelle Davis. It is a catchy, funny and interesting farce. The character of the play are Major Hollis Halliday, who finds some things worse than the law, Chester R. Gurney. Lester MacVey, his easy going partner in the law firm of Halliday and MacVey, Ed Lee Brooks. Keeling Plautum proprietor of an undertaking and tombstone business, Albert G. Belden. Lieutenant George Rapley, a wealthy young man from the West, S. Corliss Berry, O'Toole, a family treasure Charles H. Sayward. Mrs. Halliday, inclined to jealousy, Howard Pratt. Clara, her daughter, inclined to Rapley, Everett G. Rhodes. Vernie, the the undertaker's daughter inclined to Lester, William H. Hall.

The Association Mandolin club will furnish the music for the evening. The advance sale of tickets is large and one of the most interesting two hours ever spent in the Y. M. C. A. hall is looked forward to.

MAYOR DROPS IN ON POLICE

Officers Given Heart to Heart Talk by Executive

Mayor Shea made an unexpected visit to police headquarters at roll-call Tuesday night and gave some plain talk to the members of the force. He said that certain officers had been telling police department secrets on the outside for the purpose of influencing legislation before the council and that some had even visited the homes of councilmen for this purpose. Others were guilty of disrespect to superior officers.

The mayor said this would have to stop and that in the future policemen would have to respect superior officers while on duty and address them by their proper titles. He found that the police had no printed rules to guide them and ordered the chief to have a book printed, incorporating in them the features suggested in his talk. It was the first time the police were given a talking to since Ex-Mayor Bryant was in office.

HAND CAUGHT IN PLANER.

George Sproule, aged 55, of Brackett street, met with a painful accident Tuesday afternoon at Johnson's lumber wharf, where he has been employed for many years. Sproule was working on the planer and while it was going, tried to tighten a nut that had become loosened. His right hand got caught in the planer and was nearly cut off at the wrist, the hand hanging by the skin. Medical attendance was summoned, Dr. Hunting and Dr. Sheahan answering the call. The unfortunate man was removed to the City Hospital.

At the hospital this morning it was stated that the hand could probably be saved, although it will be a long time before it can be used again.

Sproule was one of the oldest employes at the wharf having worked there early all his life.

The champions of no license are congratulating themselves in the substantial gains they made at the annual meetings held in the various towns throughout the state Monday. According to the returns nine towns that went license last year have gone back to no license, while only four of the towns that went no license last year have returned to the "wet" column.

City Square needs attention ,the gutters need cleaning especially at the head of Granite street in front of Emmanuel's, Chapin's and Pettengill's stores. All winter the cross-walks to these stores and the post office have ended in mud. Some cleaning up about the walks and chipped stone or gravel would work down and make a good road by summer. Now is the time for repairs.

The new post office building seems about perfect in every detail and the only real complaint heard so far seems to be because there is no outside slot or box into which to drop letters, necessitating entering the building and walking nearly the whole length of the corridor. When one is in a hurry this seems like quite a journey. There should be letter and newspaper slots on the Maple street end of the corridor or building to accommodate the business men of the centre who all use Maple street.

We have frequently spoken editorially and in our local columns of the wretched condition of Maple street, especially the sidewalks which are generally under water necessitating rubber boots to pass through the puddles without getting wet. The commissioners attention has been called to the matter but without results. If the city is too poor to put the road in proper condition, cannot it at least fill in some of the hollows with gravel? It would not take much time or gravel. Now that the post office is moved to Washington and Maple streets the road will be more traveled than ever. It is also poorly lighted only one light near Hancock street. There is a light on Washington street in front of the library but it is so arranged that it darkens Maple street making it a dangerous corner unless the post office is kept well lighted.

Although Gov. Draper, in a statement to the press in regard to the alleged sale of "slightly infected" beef by the head of the cattle bureau, says, "The U. S. government does not require the marking for sale of slightly infected" beef. No state in the Union, I am informed at the present time marks meat offered for sale as "slightly infected," there is therefore, no reason for alarm or excitement about the situation."

It does not make the beef any more healthy for eating, purposes, or whoever is guilty of disposing and selling it, any less to blame.

If there is no danger of infection, why should there be any "kick" made at the proposition to mark beef known to be slightly infected? By so doing the people who are buying it, would know what they were getting, which is evidently something they do not now know.

The resignation of Dr. William D. Crum as collector of customs at the port of Charleston, S. C., enables President-elect Taft to extricate himself from what threatened to be an embarrassing situation.

While Dr. Crum's action in resigning his position was undoubtedly the only thing to do, to relieve the President-elect, it seems unfortunate that a conscientious and deserving public official, such as Dr. Crum has proved himself to be, should be obliged to sacrifice himself, simply because he was born with the black skin instead of a white one.

Although Dr. Crum in his letter to President Roosevelt says that no pressure has been brought to bear on him now, to cause him to resign, he admits that he does so to save Mr. Taft from any possible embarrassment as to his re-appointment,.

Dr. Crum's resignation will without doubt be accepted, and a white man will be appointed to succeed him, not because the white man is the better man or because he is a whit more capable than Dr. Crum, but simply because he is fortunate enough to be white (outside) instead of black.

Do Children Need Alcohol?

Ask your doctor how often he prescribes an alcoholic stimulant for children. He will probably say, "Very, very rarely." Ask him how often he prescribes a tonic for them. He will probably answer, "Very, very frequently." Then ask him about Ayer's non-alcoholic Sarsaparilla as a tonic for the young.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST S. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

IMMIGRATION LAWS VIOLATED

Charge of President of New York Lunacy Commission SEES "MISTAKEN JUDGMENT"

Letter to Roosevelt Tells Him That He Was Misled by Secretary Straus, to Whom Was Entrusted the Matter of Investigating Alleged Illegal Landing of Mentally Defective Aliens—Attitude of Empire State

Albany, March 3.—Another chapter has been added to the controversy that has arisen between Dr. Ferris, president of the state commission in lunacy, and Secretary Straus of the department of commerce and labor, relative to complaints made to President Roosevelt by Ferris concerning the administration of the immigration laws relative to the admission of insane aliens at the port of New York.

President Roosevelt declared that the "accusations against the secretary were wholly without warrant or justification." Replying to the president's letter Ferris said:

"I regret very much that pressure of matters during the last week of your term prevented your personal perusal of my letter to you concerning the illegal official landing, as we claim, of alien insane into this country through the port of New York. It is a great source of regret to the people of this state who know the facts that you should be misled by the secretary, to whom you entrusted this matter, and whose mistaken judgment your excellency appears to have accepted.

"Your secretary, Mr. Loeb, very kindly sent me a copy of the hasty, ill-considered, and juvenile answer of Secretary Straus, at the same time that it was given to the press in Washington."

Dr. Ferris states that for brevity's sake he drew the president's attention to "but three of the many cases of improper official landing of mentally defective aliens."

He discusses at considerable length a decision of the department of commerce and labor, signed by Straus, dealing with aliens who come to the country "solely for the purpose of receiving medical treatment at some sanitarium or health resort of the United States." Concluding Dr. Ferris says:

"New York state maintains her hospitals for her own insane with the tenderest feelings of humanity, with the emphatic desire and purpose of alleviating distress, of lightening depression, of making as happy as possible their remnant of life for the defective, and of restoring to mental health, to happiness, and to a self-supporting condition as many of her wards as possible.

"But she does not invite the insane from other countries to enter her hospitals in order to obtain treatment, or in order therein to pass the remainder of their lives; and no records are available to show that this state has authorized the department of commerce and labor to issue such invitations on behalf of the state."

FRAT HOUSE CAN BE TAXED

Not Exempt Even If Located on Campus of State Institution

Bangor, Me., March 3.—The fraternity houses of college and universities are taxable, in the opinion of the Maine supreme court.

In a suit to collect taxes brought by the city of Orono against the Sigma Alpha Epsilon society, which has a chapter at the University of Maine, the court decided in favor of the city.

The fraternity claimed exemption from taxes because the chapter house is located on the campus of a state institution.

LED THROUGHOUT COURSE

Negro Boy Wins Marathon Indoor Race at Pittsburg

Pittsburg, March 3.—Howard Hall of Pittsburg, a negro boy, won the indoor Marathon race here with ease, being nearly two laps ahead of the second man. There were fifty-one contestants.

The race was for the championship of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. Hall easily maintained the lead during the whole course. His time was 3:29:54.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Contractors have received notice to resume their work upon the Chesapeake and Ohio railway extension in West Virginia.

The resignation of Senator Knox has been received by Governor Stuart of Pennsylvania. It takes effect March 4.

The issuance of new stock by railroads operating in New Hampshire will be regulated by the provisions of a bill passed in the state senate.

The lower house of the Michigan legislature agreed to an anti-tuberculosis bill similar to the New York law.

Chicago's financial distress is to be relieved by the discharge of 400 employes, mostly inspectors who have been doing duplicate work.

Penny Savings in the Quincy Public Schools

The Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club feel proud of the success of the penny savings system as introduced by them in conjuction with the school board. The expense was borne by the club and the work inaugurated under the supervision of Supt. Parlin assisted by the school teachers. On page thirty of the school reports issued this week will be found the report of the savings for three months, which is remarkable and gratifying to the Civic committee and Supt. Parlin. Quincy school children are certainly thrifty. The following is a report of the savings by the schools as compiled by Supt. Parlin:

FLORIDA TO BE RESOLD

Man Who Bid Steamer In Forfeited His Deposit of $16,000

New York, March 3.—Steamer Florida, which rammed steamer Republic off Nantucket and inflicted such serious damage that the British steamer sank, will have to be resold.

L. M. Mosle, who bid the steamer in for $220,500 at the auction sale last week, has finally declined to take title to the vessel, and Judge Holt, in the United States district court, ordered a resale on March 9. A deposit of $16,000, put up by Mosle at the previous sale, is forfeited to the government.

The Florida was ordered sold by the United States courts as the result of a libel suit filed by the White Star line and pending litigation to determine the responsibility for the collision.

MANY MEN OF MANY MINDS

They Do Not Agree as to Borrowing Capacity of New York City

New York, March 3.—In view of the conclusions reached by the Cassidy investigating committee in its report to the legislature that the present borrowing capacity of New York city is $130,000,000, which differs so widely from the $48,000,000 given in the opinion of the corporation counsel and even lower estimates made by others, Comptroller Metz declares that the only way the question can be definitely settled is to take it to the court of appeals and obtain a judicial determination.

Metz says that every lawyer who has taken up the question has placed a different construction on the law and the constitution in their application to the debt limit.

TO GIVE LIBERIA A HELPING HAND

Proposition of Secretary Root Assumes Definite Form

Washington, March 3.—Anticipating favorable action by congress on one of the supply bills to pay the expenses of the proposed commission to Liberia to investigate and report on conditions there, Robert C. Ogden, Jacob H. Hollander and Booker T. Washington have been asked to act. It is understood that they will serve.

The proposition originated with Secretary Root, its object being to assist Liberia in strengthening its hold on the reins of government, and is the direct outcome of the visit to Washington of a special legation from Liberia.

GAINS FOR LICENSE

Two Vermont Cities and Eight "Dry" Towns Go Into "Wet" Column

Montpelier, Vt., March 3.—License made a slight gain in Vermont as the result of yesterday's elections in this state.

Two cities and several towns last year in the "dry" column were won over for license, notably St. Albans and Vergennes and the towns of Northfield, Orwell, Mt. Tabor, Barnard, Williston, Fletcher, Westmore and Fairhaven.

There was little general interest in the mayoralty elections in the several cities of the state. Several municipal contests were decided by small margins.

ACCEPTED $4000 BRIBE

San Francisco Grafter Gets Sentence of Seven Years In Prison

San Francisco, March 3.—Former Supervisor Michael W. Coffey, convicted of accepting a bribe of $4000 to vote for a trolley franchise for the United Railroads, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment.

In common with other members of the Schmitz board of supervisors implicated in the bribery graft disclosures, Coffey confessed before the grand jury and was granted immunity. Later he refused to give incriminating evidence.

MAXINUM FINE OF $720,000

Motion of Defense In Standard Oil Case Sustained by Court

Chicago, March 3.—Judge Anderson, in the retrial of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, formally sustained the motion of the defense that the government proceed to trial on the theory that there were only thirty-nine alleged offenses, each representing a settlement for shipment.

This will make the maximum fine, if the defendant is convicted, $720,000.

Deadlock Over Harbin

Pekin, China, March 3.—China again has declined to reconsider or to negotiate the question of the Russian municipal administration of Harbin with Russia, and in view of possible action on the part of the powers the railroad authorities at Harbin have desisted from their program and are waiting.

Corbett on Deck Again

New York, March 3.—"Young" Corbett, former featherweight champion, signalized his re-appearance in the ring here by defeating Johnny Marto in a fast ten round bout. Corbett had added to his weight until he now weighs fully 140 pnuds. Both men received a lot of punishment.

OCCUPANCY OF WHITE HOUSE

It Will Be Begun by Taft and Wife Tonight, as They Will Remain There After Dining With Roosevelt —Many Relatives of President-Elect Will Enjoy Family Reunion After the Inauguration

Washington, March 3.—The population of this city this morning is from 75,000 to 100,000 greater than usual, and by night this surplus probabaly will have been doubled.

Of the 31,000 members of civic and military organizations who will participate in the inaugural parade, about one-third already have arrived and this evening fully nine-tenths of them will be here.

While predicting fair weather and moderate temperature generally over the east portion of the United States for Thursday, the weather bureau refuses to make any special forecast for inauguration day in the District of Columbia. There is every indication, however, that the weather will remain mild.

Had the sun shone down last night on Pennsylvania avenue its own brightness would have been dimmed by the brilliant illumination along the avenue. Long golden ropes of gorgeously glittering electric lights, waving American flags done in red, white and blue lights, shields bearing in the midst of lights the beaming face of the president-elect and other similar devices, made the fronts of many buildings pictures of fairyland beauty. A gentle breeze quietly fluttered the flags which floated from thousands of windows. In one tall building the upper floors were a mass of red lights, the middle floors of white and the lower floors of blue.

Military uniforms are thickly scattered among the thousands who march in pre-inaugural parade up and down Pennsylvania avenue, crowding the broad sidewalks and overflowing into the street.

As the guests of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, President-Elect and Mrs. Taft will begin their occupancy of the White House tonight, going there for dinner and remaining.

After the inauguration there will be a reunion of the various members of the Taft family at the White House. The details of the gathering and the time have not yet been arranged, although the entire Taft family will be in town.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, his wife and two daughters, one unmarried and the other the wife of Albert Ingalls, and her two children, are quartered in a house taken by C. P. Taft for the occasion. Dr. William A. Edwards and Mrs. Edwards, who is the president-elect's sister, of Los Angeles, are at the New Willard to remain for the inauguration. Henry W. Taft, brother of the president-elect, his wife, daughter, and two sons, are also at the New Willard.

Miss Helen, Robert and Charles, the three children of President-Elect and Mrs. Taft, arrived here last night and are with their parents at the Boardman residence, as also is Miss Delia Torrey of Milbury, Mass., who is the only representative of the Taft family of the last generation.

Miss Torrey is in her 82nd year. She is a sister of Mr. Taft's mother and has lived with his parents since his boyhood. There is peculiarly strong affection between the incoming president and his maiden aunt. Her life has been an inspiration to him in a number of speeches he has delivered to young women students, particularly in his advice to them not to consider marriage the only object to be attained. To enforce this argument Taft has stated that the loveableness and character developed by self-sacrificing unmarried women has shown to him that there may be much in a single life.

Horace D. Taft, the other brother of Mr. Taft, and his wife, are here from Watertown, Conn., and are guests of Secretary Garfield of the department of the interior. The Garfield boys are students of the school maintained by Horace Taft, as is also Charles Taft, the youngest son of the president-elect.

Mr. Taft enjoyed a golf game on the Chevy Chase course Tuesday and said he felt much better for the ride to the club and the four mile walk entailed by the game. He defeated his opponent, General Edwards. Mr. Taft is a member of the Chevy Chase club and intends to play golf whenever opportunity may afford, but at present he sees little chance for recreation during the first few weeks of his administration.

Roosevelt Dines With Straus

Washington, March 3.—The last cabinet dinner which President Roosevelt will attend was given last night at the home of Secretary and Mrs. Straus. Among others present in addition to President and Mrs. Roosevelt were Governor and Mrs. Hughes of New York, Nicholas Longworth and wife and Secretary Loeb.

HOWARD'S TELLTALE NOTES

They Furnish Evidence Against Alleged Slayer of His Wife

New Bedford, Mass., March 3.—Two pages from the notebook of Artilleryman Howard, on trial for the murder of his wife, furnished the most important evidence introduced by the state at Tuesday's session.

The pages contained notes in Howard's handwriting relating to the compression of the carotid arteries, a method employed, the government maintains, to accomplish the death of the soldier's wife. The notebook was found in Howard's locker at Fort Rodman.

Two other pages of the notebook contained the names of thirteen young women whom Howard had described as his "sweethearts." One of the names was that of Grace Sturtevant, on whose account, the state claims, the defendant made way with his wife. On another page was a mock will by which Miss Sturtevart bequeathed her estate to Howard, who, in turn, "appointed" her as his "wife."

SCHROEDER IN COMMAND

Succeeds Sperry as Chief of Atlantic Battleship Fleet

Washington, March 3.—Rear Admiral Sperry made formal application to be relieved from duty as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic battleship fleet, and Rear Admiral Schroeder has been appointed in his place.

Rear Admiral Wainwright will remain in command of the second division of the fleet, Rear Admiral Potter is transferred from commander of the fourth division to command the third division, formerly in charge of Schroeder, and Rear Admiral Barry, who has been supervisor of the naval auxiliaries at New York, has been appointed commander of the fourth division.

FOREIGN INMATES OF OUR PRISONS

Deportation Upon Release Suggested to Congressman

Albany, March 3.—With a view of ridding the country of a certain class of undesirable aliens Superintendent Collins of the state prison department suggests legislation by which foreigners who become inmates of the prisons of the state may be deported upon their release.

In a letter to Congressman Bennett of New York Collins points out that the foreign population in the prisons of New York state is steadily increasing and at the present time amounts to 34 percent of the total number in the three state prisons. Seventy percent of this 34 percent are aliens who never have been naturalized.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF FRAUD

Officers of Sugar Corporation Testify In the Government's Suit

New York, March 3.—Testimony given Tuesday by officers and directors of both the American Sugar Refining company of New York, the corporation on trial for alleged false weighing of sugar imports, and of the American Sugar Refining company of New Jersey, the parent corporation, practically concluded the presentation of evidence for the defense.

All of the officers examined explicitly denied knowledge of any fraudulent weighing devices in the company's possession or used by it to defraud the customs revenues.

WILD CHEERS BY OPPONENTS

House Defeats Ship Subsidy Bill by Margin of Three Votes

MEASURE SHARPLY ATTACKED

Declared to Be an "Infernal Fraud" and to Have Been Lobbied Right on the Floor of the House—Fassett Pleads For Advocates of the Bill That Future Wars Will Be Trade Wars—A Dramatic Climax

Washington, March 3.—The ship subsidy bill, previously passed by the senate, was defeated in the house of representatives by a vote of 172 to 175. The opponents of the measure wildly cheered.

The debate on the bill consumed the entire afternoon Tuesday, during which a large number of members made speeches for and against it.

Mr. Moon (Tenn.) led the opposition to the measure. "It is an infernal fraud designed to plunder the treasury," he declared. Speaking of the provision for training of American boys and answering the plea of patriotism advanced by Mr. Landis, he said that it was but a blind to hide the giving of the people's money to corporations of shipowners.

The climax came when Mr. Clark, the minority leader, declared that a lobby had been carried on "right on the floor of the house" in favor of the passage of the bill. 'It is an outrage to a civilized country," he declared, "this thing of coaxing men, of buttonholing men, and I undertake to say that when Mr. Moon characterized this bill as an infernal fraud he used language that he was justified in using."

The debate against the bill was closed by Mr. Cockran (N. Y.), who denounced the sending of the American flag abroad by a subsidy.

As their champion, the advocates of the bill put forth Representative Fassett (N. Y.), who was the closing speaker. He referred to the condition of the battleship fleet on its return from its recent encircling of the globe and said that it showed that America could build as good machinery and has as good commanders as any country in the world. But no tender carrying the American flag went the trip with the fleet, he added.

"The wars of the future will not be gun wars," said Fassett, "but trade wars. In that war we cannot choose weapons, but must sight with the weapons of our opponents. We must face facts, not syllogisms."

The feeling in the house was strained as the hour of voting approached. The attendance was probably the largest of the session. Everyone recognized that the vote would be close.

A dramatic feature of the roll call was the appearance in the hall of Representative Goldfogle (N. Y.) in an invalid chair, he having been brought from a hospital where he had undergone an operation on his knee cap, in order that he might record his name against the bill.

Servian Government Reported to Be Mobilizing Her Troops

Berlin, March 3.—A dispatch from Belgrade says that in spite of all denials the mobilization of troops by the Servian government still continues. The correspondent states that he saw 600 reserves on Sunday, 2000 on Monday and 3000 Tuesday sent forward in the direction of Nish, which is a place of considerable importance, being at the junction of several railway lines.

Large bodies of students last evening united in a demonstration of farewell to two trainloads of soldiers, repeatedly shouting for war.

Battleships Missouri and New Jersey Tie Up at the Hub

Boston, March 3.—The battleships Missouri and New Jersey, home from their cruise around the world, came up to the Charlestown navy yard this morning on the flood tide.

The smoke of the thirteen guns for Rear Admiral Swift of the navy yard hardly cleared from the cannons' mouths of the batttleships before the "yard" sent its echoing salute, so eager were the marines to express their pleasure at the return of the globe circlers.

LOCALS

The next entertainment in the Cochato club of Braintree course will be on Friday evening of this week.

A. B. Cassidy and his son Herbert of Winthrop avenue Wollaston are in Washington D. C. seeing the inaugural procession and visiting friends.

The regular weekly cribbage tournament of the Washington Social club was held Tuesday night in the clubhouse. The games were close and exciting and the scores ran high.

The Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston, will preach and conduct the weekly Lenton service at Christ church this evening at 8 o'clock.

Several of the United States Naval Officers located at the shipyard are engaging in walking tests so as to fit themselves for the 50 mile test which has recently been prescribed by the Navy Department.

The sixth of eight artillery steamers was delivered to the United States War Department yesterday by the Shipyard. The name of this vessel was the General G. W. Getty and was known as hull number 164.

An organ recital complimentary to members and friends of the First parish is to be given this evening at the church by Mr. John D. Buckingham, with Mrs. N. S. Hunting as soloist and Mr. E. Landis Snyder accompanist.

The Young People's Religious union of First church is making a study this winter of different religions and on Sunday evening will have as the subject "Episcopal Church." There will be mandolin music by Elliot C. Johnson.

Unity club members are looking forward to the "Kommers" on Friday evening at the Unitarian vestry, Wollaston. It will be the last one for this season making the third one in the club program. But three more meetings are to be held this year.

The Faxon L. T. L. are to entertain the Wollaston Legion on Thursday, March 4th at Protection hall at 4.15 P. M., with Mrs. Isabelle Davis, leader. It is hoped all members of the W. C. T. U. will exert themselves to see the grand work the Quincy and Wollaston boys and girls are doing for the temperance cause. Refreshments will be served.

Two good games of basket ball are scheduled for tomorrow night in St. Mary's hall. The St. Mary's first team is scheduled to play the fast Dorchester A. A. five, while the second team will try conclusions with the strong Boylstons. An old time rivalry exists between Dorchester and St. Mary's and a hot game is anticipated.

The last evening rehearsal of the Choral society before their concert next Tuesday, will be held this evening in Colonial hall at 7.45 o'clock. The chorus under Conductor Wonson has done admirable work and their singing of Elijah next Tuesday evening at Music hall promises to be a red-letter event in the musical history of Quincy.

The concert to be given in the Wollaston M. E. church Thursday evening will be of a high class. Professor John Patton Marshall, Dean of Music of the Boston university will give an illustrated talk using piano and blackboard on the subject of "The Appreciation of Music." He will be assisted by the Boston University Male quartet and Maud McLean Ferguson, reader. This entertainment promises to be one of the best which has been held in Wollaston for some time.

☞Housekeepers are you noticing the bargains offered by H. L. Kincaide & Co.? They are advertising special articles of home furnishings each day; a fine opportunity to secure something to make your home attractive after the wear and tear of the winter.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

A regular meeting of Junior Alliance of First church will be held in the church parlor on Monday evening, March 8th. Miss Lucille Elwell will read a paper on "Five Cities of the Philistines."

* * *

Next week Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick of Chestnut street will be hostess for the Friday club with Mrs. John F. Welch, chairman of the afternoon program with "Literary Landmarks of Venice" as the subject.

* * *

An interesting meeting of the Quincy Alliance is promised for Monday afternoon in First Church chapel when Mrs. Frederick Allison Tupper of Brighton will speak, her subject being "An hour with Ian MacLaren."

* * *

Mrs. Arthur W. Hall entertained the Junior Friday club on Monday afternoon at her home on Upland road with a full attendance of members who enjoyed the program prepared by Miss Georgiana C. Lane with Garibaldi as the subject.

* * *

Last week the Shakespeare society of Atlantic had an interruption in the regular routine work of the club in the way of an outing. A luncheon was followed by a visit to the Art Museum, Boston, where members thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Next week Thursday meetings will be resumed and the play "King Lear" taken up for reading ,beginning with act one. On March 13 the society is to give an entertainment at Atlantic Music hall, when Mrs. Alfred Chester Cousens will give in costume a Shakespearean musical monologue. Club women throughout the city are much interested as the interpretation is said to be historically correct and artistic.

* * *

The February meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the West Quincy M. E. church was held Friday evening at the home of Miss Gragg, Furnace Brook parkway. After the reports were read, plans were made for an "experience" meeting to be held Mar. seventeenth in the vestry, when members will be given an opportunity of telling how they earned one dollar in an unusual way. Dainty refreshments were served and the evening was one of pleasure to all present.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

With today's meeting the Mothers' association enters upon the season of 1909-10. The officers elected at the last meeting are: President, Mrs. William H. Doble; Vice President, Mrs. Victor E. Miller; Secretary, Mrs. Arthur R. Fitts.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

The executive committee of the Quincy Women's club meets on Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the club house.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held at the club house on Tuesday afternoon at half past two and the program will be in charge of the Education committee, Mrs. Charles R. Safford ,chairman. Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd will speak on "Granada and the Alhambra, Seville and her Painters."

Tuesday afternoon a party of club members visited the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston in charge of Mrs. George G. Saville of the Art and Literature committee. Mrs. Saville having a severe cold Mrs. Wilson Marsh looked after the party. It was not only an enjoyable afternoon but a profitable one as well.

Mrs. Hunting treasurer has the new membership tickets for 1909-10 ready to give out and members are reminded that the club dues are now due and must be paid during March or April to retain membership in the club. Already members have commenced to pay which indicates interest in the club.

The stencil class meets on Friday afternoons in the Arts and Crafts room.

On the inside pages today will be found a report of the penny savings as established in the public schools by the club through the Civic committee. It is one of the best works of the year of the club and the good so far accomplished is more than pleasing.

ADAMS CHAPTER, D. R.

Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution met for their annual meeting on Monday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams with a large attendance of members. The meeting was called at an early hour as the chapter was to entertain the Martha Washington Chapter of Boston at three o'clock.

Monthly reports of the secretary and treasurer were read after which the business of the annual meeting was taken up. Interesting reports were read by the secretary, treasurer and historian. The treasury showed a balance of over a hundred dollars with all bills paid. While the tellers were counting the ballots, chapter matters were discussed informally, among which was the furnishing of the house, line of study for the year, repairs of house, fence, etc.

The result of the vote was: Regent, Miss Annie L. Prescott; Vice Regent, Mrs. Francis F. Brewer, Secretary, Mrs. Frank F. Prescott; Treasurer, Mrs. William Porter of Randolph, and on the council for two years, Mrs. Osborne Rogers, Mrs. Charles Wilson, Miss Mary L. Hinkley. Three of last year's council hold over another year, Mrs. Patience C. H. Braley, Mrs. Antoinette S. Paige, Miss Nellie Potter.

The next meeting will be held at South Braintree with Mrs. C. H. Sprague, on April fifth. Mrs. Sprague will be assisted by Mrs. Wilde and Mrs. Dyer.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the National Society of the Daughters of the Revolution were elected as follows, the regent with Mrs. Sprague as alternate and Mrs. Charles Belcher with Mrs. F. Eugene Dyer as alternate.

The annual meeting of the state society will be held as usual on March 17th.

Mrs. Paige presented the chapter with a parchment of the Mayflower compact and was given a vote of thanks.

The guests of the afternoon were met at the Quincy Adams station by Mrs. Granger and Mrs. Prescott and escorted to the house, where a lunch of hot chocolate, sandwiches, cake and crackers was served, after which the regent of Adams Chapter told of the acceptance at the last meeting of pictures of George and Martha Washington and their arrival at the house where they had been much admired. She said it was a pleasure to have some of the members of Martha Washington Chapter present that the thanks of Adams Chapter might be expressed personally as well as by letter. The chapter appreciated the generous gift. Mrs. Mary Abby Proctor of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, regent of the Martha Washintgon Chapter was then introduced. She brought the greetings of her Chapter and said that now there would be a bond of friendship between the two chapters. The pictures were intended for the Paul Revere house in Boston and were quite valuable but their size made them unsuitable so that her chapter was pleased that they would be acceptable for the Adams house a very appropriate place as John Adams was vice president when George Washington was president. Mrs. Proctor spoke of unity in patriotic work.

Hoped chapters would all work together for the good of all as in that way much could be accomplished.

After the presentation and acceptance of the pictures the guests and officers looked over the house to select suitable places to hang the pictures and decided on the long room in which Adams Chapter holds regular meetings.

Besides Mrs. Proctor there was present, Mrs. Katherine Lincoln Dakin, Prospect Hill, Somerville, Mrs. Estella Hatch Weston, Cambridge, Mrs. Martha B. Green, Massachusetts avenue, Boston, and Mrs. Chapman, honorary member of Adams Chapter.

It was a very pleasant meeting throughout, enjoyable for guests and members of Adams Chapter.

WHATSOEVER CIRCLE K. D.

Forty-one members of Whatsoever Circle gathered at the home of their leader Mrs. H. A. Stevins, March 1st for their annual meeting. We welcomed as guests, Mrs. Abbie F. Fenno, Treasurer of Pond Home Corporations; and Mrs. Horst, wife of the newly elected minister of the Unitarian church.

The reports of the different committees were full of interest, showing the Circle to be in an active condition, financially and spiritually.

The Friendship committee have sent flowers and fruit to many sick and shut-ins and the Investigating committee have eased many burdens in the way of paying overdue rent, supplying coal, food and clothing, and giving out Thanksgiving baskets and gladdened the hearts of 44 children at Christmas time by stockings filled with gifts and goodies.

We number 56 active and one honorary member and have made a gain of 1-3 in average attendance over last year.

In balloting for new officers we were not successful in electing a leader, but our other officers are as follows:

1st Vice leader, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield; 2nd Vice leader, Mrs. W. H. Whitney; Treasurer, Mrs F. S. Andrews; Secretary, Mrs. Alice Prescott Saxe.

The sum of $340.95 passed through the hands of our treasurer the past year, $271.72 being used for charities.

Mrs. Fenno spoke a few words to us regarding Pond Home which is dear to our hearts, and to which we contribute, as well as Gordon Rest, Hale House, Ingleside, Deaconess Hospital, Quincy Day Nursery and many others.

Refreshments were served and a general social hour enjoyed by all. There being no special entertainment prepared beyond the admission of four members, and the reading by Mrs. A. P. Thompson of a delightful little poem from the Silver Cross magazine called "The Master is Coming."

We are pleased to record a deep and growing interest in the work and we look forward into the year to come with hopefulness and courage, always alert for the opportunity of doing with our might what our hands find to do.

NEIGHBORING.

For the March 13th meeting of the N. E. Wheaton Seminary club at hotel Vendome, Boston, the lecturer will be announced as it was not decided when the club calendar was printed. Miss Margaret Crane will be the soloist.

One of the most entertaining afternoons in the Philergians of Braintree season will be that of March 16 when Miss Edith Margaret Smaill of Montreal will give an afternoon with "The Habitant." She is a lecturer and interpreter of Dr. Drummond's poems and gives stories of the Habitants in a way that brings the tear or laugh from her audience.

* * *

The committee in charge of the College fund of the Milton Woman's club has engaged Mme. Katharine Goodson for a recital in the town hall, Monday evening, March 15. Mme. Goodson is the English pianist who played in Milton last winter in the Education society series of concerts.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

Many people have expressed surprise at the low prices of tickets for the Quincy Choral concert and have inquired whether it were possible to present a concert of this kind at these prices and pay expenses.

This is exactly what the society would like to do every year, and can do if the people are sufficiently interested in this great musical movement to fill the house.

With courage, inspired by the fact that fifty well known people of our city stand back of them in this venture, the executive board members have made plans which should be approved by every one interested in musical education. The first aim is to have at least one complete work presented each year by the society, and this means most valuable study for every active member.

Many teachers of vocal music make the mistake of teaching their pupils arias from this opera and that, from this oratorio and that, but never teaching them a complete work; and many a student who thought himself prepared for public singing has been surprised by that first question of all managers, "What complete works are in your repertoire?" and the fact that only singers so equipped are eligible.

An early acquaintance with oratorios and operas in their entirety means much to the young singer, who not only becomes familiar with the choruses as harmonic studies, but who has also the advantage of studying the orchestration and the methods and interpretations of the soloists in the final concerts. With so much gained, it becomes an easy matter to memorize a complete solo part.

The plan of founding a society in our city principally for the study of great works by the best composers, should be valuable not only to students, but particularly to graduates of our High school, who are already well grounded in Chorus singing by our splendid public school system of instruction, and who have here an opportunity for further study.

AMONG THE SPORTS.

The game scheduled between High school and Boston College high for Tuesday afternoon was cancelled. The B. C. H. five have disbanded as a high school team and are playing independently, but the local management would play only strictly high school teams.

Brockton and Quincy Y. M. C. A. track teams will hold a dual track meet in the local gym tomorrow night. This will be the second meeting between the two, Brockton having been the winner in the former games held in the Shoe city.

Five eve are c ided for the evening including 15 yard dash, potato race, three road jumps, high jump, and rope climb. The winning team will require at least 23 points for victory. The meet will close with a relay race between the two teams.

The Brockton team will be in charge of Charlie Parker of Quincy who is now assistant physical director at the Brockton Y. M. C. A. Charlie says he is going to beat the Quincy boys, but he admits that he will have to go some.

The Rousers did things at the Houghs Neck Associates alleys Tuesday night, when they bowled the strong Bucko's. The Rousers smashed the team single string total, and the team total for three strings. "Doc" Mains of the Rousers was high man for both single and three string totals, making 106 for single with a total of 290. The score was as follows:

ON CHARGE OF FORGERY

Former Quincy Man Arrested In Boston

Harold E. Abbott, alias Harold Ferrin, formerly of South street, Quincy, was arrested Tuesday morning in Boston by Inspectors Conboy and Pierce of the Boston police. He was arraigned in the municipal court before Judge Burke on the charge of forgery and held in $2,000 for the April term of the grand jury.

Abbott gave his age as 22 and said that he resided at 56 Carver street in the South End. After his arraignment Tuesday it was stated by the Boston police that he was wanted by the police of Quincy, Cambridge, Brockton and Fitchburg.

He has been in hiding since Christmas and since then Inspectors Conboy and Pierce have been looking for him. He was seen Tuesday morning on Kneeland street and was arrested before he had a chance to get away. He was unable to obtain bail and was taken to the county jail.

His offence in Quincy was against Dr. W. J. Middleton of Quincy Point, to whom he owed $15 for professional services. The doctor thought he was never going to get paid, but one day Abbott entered his office and presenting a check for $30 said he was going to pay his bill.

The check was on the Lancaster, N. H., trust company and was signed by Mr. Howe of the company. Dr. Middleton thought the check looked good to him, handed over the balance and took the check. He found out later that the check was a forgery, but the bird had flown and the doctor was out $15.

The police of the other cities, where Abbott is wanted, have been notified by the Boston police, and when all the charges have been settled Abbott will have quite a term ahead of him.

Abbott admitted that he had forged checks, saying that he was out of work and thought forgery was an easy way to pick up a little money.

When in Quincy he lived at the corner of Nash avenue and South street and was employed in the Fore River works.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Walker Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac H. Walker celebrated the 50th anniversary of their marriage at the home of their daughter Mrs. Charles H. Williams, 35 Lincoln street, North Weymouth, Wednesday evening. About two hundred of the friends of the couple called and extended their congratulations. Mr. Walker is one of the oldest police officers in point of service in the town being at the present time an active member of the force.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married in Braintree March 3, 1859 by Rev. Dr. Storrs of the First Congregational church. Mrs. Walker was Miss Susan Hayden of Braintree. Mr. Walker is a native of Roxbury. After their marriage they went to Quincy and after residing there a few years moved to North Weymouth where they have since resided. They have beside Mrs. Williams one other daughter Mrs. Clara L. Newton of Winthrop and three sons George H. Walker a popular conductor on the local street railway and Horace W. and Joseph E. Walker of Weymouth. All the children were present and assisted Mr. and Mrs. Walker in receiving the guests. Chief Thomas Fitzgerald and twenty of the police officers of the town attended and presented Mr. Walker with a purse of gold.

Mr. Walker served in the Civil war in Co. H. 12th Massachusetts regiment and is a prominent member of Reynolds Post 58 G. A. R. and delegations attended from the Post, Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and Ladies auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were the recipients of many handsome gifts which included several hundred dollars in gold.

During the evening there was selections by an orchestra and a lunch was served.

—On Lincoln's birthday, A. S. Johnson and wife entertained a large party of Swedish friends from Orange. There were 30 present who enjoyed a bounteous repast, including the pastor of the Swedish church.—Athol Transcript.

RECITAL OF ORGAN MUSIC

J. D. Buckingham Gives Finished Performance

LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT IN SPITE OF BAD WEATHER

Solo by Mrs. N. S. Hunting Especially Pleasing

Although the weather was far from pleasant Wednesday evening, between two and three hundred people braved the elements in order to attend the recital of organ music, by J. D. Buckingham at First church.

Mr. Buckingham was assisted by Mrs. N. S. Hunting, soloist, and E. Landis Snyder, accompanist.

The program which contained twelve numbers was well selected and gave Mr. Buckingham a chance to display his splendid technique.

Commencing with Hollin's Overture in C minor ,a piece full of soft and subtle harmony the program finished with Puitti's wonderful and impressive finale from Op. 22.

The ninth number on the program Dvorak's, Humoreske was especially good and was enthusiastically received by the audience.

Throughout the entire program Mr. Buckingham's playing was of a very high order, the result of years of careful systematic training.

His touch was delicate, yet firm, each note being brought out with a clearness, rarely heard on the organ.

Although Mrs. Hunting sang but once, her voice, which is unusually sweet and clear, added much to the pleasure of the evening.

Following is the program:

Hollins—Overture in c minor.
Miller—Berceuse.
Dubois—Nuptial Benediction.
Kinder—Variations on Duke St.
Hall—Offertoire in b flat.
J. D. Buckingham
Bach—Solo—"My heart ever faithful."
Mrs. Hunting
Chopin—Etude c sharp minor, op. 25, No. 7.
Guilmant—Sonata No. 1, d minor.
(first movement)
Dvorak—Humoreske.
Bizet—1st Minuet from suite L'Arlesienne.
Rubinstein—Reve Angelique.
Piutti—Finale from op. 22.

GRANITE CITY WHIST.

The weekly whist tournament at the Granite City club Wednesday evening drew a good number. The best scores of the evening were secured by John W. Bell and James H. Penniman. The winners of the monthly prizes for February were W. W. Ewell, Warren H. Rideout and W. W. Mitchell.

☞There are just two more weeks to secure the piano certificates. Every one has the same chance. Remember that, every certificate you secure the next ten days will increase the chance of your getting the piano. Folsom Tea Co., 7 Granite street, Quincy.

AMATEURS PRESENT CLEVER COMEDY

Y. M. C. A. Boys' First Play A Huge Success.

FEMALE PARTS PARTICULARLY WELL DONE

Amusing Situations Keep Audience Convulsed With Laughter.

"All Tangled Up" was the title of the three act farce enacted at the Young Men's Christian Association by the older boys of the boys' department last evening. It was one of the most interesting little playlets given in Quincy this winter, and all members of the cast deserve great credit.

"All Tangled Up" is a very bright lively and actable play, having the quick movement and snappy, keen, original dialogue so characteristic of comedies.

The character Major Halliday, by Chester Gurney, was well impersonated and brought out the character of this man of the world, who enjoys a good time but is all at sea at the prospect of discovery. Lester MacVey, Ed. Lee Brooks, was well played and made a good partner for the Major. Keeling Plantum, proprietor of an undertaking and tombstone business, by Albert G. Belden, was taken in a capable manner and added much to the farce.

Lieutenant Rapley, a wealthy young man from the west, by S. Corliss Berry, was played with energy. O'Toole, a family treasure, by Charles Sayward, was well impersonated and brought applause frequently. Mrs. Halliday, Howard Pratt, was taken in a creditable way and brought out the character of this jealous woman.

Clara, Everett Rhodes, was well played. Vernie, by William Hall, was also well played and both of these parts helped in the success of the play.

A large audience was on hand and when the Association Mandolin club played their first selection, the hall was filled. The play was under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis. The purpose of the fellows is to hold a play annually.

SUPPER AND DANCE.

Loyal Pride of Granite Lodge Odd Ladies held a turkey supper and dance in Clan McGregor hall South Quincy February 25th. It being the sixth anniversary of the lodge. Mrs. Margaret Tite Noble Grand made an appropriate address welcoming all and hoping everyone would enjoy themselves.

The hall was beautifully decorated and the tables looked tempting. It made one feel hungry to see all the good things, everything being home made. There was a bountiful supper served to 200 friends and Odd Ladies at 8 o'clock.

Supper over dancing was in order, music by Wilson's Orchestra, the floor being in charge of Miss Monica Clare and Miss Mabel Favereau.

The supper and dance was in charge of the committee which made it a grand success.

PROBATE COURT.

Judge Flint held probate court for Norfolk county at Dedham, Wednesday and transacted the following business:

Woodbury, Bellingham, Edward Powers, Weymouth, Mary Devine, Westwood, Mary J. Plimpton, Walpole, Robert McGuire, Medway, John R. De Lary, Milton and Eunice R. Hewins, Foxboro.

Trusteeships granted: To Francis J. Moors of Boston and Mosses Williams of Brookline, of certain estates given in trust under the will of Elizabeth Prescott Sears late of Brookline, and to William Saville of Newton and Oscar B. Mowry of Brookline, of certain estate given in trust under the will of Richard L. Saville, late of Brookline, bond $75,000.

Conservator apointed: Patrick H. Linton of the property of Clara A. Linton of Weymouth.

MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE

Plans For Annual Banquet Discussed By Members

A regular meeting of the Quincy Board of Trade was held Wednesday evening. President Richards presided.

Three were elected to membership, viz., Wiliam Farquharson of the Eagle Polishing Company, Alexander Kirkland of the Smalley Granite Company and John C. Ballou.

The matter of the annual winter banquet was taken up and discussed at length. It was voted to hold the banquet and a committee was appointed to make all arrangements. The date of the banquet was left to the committee who will announce it after completing arrangements for the hall and speakers.

There was also a general discussion of matters of local interest including the inland water ways upon which a report was made by Mr. Crane and on the tariff.

Although a number of members were out of town, there was a good attendance, many of them taking part in the general discussion.

NEPONSET BRIDGE HEARING.

New Structure Favored by Majority of Speakers.

A continued hearing on the report of the Metropolitan Commission for a new bridge between Boston and Quincy was held this morning at the state house by the Committee on Roads and Bridges.

Representative Burr of Dorchester said the bridge should be built at once.

Paul R. Blackmur of the Citizens' Association said the state should pay a lump sum, rather than the cost be divided among the towns. He favored the counties of Norfolk, Suffolk and Plymouth paying a sum that should be deemed equitable by the commission. The cities of Quincy and Boston should pay a sum which the commission should deem equitable also the street railway.

In reply to a question he said he thought Quincy would be willing to pay a lump sum. Asked how much he replied 20 percent.

Senator Abbott Representative Mildram and ex-Representative Hoag also favored building the bridge.

Mr. Merritt of East Boston was brought forward as a war expert who said the bridge would be a good thing.

Corporation Counsel Babson of Boston favored a bridge.

FEWER CRIMINAL CASES.

February Record Shows Decrease of Twenty-Six.

The report of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear for the month of February, shows the total number of criminal cases before the district court for that month to have been 104. A decrease of 26 over the corresponding month a year ago. Compared with other years it was the largest since 1906 when there were 146 cases in February.

Of the cases this year, 54 were for drunkenness, 13 for assault, and 8 for violation of the park rules. The balance of the cases were for various offenses.

—Is there not danger in extending the powers of the co-operative banks in the state so that they may do a general banking business? Originally started to promote home building and owning they have done splendid work along that line, and when carefully managed, as most of them are, have proved to be of great benefit to the communities where they have done business. It is not yet proven that already existing banking institutions are sufficient to take care of the legitimate demands of the commonwealth, and until this is shown it can be questioned whether there is any necessity to enlarge the powers of these co-operative institutions. They have a certain well-defined field and possibly they can be most valuable in confining their operations within those lines. If this proposed legislation is sought by a few large institutions it can be questioned whether it is a wise step to take.—Old Colony Memorial.

Mr. Knox is one of the few men who can point with pride to a reduction in salary.

Chicago fails to appreciate real heroism. She put in jail a man who had married fifty times, instead of giving him a Carnegie medal.

After all, it was a raw joke on the goat to make Taft a Mason "on sight." The poor beast should have a month's training for such a subject.

The government's "conscience fund" originated in 1811. It is not thought, however, that all the people with guilty consciences have been enrolled as yet.

Wonder what Mr. Bryan thinks of the prediction by those House Democrats that "the office of Secretary of State brobably will be held for eight years by its next incumbent?

To be a Doubting Thomas in respect of a lock type canal at Panama may not involve you in a libel suit, but it will certainly locate you at least in the suburbs of the administration's displeasure.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt sailed for Europe in defiance of a jury summons, and has been fined $250. Now he will have to economize on his tour abroad.

The people of Arkansas probably look upon Senator "Jeff" Davis' alleged recent automobile ride to the White House as a mythical story basely fabricated by the plutocrats for his political undoing.

Houghs Neck seems to be looking for considerable this year. First it wants a school building which it is generally admitted it should have. But in addition to that it wants a lot of new fire alarm boxes.

There are probably more fire alarm boxes now in this district than in any other section of the same size.

The amount asked for in the order offered at Monday night's meeting of the City Council was $475.

One of the boxes called for in the order is a combination box. Just why a combination box is needed is hard to tell. There are not over four of these boxes in the city and they are all located in the centre district.

One of the main features of a combination or interchangeable box is that in case the circuit upon which the box is located should be out of order, the arrangement at the back of the box permits it to be cut into another circuit, which is a good thing.

Unfortunately there is but one circuit to Houghs Neck and if this one circuit is out it is out until fixed and a dozen combination boxes would not help it any.

As these boxes cost $150 and the ordinary non-interferring boxes $50 it would seem that the additional $100 might be used to better advantage elsewhere.

There will be many members of Congress missed after the Fourth of March. Twelve senators and seventy-seven representatives will be entitled to the prefix "ex." Of the seventy-seven representatives who retire March the third, Mr. Hepburn of Iowa has served twenty-two years in Congress and the Vice-President-elect, Mr. Sherman of New York has served twenty years. Mr. Hepburn has been connected with public affairs since ante-bellum days. He was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1860. Mr. Cousins of Iowa and Delegate Smith of Arizona have each served sixteen years. Jenkins of Wisconsin, Copper of Texas. Overstreet of Indiana, Williams of Mississippi and Atcheson of Pennsylvania, have served fourteen years each. Mr. John Sharp Williams, long the brilliant minority leader of the House, retires to enter the Senate two years hence.

Some of the other representatives have had a long service in the lower House, but twenty-eight of them have only served two years, or a single term. Adam Bede of Minnesota, who has contributed much to the humor of debate and Bourke Cochran, one of the readiest and most effective orators of the House will not appear on the floor after the fourth of March.

Senator Teller of Colorado has served the longest term in the Senate of any retiring senator, or since 1876. He resigned in 1882 to enter the Cabinet of President Arthur, but was re-elected in 1903 as a Democrat, with which party he has since stood. Among conspicuous retiring senators is Platt of New York who, it will be remembered, resigned with Roscoe Conkling in 1881, since which time the nickname "Me Too" Platt has been incessantly used by his detractors. Senator Foraker, whose recent turbulent career is fresh in the minds of everyone, has served twelve years. Other senators who will retire March the fourth are Hemenway, McCreary, Ankeny, Fulton, Gary, Hansbrough, Kittredge, Long and Milton.

In Just Five Months
WYETH'S
SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER
Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

THE MAKING OF AN EFFICIENT WORKMAN

Isaac Goddard Gives Practical Talk to Fore River Boys

Through the efforts of James E. Neary, superintendent of the manual training department of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co,. Isaac Goddard, instructor in manual training at the Quincy High school, Tuesday addressed the 165 apprentices at the works of the company. It was quite evident to those who listened to the remarks of Mr. Goddard that unquestionably he is the right man in the right place.

Mr. Goddard said in part:

"I am interested in manual arts and so in many lines of your work. One of the aims in my work is to teach the boy to love and respect good, honest bodily labor. A majority of boys on leaving school especially high school seek some clerical position, or I might say some position where they will not soil their hands. They do not look far enough into the future. I admire the fellow who is not afraid of work . I feel that I am speaking to fellows who are getting the proper training. I look forward for the day when Quincy will have an industrial school so that the boys will be better fitted as they enter here as apprentices and perhaps be able to start in with more advanced work.

"The subject which I am to speak upon is, "The making of an efficient workman." What does the word efficient mean? One dictionary defines the word as able, capable, not inactive slack, or incapable; characterized by energetic and useful activity; having power to execute exact work; ability to bring things to pass. Then we may speak of an efficient machinist, electrician etc. What do we mean by an efficient blacksmith? That he is a workman who can execute exact work, has the ability to bring things to pass, is capable and energetic. And so I might apply the word to the various tradesmen.

"Your aim as an apprentice should be to attain the qualities of an efficient workman and be such. What are some of the requisites of such a workman? He must have order, system, be neat and accurate in doing work; must be alert, quick, careful and punctual. Let me emphasize the first four virtues. In my work I have the boys take an interest in having things in an orderly way. The tools must be in an orderly position on their benches. At the tool shelf each tool must be in its proper place. I often quote those words of Longfellow:

"Each thing in its place is best;
And what seems but idle show
Strengthens and supports the rest."

"There must be some system in doing work. My boys from the start learn certain methods and rules for doing their work, and this is carried out in doing all work. It is the getting into the right habit from the start. Ruskin says, "Order and system are nobler things than power."

"At first accuracy means but little to the boy. From 1-16 to 1-4 means nothing. After a while they work to the line and become more accurate. In making a boy I consider workmanship, measurements and efforts. Thus you see accuracy counts. It matters not what profession you are to follow neatness counts. A blacksmith should be neat about his forge; a machinist about the machine he runs and his work. We hear the expression good, neat, accurate, faithful, work. These should be our throughts continually when we are working.

"How can you become an efficient workman? Start out with a determination that whatever you do will eb done thoroughly and if it is not right you will make it right. Try daily to do a little better than your neighbor. There will be those who will try and equal you. It is a race from beginning to finish, see that you win. Master details and difficulties. Do not be afraid to begin way down and work up. In learning to be a machinist it may be discouraging and seem insignificant to start in chipping yet it all plays its part if you are to be such. As a helper to a blacksmith it is important. Begin at the bottom of the ladder and work up. In doing so your experience will be greater and more valuable. You will be better fitted to judge work and know what to expect from men who possibly some day may be under your charge. It is this kind of training the gives you the rock bottom foundation for all important work.

"It is your solemn duty to discover where in you are weak and to strengthen yourself. How about your drawings? Do you understand how the different views are obtained? Do you understand sections? Given some part of a machine can you make working drawings of it?

"How about arithmetic? Have you mastered the essentials? What about geometry? Think of the many problems in drawing which are pure plane geometry. Can you erect a perpendicular from a point in a given straight line? Given a circle can you construct a hexagon? or a decagon? Can you pass a circle through three given points? Other subjects might be considered but these I consider as important ones here in your work.

"Select the subjects which you are to use daily in your work and master them. Machines, processes, methods and styles are continually changing. Your store of knowledge must therefore be increasing. To keep abreast with the times you must read the best literature found in books and magazines pertaining to the subjects which interest you.

"If you have chosen to be a machinist do not be contented in living in the little world of a machinist. Go out side your profession and acquaint yourself with other facts. If you work with iron you should know some thing of the chemical side. There are many books on commercial and industrial chemistry that will be of much help to you.

"The question may arise, where shall I obtain these books and magazines? If you do not find helpful books in the library at Quincy or some near by library, try the Boston Public Library. Select the periodicals that will be of help to you in your trade, and as often as they are out, be sure to read them. Get into the habit of reading useful and helpful books. Do not fail to glance through the card catalogue and see of there are books that will be of interest to you. If you do not find what you want be sure to speak to the librarian.

"You may discover that you can not read intelligently or interpret the writer's meaning. It then means for you to study. A year's study will greatly benefit you.

"Think of the advantages offered by our night schools and correspondent schools. Take advantage of these opportunities by all means.

"If you are to be an efficient workman you must hustle from start to finish without letting up. In closing I know no better words than those of Ruskin, "Gain all the knowledge you can and use it to the best advantage."

EPWORTH LEAGUE NOTES.

On Sunday evening the Epworth League of the West Quincy Methodist Episcopal church had charge of the regular seven o'clock service.

The leader for the meeting was Miss Beryle A. Hannant; the topic was "Shepherd and Hirelings" and the scripture references were found in John 10: 1-16 and Matt. 8: 11-12.

After the scripture for the evening was read the leader spoke for a few moments, making plain how Jesus, the good Shepherd, cares for his sheep. The latter part of the service was a consecration service led by the president, Miss Hilda Francis.

While two of the Junior League members sang that consecration hymn, "Just as I am," the members of the Epworth League and Junior League came forward to the altar and there consecrated their lives anew to the service of their Lord and Master, Jesus Christ. The service closed at 8.30 with the league benediction.

The members of the Epworth League of the West Quincy Methodist Episcopal church met in the vestry for their regular monthly business meeting. The meeting opened with the president in the chair. After the business of the evening was transacted, a social hour in charge of Miss Beryle A. Hannant and Miss Catherine B. Hodgkinson, was enjoyed by all. During this hour, duets were rendered by Miss Maud E. Hodgkinson and Catherine B. Hodgkinson.

The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock all having enjoyed themselves, but, missing the presence of their pastor, C. H. Raupach, who on account of illness in the family, was not able to be present. There were 13 members present.

Inauguration Takes Place

TAFT IS NOW PRESIDENT

PRESIDENT TAFT.

In the presence of thousands of his fellow citizens, William Howard Taft today took the oath of office, making him President of the United States. After President Taft had been duly sworn in amid the plaudits and cheers of the vast assemblage, he delivered his inaugural address.

President Taft said in part:

My Fellow Citizens—Any one who takes the oath I have just taken must feel a heavy weight of responsibility. If not, he has no conception of the powers and duties of the office upon which he is about to enter or he is lacking in a proper sense of the obligation which the oath imposes.

The office of an inaugural address is to give a summary outline of the main policies of the new administration so far as they can be anticipated. I have had the honor to be one of the advisers of my distinguished predecessor and as such to hold up his hands in the reforms he has initiated. I should be untrue to myself, to my promises and to the declarations of the party platform upon which I was elected to office if I did not make the maintenance and enforcement of those reforms a most important feature of my administration. They were directed to the suppression of the lawlessness and abuses of power of the great combinations of capital invested in railroads and in industrial enterprises carrying on interstate commerce. The steps which my predecessor took and the legislation passed on his recommendation have accomplished much, have caused a general halt in the vicious policies which created popular alarm and have brought about in the business affected a much higher regard for existing law.

Further Action Needed.

To render the reforms lasting, however, and to secure at the same time freedom from alarm on the part of those pursuing proper and progressive business methods further legislative and executive action are needed. Relief of the railroads from certain restrictions of the anti-trust law have been urged by my predecessor and will be urged by me. On the other hand, the administration is pledged to legislation looking to a proper federal supervision and restriction to prevent excessive issues of bonds and stocks by companies owning and operating interstate commerce railroads.

Then, too, a reorganization of the department of justice, of the bureau of corporations in the department of commerce and labor and of the interstate commerce commission looking to effective co-operation of these agencies is needed to secure a more rapid and certain enforcement of the laws affecting interstate railroads and industrial combinations.

Revision of the Tariff.

A matter of most pressing importance is the revision of the tariff. In accordance with the promises of the platform upon which I was elected, I shall call congress into extra session, to meet on the 15th day of March, in order that consideration may be at once given to a bill revising the Dingley act. This should secure an adequate revenue and adjust the duties in such a manner as to afford to labor and to all industries in this country, whether of the farm, mine or factory, protection by tariff equal to the difference between the cost of production abroad and the cost of production here and have a provision which shall put into force, upon executive determination of certain facts, a higher or maximum tariff against those countries whose trade policy toward us equitably requires such discrimination. It is thought that there has been such a change in conditions since the enactment of the Dingley act, drafted on a similarly protective principle, that the measure of the tariff above stated will permit the reduction of rates in certain schedules and will require the advancement of few, if any.

Inheritance Tax Advocated.

In the making of a tariff bill the prime motive is taxation and the securing thereby of a revenue. Due largely to the business depression which followed the financial panic of 1907, the revenue from customs and other sources has decreased to such an extent that the expenditures for the current fiscal year will exceed the receipts by $100,000,000. It is imperative that such a deficit shall not continue, and the framers of the tariff bill must of course have in mind the total revenues likely to be produced by it and so arrange the duties as to secure an adequate income. Should it be impossible to do so by import duties new kinds of taxation must be adopted, and among these I recommend a graduated inheritance tax as correct in principle and as certain and easy of collection.

Government Economy Urged.

The obligation on the part of those responsible for the expenditures made to carry on the government to be as economical as possible and to make the burden of taxation as light as possible is plain and should be affirmed in every declaration of government policy. This is especially true when we are face to face with a heavy deficit. But when the desire to win the popular approval leads to the cutting off of expenditures really needed to make the government effective and to enable it to accomplish its proper objects the result is as much to be condemned as the waste of government funds in unnecessary expenditure.

The Army and Navy.

We should have an army so organized and so officered as to be capable in time of emergency in co-operation with the national militia and under the provisions of a proper national volunteer law rapidly to expand into a force sufficient to resist all probable invasion from abroad and to furnish a respectable expeditionary force, if necessary, in the maintenance of our traditional American policy which bears the name of President Monroe.

Must Arm as Other Nations Do.

Our international policy is always to promote peace. We shall enter into any war with a full consciousness of the awful consequences that it always entails, whether successful or not, and we, of course, shall make every effort, consistent with national honor and the highest national interest, to avoid a resort to arms. We favor every instrumentality, like that of The Hague tribunal and arbitration treaties made with a view to its use in all international controversies, in order to maintain peace and to avoid war. But we should be blind to existing conditions and should allow ourselves to become foolish idealists if we did not realize that, with all the nations of the world armed and prepared for war, we must be ourselves in a similar condition in order to prevent other nations from taking advantage of us and of our inability to defend our interests and assert our rights with a strong hand.

Protection For Our Citizens Abroad.

The policy of the United States in the Spanish war and since has given it a position of influence among the nations that it never had before and should be constantly exerted to securing to its bona fide citizens, whether native or naturalized, respect for them as such in foreign countries. We should make every effort to prevent humiliating and degrading prohibition against any of our citizens wishing temporarily to sojourn in foreign countries because of race or religion.

The Japanese Question.

The admission of Asiatic immigrants who cannot be amalgamated with our population has been made the subject either of prohibitory clauses in our treaties and statutes or of strict administrative regulation secured by diplomatic negotiations. I sincerely hope that we may continue to minimize the evils likely to arise from such immigration without unnecessary friction and by mutual concessions between self respecting governments. Meantime we must take every precaution to prevent or, failing that, to punish outbursts of race feeling among our people against foreigners of whatever nationality who have by our grant a treaty right to pursue lawful business here and to be protected against lawless assault or injury.

Monetary Laws Need Change.

One of the reforms to be carried out during the incoming administration is a change of our monetary and banking laws so as to secure greater elasticity in the forms of currency available for trade and to prevent the limitations of law from operating to increase the embarrassments of a financial panic. The monetary commission lately appointed is giving full consideration to existing conditions and to all proposed remedies and will doubtless suggest one that will meet the requirements of business and of public interest.

Favors Postal Savings Banks.

The incoming congress should promptly fulfill the promise of the Republican platform and pass a proper postal savings bank bill. It will not be unwise or excessive paternalism. The promise to repay by the government will furnish an inducement to savings deposits which private enterprise cannot supply and at such a low rate of interest as not to withdraw custom from existing banks.

Ship Subsidies Advocated.

I sincerely hope that the incoming congress will be alive, as it should be, to the importance of our foreign trade and of encouraging it in every way feasible. The possibility of increasing this trade in the orient, in the Philippines and in South America is known to every one who has given the matter attention. The direct effect of free trade between this country and the Philippines will be marked upon our sale of cottons, agricultural machinery and other manufactures. The necessity of the establishment of direct lines of steamers between North and South America has been brought to the attention of congress by my predecessor and by Mr. Root before and after his noteworthy visit to that continent, and I sincerely hope that congress may be induced to see the wisdom of a tentative effort to establish such lines by the use of mail subsidies.

Lock Canal Plan Defended.

The Panama canal will have a most important bearing upon the trade between the eastern and the far western sections of our country and will greatly increase the facilities for transportation between the eastern and the western seaboard and may possibly revolutionize the transcontinental rates with respect to bulky merchandise. It will also have a most beneficial effect to increase the trade between the eastern seaboard of the United States and the western coast of South America and indeed with some of the important ports of the east coast of South America reached by rail from the west coast. The work on the canal is making most satisfactory progress. The type of the canal as a lock canal was fixed by congress after a full consideration of the conflicting reports of the majority and minority of the consulting board and after the recommendation of the war department and the executive upon those reports. Recent suggestion that something had occurred on the isthmus to make the lock type of the canal less feasible than it was supposed to be when the reports were made and the policy determined on led to a visit to the isthmus of a board of competent engineers to examine the Gatun dam and locks which are the key of the lock type. The report of that board shows that nothing has occurred in the nature of newly revealed evidence which should change the views once formed in the original discussion.

Free Trade With Philippines.

The governments of our dependencies in Porto Rico and the Philippines are progressing as favorably as could be desired. The prosperity of Porto Rico continues unabated. The business conditions in the Philippines are not all that we could wish them to be, but with the passage of the new tariff bill permitting free trade between the United States and the archipelago, with such limitations in sugar and tobacco as shall prevent injury to the domestic interests on those products, we can count on an improvement in business conditions in the Philippines and the development of a mutually profitable trade between this country and the islands. Meantime our government in each dependency is upholding the traditions of civil liberty and increasing popular control, which might be expected under American auspices. The work which we are doing there redounds to our credit as a nation.

Words of Friendship For the South.

I look forward with hope to increasing the already good feeling between the south and the other sections of the country. My chief purpose is not to effect a change in the electoral vote of the southern states. That is a secondary consideration. What I look forward to is an increase in the tolerance of political views of all kinds and their advocacy throughout the south and the existence of a respectable political opposition in every state—even more than than this, to an increased feeling on the part of all the people in the south that this government is their government and that its officers in their states are their officers.

The Negro Question.

The consideration of this question cannot, however, be complete and full without reference to the negro race, its progress and its present condition. The thirteenth amendment secured them freedom, the fourteenth amendment due process of law, protection of property and the pursuit of happiness, and the fifteenth amendment attempted to secure the negro against any deprivation of the privilege to vote because he was a negro. The thirteenth and fourteenth amendments have been generally enforced and have secured the objects for which they were intended. While the fifteenth amendment has not been generally observed in the past, it ought to be observed, and the tendency of southern legislation today is toward the enactment of electoral qualifications which shall square with that amendment.

The Appointment of Negroes.

But it may well admit of doubt whether in case of any race an appointment of one of their number to a local office in a community in which the race feeling is so widespread and acute as to interfere with the ease and facility with which the local government business can be done by the appointee is of sufficient benefit by way of encouragement to the race to outweigh the recurrence and increase of race feeling which such an appointment is likely to engender. Therefore the executive in recognizing the negro race by appointments must exercise a careful discretion not thereby to do it more harm than good. On the other hand, we must be careful not to encourage the mere pretense of race feeling manufactured in the interest of individual political ambition.

No Race Feeling In White House.

Personally I have not the slightest race prejudice or feeling, and recognition of its existence only awakens in my heart a deeper sympathy for those who have to bear it or suffer from it, and I question the wisdom of a policy which is likely to increase it. Meantime, if nothing is done to prevent, a better feeling between the negroes and the whites in the south will continue to grow, and more and more of the white people will come to realize that the future of the south is to be much benefited by the industrial and intellectual progress of the negro. The exercise of political franchises by those of his race who are intelligent and well to do will be acquiesced in, and the right to vote will be withheld only from the ignorant and irresponsible of both races.

The Labor Question.

There is one other matter to which I shall refer. It was made the subject of great controversy during the election and calls for at least a passing reference now.

I wish to say that, in so far as I can, I hope to promote the enactment of further legislation of this character. I am strongly convinced that the government should make itself as responsible to employees injured in its employ as an interstate railway corporation is made responsible by federal law to its employees, and I shall be glad, whenever any additional reasonable safety device can be invented to reduce the loss of life and limb among railway employees, to urge congress to require its adoption by interstate railways.

Use of Injunctions Necessary.

Another labor question has arisen which has awakened the most excited discussion. That is in respect to the power of the federal courts to issue injunctions in industrial disputes. As to that, my convictions are fixed. Take away from courts, if it could be taken away, the power to issue injunctions in labor disputes, and it would create a privileged class among the laborers and save the lawless among their number from a most needful remedy available to all men for the protection of their business against lawless invasion. The proposition that business is not a property or pecuniary right which can be protected by equitable injunction is utterly without foundation in precedent or reason. The proposition is usually linked with one to make the secondary boycott lawful. Such a proposition is at variance with the American instinct and will find no support, in my judgment, when submitted to the American people.

Admirers of Roosevelt

London, March 4.—The London morning papers pay tributes to Mr. Roosevelt of the most enthusiastic character. They rank him in the great line with Washington, Lincoln and Grant, as the most fascinating personality in the two hemispheres, only rivalled in that respect by the emperor of Germany.

Congratulations to "Josh Whitcomb"

Concord, N. H., March 4.—Congratulatory resolutions addressed to Denman Thompson, the veteran actor, who recently recovered from a serious illness, were passed by the Cheshire and Sullivan county delegation of the legislature.

The Baker Yacht basin company on Town River is preparing for a busy season. The basin is now full of craft of every description, but it will not be long before these will leave. In a few weeks the basin will be a busy place.

Several boys from Boston College visited the Fore River this week to get some points on the turbines. A prize of fifty dollars is offered at the college for the best essay on this new type of engine and the boys got some valuable data.

Manuel Perry Jr., one of the two men sent to Japan by the Fore River Company to superintend the installing of the Quincy built turbines in Japanese battleships, writes that everything is running smoothly. Mr. Perry says Japan is a great country.

TIME TO ACT.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit by Quincy People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches, and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Quincy prove the effectiveness of the great kidney remedy.

H. A. Vinton, living at 558 Washington street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of kidney trouble which had been in my system for at least ten years. Before using this remedy I had severe pains in my back and loins, and they seemed to be of a rheumatic nature, I consulted a doctor and tried many remedies but received only temporary relief. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, and began their use. They quickly banished the pains in my back and my health is better today than for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WEYMOUTH.

Delphi lodge No. 15 Knights of Pythias celebrated its 39th anniversary and the 45th anniversary of the order with an entertainment, supper and dance at Pythian hall Thursday evening which was attended by several hundred of the members and friends of the lodge. Supper was served at seven o'clock by a Boston caterer, which was followed by an entertainment by the Imperial saxophone quartet George W. Kimball, James H. Kimball, James M. Kimball and George W. Stetson with James H. Kimball, monologist, William J. Maloney xylophone soloist and the Wessagussett minstrels assisted by Ralph D. Laurie in a black face sketch under the direction of Charles E. Leavitt.

Dancing followed until midnight. White's orchestra furnished the music. The committee in charge was Irving R. Nightingale, chairman, A. W. Davis, secretary, Jacob Dexheimer, Jr., treasurer, F. E. Hyland, R. B. Worster, B. F. Johnson, Francis M. Drown, George Horte, C. J. Newcomb and E. A. Smith.

A horse driven by James Fraser and attached to one of J. F. Sheppard & Sons, coal wagon ran away Wednesday forenoon, throwing Frasie out. He landed against a post and received a bad shaking up but no bones were broken. He was attended by Dr. N. V. Mullen and taken to his home in East Braintree. In some manner the horse slipped his bridle and this caused him to run.

The monthly supper of the Social club of the Union Conregational church of Weymouth and East Braintree was held at the banquet room Wednesday evening and was very largely attended. After the supper Edwin W. Hunt gave an organ recital which was followed by "An Evening with Yaucob Straurs" by Charles Foller Adams.

LIVELY FIRE ON CHESTNUT STREET

Rear Room of Tailor Shop Badly Gutted

The alarm from Box 26 at 8.30 Thursday evening called the department to a lively blaze in the tailor shop of Philip Winecor at 10 Chestnut street. The fire started from some unknown cause in the rear part of the building and was burning briskly when discovered.

The central station combination laid a line of hose from the hydrant near the Welch block and a chemical stream was taken to the building from the combination truck stationed on Chestnut street.

It was not necessary however to use much water the chemical stream doing the job.

In the rear room where the fire started there were a number of suits of clothing which were ruined as this room was quite badly gutted.

The loss on building and contents will amount to $200 or $300. District Chief Packard was in charge of the fire.

GEORGE E. HATCH.

George E. Hatch, who died at Somerville on Wednesday, formerly lived in Quincy, being a resident here for some fourteen years. Mrs. Hatch died a year and a half ago, and Mr. Hatch has since resided with his son in Somerville. Mr. Hatch recently secured a valuable patent on a storage battery power for automobiles. Funeral services were held this afternoon at two o'clock at the home of his son, Charles Hatch, 78 Park street, Somerville, Rev. Dr. Hardy of Bethany church, officiating.

QUINCY ATHLETES BADLY DEFEATED

Brockton Boys Gapture Everything In Sight

Quincy and Brockton met Thursday evening in the local Y. M. C. A. gym for the second half of their annual dual track meet. At the first meeting of these teams Brockton won by a score of 23 to 13, and again Thursday night they were victorious winning 30 to 6. This gives them the victory in the meet by a total score of 53 to 19.

In the meet Thursday night the events contested were the 15 yard dash, high jump, rope climb, three broad jumps and potato race.

Brockton took first place in every event but the potato race, Griffin winning this event. They also took four seconds and two thirds. Quincy got one first, one second and three thirds.

As the potato race did not count in the score Quincy's win in this event went for naught.

All the events, though closely contested, were easy for Brockton, except the potato race and the rope climb. In the latter event three men were tied for first place and the climb was tried over. Boyd of Brockton was the only one to equal his former time and so won the event. The summary of the events and winners follow:

15 yard dash—Won by Crowell (B), Collins (B) second, Newall (Q) third. No time taken.

High jump—Won by Emerson (B), Olsen (B) second, Hull (Q) third. Height 5 feet, 2 inches.

Rope climb—Won by Boyd (B), Merritt (Q) second, Norris (B) third. Time 6 1-5 seconds.

Three broad jumps—Won by Chanion (B), Collins (B) second, Buckley (Q) third. Distance 30 feet, 10 inches.

Potato race—Won by Griffin (Q), Jacobson (B) second, Gardner (B) third. Time 35 1-5 seconds.

Following is the summary by points:

	BROCKTON	QUINCY
15 yd dash	8	1
High jump	8	1
Rope Climb	6	3
Three broads	8	1
Total	30	6

AS IN PREVIOUS YEARS

Woman Suffrage Gets a Black Eye From Massachusetts Solons

Boston, March 5.—The attempt to equalize the privileges of suffrage between men and women met its annual defeat at the state house when the committee on constitutional amendments voted "leave to withdraw" on a petition for woman's suffrage.

The agitation in favor of the granting of the petition this year resulted in a turbulent scene at the state house, in which two noted English suffragettes sought to have the Massachusetts women emulate their English sisters by more forceful actions in the movement for "their rights."

STEPHENSON RE-ELECTED

Long Deadlock Over Senator From Wisconsin Is Ended

Madison, Wis., March 5.—United States Senator Isaac Stephenson was elected to the United States senate by the joint assembly of the Wisconsin legislature on the twenty-third ballot, having received 63 out of 123 votes cast.

Although Stephenson was the successful candidate at the primary election his opponents fought against his election by the legislature because of the filing of specific charges alleging corruption during the primary campaign.

Purdy Leaves the Bench

St. Paul, March 5.—Judge Milton D. Purdy of the United States district court gave up his seat on the bench Thursday, holding that his appointment received from President Roosevelt has ended. This appointment was not confirmed by the senate, owing to opposition from Senator Nelson.

Financier a Suicide

New York, March 5.—Made despondent by ill-health and the collapse of a number of financial and industrial undertakings which he launched, Frank C. Hollins, aged 60, a financier and company promoter of note, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas.

Receiver For Coal Company

Chicago, March 5.—The Deering Coal company of Delaware, a $5,000,000 corporation operating mines in Indiana and Illinois, was placed in the hands of a receiver by Judge Kohlsaat in the United States circuit court.

SNAP SHOTS OF WASHINGTON

John Evans Writes of Gay Scenes at Capital.

To the Editors of the Quincy Ledger
Washington, D. C.
March 2, 1909.

Dear Editors.—According to my promises to the readers of the Ledge. I will give you a little account of my visit to the inauguration of our future president.

We arrived here yesterday at 1.30

JOHN EVANS.

P. M. Since that time I have been busy looking at the sights, decorations, etc.

Washington is as dizzy as a June bug with the intensity of its expectations, in fact it is intoxicated with the idea of the approaching inauguration.

The great Dementia Americana has hit it between the eyes, and it is staggering up and down Pennsylvania avenue in an abandon of open mouthed anticipation.

The crowds, growing greater every few minutes moved faster and faster through the portals of the new Union station until by night fall it was almost impossible to push through the crowd along the avenue.

Never before have the decorations been on so grand a scale. All along Pennsylvania avenue there are millions of electric lights strung from one side of the avenue to the other. Nearly every window, and every other available space to witness the great parade has been purchased. The price averages from $3 to $10 per seat.. I have heard of some as high as $600,000 and more. John Hays Hammond the millionaire mining engineer paid $600. for a window and Gov. Draper $1,000.00 for a room. What bothers us mostly here now is the weather; it looks today rather cloudy and the people that remember Grant's inauguration are shuddering because it was so cold that day that hundreds of people contracted pneumonia, also when Garfield was installed there was an army of workmen clearing the slush in the morning. I will tell you more about my visit, also some of my impressions of the great day later on.

Very truly,
John Evans.

—Goldwin Smith, writing to the Cornell Era, expresses views regarding college athletics which are finding increasing support among serious-minded alumni of many colleges. "Let us have," he says, "games by all means, but games which exercise, not exhaust, and in which all alike can take part." But the gladiatorial spirit will not so easily be quenched in the undergraduates who delight to take their exercise along the sidelines.

PARTY NAMES TO REMAIN ON BALLOT

House Accepts Adverse Report On Mayor's Bill

The House, Thursday afternoon, without debate, upon the first call of the calendar, accepted the report of the committee on cities leave to withdraw on the petition of Mayor Shea for legislation to authorize the city of Quincy to erect and equip on the premises of the city hospital of Quincy an isolation ward for persons suffering from diseases dangerous to the public health. The report must go to the Senate for concurrence in the acceptance, but, as no contest was made against it in the House, it is evident that the petitioner does not intend to contest the report in the Senate.

The House also accepted without debate, and on the first call of the calendar the adverse report of the committee on election laws on the petition of the Mayor for a law for eliminating all reference to political party designations from the ballots used at municipal caucuses and elections in the city of Quincy.

The fact that this report was unanimous and was accepted without debate was regarded by some of the representatives, after the thing was done, as one of the most important actions of the day, for they think it shows that the fight for removal of party designations has been given up this year. There is a similar matter pending in the form of a general proposition, not limited to Quincy alone. If it should pass, then the city will come in, but the chances seem to be against it.

MUSIC HALL.

Saturday afternoon a big matinee of entire new moving pictures and specialties will take place at Quincy Music Hall.

Harry LaMarr the man who can make everybody laugh, has been especially engaged for Saturday afternoon and night and Music hall should be packed to the doors.

Billie Chase just off the Keith circuit will entertain the children and make them go home and talk of him for many days.

Two full hours of wholesome refined clean entertainment will be given and mothers need not worry about sending their little ones to Music hall alone for they will be as safe from harm as at their homes.

BIG MEETING FOR BOYS.

A rare treat is to be offered the boys of Quincy Saturday morning at nine o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. a large meeting is expected. A picture is to taken of the boys in the hall. The subject for the morning is "Boy Wanted." There is to be special music also.

ATLANTIC BOYS PRESENT PLAY

"Not In The Regular Army" A Great Success

The 2nd Mass. Signal Corps attached to the Mass. H. O. V. B. B. A. stationed at Atlantic and composed of sixteen young men of the city gave their first annual play and dance in Atlantic Music hall, Tuesday evening.

To say that it was a success is putting it very mildly for it was more than a success. It is estimated that there were over four hundred people in attendance.

The play given was entitled "Not In the Regular Army" and was presented with the following cast: Mr. Johnny Shick a trimmer, C. W. Stocker, "Meester" Isaac Graftinski, George Breasole. Hans Schmidt, J. K. Lander. Mike Mullaly, Clarence Pendleton. Percival Harold, Reginold Archobold Clarence DeWolf Hopper Montmorency, Laurence French. Joshua Green, (a rube) Winthrop Safford. Samuel Johnson, (whose skin is decidedly dark) Harold Bolster. Weary Walker, (a tramp) John Smith. Indian Ryder Gay, Policeman No. 9999, Paul Raiche.

During the evening the following songs were rendered, "The party that wrote "Home Sweet Home" never was a married man," by C. W. Stocker assisted by J. K. Landers and Clarence Pendelton and "If yo ufind you can't be happy, be as happy as you can," by Mr. Smith assisted by entire cast. The songs were well sung and scored a good amount of applause.

The entire play was well acted and all deserve much credit especially Lieut. C. W. Stocker who coached the show and worked long and earnestly for its success. Messrs. Landers and Pendleton also made a decided hit in their Dutch and Irish characters as did Mr. Bolster in his "darky." Mr. T. W. Lloyd the accompanist's overture "The Lion Hunt" was finely rendered and received much applause.

Merrill's orchestra furnished music for dancing which was enjoyed from 9.30 until almost midnight. Capt. F. M. Chubbuck had charge of the floor assisted by Lieut. C. W. Stocker and the entire corps. The proceeds of this entertainment are to go towards purchasing their new khaki-uniforms.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY.

A party of friends called at the home of Mrs. A. Mischler, 207 Whitwell street Thursday evening to celebrate her birthday anniversary.

During the evening piano selections were rendered by Misses K. Coffey and Gretchen Mischler, vocal solos by Miss L. Coffey and George Costello assisted by Frank Kelley on the piano. After lunch was served J. Coffey gave a speech in Jewish dialect. The evening was enjoyed by all and Mrs. Mischler was the recepient of many gifts.

There is only one "Bromo Quinine." That is LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE. Look for the signature of E. W. GROVE. Used the World over to Cure a Cold in One Day. 25c.

MUSIC, READINGS AND ADDRESS

Varied Program Rendered At Wollaston M. E. Church

At the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening an entertainment of most excellent quality was enjoyed by an audience that filled the church. The program was novel to the extent that it embraced music, elocution, and an instructive address, all combined, furnishing two hours of real pleasure.

The numbers by the Boston University Male Quartet were well rendered and fully sustained the high reputation won by this organization.

The reader, Mrs. Maud McLean Ferguson (a graduate of Northwestern University school of Oratory) won her audience at the outset. She most skilfully portrayed Ralph Connor's "The Canyon Flower" from "The Sky Pilot," bringing out pathos and teachings of the story so vividly as to make her hearers almost eye witnesses. Her second selection and encores were well chosen, and Wollaston is indeed fortunate in having in its midst an elocutionist of such pleasing personality and apparent ability.

The address on "The Appreciation of Music," by Prof. John Patton Marshall, of Boston University, was the feature of the evening.

His divisions and classifications of the different forms of music were instructive, and his assertion that the character of a nation was indicated by the music of its people, was amply proven by the English, Russian, German, Irish and Spanish folksongs as rendered by him on the piano.

His plea for a better appreciation of music and a more careful study of its history, particularly among the young in our schools, was based on the ground that such methods would best develop the ennobling influences of good music.

The address was greatly appreciated by all present.

Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt, if you please.

A prosperous administration to his excellency President Taft.

There is no doubt as to the month, it is Marchy all right and it cannot march too soon.

The lock canal shall be vindicated, even if it swells the Ananias Club to four times its present status, presumably.

Margaret Illington says she soon discovered her marriage was a mistake. Wouldn't Mr. Frohman wear darned socks?

There is glorious opportunity for some millionaire to distinguish himself by buying the Big Stick for the National Museum.

A woman's right leader has challenged a member of the Russian duma to a duel. Hatpins and ice cream sodas for two?

It is reported that four thousand men have joined the Mine Workers' Union in Pennsylvania in the last week prognosticators are predicting a strike. But there are only twenty-two thousand members of the Union now, whereas there were thirty-nine thousand in 1901. Every effort is being made to get the men into the Union, but a good many of them are reported to be too well satisfied with the present situation and are without enthusiasm for improvement.

It appears that a Carribean Republic, embracing Cuba, Porto Rico, Santo Domingo and Hayti is a possibility of the future. At the time of the close of the war in Cuba suggestions were mooted for the formation of a West Indian Republic, including these islands with Mexico as the piece de resistance. Mexico, by virtue of her proximity to the United States and through the benign and tonic despotism of Diaz, has been for a quarter of a century a stable government and would probably exercise a salutary influence over the turbulent islands to the south of us.

Only a few days ago the Ex-President Roosevelt hastily appointed a commission to make a report looking to the reorganization of the Navy Department, but this like many other of Rooseveltian policies will have to be bequeathed to the man who is expected to carry out the Rooseveltian ideals. The report has been handed in and it looks well. The plan appears to be to make the Secretary the real head of the Navy Department, equal to the First Lord of the Admirally as it is in the British establishment. The plan further looks to the distribution of the work of the Department among five divisions, three controlled by officers of the Navy, one by the First Assistant Secretary and a fifth by an expert technologist. The effect of the plan would be to establish in the Navy a "general staff" similar to that now working so effectively in the Army.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The agitation for changing the date of inauguration from March 4th to April 30th seems to have been abandoned, and it is hardly likely again to be so seriously urged as it was in the early part of Mr. Roosevelt's Administration. It could have then been done with more than ordinary propriety, because such an extension would not have made his a longer term of office than that of some of its predecessors, thus avoiding a slightly sentimental objection to extending the term of a man whose work begins squarely March 4th. The trouble with the proposed change is that, aside from climatic conditions, it is decidedly in the wrong direction. The period between election and inauguration is already too long. It is one of relative irresponsibility in government. A much better arrangement would be to have the popular election in November and inauguration January 1st, with a Congress regularly meeting when the Administration is fresh, but having no session after its successor had been chosen. These changes are not likely to be made, however, since the Constitution of the United States is amended only with the very greatest difficulty.—Boston Transcript.

However strong may be the fascination of a new President this time the deaprture of the old will hold the attention of the country at least for a few hours. Mr. Roosevelt has occupied such a large place in public life since he organized the Rough Riders for service in the Spanish War that his retirement into private life will be regarded throughout the world as an important event. No figure of such size and popular interest has arisen in the United States since the death of President Lincoln. The picturesque sides of Mrs. Roosevelt—his eagerness to fight for what he regards as the right, his interest and skill in out-door sport, his versatility—have made him a personality which his country and much of the rest of the civilized world have never tired of discussing. Often the discussion has been conducted in a hostile spirit, but it has never ceased. The possibilities in the man for love and hate seem almost exhaustless.

The great body of the American public will take his farewell as the usually impassive newspaper men took it when he called them in for a final word. They were deeply affected, the despatches say: Mr. Roosevelt has been a very good or a very bad President, according to your point of view, or, rather, according to your insistence upon the spirit or the letter of things, but he is a man of intensely fascinating qualities, and there are millions who are strongly drawn toward him and wish him a long life of strenuous work and play.—Providence Bulletin.

FINDS CHILD'S BODY.

Quincy Diver Performs Quite a Feat at Nashua, N. H.

It is noted in a Nashua, N. H., exchange, that David Curney of 6 Sumner street, the well-known Quincy diver, performed quite a feat in Nashua last Saturday, when after five hours' search, he found the body of 15 year old Charles J. Beaulier who was drowned in the Nashua Manufacturing Company's canal a week before.

Diver Curney went down at 1.15 and covered every inch of the ground from the point where the boy went down to where he was eventually found, a distance of 800 feet.

On account of the ice in the river it was hard to see, so the diver took two weights ,attached them to a rope the width of the canal and dropped one weight on each side of the river.

By means of this novel scheme he was enabled to crawl directly across the river and cover every inch.

Moving the rope down the river at intervals he covered the whole ground At 5.30 Mr. Curney was about to give up the job for the day, when he found the boy, whose arms were clasped about a stone post.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Mothers' Association held their March meeting in Bethany chapel Wednesday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. W. H. Doble; the vice-president, Mrs. V. E. Miller presided. In a few well chosen words Mrs. Miller spoke of the untiring efforts of the president to make the meetings interesting and helpful, and of her constant attendance. This being the first meeting that she has been absent for two years.

After the routine of business Mrs. E. N. Hardy conducted the devotional exercises in her usual pleasing manner. She took as her subject, "Coworkers," and gave many helpful thoughts. Mrs. George H. Ryder sang two songs in an acceptable manner.

The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to articles taken from American Motherhood, that the members of the Association might become better acquainted with the magazine. This was in charge of Mrs. Albert Hayden who spoke of the merits of the magazine and also read two poem entitled, "When I Get into Bed," and "The Dirty Hand." Mrs. Arthur Fitts read an article on "Family Government." Mrs. Beattie, "The Value of Story Telling," and the story "How Jack Became a Soldier;" Mrs. Badger, "Troubles of a Little brown Acorn." The articles were all helpful and instructive.

Mrs. Frank Crane served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Badger and Mrs. Hunt.

WIFE SET DOGS ON HIM

One of the Charges In Rube Waddell's Suit For Divorce

St. Louis, March 5.—A petition for divorce was filed here by George E. Waddell, the baseball pitcher. The document charges that Mrs. Waddell showed "a violent and ungovernable temper" at various times, and also "that on one occasion, when plaintiff threatened to leave defendant on account of her association with persons distasteful to plaintiff, while they were residing in the city of Lynn, Mass., defendant caused plaintiff to be attacked by a pair of vicious dogs and seriously wounded and lacerated."

Waddell is a member of the St. Louis American league ball team. Mrs. Waddell, the petition states, resides in New Hampshire.

Two Fast Lightweights Expected to Put Up Great Fight In New York

New York, March 5.—Two coming stars in the pugilistic heavens will meet tonight, and the resulting collision will afford great sport for the fight fans. They are Mickey Gannon, the lightweight champion of Pennsylvania, and "Cyclone Johnny" Thompson of Chicago. They will fight ten rounds.

Both men are anxious to fight Battling Nelson for the lightweight championship, and it is likely that the winner of tonight's go ,will be matched with the scrappy Dane. It is asserted that Nelson, who writes so interestingly about his career in the articles now being published all the country, may get the jolt of his life when he meets Gannon or Thompson.

Upper Branch of New Congress Meets Today to Confirm

HOUSE ASSEMBLES ON 15th

Stirring Incidents Utterly Lacking When Representatives Adjourned—Appropriations of Roosevelt Administration Considerably Over a Billion Dollars—Minority Leader Fails to Present Usual Resolutions

Washington, March 5.—The Sixtieth congress came to an end at noon Thursday and the Sixty-First began so imperceptibly that the change was scarcely noticeable.

The final act, though unofficial insofar as the house was concerned, took place in the senate chamber, when both houses witnessed the incoming of the new administration.

The senate met at noon today to consider President Taft's nominations, but the house will not convene again until the beginning of the extra session of congress to be called for the 15th instant.

Immediately after adjournment of the Sixtieth congress the proclamation of the president calling the senate in extraordinary session to consider presidential appointments was read at the direction of Vice President Sherman.

Utterly lacking in all the stirring incidents usually marking the close of a congress, the house at 11:59½ o'clock was declared by Speaker Cannon to be adjourned without day. Having reconvened at 10 o'clock in the morning, the two hours were spent in clearing up conference reports and passing a few unimportant billls.

During the session Chairman Tawney of the appropriations committee in the house declared that the expenditures of the government have at no time except in war increased as rapidly as during the past eight years, primarily caused by popular and executive demands upon congress for appropriations for the exercise of rights and functions belonging exclusively to the states and the abnormal and unnecessary war expenditures in time of peace.

Appropriations during the past eight years, including the fiscal year 1910, he said, were equal to $7,007,839,183, and he declared that at the end of the present fiscal year there will be a deficit of $150,000,000. He severely criticized the executive branch for submitting estimates of expenditures far in excess of estimates of receipts. He placed the appropriations of the expiring administration at $1,044,014,298.

Mr. Livingston (Ga.), the ranking minority leader of the committee, characterized the appropriations as stupendous, saying they exceeded last session by $35,615,754 and greater than at any two sessions prior to 1898. He declared congress should be commended for the millions it refused to appropriate "notwithstanding the pressure brought to bear by the executive and the badgering of innumerable interests on all sides, clamoring to get their hands into the treasury."

Senator Culberson submitted a statement covering the past seven years, stating that the increase of appropriations for 1910 show an increase over those of 1903 of over $328,000,000, or about 51 percent, and that the treasury's estimated expenditures for 1910 exceed 1902 by over $375,000,000, an increase of 63 percent in eight years.

Owing to the failure of the minority leader, Mr. Clark, to present the usual resolutions as to the retiring speaker, Mr. Payne, the majority leader, presented them, and Cannon in reply alluded to Clark's attitude without mentioning it specifically and said:

"After all is said and done in the affairs of parties of men, what is needed in the public servie is virile men; men who favor policies that they believe in and have the courage of their convictions. Whether it be the majority or the minority, and a minority virile and patriotic is as necessary as a majority in a government of the people, strong men in public life as well as in private life strike above the belt and tell the truth.

"As one member of this house, and under the tongue of good report and evil report, I have performed my duty as a representative and speaker to the best of my judgment without regard to personal consequences.

"I wish you health and prosperity individually. Some of you are not members of the incoming congress. You join the great body of citizenship in private life; you will perform your duties there as well, no doubt. You may return again. I can look in the faces of many of you who depart from public life, on both sides of the house, with sorrow and not joy at your departure. May peace, health and prosperity attend your footsteps."

The speaker's remarks brought general applause.

Local Option In Washington

Olympia, Wash., March 5.—With only two votes against it, the local option measure passed the house. The bill now goes to the senate.

DRAMATIS PERSONAE.

Rev. Illesly Allen. Winston Chenowith.
Mrs. Allen. Helen Chenowith.
Ida Allen. George Peterway.

Scene: An ocean liner about to leave her pier at New York.

Peterway—By Jove, there's a pretty girl! I wonder if she's going over. If she does I must make her acquaintance. But how troubled she looks! Something has gone wrong. Wonder if I can help her. (Approaches Miss Chenowith.) Beg pardon; I see you are distressed. May I assist you?

Miss Chenowith—My father is ashore. He has the tickets and all the money.

Peterway—That elderly gentleman I saw speaking with you awhile ago? I'll go and find him. Don't worry. Stay right here.

Miss Chenowith—Do hurry! They're going to take down the gangway.

(Peterway hurries ashore and finds Rev. Mr. Allen disputing with a cabman.) Beg pardon, sir; your daughter is distressed, fearing she'll be taken off without you. She says you have the tickets and the money. Hurry.

Mr. Allen—Bless me! That's strange. I gave her the tickets, or her mother. (Dashes up the gangway. Peterway follows, but loses sight of him. Peterway regains Miss Chenowith.)

Peterway—Have you seen him?

Miss Chenowith—No.

Peterway—Why, I told him of your trouble, and he ran up the gangway so fast that I lost him. There he goes now. I'll catch him. (Runs after the Rev. Mr. Allen and catches him.) Where are you going? Your daughter is on the other side of the ship near the main gangway. Hurry up.

Allen—Other side? All right. (Darts away.)

Ida Allen (to Peterway)—Where has he gone?

Peterway—Who?

Ida Allen—My father.

Peterway—He's gone to find your sister.

Ida Allen—My sister! I have no sister.

Mrs. Allen—Will you please tell my husband to go ashore at once? He'll be carried off.

Peterway—Carried off! Why, I thought he was going over. I've just brought him aboard.

Ida Allen—You brought him aboard! What did you do that for?

Peterway—Why, your sister, or the young lady I supposed was your sister, said he was on the dock with the tickets and the money, and the ship is about to move out.

Mrs. Allen—Sir, you have blundered. Go after him and tell him to go ashore at once.

Ida Allen—If papa is carried off we shall be ruined. There's no one to take his place at the church, and the congregation will be furious, thinking it a ruse to get a vacation.

Peterway—My dear young lady, I have been trying to serve some one and have got everything into a snarl. The man I wanted to bring aboard is doubtless still ashore, and the man who should be ashore is aboard. I'll tell your father to go ashore at once.

Mrs. Allen—Great heaven, the ship's moving!

Peterway (rejoining Miss Chenowith)—Has your father come?

Miss Chenowith—No. For heaven's sake, where is he?

Peterway—Is he the clerical looking man I saw talking to you?

Miss Chenowith—No. That's my pastor.

Peterway—Confound it, I've made a blunder!

Miss Chenowith—But father—where can he be?

Mr. Allen (coming up)—Where are my wife and daughter? I haven't the tickets. They must be lost.

Peterway—Go ashore, quick! It's all right—I mean it's all wrong. I've blundered. (Mr. Allen bolts for the gangway and is seized by the coattail by his wife.)

Allen—I've been hunting you everywhere. Haven't you the tickets?

Mrs. Allen—Of course. Do go ashore!

Mr. Allen—Well, let go of me. I'm trying to go. (Dashes away.)

Miss Chenowith (looking toward the dock)—Father! Father! (Mr. Chenowith is making frantic gestures from the dock.) What shall I do?

Peterway—Is that your father?

Miss Chenowith—Of course it is, stupid! Who do you suppose it is? He is trying to jump aboard. Oh, dear! Why do they hold him? I mean why don't they hold him? He'll be drowned.

Peterway (shouting up to the bridge)—Captain, there's a passenger trying to get aboard! Can't you stop the ship?

Mrs. Allen—And my husband wants to get off. Do stop her! (Captain orders machinery stopped, and vessel drifts near the dock. Mr. Allen gets off. Mr. Chenowith gets on and rushes up to the deck.)

Mr. Chenowith—How in the world did you get aboard without my seeing you?

Miss Chenowith—I didn't—I mean I don't know. I'm ready to faint.

Mrs. Allen (approaching)—It's this gentleman who made all the trouble (pointing to Peterway). He brought my husband from the dock on a fool's errand just as the vessel was casting off.

Peterway—I—I—I'm very sorry. It's all my fault. I'll never interfere to help any one again.

Miss Chenowith—You were very kind and put yourself to a good deal of trouble, for which you have got nothing but blame. However, we will try to make up for the wrong done you. Father, this is Mr.—

Peterway—Peterway is my name—D. F. Peterway.

WANTED TO SELL HEINZE JEWELS

Long Missing Necklace Found In Possession of a Greek

SAYS HE FOUND IT IN GUTTER

Tries to Sell Single Pearl to Omaha Jeweler, Who Notifies Police and Arrest Is Made—Sixty-Three Gems, Comprising the Total Number Lost, Are Recovered From Man's Pocket —Little Dreamed Their Real Worth

Omaha, March 5.—While trying to sell to Albert Edholm, a jeweler here, a necklace which local jewelers say is worth more than $50,000, John D. Schlavinitis, a Greek who for convenience calls himself Savis, was arrested by the Omaha police. The necklace consists of a single string of sixty-three pearls, carefully matched and fastened with a clasp set with a diamond of unusual size.

Savis entered the jewelry store and presented a single pearl which he offerred to sell. Assuring himself of its genuineness, Edholm gave him a valuation of $50 or $60, whereupon the Greek offered to sell him a dozen at $40 each, but said a friend had them.

By a ruse the jeweler succeeded in notifying the police and two detectives were sent to the store, where the man was arrested. In his possession was found a huge revolver, but he made no resistance. At the station house a search revealed the entire necklace in his pocket. It was found that the gem offered for sale was the smallest of the sixty-three.

The police had received from the New York police department the description of the necklace, which was said to have disappeared from the Knickerbocker Hotel in that city Nov. 26 last. This information, however, did not reveal the name of the owner.

Savis says he was employed by the Knickerbocker Hotel for thirteen months, in a position known as sidewalk man. He was sweeping refuse from the walk into the gutter, and as he brushed it over the curb he saw the necklace lying in the gutter with some rubbish. He picked up the string of jewels, held it up to the light and examined it and then put it into his pocket. He says several persons witnessed his action.

After going to his room that night he examined the pearls more closely and discovered a valuable diamond set in the small clasp. He kept the necklace in his trunk after that, little dreaming, he declares, its real worth. He says it is the custom in his country for the finder of valuables to receive one-third of their worth, and he thought the owner would make known his or her loss if the necklace was valuable. Not learning of any loss of valuable pearls, he concluded the find was of comparatively small consequence.

Savis explains having a revolver by saying he was advised to arm himself when he went west. He secured employment through Michael Mandanis, "King of the Greeks" in South Omaha and this city, who is now acting for those Greeks who recently were victims of the South Omaha riot.

Besides the necklace and revolver the police took from Savis a holster, a valuable watch and chain, two purses, a memorandum book, a pronouncing dictionary and $61.55 in money. His English is considered good for a man having been in this country only sixteen months.

Lost by Mrs. Heinze

New York, March 5.—The police here, when notified of the arrest in Omaha of John Savis, said the jewels in the possession of Savis were probably those lost by Mrs. Otto C. Heinze, in or near the Hotel Knickerbocker, on the night of Nov. 26 last. The same opinion prevailed at the Hotel Knickerbocker when the news of the arrest reached there.

DISTURBING RUMORS

Russian and Chinese Troops Said to Have Clashed Near Harbin

St. Petersburg, March 5.—It is rumored in St. Petersburg that there has been a conflict between Russian and Chinese troops near Harbin, but no confirmation is possible.

If the reports are true the trouble probably arose from the situation following the efforts of the railroad authorities at Harbin to control the local administration.

Strikers Return to Work

Madison, Me., March 5.—The strike of 100 Italian workmen at the Hollingsworth & Whitney paper mills was ended Thursday, when the men returned to work according to the rules of the company. The men quit work because on Monday last the company increased the schedule by half an hour a day.

Belgians Are Disappointed

Brussels, March 5.—The rejection by the United States congress of the invitation extended by the Belgian government to participate in the exposition of 1910 at Brussels is considered a serious blow by the organizers of the exposition, for two other powers also also decided not to take part.

INAUGURAL BALL A GRAND AFFAIR

Ten Thousand Persons Crowd Into Pension Building

GUESTS HEARTILY GREETED

Dancing Impossible During Early Evening Because of Great Crush—Bluejackets Share Honors With Soldiers From Cuba In Notable Parade —Grand Display of Fireworks Marks the End of Outdoor Celebration

Washington, March 5.—A scene or rare beauty which quickened every human emotion, the inaugural ball last night was the climax of a day of triumphs for William H. Taft. In the big hall of the pension building mingled fair women, beautifully gowned and from every clime; men whose names are known in every corner of the world, diplomats in court raiment, officers of the army and navy in their showy uniforms, and ordinary American citizens, whose presence testified to the democracy of the affair.

In the gallery which extended about the four sides of the ball room thousands of beautiful American girls looked down upon the scene.

President Taft appeared particularly light hearted and unmindful of serious things. He and Mrs. Taft and Vice President and Mrs. Sherman made their promenade around the great ballroom, where on every side they were flanked by members of the reception committee.

The president had a delightful ten minute reception in his room after his arrival, during which he greeted a number of his personal friends. Both the presidential and vice presidential parties were met at the door of the pension building by the ball reception committee and escorted to their respective rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman arrived shortly before 9 o'clock and President and Mrs. Taft half an hour later. There was a hearty greeting of the distinguished guests by the assemblage whenever they appeared and they were kept busy in acknowledging applause and the salutations of friends.

Music was furnished by the Marine band and by Minister's orchestra. The former varied its promenade selection of "Hail to the Chief" with "The Star Spangled Banner."

The compositions were especially effective and were sweetened and mellowed by the acoustics of the court. Dancing was indulged in as the hours progressed, but this was impossible earlier in the evening because of the dense crowd, which was conservatively estimated at 10,000.

At 10 o'clock the presidential and vice presidential parties went to supper. By this time the hall was so crowded that only a small space at one end could be be cleared for dancing.

With the approach of midnight there was a slightly perceptible diminution in the number of couples on the floor and from this hour on the crush was gradually relieved. With the arrival of 12 o'clock the disciples of Terpischore found better opportunity for dancing and the entire floor was soon filled with a moving mass that presented a brilliancy of color and gayety seldom equalled.

Although a part of the gallery near the president's box had been reserved for the distinguished guests, diplomats and other officials mingled with those on the floor.

President and Mrs. Taft and Vice President and Mrs. Sherman returned from the supper to their box at 11:30 o'clock and the president's party left the pension building shortly before midnight. Vice President and Mrs. Sherman remained for a short time after the president had left.

President Taft was given a cordial reception, and the grace and beauty of the ball made a fitting close to Mr. Taft's day. He did not join in the dancing and gently refused when called upon for a speech.

The Inaugural Parade

The troops and civic bodies composing the notable parade of the afternoon mobilized in snow and slush, which in plaoes was deeper than their legging tops. Down Pennsylvania avenue, walled in by spectators, they found dry footing, but faced a gale which swept directly down the thorcughfare with a velocity undiminished from the morning hours. The snow had ceased, however, and faint streaks of blue were apparent through the banks of gray clouds.

The parade was replete with interest. The 3000 jackies from the recently returned Atlantic fleet shared honors among the military with the Cuban army of pacification just back from the southern islands and appearing in all the paraphernalia of active service in the field. The trim cadets from West Point attracted the usual attention and made a characteristically fine showing.

The midshipmen from Annapolis, snow bound within twenty miles of Washington, shared the fate of thousands of sightseers who were unable to reach the city on account of the storm and demoralized condition of the railroads.

The Philippine constabulary band, which arrived Wednesday from Manila, was given the place of honor in the escort of President oosevelt and Mr. Taft to the Capitol and attracted much attention. The Filipinos saw their first fall of snow.

While the ball was in progress indoors a display of fireworks on the monument lot in the rear of the White House marked the end of the outdoor celebration.

For hours the thinly clouded heavens were alight with screaming rockets, the sun clusters that challenged the brilliancy of day, with finery "cobras" and all the fantastic creations of modern pyrotechnic skill. Aerial rockets, floating festoons, illuminated balloons and scores of other features made the display visible from one end of the capital city to the other.

"GOOD BYE AND GOOD LUCK"

The Only Message to American People From Theodore Roosevelt

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 5.—Citizen Theodore Roosevelt, free from all official cares, rests peacefully today in his own home on Sagamore Hill, three miles from this village, after having gone through one of the busiest weeks in his entire life—the final week of his seven years' administration as President of the United States which came to an end at noon yesterday.

Mr. Roosevelt had no mesage to give the American people after his seven-year term as their chief executive. His last words to all on leaving Washington and since then were "Good bye and good luck."

These expressions he has uttered almost incessantly for a week to friends numbering thousands, but the sincerity with which he said these farewells did not diminish in the least.

To all with whom he talked Mr. Roosevelt declared that while he had a bully time as president, he was glad to lay down the duties of office. He praised his successor and commented upon the latter's inaugural address as "splendid."

PRESS PUBLISHING COMPANY INDICTED

Alleged Libel In Connection With Panama Canal Purchase

New York, March 5.—The federal grand jury here which has been investigating alleged libelous publications in connection with the Panama canal purchase returned indictments against the Press Publishing company, publishers of the New York World, and Caleb Van Hamm, one of the editors of The World. The text of the indictments was not made public.

It is understood the indictments are brought under the federal statute which authorizes the prosecution for an offense committed on federal territory, but not mentioned in the United States revised statutes according to the state laws.

CALDWELL SLOWLY DYING

Proceedings Against Alleged Perjurer Are Again Postponed

New York, March 5.—The extradition proceedings in the case of Robert Caldwell, who is wanted in Great Britain for perjury alleged to have been committed while a witness in the celebrated Druce will case, was again adjourned, this time until July 1, when called before Commissioner Alexander Thursday.

Caldwell, a very old man, has been an inmate of the Manhattan state hospital practically from the time he was placed under arrest. He is slowly dying.

PEACE IN THE BALKANS

It Appears to Be Assured by the Present Attitude of Servia

London, March 5.—Semi-official dispatches from St. Petersburg and Belgrade confirm the statement that Servia's reply to Russia renounces territorial compensation.

It is further declared that Servia does not desire to disturb friendly relations with Austria-Hungary, but is content to leave the settlement in the hands of the signatories of the Berlin treaty.

An Anti-Asiatic Resolution

Sacramento, Cal., March 5.—In lieu of an anti-Japanese statute the senate adopted a resolution calling upon congress to enact an Asiatic exclusion law to keep Japanese as well as Chinese out of the country.

Swimming Record Broken

New York, March 5.—The crowd at the Sportsmen's show last night saw Charles M. Daniels of the New York Athletic club beat his own world's swiming record for 200 yards. The time was 2:15.

New Style of Airships

Berlin, March 5.—Major Parseval has completed a new aeroplane. It is a monoplane driven by a motor and it is arranged to ascend from and land on the surface of the water.

Quincy High closed its basket ball season today with the fast Rock Ridge hall team of Wellesley. A very successful season has been enjoyed by the team. Now for baseball, the boys say.

MRS. KATHERINE E. CORCORAN.

Mrs. Katherine E. Corocran, wife of William Corcoran died Thursday at her home 14 Centre street. She was the daughter of Margaret and the late Michael Meaney, one of West Quincy's oldest residents, and stepmother of William J. Corcoran, ex-Lieutenant on the fire department and now in the railway mail service.

A high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

He: "You know, if you worry about every little thing, it's bound to affect your health."

His Wife: "Yes, I know. That's one of the things I worry about."

WEST QUINCY

The cellar foundation of a house is being built on the Sullivan estate on West street.

Many American flags were flung to the breeze Thursday in honor of the inauguration of President William H. Taft.

Mrs. James Clarke and little daughter Evelyn of Whitman are spending a few days with relatives on Copeland street.

Lenten devotions will be held as usual tonight in St. Mary's church. The stations of the cross will be followed by benediction.

A house on Copeland street near Brewer's corner is being remodeled into a store. John Thompson is the owner of the house.

Mrs. Frederick G. Blake who has been spending the past few weeks with West Quincy friends returned to her home in Lawrence Thursday.

John Schatzel who has been employed for several years as a conductor on the street railway has accepted a position with the Electric Boat Co.

There will be no game in St. Mary's hall tomorrow night. On next Thursday night however there will be a game with some fast five around Boston.

The many friends of Harry Gustafson of Arthur street, a popular West Quincy young man, will be sorry to learn that he is confined to his home by illness.

There are a large number of West Quincy men employed at the Fore River yards and a special car is run to this section from the works for their benefit.

The Copeland club is planning for a baseball team this season. There are some strong players in the club and a fast team will be put on the field.

A new fire alarm box has been located between Boxes 48 and 45. It is Box 431 and is located on Rogers street just off Hall place. It is in a thickly settled locality and was much needed.

William Corcoran of 14 Centre street has the sympathy of his many friends through the loss of his wife, Mrs. Catherine E. Corcoran. Mrs. Corcoran, who had been troubled with blood poison for over two weeks, passed away Thursday morning.

James McLaughlin of 47 Bates avenue, had the thumb of his left hand nearly severed Thursday at the Pneumatic Scales Co., Ltd., factory at Norfolk Downs. Mr. McLaughlin was taken to his home, where Drs. Reardon and Sheahan dressed the wound.

Andrew J. Saville of 400 West street, Braintree, died Wednesday at the home of his sister at 63 Centre street, aged 56 years. Mr. Saville was paying a visit to his sister and only arrived in West Quincy a few days ago. He was well known and highly respected in Braintree.

QUINCY POINT.

The second of two smoke stacks on the power station at the shipyard is being erected. Each of these two stacks is 130 feet in height.

The Neighborly whist club was entertained Thursday evening at the home of William T. Donovan. The scores were high and close, some exciting games being played. After the play a collation was served and a social hour enjoyed.

TAXICAB.

The enterprising stable keepers, S. Penniman & Son, who have been in the business thirty-two years, are meeting the demands of the times. The proprietor, Mr. C. H. Penniman, has bought a new taxicab and handles it skilfully. It is used to convey passengers to and from the station and may be engaged for calling, or by the hour or day. See ad.

—If, as is held by accepted authorities, every employed person represents a value to the country of $1,000 then figuring this capitalized labor at a yearly interest of 6 per cent, and placing the number of unemployed at 6,000,000 the loss to the nation would amount to $560,000,000 ,or more than $1,000,000 for each working day. If the unemployed number more than 10 per cent. of the total number of workers, its loss would be still greater.—Banker and Tradesman.

ATLANTIC

Mrs. Charles Stecher and daughter Constance returned this week from Philadelphia.

Mrs. Henry Kolseth who has been the guest of friends has gone to Baltimore to join her son and daughter.

The indications are that there will be considerable building at Atlantic and Squantum the coming spring.

Chief Engineer Peter J. Williams is confined to his home by illness, and was unable to respond to the alarm from Box 26 Thursday night.

The officers of Division 24, A. O. H., will be installed tonight in Hibernian hall, Franklin street. After the installation there will be an entertainment and refreshments.

Business at the granite cutting plants which has been rather quiet for some months is beginning to pick up a little and should be rushing from now on to Memorial day.

The San Souci Dramatic club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Ernest Robertson, Trafford street, on Thursday evening. After all business was transacted a social hour was enjoyed.

At Doble's hall Thursday evening the Quincy City band held its annual concert and dance. A large attendance was present and as usual a fine time was enjoyed. Refreshments were served during the evening.

A good time is in store for all those who attend the Basket Social, at the First Presbyterian church this evening. The affair is in charge of the social committee of the Y. P. S. C. E., Miss Margaret McIntosh chairman.

The body of Peter Burke, who lost his life at the Grossman fire Sunday morning, was claimed Thursday by his married daughter who resides in Dorchester. The daughter said that she had not seen her father since the death of her mother seven years ago. She will make arrangements for the burial today.

—The March meetings' returns leave even less license localities among the Massachusetts towns than ever. Only 45 of 321 are placed in the "yes" column. The most significant change is the change in Westboro, which extends still further the zone of no-license in Worcester. Greenfield and Montague in Franklin county, large manufacturing towns are next in importance. The net result adds to the restriction on the sale of liquor by change of 13 towns to dry.—Boston Record.

—Farmers in the west say that farm products continue to be high in price because the patented breakfast foods are demanding so much of the grain that the poor cattle and hens have to go hungry or pay fancy prices for what they eat. And so those who thought to find in the ready-to-eat corn-cobs and bran a way to reduce living expenses, are discovering that a saving in one direction means greater expense in another.—Old Colony Memorial.

"Can you tell me," said the seeker after knowledge, "what the hump on that camel's back is for?"

"What's it for?"

"Yes, for what value is it?"

"Well, it's lots of value. The Camel would be no good without it."

"Why not?"

"Why not? Yer don't suppose people 'ud pay sixpence to see a camel without a hump, do yer?"

—Save the broken lens; we can match it. We grind them at 1473 Hancock st., Quincy. You may watch the operation. Williams. Tel. 279-3.

The winners at the Knights of Pythias whist party were Miss Hullingshead, Mrs. Joseph B. Vinal, Miss Wight, James A. Pray, Daniel McCarthy and A. T. Spear.

A large delegation from Rockland Council Knights of Columbus visited Weymouth Council Thursday evening and saw the degree staff of Weymouth Council work the first degree on several candidates. A banquet followed the work.

Mr. F. O Nash a former resident of Weymouth gave an organ recital Monday afternoon at East Weymouth Congregational church under the auspices of the Monday club. The public school teachers of the town were present as guests.

The annual fair of the Fairmount cemetery association closed last evening when the Booth Dramatic club presented the drama "Our Folks" with the following in the cast, Alice M. Nash, Carrie S. Robinson, F. Adelaide McCarthy, Franklin P. Whitten, Joseph W. Blanchard, Harold Hyland, Russell G. Niles and Lyman C. Williams.

Mrs. Jennie Florence Delorey died at her home on Hobart street, East Braintree, Sunday, aged 29. She leaves a husband Harry E. Delorey and five children. They had recently moved from Sumner street, Weymouth to East Braintree. The remains were taken to her father's home 750 Commercial street, East Weymouth where funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon by Rev. George Scrivener of the Methodist church. Interment was at Fairmount cemetery.

—Wild geese flying northward are so numerous in Lehigh and Northampton counties, Penn., that they have eaten all the green blades from the wheat-stalks in many of the fields, and farmers fear their grain will not grow when spring opens.

BASKET BALL AND BOWLING

St. Mary's First Team Defeats Dorchester A. A. Five

Another victory was added to the St. Mary's list Thursday evening, when the Dorchester A. A. five was taken into camp by the score of 32 to 10. The game was too one-sided to be as interesting as some of the other games and the usual enthusiasm was not shown. Excellent teamwork by the home five furnished the feature of the game.

In the first half, the game was fairly close being 12 to 4 at this point. Conley scored these four for Dorchester on two pretty, long-distance shots that brought forth loud applause from the spectators. This Conley, by the way, is the crack Dorchester high all-round athletic and last year he played with a broken finger in splints. He is one of the fastest seen at West Quincy this season.

Robertson the Hyde Park forward appeared in the Dorchester line-up and was stacked up against Mullen of St. Mary's. A battle royal ensued and up to within a few minutes of the end, neither one scored. Robertson got away however at last and scored two baskets. Frank tried his best to score but couldn't seem to land a basket.

Good shots were plenty during the game, Morrill made a couple of long ones, as did Barnstead of Dorchester. "Bill" and "Dan" Duggan were high scorers for the evening each caging the ball five time. Johnny McLaughlin also got a couple of pretty baskets. Conley and Robertson excelled for Dorchester.

The summary:

ST. MARY'S	DORCHESTER A. A.
D. Duggan rf	lb Barnstead
W. Duggan lf	rb Spaulding
McLaughlin c	c Conley
Mullen rb	lf Robertson
Morrill lb	rf Abbott

Score, St. Mary's 32, Dorchester 10. Goals from floor D. Duggan 5, W. Duggan 5, McLaughlin 3, Morrill 3, Barnstead, Conley 2, Robertson 2. Referee Joyce. Scorer Pendis. Timer Fitzgerald. Time 20 m periods. Attendance 200.

In the preliminary contest St. Mary's second defeated the Bolystons of Roxbury 28 to 15, in a game that was full of interest. It was not as rough a game as usual, but the players covered each other closely at all times. Inability to shoot baskets helped Boylston's defeat. Bennett and Duggan excelled for St. Mary's, and Monahan and Murphy for the Boylstons. The summary:

ST. MARY'S 2d	BOYLSTON
Morrill, Bennett, rf	lb, J. Lindberg
Duggan, lf	rb, Monahan
Canavan, c	c, Murphy
Croto, rb	lf, Glavin
Bennett, Collins, lb	rf, C. Lindberg

Score, St. Mary's 2d 28, Boylstons 15. Goals from floor, Morrill 2, Bennett 4, Duggan 5, Canavan 2, Collins, Monahan 3, Murphy, Glavin 2, C. Lindberg. Goals from fouls, Glavin. Referee, Joyce. Scorer, Pendis. Timer, Fitzgeral l. Time, 20m periods. Attendance, 200.

BOWLING.

Quincy and Norfolk Downs met on the alleys for the third time this season Thursday night at the Norfolk Downs alleys, and for the third time Norfolk Downs won. Quincy took one string out of three and lost the match by 79 pins, the total score being 1335 to 1256.

H. Stevens of Norfolk Downs was high roller of the evening, getting 297 for a three string total, and 110 for a high single. Lyons of the Downs team and Wentworth of Quincy were tied for second place with 277, Lyons being second in singles with 100. The summary:

NORFOLK DOWNS

LIGHTBODY GETS FEVER.

Former Chicago Star Plans to Become Professional Marathoner.

James D. Lightbody, the former University of Chicago track star, who won international reputation in the Olympic games held in St. Louis in 1904, in Athens, Greece, in 1906, and in London in 1908, who is now visiting relatives in Berlin, Germany, has written friends in this country that he will return in the summer and start training for Marathon races.

Lightbody evidently has heard of the success that Dorando, the Italian; Longboat, the Indian; Hayes, the American, who won the Marathon race at London last summer, and Corey, who recently turned professional, are having in this country, and he intends to return as soon as possible and try his hand at the professional end of the game.

JAMES LIGHTBODY, WHO IS TO TURN PROFESSIONAL.

The former Chicago star has never run the Marathon distance, but there is little doubt in the minds of those who have seen him in competition that he could easily condition himself for the long grind. Lightbody has a world of endurance, and it was a simple matter for him to run two or three races in an afternoon against a good field.

Since the Olympic games in London last summer Lightbody has been touring Europe competing in various cities and winning his races handily. Those who watched his work in the big games last summer claim that he was clearly out of condition and had not trained faithfully for the games. These statements are borne out by the fact that the fleet footed runner has won the majority of his races since the Olympics and on numerous occasions has competed on successive days.

PENN RELAY CARNIVAL.

Splendid List of Events Arranged For Meet In April.

The Athletic association of the University of Pennsylvania will give its fifteenth annual intercollegiate and interscholastic relay race meeting April 24, open to all colleges and universities of the United States and Canada.

There will be three races to determine the college championship of America. One race will be for a distance of a mile, each man to run a quarter mile. The second race will be four miles, each man to run a mile. The third race will be two miles, each man to run a half mile. The University of Pennsylvania will be found in all three, and it is expected that Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, Chicago, Michigan and Wisconsin will also enter them. There will be, in addition, a number of other races between colleges. The following scratch events will be held, open only to college men, graduate or undergraduate, in which the first prize will be a gold watch: Hundred yard dash, 120 yard hurdle, high jump, broad jump, shot put, hammer throw, discus and pole vault.

BASEBALL POINTERS.

Old Cy Young has blossomed out as a basket ball player. He made one of a basket ball team in a game at Milwaukee recently.

Harvard and Yale certainly made choice selections for coaches for their pitchers in Mathewson and Ed Walsh. There are none better.

Manager McGraw has discovered another "phenom" in the person of A. J. Schoeler, the Leland Stanford shortstop. He will take him to Marlin Springs.

Frank Bowerman chafes at inaction and would scour the country for players. Good engineering at the schedule meeting in Chicago, Feb. 16, will accomplish better results.

Manager Clarke Griffith of Cincinnati may try Mike Mitchell on first base. He has secured Oakes, an outfielder of the Los Angeles club, who will be tried out in right field if Mitchell makes good at first.

Two brothers of Covaleski, the Philadelphia National pitcher who defeated the Giants three times in one week last season, have been signed to play ball with the local Tri-State League club next season. Stanley is a pitcher and Jem a third baseman.

RECEPTION FOR ASSISTANT PASTOR

First Church Parishioners Greet Rev. C. B. Ames.

A reception was given last evening from eight until ten in First Church chapel by the parish for their assistant pastor, Rev. Charles Bulkley Ames. There was a large attendance throughout the evening to greet Mr. Ames, who was assisted in receiving by Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Butler. The following young men of the parish ushered: Alan Arnold, Brewster Walker, Ralph Winslow, Houghton Schumacher, Russell C. Low, and Wallace Carr.

Throughout the reception there was orchestral music by the Edgecomb trio.

At the flower ladened table Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and Mrs. John L. Gow presided over the coffee urns. At small tables Mrs. William B. Nichols and Mrs. Edward B. Marsh served frappe. All the young ladies of the parish assisted and as they mingled among the guests in their white gowns added to the attractiveness of the scene.

All the ministers in the city had been invited and among those present were noticed Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Noah Hardy of Bethany church, Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst of the Wollaston Unitarian church and Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood of the Washington Street Congregational church, Quincy Point. Rev. Paul R. Phalen, a classmate of Mr. Ames, came up from Hingham for the occasion.

Mr. Ames is thoroughly identifying himself with the church and Sunday school, being interested in every department. He has made many friends in the few months he has been here and it was a pleasure to the parish to give the reception that he might become better acquainted socially with the people of the parish.

ONE DAY BELOW ZERO.

Month of February was Exceptionally Warm and there was Much Rain

The weather of February was characterized by continued high temperature, frequent and heavy rains and a marked absence of snow. The month was nearly five degrees warmer than usual, the mean temperature of 29.5 degrees being the highest for February since 1898. The maximum temperature was 56 degrees on the 10th, while the lowest reached was one below zero on the 1st. The temperature rose above freezing on 18 days and fell below zero on one day. The total precipitation of 5.11 inches was 26 per cent greater than the normal amount, and an appreciable quantity fell on days, mostly in the form of rain.

The total snowfall was only five inches and the ground was bare the greater part of the month. The rain of the 14th, 15th and 16th froze as it fell, covering the ground and all outside objects with from one to three inches of ice which remained until the 19th. There was rather more cloudiness than usual and the relative humidity was somewhat higher than normal. The total number of hours of sunshine was three per cent below the average. There was more than the customary amount of wind and the predominating direction was west, and gales occurred on five days. On the 10th the wind rose to 90 miles per hour from the south, which is the highest velocity recorded since Jan. 2, 1893.

INTEREST IN ELIJAH CONCERT.

While it may be a fact, that only those people who have the divine gift of composition themselves, can fully realize the supreme exaltation of spirit which must have dominated Mendelssohn's whole being when he composed his immortal Elijah music, yet no one can listen to its mighty choruses unmoved by any spirit of devotion, or with any other belief than that "The Lord is God," as the whole oratorio proclaims.

In a number of cities where this great religious work has been given, it created at the time so much interest among the local clergy, that on the Sunday preceding the concert, sermons were preached in nearly all the churches from texts founded upon the life of Elijah.

That several of Quincy's best known ministers will preach on a similar text tomorrow, speaks well for our own city, and for the appreciation of the effort which the young choral society is making to present this great work in a creditable manner. To do this, the singers must demonstrate not only the true musicianly spirit, but the devotional as well.

RESOLUTIONS FOR REV. W. J. HEATH

Wollaston M. E. Church Honors Retiring Pastor.

The official Board of the Wollaston M. E. church at the last business meeting of the church year, held Friday evening, adopted unanimously the following resolutions in regard to the pastorate of the Rev. W. J. Heath, who will leave the Wollaston charge at the end of March after six years sservice:

Whereas, the pastorate of the Rev. W. J. Heath in the Wollaston Mehtodist Episcopal Church is drawing to a close and

Whereas he and his family will in all probability take their departure from our midst, be it

Resolved that we the Official Board of the Wollaston M. E. Church in a fitting manner recognize the faithful and efficient service of Rev. M. Heath and testify to the high esteem and regard which we hold toward him and his family and our appreciation of his earnest and able efforts in behalf of the spiritual uplifting of our community, and be it further

Resolved that we extend to Rev. Mr. Heath and family our sincere and hearty wishes that they may enjoy all success and many years of active service in ministering to the needs of the church and be it further

Resolved that these resolutions be placed on our records and a copy of them presented to Rev. Mr. Heath and family.

It is not yet known to which church Mr. Heath will be assigned but it is expected that the conference will appoint him to some church in Boston or vicinity.

PI ETA CLUB.

Noted Amateurs Soon to Present "The Highlier."

The Pi Eta club of Harvard will present as its annual theatricals this spring, a musical comedy entitled "The Highlier." The book and lyrics are by H. B. Sheahan '09 and A. S. Olmsted '09. The music is by A. C. Tilton '10. F. W. Taft '07 is coach.

The plot centres about the search for a kidnapped daughter by her father, a senator from Montana. About twenty years before the story opens the daughter, then a small child, was stolen by Italian street musicians. The first act is laid in the court yard of an old castle belonging to an Italian count. The castle is kept for the Count by the two former street musicians, with whom the kidnapped daughter is living. The Senator comes to Italy with his family in his search for his daughter and rents the old castle from the Count. The second act is laid in the garden adjoining the castle. After various complications the foster child of the Italians is identified as the Senator's lost daughter by means of a locket which she wears.

The play will be presented by a cast of twelve and a chorus of twenty-four. The dress rehearsal will be on April 14. Performances are to be given in Cambridge, Boston, Lowell, Haverhill and Quincy.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS.

The summer school of agriculture established two years ago at Massachusetts Agricultural college in Amherst will be continued in 1909. In fact it is now regarded as a permanent institution, having proved decidedly popular and successful during the last two summers.

The attendance comes from all parts of New England, but most largely from Massachusetts, a surprisingly large proportion being from the cities. School teachers predominate, but a good many land and lot owners go for the sake of the short practical courses in agriculture and horticulture.

The school this year will run for six weeks in July and August, with courses in field crops, gardening, dairying, fruit growing, live stock, chemistry, plant life, bird life, insect life, etc., etc. Some of these courses are specially designed for grade teachers, some for high school teachers, others for practical people who do not teach, others for the clergy, so that everyone who has a week or more to spare can find something useful and interesting to do.

ARGUES IN SUPREME COURT

Says Commutation of Sentence to Life Imprisonment Was Without His Consent and Illegal, Being More Severe Than Death—District Attorney Claims That Only Thing Left Is to Execute Rice's Alleged Slayer

New York, March 6.—Before the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn, Albert T. Patrick, who was sentenced to death for the murder of William M. Rice in September, 1900, argued dramatically for nearly four hours for his liberty.

The principal points of his contention were that his conviction was the result of a "colossal conspiracy" by the justice at his trial and the authorities who prosecuted him and that Governor Higgins had no legal right to commute the sentence of the court to life imprisonment, inasmuch as he had not consented to such commutation.

Decision was reserved by the court and two weeks were allowed the relator in which to file a brief. In the meantime Patrick will be taken back to Sing Sing prison and given all the facilities he needs to prepare his brief.

Assistant District Attorney Taylor, who appeared to oppose Patrick's motion, will file a brief in reply and there will be no further proceedings in open court.

The scene in court while the condemned man pleaded his cause with all the legal agility and fervor of a trained lawyer was sensational. State Detective Jackson, who had brought the prisoner down from Sing Sing, sat beside him at the lawyer's table and Patrick's wife sat just behind him.

Patrick declared that life imprisonment was a more severe sentence than death, and asked the court either to give him his liberty or to send him to the electric chair under the original sentence. He contended, however, that the governor's action in commuting his sentence without his consent had the effect of a pardon, because no other legal power was vested in the state in the case of a man sentenced to death.

Taylor said in reply that Patrick should accept the sentence of life imprisonment, but, if he did not accept it, the only thing left to do would be to execute him.

LOST THE MAYOR'S CHAIR

Beck Files Suit Against City of Chelsea For $2000 as Salary

Boston, March 4.—The assumption by the Chelsea board of control of the government of the affairs of that city after the disastrous conflagration of last April, which placed Mayor Beck out of his executive chair, has resulted in the filing of a suit by Beck against the city of Chelsea for the sum due him as his salary for the mayoralty. Although the salary was but $1000, Beck mentions the sum of $2000 as a fitting ad damnum.

Beck went into the office for the year 1908 on Jan. 1 of that year, and was at the head of the city government until May 29, when the board of control took charge. He is a member of that board, which is composed of five members.

White Quits In Twentieth Mile of Their Marathon Race

New York, March 6.—Matt Maloney of Yonkers easily defeated Paddy White, the Irish champion, last night in their Marathon race here.

White had to quit in the twentieth mile, Maloney at that stage being three-quarters of a mile in the lead. He was taken to his dressing room suffering from contracted muscles of his left leg.

The prizes for the race were $1500 to the winner and $500 to the loser.

Maloney's time was 2:57:23.

SMITH VERSUS FRANZ

Two of Country's Greatest Bowlers to Roll For Championship.

WINNER TO RECEIVE $1,000.

First Contests to Be Bowled In Brooklyn Feb. 22, Second In Cleveland March 12—Both Men Will Be Heavily Backed.

Everything has been arranged for one of the most sensational bowling matches that has taken place in this country in years. Not even some of the intercity contests which have been part of the sport at the national bowling tournaments can compare with the sensational series of games to be rolled by Louis Franz of Cleveland and Jimmy Smith of New York, two of the greatest bowlers in the country.

Thirty games are to be rolled by Franz and Smith, the first fifteen in Brooklyn Feb. 22 and the second in Cleveland March 12. All of the Brooklyn games will be rolled in the evening, while in Cleveland seven games will be bowled in the afternoon and eight in the evening. Each bowler has posted $500 as his share of the side bet on the match, and there will be liberal betting on the outcome in both New York and Cleveland.

The match between Smith and Franz is attracting attention all over the country, as it is the greatest ever made between eastern and western stars. The pins are to be three pounds two ounces, best wood, two sets to be used in each city and each pin to be weighed. Each bowler selects the referee and other officials in the visiting city, but receives the entire gate receipts in his home city. The winner gets the entire $1,000.

In the east Smith is regarded by the knights of the alley as the greatest tenpin artist ever produced. Last year he won the New York city championship from Johnny Voorheis and has won the Greater New York individual tournament from the best Empire City bowlers for three consecutive years.

LOUIS FRANZ AND JIMMY SMITH.

His individual high average in the 1908 tournament, rolling on eighteen alleys in different sections of New York, was 204 for 284 games; in 1907 it was 203 for 293 and in 1906 214 for 182 games. In the last three years Smith has rolled seven perfect score games. This season he is rolling better than ever before.

Franz has long been a leading figure in bowling circles in the west. He created a sensation during the American bowling congress tournament in Cincinnati last year in individual matches. Franz has been the Cleveland city champion for two years, sustaining his title in weekly matches without a defeat.

HONOLULU ATHLETES.

Olympic Club of Frisco Proposes Meet With Islanders.

The Olympic A. C. of San Francisco is endeavoring to arrange for a dual athletic meet with the Honolulu A. A. of the Hawaiian Islands, the games to be held at Honolulu some time during the coming summer. A committee of two are already on their way to Honolulu to complete the details, since the preliminary proposals have been received with approval by the island athletes.

The contest between the island athletes and the Frisco team will include all branches of sport, and a game of football will be one of the main features. Track and field athletics will also make up the extensive program, and Committeemen James and McKillop are hopeful of the Honolulu supporters putting a strong team in the field.

STEAMER TAKES WATER AS BALLAST

Surprising Scarcity of Freight at Port of Boston

Boston, March 6.—The unseasonable dullness in the outward freights from this port to Liverpool has caused a curtailment in the sailings of steamers by several of the large lines.

The most recent steamer to feel the effect of this scarcity of freight is the Michigan, which was forced to take on more than 700 tons of water as ballast in place of cargo on the trip to Liverpool upon which she started today.

The shrinking in the shipment of wheat on the Michigan is indicative of that on other liners. She was booked to take 80,000 bushels, but only a little more than 1000 bushels was forthcoming.

TILLMAN SAYS MEYER LIED

But He Does Not Object to His Being Secretary of the Navy

Washington, March 6.—At its first regular sitting of the session the senate received and confirmed the nominations of President Taft for the various cabinet positions, and also that of Mr. Wilson as assistant secretary of state. In addition, Senators Chamberlain of Oregon and Smith of Maryland were sworn in.

No specific opposition was made to the confirmation of any members of the cabinet, but some rather sharp comments were made by Mr. Tillman concerning the nomination of Mr. Meyer to be secretary of the navy, and by Mr. Bailey concerning Mr. Nagel to be secretary of commerce and labor.

Mr. Tillman called attention to the investigation of him by the postoffice department during Meyer's incumbency of the office of the postmaster general. Tillman said that Meyer "accused me of being a liar when I was not," and "I accused Meyer of being a liar when he was." At the same time Tillman did not object to the confirmation.

The comments by Bailey upon the qualifications of Nagel had reference to the latter's services as counsel to the Waters-Pierce Oil company.

ROOSEVELT'S TRIP ABROAD

Will Depart For Africa on March 23 by Steamer Hamburg

Oyster Bay, March 6.—Ex-President Roosevelt's first day as a private citizen was interrupted by calls from a score of newspaper representatives to secure an interview. At first he refused to talk. Finally, however, he consented to say a few words and made the first public announcement of the date and the steamer on which he is to depart for Africa. He will sail March 23 by the steamer Hamburg.

More than anything else Roosevelt needs, he found, is his secretary. A deluge of letters, telegrams and cablegrams poured into Sagamore Hill, bringing to the former president kindly sentiments of friends from all parts of the world. So great is the number of these messages that he asked the press to announce that, while he appreciated them and would like to reply to each missive, it is a physical impossibility for him to answer even one-tenth of them.

PLACED ON PROBATION

Clemency Extended by Court to Cashier Guilty of Larceny

Boston, March 6.—After pleading guilty to forty-two counts of larceny, aggregating slightly more than $900, Robert G. Jobling, 24 years old, was placed on probation by Judge Schofield in the superior criminal court.

Jobling was employed as cashier by the Mason & Hamlin Piano company of this city, and it is from the firm that the entire sum was taken. District Attorney Hill, in making a plea for leniency, stated that restitution had been made the firm, and said that no good could come of any imprisonment or fine.

AS SITE FOR MONUMENT

State May Purchase Land on Which Collinwood School Stood

Cleveland, March 6.—The little plot of land in Collinwood upon which stands the ruins of the schoolhouse which burned a year ago yesterday and snuffed out the lives of 170 children, will be purchased by the state as a probable site for a monument.

The legislature at Columbus made this possible Friday by the final passage of the Schaeffer bill. It now awaits the governor's signature.

Taft's Declarations Help Business

New York, March 6.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says that already the price re-adjustments are beginning to work toward the expected improvement in demand, and this and President Taft's inaugural declarations are important contributions to financial and trade confidence, and make stronger the hope of full industrial recovery.

Sixteen Lives Lost

Liverpool, March 6.—Sixteen men were drowned this morning in the flooding of a cofferdam used in the construction of a new dock at Birkenhead. Three men rescued from the wreckage were badly injured.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It sometimes takes a lot of boosting by the right people to kill a good measure.

Stealing time from rest will sooner or later put you in the goal of neurasthenia.

What you get out of the world depends on what tools you have for working it.

Being able to adjust oneself to one's position isn't all; staying adjusted takes some ability too.

The man who has the explaining habit either feels overburdened with knowledge or has an uneasy conscience.

Ornamental things aren't necessarily useless, but often to that extent they are not mental.

No one should be censured for wanting to get even who is on the uneven edge of despair.

A man who is blind to his own interests finds many kind persons who are anxious to lead him.

It is time to take out accident insurance when you begin to think that you are beating the devil at his own game.

Sad Pleasure.

The joy there is in sorrow,
The pleasure linked with pain,
The fun that comes in shedding tears
To match a summer rain
Appeals perhaps to poets
And persons of that sort
And makes them downright happy,
According to report.

It must be rare enjoyment
To have a broken heart.
'Tis pleasure somewhat milder
To feel a bunion smart,
But for a time exquisite
Of that especial brand
It's best to lose your fortune
And next day mash your hand.

For who could be light hearted
Or feel his life complete
If he had wads of money
And lived on Easy street?
To contemplate a prospect
With not a thing to do
But sit and tear off coupons
Would make the bravest blue.

The beauty of amusement
Of this sad, soulful brand
Is that the means to make it
Are always at your hand.
And as the tears are falling
You jump into the brine
And say to those unhappy:
"Come in. The water's fine."

Neglected.

"John Alexander, I hear that you are gambling," said the indignant wife, trying to bear up under the disgrace and at the same time show that her heart was broken.

"Only matching pennies," said John offhandedly.

"Yes; you have plenty of time to match pennies, but can't find a minute to match that bit of blue silk for your poor wife—boohoo, boohoo!"

That Scared Look.

Ever notice how scared some people look when a rumor gets afloat that a lot of sinners are going to be exposed?

A Different Rate.

"How did you like the show?"

"It put me to sleep."

"You ought to see the manager and get a rebate. Your seat cost you $2.50, and you ought to get a good bed for $2."

Fireman's Snap.

"Where is your son?"
"In the city."
"Got a good job?"
"Yes; nothing to do but go to fires."

The Aftermath.

After New Year's come the bills.
Keeps a fellow hopping
Making payments on the frills
Of the Christmas shopping.

So Surprising.

"Why don't you behave yourself?"
"What! I behave!"
"Yes; you behave."
"It would occasion so much talk."

Tender Spot.

"He will never recover from that fake duel."
"Where was he wounded?"
"In the egotism."

NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box R, Notre Dame, Ind.

The Scrap Book

He Let It Pass.

At a leading hotel in Boston a delegation of ministers were having a dinner at which a few lawyers were present, among them General Benjamin F. Butler. "Father" Taylor and Butler were indulging in some spicy repartee. Taylor asked the general if lawyers ever made mistakes. "Oh, certainly," was the reply. "To err is human." "Well," said his questioner, "what do you do when you make a mistake?" "If it is a big one," said Butler, "I try to rectify it, but if it is a small one I let it pass unnoticed. By the way," he added, "do ministers ever make mistakes?" "Certainly. To err is human," was Father Taylor's reply. "Well, what do you do when you make a mistake?" asked Butler. "If the mistake is a big one I try to rectify it, but if a small one I let it pass unnoticed. For example, I was preaching last Sunday to my sailors and in my sermon made the statement that the devil was father to all lawyers. I meant liars, but it being a small mistake I let it pass by."

HONOR AND LOVE.

Tell me not, sweet, I am unkind;
That from the nunnerie
Of thy chaste breast and quiet mind
To war and arms I flee.

True, a new mistress now I chase—
The first foe in the field—
And with a stronger faith embrace
A sword, a horse, a shield.

Yet this inconstancy is such
As you, too, shall adore.
I could not love thee, dear, so much Loved I not honor more.
—Sir Richard Lovelace.

The Early Bird.

A very steady and serious country gentleman had joined a newly established metropolitan club which offered the usual advantage of bedrooms for country members temporarily in town. When next the country gentleman came to town he put up for the night at the club, which had in the meantime become extremely fashionable and its hours correspondingly irregular. The visitor went to bed at an early hour when all was orderly and the other members decorous and quiet.

The next morning he came down for breakfast at his usual hour, 8 o'clock, but was surprised to find the room in the middle of the dusting process and not a cloth on the tables. While he was gazing helplessly around a sleepy eyed waiter came up to him.

"I beg your pardon, sir," he said apologetically, "but no suppers can be served after half past 7."—Harper's Weekly.

A Bad Habit.

"Mother," said little Mary, "all the time in school I keep crossing my eyes."

"Why, Mary!" her mother cried out in horror. "You mustn't do that."

"But I forget and do it all the time."

"My dear, your eyes will grow so. If you ever do it again I'll have to punish you."

"I can't help it," sobbed little Mary. "All the time I forget and cross my f's and dot my t's!"—Lippincott's.

Hereditary Habit.

Even if there had not been kernels of rice on her hat and a glad light of love in her eye any bachelor could have told that she was a bride. And the manner in which she spoke to her husband showed they had not been married long. A man in the passing crowd spied the couple and rushed over to greet the bride.

"Well, well, Agnes," he cried, extending his hand, "you don't mean to say that you're married?"

"Why—why, yes," the girl stammered, vivid color mounting to her cheeks as she tried to defend her novel situation. "You—you know, it runs in the family. Mother was married too."

Of Course She Knew.

"Shortly after I was ordained," said a Kansas City minister, "I met an old lady who asked me numerous questions. After being informed where I had studied she asked:

"'Did you know the Rev. Mr. Nameless there?'

"'Very well,' I replied.

"'Well, isn't he just the finest ever?' she exclaimed enthusiastically.

"It happened that my relations with Mr. Nameless had been exceedingly unpleasant, and with a young man's radicalism I felt tempted to say so. The eagerness of my questioner was appealing, however, and Mr. Nameless was a brilliant young man, so without hurting my conscience I said:

"'Unquestionably he is unusually gifted.'

"'I knew you'd say so!' she cried. 'I knew it. I'm his mother!'"

Abuse.

Of satires I think as Epictetus did, "If evil be said of thee and if it be true, correct thyself; if it be a lie, laugh at it." By dint of time and experience I have learned to be a good post horse. I go through my appointed daily stage, and I care not for the curs who bark at me along the road.—Frederick the Great.

Oyster Crackers.

Mrs. Blank knew that the girl was raw, but she had engaged her for that very reason, feeling that by careful instruction she might be able to develop Norah's latent possibilities into a fairly expert handling of the affairs in her dining room. Taking her into the dining room, she showed her in detail where everything was, from the saltcellar to the fish forks; initiated her into the mysteries of the china closet and otherwise gave her a pretty comprehensive first lesson in domestic economy.

"Now, at dinner, Norah," she went on, "we always begin with oysters on the shell. Mr. Blank is very fond of them."

"Yis, ma'am," said Norah, a gleam of intelligence lighting up her blue eyes. "And do I be afther puttin' on th' noot crackers wid 'em?"

"Nut crackers?" demanded Mrs. Blank. "What for?"

"To break open th' isthers, ma'am," explained Norah. "Sure they do be har-rd t'ings to crack wid yer teeth."—Lippincott's.

Kept Cases on Him.

"I canna get over it," a Scotch farmer remarked to his wife. "I put a two shillin' piece in ta plate at kirk this morn instead o' ma usual penny!"

The beadle had noticed the mistake and also the frightened face of his old friend, who had not the courage to retake the coin as the old fashioned ladle-like spoon was carefully passed over the head to the next pew and one penny after another was dropped into the bowl.

The old farmer sat in silence and said nothing. The old beadle allowed him to miss the plate for twenty-four consecutive Sundays.

On the twenty-fifth Sunday the farmer again ignored the collection plate, but the old beadle steadied the ladle in front of him and in a loud, tragic whisper said hoarsely:

"Your time's up noo, Sandy!"

A Painful Point.

A minister was preaching in a Michigan town. On Saturday the women of the congregation were busy trimming up the church. "I strolled in," says the minister, "and Katie Martin was decorating the pulpit. I noticed some tacks strewn about the floor and jocularly advised Katie to be very careful to pick up all the tacks when she was through with her work. 'You know, Katie,' I said, 'that if I should step on one of those tacks right in the middle of a sermon there is no telling what might happen.'

"'Faith, ye wouldn't linger long on that point,' said Katie without a smile."

His Mind Was Made Up.

It was during a trial in an Alabama city more than twenty years ago that one of the jurors suddenly rose from his seat and precipitately fled from the courtroom. He was arrested in his flight before he had left the building and brought back.

"What do you mean by running off in that way?" asked the judge, who knew the man to be a simple, honest farmer.

"It's like this, your honor," said the man earnestly. "When Mr. Hobbs finished talking my mind was all clear, but when Mr. Clayton began I was all confused again, and I said to myself, 'I'd better leave at once and stay away till he's done,' for to tell the truth I didn't like the way the argument was going, your honor."

A Well Conducted Conscience.

A man who does not use his conscience often has terrible paroxysms of it, but a man who uses it all the time never comes into what is called a state of conscience. It comes on him as dew on flowers and falls on him gently as rain on the ground. He is full of conscience, but it is not concentrated at any single point. It is distributed through the brain, the nerves, the muscles and the skin. It is in every part of him. It pervades his life. It does not, therefore, rise up into a freshet.—Henry Ward Beecher.

John Drew and the French Actress.

It was the social duty of John Drew, the actor, to escort a young French actress on her first visit to New York to a roof garden. The orchestra was playing a melodious air as they entered, and after being seated the actress asked Mr. Drew the name of the selection.

"'I Love You, I Love You,'" replied Mr. Drew.

"Yes, yes, I know," returned the French girl, with an appreciative glance of coquetry, "but ze tune zat zey play, Mistaire Drew—vat ees de name of eet?"

Proved by the Scriptures.

In the good old days when speed in railroading was not quite so strenuously insisted on as it is at present Jones and Smith, as we will designate them, were strange to relate, riding on the "accommodation train" of a certain railroad and discussing Biblical questions at the same time.

Cow after cow had been overtaken and passed, and the train was still wheezing and rattling along at the giddy speed of ten miles an hour over the two rust streaks that answered the purpose of rails, when Smith spoke up and said:

"Jones, you say you can prove by the Scriptures that the Lord made everything. Do you imagine he had anything to do with making this slow coach road that we are riding on?"

"Certainly he did," responded Jones. "Doesn't it say in the first chapter of Genesis that on the sixth day he made all creeping and crawling things?"

One Long Drink.

Wilson, the poet, better known as Christopher North, is the author of many of the wittiest things now current in Scotland, and many things he did not say are attributed to him. One morning after a "gran nicht" with a group of his cronies and an abundance of "whusky" and wit he woke with a throat like a limekiln and called out for the landlady of the little inn on the shore of Loch Lomond, where he was spending his holiday:

"Battie, guid dame, I'm unco dry. Fetch in the loch."

Who says the rich have no woes? Mr. James J. Hill can neither legally ride over his own railroads free of charge nor pay himself rebates.

Mr. Sun Yat-Sen advocates revolution and a republic in China. Mr. Sun may be right, but if he is not very careful he may go into permanent eclipse some fine day soon.

We do not think the American people mind the tacking of a few more millions onto the Panama Canal expense account, but we hope some way may be discovered to keep that Banana-Vanilla person from getting into the argument again.

"Four of the jurors in the Carmack murder case can neither read nor write," says the Baltimore Sun. Well, if there is to be any "unwritten law" argument sprung in that trial, they ought to be able to judge it as well as any one else.

The Hough's Neck Associates are considering the question of having the building laws amended so as to place some restrictions on the class of buildings erected in this section.

This is really a good thing and should have been done long ago. There is probably no part of the city where more apologies for buildings are erected than at Hough's Neck.

There are no restrictions whatever for this section and the result has been that anything that will keep out the rain no matter how unsightly it may be, has been permitted to be built. The result is that the place is being overun with ramshackle buildings made out old packing cases in some instances. If the Houghs Neck Associates succeed in getting restrictions placed on the buildings erected in the future it will be doing a good thing.

Complete returns from the town meetings that were held in Massachusetts cities Monday, show that all the towns that took action under the new state playground act, voted to adopt it. Twelve towns having 10,000 population held meetings March 1st. Two of them did not vote on the playground question. The remaining ten cast a total vote of 11,064 in favor, to 3,537 against accepting the law. These towns will now be required to provide means for outdoor recreation and physical education. They are: Attleboro, Clinton, Gardner, Hyde park, Leominster, Milford, Framingham, Wakefield, Watertown and Weymouth.

With the 23 cities that accepted the act in December, there are now 33 towns and cities required to have public playgrounds, with a total approximate vote of one hundred thirty-six thousand in favor to thirty thousand five hundred against. This indicates the popular feeling on the subject. The size of the majorities in favor of public recreation centers was practically the same both in towns and cities.

In commenting on the work of the Boston Merchants Association, in attempting to improve the industrial situation in "The Hub" the Boston Courier says "The committe on industrial improvements is making an effort to interest the big industries of metropolitan Boston in Boston itself. It believes that all goods manufactured in this district should be labelled "Boston," instead of bearing the name of the smaller cities where they may be made. This, the committee believes, would aid in making Boston known at large as a great manufacturing centre."

"While the committee realizes that the use of the name Boston on commodities manufactured in the suburbs will meet with opposition from the smaller cities, it believes that much general good would result from such a course."

Of course the proposition would meet with opposition, and why shouldn't it. It would in most cases be a rank injustice to the city whose name has been made famous by some product manufactured within its boundaries to have its name surplanted by that of Boston.

Boston is too well known to need any such advertising, while its smaller sister needs all she can get to keep her name before the public.

SOUTH QUINCY

The Rev. James Mathieson of Delanco, New Jersey, will preach as a candidate in the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening.

Division 5, A. O. H. will give a St. Patrick's day entertainment in their hall on Franklin street on the evening of March 16. The entertainment will consist of Irish songs and dances and "A Travel through Ireland" illustrated by beautiful pictures.

John D. Ritten of Manchester, N. H. is visiting friends on Intervale street.

A Bible class has been formed at St. John's church for the children of the parish. The girls meet Tuesday afternoons and the boys Fridays.

Rehearsals for the Easter Sunday music were begun last night by the choir of St. Johns church, under the direction of John Mahon, the organist.

Rev. John J. Casey conducted the regular Lenten devotions at St. John's church last night.

The sixth grade boys of the Adams school are trying to form a baseball league of sixth grades all over the city. Any sixth grade teams desiring to enter this league should write to John Swain, 178 Phipps street, Quincy, sending names of the team with captain and manager.

Several South Quincy men are interested in a baseball team that is to be started here and which it is hoped will get into the Old Colony league. Nothing definite has been done so far, except to apply for the franchise. Things look pretty good for a place for Quincy in the league.

Judge Lloyd E. Chamberlain, president of the Massachusetts State Board of Trade will speak at the Council chamber Wednesday evening, March 10th at 8 o'clock on Inland Waterways and the Brockton canal." The Judge will be accompanied by the Hon. E. B. Mellen Statistician of the Brockton Board of Trade.

Mrs. Rollin Hughes of Goddard street has returned from Fairhaven, Vermont.

Many of the young people in this section of the city are looking forward to the social dance to be given in Electa hall under the direction of Harold Richards and Arthur Allen.

The Basket social under the auspices of the C. E. society, given at the First Presbyterian church, last evening, proved a great success. The baskets brought by the young ladies were beautifully trimmed and were sold quite readily to the young men. The committee in charge served hot chocolate and after lunch, a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Savage of Franklin street, were pleasantly surprised by a number of their neighbors, Wednesday evening, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Savage were the recipients of several fine presents. Music and refreshments were enjoyed during the evening.

PRESENTED TRAVELLING BAG.

Friends of Roy Prout Spring a Surprise on Him.

A pleasant surprise was tendered to Roy Prout Friday evening, by a number of his friends, at his home, 65 Granite street, in honor of his 21st birthday. On behalf of the company, William Walker in a serio-comic speech, presented Mr. Prout with a handsome leather travelling bag, as a token of their love and esteem.

After recovering from his surprise, the recipient responded, thanking the company for their good wishes and thoughtful action.

The whole party then proceeded to make merry, and songs and games were enjoyed until midnight. Ice cream and cake were served during the evening.

Those present were: Mrs. Prout, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. James Coutts, Mrs. William Walker and Master Walker. The Misses Laura Jones, Grace Jones, Julia Thomas, Mabel Dickie, Lizzie Dickie, Edith Spargo, Emily Moyle, Bessie Warmington, May Veale, Mary Ellis and Gertrude Horsman, and Messrs. William Walker, H. G. Dickie, John King, John Pascal, J. A. King, Jr., Charles Friberg, Albert Andrews and Arthur Newton.

The monthly supper of the Social club of the Union Conregational church of Weymouth and East Braintree was held at the banquet room Wednesday evening and was very largely attended. After the supper Edwin W. Hunt gave an organ recital which was followed by "An Evening with Yawcob Strauss" by Charles Foller Adams. The selections were largely from his writings, and in the dialect for which he has become famouse. The large audience was delighted.

Two Million Bottles.

of Perry Davis' Painkiller sold every year . Think of it! And every bottle is lessening suffering and helping some human being to health and happiness! This wonderful household remedy stops the pain of sprains, burns or bruises. It relieves rheumatism or neuralgia. It cures colds, cramps colic, diarrhoea. There ought to be a bottle on your shelves just now, ready for the first sign of trouble. The new size bottle is 35 cents and there is also the 50 cent size. Be sure your druggist gives you Perry Davis'.

WEST QUINCY

John H. Drohan of Hanover is spending the week end with friends on Willard street.

A stereopticon lecture was given by Rev. Oscar Lindegren at the Swedish Congregational church on Garfield street, Thursday evening. The lecture was held for the benefit of the old Scandinavian sailors and immigrants,

The Busy Bee sewing society of the Swedish Baptist church reorganized last night at the home of Miss Hildur Johnson on Centre street. About twenty members were present and after an interesting meeting the following officers were elected: President, Miss Hildur Johnson; vice president, Ella Werme; secretary, Alma Nelson; assistant secretary, Dora Landerholm; treasurer, Florence Lund. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

The Busy Bee sewing society of the Swedish Baptist church will hold its next meeting with Mrs. G. R. Blomquist of Nightingale avenue.

James H. Elcock, Overseer of the Poor is in New York on a brief business trip.

Austin W. Greene, principal of the Willard school, and a resident of East Milton, was on Monday defeated as auditor for the town of Milton. The successful candidates were Henry H. Barnes and Percy E. Bates.

Councilman McDevitt is a believer in plenty of fresh air. He sleeps in the open air every night.

It would not be a bad idea if both sides of Willard street were paved between the West Quincy depot and the Milton line.

The iron fire escape on the Copeland street side of the Willard school building serves to remove somewhat that bare look the building has always had.

The funeral of Andrew J. Saville was held this afternoon from the residence of his sister at 400 West street. Services were conducted by Rev. Dr. E. N. Hardy the burial was at Lakeside cemetery, South Braintree.

MRS. K. E. CORCORAN BURIED.

Mrs. Katherine E. Corcoran, wife of William Corcoran, was buried this morning from her late home 14 Centre street. A requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock, Rev. William J. Duffy officiating. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, Miss Rena Bizzozzero presiding at the organ.

At the offertory Mrs. James Tennessey sang the De Profundis. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends.

The bearers were Charles Smith, Duncan McPherson, Patrick Garrity, Charles McCue, William Conrick and Michael Drohan. The burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery.

—A bill was introduced in the legislature of Rhode Island on Thursday to prevent Providence from being in the list of Grentna Greens. The city and its ministers cannot resist the financial gains hence the state has to step in. The bill calls for a residence of five days.

BRIEFS

A son was born on Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Goodoak of 352 Granite street.

Hon. John F. Fitzgerald is to address Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus next month.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller of Chestnut street is seriosuly ill of diphtheria.

Friends of Theodore Marceau of Wollaston avenue are sorry to learn he is ill with typhoid fever

Victor Fowler of Phillips street is living with his sister, Mrs. Ernest Brooks of Somerville, this winter.

L. S. White and family of Fall River are settled in their cosy new home, corner of Beach and Marlboro streets.

Nathaniel Thayer of Willow street left Sunday for New York city, where he has accepted a very fine position.

Cuthbert Wrigley is a candidate for the scholarship in the Suffolk law school, Boston, offered by the Traveler.

The little son of Lawyer and Mrs. John D. Mackay of Merrymount road is convalescing from an operation for adnoids.

The annual parish meeting of the First Congregational society is called for Monday night in the chapel at eight o'clock.

The "Twelve Brother" hold a whist party in Electa hall tonight. After the whist dancing will be enjoyed and refreshments served.

George E. Carr of Safford street contemplates building a home soon on the lot opposite the Methodist church which he recently purchased of John Morgan.

Owing to parish meeting coming on Monday night the Junior Alliance of First church will postpone their regular meeting until March 15th, with the same topic and speaker.

F. B. Washburn and Archie Macleod have formed a co-partnership under the firm name of Washburn & Macleod, dealers in groceries, provisions and fish.

Charles W. Whiteacre of Safford street was at home over Sunday. He is now on his way to the Azores as he is on the scout cruiser "Chester" and of course thinks his ship will come home a winner.

Louise B. Capen the young grandchild of Dr. Thomas S. Barbour of Prospect avenue was operated on for nastoid of the ear by Dr. Jack in Boston on Monday. The operation was successful but her case is still considered critical.

There were about fifteen tables in play at the weekly whist party of the Washington Social club last night. The scores were high and close, every hand being closely contested. After the whist there was an entertainment, and refreshments were served.

Miss Lizzie Waldron is missed by patrons of D. E. Wadsworth & Co., where she has for several years been a most faithful and obliging clerk. She is at the City Hospital where she underwent a serious operation this week. Late reports are that she is resting comfortably.

The regular meeting of Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters will be held March 8, at 7.45 with Mrs. George Thompson Arlington street.

Rev. E. C. Butler will preach tomorrow morning at First church, instead of Rev. E. C. Ames as announced in the church calendar.

No longer can it be said that Quincy is not musical for the season has brought a perfect feast of good musicales and concerts and all well patronized. The event of next week is the oratorio of Elijah to be given at Quincy Music hall on Tuesday evening. Besides the local chorus of two hundred voices, some especially fine vocalists and an orchestra from Boston will assist.

The new bible class for men, which was formed last Sunday at the Wollaston Baptist Sunday school, under the direction of the new pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther, will meet Thursday evening at 7.45 in the chapel to complete its organization. A social hour and refreshments will follow. All not in other classes are cordially invited to attend and become charter members.

Mr. Willard Flint, who is to sing the part of Elijah at the concert on Tuesday next, is widely known in the musical world, and his press notices from different cities prove that he "wears well," for in many instances they contain the sentence "Mr. Flint, who is no stranger to our city, won instant favor from the large audience." He has a voice of much power and of pleasing dramatic quality that rarely fails to make an excellent impression. His faithful study and devotion to the highest ideals have brought artistic and in every sense, valuable results.

The residents of East Braintree will be pleased to learn that the Appropriation committee on the annual town warrant have recommended an appropriation for an additional schoolhouse on their precinct. The Jonas Perkins building is at present overcrowded in nearly every room and the new building will relieve this, and at the same time better accommodate children living north of the railroad. The voters will attend the adjourned town meeting on Monday evening prepared to vote in favor of the sum recommended.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Falling Hair — Ayer's Hair Vigor promptly destroys the germs that cause falling hair. It nourishes the hair-bulbs, restores them to health. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly.

Dandruff — Ayer's Hair Vigor just as promptly destroys the germs that cause dandruff. It removes every trace of dandruff itself, and keeps the scalp clean and in a healthy condition.

We wish you to positively and distinctly understand that Ayer's Hair Vigor does not affect the color of the hair, even to the slightest degree.

GAMMON—ESSON.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James Marr on Goddard street, last evening, when Miss Margaret G. Esson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Esson, became the bride of Thomas L. Gammon, superintendent of the Quincy division of the Old Colony street railway.

The ceremony, which was witnessed by the immediate family friends only, took place at 7 o'clock, Rev. Dr. James Todd, of South Boston, a former pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Gammon left immediately after the ceremony for New York. Upon their return they will reside in a pretty bungalow on Gilmore street, Quincy where they will be at home after April first.

The annual meeting of the Cochato club will be held next Tuesday evening.

—The use of Indiana sandstone in the new Quincy, Mass., post office seems to have struck the Boston Herald as peculiar also, for the contemporary says:

"Quincy's fine, new, up-to-date and imposing post-office is of Indiana sandstone, but it has Quincy granite trimmings. The native building material was not wholly ignored."

By and by Quincy herself may awake to the feeling that she has been imposed upon.—Barre Daily Times.

OPPOSED TO STEEL TRAPS.

Will you not speak a word of kindly caution to the boys of Quincy about setting steel traps, the most cruel perhaps, of all of man's devices for depriving the dumb creatures of the wood of "life, liberty and happiness?"

The steel trap tortures its poor victims, holding it in agony of pain and terror for hours and often for days when the one who sets it forgets to visit it to see if he has caught anything.

Somehow the steel trap seems to the writer to be a cowardly, viperish sort of thing. Its success depends upon deceit, as it must be carefully covered to conceal its presence.

The innocent animal is cheated into believing that it is good, clear ground that is before it. Then the diabolical thing snaps and pinches a paw with cruel laceration and pain.

A human person if he stops to think, must feel about the steel trap, as he does about a deadly snake that strikes its poisonous fangs into its victim from covert of grass or log; or a human enemy who makes a murderous attack from behind in the dark, or a sneaking foe of society who vilifies another behind his back, or in an anonymous letter, not daring to come out in the open like a man.

The dreadful cruelty of the steel trap has just been brought home to the writer's attention by the sad fate of a favorite cat, a very intelligent and affectionate family pet, who was caught by the forepaw in such a trap on the day of the late severe ice storm and who remained there in agony seven long days and nights before she was found by a mere chance and released. Her poor foot was frozen below the lacerated wound caused by the trap; and she was so far gone that it was deemed most merciful after a brief effort to nurse her back to health to humanely put her to death.

We bear no ill will toward the person who set that trap and then forgot it for a whole week. But we wish to call attention to the matter for the good of all. For the hurt to the character of those who indulge in such thoughtless cruelty is as great an evil as the hurt to the poor dumb brute victims. And we believe there is a law against it too.

MILTON.

Mrs. W. Q. Baxter of Adams street is spending a few days at Swampscott, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Stephens Perkins Hurd.

East Milton celebrated election night the success of the candidates for office from that section of the town. Jesse B. Baxter was popular for the position of Selectman, receiving again the highest vote. Drums, torches and speech making made things lively.

East Milton was represented at the inauguration of President Taft by a number of its citizens.

Now that the town meeting is over people have settled down to business once more and things politically will be quiet for several months.

The social affairs of the Thursday Evening club have been suspended until after the Lenten season.

The members of the Matrons' whist club met with Mrs. F. W. Brett of Summer street, Monday evening.

Dr. B. C. Shanks sprained his ankle quite badly on Monday while getting off an electric car. Crutches were necessary for a few days.

The derailment and smashing of several freight cars at the Station Wednesday evening necessitated the services of the wrecking crew.

Miss Marion Dyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brainerd T. Dyer of Salem, was the recent guest of Mrs. A. A. Palmer of Highland avenue.

Williams & Kneeland have just recorded a big week in their business. The daily output for the week was 110 dozen pairs of shoes. The best yet.

Master Russell Thayer, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thayer of Safford street, is recovering from his serious illness occasioned by double pneumonia.

Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, No. 16, will hold an early meeting on Monday evening as they are to have a whist party that evening in G. A. R. hall.

Tuesday evening, the team of the Squantum Yacht club of Wollaston bowled the Braintree club at the Kenwood alleys. The visitors were victorious.

Thursday afternoon patrons for five tables at whist enjoyed the game in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Nelson Hayden of Pond street had the affair in charge. The receipts will be added to the treasury of the Sons of Veterans auxiliary.

Much sympathy is extended to Miss Abbie Arnold and John Arnold because of the recent death of their sister, Mrs. Albion H. Johnson of Clarendon Hills. Both Rev. and Mrs. Johnson were well known in this vicinity and their many friends have expressed grief.

Braintree was represented in the inaugural parade at Washington Thursday by Frank Call, J. Warren Bates and Wilbur Call, who are members of Company C, Coast Artillery of Brockton. These young gentlemen are expected to return today.

Mr. and Mrs. Atherton Hunt spent Sunday in Fairhaven.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Hunt left Wednesday night for a Southern trip.

Miss Rebecca Farnsworth, of Lynn, was the guest of Miss S. N. Thayer this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lane of Vine street are spending a few days with their daughter in Hopedale.

John Reed, formerly of this town, passed away last week, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Whitney in Brookline.

Mrs. Clifton W. Divoll of Middle street will leave Sunday evening for her home in Fitchburg, where she will spend a week with her father. She will be accompanied by her brother Clifford Hinds, who will be in Braintree today.

The next meeting of the Jonas Perkins School Association will be held on Thursday evening, March 11. Mr. R. S. Hubbard of Boston, Organizing Secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Children will be the speaker. The subject will be "The relation between the neglected child and the juvenile criminal." These meetings are open to all, and this subject should insure a large attendance of our towns-people.

Miss Beatrice W. Silver daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Silver of Walnut street was successful in getting two of the prizes given by the Boston American for the best essay on the life of Lincoln. She is ten years old and a pupil in the sixth grade of the Monatiquot school, where she stands high in her studies. The prizes were a set of books on the life of Lincoln and a $2.50 gold piece. The judges were Rev. Edward E. Horton, chaplain of the Massachusetts State Senate, William M. Olin, Secretary of State, and John F. Casey, master of the English High school.

USE FOR THE MAINE.

Civil Engineer Would Make an Isle of Sunken Warship.

WANTS PARK AROUND HULK.

Dredging About the Wreck to Make a Thousand Foot Island Would Greatly Benefit Havana Harbor Traffic, Says O. C. Woolson—Opposes Plan to Tow Vessel Out to Sea.

Foremost among the Americans who do not agree with ex-Governor Magoon's scheme for raising the battleship Maine from her bed in the harbor of Havana is Orosco C. Woolson, a civil engineer of New York city, who says the wreck should be transformed into an island park and at half the cost of taking it out to sea.

In a talk with a reporter the other day Mr. Woolson said:

"The wreck of the Maine, which lies in thirty-six feet of water, could be made into an island a thousand feet in diameter at a comparatively small cost which would serve as a memento of the sixty-three sailors whose remains were never recovered and which are believed to be in the wreck. The suggestion made to Governor Magoon to raise the Maine and tow it out to sea comes from those persons who do not realize what the wreck means to all loyal American citizens. The island, properly decorated with roses and palm trees, could be arranged so that people could promenade there and rest on settees while they meditated over the fact of the gallant sailors entombed below.

"If the wreck was raised it is safe to say that the remains of the men would be left below without a grave unless they were fastened in the iron or wood work of the Maine.

"There is plenty of space in the harbor of Havana for all maritime traffic, and the dredging round the wreck to form the island would be of great advantage to the commercial value of the harbor. I know the harbor well, and it is not at all necessary to raise the wreck of the Maine, and no loyal Cuban, I believe, would wish to see it done. It looks like sacrilege to me to disturb the few bones that the sharks have left of the sailors who went down with the Maine. There is no question of the cause of her foundering; that was settled years ago by able experts who were too intelligent to give an unjust verdict even if our country was at war with Spain."

Mr. Woolson has written a letter to Congressman R. Wayne Parker of New Jersey, pointing out his objection to the raising of the wreck of the battleship, and states that neither President Roosevelt nor Governor Magoon has taken into account the sentiment of the American people with regard to the Maine. He asks the congressman to do all he can toward having the wreck in Havana turned into a perpetual monument for those of the crew who were lost, and he said that he intended to bring the question before the Newark board of trade at its next meeting in order to get the support of that influential commercial body.—New York Times.

TAFT A MASON "AT SIGHT."

Rare Honor to Be Conferred on President Elect by Ohio Masons.

The grand master of Ohio Masons, Charles S. Hoskinson, has tendered to William Howard Taft, the president elect, the rare honor of being made a Mason at sight. Mr. Taft has accepted and will return to Cincinnati on Feb. 18, when a distinguished company of Masons will witness the exercises.

This honor is so rarely conferred that there is but a single instance of it on record in the hundred years of history of Masonry in Ohio, when in 1892 Asa A. Bushnell of Springfield was made a Mason at sight.

Before his nomination Mr. Taft had expressed a desire to become a Mason, but his enforced absence from home prevented him from complying with the usual requirements for the initiation and advancement of candidates.

Invitations to the ceremonies will be sent to the grand masters of all the other states in the Union.

MODERN CRUSADE IN BOSTON.

"Nucleus of Church Universal" Founded by Woman and Church Built.

Boston has another new cult to add to her already long list. This time it is the "nucleus of the church universal," founded by Mrs. A. G. Brown, a well known Everett (Mass.) woman, and under her guidance a church has been erected. Mrs. Brown's followers call themselves the Crusaders, and the foundation of their religion is implied in the words "what Jesus would do."

"As Crusaders we do not believe in being eccentric or freaky," said Mrs. Brown the other day. "We believe, however, that we are the keepers of our brothers and are ever seeking an opportunity to be helpful. In connection with the chapel we have industrial work for women and young girls."

Little Lights For Motor Cars.

Alderman B. W. B. Brown of New York city recently introduced an ordinance forbidding operators of motor vehicles from using headlights of a greater brilliancy than sixteen candle power "so as not to blind or dazzle other users of the highways." The ordinance was referred to the committee on laws and legislation.

COCHATO CLUB, BRAINTREE.

Team 7 maintained its lead in the Cochato bowling tournament this week, but by a closer margin, as team 8 is only one-half point behind, and six pins behind. Team 4 passed team 6, making the biggest gain of the week. The teams are now divided into three classes, a quartette in the first class, a trio in the second, while teams 1 and 9 will sing a duet for the consolation.

TIME TO ACT.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit by Quincy People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches, and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If there are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Quincy prove the effectiveness of the great kidney remedy.

H. A. Vinton, living at 558 Washington street, Quincy, Mass., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills completely cured me of kidney trouble which had been in my system for at least ten years. Before using this remedy I had severe pains in my back and loins, and they seemed to be of a rheumatic nature, I consulted a doctor and tried many remedies but received only temporary relief. Being advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, and began their use. They quickly banished the pains in my back and my health is better today than for a long time."

FLAMES WIPE OUT OLD CHURCH

Make Short Work of Landmark at Reading, Mass.

AID FROM TWO OTHER TOWNS

Blazing Embers Threatened Business Portion With Destruction—Revival Which Had Been In Progress For Two Weeks Is Interrupted—Fire Caused by Crossed Wires and Loss Will Reach $50,000

Reading, Mass., March 6.—Fire lost night completely destroyed the Reading Congregational church, an old landmark of the town, which for over fifty years had stood at the corner of Woburn and Sanborn streets, almost facing the main square.

During the progress of the flames the entire business section of the town was threatened with destruction, and aid was summoned from Wakefield and Stoneham.

Several residences and barns adjacent to the burning edifice caught fire from blazing embers, but were extinguished without serious loss.

The fire was caused by a defective electric light fixture and the loss will reach $50,000, which is covered to the extent of $20,000 by insurance carried by the church society.

For the last two weeks revival services have been held in the edifice, the evangelist in charge being Rev. Dr. Dundonald, and many members of the congregation were already on their way to the services which were to have been held as usual when the fire broke out.

About 7:15 o'clock Janitor Butters went into the basement of the church to attend to the furnaces and while engaged in that work smelled smoke. Going up the stairs that led to the main auditorium, he found the whole place on fire and rushed into the street calling for assistance.

Chief of Police Leggett rang in the first alarm, and on the arrival of the fire fighters a general alarm was sounded, while Wakefield and Stoneham were also asked to send help.

Fifteen minutes later the entire structure, 75x30 feet, two stories in height and built of wood, was one mass of flame, lighting up the sky for miles around.

Just before 8 o'clock the fire reached the steeple of the church, which was forty-five feet in height, and swept upward by the brisk breeze that prevailed soon reached the topmost pinnacle. Then with a great crash the steeple toppled and fell, carrying down with it the big bell that it had contained.

When the timbers struck the pavement, great pieces of burning wood were scattered in every direction, and many of the firemen received slight burns in consequence.

Some of the burning brands were carried to neighboring rooftops, the glare of these incipient fires causing the men to turn their attention in that direction, once it was seen that the church was doomed.

Odd Fellows' hall, directly across the street, was for a time in danger, and small fires were extinguished on the roofs of five houses in Reading square.

A blazing ember also set fire to a barn on Wilson street, which is a half mile distant from the scene of the big blaze, and a portion of the roof of the structure was destroyed.

The church was one of the old landmarks of the town. The present pastor of the society is Rev. W. S. Hunnewell.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

INCORPORATED 1890

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St Quincy, or the Treasurer RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 27, 1909.

It is not usual for the cabinet of a president to be announced before his inauguration. To the best of my knowledge there has always been doubt and uncertainty until after the official announcement of the President from the White House. It is however, characteristic of the candor and non-secretiveness of the President-elect that the country now knows that with the acceptance by Mr. MacVeagh, a merchant ,of Chicago, of the Treasury Portfolio, the cabinet of the new President is arranged and fixed. There are only two holdovers from President Roosevelt's cabinet-men who have sat with Judge Taft at the council table of the nation. They are Mr. Meyer, at present Postmaster General, who will be Secretary of the Navy in the Taft administration; and Mr. Wilson, the venerable Secretary of Agriculture who will remain at his present post. The present cabinet will be distinguished for a remarkably strong battery of eminent lawyers, with the President himself on the bench as it were in the cabinet room. Five members of the present cabinet are distinguished members of the legal profession, men of ripe learning and experience in various branches of the law.

The President-elect who is now in New York, is expected in Washington on Saturday, the 27th inst., and will remain here as a guest of the Boardmans until after March the fourth when he will transfer his activities to the White House. It is announced that soon after his inauguration, he will visit the ranch of Charles P. Taft near San Antonio, Texas, where a residence for him is building and golf links are laid out.

Interesting information comes from China in the form of an official private letter to the President-elect in which the attitude of the Chinese Government as represented by the Regent concerning vital Chinese questions, is explained at length. This letter confirms the intention of the Chinese Government to carry out the reforms and the progressive policy which the world has understood to have depended mainly on the recently deposed Grand Counselor. It also expresses the wish that the Japanese may withdraw entirely from Manchuria and that they, at some future time, may find it advisable to relinquish their occupancy of Korea. The President-elect is peculiarly well informed in matters relating to China. His long residence in the Philippines; his visits to China and Japan and his tour through China, Sibera and Manchuria has given him an insight and a sympathetic interest in questions relating to the policy and the progress of this great oriental Empire. This letter of the Chinese Regent is doubtless a recognition of his interest and his expected influence in vital matters pertaining to Oriental civilization and is another indication of our prominence in world politics.

During the past week, I went to Old Point Comfort to see the incoming fleet returning from its around-the-world voyage, accompanied by eight big iron-clads that had been sent out on the Atlantic to meet and to conduct it home. I cannot say that the spectacle was very impressive. Sixteen large white iron-clads moved up the still waters of Hampton Roads at a speed of only seven knots per hour and saluted with boom of cannon the President's yacht, the Mayflower, as each iron-clad passed. It is something for congratulation that so powerful a fleet has circumnavigated the globe without the firing of a destructive shot at anything except a harmless target. The ships had anything but a warworn or weatherbeaten appearance and it is hoped that they are worth as much as they cost and that in preserving peace according to the idea of the President, they will pay for their enormously expensive upkeep.

Apropos of the Navy, the President has sent another message to Congress urging a greater Navy, advising radical changes, recommending more authority for the Secretary of the Navy and favoring continued preparedness for war. He insists particularly on the cooperation of the Navy Department and the War Department as recently reorganized in defensive preparations and in the establishment of naval stations, calling attention to the good work done in the reorganization of the Army under the plan formulated by Secretary Root. He urges remodeling along the same lines, the naval establishment and administration .

The President's interest and activity up to almost the last day of his administration is not unexpected. He has however, stopped making appointments, announcing that petitions for places must be presented to his successor after March the 4th. Congress is not paying much attention to the President's recommendations, treating them very much as James J. Hill treats the President's Farm Uplift enterprise," as of little more importance than the twittering of the first robin in Spring," to which Mr. Hill says we might as well listen as to the report of the Farm Commission appointed by President Roosevelt. A DAILY LEDGER AD. BETTER THAN WINDOW CARDS

By Grace Of Gladys.

By CARL WILLIAMS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

She was the child star, the youthful prodigy of the Little Gladys Dramatic company. What made it worse, her doting papa was the manager of the show, which played a repertory for a week in the smaller towns, always dramas in which the small star could shine to advantage.

As a stage attraction the child was a wonder. She could play little girls who, like all the good, die young, and she also played rough soubrette parts with a dash that made more important managers wish that there were no children's societies in the large cities to prevent her appearance in the big theaters.

Her father, Joe Glidden, had tried the cities, but after half a season he reorganized his old company and took to the small towns, where the child was a favorite and where children's societies were unknown.

There, among old friends, he felt safe once more. He swaggered about as he had done before he knew what it was to regard every stranger approaching the box office as a possible police officer in plain clothes.

Gladys, as though to make up for lost time, became more incorrigible than ever.

Versatility, her precious dramatic gift, she displayed only on the stage. The members of her father's company never were treated to any private displays of the angel children that Gladys played to perfection on the stage.

In private life the child was steadily and consistently a torment. Jack Trent and Elvia Mordant, of her patient support, were her especial victims.

Gladys' sharp eyes had discovered the birth of love even before Elvia was certain of her own feelings and announced that fact to the rest of the company at supper that evening. Her shrill, piping voice, trained to fill a theater, reached to every corner of the dining room, and the gleeful statement that "Miss Mordant is awfully gone on Jack Trent" set the room in a roar.

With flaming face Elvia sprang to her feet and rushed from the room, the laughter of the company and the other guests ringing in her ears long after she had reached her room.

Scalding tears stained her pillow, but she was at last certain that she did love Trent, and, had he only known, he had cause to be grateful to the youngster. Instead he savagely suggested to Joe Glidden that a good spanking would be the salvation of the child.

Glidden knew better than to take the advice. Once, and once only, had Gladys been spanked. It had happened on a Sunday, and business was bad all the following week, because the child played abominably in spite of all threats. Not until the promise was made that she should not be spanked any more did she appear at her best again.

Glidden only smiled indulgently at Trent's suggestion, but Gladys hated the man for it, and thereafter she selected Jack and Elvia as her special victims.

It did not matter that on the trains they sat at opposite ends of the car. Gladys would discover Trent gazing intently into space and call attention to the fact that he could not keep his eyes off Elvia.

The company laughed at her pert remarks, because they were selfishly glad that Gladys found vent for her love of mischief that did not involve themselves.

Their laughter encouraged the child to fresh endeavors, and since the two victims would not provide her with material for jokes off the stage she formed the habit of guying their performance on the stage.

Jack and Elvia were cast for lovers' roles, and it was disconcerting to hear a sibilant "Ah!" as their lips met in a stage caress. Only in the theater did they see each other now, so Gladys made those stage scenes moments of torture.

Not for a moment did the child relent, and her father only smiled indulgently at Trent's protests and threats to leave. Engagements were not easy to be had in the middle of the season, and Glidden knew that Trent would not take chances with a mother to support.

He had no wish to lose Trent, who was a clever man and worth double what he was getting, but there seemed small danger of his resigning, and it was not an easy matter to control Gladys.

No one read better than the child the true state of affairs, and she made the most of it. More than once Trent made up his mind to leave in the hope that Gladys might then leave Elvia in peace, but Elvia would not hear of it. By suggesting that he would leave her to bear the brunt of the child's enmity she dissuaded him from his purpose.

But the crisis was bound to come. Gladys, with a sense of false security, passed all limit. The favorite play with the public was one of her "angel" parts, and the "big scene" in the last act showed the child at her mother's knee praying that her father, who had been estranged, might return.

He is lurking behind the curtains madly jealous and waiting to kill his wife when the child is put to bed. The naive plea wins him to a belief in his wife's innocence.

It was Saturday night, and the little theater was packed to the doors. Elvia and Jack had both been accorded tumultuous welcome, and this roused the child's professional jealousy.

She was unusually quiet when off the stage, and Trent wondered at her meekness. Just when the big scene was progressing finely and the petition from the child was being read as Gladys never read it before it happened.

In her white nightdress, with her golden curls framing her earnest baby face, she was an appealing little figure, and as she made her plea that her father might return even men in the audience furtively dried their tears.

"And bring him back and make him good to mamma and me again," pleaded the child. Trent roused himself ready for the spring that should bring him to the center of the stage, his arms round the mother and child, but her next lines were not read. Instead she said slowly and deliberately:

"And please let Mr. Trent marry Miss Mordant so they'll stop being spoony — and — and bring my papa back."

"Papa" came with a promptness that startled Gladys. Jack knew that the salvation of the scene was to get the curtain down before the audience realized the interpolation and laughed, so with an improvised line he led right into the cue which was the signal for the drop to descend.

But even as the curtain fell there rose a titter that deepened into a laugh, and through the canvas came a shout of merriment as the audience caught the point. Elvia and Jack were so popular that the audience understood the allusion.

As the glitter of the footlights was shut out by the curtain the arm that held Gladys for the stage picture tightened, and, though she struggled to escape, Trent held her fast. A moment later he was administering a spanking that lost nothing through its long delay.

The entire company crowded on the stage and applauded him to fresh efforts, and it was several minutes before even Glidden interfered.

He soothed the child even while he thanked Jack with his eyes for doing what he dared not, and at last her mother led her off, still shrieking, to the dressing room. Glidden turned to Jack.

"I don't blame you. She deserved it," he said briefly. "All the same, I cannot keep you in the company any longer or Gladys will queer the show."

"I know that," was Trent's even reply. "It was worth it, though. I suppose that I can get a chance somewhere after awhile."

Glidden caught his arm.

"Don't be in such a hurry," he admonished. "I was going to suggest that you and Miss Mordant are favorites over this route. Suppose that I send you out at the head of your own show. It would be a money maker, and you can have a bit of the profits."

"I'll see Miss Mordant," promised Trent rejoicingly as he hurried toward her dressing room. He knew that she would be dressed by this time and could talk to him.

An hour later he tapped on Glidden's door at the hotel. Glidden was still up and answered in person.

"It's all arranged," said Trent briefly. "I'm rather grateful to Gladys."

"I should think you would be," grunted Glidden, for he could read in Trent's eyes that a double question had been asked and answered. Gladys had not prayed in vain.

"Quite So."

When the late Louise Chandler Moulton was in London in the late seventies she noticed the servility, as a rule, of the shopkeepers. It is a comfort to be sure not to be bullied into buying things not really desired, but strongly recommended by the tradesmen. In her volume of "Random Rambles" she recalls an incident in which the clerk's tongue got away with him.

"Quite so!" is a favorite formula with the London shopkeeper, and this habit leads him sometimes into ridiculous blunders. For instance, I went one day into the shop of a London druggist, or chemist, as they say there.

"I want a toothbrush," I said.

"Quite so, madam!"

"And some smelling salts—strong."

"Quite so!"

"Oh, and ink. Have you good black ink?"

"Quite so!"

Presently my parcels were put up, and I began to count out the pay for them. My Yankee arithmetic was scarcely equal to the shillings and sixpences, not to say farthings, of this unaccustomed currency, and I said:

"I am awkward with your money."

"Quite so, madam," came the shopman's reply with the accustomed sweet readiness, and it was only by the smile I could not repress that he was reminded of his unintentional discourtesy.

The Secret of Success.

The motto of success was given in this tale, told at a banquet:

A Swede among the miners in the west was noted for always striking pay dirt. His fellows thought that there must be some secret to the unusual success of the Swede and questioned him as to how he always succeeded in finding the spot where the gold cropped out.

"Vell, Ay don't know ef Ay can tell anytang 'bout dat," answered Ole. "Ay only know dat Ay yust keep on diggin'."—Milwaukee Free Press.

Even Poetry.

"Why do you think, Mr. Pennington, that your new book of poems will have a large sale?"

"My publishers have had the wisdom to put a picture of a beautiful girl on the cover. It is my belief that even poetry can be sold if one goes about it in a businesslike way."—Minneapolis Journal.

WHEELS START IN WHITE HOUSE

Nearly All of Taft's Cabinet Take the Oath of Office

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS

President Will Soon Issue Proclamation Calling Statesmen Together to Consider Tariff Revision—Knox Rejoices at Being "Private Citizen" For a Brief Period—Several Governors Formally Call on President

Washington, March 6.—The Taft administration took its first stride Friday. The new president named his cabinet, the senate confirmed his selection and its members took the oath of office this morning with the exception of George W. Wickersham, who was sworn in as attorney general yesterday, and of Messrs. Dickerson and MacVeagh, whose personal affairs will not permit of their reaching Washington for a week or more.

An important conference took place between President Taft and the Republican members of the ways and means committee. The committee framed a traiff bill which, it is understood, contains a provision for the collection of an inheritance tax, one of the plans suggested for raising revenue contained in the inaugural address of Taft.

President Taft told the committee there would be no delay in the official proclamation calling the extra session of congress for March 15. His message to this session, he said, would recommend that it confine its work exclusively to tariff revision that there might be no unnecessary delay in enacting this most important law.

He said he would not discuss in his message any scheme of tariff revision, leaving such matters entirely to the judgment of congress. The members of the committee left the White House expressing the utmost good feeling and the belief that the work of the extra session would be completed before June 1.

Aside from these important accomplishments, Taft gave himself up heartily to the demands of his friends and to thousands of inaugural visitors who wished to shake his hand, see him smile and get a word to carry home with them.

Philander Knox had the honor of being the first caller on President Taft, who took his seat at the desk abandoned by President Roosevelt in the White House building at precisely 9:30 o'clock in the morning. A fifteen minute interview, Knox said, had its importance, but its subject was not for publication. He was rejoicing that since noon Thursday, when his resignation as a senator became effective, he was simply a private citizen. His rejoicing, however, was brief, for before the day was much older he had been nominated and confirmed as secretary of state.

Governor Higgins of New York, Governor Prouty of Vermont and the senators and many of the representatives from those states next had the ear of Taft and gained his consent to attend the celebration July 7 and 8 next of the discovery of Lake Champlain at Plattsburg and Burlington.

The congratulations and good wishes of Cuba were extended to Taft from President Gomez, Vice President Zayas and a number of prominent Cuban officials and politicians in the form of a memorial presented by General Duany, who came to the United States for that purpose.

The reviewing stand for the inaugural parade was again occupied by Taft yesterday when he took his place there to honor the Seventh regiment, New York infantry. From the stand, which is directly in front of the White House, he returned to the East Room, where he received, with their staffs, the governors of New York, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Jersey, Illinois and Misouri.

The Blaine club of Cincinnati followed and got a pleasant word, the Columbus Glee club sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and Troop A, of the Black Horse cavalry of Cleveland, clanked through the big East Room. An immense delegation from North Carolina followed and the Citizens' Taft club of Cincinnati received many warm words of welcome. And then, too, the public availed itself of the handshaking matinee which kept the big mansion in a state of animation throughout the day.

The office building was not without its demands on Taft and he found time to step over there frequently and meet the members of both houses of congress and their families.

Late in the afternoon Taft found time to go out for a brisk walk with his brother, Henry W. Taft of New York. The several members of the Taft family now in Washington were dinner guests last night at the White House.

Mother and Daughter Perish

Allentown, Pa., March 6.—Mrs. Emma Lauer and her daughter, Mary Lauer, 10 years old, were burned to death at their home in West Catasauqua. The girl was removing ashes from the stove when her dress was ignited. Her mother went to her assistance, but the latter's clothing also caught fire.

$5000 IN PRIZES

World's Best Runners Entered In International Six Day Race

New York, March 6.—For a week, beginning tomorrow night, the attention of sporting men of the metropolis will be fixed on the great international six day go-as-you-please race in Madison Square Garden. Twoscore of the world's best runners, assembled by the promoters of the affair from all parts of the globe, civilized and uncivilized, will circle around the big amphitheatre in an attempt to capture the $5000 hung up in prizes. There is no doubt that the pace set will be very fast, as the men are paired in teams, each man relieving his partner when the latter becomes leg weary.

It is considered certain that the old record for a six day team race, 770 miles, made in 1092 in the only team race for pedestrians ever held in New York, will be beaten.

Among the nations represented in the race are the United States, England, Ireland, France, Canada, Italy, Holland and Greece. In addition there are mixed teams and teams representing Indians, Igorrotes from the Philippines and Hindoos. Included in the entries are several men with international reputations for speed and endurance.

HOSTILE UNDERGRADS

Give a Decidedly Unwelcome Reception to James Kier Hardie

Oxford, Eng., March 6.—At a meeting of the University Fabian society in the town hall here last night, James Kier Hardie, the Socialist member of parliament, who was to have been the principal speaker, was unable to gain a hearing owing to the hostile demonstrations of the undergraduates.

Amidst scenes of the greatest disorder firecrackers were exploded, automobile horns were blown, there were shouts and bursts of song by the students, eggs and oranges were thrown and the platform was stormed. Many free fights occurred during the demonstration.

The proctor of the university vainly appealed to the undergraduates to give Hardie a hearing, but they refused to do so and the meeting eventually was broken up.

EXPLORER COOK LOST IN THE ARCTIC

Appeals For Funds to Organize a Relief Expedition

New York, March 6.—Rear Admiral Schley, retired, on behalf of the Arctic Club of America, of which he is president, appeals in a letter made public here for financial aid to enable Dillon Wallace, an Arctic explorer, to organize an expendition to rescue Dr. Frederick A. Cook, from the Arctic regions, where he has been lost since July, 1907, and has not been heard from since last March.

When last reported Cook was forty miles north of Cape Thomas Hubbard in good health and ready to make a dash for the north pole. It is estimated that about $30,000 will be needed.

HAINS MUST WAIT

Other Trials to Precede That of Alleged Murderer of Annis

Flushing, N. Y., March 6.—When the district attorney of Queen's county asked to have an early date set for the trial of Captain Peter C. Hains, accused of the murder of William E. Annis, Supreme Court Justice Garretson stated that as there were two men in the Queen's county jail who had been awaiting trial there for murder in the first degree for more than a year, he believed their cases should first be disposed of.

He set the date for these trials for March 22 and 23 next and said he would postpone indefinitely the naming of a date for the Hains trial.

LEGISLATORS LOOK ON

Shumway Pays the Death Penalty For Murder of Mrs. Martin

Lincoln, Neb., March 6.—R. M. Shumway, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Jacob Martin, was hanged at the Nebraska penitentiary. He was pronounced dead in six minutes.

Shumway kept his nerve until the end. He walked calmly to the scaffold, protesting his innocence before the death march began.

Several members of the state legislature witnessed the execution.

Sugar Trust Is Fined $134,116

New York, March 6.—The federal jury which has been hearing the evidence in the government case against the American Sugar Refining company of New York returned a verdict in favor of the government for the full amount. This amount is $134,116.03.

All Quiet In Honduras

Washington, March 6.—Reports received at the state department from Central America say that everything is quiet in Honduras.

STATE HOUSE LETTER.

Boston, March 3, 1909.

This week there has appeared the annual report of births, marriages and deaths for 1907. This seems pretty late, but as everything is new till it has been printed, and as these are the latest figures, they will give the most recent statistical information about our social fundamentals. The date of the letter of transmission is October 27, 1908, and it thus appears that a long time was consumed in making the report, and another long time in getting the report printed. The estimated population of the state in 1907 is estimated at 3,086,687, against the census figures for 1905 of 3,003,680, thus showing a gain of 1.41 per cent. for the five years previous, against 2.45 for the previous five, and the last two do not offer much encouragement. The number of births in 1907 was 85,001; the marriages numbered 31,055; and the deaths to 54,234. The excess of births over deaths was 30,767. The number of births to 1000 persons was 27.54. The number of persons married to every 1000 population was 20.12, against 23.44 in 1851, when the table begins. But this figure for 1907 is larger than for any year since 1873, so things are looking up in the world a trifle. The rate dropped to 14.91 in the hard times year of 1878. The deaths to 1000 persons numbered 17.57, against 16.63 for the previous year and 16.36 for 1904, which is the lowest recorded since 1851. The excess rate of births over deaths was 9.97 per 1000 persons which is the highest since 1860. The ratio of births to marriages was 2.87, which is lower than for the previous two years and materially lower than for most of the recent years. The highest rate recorded is 3.36 in 1859, and that is a good ways back, before much was heard about race suicide. It will be noticed that there are some glimpses of better prospects in some of the preceding figures. There was a daily average of 233 births, 85 marriages and 146 deaths.

Averages have been computed for the five-year census periods and some of the points are these: The excess of birth-rate over death-rate for the last five-year period from 1900 to 1905, was 8.4 per 1000 persons, against 8.9 for the previous five years, but those figures are higher than for any average for five years back to the period from 1855 to 1860, before the war, when it was 11.6. Deaths to the 1000 persons for the last five year period averaged only 16.7 and this is lower than for any previous period and the next lowest was 17.7 for the five years ended in 1860. Births to 1905, was 8.4 per 1000 persons, against 8.9 for the previous five years, but there are two periods lower, one of 25 for the five years ended in 1885, and one of 24.2 for the five years ended in 1880.

In 1905 our population averaged a density of 139 to the square kilometer and in all the countries of Europe there are only two of greater density. Belgium in 1900 had 227 to the square kilometer, and Saxony had 280. Comparison is not made with any of the states of the United States, but we are generally credited with being the densest, with the exception of Rhode Island. There were 15,344 children born of parentage of mixed nationality in 1907, or 445 more than in 1906. Figures covering long periods show a very slow, but steady tendency of mixed marriages to increase in number, indicating how race lines are being gradually obliterated, which reminds me of seeing within a few days, an undoubted specimen of an Irish negro, with sandy and kinky hair, a strongly marked Irish face and a mulatto complexion.

The marriages number one to exactly every 50 of the population, against one for every 51.3 in 1906, 55.3 in 1905, 60.1 in 1904, 56 in 1903 and 57 in 1902. Of the four quarters of the year, the most occur in the spring quarter and the fewest in winter. The average age of all bridegrooms was 28.8 years and the average age of all brides was 25.22 years. The average age of men marrying for the first time was 27.1 years, and the average of women marrying for the first time was 23.3 years. The youngest recorded age at marriage was that of a girl at 13 years. But 11 married at 14 and 46 at 15. The youngest boy married was 15 years of age, but 8 married at 16. There were 674 men and 5,328 women married under 20. There were 2628 second marriages, 107 third and three fourth. Both parties were native born in 42.44 per cent. of the marriages, both were foreign born in 36.96 per cent. The number of divorces in 1907 was 1932, which was in the ratio of one divorce to every 16.1 marriages, against one to 16. for 1906 and 30.6 in 1888, which is as far back as the table goes. This frequency is exceeded only twice in the table. In 1904 the ratio was 15.3 and in 1903 it was 15.6. But, taking the last 20 years as a whole, there has been a prodigious increase of divorce.

Comparison of death rate with foreign countries shows that against the 18 per 1000 persons in 1907, the latest figures from Great Britain, Sweden and Norway give each the rate of 16, which Russia runs as high as 29 for the year 1899 and Spain had the same high figures in 1900. In this state August is the most deadly month, and this, again, emphasizes the urgent need of saving the lives of the babies and the dispute over the milk supply becomes urgent once more. Figures show a difference in favor of the rural countries in matter of death rate. Deaths of persons under one year of age numbered 20.83 per cent. of the whole; under five years were 27.46 per cent.; from 20 to 30 years 6.57 per cent.; and all others, 65.98 per cent. The infant mortality was the lowest for 20 years, with two exceptions. Heart disease killed 6155; tuberculosis of lungs 4771 pneumonia 4415 and so on down.

With Gov. Draper in Washington, Lieut. Gov. Frothingham takes the reins of the state in hand, in case of emergencies. While nothing has been said publicly about it, yet it is hardly to be supposed that Frothingham will take upon himself the duty of signing bills, unless there is some emergency which will not permit waiting till Gov. Draper returns. The lieutenant governor spends considerable time in the new office which was arranged for Draper when he was lieutenant governor. Not till Guild's service in the second place was there even a desk in the state house for the lieutenant governor, and then he had a place rigged up for him in the front outside corner of the council chamber. The difference is another indication of the growth of the state's business, which the officials, and the public still less, cannot keep up with. Already there is urgency for the construction of the proposed east wing and Sergeant-at-Arms Remington said yesterday that if it were built now, it would be quickly filled so nearly full that but little room would be saved for future expansion.

Last evening ex-Senator Frederick J. MacLeod, who is now the chairman of the democratic state committee, invited the Senate and House and newspaper men to the Intercolonial club in Roxbury. A large party went and enjoyed the evening. No connection appears between his political and social position, but there is no doubt that personal acquaintanee with him will give confidence to his administration of the democratic state committee this year. In straight party politics, there is nothing in sight out of which the democrats can make capital thus far this session, unless it is the beef scare, and that will not last long nor strike very deep. Vahey may have scored a point by the favorable report upon his bill for the adoption of the United States form of verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, by which a jury can report "without capital punishment."

Much interest has been shown in the hearings upon the milk standard, and the committee on agriculture announce today that they will begin the public hearings on Thursday, March 18, but there is no telling when they will end. There is good reason to believe that the committee feels as the board of agriculture does, that it would be better to let the law alone one year and not amend it so soon after the new standard was fixed by the legislature last year.

There is tremendous agitation for an extension and thorough overhauling of the present system of underground transit in Boston. The present is good as far as it goes, but it does not go half far enough. Rule.

WOMEN ARE VICTIMS

INDOOR LIFE AND LACK OF EXERCISE CAUSES PILES.

More women than men have piles. It is because they take so little outdoor exercise and are so often constipated. There is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel, and no amount of cutting or treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove this cause.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, an internal, tablet medicine, will permanently cure any case of piles, removing the cause. Price $1 at Clyde T. Cox's. Quincy, Mass. Fully guaranteed. Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet.

BRIEFS.

Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., of Spear street has been confined to the house this week with a grip cold.

The cellar is being put in for a house for Miss M. Alice Harris on Lincoln avenue between Grand View and Prospect avenues. George E. Thomas is the builder.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker of Arlington street are receiving much sympathy from their friends for the loss last week of their infant. Mrs. Baker has been very ill but is now slowly convalescing.

Mrs. Sarah E. Shultz of Clive street, is able to get around the house with the use of crutches, Mrs. Shultz had the misfortune in January to break her leg. Her friends will be glad to see her out again.

The Young People's Religious union of First church is making a study this winter of different religions and on Sunday evening will have as the subject "Episcopal Church." There will be special music by the Y. M. C. A. Mandolin club.

The committee on Harbors and Public Lands reported ought to pass. Friday morning in the legislature on the bill for $7,500, to widen the channel off Wollaston beach. The channel is to be 60 feet wide and three feet deep at mean low water.

Gordon A. Sherwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sherwin of Clive street is desirous of publicly expressing his thanks through these columns to Winthrop Safford, who with aid of many friends was instrumental in presenting him with a substantial pecuniary gift during his trying illness.

Mrs. Wiliam O. Wellington,. Mrs Charles R. Safford and Mrs. Percy H. Holman for the Education committee of the Quincy Women's club are arranging for the annual prize contest for boys in sloyd work. Four prizes are offered. The boys must be under fifteen years and do all the work, themselves. The work and name of winners of prizes will be exhibited at the Children's festival at Music hall in April.

Members of the First parish are much pleased with their new organ. It has been enjoyed at the regular services on Sundays but its merits were not fully appreciated until Wednesday evening when an organ recital was given by John D. Buckingham. Under his masterly hand every note was brought out; there seemed to be a blending of stringed instruments, flute and organ and the program rendered emphasized the good qualities of the organ and the artistic ability of the player.

Papers have gone on record transferring the farm of four hundred acres, sixteen room house and 150 foot barn formerly owned by the late F. B. Hanchet of Plainfield, N. H., to Robert W. Whiteacre of Safford street, Wollaston. This property adjoins the farm purchased by Mr. Whiteacre a few years ago and used by him as a summer home. Mr. Whiteacre's family contemplate moving to New Hampshire in the near future when he will engage in stock raising on a large scale, having at present quite a valuable herd of Holstein and Jersey cattle.

SUNDAY: 12 TO 1—SHARP

Bethany Church, City Square

If YOU are a young man, and not associated with any other Quincy church, YOU are most cordially invited to come to our meeting.

A warm welcome—Hearty singing—A helpful hour together.

Mrs. Abigail L. Gregg reached the 83d milestone in life's journey on Thursday, and the anniversary was observed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Elmer Morrison, who gave a reception and tea. Mrs. Gregg enjoyed the event keenly, being in good health, and was the recipient of several tokens including beautiful flowers and congratulatory letters. Two of her four grandchildren served at the tea table, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and Mrs. James Ellsworth. The Woman's Guild of Christ church, Quincy, and also of Emmanuel church of Braintree were largely represented, Mrs. Gregg being the oldest communicant of Christ church. She is the daughter of the late Samuel Curtis of Quincy, and has six great grandchildren.

THAYER ACADEMY NOTES.

The girls' basket-ball team played its second game of the season against the girls of the Randolph High and defeated them by the score of 8-6. The game was hard fought from start to finish, and the decisive basket was not made until almost the end of the last half. After the game there was held an informal dance and all those desiring to participate were given a chance.

The boys' basket ball team played at Dummer last Saturday, in spite of the loss of two of its star players, Willard and Avery. The game was not finished, however, on account of Thayer's disagreement with the referee. At the end of the first half the score was 11-10 in Dummer's favor. But soon after the start of the second half the Thayer team withdrew from the floor, thoroughly dissatisfied by the decisions made against them. Nevertheless the boys enjoyed the trip, especially as it was the last long trip of the season.

Today the team plays the Cambridge Commercial college at Braintree. The opponents are said to have a good team and an interesting game is in view.

A delegation from the Amana Rebekah lodge visited a sister lodge in Weymouth Wednesday evening. Degree work was witnessed. A supper and sociability added to the pleasure of the party.

BASKET BALL.

Basket ball was brought to a close yesterday at High school with a game against the Rock Ridge Hall five of Wellesley. Rock Ridge had things all their own way winning easily by the score of 34 to 11. The local team was clearly outclassed at all times, the teamwork and shooting of Rock Ridge being too much for them.

Shooting baskets seemed to be Quincy's weak point, for time after time, the local boys worked the ball down the floor on excellent passing, but failed to score when they got under the basket. Rock Ridge, however, caged the ball with ease and accuracy being even more certain of shots, it appeared, when they were covered.

Manning and R. Bates excelled for Quincy, with Howe showing a good eye for shooting fouls. For the visitors Manson, Rood and Clemens showed up strongly in all departments of the game. The summary:

ROCK RIDGE HALL	QUINCY HIGH
Manson, rf	lb, S. Bates, Prout
Rood, lf	rb, Marsh, Hogan
Clemens, c	c, Howe
Goodwin, rb	lf, Manning
Wood, lb	rf, R. Bates

Score, Rock Ridge 34, Quincy H. S. 11. Goals from floor, Manson 4, Rood 4, Clemens 6, Wood 3, Howe, Manning 2, R. Bates. Goals from fouls, Howe 3. Referee, Tupper. Scorer, Gore. Umpire, Mellen. Timer, Cole. Time, 20m periods. Attendance, 200.

—Mrs. Edith Morley has been awarded three contracts for card indexing, by the State of Massachusetts. She is working in the department of births, marriages and deaths, at the State House, and employs from eight to ten women. Mrs. Morley, although a young woman of twenty-five has been working for seven years in card index systems. Her specialty is in systemizing office routine. She goes into an office, examines its work and needs, and then evolves the simplest working system. She is said to be the first woman to receive a Massachusetts State contract.

AMUSEMENTS.

Boston Theatre.

"Way Down East," under the management of William A. Brady, with a newly painted and augmented production, returned to the Boston theatre last Monday night for a two week's stay, and was warmly greeted by a house that was packed almost to capacity. This popular New England play has been absent from Boston for several seasons, so its revival on Monday was thoroughly appreciated by the mass of theatregoers who seldom attend the theatre except for grand opera or productions like "Ben Hur," "The Shepard King" or "Way Down East." Manager Brady has been wise enough to retain almost the entire cast of players last seen here in their respective roles, and the few new comers to the company, acquitted themselves admirably. The Village Choir, composed of a mixed quartet of excellent voices, rendered the old songs in the old manner, and added several new selections for encores. Jane Millard, the alto of this quartet, has been with the company for a number of years. The others are never acquisitions, but fully competent. The engagement of "Way Down East" is limited to the coming week, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

Keith's Theatre.

Still another legitimate star will keep up the procession that is passing through Keith's theatre this season, and it is no other than Nell Burgess in a condensed version of the play with which his name has been indentified for many years— "The County Fair." Another feature of unusual interest on this bill will be William Jerome and Jean Schwartz, the famous song writers. Claire Romaine, "London's Pet Boy," who was one of the hits of last week's bill, has been held over and will introduce some new specialties. The great sensational feature will be Hal Davis & Company in the great play called "Pals," Willette Whitaker the harpist, and F. Wilbur Hill will furnish some excellent musical numbers. The Mermaids are two beautiful young women in a swimming art and they do some remarkable stunts in a large tank. Others are the Four Trapnells, Monroe and Mack; the Picquays, Evans and Loe, and a number of special attractions.

Castle Square Theatre.

John Craig will give next week the patrons of the Castle Square something of a novelty in the shape of an automobile play, its production comes just at the moment of the great annual automobile show, and it will therefore possess a timeliness that will increase its popularity even beyond the custom of Castle Square productions. Furthermore, it will receive its first performances on the Boston stage, and that will of course give the play an added interest. The story deals with the adventures of a bright and beautiful American girl who starts on a tour through France, accompanied by an elderly aunt as chaperon, in a balky automobile that finally breaks down entirely. A cultivated Englishman comes to their rescue, and for the fun of the thing he masquerades as a chauffeur, and becomes their servant and courier. The cast of "The Lightning Conductor" at the Castle Square will include John Craig as the Hon. John Winston, Mary Young as Molly Randolph, Minnette Cleveland as Miss Kedison, Mabel Colcord as Lady Brighton, Theodore Friebus as Talleyrand, George Hassell as Jabez Barrow, and Gertrude Binely as Sybil Barrow.

Orpheum.

The star of all Scotch comedians, Jack Lorimer will make his American reappearance at the Orpheum theatre next week, heading an exceptional bill of headline features. Bostonians are not unfamiliar with Mr. Lorimer, but it is so long since they have had an opportunity of seeing him, and he has made so many excellent changes in his Scotch act that he will come as a seeming stranger to many. Mr. Lorimer's popularity in England and Scotland has been so great that it was impossible to secure him for an American tour earlier. The remainder of the bill is of the highest possible quality, including such artists as Alexander Carr and Company in "Toblitsky" the end of the world," Finley and Burke, travestyists, Bosenquest the human violin, George C. Davis, the Celtic Commentator and others. Mr. Carr is too well known as a Hebrew comedian to need any comment. His "Toblitsky says" has become famous. His work has been imitated by scores of performers.

Gaiety Theatre.

The clever doings of a charming soubrette and a very much wanted Hebrew are furnishing the principal material for a well constructed musical comedy which is this season's chief offering of the Bowery Burlesquers who are to appear at the Gaiety theatre for one week beginning Monday afternoon with two performances daily. "Too Much Isaacs" is the title of the attraction which finds its locale in the first act in New York City, while the second act has as its background a watering place along the Hudson river.

The cast is headed by Ben Janson and embraces Charlie Jansen, Harry Hills, Ed Fitzgerald, Eddie Convey, Neely Limbach, John W. Quinn, Fred Russell, Lillian Held, Norma Bell, Josie Kine, Edna Green, Gertie Hart, and the Nazarros, while the chorus is represented by an array of beautiful girls, well trained for evolutions in the art of dancing and for the musical numbers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Editor Daily Ledger:

In view of the fact that the letters in your paper relative to raising the Maine have provoked more popular discussion in public places than antiquated subjects usually do, I am impelled to add a word further to the controversy.

Considering the great lapse of time since the Maine was destroyed, and the recognized ability of the Government engineers who have advised three different administrations that raising the wreck is practically impossible, are not the recommendations and contentions of Police Officer Henry J. Mathews rather strained and far-fetched?

While the American people are not lacking in patriotic devotion, they recognize the futility of attempting tasks predestined to failure and have long since abandoned serious consideration of the project. A. B. H.

To the Editor:

In Saturday's Ledger I notice an article embodying the opinion of Engineer Woolson of New York on the question of raising the wreck of the battleship Maine. Mr. Woolson has a national reputation, and his opinion ought to be sufficient to correct the views of the most misguided enthusiast who wants the Government to disturb the wreck. I commend the article to my friend Henry J. Mathews. That is my answer to his latest diatribe on the subject.

So far as I am concerned, Mr. Editor, this debate has been free from hostility. In matters pertaining to criminology and police work I would respect the judgment of Mr. Matthews, for he is an intelligent and efficient officer; but when it comes to discussing an engineering problem, he might as well sheathe his pen and leave the matter to those who, by virtue of their training and experience, know whereof they speak. The trouble is, he allows his strong sense of fellowship for the dead soldiers to overcome his reasoning. Peace to the brave fellows and the top of the morning to Bro. Matthews. Respectfully,

J. A. Bamford of H. M. M. S. '98.

The college boys give a concert in the Stone chapel Wednesday evening. They will be assisted by Miss Orma Adams Richardson in several artistic dances.

Do You Know That GERMAN SELTZER

is becoming more and more used at the family table in Quincy as a healthy, invigorating and cleansing drink day by day?

The reasons are many—for it aids digestion, relieves Headache, Sour Stomach, and takes away that fullness after eating, quenches thirst and tones the system.

It has been recommended by many Quincy physicians, it is also used in our Quincy Hospital with good results.

We take pleasure to announce that we are celebrating the first anniversary of our successful business, and we are expressing our thanks and gratitude to our patrons by giving FREE of CHARGE a bottle of the

SPEAKS ON THE RIGHTS OF LABOR

James Duncan Says Industrial Democracy Is Labor's Hope

James Duncan of Quincy, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor and secretary of the Granite Cutters' International association, gave a talk Sunday afternoon in the Maverick Congregational church, East Boston. It was the third of a series of men's mass meetings which are being held.

"The Rights of Labor" was the subject of the address and about 350 men closely followed Mr. Duncan's words.

The meeting was the largest that has been held so far, and was also the most interesting and enthusiastic.

Mr. Duncan said in part:

"Organized labor is today and has been for many years the universal problem of the world. I have worked for 10, yes, 11 and 12 hours for a day's work, but through the efforts of organized labor that is no longer the situation. The hours of labor have been cut down to eight hours a day. We don't put in the extra three or four hours in the saloon or in idleness, but on the contrary the time is devoted to the struggle for humanity, the betterment of our homes and the uplifting in general of ourselves and families. As the result of an eight-hour day our wives are happier and our children receive the care which they are entitled to from a father, and receive the proper instruction and training.

"Our unions are blamed for being formed for the purpose of making disturbances. In a sense we plead guilty to that charge. We want to disturb, it is true, that condition of affairs in the body politic that stops a man from living as he should live. We do not feel our rights have been secured in the reduction of the working hours and do not stop there. We take a stand for better wages, for we would not be getting enough to keep body and soul together if we did not act and we hardly receive more than that now.

"What but the labor movement brought about the child labor improvement in this state and other states? Labor organizations have done more in that form for humanity than all other societies or organizations.

"Our movement is not confined to a few states, nor to North America. It is universal. The theme that labor stands for and is fighting for is an industrial democracy that will make for all the people justice."

SNOW AND ICE SPOILS DECORATIONS

John Evans Says Weather Man Treats Washington Unfairly

Washington, D. C.
March 5th, '09.

Dear Editor:

I told you in my last letter that every one here was anxious about the weather for Inauguration day. But there wasn't anybody who thought the weather man would play such a mean trick on Washington as he did yesterday

I was astonished, when my daughter called me at daylight to find the trees in Lincoln park which is across the street covered with snow and ice, the streets were covered with nine inches of snow, still coming down in flakes, and the wind was blowing a gale. It was one of those grotesque happenings that mock our best human endeavor at times.

But while unkind nature could make us uncomfortable, it could not make us unhappy or sad. No snow storm could drive the smiles from our lips. No icy wind could blow from our hearts the enthusiasm, which we had for our incoming President, or the earnest and sincere, "good luck, God be with you" to the retiring chief.

So about nine o'clock Benjamin Curtis and I braved the storm and wended our way down Pennsylvania avenue and sure enough there were thousands along that great thoroughfare.

The decorations which had cost the city thousands of dollars, were to a great measure destroyed, while the grand stands were made useless by the sleet and snow.

The weather man had destroyed, in a few hours, the work that it had taken men weeks to accomplish. He had covered the entire city with a mantle of white. Washington had not ordered the snow, nor so much as hinted that it would be given a cheerful place on the program of events if it came. In fact we did not want it. But just the same it bulged in, and the weather bureau did its very worst. But all the same the great American people were out by the hundreds of thousands, in spite of the goloshes they had to wear and the umbrellas they had to carry.

Now I have not touched the parade and the inauguration nor the President's speech nor a hundred and one other things that I know you have read about in the Ledger. But in my next letter I want to tell about many thing that will interest the readers of the Ledger.

Very truly,

John Evans.

BOARD OF HEALTH TO MAKE INVESTIGATION

Mayor Orders Law Against Infected Beef Strictly Enforced

There has been but little public discussion in Quincy over the infected beef question. Many however, have been heard to state that they would not on any condition eat a piece of beef knowing the same to be anyway infected, even if certain officials do declare that it is not harmful.

The duty of finding out if any beef sold in Quincy is infected, is up to the inspector of provisions, who is under the Board of Health. As far as known, he has reported no cases in Quincy, but now that the question has been raised he will probably be more strict in his inspection.

A morning paper publishes a number of interviews with Mayors of Massachusetts cities on the question and Mayor Shea is credited with the following:

"The Massachusetts Legislature should investigate this matter to the end. The State law as far as I can interpret it states that no infected beef shall be sold. I will instruct the Board of Health of this city to investigate the matter thoroughly. I will not eat the meat nor would I want anyone else to do so. It is too serious a question to trifle with, and Governor Draper should see that every possible means is taken to protect public health. Some of those Senators should think of the people. They should not gag any attempt at investigation."

When shown the interview this morning the Mayor said that they expressed his views on the subject.

A larger part of the beef sold in Quincy is suplied by the Hammond Beef Co., who declare their beef to be all right. There are some places, however, where cheap cuts of beef are sold and the infected beef if any, is more apt to be found in the cheap cuts, although here in Quincy the inspector keeps after the provision dealers pretty sharp to see that they live up to the law.

It is a question, however, if any inspector or local man could give beef, would disclose whether it was infected with tuberculosis or not, and that the proper place for the rigid inspection would be at the places where the beef is killed.

SEVENTEEN NEW MEMBERS.

Rev. Thomas W. Davison, the new pastor of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church has already shown his popularity by having seventeen new members added to the church list. Among those who joined on Sunday morning, were: William R. Harding, Miss Annie B. Harding, William Arthur, Mrs. William Arthur, Alan C. Arthur, Leslie W. Arthur, Mrs Charles French, Winthrop Safford, T. J. Smith, Mrs. T. J. Smith, M. J. Singleton, Miss Doris Cummings, Rev. T. W. Davison, Mrs. T. W. Davison, Miss Hazel Davison. Mr. and Mrs. John Smith joined Sunday evening.

MRS. MARGARET SULLIVAN.

Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, wife of Michael Sullivan of 200 Main street, died at her home Sunday after an illness of about a week. She was 67 years old and had resided in Quincy for a long time. She is survived by a husband.

The funeral will take place tomorrow morning, from her late home. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. John's church.

LEVI C. ELA.

Levi C. Ela, a veteran of the Civil war, passed away Saturday at his home, 197 Farrington street, Wollaston, aged 71 years. Mr. Ela had been in poor health for some time.

He leaves three sons and two daughters. One of his sons, George C. Ela, is a post commander of John A. Boyd Camp United Spanish War Veterans. Mr. Ela was a member of a Boston G. A. R. post.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.

Letters remain undelivered at the Quincy post office for: Lottie M. Baker, Maria Bergman, D'Tasio Biagiodi (three letters), Miss Annie Burke, William C. Crane, Antonio Crecori, Miss Mary Doherty, Giovamo Gizzarelle, Bartha Holgerson, Miss Lizzie Mack, Rev. D. B. Mathews, Miss Marion Petterson, James Simpson, Miss Charlotte L. Smith, Miss Nellie Ward, 1210 Sea street.

EAST WEYMOUTH.

The citizens of this place were shocked Saturday to learn of the death at the Carney hospital at an early hour on Saturday morning, of William Tobin one of the foremost citizens of this place. Mr. Tobin had been ill for some time and had gone to the hospital for treatment and was to return home Saturday afternoon. His death was wholly unexpected. Mr. Tobin was a veteran of the Civil war, a member of Reynolds Post 58 G. A. R., Weymouth Council Knights of Columbus, Division No. 9 A. O. H., and of the Republican town committee. He had conducted a waiting and lunch room for many years. He was a man of sterling character and it was said of him that his word was as good as his bond. His death is a great loss to the town. He was always active in anything that was of a benefit to the town. He leaves a widow, a son, Thomas Tobin, a daughter Miss Lena Tobin and several brothers and sisters. The funeral will take place from the church of the Imaculate Conception, Tuesday morning. Mr. Tobin was 64 years old.

A WORTHY CAUSE.

To the Editor:

There is great need for contributions to pay for a few weeks' board for a deserving woman who is suffering with incipient tuberculosis. All contributions sent to F. W. Raising salaries continues to be a far more popular Government acusement than raising revenues.

King Edward is back in London. A roayl visit during which nothing of public importance occurs is considered a success.

The frequent long runs that the police patrol wagon is called upon to make is a severe hardship for the one horse of the department and it would seem advisable that the department should be supplied with an auto patrol wagon.

The one horse is likely to be called upon any night to make a run to Wollaston or Atlantic, three miles away and to follow that with a run to Houghs Neck. Two such runs as these, and the horse would naturally be all in for that night.

Another thing should a call for the wagon be received from Atlantic, it would be at least 20 or 25 minutes before the wagon could arrive. In the meantime the officer would have to stand guard over his prisoner.

If however the department was supplied with an automobile the run to Atlantic could be made in quick time.

After leaving City Square the driver would have a clear street to Atlantic and he could send his car down Hancock street at a 25 mile an hour clip or perhaps even better.

As it is now it means that the horse must be driven at a dog trot or the animal would drop before it reached the goal.

It also happens that the patrol wagon is kept on the constant move, especially on Saturday nights, answering calls from all parts of the city, and it is a severe hardship for one horse which is all the police department owns.

An automobile patrol wagon could probably be purchased for $1000 at the outside and the cost for running the machine would be but little more, if any than it now costs to keep a horse.

The Massachusetts Saving Insurance league has recently issued a prospectus containing tables showing the maximum of premium or benefits offered by the Savings Bank Insurance scheme. As there is a committee now working for the introduction of the plan in Quincy it will undoubtedly be of interest to our readers to know just what old age annuities really are.

According to the prospectus. by the payment of $1.00 a month, a man 21 years old may secure an annuity of $200 a year commencing at age 65, continuing throughout life. By paying $1.40 a month he will receive an annuity of $200 beginning at age 65, continuing throughout life, and in case of his death before age 65, the family or representatives will receive an amount equal to all premiums paid by him.

This will insure a man at least part of a living after he has passed his prime.

All the profits of the annuity and life insurance business, according to the prospectus will go to the policyholders, just as now, all the net earnings of the savings department go to the depositors. It is expected that these profits will be large.

The Massachusetts savings banks have a long record of large earnings on deposits and of small expenses of management. Though the character of permissible investments is narrowly limited by law to ensure safety, these banks earned last year 4.73 per cent. on the deposits, while the expense of managment was only 1-4 of 1 per cent. All earnings of the annuity and insurance department, except so far as required for expenses or taxes or as applied to build up guaranty funds, will be paid to the policyholders. For the Massachusetts savings banks have been operated solely for the benefit of the depositors.

TWO MONTHS' WORK ON TARIFF

Many Schedules Involved In Consideration by Congress

OTHER BUSINESS COMING UP

Discussion of Tariff Alone Would Result In Long Periods of Inactivity on Part of Senators, Who Will Probably Consider Special Matters of Importance Which Failed to Get by at Last Session of Congress

Washington, March 8.—When congress meets on March 15 upon the call of the president, to consider a revision of the tariff, there will be no constitutional restriction upon the nature of the business that may be transacted.

It is generally conceded that at least two months will be required for the house of representatives to conclude consideration of all the schedules involved in this legislation. The house itself will not receive the bill for some weeks, for the committee on ways and means will require considerable time to report the measure.

During this long period the senate will have nothing to do in respect to the tariff, and even after the bill leaves the house it will be in the hands of the committee on finance for some time before the senate actually gets possession of it and the debate begins. Then there will be a long wait by the house of representatives until the senate amendments can be known and conferes are appointed to bring about an agreement upon them.

This procedure will result in each house having to remain in session, with nothing to do in relation to the tariff, covering a period of a couple of months. Three days is the extent of a recess that may be taken by either body.

In view of the long period of inactivity that would face each house should nothing be considered except the tariff, many senators are considering the advisability of entering upon other legislation which they believe ought to be passed in time to send it over to the house when that body has disposed of its bill and will only have to wait for senate action on the tariff. The advocates of postal savings banks have talked of the possibility of such a policy being adopted ever since they became aware of their inability to secure legislation of the last session of congress.

There are many earnest advocates of a change of a date in the inauguration from March 4 until a later day, when favorable weather is likely to prevail. Senator Depew took the first legislative step in favor of making such a change when he introduced a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution to change the date of the inauguration from March 4 to the last Wednesday in April.

Advocates of statehood for New Mexico and Arizona were greatly disappointed that no progress could be made toward the enactment of an enabling act during the last session, and they are restless over any proposal to delay action until the regular session of congress.

The president's veto of the census bill makes mandatory some action to provide for the enumeration of the thirteenth census, and while legislation might be delayed until early next winter, some of those who are interested in this subject believe that the extra session would give an admirable opportunity to dispose of it.

The extra session is sure to bring about a deluge of bills in both houses and as senate committees are organized for business, there need be no delay in getting to work if the prevailing sentiment favors action on special matters.

In the house of representatives it is understood that only the committee on ways and means is to consider tariff legislation, and a committee on the census to frame a bill for the enumeration of the next census, in addition to the committee on rules and accounts, will be appointed, so that any additional legislation requiring committee action could be procured only by a change in this program.

NOT THINKING OF WAR

Nicaragua Is In Absolute Peace, According to Her President

New Orleans, March 8.—President Zelaya of Nicaragua, in a cable dispatch to Consul General Altschul here, denies that preparations are being made in his country for a war with either Costa Rica or Salvador.

"We are here in absolute peace," declared Zelaya, "and everything is quiet."

Old Theatrical Man Dead

New York, March 8.—William H. Bishop, well known in theatrical circles as manager or owner of old-time successes, died here at his home from internal injuries sustained by being struck by a heavy automobile truck. Bishop was 64 years old and a native of Buffalo.

Straus Ambassador to Japan?

Yokohama, March 8.—A special dispatch published here, stating that the appointment of Oscar S. Straus as ambassador to Japan is practically assured, is creating much comment in the Japanese newspapers.

NIXON'S PREDICTION

Airships 2500 to 3000 Feet Long Will Soon Be Crossing the Ocean

New York, March 8.—Louis Nixon, the shipbuilder, spoke interestingly of the possibilities of aerial navigation in an address at the annual dinner of the Richmond County Automobile club.

The use of aeroplanes, Nixon said, was limited so far as large weight carrying was concerned. He described their place in war. They could be used for scouting, dropping small bombs and attacking large dirigibles, and, like swarms of locusts, could fly over and beyond hostile armies to cut communications.

Cities would soon have regular landing stations on the tops of houses, Nixon said. Six years' progress had already developed and put into use airships larger than the steamships of twenty years ago and of speed far in excess of what is now attained on water.

Based on observation and calculations made from results already obtained, and hence in no sense speculative, it was safe to predict, he said, that airsips would soon appear with a length of from 2500 to 3000 feet, which could easily go with 100 passengers from here to Europe and return within a week.

Y. M. C. A. WORK IN RUSSIA

Highly Appreciated by the Emperor and Other Officials of Note

St. Petersburg, March 8.—Premier Stolypin, M. Khomyakoff, president of the duma, and other prominent government officials, have signed an address to Anson P. Stokes of New York in appreciation of his aid in founding the Russian Young Men's Christian association.

Emperor Nicholas, the empress and other members of the royal family are taking a lively interest in the association. The emperor has contributed liberally and Grand Duke Alexandrovitch has given $1500.

The emperor has issued a special order that the apparatus for the new gymnasium be entered free of duty.

NEGROES TAKE UP CASH COLLECTIONS

Will Purchase Testimonial For Ex-Senator Foraker

Montgomery, Ala., March 8.—Former Senator Joseph B. Foraker will be presented with a handsome testimonial by negroes of Montgomery, because of his championship of the troops involved in the Brownsville affair.

Collections were taken up in all the negro churches yesterday and among the membership of the negro fraternal lodges with which to purchase this testimonial. The set of resolutions which were read in the different churches will accompany the testimonial.

DIRECT ACCESS TO SEA

New Railroad Arrangement Agreed Upon at Johannesburg

Durban, South Africa, March 8.—The Natal Mercury announces that an arrangement was signed at Johannesburg under which Great Britain takes over the Lourenco Marques railway and port as part of the Union railway system, thus giving Transvaal direct access to the sea.

Lourenco Marques is the chief town of the Portuguese possessions in eastern Africa. It has the finest natural harbor of any port in the whole of South Africa. The Lourenco Marques railway to Johannesburg runs through Swazieland.

CARTS AWAY HEADSTONES

Marble Man Wants to Chisel Them Into Home Ornaments

Pittsburg, March 8.—Peter Scott, who conducts a monument works at McKeesport, was arrested as he was carting away the tombstone from his first wife's grave.

Previously he had taken the tombstones over the graves of his four children and he explained to the police that he wished the marble to make ornaments for his home to which he had taken a bride two weeks ago.

Story Writer a Suicide

Boston, March 8.—Bertha W. Elton, author of short stories, died at her home here as a result of taking carbolic acid with suicidal intent. She was 42 years of age and was believed to have become unbalanced through overwork. She was unmarried.

NEWS IN BRIEF

MILLS SOURCES OF DISEASE

Duty of Employers to Wage War on Tuberculosis

SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN BEGUN

Designed to Give Consumptives a Chance For Their Lives, as Disease Is Soon Cured If Taken In Its Earliest Stages—Over a Score of the Larger Firms In Central Massachusetts Interested In Project

Worcester, Mass., March 8.—More than twenty manufacturing companies in Worcester county, employing over 12,000 men, women, boys and girls, have enlisted their support in a campaign to stamp out tuberculosis among the working people.

To this end each employing firm has agreed to pay the expenses of three months' treatment at the Massachusetts state sanitarium at Rutland of any employe who may be found suffering from the "white plague" in its early stages. Some of the firms have even agreed to pay to the families of such persons the wages earned by the employe who has been obliged to go to Rutland for treatment.

The support of the manufacturers in the campaign against tuberculosis has been secured by Dr. Melvin G. Overlock of this city, one of the state health inspectors.

In starting his campaign, Overlock impressed on the owners and managers of the big manufacturing concerns of the district that it was their duty, from an economic as well as from a humanitarian standpoint, to help the movement to stamp cut the disease. He argued that the mills, as a general thing, from the nature of their work and the confinement of the employes, are sources of the disease, and when it strikes one of the employes that person's productive ability is lessened and there is danger of a spread to other employes, to say nothing of the danger in the households, which in many mill towns are not hygenic.

As frequently happens, the victim of the disease is the main support of the family and with his or her wages missing from the home for any length of time, poverty creeps in some times and the entire community has to suffer and the mill owner in particular feels the effects in the depressed spirits of his employes.

To lessen the strain on the family and to give the employes a better spirit, Overlock prevailed on many of the big manufacturing companies to help in the work and since last November he has secured the guarantee of twenty-three of the larger firms in central Massachusetts to pay the expense of treating for a period of at least three months those of their employes who may become victims of tuberculosis.

Statistics show that 75 percent of the cases treated at the Massachusetts sanatorium in Rutland are cured in about three months if the disease is taken in its earliest stages. Under the state inspection of factories, it is comparatively easy to discover an incipent case of tuberculosis and the manufacturers have all agreed in writing to contribute $4 a week to pay for the treatment of such cases.

One firm is already paying for the treatment of five of its employes and another company has had three of its employes sent to the sanatorium since Jan. 1.

EMIL JORDAN CAUGHT

Long Hunt of Federal Authorities Rewarded at San Francisco

San Francisco, March 8.—Emil Jordan, who is said to be wanted in New York on several charges, including the murder of a policeman, jail breaking on Ellis Island, forgery and bringing young women from France in violation of the immigation laws, was captured here last night by secret service officers and local detectives.

The federal authorities have been searching for him for six months. He will leave for New York tomorrow in custody of secret service men.

LIQUOR SELLING ON RIVER

Not In Violation of Law, According to an Ohio Judge

East Liverpool, O., March 8. Judge W. W. Hole ruled that liquor can be sold on the Ohio river without violating the law.

This ruling will greatly handicap the work of the "dry" forces, as nearly all the towns along the Ohio river have voted to prohibit the sale of liquor.

The decision was made in the case of a man who was charged with selling liquor on a houseboat.

Irishmen Are Sensitive

Pittsburg, March 8.—A mass meeting of Catholic societies of Allegheny county was held here, at which resolutions were adopted protesting against the sale of postal cards ridiculing St. Patrick and the Irish race.

The Pope Has Influenza

Rome, March 8.—The pope's indisposition has taken on the character of influenza, and his condition inspires apprehension.

RECORDS LIKELY TO FALL

World's Best Professionals Taking Part In International Contest

New York, March 9.—Fifty-four pedestrians, divided into twenty-seven teams, started this morning in the international go-as-you-please race at Madison Square Garden. The duration of the contest will be 142 hours, the finish being scheduled for 10 o'clock next Saturday night.

Five thousands dollars in prizes is offered by the management, of which the winning team will get $1500 and the next seven teams proportionate amounts. By frequent relays it is expected that fast time will be made and that all previous world's records will be bettered.

The men who are competing were selected from the best professionals in the world, and fifteen countries are represented in the contst.

MONKEY AS SHOPLIFTER

Had Been Trained to Pilfer Whatever Its Master Desired

Paris, March 8.—One of the most singular captures ever effected by the Paris police was the arrest of an acrobat named Miguel Androval, attached to a traveling circus, who had been robbing stores systematically by aid of a monkey.

In a large establishment the man requested to be shown some jewelry. While he was examining it the detectives observed the head of a tiny monkey emerge from Androval's coat pocket. Then the monkey's paw shot out, and while the shopman's attention was diverted the animal seized several valuable rings and withdrew to its hiding place.

In a shop a few yards further on he was shown a variety of costly lace. The trick was repeated.

PLUNGED FROM HOSPITAL WINDOW

Naval Officer's Desperate Effort to End His Life

Washington, March 8.—Lieutenant Commander James H. Reid, U. S. N., leaped from a second story window of the naval hospital, where for two weeks he had been under treatment, and was seriously, if not fatally injured. That he escaped instant death is considered as remarkable.

Reid sent his nurse from the room for a glass of water. The attendant had hardly left the ward before the officer barricaded the door tightly. Then, seizing a heavy oak table, he rammed it against the window-sash, tearing it from its fastening. He took a running jump and dived headlong from the window, striking upon his head on the ground, thirty feet below.

Reid is 35 years old, a native of Baltimore, and has been on sick leave since October, 1907.

APPEARED AT HER BEDSIDE

Young Widow Fatally Shot by Rejested Suitor, Who Kills Himself

Beaver, Pa., March 8.—Waking early Sunday morning at her home here, Mrs. Mamie McKee, a young widow, found William G. Wilmer, a rejected suitor, standing at her bedside.

When she declared again, in answer to his question, that she did not love him, he fired four bullets into her head. Wilmer then killed himself by taking poison and then shooting himself.

Mrs. McKee is living, but with no possible chance of recovery.

TOTAL OF 2295 STRIPES

Whipping Post Records In Delaware Broken In a Workhouse

Wilmington, Del., March 8.—Yesterday was the biggest whipping post day in the criminal records of Delaware. Eighteen culprits were whipped at the workhouse for various offenses, principally larceny, and the total number of lashes inflicted was 255.

As a genuine cat-o'-nine-tails is employed for the purpose of castigation, a total of 2295 stripes was laid across the bare backs of the unfortunate men.

THE MANILA STRIKE

Other Labor Organizations May Help the Street Car Men

Manila, March 8.—The strike of the Manila street car men, which was declared March 4, has not spread beyond the railway operatives yet, but it is possible that other labor organizations will go out in sympathy.

There has been no disorder. Details of police armed with shotguns are placed aboard the cars at night, but the officers have not been called upon to quell any riots.

Bark and Crew Lost

Luderitz Bay, German Southwest Africa, March 8.—The Norwegian bark Aukland was wrecked in a gale off Possession Island. All the crew were lost. The Aukland was bound from Rosario for this port.

Something New.

"I don't believe he ever did an original thing in his life."

"Oh, yes, he did."

"What was it?"

"Stayed home one night with his wife."

NOT A STRANGER TO PUBLIC LIFE

President's Wife Is Posted on White House Etiquette

IS CARRYING OUT OWN IDEAS

Facilities For Divorcing Official Business of President From Dwelling Proper to Be Availed of to Fullest Extent—Police Officers and Frock-Coated Doorkeepers Replaced by Footmen In Livery

Washington, March 8.—Mrs. William H. Taft, "first lady of the land," has assumed duties without public ceremony or oath of office, which, in weight of responsibilities, magnitude of importance, delicacy of execution and absolute lack of compensation, except the love for the president and loyalty to the nation, have no comparison.

Mrs. Taft will meet her social requirements worthily by virtue of her long experience with public life. As the wife of Mr. Taft she was "first lady of the land" in the Philippine Islands; she was his wife as a federal judge and as a cabinet minister. In the last named position, she learned Washington society and she became an intimate of Mrs. Roosevelt, and from her learned the details of White House etiquette.

It was from this intimacy, to which is added a thorough discussion and mature consideration, that Mrs. Taft has reached her own conclusions and is already making the minor changes in the administration of the executive mansion necessary to meet her own ideas. That these ideas will meet with general approval when they are understood is a confident prediction.

The addition to the executive office building permits of an entire divorcement of the official business of the president from the White House proper, and this facility is to be availed of to the full extent.

That the main entrance of the White House may present as nearly as possible the appearance of a private residence, the uniformed police officers and frock-coated doorkeepers have been removed, and have been replaced by negro footmen in livery. For safety an officer is retained on duty in the miniature office room inside the main entrance, and another on the second floor of the mansion.

The rights of the public are recognized by the maintenance of the hour from 12 to 1 o'clock, when admission is granted through the east entrance to the historic East room and to the parlors of the mansion.

Mrs. Taft has abolished the position of steward and will conduct her domestic arrangements through a woman housekeeper.

While the season of prescribed official dinners is over, it may be predicted that the new tenants of the White House will have a series of informal social functions during the special session of congress, which will bring animation to the sedate structure during the first few months of the Taft regime.

Mrs. Taft is forty-six years of age, although her appearance and natural animation would not indicate that fact. She possesses an analytic mind, is naturally domestic, is an ardent lover of her husband, and takes upon herself without comment or hesitation the entire responsibility of her position. To relieve the president from domestic cares and social adjustments seems to be the basis of her administration, and her first few days of duty indicate that she is as competent for the task as is her husband for the duties to which he has been called by the nation.

Democratic simplicity characterized the first Sunday in the White House of the Taft family. President Taft, accompanied by his brother, Charles P. Taft, walked to the Unitarian church for morning services. The capacity of the edifice was taxed to its utmost with worshippers and strangers whose curiosity compelled their presence.

It was expected that the president would arrive in his automobile, and his sudden appearance among the crowd of several hundred persons on the sidewalk and street was a surprise. There was no attempt at demonstration, but the eagerness to get a close view of the new president was not veiled.

President Taft saw no callers who had business to transact during the day, thus beginning his administration with his heretofore enforced maxim that Sunday should be a day of rest.

A quiet family dinner was served at the White House during the evening, at which were present several members of the Taft family who are still in the city.

Fred W. Carpenter, secretary to the president, spent some time in his office during the day arranging for the disposal today of the great mass of communications which have been received since Mr. Taft assumed the duties of president.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor:

In the March 4th issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger, in the editorial column a statement was made that Houghs Neck is looking for considerable this year. The citizens of the Neck are not looking for a "great-deal," but they are looking for the "square-deal" to which they are entitled. The Ledger concedes that a school house is needed—thanks for that much. In regard to there being more fire alarm boxes in this district than in any other section of the same size, Houghs Neck has five boxes below Adams shore.

The writer of the article in the Ledger must be very poorly informed in regard to the conditions of the Neck, and less about the combinated box requested.

Now for a few facts. Houghs Neck has a fire department consisting of one man, two horses and a combination wagon, with five boxes so located that the sections, for which the boxes are needed, can reach the present boxes by a ten or fifteen minutes' smart running if the messenger has good wind and nimble feet. If a fire occurs in the night in a remote section, it is natural to make for the nearest phone or engine house if there is no box. The one man at the engine house gets out the apparatus and goes to the fire then someone has to run to a box and ring in the alarm to get out the call men; in the meantime, the building burns.

The object of the combination box requested is that the man in charge of the engine house can ring in the alarm for any location, as he leaves the house, which will give the call men a chance to go to the proper location and help to handle the apparatus before the building is destroyed.

The circuit wiring mentioned in the article of March 4th has nothing to do with the combination box requested, the above mentioned box is considered to be one of the most essential kind of boxes for one man departments by the manufacturers of boxes, that supply Quincy as well as all surrounding cities. If the call men can be replaced by permanent men it will suit the people of the Neck fully as well as a combination box, but it will be somewhat more expensive.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Contest Over Estate of Benjamin Hadley Ends With Compromise

Boston, March 8.—After a year of litigation over the estate of the late Benjamin Hadley, an aged Somerville recluse who died in December, 1907, leaving property worth nearly $1,000,000, for the disposal of which four wills were found, a settlement was affected out of court, Judge Lawton sanctioning the settlement.

By the terms of the settlement the contestants, George M. Hadley and Clarence V. Hadley, nephews, will receive $82,500, the remainder of the estate to go to the residuary legatee, Walter F. Hadley, another nephew.

Two wills found in England, which provided that the property should go to residents of Trowbridge, Eng., and included a bequest of $10,000 to President Roosevelt, with a third will which was not offered for probate, were thrown out by Judge Lawton.

The fourth will provided for bequests of $30,000 each to George and Clarence Hadley, if they did not contest the will, and $15,000 if they contested. The remainder of the estate was to go to Walter F. Hadley.

NO FAITH IN REVIVALS

Unitarian Minister Frankly Expresses His Opinion In the Matter

Springfield, Mass., March 8.—Discord has been created in the Protestant denomination of Springfield by an attack from the pulpit upon the Chapman-Alexander revivalists by Rev. A. P. Record, pastor of the fashionable Unitarian church.

In part he said: "The modern revival is simply one phase of the psychology of the crowd or mob. Men will respond to appeals presented to them en masse which would have no effect on any one of them when presented individually.

"Granted a crowd in an expectant mood and a leader of magnetic personality, and he can sway his hearers at will and it is for him to say whether they shall find an outlet for their feelings in the acceptance of salvation, the lynching of a negro or the shooting up of a town."

POLITICAL WORKERS ON POLICE FORCE

Room Made For Them by Discharging Experienced Men

Havana, March 8.—The general amnesty bill has been signed by President Gomez. It will take effect immediately and provides for the release from prison of those persons who have been convicted of other than crimes of grave atrocity. This will result in the freeing of many professional criminals, which causes much uneasiness in Havana.

The police force in this city has become largely disorganized by reason of the discharge last Thursday of three captains and of four more captains yesterday, as well as many experienced detectives, to make room, it is stated, for a number of political workers.

WANT NEW WAGE SCALE

McKay Stitchers In Thirty-Five Lynn Factories Ordered Out

Lynn, Mass., March 8.—A general strike of the 150 McKay stitchers employed in thirty-five shoe factories in this city has been ordered by the executive committee of the McKay Stitchers' union.

The general strike follows that of forty-six McKay stitchers Saturday and, like its predecessor, is to enforce a demand for a new wage scale. The stitchers ask for a standard general price of 48 cents on a case of shoes, an increase of about 1-12 of a cent on each pair.

PROMPTED BY JEALOUSLY

Woman Seriously Injures Husband and Takes Her Own Life

Norwich, N. Y., March 8.—Mrs. Henry C. Jacobs shot her husband in the head and then shot and fatally wounded herself. She survived her injuries only a few hours, but her husband will probably live, though he will be blind for life, as the bullet lodged just behind his eyes.

Jealousy was the cause of the tragedy. Mrs. Jacobs left a letter to the public in which she accused a cousin of her husband of alienating his affections and wrecking his home.

No Trace of Diphtheria

Providence, March 8.—A second culture test failed to disclose any traces of diphtheria in the four Brown university students who were thought to be suffering from the disease. Physicians say that the men had nothing more than severe cases of sore throat.

Town Hall Burned

New Marlboro, Mass., March 8.—The efforts of a bucket brigade failed to save the town hall here from fire, and the entire building was destroyed, together with all the records of the town since its incorporation. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Profitable College Athletics

Cambridge, Mass., March 8.—A surplus of $26,091.10 of receipts over expenditures in all lines of Harvard athletics is shown by the report for the college year 1907-1908.

BRIEFS.

Parish meeting tonight of First church at eight o'clock in the chapel.

Tonight is an off night for the City Council. The next meeting will be held March 15.

Quincy lodge of Elks has several candidates for initiation at its meeting Tuesday evening.

The regular meeting of W. R. C. 102 will be held tomorrow afternoon. Supper and whist in the evening.

W. A. Bradford of the W. A. Bradford Co., returned from the south last week much improved in health.

Although there was a light storm Sunday afternoon the weather was not severe and there were many people about.

John J. Ryan, superintendent of the Lyman school for boys will speak on criminal tendencies of children, before the Knights of Columbus club next Sunday.

Junior Alliance of First church will postpone the meeting scheduled for tonight, on account of the annual meeting of the parish, and will meet on the 15th.

The local ice men have given up all idea of cutting any more ice in Quincy and are planning to get their summers supply from places where there is plenty of ice.

Mrs. Edith B. Holway and little daughter Margorie, of Northborough, spent the week end with Mrs. Holway's mother Mrs. Estelle A. Boyden at Hotel Greenleaf.

There was a large attendance at the Y. P. R. U. meeting in First Church chapel last evening to listen to an interesting lecture and some fine music by the Y. M. C. A. Mandolin club.

The many friends of John W. Walsh who underwent a surgical operation at City Hospital will be glad to learn that he is doing nicely and on the rapid road to recovery. It will be two weeks before he is able to be out however.

The finest musical production ever given in Quincy will be that of the Quincy Choral society at Music hall tomorrow night. Two hundred Quincy singers are in the chorus assisted by some fine soloists from Boston and an orchestra.

The sunday services at Bethany church, both morning and evening were largely attended. At the morning service after an earnest and forceful sermon by Dr. Hardy, the communion service was held and twenty-seven new members were received into the church. At the evening service special music, by trained soloists and chorus, under the direction of Madame Morey, was finely rendered.

The many friends and acquaintances in this city of Mrs. Lue Stuart Wadsworth, who has recently retired from the position of department president of the Woman's Relief Corps will be pleased to learn that she has again been honored by her election as president of the Ladies' Aid Association of the soldiers' home at Chelsea. She is very popular with the inmates of the home and all will rejoice in her appointment. She endears herself to all with whom she comes in contact, and is a willing, faithful and earnest worker for the G. A. R. and the W. R. C.

WEST QUINCY

A meeting for the Sunday school children of the Swedish Baptist church will be held in the church chapel tonight at 7 o'clock.

The young men of Station street are planning to organize a base ball team called the Station A. A. for the coming base ball season.

Hjalmar N. Werme, who recently enlisted in the 153d Co. of Fort Andrews, spent the week end with his father, N. Frederick Werme of Hillside street.

The barn now on the premises occupied by Mrs. Sullivan of West street is being moved to one of the lower fields to be remodeled into a house.

J. F. Walsh, the popular druggist, is having the store formerly occupied by Alfred LaCroix, at the corner of School and Hancock streets, remodeled into a drug store.

The old stone crusher, near Albertina street, that was burnt down about two years ago, is now being rebuilt. A large blacksmith shop has already been erected and a gang of men are busy grading the place.

Some of the members of the National Sportman's club can be seen most every Sunday afternoon strolling through the Blue Hill Reservation with their hunting dogs to give them some exercise. They have a good looking bunch of young dogs which they are breaking in with the old ones. The boys say they are going to be prepared for the coming fall shooting season with a good bunch of fox and rabbit hounds.

MADE SUCCESSFUL RAID.

Inspector Goodhue with Officers Farrell, Cahill, Duffy, Bishop and Hinchon raided the premises of Lewis Silager at 86 West street at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. In the stable the officers found seventeen men seated about a table drinking beer. On the table was a pitcher and a number of empty bottles. The officers seized what empty cases and bottles there were. The case will come up in court later.

DEATH OF MRS. ANN HOLDEN.

Mrs. Ann Holden, widow of John A. Holden died this morning at her home on School street. She was 82 years old and was one of Quincy's oldest and best known residents. She is survived by a son and daughter.

—Mr. Bryan remains radically conservative. Asked his opinion of the Taft policies, he told a New York reporter:—I haven't had time to read what Mr. Taft said. I haven't had time to find out just what the policies of the new administration are, and consequently I am not at this time in a position to talk about the questions involved. I have President Taft's inaugural address in my overcoat pocket now, and I intend in a day or two to read it over carefully, but I shall not comment on it until I have had time to read it.

A NOTRE DAME LADY'S APPEAL.

To all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbagos, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home as thousands will testify—no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box B, Notre Dame, Ind.

ATLANTIC

There are several cases of scarlet fever in Atlantic and Norfolk Downs, so the doctors say.

Mrs. C. H. Reviere of Sagamore street is visiting relatives and friends in New York City and Kearney, N. J.

Mrs. Celia Goodwin of Holmes street who was operated on at the Boothby hospital, Saturday, is slowly improving.

Marion and Winthrop, children of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney of Walker street are ill with the whooping cough.

Mrs. Harry W. Reed of Squantum street has been spending the week end with her daughter Mrs. Fred Harris Thompson of Somerville.

The ladies of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church are planning for a cake and apron sale to be given in the church the last of this month.

Mrs. Lynden Gurney of Walker street has been suffering for the last few weeks with inflammatory rheumatism and is still confined to her home.

The Everett lodge, A. O. U. W. degree team is exepcted to work the initiation on several candidates in the Norfolk lodge No. 178, A. O. U. W., March 22d.

Joseph Callahan of Squantum, sailed March 5th for Cuba where he will join his brother Charles who is a civil engineer there. His many friends wish him well.

Master Elsmere Smith of Farrington street is ill with diphtheria. It is but a short time since the young man was laid up with a broken arm. Troubles never come singly.

It is reported that a woman was struck by an electric car on Hancock street near the Sacred Heart church on Saturday evening. It is not known whether she was seriously injured or not.

Master Gordan Sherwin who has been suffering with plural pneumonia, and in the Massachusetts general hospital, was removed to the convalesence home in Waverly, Friday, March 5th.

Rev. John Galbraith, the district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal churches of this district has changed his place of residence from 83 Columbia road, Dorchester, to 1187 Blue Hill avenue, Mattapan.

Several of the Atlantic people are taking the opportunity of going aboard the United States battleships Missouri and New Jersey, just returned from their trip around the world and are now at the Charlestown Navy yard.

The funeral of the late George C. Doyle of Neponset, formerly of Atlantic, was held from his late residence, 10 Blackwell street, Sunday at 12.30 P. M. Services at St. Anne's church at one o'clock and requiem mass this morning at eight o'clock.

A large number of people attended the evening service at Memorial Congregational church, Sunday evening, to hear Rev. F. E. Emrich D. D., of Boston. A chorus of thirty mixed voices furnishes splendid music for the evening services and is a drawing card, as well as varied speakers. The chorus is in charge of E. Landis Snyder and is making great progress.

A large number of the members of Henry H. Faxon Memorial lodge, No. 159, International Order of Good Templers will accompany their Chief Templar, H. O. Cassidy, on a visitation to the Rockland lodge, on Monday evening, March 8th. The Rockland lodge made a fraternal visit in a body to the Atlantic lodge several weeks ago, and at that time extended a hearty invitation for a return visit.

All of the Squantum cars were crowded with people Sunday. Besides many who went to Squantum purely for pleasure many went with the view to buying land in that part of Quincy. It looks now as though there would be considerable building going on in Squantum during the coming season. Squantum has become more and more popular during the last few years as a summer resort.

Seven Neponset boys were caught red handed throwing mistles at passing trains from the Atlantic street overhead bridge, Atlantic, last week. Several Atlantic boys have also been caught at this same mischief. The Atlantic officer has all of their names. This should be a warning to the boys and a gentle hint to their parents to keep a better watch over their boys as this is a very serious offense and a second one will not be overlooked.

A large express wagon was drawn up on the sidewalk a few rods west of the Pneumatic Scale Corporation's building and left there over night. The city has been to considerable pains and expense to put in this sidewalk for the use of pedestrians and it seems hardly fair that people should be forced to go out into the mud in the street to pass. Aside from the fact that the sidewalk is being torn up by teams which are doing this frequently, there is danger of someone's getting seriously hurt by running into a team in the dark.

The contract for the new furnishings of the Sailors Home at Germantown was recently awarded to Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

A series of tournaments will be started Thursday evening between the Quincy and Weymouth Councils, Knights of Columbus. The games to be played in the tournaments are pool, forty-five, whist, auction pitch and checkers.

QUINCY POINT

Joseph E. Haley of the pattern shop at the shipyard spent the week end at his home in Newport, R. I.

At the Washington Social club tomorrow night, the regular weekly cribbage party will be held.

Mrs. Joseph Riley, with her son Joseph, is spending a few days with her mother Mrs. Mary Donovan of Chubbuck street.

A new pole is being erected at the corner of Washington and Sumner streets by the Quincy Electric Light and Power Company.

A large, new refrigerator has arrived at the J. Peterson store. It is so large that a section of the store will have to be torn down in order to get it into the building.

Miss Viola Bicknell of the Washington school sang in the Universalist church of Melrose on Sunday. She was formerly the regular soloist in this church.

Rev. Alfred R. Atwood of the Washington street Congregational church preached Sunday morning on "The Elevation and Exultation of Elijah." His topic for the evening was "Solomon and Elijah."

SOUTH QUINCY

Rev. G. W. Palmgren of the Swedish Congregational church took for his subject Sunday morning "The Disciples' Failure."

On Thursday evening, March 18, the Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Lutheran church will hold a supper from 5.30 to 8 o'clock.

A whist party and dance was held in Electa hall Saturday night by "The Twelve Brothers." There were about 25 tables in play and the scores were high.

Henry B. Sheahan, Harvard '09, of School street is one of the two men who wrote the books and lyrics for the annual theatricals ot the Pi Eta club of Harvard. The play is entitled "The Highflier" and will be presented in Quincy at some future date.

The engagement is announced of Miss Bessie Grossman, daughter of Louis Grossman of 341 Water street to Benjamin Rappatort. Sunday evening at the home of the bride's parents an engagement party was held and a large number of friends were present. Many beautiful presents were received by the couple.

WEYMOUTH.

William H. Curran a well known athlete of this place died Saturday morning aged 33 years. He leaves a widow and two children. Mr. Curran was well known as a breeder of dogs and as a professional jumper and runner.

The school committee held a meeting at the town office Friday evening and organized with Thomas V. Nash chairman, and John F. Reardon secretary. A delegation headed by N. D. Canterbury appeared before the committee at the request of the Woman's club to ascertain whether the articles which have been printed in the papers about the controversy between the committee and superintendent of schools were correct. He presented clippings from several papers. He said that they did not know who wrote the articles but wanted the committee to ascertain whether they were correct or not. H. F. Perry a member of the school committee very soon enlightened them on that subject by stating that he wrote the articles and further more would stand back of them and could give them a great many more facts that had not appeared in the public print.

The whole matter is looked upon as political scheme. As the seven who attended the meeting are all politically opposed to Mr. Perry as is also the president of the woman's club. The whole affair dates back to the representative fight of last year.

One of the speakers tried to make it appear that the articles were written for political purposes. But F. H. Torrey another member of the school committee took the floor, and after he got through talking it was shown that if there was politics it was with others rather than the school board. The vote over the school committee question at the annual town election resulted in the reelection of Mr. Reardon and was a strong indorsement of the members who are opposed to the manner in which the schools have been conducted. The whole question at the town election was whether the policy of the present superintendent should be indorsed or not, and those opposed won out by a big majority. One of the speakers at Friday night's meeting tried to drag the superintendent of schools into the fight. But he refused to get mixed up in it. The appearance of the committee before the board is looked upon by the citizens of the town as an attempt to change the supposed position of one of the school board.

A Boston paper had a report of the meeting written by a reporter who was not present and had the facts badly twisted. Mr. Perry stated at the very beginning of the hearing that he wrote the articles and not after all had spoken as stated by that paper.

The alarm from Box 612 at 8.52 Sunday night was a false alarm. The Atlantic combination made a quick run to the box and found quite a crowd standing about but no fire.

WOLLASTON

Miss Elizabeth Wright of New Bedford is visiting Mrs. William Atkins of Beach street.

Rev. Carl G. Horst will be installed as pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church next Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of Atlantic and Miss Edith Randall of Quincy are guests of Miss Beattie, matron of Brockton City Hospital.

Miss Marion Chadbourne, a teacher at the High school is spending a couple of weeks with Mrs. William Klingenhagen of Kemper street.

Miss Gertrude Greene, who is teaching at a private school in Providence, R. I., is spending a few days at her home on Marlboro street.

Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg of St. Chrysostoms church preached at the lenten service Saturday evening at the church of the Good Shepherd, East Dedham.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Sutermeister was christened by Rev. W. J. Heath at the Sunday morning service in the Wollaston M. E. church.

The Epworth League of the Wollaston M. E. church will hold their monthy social and business meeting at the home of F. A. Sutermeister 285 Belmont street, on Thursday evening March 11th.

There were received as members at the Wollaston M. E. church Sunday morning Mrs. Ruth S. Willard and Mrs. A. Demsnap by letters and Oram E. Robinson and Margery Fawnes on profession of faith.

Albert E. Kingsbury of Newton street entertained last week Mr. Alvah W. Morse of Hudson. On Saturday Mr. Kingsbury accompanied him to Sandwich where Mr. Morse has a large trout fish hatchery.

Rev. F. A. Reeve, rector of St. Anne's church Dorchester is the visiting clergyman at the 12.30 and the 8 P. M. lenten service at St. Chrysostoms church on Wednesday.

Dorothea, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pletsch of Marlboro street, was brought home from the Homeopathic hospital, Boston, on Saturday, where an operation on her ear was performed by Dr. Johnson several weeks ago.

Miss Marion Eddy Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lewis of Wollaston, and Mr. Charles R. Capon of Detroit, were married at the home of the bride on Farrington street, on March fifth at eleven oclock. Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Wollaston Congregational church performed the ceremony.

A grand concert is announced for Tuesday evening, at the Park and Downs Congregational church. The Arion Male quartette of Boston, which will be one of the chief attractions, will be assisted by Mrs. W. G. Brooks, soprano; Mrs. Ella Phillips, reader; and Miss Henrietta Gram, accompanist.

Does Your Hot Water Bottle Leak?

You never can tell when a Hot Water Bottle is going to make trouble by springing a leak.

Hot Water Bottles are apt to give all sorts of trouble unless they are good, and it's hard to tell the difference between pure rubber and poor rubber in a Hot Water Bottle when its new.

The THERAPEUTIC VALUE

of a Hot Water Bottle is well known. The application of heat by this means quickly alleys pain, reduces inflammation and combats disease in many ways. A Hot Water Bottle is needed by every family—that is a good one—we sell good ones.

AT WORK ON FOURTH PICTURE

Helen Smith Astonishes Disciples of Occultism In Geneva—American Prima Donna Tells of Miss Smith's Efforts In Art—Painting of Portraits Started With the Eyes.

Helen Smith, the wonderful girl psychic at Geneva, who is astonishing even those who profess to know the mysteries of occultism and bewildering those who follow the philosophy of materialism, recently finished the fourth painting in the series of seven which she claims she has been inspired to do, and the work is exciting the wonder of art connoisseurs who have seen it.

Miss Minnie Tracey, the prima donna, daughter of Colonel John Tracey, journalist, who at the time of his death was commissioner of charities in Washington, recently returned to Paris from Geneva, where she has made a triumph in the operas of "Tristan und Isode" and "Tannhauser." She is a great friend of Helen Smith and spent much time with her watching her work upon the portrait of Cagliostro, which is Miss Smith's latest work. Speaking of her experience, Miss Tracey said:

"I called upon Miss Smith quite frequently while in Geneva and saw the portrait of Cagliostro grow from its beginning. It was simply wonderful. At first the outline appeared like the features of a young man, but as Miss Smith worked the face grew older and wrinkled. The color of his dress was changed several times during the making of the picture and finally remained a rich brown.

"You understand that Miss Smith is an uneducated girl, without a knowledge of or even an acquaintance with painting. She is always in a trance while doing her work and never takes anything to eat or drink on the day she receives her 'inspiration.' As there is a painting of Cagliostro in the Louvre at Paris, it is proposed to bring the painting by Miss Smith to Paris to compare the likeness of the subconscious work with the real portrait in the museum.

"Miss Smith's work so far has consisted of three other paintings—a 'Crucifixion,' which possesses such strength and originality that it made tears come to my eyes when I looked upon it; 'Christ In Gethsemane' and a 'Virgin.' She has never been out of Geneva and has been a very limited reader. Yet the historic facts she states are always correct, and her knowledge of geography and of places is perfect.

"M. Badin, in whose store Helen acted as a shopgirl until her remarkable psychic manifestations attracted the attention of the psycho-philosophers, told me that Helen never evidenced great intelligence, but that she had a remarkable memory. Whenever she became possessed with an inspiration to paint M. Badin willingly allowed her to go home and remain away as long as she required.

"Through Mrs. James Jackson's generosity she was enabled to give up her position and stay at home to develop her powers.

"The painting of a picture involves much preparation, for the 'inspiration,' or whatever it may be, directs her just how to prepare the canvas or panel on which to paint, indicating the exact size, the kind of wood or canvas to be used and everything to the minutest detail. Even after everything has been prepared this inspirational force often decides to change its mind and will instruct Miss Smith to commence all over again on a new plan.

"She generally starts her portraits with the eyes. The room in which she paints is always in a dim light, and absolute quiet must prevail. She had her first command to paint in 1906, but attributed it to some wild fancy and did not take it seriously, but as the inspiration recurred she followed its instructions and finished her first work, 'The Crucifixion,' in 1908."

DAMAGE BY KANSAS THISTLES

Heavy Winds Drifted the Filmy Stuff Till Trains Were Delayed.

In the heavy windstorm in which Logan county, Kan., recently suffered much loss for forty-eight hours, the greatest damage was done by the inoffensive Russian thistle, more commonly known as the tumbleweed. The weeds, which are about the size of a half bushel measure and almost round, blew over the prairie by millions, packing in the cuts along railroad rights of way and delaying traffic.

On the streets where the buildings made a shelter from the gale they were piled to the tops of awnings like an immense haystack, accumulating overnight.

Prevention of Suicide on Railways.

The newly organized railway bureau of Japan has invented a new method of preventing suicide on the railway track as one of the first steps in the improvement of railway administration. The plan is to erect strong arc light poles at the places along the railway where cases of suicide are frequent, such as from the Uyeno park hill, overlooking the Tokaido line. Suicides from this spot have been most frequent, and it is hoped that by means of a new light the engineer in charge of the locomotive will be able to see any object on the track more easily.

Marry and Part For a Year.

Among the many peculiar customs prevalent among the people of Central America is that of parting for one year after the marriage ceremony has been solemnized. This custom has prevailed among the Jarnos from time immemorial. There is no courtship allowed to be carried on between the parties prior to the wedding. When a man selects a woman he obtains the consent of the parents on both sides, and if this is given they are at once married. The reason, however, for their not living together as man and wife for one year after marriage is in order to permit of the parties visiting and staying with their respective friends in different parts of the country, which is a customary thing and occupies the time specified. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of these marriages turn out well.

JOINS OLD COLONY BASEBALL LEAGUE

Quincy Association Granted Vacancy Franchise

At a meeting of the Old Colony baseball league held in Rockland on Sunday, the Quincy association was granted the franchise to fill the vacancy in the league. Several applications for admission into the league had been received, but Quincy seemed to have first call.

The committee appointed to investigate the matter, reported very favorably for Quincy, saying that general conditions, grounds, grandstand etc were excellent.

This gives the Quincy men behind the movement the start and opportunity they have been looking for and from now on things will boom.

At the Rockland meeting President Jerome F. Murphy of Stoughton presided, and the clubs were represented as follows: Rockland, D. M. O'Brien, Frank S. Alger, H. S. Healy and D. E. Sheldon; Weymouth, T. V. Nash, John Kelley, Arthur D. Tirrell and Benjamin Richardson; Stoughton, Jerome F. Murphy, D. J. Dennison, John T. Hazelton and Dennis Mahoney; Randolph, James G. Hoye; Taunton, William McCarthy and Quincy, Sydney Patterson, John Kelly, Stanley Barnicoat and John Faircloth.

Each club is to make a deposit of $25 on or before March 20, as a guarantee of good faith to complete the season. This puts the league on a good basis and practically insured success.

A meeting of the schedule committee will be held next Thursday night in Hotel Belmont, Brockton. Each

SECOND LECTURE ON COOKING

Mrs. J. M. Hill Tells How To Make Entrees

ILLUSTRATES LECTURE WITH PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION

Ladies Sample Delicaces And Pronounce Them Fine

The second of Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill's demonstration lectures on cooking under the auspices of the Wollaston Kindergarten committee, was given Monday afternoon in Brasee hall, Wollaston, the attendance was fully as large as last week and the interest as keen. For who does not like an entree?

Mrs. Hill began her lecture by giving the definition of entree; something that is served between, just after the main course—the whole thing on one plate, or individual, and every particle is edible, or it may be the main dish of a luncheon.

The first dish made and served was Ham Timbales with peas in white sauce. The little moulds were perfect with a bit of parsley on each, around which was poured the sauce, and they were just as good to eat as they looked. One could also use ham and chicken, or tongue with lamb or veal. She gave valuable information regarding the different timbales and ramekin dishes, and how to line the moulds.

The second dish appealed especially to those who have learned the many various things that can be prepared in a casserole, and the advantage of having all served hot in the dish it is cooked in. Veal Balls with macaroni en casserole was composed of so many ingredients that it would be a dinner in itself for the average family. Mrs. Hill told and showed in detail each step as regarding preparing the tomatoes, macaroni, etc.

The Truffled Fish mousse was a dish which must have been new to all. The fish mould was first lined with truffle cut to fit depressions in the mould but as Mrs. Hill said, for ordinary occasions a plain mould would do just as well. A lady asked her to tell what a truffle was, and Mrs. Hill fully explained where and how they grew and were hunted. They are a great delicacy. The mousse was served with a delicious hollandaise sauce and garnished with potato rosettes slightly browned and would please the eye as well as the taste of every one. She explained how one could use the breast of chicken instead of fish.

The Halibut au gratin en Remequins were delicious and she said there were endless ways of preparing fish after this method and having very delectable dishes, most of us do not use enough fish. She told of the Indian mother and the pains she took to provide the different proteids and animal foods for her family. These prehistoric people did little cooking but with natural instinct they got all the elements needed.

Baked Bananas were liked by those who do not like bananas raw. Mrs. Hill said they were wholesome after cooking and had a food value.

To the Sultana sauce she added cooking sherry wine, which she said contained no more alcohol than did vanilla.

Mrs. Pinkham called the ladies attention to several articles on sale including the magic cover, an ice pick, and a little heart shape affair which cost only a dime and could be put to numerous uses.

The next lecture on March 22 will be on Fancy Salads.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

Engineer Woolson's scheme to make an artificial island around and about the wreck of the Maine in Havana Harbor where idle and thoughtless men and women might "promenade" is grotesque. It would be scarcely in more execrable taste to erect a dancing pavilion in a graveyard or cemetery.

The wreck cannot be raised decently as anyone who has seen it will agree, but there is an opportunity for the U. S. W. Vs. to do something very appropriate. Let them raise an American flag of suitable dimensions over the wreck and make provision for keeping it there for all time. That would be a practical expression of worthy sentiment.

"Wherever Freedom's martyrs sleep,
Columbia's flag should proudly wave;
On mountain top, on waters deep,
Wherever dwell the free and brave."

WILL BUILD NEW COURTS.

Wollaston Tennis Club Reorganized For Coming Season.

The Wollaston Tennis club, which has had two courts on Safford street for the last eight years, reorganized at the residence of C. E. Barker on Brook street Monday evening, electing the following officers: A. B. Hillman, president; C. E. Barker, treasurer; H. H. Albee, clerk; F. L. Hayes, A. B. Hillman, Marcus Chase, C. E. Barker and H. H. Albee, directors.

The club will lease new grounds on Everett street, building four new courts and a new club house. The club is limited to forty members and the membership is nearly filled at this writing.

MRS. MARGARET SULLIVAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, 67, wife of Michael Sullivan of 200 Main street, was held this morning from her late home. A requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. John's church by Rev. John J. Casey. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, John Mahon presiding at the organ.

Miss Mary McConaty sang the "Pie Jesu" and Mr. Mahon the "Domine Jesu."

The bearers were John Scully, Michael Scully, Andrew Scully and William Sullivan.

The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

CONCERT IN STONE CHAPEL.

The Tech Glee, Mandolin and Banjo clubs will give a concert in the Stone chapel Wednesday night, and undoubtedly will treat Quincy people to an entertaining evening.

Fresh young faces and good musical talent are surely their possession and these qualities go far toward creating a happy combination for a jolly time.

Miss Orma Adams Richardson of Boston, will be seen in several bright and fanciful dances. She is a dancer of rare ease and grace and is considered a thorough mistress of her art in Boston.

GRANITE INDUSTRY DECIDEDLY QUIET

Usual Spring Rush Fails To Develop

MANY FIRMS RUNNING WITH REDUCED FORCE

Panic Of Last Fall Held Responsible For Present Conditions

The granite industry is the last to feel any depression in business as well as the last industry to feel any improvement in business.

Last fall when other lines of business were reporting a depression the granite line was good. Now however the granite business is feeling the depression and at the present time business in this line is very quiet.

Usually March is the month when business begins to look up and the manufacturers begin to get busy with their orders for Memorial day delivery. Not so this year.

At the present time practically all of the manufacturers have caught up with their orders and work is decidedly quiet.

Most of the firms are running with reduced force and the result is that there are many men loafing about the streets.

A trip through the granite district at South Quincy finds little groups of men standing on the corners kicking their heels together and wishing that business would start up. It is hard to make these men believe that business is quiet for they have visited the wholesalers in Boston who tell them that there is plenty of work.

To prove it they hand the men a bunch of tracings and encourage these men, some of whom are entirely unfamiliar with the office end of the business, to go into business for themselves.

The result is that the men are flattered. They secure a small piece of land somewhere and the next thing known is that a new firm has "opened up shop."

Being unable to figure a job as it should be so as to come out whole, these parties take a contract at so low a figure that when the job is finished and the results figured out at the end the parties find that they have got stuck and have not averaged a day's pay.

The result of this is bad for the legitimate manufacturers who is up against the proposition of figuring against some of the irresponsible firms in order to get work. The middleman, or wholesaler jingles the coin in his pocket and sits back in his chair and laughs. He has made a good profit and does not care whether the man who cut the job made $5 or lost $15 by the transaction.

The Manufacturers Association is doing all it can to break up this method of doing business but it is an up hill fight.

EVERY CHAPTER INTERESTED.

Exemplification of Chapter Degree To Be In Quincy.

The exemplification of the chapter degrees of the 7th district will be held in Masonic hall, Quincy, Friday afternoon, April 2. Every chapter will take part in the work.

It has been many years since Quincy has been honored in this way and it is a great pleasure to members of St. Stephens R. A. C. to be so favored.

The work is under the direction of Excellent Companion Alfred H. Nash, D. D. G. H. P. and will be followed by a banquet.

PARISH MEETING.

The annual parish meeting of the First Congregational society was held Monday evening in the chapel of the church. John Q. A. Field was elected moderator and J. Brooks Keyes, clerk. Reports were given and routine business transacted. Henry M. Faxon, James H. Stetson and Charles A. Price were again elected to the office of parish assessors. Thomas Fenno was reelected treasurer and George H. Field collector. About $6,000 was appropriated for expenses of 1909--1910.

Trade Unions and Savings Banks

The friendship of organized labor toward the plan of savings bank insurance and old age annuities has been constant from the first.

During the period in which the measure to permit savings institutions of the Bay State to open insurance departments was before the legislature labor union after union throughout the state passed resolutions approving the scheme.

Their attitude unquestionably had much to do with the passage of the bill in the face of determined opposition.

The interest of organized labor has continued to be keen. At the Denver convention of the American Federation of Labor last fall strong resolutions were passed in approval of the idea. The Boston Central Labor Union early established an agency of the Whitman Savings Bank. Others have since done so. Lately a Trades Union Branch of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League has been formed for the purpose of carrying on educational work among the locals of Massachusetts.

To increase the case of practical cooperation of labor unions with the savings banks in extending savings insurance facilities the provision of the law that permits the appointment of agencies for the receipt of applications and the collection of premiums is particularly favorable.

The labor unions in the shoe manufacturing towns and cities have been so cordial in their support of the savings insurance scheme that it is expected practically all will open agencies within a short time.

TODAY'S COURT.

Leslie Morton was arraigned for felonious assault at Quincy and was held in $1000 until March 10.

—Albert T. Patrick continues to be an unusual figure. The warden of the prison has relieved him from routine work as a life convict for the present, so that he can prepare his papers in the fight he is making for his liberty. Patrick has authority from the court to send to the law library for any books he may require. Patrick's cell now presents the appearance of a law office. He is an untiring fighter.

—Liberty has not yet arrived in Russia, and the vexations of martial rule and repression are borne with remarkable fortitude and self-restraint by the reformers. Preachers of assassination and all violence can still find plenty of texts, and it is altogether remarkable that the people cling to the better hope of reform through safer, if tedious pathways."

BOOM IN BUILDING LINE

Inspector of Buildings Issues Many Permits

Some idea of how rapidly Quincy is growing can be had by consulting the office of the Inspector of Buildings.

Quincy covers a large territory and building is in progress in all sections.

There is hardly a day passes but one or more parties apply to the inspector for permits to erect new buildings.

Thus far this year there has been quite a boom in the building line. But two months of the year have gone yet during these two months the Inspector of Buildings has issued permits for new buildings and for additions to existing buildings that aggregate in value nearly $150,000.

It might be said that the larger part of this amount is for new buildings.

Every little while a word seizes upon the nation, and we live, think, and dream in that word. Not so long ago the word was Awakening. While it lasted, we had the Moral Awakening, the Spiritual Awakening, the Educational Awakening, the Workmen's Awakening, the Awakening among Women, the Awakening in Morocco, the Awakening in the Factory, the Court House, and the Church Pew. Then came Uplift. Thereupon we had the Moral Uplift, the Railroad Uplift, the Insurance Uplift, the Irrigation Uplift, the Dry-Farming Uplift, and every other conceivable form of effort involving resistance to the law of gravitation. At present we are in the full swing of Conservation. We have had Forest Conservation, Mineral Lands Conservation, and Water Power Conservation. Our attention is now invited to Conservation of Child-Life. We expect an immediate attack of the Conservation of Woman's Rights, the Conservation of the Freedom of the Press, Phonetic Conservation, Conversation of the American Drama, and Conservation of the Short and Ugly Word.—New York Evening Post.

FRIENDS GIVE HIM PURSE.

Monday evening in Doble's hall a surprise party was tendered to Duncan Grassick of Caledonian avenue, about 200 being present. Mr. Grassick is to leave soon for the Rutland Sanitarium, where he is to undergo medical treatment.

His friends presented him with a beautiful pipe and a purse of $100. After the presentation there was an entertainment followed by dancing. During the evening refreshments were served.

Because he called him "Dear Mr. Kaiser," the Emperor of Germany has sent a German schoolboy enough money to continue his education, which threatened to be brought to an abrupt close through lack of funds. Hoch Der Kaiser.

It has been reported on unquestionable authority, that the ways and means committee have decided to reduce the duty on shoes as a concession to the shoe men, because of hides being placed on the free list. This will be of especial interest to New England, because the effort to obtain free hides was made principally by New England shoe and leather manufacturers.

A number of Worcester manufacturers have agreed to provide three months free treatment at the Sanatorium in Rutland for any of the men women or children in their employ who show symptoms of tuberculosis. By their co-operation it is hoped that Worcester will soon be fairly free of tuberculosis, and that the example set by the Worcester manufacturers will be followed by other manufacturers throughout the country.

The Boston Advertiser says, "the reports of the deaths due to the exposure incident to the inauguration display at Washington continue to come in, and there will be many which are never reported in the papers. If the date of inauguration is to be changed it must be done now, while the interest is intense. If it is left to drag over until another year the chances are that it will die from lack of nourishment, as has been the case before." Speaker Cannon says the same thing, and what Uncle "Joe" says usually goes.

There has been considerable talk of late about what is to be done with the old Coddington school, that now stands empty and disused in the shadow of the beautiful new building on Coddington street. People in the neighborhood are wondering why the old structure is allowed to remain, when it is useless. And there is plenty of ground for wonderment and fear too. Because the building, old and fast going to ruin, stands in the midst of quite a thickly settled district and if it ever caught fire would cause a conflagration that might do a great deal of damage. It is no idle talk, this talk about setting the old building on fire.

It has been done before in similar cases and could be done again. In fact in a few words the building is a menace to the neighborhood and this should be a sufficient reason for getting it out of the way.

Again it is an eyesore to this beautiful section of the city. Besides the new school, the Thomas Crane public library, the Y. M. C. A. and the new federal building, to have such a building standing there idle and decayed is surely nothing of which we should boast. O mores! O tempores!

ASK THAT HE BE DEPOSED

Petition to Turkish Ambassador at Washington Bears Signatures of Prominent Subjects—Charges Will Probably Hasten Plans by Turkish Government For Complete Reorganization of Its Consular Service

Washington, March 9.—Three hundred thousand erstwhile Ottoman subjects now living in the United States have petitioned Kaizim Bey, Turkish ambassador to the United States, to urge that Munji Bey, Turkish consul at New York, be deposed for conduct which is termed by them "grafting," in that they allege that Munji Bey has taken advantage of ignorance of the Syrians, Greeks and Armenians seeking passports to their native lands, by overcharging them for his official signature and the Turkish stamps essential to those documents.

The members of the delegation seeking the removal of Munji Bey indicate that the embarrassments to which Ottoman subjects have been put may be brought to the attention of the state department if redress is not had by the action of the ambassador. The petition bears the signatures of the most prominent Turkish subjects.

Because of the prominence of the port of New York, and the fact that almost every Turkish subject coming into or leaving this country must deal with the consul, those who are now at emnity with him are said to be in the majority.

The charges made against Munji Bey will probably hasten plans by the Turkish government for a complete re-organization of its consular service. The "Young Turks," upon assuming control of the government, proposed to make a special effort to increase trade with the United States by means of more active work by consuls in this country. The plan of organization will be largely modeled after that of the United States. The reports will be for the purpose of directing Turkish merchants to favorable markets here, at the same time opening up markets in Turkey for American goods.

The Turkish ambassador will send a representative to New York some time this week, it is said, to investigate the charges which have been made against Munji Bey.

Accused Man Makes Denial

New York, March 9.—Munji Bey denounced the charges of "graft" made against him in the petition for his removal filed by several thousand Ottoman subjects with the Turkish ambassador at Washington as fabrications, and said he courted a full investigation of his office here by the Turkish authorities at the capital.

"The petition is inspired by a few enemies of mine, five or six, whose names I know, and there is not a word of truth in it," said Munji Bey. "I shall give the names of my enemies to the ambassador or his representative when I hear from him, and request that he take some action against them. If the ambassador does not see fit to take action I shall put the whole matter in the hands of our local authorities in Constantinople."

TRIAL NEARING END

Suicide Claim Set Up by Defense In the Howard Case

New Bedford, Mass., March 9.—The wife-murder trial of William C. Howard, the Fort Rodman artilleryman, neared the closing stage when the presentation of evidence was finished and the arguments were begun.

The closing evidence presented by the defense was of a medical expert character and was intended to show that the death of Ida Howard was due to drowning, and not to forcible strangulation or suffocation, the defense contending that the woman committed suicide because of despondency over her physical condition.

City Cannot Remove Poles

Louisville, March 9.—Virtual concessions of the claim of the Cumberland Telegraph and Telephone company that its Louisville charter is perpetual was made in the federal court. Judge Evans sustained the plea of the company for an injunction preventing the city from removing its poles.

Big Suit Is Settled

Washington, March 9.—A settlement has been effected in the government suit against the Union Pacific railway, involving coal lands in Wyoming estimated as worth $1,500,000. This land is said to have been acquired by the company through what are known as 'dummy" entries.

Eleven Jurors In Eight Weeks

San Francisco, March 9.—The number of jurors passed in the trial of Patrick Calhoun for alleged bribery of a supervisor to vote for a trolley franchise, which has entered on its ninth week, has been reduced to eleven.

BEST BOWLERS ENTERED

International Matches Begin Tonight In Pittsburg Alleys

Pittsburg, March 9.—The tournament of the American bowling congress has been going on here since Feb. 27 and will last until March 20, but the most interesting games of the meeting have been reserved for March 9 to 13. The international matches, in which the best bowlers of this country and Canada are entered, will begin tonight.

In the five man event are entered the Brunswicks of New York, from the National Bowling association; the Bonds of Columbus, from the American bowling congress, and the St. Louis De Soto Stars, champions of the middle west. McGuirk and Grady of Paterson, the holders of the world's two man team record at 1318, will defend their honors. In the individual matches will be Fred Swartje of Brooklyn, the National Bowling association champion; Arthur Wingler of Chicago and Martin Kern of St. Louis, holder of the middle west title.

CONVICTS PROVE USEFUL

Discover Apparent Discrepancy of Over $26,000 In Prison Accounts

Pittsburg, March 9.—Three convicted bankers, now prisoners in the western penitentiary here, have discovered an apparent discrepancy of more than $26,000 in the accounts of the penitentiary and it is said that the amount may be found to be even larger.

The board of visitors of the western penitentiary appointed Henry Reiber, now an inmate of the penitentiary, to audit the books of the institution. Finding an apparent discrepancy and being unwilling to assume all responsibility, Reiber obtained the assistance of William Montgomery and J. B. F. Rinehart, both convicts in the penitentiary, who are said to have agreed with him in his findings.

Reports of the alleged discrepancy was made to the board of visitors, who are awaiting the return of Warden Johnson before making further investigation.

OLIVER TO SUCCEED KNOX AS SENATOR

Term of Office Will Run Until March 4, 1911

Harrisburg, March 9.—The Republican members of the two houses of the Pennsylvania legislature met in joint caucus this morning to select a candidate for United States senator to succeed P. C. Knox, who resigned March 4 to become secretary of state. Knox's term would have expired March 4, 1911, and the new senator to be elected will serve out the unexpired term.

Only one name, that of George T. Oliver of Pittsburg, was presented to the caucus today and he was unanimously selected.

The two houses of the legislature will ballot separately on the senatorship on March 16 and on the following day will meet in joint session to formally declare the successful candidate elected. The Republicans have a majority of 167 on joint ballot.

POLICEMAN KILLS WIFE

Member of Boston Department Then Fatally Wounds Himself

Boston, March 9.—During a fit of temporary insanity at his home at 177 London street, Patrolman Daniel D. Spillane of Station 1 shot his wife, Mrs. Isabelle T. Spillane, through the forehead as she lay asleep, killing her instantly. He then turned the revolver upon himself, and an hour and a quarter later died from a bullet wound in the head.

Spillane, who for 21 years had been attached to the Boston police force, had for the last ten years been gradually failing in health, and for two years since the death of his only daughter, Agnes, aged 19, has been subject to deep fits of despondency.

NO OFFICE FOR GUILD

Former Governor Refused Offer of Bay State Senators

Boston, March 9.—Former Governor Guild, whose name has been mentioned in connection with diplomatic services, gave out a statement in which he said that both Massachusetts senators had visited him while in Washington with an offer of their assistance to secure a diplomatic appointment for him.

Guild states, however, that he requested that neither privately nor publicly should his name be presented to the president for an ambassadorship or for any other office.

Strikers Return

Brockton, Mass., March 9.—The factories of the W. L. Douglas Shoe company at Montello resumed their customary activity with the return to work of the 425 stitchers who had been on strike since March 1, causing the enforced idlness of about 1650 operatives.

English Language In Guatemala

Mexico City, March 9.—Hereafter the English language will be taught in all the public schools of Guatemala, under an order of the minister of education.

QUESTIONS BY THE GOVERNOR

Draper Takes a Hand In the Infected Beef Question

NOW UP TO BOARD OF HEALTH

Action Opens Up the Whole Matter and Answers Will Take Shape of a Formal Report—Order Directing Attorney General to Report Is Offered In Legislature and Postponed For a Week—No "Whitewash"

Boston, March 9.—Governor Draper sent a letter to the state board of health asking information as to the conditions existing in Massachusetts applying to beef killed within the state, and also to that coming from without the state.

He not only asks three specific questions, but also requests the board to give him any information in regard to the general matter which the board thinks it important for him to have. The letter to Chairman Walcott of the state board of health follows:

"I desire information from your board in regard to the conditions existing in the commonwealth of Massachusetts applying to the beef killed within the state, and also to that coming into the state from outside. I wish your board would make a formal report to me containing answers to the following questions, so that the people of the commonwealth and their representatives may have proper and correct information on the subject referred to:

"1. Whether, in the opininon of your board, the health of the citizens of the commonwealth is properly safeguarded from the sale of beef infected with tuberculosis?

"2. Whether or not, in the opinion of your board, the statutes are sufficiently rigid in respect to the inspection of beef?

"3. Whether your board interprets chapter 329 of the Acts of 1908 as prohibiting the sale of beef from "slightly infected" cattle?

"Any information in regard to this general matter which you think it important for me to have beyond what is referred to in the questions asked above I shall expect you to furnish."

In the house Representative Emerson of Boston offered an order directing the attorney general to report on the diseased meat matter. Mr. Bishop of Newton called attention to, and read the letter of Governor Draper to the state board of health. He then moved the postponement of the order for one week in order that the board reply may be received, and the motion prevailed.

In a statement prepared by the governor at The Post's request, after Draper had called on the state board of health for information, he says:

"My request of a report from the state board of health upon the subject of infected beef is not any attempt to whitewash the subject, and no matter what that report may be the investigation will continued."

FIVE MAYORS CHOSEN

Results of Elections In Cities of the Pine Tree State

Portland, Me., March 9.—The only change in the political situation in the five Maine cities in which annual elections were held Monday was the swinging back to the Republican column of Augusta, where Frederick W. Plaisted has been mayor for three years.

Mayors were elected as follows:

City.	Mayor.
Augusta	Treby Johnson (R)
Brewer	Ambrose F. Pendleton (R)
Belfast	*Edgar H. Hanson (D)
Bangor	*John F. Woodman (R)
Biddeford	*Cornelius Harigan (D-I)

*Re-elected.

DROPPED INTO OCEAN

Aeronaut Loses Control of Balloon and Meets Death by Drowning

San Pedro, Cal., March 9.—While hundreds watched his frantic efforts to control a great balloon, which was swiftly bearing him 4000 feet high out over the Pacific ocean, Lester Elkins, an amateur aeronaut, 20 years old, cut loose his parachute and dropped into the waters of the outer harbor to his death.

As the huge bag rose, it careened and was carried rapidly out over the water and was soon far out to sea. The parachute filled after he had fallen a short distance, but it was caught by a stiff wind and carried still farther out and fell into the ocean.

Jewelry Protection.

"The general public is not aware of the carefully worked out system by which the large jewelry houses continue to protect their splendid wares long after these have been sold and passed out of their hands," said a detective, discussing daring modern burglaries. "Most large establishments dealing in precious metals and gems have a carefully organized and very efficient detective system, which makes it easy for a patron to recover stolen goods without charge and with little or no delay in the institution of the search. In the safes of these large jewel houses are minute descriptions of every piece of valuable jewelry which goes out from the establishment. Each piece is numbered too. When the gems are missed the patron telephones the shop in which the articles were purchased. At once a special detective, thoroughly acquainted with the business in hand and armed with a detailed description of the jewelry, is hurried to the scene of action. This is without expense to the client."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Something Hotel Clerks Remember.

"There's lots less danger of the night clerk forgetting an early call left by some guest than most travelers imagine," remarked a hotel manager the other day. "The fact is," he declared, "the average night clerk could not forget one of those early calls if he wanted to. You know, it's a mighty lonesome job the night clerk has. There is little for him to do, few arrivals to take care of and little to break the monotony of his long vigil. About the only fun the night clerk has is those early morning calls. When I was a night clerk I used to count the hours until I could start in on those early calls. There was nothing else to do or think about, and it would keep going through my mind what fun it would be to make some guest share my forlorn state by getting him out of his warm bed all sleepy eyed. I could not any more have overlooked one of those early calls than I could have overlooked my breakfast when the time came."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In the Jaws of a Lion.

A lion comes at its enemy at full speed, galloping low, and dashes a man standing upright to the ground by the full impact of its body. Major Inverarity states that "the claws and teeth entering the flesh do not hurt as much as you would think," but that the squeeze given by the jaws on the bone is really painful. When knocked over he was still keenly conscious and felt none of the dreamy sensations experienced by Livingstone.

Major Swaine, struck down by a lioness going full gallop, was unconscious for some minutes and did not know what had happened till he found himself standing up after the accident. "I felt no pain," he writes, "not, I believe, owing to any special interposition of Providence, but simply that the shock and loss of blood made me incapable of feeling it. There was no pain for a few days till it was brought on by the swelling of my arm on the twelve days' ride to the coast."—London Spectator.

A Woman Governor.

Queens have ruled many nations, but Pennsylvania is the only one of the United States that ever had a woman for governor. A passage unearthed from Armor's "Governors of Pennsylvania," page 126, says:

"On the 30th of July, 1718, William Penn died, at the age of seventy-four. By his will his wife, Hannah, was made his sole executrix and assumed the management of colonial affairs, executing this difficult task with rare tact and business capacity. 'She became,' says Watson, 'in effect our governor, ruling us by her deputies or lieutenant governors during all the term of her children's minority.'"

Lion and Unicorn.

The animosity which was supposed to exist between the lion and the unicorn, as referred to by Spenser in his "Faerie Queene," is allegorical of the deep rooted ill will which anciently existed between England and Scotland. Ever since 1603 the royal arms have been supported, as now, by the English lion and the Scottish unicorn in token of the fact that St. George and St. Andrew had at last shaken hands and forgotten their old difference.

An Explanation.

The passionate rhythms of "The Merry Widow" waltz floated through the office, and the boss looked up from his desk impatiently.

"Frederic," he said, "I wish you wouldn't whistle at your work."

"I ain't workin', sir," the office boy replied calmly. "I'm only just whistlin'."—New York Press.

FITZHUGH'S APPEAL TO JURY

Personal Friend of Carmack's Opens Argument For State

MAKES DRAMATIC PERORATION

Claim That Colonel Cooper Is a Gentleman of the Old School and His Son a "Boy" Declared to Be Far From True Facts—Liberty of the Press and Security of the Common People at Stake

Nashville, March 9.—Mr. Fitzhugh has completed the opening argument for the state in the case against Duncan B. and Robin J. Cooper and John D. Sharp, charged with the murder of E. W. Carmack.

Fitzhugh's argument lasted for five hours and when he finished he was exhausted. The young attorney's speech had a noticeable effect upon the jurors, who leaned forward and listened breathlessly to every word. Fitzhugh was a close friend of Carmack and he is in the case at the special request of Mrs. Carmack. His peroration was especially dramatic.

"There will be many argumen made to you," he said, "to touch yo hearts. You will be asked to generous and sympathetic. They w talk to you of this boy here. Wh gentlemen, he is 27 years old, a some of the greatest achievements of men have been accomplished before a man is 30; and they will point Colonel Cooper as a gentleman of the old school, as the 'last flower of the old southern chivalry.'

"Do you believe it? Washe a gentleman when he used that awful language in the presence of Miss Lee? And when they talk to you of sympathy, just look over there. You see in sable garments the widow of E. W. Carmack. You see on her arm the 10-year-old boy who was the pride of E. W. Carmack's life. Did Duncan Cooper or Robin think of this widow or this boy when they shot down the husband and the father? Would it not have been better if Robin Cooper, instead of shooting the senator, had said to his father, 'Father, do not kill the father of this little boy; do not slay the husband of this fond wife,' but he did not.

"The question to be decided is whether or not the law is to be enforced. That question is to be decided by you. If murder is to be committed in the streets of our city without fear of punishment, can you tell who will be the next victim? The very liberty of the press is at stake, the security of the common people. It all rests with you and in your hands I place it unreservedly."

ALIENS MAY BUY LAND

Measure Directed at Americans Beaten In Cuban Congress

Havana, March 9.—The bill forbidding the further purchase of lands in Cuba by aliens was defeated in the house of representatives by a vote of 49 to 11.

Congressman Viondi, answering a complaint that Americans are rapidly absorbing all the land in Cuba, said: "I want to say the American people are our friends. The world has marvelled at a people who twice have had our liberty in their hands and permitted us to become free and independent. I, as a lover of my country, was as much concerned and jealous as any one on the two occasions the Americans occupied the palace, but I have seen them go and feel they are our friends."

McGee Thinks He Will Thus Best Subserve the Cause of Unionism

Worcester, Mass., March 9.—The Worcester Molders' union gave a reception in honor of Frank J. McGee, New England organizer of molders, who has been found guilty by the superior court in Connecticut of intimidation in connection with a strike in New Haven, and is wanted in that city to serve a sentence of one year in prison.

McGee said he was prepared to go to New Haven and go to jail because, although he felt he had committed no crime, he thought the cause of unionism would be better subserved by compliance with the court's decree.

Hughes Asks Right of Seizure

MIXING OF RACES

Intermarriage Not Profitable, According to President Eliot

Montgomery, Ala., March 9.—"There should be no admixture of racial stocks," declared President Eliot of Harvard university in an interview here.

"I believe, for example, that the Irish should not intermarry with the Americans of English descent, that the Germans should not marry the Italians, that the Jews should not marry the French.

"Each race should maintain its own individuality. The experience of civilization shows that racial stocks are never mixed with profit and that such unions do not bring forth the best and strongest children.

"In the case of the negroes and the whites, the races should be kept apart in every respect. The south has a wise policy. I believe that Booker T. Washington has the right ideals and that Dubois is injuring the progress of his race with his views."

RATE LAWS NULLIFIED

Court Decision Which May Kill All the Two-Cent Rates

Kansas City, March 9.—Missouri's 2-cent passenger and maximum freight laws were nullified by a decision handed down in the United States district court by Judge McPherson, who held that both the commodity and passenger laws were confiscatory and unconstitutional. As a result, it is believed, there will be a quick return in Missouri to 3-cent fares.

Frank Hagerman, for the eighteen companies involved, asserts that the decision sounds the death knell of the 2-cent rate in every state in the union.

The state, on the other hand, declares emphatically that Missouri's fight for lower railroad rates will be continued.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOSES OF MEDICINE

Roosevelt Prepared to Ward Off Disease In Africa

New York, March 9.—Medicine enough for a regiment and surgical instruments enough to do the work of an ordinary hospital will be carried by Theodore Roosevelt to Africa, all condensed so as to fill a suit case. There are 15,000 doses in the tabloids, nearly 40 per cent of them quinine. The other medicines are to ward off diseases most prevalent in equatorial Africa, chemicals to make swamp water pure and palatable, cures for snake-bites, stimulants, opiates, knives and bandages.

These supplies, packed in unbreakable and airtight bottles of a vulcanite composition, fit into an aluminum case 15 by 10 by 8. This outfit has been made for the Roosevelt expedition by an American firm.

Liquid finds no place in the assortment, nor in the outfit for developing photographs prepared for Kermit Roosevelt by the same firm and put up in equally condensed form.

AMBASSADOR TO JAPAN

Position Will Go to Former Secretary Straus If He Desires It

Washington, March 9.—While the information is unofficial, it is understood to be almost definitely settled that former Secretary Straus of the department of commerce and labor will be appointed ambassador to Japan.

While he was secretary of commerce and labor Straus had largely to do with the Japanese immigration question and his attitude on that matter is known to have met the approval of the Japanese government.

Mr. Straus has reached no definite conclusion, but it is not unlikely that a formal announcement of his appointment will be made in the near future.

MOXEY TO RETIRE

Government About to Lose Services of Expert Bank Examiner

New York, March 9.—Edward P. Moxey, the special bank examiner, whose work furnished the basis for the successful prosecution of Charles W. Morse, is about to retire from government service to take charge of the accounting department of the Guggenheim interests.

Mr. Moxey has been associated with many noted bank prosecutions. During more than ten years the government has secured convictions, it is said, in every case prepared by him. For the past few months he has been at work on the case against F. A. Heinze.

Actor Francis Is Missing

Chicago, March 9.—"Wait here, I'll be back in a moment," said A. B. Francis, a New York actor, when he left his wife standing in the waiting room of a railroad station Sunday night. Francis has not since been seen by his friends. The police have been asked to search for him.

Pertinent Question.

"He says he is the architect of his own fortune."

"That's all right, but I would like to know one thing."

"What is it?"

"Who holds the first mortgage?"

LARGEST AUTO TRACK

Indianapolis to Have the Most Remarkable In the World.

COURSE FIVE MILES LONG.

Spectators Will Have a Clear View at Any Time of the Cars Racing at Their Highest Speed—Whole Track to Be Brilliantly Lighted.

Indianapolis is soon to have the largest and most remarkable motor racing track in the world. Instead of being circular or elliptical, it will double on itself, and as a result the racers will be in full view of the grand stand almost constantly.

Engineers are now at work staking off the course and arranging for the clearing of the ground. Active work of building the speedway will be begun as soon as the weather will permit, and not later than Feb. 15. The track and the entire grounds are under contract to be completed by May 15, so that the first public event may take place early in June.

The speedway will be built on a tract of land known as the John Pressley farm, just northwest of Haughville and adjoining the county asylum grounds. The tract is a mile long and half a mile wide.

The entire cost of the speedway, with the grand stands and other buildings, will be nearly half a million dollars. The speedway will consist of an outside track two miles in circumference, fifty and sixty feet in width, with suitably banked turns that will allow a speed of more than 100 miles an hour. From this outside track runs an inside snakelike track three miles long, which will enable the promoters to give every style of combination track and road racing in clear view of the grand stands.

The general detail of the equipment will be far more complete than ever before attempted on speedways. The easy access to the city will enable the promoters to accommodate great crowds of people.

The main grand stand will have a seating capacity of 35,000, and besides there will be twenty additional grand stands, each with a seating capacity of fifty, placed at different points about the speedway. The small grand stands will make it convenient for clubs to attend the meets in a body and have their own seating reservations.

All the grand stands will be at an elevation that will enable those inside to see all parts of the five mile course at any time. The track will have the unique distinction of being the only speedway or racing course in the world where the spectators can see the cars at their highest speed at any time during their flights about the track. Arrangements will be made to park 1,500 private automobiles.

The promoters say that the general plan of the track will insure the safest high speed racing. The plat of ground is level, and there will be no fences or buildings to obstruct the view of the spectators. The parking spaces and grand stands will be subdivided from the main grounds by wire fences, making it impossible for spectators to get on the track at any point.

The entire course will be brilliantly lighted in order that twenty-four hour record trials may be given. The plans provide for 420 independent electric arc lights furnished with reflectors stationed about the track and arranged in such a manner that the light will be thrown away from the eyes of the drivers.

J. P. MORGAN'S PARTING JEST.

Not to Corner Pyramids, For They Haven't Any Corners, He Said.

Before sailing for Europe the other day for a long stay abroad J. Pierpont Morgan, the financier, laughingly confided to the reporters who met him on the pier that he did not intend to form a corner in pyramids, at least not at this time, but that he might be tempted to purchase a few art treasures before his return.

Mr. Morgan, who was in great good humor, said:

"I will probably remain on the other side for many weeks. I am going abroad for the sake of a rest and for enjoyment. My immediate plans are not very definite. I may even get as far as Egypt. Yes, I am going to look around, and if I see anything I want to add to my collection of art objects—well, I might be tempted to buy. However, I am not going abroad to make purchases."

A cheerful person was moved to ask him if he intended to corner the pyramids.

"Pyramids haven't any corners," was his reply. Then as an after thought he added, with a smile, "Besides, I never corner anything." He declined to discuss the financial or business situation.

Prize For Yale Life Story.

Through the generosity of Thomas De Witt Cuyler, '76, of Philadelphia the Yale Alumni Weekly is able to offer a cash prize to undergraduate or graduate students for the best descriptive article bearing on Yale life. The prize is to be known as "the Thomas De Witt Cuyler alumni weekly prize." It is $50, to be paid in gold, and will be awarded to the writer of the most acceptable contribution received not later than March 13, 1909.

Billiard Table Novelty.

A new wrinkle is the bench billiard table. When not in use it can be pushed back against the wall, the table making the back, and the standards form a massive settle.

MAKES WORK EASIER.

Quincy People Are Pleased to Learn How it is Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure every kidney ill.

James P. Daugherty, living on Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let others know what they have done for me. I suffered constantly from backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kindney Pills which I procured at the Cox, Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills as I have so much confidence in their merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Charles Gerrior formerly of Quincy Point, but now of Marlboro, returned to his home today after spending the week-end in Quincy. Charlie was well known as a ball player when he was in Quincy.

There is a rumor prevalent about the Point that contracts for two war vessels have been awarded to the Fore River company. It is said that these are to be built for the Argentine Republic and that one is a battleship and one a cruiser.

Miss Charlotte F. Donovan of Chubbuck street entertained the Vincent whist club Monday evening. The scores were high and the first prize was captured by Miss Helen Griffin. Miss Lulu Pickering got the second prize. After the whist was over there was a social hour during which refreshments were served.

ATLANTIC

Ryder Gay, of Webster street, who has been ill with grip for the past week is able to be out again.

John J. Haggarty's gunning stand at Squantum, is closed after a very successful season.

Walter E. Webb of Boston, has two, three apartment houses finished, with one apartment occupied, on Sagamore street. He also has five more in construction, two on the same street and three on Prospect street.

The Signal Corps of the Boy's Brigade cleared over seventy dollars on the entertainment and dance given at Music hall, Atlantic, on last Tuesday evening. The expenses of the affair were over forty dollars. The boys deserve a great deal of credit for the energetic way in which they managed the entertainment and the sale of tickets, over four hundred being sold.

—A Chicago woman who has just passed the Federal examination has been awarded a certificate which qualifies her as an expert navigator, and she will be captain of her own yacht to sail on the Great Lakes. She is not the first Chicago woman to so qualify, the other being now a skipper of a vessel engaged regularly in the carrying business. There are other feminine navigators along the Atlantic coast, and it may be in the probabilities that the future will provide a woman commander for some of the great Atlantic liners. No calling however strenuous appears to be closed to women nowadays.

team will be represented by one delegate and the schedule for the season will be drawn up. Sydney Patterson will represent the Quincy club.

The Quincy men held a meeting Monday night and talked over the plans for the season. Two lots of land for a field are under consideration and a deal for one of these will probably be closed today. In another week the men will meet again and a permanent organization will be formed.

There are already several well known business men behind the team and an attempt will be made to get several more interested. The men now in it are enthusiastic over the outlook and say that they will have the best team that ever represented Quincy.

SOUTH QUINCY

Liberty square should be resodded the coming season .

Miss Harriet Jones of Springfield spent the week end with relatives on Franklin street .

Although Chief Engineer Williams is still somewhat under the weather he is able to be about.

Kavanagh Bros. have shipped about all of the town blocks for the Pilgrim monument at Provincetown.

The addition to the Lincoln school is progressing. The west wall is part way up and the east wall is also under way.

The recent improvements to the plant of F. H. Crane & Son are a great addition to the business industry of South Quincy.

The City Engineer's force are staking out that part of Nightingale avenue accepted by the city last fall preparatory to building the street.

Frank A. Howard of Millbury is visiting friends on Goddard street for a few days. Mr. Howard goes to New York when he leaves Quincy.

In regard to the rumor that William T. Spargo may return to the City Council next year, Mr. Spargo says he has served four years in that capacity and that is enough for any one man.

The Scrap Book

Just One Question.

A colored woman was on trial before a magistrate charged with inhuman treatment of her offspring. Evidence was clear that the woman had severely beaten the youngster, aged some nine years, who was in court to exhibit his battered condition. Before imposing sentence his honor asked the woman whether she had anything to say.

"Kin I ask yo' honah a question?" inquired the prisoner.

"Go ahead," said the judge, and the courtroom listened.

"Well, then, yo' honah, I'd like to ask yo' whether yo' was ever the parient of a puffectly wuthless cullud chile."

The Struggle.

Say not the struggle naught availeth,
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not nor falleth,
And as things have been they remain.

If hopes were dupes, fears may be liars.
It may be, in yon smoke concealed,
Your comrades chase e'en now the fliers
And, but for you, possess the field.

For, while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain,
Far back, through creeks and inlets making,
Comes silent, flooding in the main.

And not by eastern windows only,
When daylight comes, comes in the light.
In front the sun climbs slow—how slowly!—
But westward, look, the land is bright.
—Arthur Hugh Clough.

His Big News "Scoop."

An English provincial daily engaged a new news editor. He was a young man, very keen, energetic and enterprising, but somewhat lacking in the knowledge necessary to the adequate fulfillment of his duties. On a certain occasion a public man died in Manchester. Immediately a reporter was dispatched to his home to glean all particulars of his decease. Very soon came a telegram from the newspaper emissary to this effect: "Mr. So-and-so died of uric acid poisoning."

The news editor conned the message, and visions of a big "scoop" fashioned themselves in his ardent imagination.

"We'll make a big thing of this," he said as he wired to the reporter. "Find out chemist who sold poison and get interview."

Lucky All Around.

An old farmer of the English county of Durham called at a roadside public house where he was well known. The landlady asked him to buy a ticket for a lottery they had on there.

"Well," he said, "I hae naught in ma pocket or I might."

"Oh, that's a'reet, John," she says. "Take the ticket and pay for it any time."

Some time later John called again, and the landlady asked him if he knew who had won the lottery.

"No," he said. "Who won?"

"Well, I hardly durst tell you, but oor Sam won. Wasn't he lucky?"

"Aye," said John, "he was lucky. And who was second, then?"

"I durst hardly tell you. Who would you think, now?" she said.

"I couldn't say," said John.

"Well, it was oor Sally. Wasn't she lucky?"

"Aye, she was lucky," said John. "And who was third?" he asked.

"Well," she said, "you would never guess, and I might as well tell. I was third. Wasn't I lucky?"

"You were," he said. "Did I ever pay you for that ticket, missus?"

"No, John, you didn't," she said, fawning upon him.

"Well," said John, "isn't I lucky?"

A New Way to Pat.

Two Irishmen were discussing the various books they had read.

"Have you read 'The Eternal City?'"

"I have."

"Have you read Marie Corelli's works?"

"I have that."

"Have you read 'Looking Backward?'"

"How on airth could I do that?"

Swam Before Him.

Banks—I had a new experience yesterday, one you might call unaccountable. I ate a hearty dinner, finishing up with a Welsh rabbit, a mince pie and some lobster a la Newburg. Then I went to a place of amusement. I had hardly entered the building before everything swam before me.

Binks—The Welsh rabbit did it.

Bunks—No; it was the lobster.

Bonks—I think it was the mince pie.

Banks—No; I have a simpler explanation than that. I never felt better in my life. I was at the aquarium.—Charles Battell Loomis in Judge.

The Man of Force.

There is always room for a man of force, and he makes room for many. Society is a troop of thinkers, and the best heads among them take the best places.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Bounced Through.

Mr. Sergeant Wilkins once defended a breach of promise case for a singularly ugly little man, which he told the defendant, after reading his brief, must be "bounced" through. And the sergeant did bounce it through in a truly remarkable manner. "Gentlemen of the jury," he said at the close of a most eloquent speech, "you have heard the evidence for the plaintiff, and, gentlemen of the jury, you have seen and have admired the most bewitching plaintiff herself. Gentlemen, do you believe that this enchanting, this fascinating, this captivating, this accomplished lady would for one moment favor the advances or listen with anything save scorn and indignation to the amorous protestations of the wretched and repulsive homunculus, the deformed and degraded defendant?" His client looked up from the well of the court and piteously murmured: "Mr. Sergeant Wilkins! Oh, Mr. Sergeant Wilkins!" "Silence, sir," replied the sergeant in a wrathful undertone. "Gentlemen," he continued, bringing his fist down heavily on the desk before him, "do you think that this lovely lady, this fair and smiling creature, would ever have permitted an offer of marriage to be made to her by this miserable atom of humanity, this stunted creature, who would have to stand on a sheet of note paper to look over twopence?" The jury at once gave a verdict for the defendant.

Revenge.

A vender of plaster statuettes saw a chance for a sale in a well dressed bibulous man who was tacking down the street.

"You buy-a de statuette?" he asked, alluringly holding out his choicest offering. "Gar-r-ri-baldi—I sell-a him verra cheep. De gr-reat-a Gar-r-ri-baldi—only thirta cents!"

"Oh, t'ell with Garibaldi!" said the bibulous one, making a swipe with his arm that sent Garibaldi crashing to the sidewalk.

For a moment the Italian regarded the fragments; then, his eyes flashing fire, he seized from his stock a statuette of George Washington. "You t'ell-a with my Gar-r-ribaldi?" he hissed between his teeth. "So!" He raised the immortal George high above his head, and—crash!—it flew into fragments alongside of the ill fated Garibaldi. "Ha! I t'ell-a wid your George Wash! Ha, ha!"—Everybody's.

Didn't See the Humor.

A young woman of Irish descent went to a tea that was given on a Sunday afternoon for the artists of one of the opera houses. After she had listened to the babel of tongues in the drawing room for awhile, for the singers were talking in French, German and Italian, she went into the library, where one of her acquaintances was presiding over the tea table.

With a beautiful assumption of fluttering embarrassment the young woman leaned over the table and faltered out: "I don't know how I came to do it, but, do you know, I came with only eight languages today when I meant to bring twelve. I've looked in my muff for the others, but they are not there, and, do you know, I feel positively embarrassed without them all." And with this she went on her way.

Now, the woman at the tea table thought this was a pretty good bit of wit, and when a young Englishman came up to her to have his cup refilled she told it to him. He looked at her blankly, and then he said, with a puzzled air:

"What an extraordinary place to carry them! Do you think she meant it?"

Youth and Manhood.

It is a fine thing in the springtide of youth to poetize and theorize and then in the years of manhood to rule from a higher throne and to crown thoughts with deeds. It is like the sun, which in the morning merely paints the clouds and lights up the earth, but at midday fructifies it with heat and yet continues to shine and to paint rainbows on storm clouds.—Jean Paul Richter.

Knew When He Was Happy.

The soul of an editor who had died of starvation was being conducted to the Elysian fields. As they passed the portals of the infernal regions he asked his guide if he might not go in and look around. The guide consented, but warned him to stay but a few minutes, as he could not wait long.

A long time passed, and the editor had not returned, so the guiding angel went in search of him. He found him before a cage in which a number of doomed wretches were being toasted on redhot griddles. Over the cage was the sign "Delinquent Subscribers."

"Come," said the guide, "we must be going."

"Don't wait for me," replied the editor. "I'm not coming. This is heaven enough for me!"—Lippincott's.

He Lost the Bet.

An Irish waiter named Kenny was noted for his wit and ready answers. A party of gentlemen who were staying at the hotel heard of Kenny's wit, and one of them made a bet that he would say something that Kenny couldn't answer at once.

A bottle of champagne was ordered. The one who made the bet took hold of the bottle and commenced to open it. The cork came out with a bang and flew into Kenny's mouth.

"Ah," he said, "that is not the way to Cork!"

Kenny took the cork out of his mouth and replied, "No, but it's the way to 'Kill-Kenny.'"

And He Did.

A certain college town in the south boasts of a bridge of privileges. Students take advantage of the liberty given them through the legend, when driving with young lady visitors to cross the famous bridge, to tell the story and to illustrate it at the propitious moment of crossing.

The story was told recently that Mr. Dubose was driving with Miss Brown. The young lady was affected with a slight though charming lisp. When Mr. Dubose had related the legend of the bridge he added, "And now, Miss Brown, when a fellow drives across with his girl he has the undisputed privilege of taking her in his arms and kissing her."

The astonished Miss Brown cried in wise apprehension, "Oh, Mithter Du-both!"

WEYMOUTH.

The annual town meeting was held Monday. Louis A. Cook was moderator. The motion made by ex-Selectman J. Clarence Howe that the meeting adjourn until 7.10 P. M. to enable the workingmen to attend was lost by a vote of 135 to 83.

The main fight was over the school question and the committees report, to which was appended the report of the retiring superintendent of schools containing some very radical recommendations, was refused acceptance. Later in the day however the school committees' report was accepted.

All the forenoon was taken up with the school question. There was much discussion as to whether the school committee should pay the incoming superintendent $2000, the same salary as the retiring superintendent has been receiving. A number wanted the maximum placed at $1800. But finally the whole sum asked for by the committee $60,500 and one half the dog tax was voted, and the committee can pay the new superintendent $2000. This appropriation, also makes it possible for the committee to raise the salaries of all the teachers below the 9th grade.

The superintendent recommended in his report that the grades below the high school be reduced from 9 to 8, and that the children be not allowed to enter the first grade until they are six years old, and that there be but one session for the first two grades. These recommendations were vigorously opposed by Joseph A. Cushing, Nelson W. Garden and others, and it was voted as the sense of the meeting that the pupils of the first two grades be given the same hours of education as the pupils of the other grades.

The matter of what salary should be paid the new superintendent was discussed at length.

The chairman of the school board thought the salary should be $2,000, as a number of smaller towns pay more than that amount.

Rev. William Hyde thought that $1,400 would secure a good man, and cited a number of excellent superintendents whom the town had engaged at that salary in past years. He said large salaries and a high tax rate, was the ruin of Weymouth.

Ex-selectman J. Clarence Howe, said that the Waterloo of a week ago proved very conclusively that the town did not want the present superintendent to remain, and he favored a salary for the new superintendent of $1,600 for the first year and a maximum salary of $1,800.

The act relating to street watering was accepted and $1000 appropriated for that purpose.

It was voted not to install water meters, and not to place the police force under the rules and regulations of the civil service. It was voted to name the new school house on Lake street, the James Humphrey school in honor of the late Judge Humphrey. The whole 85 articles in the warrant were gone through with and the meeting adjourned at shortly after five o'clock.

CHORAL SOCIETY SCORES TRIUMPH

PRESENTATION Of "ELIJAH" RECEIVED WITH UNBOUNDED ENTHUSIASM

Music hall was filled to overflowing Tuesday night, when the Quincy Choral Society gave its first public concert.

The work produced was the Elijah of Mendelssohn, a piece as everyone knows that ranks next to the Messiah in point of beauty and difficulty to interpret.

In fact among the majority of music lovers Elijah is greeted with more enthusiasm, than even the Messiah, its spirit being more modern, its musical form more flexible, and its conceptions more intellectual.

While the tone is purely religious, the ideas are less confined to dogma and are addressed to the imagination rather than the heart, to the aesthetic rather than the reason. The music even to the untrained ear is full of a deep and soulful beauty, that stirs the emotions and stimulates the imagination. In fact throughout the entire oratorio, the music is always interesting, and is absolutely void of any dull or uninteresting passages, such as one finds in other compositions of this kind. The piece is full of difficult passages and is exceedingly hard to interpret.

The Choral Society however made easy work of the most intricate passages, and did their work with intelligence and smoothness, the result of long weeks of careful and painstaking study.

Their attack was all that could be desired, and the manner in which they followed the varying moods of the composer showed a deep and sympathetic understanding of the oratorio.

The prayer of the priests, when they call upon Baal to send down fire, that Elijah may be extirpated, was splendid. The cry "Baal, we cry to thee" was given with such an intenseness that the audience fairly held their breath. And again the prayer of the priests, "Hear our cry O Baal! now arise! wherefore slumber" was given with a dramatic fervor seldom heard, even by professionals. It was the cry of the doubter, calling upon someone or something, that way down deep in his heart he knew would not respond to his appeal.

Then again, after the great Jehovah has sent down fire in response to Elijah's prayer, the chorus breaks out into a song that is the epitome of awe.

The choral society sang this passage for all that was in it. Indeed there was not one passage throughout the entire oratorio in which they failed to rise to the occasion. Their voices were well blended, and they did their work with a snap that was especially pleasing.

There was none of the lagging on the part of any group of singers, that so often mars a work of this kind.

While the chorus was all that could be desired, the soloists of the evening were equally good.

Williard Flynt, who sang the principal part, that of Elijah, has a voice of unusual dramatic force, that is particularly suited to oratorio work. He is an artist in every sense of the word, and his enunciation is praise-worthy. His voice is robust, yet sweet and is of exceptional quality and ample range. Mr. Flynt has been a soloist with the Handel and Haydn society for three consecutive seasons also with the leading choral societies of the east and south. His impersonation of Elijah was dignified and dramatic without any of the facial contortions and objectionable mannerisms affected by so many singers.

The soprano part was taken by Miss Josephine Knight, a widely known oratorio singer and soloist with choral societies in the large eastern and southeastern states. Miss Knight has a brilliant soprano voice of ample range and quality. Her tones are sweet and clear, and full of expression. In the impersonation of the youth, sent by Elijah to see if the Lord had sent rain, Miss Knight sang with telling effect. Her phrasing and ensemble work was especially good.

Miss Adelaide Griggs the alto has a voice of deep and sympathetic quality, well suited to oratorio work Her tone production and style are admirable, and she sings with an abandon that is delightful.

The tenor part as sung by H. Lambert Murphy was one of the features of the evening. He has a tenor voice of unusually sweet and sympathetic quality, and his intelligent and sincere interpretations were decidedly pleasing.

It was very unfortunate for the audience that Mr. Murphy's part was so short.

The orchestra which included the first twelve players of the Boston Festival orchestra, played understandingly, and added much to the pleasure of the performance.

Arthur S. Wonson the conductor deserves much credit for the success of the work. Mr. Wonson is a musician of the first water, and as a conductor he leaves nothing too be desired.

In summing up, all one can say, was that in every way the work was a triumphant success and it is sincerely to be hoped that now that the initial appearance has been made the Choral society will soon appear again.

QUINCY SCHOOL TEACHER A HERO

W. L. Graves Rescues Boys From Butler's Pond

ACCIDENT CAUSED BY BREAKING ICE

Rescurer and Rescued Escape With Severe Ducking

Treacherous ice that had become porous by the recent rains was the cause of several boys at the High school getting a ducking in Butlers pond Tuesday and but for the prompt work of a teacher W. L. Graves a fatality might have resulted. At recess Tuesday a number of the smaller boys ventured out on the thin ice.

The pond had been flooded this winter for ice, and the water was quite deep. As the boys stood on the ice it gave way and several of them went in. Richard Ash the 13 year old son of Dr. John H. Ash was unable to get out and he sank nearly to his neck in the mud and water.

Mr. Graves ran to his rescue and in trying to get the boy out also went into the water. Several of the other boys ran to his rescue with the result that they also got ducked before all were safely on shore.

As Mr. Graves headed for the school building to dry himself, there was a mighty round of cheers for him, by the half-hundred boys and girls who had been attracted to the scene.

Mr. Graves was the hero of the hour and the pupils continued to cheer for him until the recess ended.

None of the boys are the worse for their ducking although it is said it would have fared hard with the Ash boy but for the prompt work of Mr. Graves.

Do You Know That GERMAN SELTZER

is becoming more and more used at the family table in Quincy as a healthy, invigorating and cleansing drink day by day?

The reasons are many—for it aids digestion, relieves Headache, Sour Stomach, and takes away that fullness after eating, quenches thirst and tones the system.

It has been recommended by many Quincy physicians, it is also used in our Quincy Hospital with good results.

We take pleasure to announce that we are celebrating the first anniversary of our successful business, and we are expressing our thanks and gratitude to our patrons by giving FREE of CHARGE a bottle of the Best Syrup of any flavor with the purchase of one case of "GERMAN SELTZER," during the month of "March."

We also have the Best Flavored Tonic in all staple flavors in Two Glass Bottles which will afford you a good pleasant drink for FIVE CENTS at your tonic place.

"All you will have to do is to to ask for GERMAN TONICS."

Special prices for "Parties," Entertainments, Picnics and Balls.

WEST QUINCY HOUSE LOOTED

Residence Of E. J. Watson Entered By Boys

YOUTHS WHEN CAPTURED MAKE FULL CONFESSION

Admittance Gained By Way of Cellar Window

The house of Edward J. Watson of 4 West street, was entered Tuesday by thieves and $60 in money was taken. When the family, who were away, returned, the loss was discovered and the break reported to the police. Acting Inspector Goodhue was sent out on the case and it was not long before he had three boys in charge.

The boys, the police say, confessed that they had done the job and told where most of the money might be recovered.

Inspector Goodhue says the boys told him that they rapped at every door of the house until they were sure that none of the family were at home. Then they entered the house through the cellar.

From what the boys told them of the break, the police were later enabled to recover $53.90 of the money.

The boys are all under 12 years of age and therefore can not be charged with burglarly. They will, however, be brought into the juvenile session of the district court next Tuesday.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Promptly at half past two Mrs. George W. Morton, president called the club to order and called for the reports. Mrs. Wilson Marsh secretary gave the minutes of the last meeting and the doings of the executive board.

Mrs. Blanchard for the Arts and Crafts committee announced that the millinery class began a course of six lessons last week which it was not too late to join also that the stencil class was a great success not alone financially but socially as it had brought club members together who were not previously acquainted.

Mrs. Safford for the Education committee announced the annual Children's Festival to be held at Music hall in April; proceeds for the summer schools. She asked for contributions of may-baskets, home made candy, etc.

Mrs. Hayward for the Music committee again announced the lecture recital of Russian music by Alvah Glover Salmon at First Church chapel on Tuesday evening March 16th given for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis work in Quincy and hoped all club members would assist.

Miss A. L. Prescott presented in writing, for action at the next business meeting, an amendment to article one section three of the by-laws, relating to membership to read as follows: "The annual fee shall be three dollars, payable on the first of March. If the fee is not 'paid before May first', the person from whom it is due, having been notified in writing shall cease to be a member." The present reading is "paid before the annual meeting" which does not give the treasurer time to close her books

If, as a famous writer once remarked, "The character of a city can be judged by its sidewalks," strangers visiting Quincy for the first time would not carry away with them a very high idea of the character of this city.

Acting Superintendent Worthley, who has charge of the State crusade against the moth pest, has issued a warning, urging all the city and town authorities, and property owners to do all they can to destroy the nests before April, as the moths will begin to leave their nests within a few weeks.

Owing to the unusual weather conditions this winter the work of exterminating the moths has been greatly hindered, and much time has been lost.

As only about fifty per cent. of the winter's work has been accomplished, it is necessary that much be done this month. The saving of our shade trees is something that every man, woman and child should be interested in, and should do all they can to destroy the pests before they get in their work.

Through the action of Governor Draper in applying to the State Board of Health, for information concerning the sale of "Infected" beef in Massachusetts, it looks very much as if the Governor intended to get at the root of the question.

This action of the Governor's will be welcomed by the majority of citizens, as it will give them a chance to hear the views of a disinterested and unprejudiced party.

If the Board of Health after a thorough and searching investigation reports that there is nothing to fear, then the people can eat their juicy steaks with a relish that is not enjoyed at the present time. If on the other hand the Board makes an adverse report it will be up to the Governor to see that there is a change made, even though the State loses a source of revenue. Public health cannot be trifled with, and the Governor should, and evidently does recognize this.

China, often called the most backward of nations in the care of natural resources, is to be the scene of a vigorous campaign in the interests of the forests, according to plans for a series of meetings which will be held under the auspices of Boone College, Wuchang, China, at Hankhow, Wuchang, and Hanyang.

Later there will be meetings in all the large cities and important ports both on the coast and in the interior. Howard Richards, Jr., the representative in this country of the Chinese college, has been collecting material for these courses, and has just started to China. Several of the photographs showing the effect of deforestation in China, which accompanied the President's last annual message to Congress, form a part of a set of stereopticon views which will be used in illustrating these lectures.

China has probably taken less care of her forests than any other nation of the earth, and this movement to awaken in its people a realization of the importance of the forest comes at an opportune time. Many parts of China are practically desert wastes as a direct result of the destruction of its trees. On account of the erosion which has followed the removal of trees from the slopes, farmers are compelled to terrace their hillsides, in order to hold enough soil in place for farming, and to build little walls across the valleys to catch the silt which the annual floods deposit.

Two centuries ago, many regions of China which are now barren, were paying revenue to their owners. Now the wood supply is so scarce that little poles are used for building houses, and roots and saplings are burned as fuel.

PRESIDENT OF ENTIRE COUNTRY

Taft Has Strong Friendship For Southern People

DICKINSON EXPLAINS STATUS

Appointment of Democrat of Nearly Forty Years' Standing to Cabinet Position Was to Show Southerners That They Will Be In No Sense Alien to the Administration—Magnanimous and Patriotic Purpose

Chicago, March 10.—Secretary of War Dickinson appeared before the Iroquois club, a Democratic organization, last night and made his first formal address since his appointment by President Taft.

Mr. Dickinson's presence before this body was objected to last week by former Mayor Dunne on the ground of "inconsistency." The secretary said in his speech:

"As publicity has been given to a protest made on political grounds, I feel that it will not be indelicate for me to refer to my own status. For nearly forty years, and much of that time with great activity, I have been in the ranks of the Democratic party. I have never sought of it the reward of office, nor any other benefits, direct or indirect. Like many southern men, I have at times disapproved its policies, but on account of local conditions, did not actively oppose it.

"t is a misfortune to the south, a misfortune to the whole country, that inexorable conditions were such that differences on all other questions have been subordinated to one question. When such action of those best qualified to represent their people extended throughout so long a period and so constantly, it would be like indicting a nation to affirm that it was either unwise or unpatriotic.

"On account of these causes, all of the southern states at the last election cast their electoral votes against President Taft, as they have hitherto done with respect to other epublican presidential candidates. Therefore, politically, there was no bond between him and the southern states. He is now, after the battle has been fought, entering upon the duties of his office as president of the entire country. He has been much in the south and for years has counted very many southern men within the closest circle of friendship. His jurisdiction as judge extended over the states of Kentucky and Tennessee.

"Moved by no obligations to the south but by strong friendship and sympathy for the southern people, and still more by a patriotic love for the entire country, whose welfare is necessarily bound up with that of the south, he determined to invite into his cabinet a southern man, thereby giving assurance to the southern people that he wanted them to feel that they were in close relations with his administration and would be in no sense alien to it.

"If he had selected for this purpose a southern Republican, however well qualified to discharge the duties of the office, it would not have fulfilled the purpose he had in mind. If he had selected a Democrat who had voted for him, there would have been room for carping criticism to say, however unjustly, that the appointment had been tendered and accepted as a reward for such support.

"I am confident that the great purpose of the president was to establish the relationship I have indicated. t would belittle the broad patriotism which inspired him to assume that his purpose was to achieve political results.

"Having accepted the position in his cabinet, I shall bring to the discharge of the duties of the office my best efforts, and shall of course carry out his policies.

"That the purpose operating in his mind was broad, magnanimous and patriotic, no one can question. The wisdom both of the purpose and of his selection is to be tried by time. I have every assurance, from letters and expressions in the public press, that his action in appointing me and my action in accepting are approved by the south, and having the approval of the southern Democratic states, whose judgment was especially appealed to in this matter by the president, I can bear with equanimity any criticism that may come from individual Democrats elsewhere."

OUR HOSPITAL
(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries

DEPLORABLE INDEED

Even Magistrates of Gaudeloupe Are Guilty of Wicked Practices

Paris, March 10.—The parliamentary commission which is investigating political and administrative conditions in the island of Gaudeloupe in connection with the charges of corrupt practices brought against M. Legitimus, the negro deputy from Gaudeloupe, has elicited a number of remarkable facts.

V. M. L. Ballot, the governor of the island, who came here to testify, has been relieved of his functions by Colonial Minister Millies-LaCroix. When he appeared before the commission, Ballot admitted that the situation was most deplorable, especially with regard to the court. He said the magistrates, enfeebled by the climate, abandoned themselves to reprehensible practices, such as "intoxicating themselves with ether and morphine."

ELIOT RAPS BOSTON

Says City Employes Do Not Give Day's Work For Day's Pay

Birmingham, Ala., March 10.—President Eliot of Harvard university discussed at the high school auditorium here "Government by Commission." He maintained that the highest efficiency in municipal government is accomplished by small government bodies placed in office by universal suffrage.

He gave the results of his investigation in Galveston and other Texas cities which are under commission form of government, saying:

"In Galveston there are now no sinecures. The citizens get a day's work for a day's pay from every employe of the city—something that can be said in few instances in my home city, Cambridge, and cannot be said in any case in Boston."

DRY FARMING ON WYOMING BORDER

An Opportunity For Homesteaders to Experiment

Washington, March 10.—By an order of the interior department about 3,000,000 acres of land along the eastern border of Wyoming are to be thrown open at once to homesteaders, who will be allowed to take either 160 or 320 acres.

The land cannot be irrigated and will be of use, therefore, only for dry farming. Those who take the full 320 acres entries must made an attempt to cultivate the land, while those who go in on the smaller holdings will not be compelled by the law to do so.

The throwing open of this land is somewhat in the nature of an experiment to see what can be done with such land.

TARIFF ON WOOLEN GOODS

If Reduction Is Made Operatives Wages Must Be Lowered

Lawrence, Mass., March 10.—"The one thing to give way if a reduction in the woolen goods tariff is made, as proposed, must be the wages of woolen mill operatives," said President Wood of the American Woolen company, in regard to the proposed lowering of the tariff on woolen goods.

President Wood stated that the woolen mills of the country are paying the highest wages ever paid to woolen workers and that his company had strained itself to maintain this high schedule through the trying times since the panic.

The American Woolen company employs nearly 40,000 operatives in thirty distinct plants.

THE PARKMAN BEQUEST

Hibbard Adds Signature to Order Signed by Acting Mayor

Boston, March 10.—Mayor Hibbard yesterday added his own signature to the order passed by both branches of the city council, accepting the $5,000,000 Parkman bequest, which Chairman Brand of the board of aldermen, while serving as acting mayor, had previously signed.

This action followed a recommendation made by the corporation counsel, who had been called in to render an opinion on the acting mayor's course in affixing his name to the document.

FRENCHMEN IN THE LEAD

Five More Teams Retire From International Six-Day Race

New York, March 10.—Five teams succumbed to the strain and retired from the six-day international go-as-you-please race Tuesday, so that only eleven of the twenty-seven teams that started Sunday night remain in the contest.

Cibot and Orphee, the Frenchmen, have a commanding lead of over eleven miles on their nearest opponents, Davis and Metkus.

Guilty of Atrocities

Brussels, March 10.—Lieutenant Arhold of the Belgian army, who was at one time denounced by the missionaries for burning and pillaging villages, assassinations and other atrocities in the Congo, has been found guilty of a series of charges of this nature and sentenced to imprisonment for twelve years.

FLORIDA IS RESOLD FOR $175,000

Ship Broker Bids In Steamer Which Rammed Republic

New York, March 10.—United States Commissioner Alexander, as trustee in admiralty proceedings for limitation of liabilities, resold the Italian steamship Florida, which in January last rammed and caused the sinking of the White Star liner Republic off Nantucket.

The Florida was knocked down to a ship broker named Bowring for $175,000. At the previous sale the vessel was bought by E. M. Mosle for $220,500. Mosle put up a deposit of $16,000, but afterwards refused to take title to the ship.

TO COST OVER $50,000,000

Foreign Capital Interested In New York Rapid Transit Scheme

New York, March 10.—The scramble for rapid transit railroad rights in New York city took a fresh turn when William J. Wilgus presented to the public service commission plans for an extensive "interterminal belt line" for the transportation of both passengers and freights.

The proposed line, which includes both elevated and subway roads at various portions of its route, practically circles the city, taking in the entire waterfront and touching also the Grand Central station and the Pennsylvania's new terminal.

The scheme has the backing, it is said, of foreign capital. The cost will probably be between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000.

EXPENSIVE CELEBRATION

New York City Will Have Big Sum For Hudson-Fulton Blowout

New York, March 10.—The New York city aldermen appropriated $300,000 for the Hudson-Fulton celebration next September. Herman Ridder explained that the total official expenditure for the celebration would be $1,250,000, of which the state promised $450,000, while $500,000 will be raised by private subscriptions.

All of the money appropriated by the city will be expended within the city limits under the supervision of the aldermen.

OUTRUNS TORONTO INDIAN

Bruce Finishes Strong In Indoor Marathon Race In Pittsburg

Pittsburg, March 10.—Hugh Bruce of New York defeated Mahgesahnequa (Charlie Jones), the Garden City, Ont., Indian, in an indoor professional Marathon race here.

The full Marathon distance was run, Bruce leading almost constantly from the start. He was strong and vigorous at the finish. The time was 3:18½.

The match was for $1000 and it is understood the winner will challenge Tom Longoat.

BOWLING.

In a hard fought game the Bucko's defeated the strong Bantams two out of three strings though on team total the Bantams lead by four pins. Hammond of Bucko's was high man for with single and three strings with 101 and 284. The strings were all close.

MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR A GREATER BOSTON

H. C. Long Says Hub Has Too Many Bedroom Municipalities

At the meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club on Tuesday evening Henry C. Long of Boston spoke on the "Commercial improvement of Boston.

At the head table were: President, Frederick W. Plummer, senator Eugene C. Hultman, Representative Louis F. R. Langelier, Walter E. Piper, Charles P. Loring, Rev. Carl G. Horst, Walter J. Wellington and George D. Follett.

In Boston, Mr. Long said, the tendency is to lay back, content with the good things of life and thank God that we are not as other men.

Commerce does not make a port but the port makes the commerce. There is an old proverb, he said, which reads: Take thy spindle and thy distaff in thy hand and God will send the flax. It is the same way with a port ;as soon as good facilities are provided, the commerce is always forth-coming.

All the export trade in this country comes from the states west of the Missisippi and north of Kansas, the others not raising more than enough for local consumption.

Of this great territory covering more ground than the whole of Europe and consisting of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Manitoba etc., Boston is the natural outlet.

At present, Mr. Long said owing to the domination and high rates of the New York Central this vast commerce is diverted from Boston to the Gulf and to the ports of Montreal, New York and Savannah.

To overcome this condition Mr. Long proposes the building of a railroad from Millers Falls to Boston, a distance of about 75 miles connecting with the lines of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific.

This done, he says, and the shipping of Boston will be doubled in twelve months.

Montreal at the present time, handles more export commerce than New York. With this railroad connection and the proper transportation facilities New York would soon be outstripped by Boston.

There are three things necessary, connections with a trans continental line, a belt line and proper docks and warehouses.

The belt line contemplated by Mr. Long would start at Lynn going through Saugus, Natick and other towns and ending at Fore River.

He considers this a remedy for the high rates and inconvenience of carrying freight across Boston and spoke of the present system as the cow-bell and lantern method.

This belt line would intersect all railroads running into Boston and all freight would be transferred at these points instead of in the city.

For instance, if goods were shipped from Maine to Quincy, instead of waiting to have them shipped across Boston at a wait of about a week they would be switched onto the belt line and delivered in Quincy in four or five hours.

This system is in force in all the large cities both at home and abroad and Boston has been the last one to take it up.

Boston has about 40 bedroom municipalities said Mr. Long. The boundary lines between these should be wiped out and the whole merged into a greater Boston.

This has been done by other cities with great success. New York has but recently laid out its outlying districts in such a way as to take care of its population for the next 40 years. Boston, he said, should do the same.

Parks, school houses, play grounds and the like should be laid out while the land is cheap and in this way system may be secured. Buildings and streets at the present time, he said are laid out without any general plan and he likened the result to the homes of the prairie dogs in the west.

To further these several ideas Mr. Long suggests that their execution be put in the hands of a committee of 28 of the leading business and commercial men of Boston to be known as the Board of Harbor Trustees.

The first duty of this committee would be to secure connections with a trans continental line, next take by eminent domain a strip of land one-half a mile in width, surrounding Boston for a belt line and then to improve the harbor and build warehouses.

By this belt line 100 miles of fine factory sites would be thrown open to manufacturers where now for the want of land and proper transportation facilities they are obliged to go South to locate.

With the money thus secured they would be able to reimburse the owners of the land and have enough left to develop Boston harbor.

Mr. Long closed his address by describing, by aid of the stereopticon the way in which freight is handled in other large centres.

Maps were given showing the belt lines of cities at home and abroad and pictures of warehouses in which freight is handled with marvelous rapidity.

At the close of his talk Mr. Long was questioned on certain phases of the subject by Hon. Eugene H. Sprague, Eugene C. Hultman and William M. Chase, the latter taking exception to some of his statements.

A committee for the purpose of nominating officers for the ensuing year was appointed by Mr. Plummer consisting of Messrs, Herbert J. Polk, George D. Follett and Grant T. Edgar.

Before the meeting adjourned Mr. Chisholm, a graduate of Tuskegee institute gave an exceedingly interesting twenty-minute talk on the condition of the negro in the south and the excellent efforts of Booker T. Washington toward their enlightenment.

He told many interesting anecdotes and by vote of the club was invited to give a more extended talk at some future meeting of the club.

The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock the usual roast beef dinner being served by the young men of the church.

JACK JOHNSON READY TO FIGHT

Thinks No Man In the World Can Put Him to Sleep

WANTS DOUBLE END CONTEST

Considered Income Tax on His Salary Sufficient Pay For Treatment He Received In Melbourne Hospital—Offer of Money and Silk Socks to Doctor Was , Rejected—Turned Down by Australian Methodists

Victoria, B. C., March 10.—Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion pugilist, and his white wife, a former Philadelphia woman, who threw in her lot with him after his fight at Sydney, and Sam Fitzpatrick, who is no longer manager of the black champion, arrived by steamer Makura from Sydney.

Johnson unreservedly declared his willingness to meet Jeffries or any other man. In an interview just before leaving for Vancouver, Johnson said:

"I am willing to meet Jeffries; I am willing to meet any man in the world, and I do not think any one can get a decision over me, much less put me out. It tires me to hear this talk about Jeffries claiming the championship. Why, when a mayor leaves office, he's an ex-mayor, isn't he? When a champion leaves the ring, he's an ex-champion. Well, if Jeffries wants to try and get the championship back I'm willing to take him on.

"I want a winner and a loser's end. I don't care what it is, 60 and 40, or 75 and 25, but there's got to be a winner and loser's end. That's how I met Burns."

Johnson intends to devote several months to a theatrical engagement, having signed with a syndicate in England for the London halls, and after an English tour to visit France and Germany.

Asked whether he intended to arrange a match with Ketchel he said everything depends on the offers. It was doubtful though, he said, if anything could be brought off until after his theatrical tour. He was much interested in Jeffries' condition.

"Did you go into the Melbourne hospital as a charity patient?" Johnson was asked.

"Well, it was this way. I had some trouble with my neck and kind of thought the Melbourne hospital the best place to go; but I didn't go there as a charity patient. Why, I drove there in my motor car."

"Did you pay for the treatment?"

"Why, no, it was a free hospital, wasn't it, and anyhow, I felt free to go there, for wasn't I paying an income tax on the £210 I was getting for my theatrical work? I kind of thought the income tax was sufficient to pay for what I got at the hospital. I offered to pay the doctor, anyhow, but he wouldn't take the money. Then I wanted to send him some silk socks, but he wouldn't take them. I told him that men in America worth millions went to public hospitals, but he didn't seem to understand. Australia has no reason to complain about me, though. I have paid my income tax all the time."

On the way from Australia Johnson took part in two concerts on board and was warmly applauded. He played selections on the bass violin and often at night, when the rolling of the steamer was not too much to make him indisposed, for Johnson admits that the sea got the decision over him a couple of times, he was heard practicing on his violin. He admitted that he had intended giving some selections at church entertainments in Australia.

"I am a churchman, belonging to the Methodist church, but they did not seem to have much use for a colored man in the Methodist churches of that 'White Australia.' They are good sports, though. They treated me fine and I've got no kick coming."

Sam Fitzpatrick, when asked about his split with Johnson, said it had begun soon after the fight. "Johnson was a different man before the fight," he said. "He would feed out of the hand then, but he is a hard man to handle now," said Fitzpatrick. "We decided to split soon after the Makura left."

WEYMOUTH.

The funeral of William Tobin a prominent business man of East Weymouth took place from the church of the Immaculate Conception, Tuesday and was one of the largest held in years. Many town officials and business men attending.

The stores in that part of the town were closed during the hours of the funeral. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by Rev. James Allison assisted by Rev. Fr. Maguire as deacon and Rev. Maurice Lynch as sub deacon.

Music was furnished by the church choir under the direction of the organist Mrs. William Fitzsimmons. The ushers were John J. O'Leary and Thomas P. Lonergan.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

Reynolds Post 58 G. A. R. of which deceased was one of the oldest members attended in a body, as did delegations from Weymouth council Knights of Columbus and Division No. 9 A. O. H. all of whom escorted the remains to St. Francis Xavier cemetery where the G. A. R. ritual was performed and taps sounded by bugler White.

The bearers were Ex-Selectmen Robert McIntosh and Nelson W. Gardner. Police inspector Patrick Butler, Joseph Ford and Michael Reidy.

Harold E. Bean of Oxford Maine has been elected principal of the James Humphrey school and Mrs Alice Eagon Doyle teacher of the third grade at the Jefferson school. Miss Margaret Doyle who was elected a few weeks ago principal of the Jefferson school has resigned.

Frank Pratt of Broad street had the fore finger of his right hand cut off in a machine while at work at the Fore River ship yard a few days ago.

The six young men from this place members of Co. K 5th regiment of Hingham who attended the inauguration of President Taft with the regiment report a good trip notwithstanding the severe weather.

The Weymouth school board has already received a large number of applications for the position of superintendent of schools to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of superintendent Badger. The salary is $2000 a year.

Safety lodge No. 96 New England order of Protection held a meeting last evening and initiated two candidates.

and make accurate annual reports or to have her books properly audited.

Acting in accordance with the by-laws requiring an election committee appointed at the March meeting, the president announced her choice as Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., and the executive board, Mrs. George L. Badger, leaving three to be nominated by the club. Mrs. Allen Jameson of Wollaston, Mrs. Thomas B. Pollard of the Point and Mrs. Alfred W. Jelinek of Atlantic were selected.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith gave a very interesting account of the State Federation meeting at Medford on Feb. 19th. In closing she advised every club member to attend the next meeting as they would enjoy it.

Mrs. Marsh spoke of the postals which had been sent out of which over two hundred had been filled out and returned. Hoped all would make returns. She wished to classify the interests of the members. It was gratifying to find of the cards returned philanthropy took the lead. Mrs. Marsh spoke of associated charities and told a story illustrating promiscuous giving. She also spoke of a tuberculosis case called to the attention of Quincy charity workers by the social service of the Massachusetts General hospital which had enabled prompt action in placing the patient under good care where a complete cure was anticipated. An appeal for the same patient was being made through the Ledger. Mrs. Marsh made a motion that $25 be appropriated by the club for the anti-tuberculosis work in Quincy and $25 for the Social Service work of the Mass. General hospital, which was unanimously voted.

Mrs. Morton spoke of President's day March 23d when club presidents and secretaries who had extended courtesies to the Quincy club would be entertained. She asked every club member to be a reception committee that afternoon and speak to and welcome the gluests.

By vote, the business session was extended to allow Mrs. Ida S. Brown County President of the W. C. T. U., to present briefly the work accomplished for temperance. She asked for the cooperation of the club. Miss Helen T. ORielly spoke briefly of the bill to come up at the State house on establishing kindergartens in towns or cities of over 10,000 inhabitants and asked the support of the club in helping the bill along. The club gave its endorsement and members also signed petitions to be sent to State house.

The afternoon's entertainment opened with a group of songs by Mrs. Edith Cary Page who was warmly greeted. Mrs. Smith accompanied at the piano. Mrs. Page has a flexible voice, full of feeling and of dramatic quality. She sang: "My Lover he Comes on the Skee" by H. Clough Leighton, "Most Wonderous it Must be," by Fanz Ries and "Villanelle" by Dell Acqua, received hearty applause.

Mrs. Safford of the Education committee introduced Mrs. Mabel Loomis Todd who spoke for an hour most entertainly on "Granada and the Alhambra and Seville and her Painters." Next to being there personally was seeing the places in ones mind as vividly portrayed by Mrs. Todd. She made it all very real ;the magnificant but gloomy Alhambra, beautiful Seville and its cathedral and fine paintings. It was enjoyable and one of the best afternoons of the season.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh wishes us to remind members to send her the return postals that she may complete her work.

Members are asked to save their old rubber and take to club house as Mrs. N. G. Nickerson is making a collection for the benefit of Philanthropy committee.

The work of the club is resulting in much good in the city. At the Quincy Home some good hearted women have fixed up a recreation room for the inmates with fresh paper, cheerful furnishings, pictures comfortable chairs, etc. The club is about closing its fourth year and interest is increasing with every year.

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

Sixty-five ladies gathered on Monday afternoon in First Church chapel for the Alliance meeting. Mrs. Geo. W. Morton, president was in the chair conducting the devotional and business sessions after which an interesting program was given in the nature of a Scottish afternoon.

Mrs. Ellis sang two Scotch songs "Annie Laurie "and "Mary of Argyle" with Mrs. Hunt as accompanist. The paper of the afternoon was by Mrs. Frederick Allison Tupper "An hour with Ian MacLaren." It was scholarly and full of interest. She introduced her subject by reading a brief extract from "A Doctor of the old School" followed by Dr. Watson's biography. It seems a significant fact that the great Scotch minister should have entered the church with no personal inclination. The real work of his life was at Liverpool, a period of fifteen years. Being an incomparable raconteur, his friends induced him to send a sketch or two to the British Weekly. These sketches were promptly gathered together into the volume "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush," a work of about fifteen months. This and "Auld Lang Syne" are his two best works. The title of "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" is taken from an old Jacobite song.

Life changed from the time Dr. Watson became a successful author. He delivered lectures and read from his books, coming twice to the United States. Mrs. Tupper closed by reading "Good news from a far Country."

During the social hour the hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. George G. Saville and Mrs. Thomas Bixby served refreshments.

Members of the Friday club were special guests invited to meet Mrs. Tupper, as Mrs. Tupper was a member of that club even after moving to Brighton, only recently giving up her membership.

NEIGHBORING.

Thursday afternoon the Abington Woman's club is to give the play, "His Last Chance." Tickets for the same can be secured by ladies, but all men are tabooed.

CHIMNEY CATCHES FIRE.

The alarm from Box 62 at 5.19 this morning was for a chimney fire in a house on Newbury street owned by Eliab Ramsdell and occupied by a family named Travers

The fire was extinguished by the Atlantic combination with hand extinguishers. There was no loss. It rained hard at the time the alarm was sounded and some of the firemen received a severe wetting.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY.

Capt. Charles T. Derry formerly of Quincy celebrated his 81st birthday today at his home in Sharon. Capt. Derry up to twenty years ago resided in Quincy and was a captain of a stone sloop sailing from Quincy Point with granite. Of late years he has been engaged in granite contract work for the government.

LEVI C. ELA.

A large number of relatives and friends gathered at the funeral service of the late Capt. Levi C. Ela at his home on Farrington street Wollaston Tuesday to pay their last respects to the memory of a noble, respected and upright life. The service was conducted by the Rev. C. G. Horst of the Unitarian church in a impressive manner. This was followed by the G. A. R. service by a large delegation from the Armed Battalion and members of Post 15 of Boston. During the services three solos. "The Homeland," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp ground," were beautifully rendered by Dr. C. H. Gould of Braintree. A profusion of beautiful flowers gave mute expression of the love and esteem in which Mr. Ela was held by those who knew him. The interment was at Cedar Grove Cemetery.

Jeremiah Pitts.

The funeral of Jeremiah Pitts was held this morning from his late home on Wharf street. A requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. John's church by Rev. John J. Casey. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, with John Mahon at the organ. Miss Mary McConaty sang the "Pie Jesu."

The "Domine Jesu" was sung by John Mahon. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Richard Gray.

The funeral of Richard Gray was held Tuesday from his home on School street. Services were conducted by Rev. A. M. Thompson. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

ONE OF THE LARGEST.

One of the largest sailing vessels that ever passed through the draw of the Quincy Point bridge, was the five masted schooner Gardner V. Deering, which arrived Tuesday after a three days' trip from Norfolk, Va. She had a cargo of 3,300 tons of coal for the Fore River Ship Building Co.

TODAY'S COURT.

Marris Topal was fined $5 for driving a wagon on a pleasure drive of the parkway.

William Hargrow was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until April 30.

Leslie Morton was held in $500 for the grand jury for felonious assault at Quincy.

TOWN RAZED BY TORNADO

Thirty or More Persons Killed and Three Score Injured

BUSINESS SECTION IN RUINS

Four Hotels Destroyed, While Hardly a Home Escaped Damage—Church Directly In Path of Storm Passed Through It Unscathed and Is Being Used as a Hospital—Hundreds of People Homeless

Brinley, Ariz., March 10.—Thirty or more lives were snuffed out, sixty people were injured, fourteen seriously, and property estimated to be worth $1,000,000 was destroyed as a result of a tornado which wrecked this little town. Of the known dead, fourteen are white people.

The tornado hovered about the city only a few minutes, but its work of destruction was complete. The Roman Catholic church, directly in the path of the storm, alone escaped damage or destruction and stands a grim sentinel on a scene of desolation. Main street and Cypress avenue, the two principal thoroughfares, are impassable from end to end, piled high with wreckage.

Every business house is in ruins, and there is hardly a home that has not at least suffered the loss of a roof or wing. The Arlington hotel, the Brinkley, the Southern and Kelley's hotels all were destroyed, but without loss of life.

Relief squads have been at work caring for the dead and injured. The Rock Island and Cotton Belt railroads have placed cars at the disposal of the relief committee and many persons are leaving Brinley and seeking temporary refuge at nearby points. The dead were sent to Helena for interment.

Governor Donaghey has arrived from Little Rock. He says food, clothing and shelter are the things most needful. Hundreds of persons are homeless. The Catholic church has been converted into a hospital and here the doctors and nurses are caring for the injured.

Cyclone In Georgia

Cuthbert, Ga., March 10.—The northwestern section of Cuthbert was struck by a cyclone last night and many buildings are in ruins. One man was killed and many injured. About thirty loaded freight cars were destroyed.

MISS BARRYMORE TO WED

Husband to Be Is Eldest Son of a Very Wealthy Man

New York, March 10.—Miss Ethel Barrymore is to be married next Sunday in Boston to Russell G. Colt, eldest son of Samuel P. Colt, president of the United States Rubber company and of the Industrial Trust company of Providence.

It is said that only one person has been let into the secret, the father of the intended bridegroom, who is much pleased with the match.

Russell Colt is 26 years of age. Miss Barrymore is now playing in the Hollis Street theatre, Boston, and the ceremony is to be celebrated quietly in that city. It is the intention of the popular young actress, says the New York Herald, to remain on the stage after her marriage,

IN FOURTH ROUND

Ferguson Puts Quietus on Kubiac, the Michigan Giant

Boston, March 10.—Sandy Ferguson of Chelsea knocked out Al Kubiac, the Michigan giant, in the fourth round in their bout here last night.

Ferguson secured an early advantage by flooring Kubiac with a right to the jaw in lieu of shaking hands in the initial round.

Near the middle of the fourth round Ferguson delivered three straight lefts to the face, followed quickly by a right hook to the jaw, which laid Kubiac on the floor for the count.

NO'S GAINING MANY FOLLOWERS

NO License League Issues Circular Showing Work Done

The Massachusetts no-license league officials are feeling somewhat jubilant over the gains in the no-license vote in this state in recent elections and have issued literature calling attention to some of the features of the extension of the no-license regime in Massachusetts during the last three years, showing a gain during those three years, to date, of 33 cities and towns for no-license.

The league's circular, just issued, claims that in Massachusetts we have one and one-half times as many large cities that have abolished the sale of liquor as has all the rest of the United States together, and that six of the 10 largest cities of the nation that have abolished the saloon are in this commonwealth. The chairman of the league's executive committee, Delcevare King, expresses confidence that the 100 towns yet to be heard from this spring will extend the no-license increase, or "sweep," as he terms it.

Here are some of the items he gives in his circular:

Local option, under which the "yes" and "no" vote at annual elections was provided for, began in May, 1882, with 75 cities and towns voting "yes" and 270 voting "no." For the license year beginning May 1, 1906, 97 cities and towns had voted "yes" and 257 "no," showing a loss for no-license in both cities and towns during the previous 25 years.

Up to the 1906 election Massachusetts showed a "yes" majority of 14,625 votes with 12 of the 33 cities voting "no." The figures to date show 20 of the 33 cities voting "no," also 270 of our 321 towns, and a "no" majority increase in three years from 14,625 to over 26,000, the present year's increase being over 2500 votes. Of our seven largest cities five are for no-license, and Worcester, said to be the largest city in the world that has voted no-license, has done so twice in succession.

MANY IMPORTANT MATTERS DISCUSSED

Houghs Neck Associates Hold Regular Neeting

The Houghs Neck Associates, incorporated, held their regular bimonthly meeting at their clubhouse at Houghs Neck, Wednesday evening. The attendance was large and many matters were discussed President Archie F. Baird was in the chair and was called upon on many occasions to straighten out questions that had been mixed up.

The following committees made reports that were accepted as progressive; express, school, public landing, sewer, garbage, auditing, house, janitor, ways and means and treasurer. A street committee consisting of William P. Taylor, chairman, Albert Acorn, Angus Brown, Frank Smith and Neil J. Regan was apointed and also a public building ordinance committee.

The principal business of the meeting was the matter of membership and the privileges of a member. The matter was discussed pro and con by nearly every member present. The president left the chair and took the floor several times to speak on the matter. According to the rules of the house committee all members that wish to enjoy the privileges of the club house were taxed an extra due beside the regular annual dues. Two or three members of the associates refused to pay the extra tax on the grounds that they thought that as members of the club they had the same privileges as any one else. After several hours of discussion the matter was shelved.

The ways and means committee reported that the rehearsals for the minstrel show were coming along fine and that the show would be a great deal better and bigger than the one last year. The money received from the show will be turned into the building fund.

ON SEVERAL CANDIDATES.

St. Stephen's Chapter Confers Royal Arch Degree.

St. Stephens chapter R. A. M. conferred the Royal Arch degree upon a number of candidates at its regular convocation Wednesday evening. The chapter is making great preparations for the exemplification to be held Friday April 2 and over 200 are expected to be in attendance.

The exemplification will be under the direction of Rt. Excellent Alfred H. Nash of Abington D. D. G. H. P. of the seventh capitular district and Rt. Excellent Lorenzo L. Green of Medford, Grand Lecturer.

The assignment for the different degrees will be as follows:

Mark Master by Samoset Chapter, of Plymouth and Pilgrim Chapter of Abington.

Past Master by Harmony Chapter of Bridgewater.

Most Excellent Master, by Pentalpha Chapter of Weymouth.

Royal Arch by Satucket Chapter of Brockton and St. Stephens Chapter of Quincy.

The meeting will commence at 1.30. A supper will be served between 6 and 7 o'clock the evening session commencing at 7 o'clock.

JUDGE CHAMBERLAIN SPEAKS ON WATERWAYS

Brockton Man Tells Quincy Citizens About Proposed Canal

A public meeting was held Wednesday evening in the Council Chamber, City Hall, under the auspices of the Citizens' Association and was fairly well attended, although there were not as many present as were expected.

Judge Loyed E. Chamberlain of Brockton, president of the Massachusetts Board of Trade, was the speaker of the evening, his subject being "The Brockton Canal and Inland Waterways." Judge Chamberlain represented Massachusetts in the Rivers and Harbors Congress in Washington and has made a careful and thorough study of the inland waterway qestion.

He had his subject well in hand and spoke very interestingly and instructively on what he termed "a wet but somewhat dry subject."

Walter S. Pinkham, chairman of the waterways committee of the Citizens' Association, presided, and after a short address of welcome, introduced Judge Chamberlain, who was received with a round of applause.

A general talk on the question of inland waterways was given at the beginning, leading up to the part of local interest "The Brockton canal." The speaker said that for the success of a country three things were necessary. fertile soil, busy workshops and communication and transportation between peoples.

We have the first two, he said, but the third only in a degree. This matter of transportation, like taxation, is one of general and vital interest. Judge Chamberlain said that the United States was way ahead of other countries in railroads, but that we must not rely wholly on these.

Therefore he said we must develop our inland waterways and perfect a system second to none. Other countries are realizing the importance of inland waterways, said the speaker, and we must realize it too and act at once, or else these other countries will go ahead of us and take away our foreign trade.

Canada for instance is spending millions on canals and if we don't spend millions also, the trade from the West to New York by the way of Chicago, is going to go abroad through Canada instead of New York.

The speaker then proceeded to tell why there was such great activity in the canal and inland waterway question at the present time. He gave four reasons. First, the general movement for the conservation of natural resources.

He told of the way in which we were beginning to realize that the destruction of our forests at the headwaters of the river, was the destruction of our natural water supply, our natural reservoir. He said that a movement was on foot now to save these forests and this water supply and that soon we would have an unlimited supply.

Second, railroads in times of prosperity are unable to take care of the business of the country. They have not kept pace with the increase in manufactured products for while our commerce has increased twelve percent, railroad facilities have only increased two percent.

He said that it was practically impossible for the railroads to catch up. Great financiers, he remarked, say that it would cost one million dollars every year for five years, to bring them up to where they should be. Hence, Judge Chamberlain said we must find something else, and the inland waterways system seems to be the remedy.

The third reason given for this present activity was the delinquency of the railroads themselves. They have brought it on themselves, said Mr. Chamberlain, for they have had extraordinary privileges and have not lived up to their contracts. They have not given us proper rates and in fact, we have been dealt with unlawfully.

The Judge said that railroad men themselves admit that they need relief and that relief can only come from inland waterways. Hence we must perfect a system of inland waterways all over the country.

Judge Chamberlain gave as his third reason, the construction of the Panama canal. With this canal we must be prepared to compete with other countries and especially South America, in the grain trade. Hence a system is needed whereby we can transport our products from Chicago and other inland points down the Mississippi river.

Our harbors too must be widened and deepened, for in the future there will be vessels 1000 feet long, drawing 40 feet of water, and we must have water to float them. The great race in the future is the transportation of commodities from places where they are worthless to places they are valuable.

The United States, said the speaker, must be in this race and she must improve with others if she wishes to stay in it. Victory will come to the nation which has the best harbors and the best system of inland waterways.

Judge Chamberlain then spoke of the Brockton canal, telling why it would benefit us here in Quincy, with the Fore River works here. He told why the proposed canal across Cape Cod from Buzzards Bay could not be, saying that the sandy coast on both sides would make the digging of a canal there impossible.

Therefore the Brockton canal is the one. In case of war, he said, with this canal ships of war would have a place of refuge. He also gave many examples of the domestic and industrial advantages that the Brockton canal offers.

This is one of the greatest and most important questions now confronting the people, concluded Judge Chamberlain, and interests people of Massachusetts, New England and the Atlantic coast from Boston to the Chesapeake Bay.

Judge Chamberlain was loudly applauded as he finished, and received many personal congratulations after the meeting adjourned.

COLLEGE BOYS GIVE CONCERT

M. I. T. Students Please Large Audience At First Church

The concert given by the Tech Glee, Mandolin and Banjo clubs in the chapel of First church, Wednesday evening, drew out a large and enthusiastic audience. An audience that was full of fun and appreciation willing to laugh at the by-play occasionally indulged in by some of the more exuberant boys, encoring the members, and in fact doing every thing and anything to help make the evening pass pleasantly.

The program was well selected giving each of the three clubs an equal chance to show their skill as entertainers.

The Glee club was the first to appear and at the close of each number they were given a hearty encore, as in fact were the banjo and mandolin players.

The banjo and mandolin clubs and the mandolin quartet all played like veterans and were given a cordial reception by the audience.

L. C. Shaw the cello soloist and William B. Jenkins, vocal soloist were well received and were obliged to respond to encores.

Miss Orma Adams Richardson did some clever dancing that added much to the evening's pleasure.

The following program was rendered:

ENTERTAINED BY PASTOR.

A quartet of young women, and the men's choir of the Swedish Baptist church were entertained by Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Hanson at their home on Whitwell street, Wednesday night.

Rev. Mr. Hanson welcomed all to his home and said he was glad to have them present on such an occasion.

The quartet and the choir gathered to make the final preparations for their concert which will be held in the church chapel tonight.

After practicing their songs, all adjourned to the dining room to do justice to a dainty spread.

The rest of the evening was spent in singing and discussing the lives of great men.

Among those present were: Rev. and Mrs. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Weeden, Miss Ella Werme, Hulda Johnson, Dora Landerholm, Signe Almquist, Mr. Stone, Andrew E. Lundin, John Herbert, Otto Johnson, Alfred Hanson.

IN THE PRESENCE OF MANY FRIENDS

Miss Ethel P. Parker Becomes Bride of John Norrie

Wollaston Unitarian church was taxed to its full capacity Wednesday evening for the wedding of Ethel Pauline Parker daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newell Osgood Parker of 250 Belmont street, and John Norrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Norrie of 100 Centre street.

The church was beautifully decorated with daffodils, ferns, palms, laurel and quantities of white ribbon and cut flowers and brilliantly lighted. Ernest W. Arnold, Edward R. Hall, M. I. T., Lawrence F. Loring of Wollaston and Earle H. Boyce of Melrose were the ushers.

While the guests were arriving Wendell H. Luce organist at Christ church presided at the organ and at eight o'clock to the strains of the wedding march the bridal party entered the church and proceeded slowly to the altar where the groom, who was unattended, and Rev. Carl G. Horst, minister of the church were in waiting, The bride was escorted by her father and preceded by the ushers and the matron of honor Mrs. Marcus Chase of Wollaston. The impressive double ring service was used.

The bridal group was very effective in soft coloring. The bride's gown was a white satin messaline over white silk made in empire style, with panels of lace with yoke and sleeves of the same. A directoire sash with silk fringe and the veil of Spanish lace and tulle gave the finish to the bridal costume. The veil was sent from Havana for the occasion. She carried a large shower bouquet of white sweet peas and her only ornament was a diamond brooch a gift from the groom. The matron of honor wore white point d'esprit over nile green with yoke and sleeves of duchess lace and sash of green messaline. She carried pink sweet peas tied with pink ribbon and wore a brooch set with acqua marine and pearls, a gift from the bride. Boutonieres of white sweet peas were worn by the ushers also gold scarf pins set with baroque pearls gifts of the groom.

Immediately after the church ceremony a reception for relatives and a few friends was held at the home of the bride from eight until ten o'clock. In the receiving line were the bridal party and the parents of the bride and groom. The house was a bower of beauty with trailing vines and southern smilax, combined with palms, ferns, daffodils, day break pinks, baskets of flowers and white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Parker mother of the bride wore an elegant costume of black silk Brussels net over blue satin messaline with passementerie trimmings and diamond ornaments. She carried a bouquet of violets.

The groom's mother wore black net over black silk.

A wedding supper was served by Hendrie. Among the beautiful gifts of silver, cut glass, china and ornaments was a piano a gift from the parents of the bride and several checks.

Guests were present from Wollaston, Brighton, Arlington, Somerville, New Hampshire, Maine and neighboring towns.

Amid wishes for much future happiness Mr. and Mrs. Norrie left for a trip to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. They will be away two weeks. On their return they will reside with Mr. and Mrs. Parker until the return of Mr. Norrie, who sails in May on a European cruise to be away until fall, when they will go to housekeeping in Wollaston.

The bride is one of the most popular young ladies in Wollaston, an accomplished pianist as is also the groom and both have a host of friends throughout the city who wish them every happiness in life's journey.

NEW ENGLAND SUPPER.

A New England supper was served the members of the Granite City club after the whist tournament Wednesday evening. The menu included hot baked beans, johnny cake, spagetti and tomato sauce, rolls, pickles and coffee and was served by Henry P. Furnald. The scores at whist did not run as high as usual, 68 percent carrying off the honors. Mark L. Read, Jr., secured 68.6 percent and George H. Field an even 68 percent. Several other scores averaged over 50 per cent.

Oyster Bay, Seth Bullock and the Rough Riders have a chance now to see themselves in small print.

When Roosevelt has conquered Africa will he sit down like Alexander and weep because there are no more continents to reform?

The loving cup presented to Mr. Foraker by his colored sympathizers in the Brownsville case must seem a poor compensation for all he lost by his advocacy of that case.

Mr. George Bruce Cortelyou who has risen from a Government stenographer to a Cabinet position will now devote his attention to making money as a Corporation lawyer, thus reversing the usual order which rules that a man shall become rich first and distinguished afterward.

The President has announced that he will travel. Who can doubt it, knowing how much he has travelled during the last eight or ten years? It may be safely set down that he has travelled five times as much as any predecessor. Next summer, it is said, he will travel on the Pacific coast and in Alaska. Well travel is good; if it is associated with observation and reflection. "Home-keeping youth have ever homely wit."

Pneumonia is raging among the soldiers and citizens who were in Washington on and about March the fourth. There was no parade to speak of. These men could not march in the water and slush that submerged Pennsylvania Avenue on that day, but the blizzard caught them on the side walks around the saloons and in their temporary quarters and it is probable will slay more than fell in the Spanish War. Congress, the press and the country are for the moment intent on changing the date of inauguration to the last Wednesday in April. But will the intention last? Will it not, as on so many previous occasions, be forgotten before another quadrennial inauguration event?

It is said that ex-Vice President Fairbanks may succeed Ambassador Reid at the British court. It will require a man with a purse equal to that of Fairbanks to keep the pace set by Mr. Reid, the wealthiest and most prodigal of all American Ambassadors. There are very few candidates now for ambassadorial positions—at least few in comparison with the number that were in the habit of applying fifteen or twenty years ago. The reason given is that the rich menwho formerly applied for and secured these positions have been hard hit by the panic and that the cost of living abroad in ambassadorial style has greatly increased. Mr. Fairbanks is well equipped in manners, means and mien for the place so long held by Mr. Reid. He has not had ambassadorial experiences in Paris as Mr. Reid has and does not speak French, but he speaks the most widely used of all languages and his long experience in Washington as Senator and Vice President and his social career in which Mrs. Fairbanks has borne a brilliant part, will peculiarly fit him to dispense money and courtesies at the Court of Saint James.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR
and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Cut This Out — FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this free coupon to the KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., CHICAGO, ILL., with their name and address and 10c in silver or stamps to pay postage.

STEAMER SINKS OFF NANTUCKET

Horatio Goes Down In Half Hour After Being Hit

IS RAMMED BY THE DIMOCK

Call For Help by Wireless Gets Tangled In Wild Jumble of Atmospheric Pulsations—Dimock Takes Passengers From Ill-Fated Vessel and Is Obliged to Beach Because of Her Own Injuries—No Lives Lost

Chatham, Mass., March 11.—Blanketed by a dense fog and proceeding at half speed, the coastwise steamers Horatio Hall, Portland for New York, and H. F. Dimock, New York for Boston, met in the middle of the narrow channel known as Pollock Rip Slue with a crash that sent the Hall to the bottom within a half an hour and caused the Dimock to run ashore on Cape Cod beach six hours later, when the passengers and crew of the Hall were landed without the loss of a single life.

The wireless operator on board the Hall was able to send the following message before his batteries gave out: "Horatio Hall in collision with H. F. Dimock at 8 a. m. Ship out below water-line. Is on bottom. Send assistance."

This message was picked up by half a dozen government stations and a number of amateurs, but before a reply could be sent or the operator asked for the position of the Hall a small army of wireless plants, government, professional and amateur, began hurling pulsations into the atmosphere until there was a wild jumble, and all intelligence was lost.

The six hours' silence which followed the cry for help from the Hall were full of anxiety. It was believed that no lives had been lost, but there was no surety as to that fact. The first reassuring word came with the landing of the passengers from the Dimock shortly after 2 o'clock.

It appears that the Horatio Hall left Portland at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night with five passengers, a crew of about forty, some 400 tons of freight and a valuable horse. The Dimock had left New York in the afternoon and both ran into the fog off the southeastern Massachusetts coast about the same time on Wednesday.

The fog was very dense, but it was daylight and both captains were whistling frequently. Although accounts vary, it is apparent that there was a misunderstanding of signals, for shortly after 8 o'clock the two steamers suddenly loomed out of the fog and before either could sheer off they met in what seemed more like a crushing jar than a terrific crash.

The sharp nose of the Dimock went through the side of the Hall abreast of the mainmast and had sufficient force to penetrate fifteen or twenty feet into the Hall's body. Captain Thompson of the Dimock started to back his steamer, but seeing that he might save those on board, sent her full speed ahead, held her nose into the jagged rent in the Hall, and as he pushed the latter over toward the shoal water on the side of the Slue the five passengers on the Hall were dragged over the tangled mass of wreckage to the deck of the Dimock.

The five passengers were as follows: M. E. Marks, New York; W. S. St. Marie, Biddeford, Me.; Michael Dolan, New York; Miss Ruth Emstrom and Miss Gurli Emstrom, Brooklyn.

As soon as the passengers from the Hall had gained the Dimock the latter backed off a few hundred yards, while the former slowly sank until she struck bottom, with her hurricane deck remaining just above water. While she was sinking a greater part of the crew left her on six life boats and rowed over to the Dimock, but Captain Jewett, his pilot, mate and two seamen decided to remain in the pilot house of the Hall, although only a few feet above the water.

The Dimock remained near the scene until 11:15, and then started slowly north. The forward bulkheads of the Dimock held in fine shape, but on the starboard side, a few feet from the bow, was a hole eight feet long by two feet wide which reached to the water-line.

She had not gone far when it was seen that she was listing badly, and fearing that the bulkheads might not hold, Captain Thompson ordered the two women from the Hall and two women passengers whom he had on board into one of the lifeboats and told the men that if the steamer went down that he would endeavor to clear away the rest of the lifeboats, but that the women must be saved first.

Under these conditions the Dimock crept slowly in toward the back side of Cape Cod until, just before reaching the Orleans life saving station, her head was turned and she was driven well up on the beach.

It was 2:15 p. m. when the Dimock grounded and a very few minutes later Captain Charles and his life saving crew from the Orleans station pulled alongside in their surfboat. Captain Thompson asked that the passengers and crew of the Hall and some of his own passengers and men be taken off, but said that all but one of the Hall's lifeboats had been swamped on her way to the beach.

Captain Charles then rowed ashore and summoned to his aid the crews and boats of the Old Harbor, Orleans and Nauset stations, and all three life saving crews landed all hands before dark.

Within an hour after the Dimock had gone ashore the tugs Underwriter and Orion and a wrecking outfit left Boston to assist the Dimock. The weather is favorable to wrecking operations and there is some hope of saving the vessel.

The Horatio Hall lies in twenty-four feet of water in Pollock Rip Slue and is a dangerous menace to coastwise navigation.

This is the second steamer which the steamer H. F. Dimock has sunk in Pollock Rip Slue, the first one being the steam yacht Alva, owned by William K. Vanderbilt, which the Dimock ran down while the Alva was lying at anchor within a mile of where the Hall is now on bottom.

FINE CONTESTS EXPECTED

Championship Title May Be Involved In Ice Skating Races

Cleveland, March 11.—Five of America's best professional ice skaters, including the present and past holders of the championship title, with others, will get together here tonight, tomorrow and Saturday in a great series of races. Some of the best contests in the history of ice racing in America are expected.

Among the cracks who will compete are Baptie, champion of America; Wood, the former champion; Neilson, Sinnirud and Bellefeuille. It will be the first meeting of Baptie, Wood and Neilson. As the championship title may depend on the outcome of the races they are sure to be close and interesting.

PRIEST SHOT DOWN BY THREE MEN

No Adequate Theory to Account For Atrocious Murder

Newark, N. J., March 11.—Three men, whose features appear to have been concealed by the collars of their heavy overcoats and their slouch hats, walked into the study of Rev. Erasmus Ansion, pastor of the Polish church of St. Stanilius, and opened fire upon him. Three bullets from their revolvers hit the priest, killing him instantly.

The trio turned to make their escape and found their way blocked by Mrs. Antonio Sewrzytska, the housekeeper. One of the visitors fired his revolver at her, inflicting a wound which is likely to prove fatal. Then all three rushed out into the street and escaped, leaving apparently no clue to their whereabouts or identity.

The police were put at work on the case within a few minutes of the murder and soon had rounded up four suspects. All four denied any knowledge of the affair.

No adequate theory to account for the attack upon the priest has been presented to the police.

James P. Daugherty, living on Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let others know what they have done for me. I suffered constantly from backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kindney Pills which I procured at the Cox, Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills as I have so much confidence in their merit."

ROOSEVELT'S AFRICAN HUNT

Indications That It Will Be a Most Successful One

DIRECT NEWS FROM MOMBASA

Lions, Giraffes and Elephants Reported to Have Been Seen In Large Numbers—Preparations For Former President's Trip Into Wilderness Nearing Completion—Will Be Welcomed as Great Sportsman

Mombasa, British East Africa, March 11.—Mombasa is preparing already to welcome Theodore Roosevelt when he lands here the latter part of next month on his much-heralded African trip, and his coming has given a decided impetus to the interest in the present hunting season.

The governor of the protectorate, Lieutenant Colonel Sadler, is getting up a progrom of welcome and entertainment for the distinguished visitor, but the greeting to Roosevelt will be more to the great sportsman whose fame is well known to local hunters than to the former president.

East African sportsmen were highly gratified to learn that Roosevelt had refused the offer of the authorities to grant him a special hunting license that would have permitted him to kill game to an unlimited extent instead of confining himself to the two elephants, two rhinosceri, two hippopotami, etc., of the regular license. Lions and leopards are classed as vermin, and consequently no license to kill them is required.

The rains are late this year and a heavy fall is expected. (The regular time for the "big rains" is from the end of January to the end of April.) The prospects for good hunting this season are considered excellent.

Many of the settlers in the outlying districts, realizing the increasing interest in the prospects for sport because of the coming of Roosevelt, are voluntarily sending in information about the movement of game.

According to a dispatch received here yesterday a record group of lions, numbering twirty-two, was seen on the Nandi plateau Tuesday fifty miles north of Port Florence. The Nandi plateau is on the west side of the great rift valley. Among them were three huge males. Four families of giraffes have been seen at Makindu, 200 miles inland from here on the line of the Uganda railroad, and elephants have been seen at Elburgon, 475 miles inland on the railroad, and along the Sabaki river, not far to the north of Mombasa.

R. J. Cuninghame, who is to be guide to and general manager of the Roosevelt party, has been here for some time completing the preparations for the trip into the wilderness as well as the shooting and collecting excursions along the line of the railroad. He is selecting and hiring natives for the expedition. The camp equipment for the work in the open is arriving from London and all will be in readiness when Roosevelt arrives.

The railroad car used over the line as far as Port Florence by other distinguished visitors to Uganda is being refitted for the use of Roosevelt. This car is most complete in its detail and provides the traveller with every comfort.

Everything points to a successful stay in British East Africa and Uganda for Roosevelt. The natives are peaceful, game is plentiful and the people of Mombasa are waiting eagerly to give him a welcome.

The foregoing is the first direct cable dispatch from British East Africa on the subject of Roosevelt's trip since it was learned last year that he was going to Africa. It was filed at noon on March 10 at Mombasa and it reached New York some hours later, owing to the difference in time and the great distance travelled. The message came over the deep sea cables from Mombasa, around the east end of Africa to Aden, and thence by way of Suez, Port Said, Malta and Gibraltar to New York.

COUNCIL BACKS DRAPER

Will Not Prohibit Sale of "Infected" Beef In the Bay State

Boston, March 11.—The governor's council, by a vote of 6 to 3, killed the resolve of Councillor Barry calling upon Austin Peters, head of the cattle bureau, to issue an order prohibiting the sale of so-called "infected" beef in Massachusetts.

The council follows the stand taken by Governor Draper in the matter.

Norman Mack's Home Burned

"Time's Flight Turned Backward"

SAGE AND SULPHUR

Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.
County of Monroe }

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS

Trial of Men Charged With Murder of Carmack Near the End

Nashville, March 11.—In the trial of the Coopers and Sharp for the murder of E. W. Carmack the state announced through Attorney Garner that it would contend that Colonel Cooper fired the shot which wounded his son Robin and that Carmack, if he fired at all, fired wildly.

It became evident from the argument of Attorney Washington of the defense, who followed Garner, that the defense purposed to rely strongly on a plea of justification as well as on the plea of self-defense. Washington denounced Carmack as "the man with the poison of a scorpion in his pen, the sting of a wasp in his words and the venom of the rattlesnake under his tongue." He had not finished his argument when court adjourned.

JURY INDICTS JUDGE

Charged With Perjury and Embezzlement of Insurance Funds

Toledo, March 11.—As a result of the investigation of the affairs of the defunct Ohio German Insurance company, the Lucas county grand jury returned five indictments against Michael Donnelly, president of the company. Donnelly is judge of the circuit court in the third judicial district of Ohio.

The company was barred from doing business in Ohio after an investigation by State Superintendent of Insurance Lemert.

Judge Donnelly is charged with perjury, embezzlement and obtaining money by false pretences. The amount involved is large. It is charged that the reports submitted to the state covered up $300,000 in unpaid losses.

INVESTIGATION IS BADLY NEEDED

Affairs In Liberia Are Going From Bad to Worse

London, March 11.—Great Britain has welcomed the decision reached in Washington to send a special commission to Liberia to investigate and report on conditions in that republic. Instructions have been sent to British officials in West Africa to give the commissioners every assistance, while British subjects resident in Liberia have been requested to do the same.

The action of the United States in this matter is regarded as opportune, for affairs in Liberia have been going from bad to worse, and this despite steps taken by Great Britain last year to straighten out the finances of the republic and to assist in the protection of the frontier.

The British officials who went out to reorganize the finances of the country informed the government that their position became untenable; their recommendations were ignored and at times their lives were in danger.

NOT AFTER SPEED RECORDS

Autos In Endurance Run Hold Down to Twenty Miles an Hour

New York, March 11.—Although no speed records will be broken in the automobile endurance contest between New York and Boston, which started this morning, the tour of the cars is being watched with interest by automobile enthusiasts.

The cars will be held down to twenty miles an hour. The distance is 243 miles. Stops will be made at New Haven, Hartford and Worcester, and it is reported that these cities will extend hearty welcomes to the contestants. The prize for the winning car in the contest is the Chester I. Campbell trophy.

BULLET IN HIS BACK

Farmer Becomes the Victim of Woman Who Was a Sure Shot

Eden, Vt., March 11.—While Daniel Baker, a farmer, was driving past the house of his neighbor, Peter Shapney, Mrs. Shapney appeared in her doorway and upbraided Baker for his alleged failure to pay her son some wages which she said were due him.

Baker drove hastily along, but was stopped by a carbine bullet which entered his back. He is in a critical condition.

Boston Broker Under Arrest

New York, March 11.—Thomas H. Winsor, a broker of Boston, was arrested by postoffice inspectors, charged with using the mails to defraud investors in gold bonds. Commissioner Shields held Winsor in $1500 bail, in default of which he was committed to the Tombs.

Meadows Admitted to Bail

Buffalo, March 11.—Harold G. Meadows, who was a member of the firm of Meadows, Williams & Co., brokers, which failed last fall, and who was convicted of wrongfully appropriating $72,000, was granted a certificate of reasonable doubt and released on $10,000 bail.

Favorite Sport of Cubans

Havana, March 11.—The house of representatives has passed the bill legalizing cock-fighting in regularly licensed pits.

BRIEFS.

Johnson Bros. are presenting their customers with a fine picture of President Taft.

The walls in most of the offices at City Hall have been retinted.

The Pine Tree club will hold a meeting Friday evening at Grand Army hall.

The annual ball of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows will be held tonight.

Awnings are being put up and hurdy gurdies have arrived so spring must be on the way.

The high wind this morning served to quickly dry up the mud and make good walking.

Quincy L. O. L. lodge holds its fourth annual dancing party Friday evening.

Dr. F. Ramon Burke has returned from the south, where he has been since the death of Mrs. Burke.

Mrs. S. I. Wood, the well known Quincy milliner, left today for New York City. She will return on Wednesday.

Owners of automobiles are getting their cars ready for use. Some of the more fortunate will have new cars this year.

The Enigma club meets Friday evening with Miss Ruth Penniman of Hancock street, when 500 will be enjoyed.

Miss Alice Keith Prescott has been a recent guest of Miss Ethyl Bradley at Gloucester returning on Wednesday accompanied by Miss Bradely who spent a few days in Quincy.

Under a new rule of the City Council adopted this year, no application for a license to collect junk or for a permit to transport liquor, will be acted upon unless received on or before the first Monday in April.

Summer residents at the Quincy beaches will be glad that a bill has been reported in the House this week requiring mufflers o nall motor boats. The chug! chug! of motor boats day and night is nerve racking.

The time is not far distant when some enterprising person will erect a business block on Washington street between Temple street and the post office. There is no question but what it would be quickly occupied.

Wednesday afternoon the House finished the passage through all stages the resolve which had already passed the Senate to provide for enlarging the channel at Wollaston beach in the city of Quincy. There was no opposition at any stage of the passage.

Woodward Institute observes Founder's day tomorrow evening at eight o'clock in the school hall. The entertainment this year will be mostly of a musical nature, which under the direction of Mr. Buckingham, is always enjoyable.

Sons of Veterans Auxiliary 3 of Quincy enjoyed a "Fameux" supper Wednesday night in G. A. R. hall. Among the visiting members were Mr. and Mrs. Richards of Weymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Sampson of Weymouth, Miss Bertha E. Reed from Trull hospital, Biddeford, Maine, and Mrs. E. Smith of Portland, Maine.

WEST QUINCY

Crescent street at its westerly end could stand a little resurfacing.

There seems to be quite a number of cases of diphtheria among children at the present time.

St. Mary's first and second teams play tonight in St. Mary's hall, the first team meeting the fast Fenno Five of Boston and the second clashing with the St. Joseph's quintet of Cambridge. These teams are all playing fast ball and some good sport is assured.

The regular Lenten services were held Wednesday evening in St. Mary's church. They consisted of the rosary, a sermon and benediction.

Johnny Finn, the well-known ball tosser of this district, is making a strong bid for first string pitcher on the St. Anselm's college team of Manchester, N. H. ,

It might be a good idea to send that street sweeper stored away at the City stables over Copeland street. It would certainly make the street look a little cleaner.

CHORAL UNION COMMENDED.

Editors Quincy Ledger:

I wish to give public expression of my deep appreciation of the exceptionally fine work done by the Quincy Choral society. I have heard "Elijah" rendered several times by experienced choral unions in our larger cities but never have I heard it better rendered than on Tuesday evening at Music hall. Especially note-worthy was the dramatic, graphic and interpretative expression of the thought and sentiment of the oratorio. It was a very ambitious undertaking for a newly formed Choral union but the result far surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the friends of the new organization. Further it was a splendid demonstration of the fact the Quincy people really enjoy and know how to appreciate high class music. The sentiment has been sometimes expressed that the Quincy public cared most for the vaudeville, minstrel type of entertainment, but last night, in spite of the storm, Music hall was crowded by the best people of the city to hear one of the greatest and most religious of musical compositions. The Choral union is to be congratulated on the selection of one of the great oratorios for its first public appearance.

Respectfully yours,
Edwin N. Hardy.

TENDERED A SURPRISE PARTY.

Friends of William Lee Present Him With a Clock.

A surprise party was tendered William Lee Wednesday evening at his home 29 Thompson street, a handsome clock being presented him by his admiring friends. The party was given by the young men's class of which Mr. Lee is the teacher.

During the evening there was an entertainment including music by an orchestra. Games were played and refreshments were served.

Those present were:

F. E. Hayden, Miss Ermine Cain, Alfred Artis, Miss Lulu Moody, William Artis, Miss Florence Thayer, Albert Langdon, Miss Minnie Gardner, William French, Miss Margaret Pennie, Miss Dora Staples, Miss Helen Lee, Irving Hayden, Edwin Lee, Carlton McNeil, Charles French, Lewis French, Harry Brown, Clarence Sewell, Eugene Grant.

QUINCY POINT

At the Fore River football grounds on Washington street Saturday afternoon, there will be a hot game of soccer football, when the Hopedale Rovers of Hopedale clash with the Fore River eleven. Fore River has a fast bunch and will surely play a fast game.

The Annual meeting of the Washington Street church, Quincy Point, will be held Friday evening of this week at 7.30. Reports from all church Sunday School and C. E. officers, will be presented.

The regular weekly whist party of the Washington Social club will be held tomorrow night at the clubhouse on Washington street.

Charles J. Russell, who has been visiting his mother on South street, has returned to his home in Boston.

William E. Dorley who has been employed in Bath, Me., all winter, is spending a few weeks at his home on River street.

Alfred Bullock and Edward Costello, who are building a 28-foot motor boat are hustling to have the boat in the water by the middle of next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moller of South street have the sympathy of a large circle of friends on the death of their little son Fred aged 2, who died Wednesday night. Pneumonia is given as the cause of the boy's death.

SOUTH QUINCY

Residents of Brook road are very much angered because a dead dog was permitted to remain on the sidewalk for some hours, before being removed.

Rev. John J. Casey conducted the Lenten services at St. John's church Wednesday evening. The devotions opened with recitation of the rosary, which was followed by a sermon and benediction.

The Y. M. C. A. branch of the boy's club met Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Clee the director of the boy's department had charge. There was a social hour and refreshments were served.

Mrs. George Esson leaves today for the west to take up her home with her son, who is a prosperous plumber in a western city.

John C. Scott of Waverly who has been visiting friends in South Quincy has returned home.

The East Norfolk Christian Endeavor union holds its annual social next Tuesday evening at the First Presbyterian church on Water street.

Duncan Grassick of Caledonian avenue has gone to the Rutland sanitarium to be treated for his health.

Benjamin Rappatort of 271 Water street was given a surprise party Wednesday evening at the home of Louis Grossman, 341 Water street. Miss Bessie Grossman, his fiancee, presented Mr. Rappatort with a beautiful signet ring. During the evening there were refreshments and an entertainment.

ATLANTIC

Mrs. John A Duggan of Atlantic street who has been confined to her bed for over a month is now able to be up and around the house and expects to be out soon.

The millinery class of Quincy which is held at the Women's club house every Thursday morning from 9 to 11 has several members from Atlantic and the non-members expect to see extreme styles in cabreolets and calashes, on Easter Sunday.

Atlantic has a great attraction this week in the way of entertainment, Mrs. Coursens presenting on Saturday afternoon her Shakespearean musical monologue, "O Mistresse Myne," in costume, under the auspices of the Shakespeare society of Atlantic.

O'CONNELL HAS HIS INNINGS

Election Commissioners Will Again Examine Ballots

A hearing is being held before the Election Commissioners in Boston this afternoon on the O'Connell-Galvin contested election case for congressman from the tenth district.

Today's hearing is on the petition of Congressman O'Connell, who was elected by four votes.

Some time ago a hearing was held on petition of Mitchell Galvin, the defeated candidate, at which time ballots were shown, which he claimed should have been counted for him instead of O'Connell.

At today's hearing the ballots which O'Connell claims should have been counted for him instead of for Galvin will be examined.

As there are a number of these ballots in Quincy, City Clerk Keith, who is the custodian of the ballots used at the state election last November, has been summoned to appear with these ballots.

It is expected that the case will finally reach the Congressianal committee at Washington before it is settled.

Should the case go there, the City Clerk will probably have to make a journey to Washington with the ballots.

BASKET BALL.

Quincy High defeated Milton at basket ball Wednesday afternoon 37 to 21, at the Cunningham gym. It was the second time this season that the teams have met, Quincy winning the first game also. Howe, R. Bates and Manning excelled for Quincy, and Stuart and Flynn for Milton. The summary:

WEYMOUTH.

George Ryan a native and up to within a couple of years a resident of Weymouth Center where he was engaged with his brother as a florist died at the city hospital, Boston on Sunday of hydrophobia. Mr. Ryan was bitten by a dog some two months ago but felt no ill effects from the wound until a few days before his death. He was a son of the late Daniel Ryan. His mother, sister and brother now reside in St. Louis, Mo. On account of the nature of the disease no public funeral was held. The remains were taken in charge by undertaker Henry M. Ford and the burial was in the family lot at St. Francis Xavier cemetery. His brother brother Daniel Ryan came on from the west and arranged for the burial.

Deceased was 30 years old.

The men of the East Braintree Methodist church will hold a supper and entertainment March 17.

Town clerk John A. Raymond is about again after suffering an attack of the grip.

Harry L. White aged 26 son of Mrs. Herbert L. White of Brockton and a native of this place committed suicide in Boston Monday by Shooting himself in the head. He has a number of relatives in this town. This is the third death in the family within a year. Mrs. White's husband and her sister Miss Joanna Dumphy having passed away within that time.

Ill health is given as the cause of his rash act.

—There is a moral for those who seek such things, in the story of the eight-year-old girl who was taken to a Pennsylvania hospital, was given ether and was then operated upon for appendicitis. The interest arises from the fact that she was taken to the hospital to be treated for enlarged tonsils. Strangly enough, the doctors say she would have developed appendicitis before long and tho operation would have been necessary anyway. There is here a suggestive warning for those of us who still retain appendixes (or appendices?) and who lack the excuse of enlarged tonsils.

—The statement that the exhibition of paintings in New York by a Spanish painter drew an attendance of 29,461 on the last Sunday of the exhibition, and that the total attendance was 160,000 also that the artist will take home with him between $300,000 and $400,000 as the result of the sales, disposes of the idea that a modern artist never makes any profit.

STANDARD OIL IS NOT GUILTY

Judge Instructs Rebate Jury to Return Verdict to That Effect

A BLOW TO GOVERNMENT SUITS

Marks the End of Famous Case In Which Original Penalty of $29,240,000 Imposed by Judge Landis Was Set Aside by Court of Appeals —Federal Attorneys Say Trusts Are Now Safe From Prosecution

Chicago, March 11.—In the opinion of federal attorneys the decision of Judge Anderson invalidates class tariffs and will make it impossible to convict a shipper for violation of the class tariff regulations.

Judge Anderson decided in the retrial of the Standard Oil company case, touching the $29,240,000 fine imposed by Judge Landis, that the jury must return a verdict of not guilty on all the counts of the indictment.

The decision of Anderson followed several previous decisions in which he knocked the props from under the government's case.

"As I view the matter the proof to support these counts absolutely fails," said the court. "I deem these fatal errors," he concluded, after summing up his reasons for his decision.

The decision marks the end of the famous Chicago & Alton case, in which Judge Landis imposed a fine of $29,240,000.

The $29,240,000 fine was originally imposed by Landis in the United States circuit court of the northern district of Illinois, but it was imposed upon the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

This made the opening for the Standard Oil's appeal. The Standard Oil attorney contended that the fine if imposed at all should have been imposed on the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and that this concern was unable to pay any such fine as $29,240,000. This view was upheld by the United States circuit court of appeals, which set aside the fine.

AN ALLEGED ABSCONDER

Man Wanted In Maine Town Is Arrested and Lodged In Jail

Vanceboro, Me., March 11.—After nearly three months of freedom, enjoyed with the funds which he had absconded from the town of Mattawamkeag and from the American Express company, John H. Maloy was arrested here.

Maloy said that he had but little remaining of the several thousand dollars which he had when he left Mattawamkeag in December.

Maloy was employed by the American Express company as its agent in Mattawamkeag, and was also treasurer of the town. He was taken to Bangor and lodged in the county jail, to be held for trial.

But King Edward Is Said to Be Not Seriously Ill

London, March 11.—No alarm is felt here concerning the health of King Edward and no credence is placed in the reports that he is seriously ill.

It is true that the king suffers from an affection of the throat, due to gout, but though it has been observed that he has aged very much and become quite enfeebled during the past year, it is impossible to point to any specific symptoms occasioning uneasiness which could not be attributed to advancing years and the habit of constantly smoking strong cigars.

ECLIPSE ECLIPSES RIVAL

Makes Fast Time In Race With Jutepolis From Hong Kong

Baltimore, March 11.—A 14,000 mile race between two of the fastest sailing ships which come to this port ended when the British bark Eclipse, Captain White, arrived at Quarantine. A few hours behind the Eclipse was the British bark Juteopolis, the other competitor in the long race.

Both vessels, loaded with matting, sailed from Hong Kong, the Jutepolis on Oct. 25 and the Eclipse Nov. 29. It took the Eclipse thirty-six days less time to make the voyage than was consumed by her rival.

ODD FELLOWS HOLD ANNUAL BALL

Members of Mt. Wollaston Lodge Fill Music Hall

MANY BROTHERS FROM SURROUNDING TOWNS PRESENT

Nearly One Hundred Couples Participate in Grand March

The annual concert and ball of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows was held at Music hall Thursday evening, and was a pleasing social event. Although it came during the middle of Lent this served in no way to diminish the attendance as upwards of one hundred couples participated in the affair.

Many Odd Fellows of lodges in surrounding towns were present with their ladies including the Noble Grands of John Hancock and Neponset lodges.

Wilson's orchestra of ten pieces which was almost hidden behind a wealth of potted plants and ferns with which the platform was decorated, furnished music.

Suspended over the stage were three golden links with back ground of white blue and scarlet, upon which appeared the letters F. L. T. representing the motto of the order. Friendship, Love and Truth.

From 8 to 9 o'clock while the guests were arriving the orchestra gave a promenade concert rendering the following selections:

March	"American Heros,"	Wiegand
Overture	"Comique"	Keler Belee
Concert Waltz	Weiner Blut"	Strausse
Zylophone solo	"Lucella"	Keiser
	Gerald A. Sullivan
Finale	"Among Comrades"	Faust

The wants of the guests of the evening were carefully looked after by a pains taking reception committee who saw to it that nothing was left undone that would add to the pleasure of the evening.

Past Grand, Charles S. Jones headed this committee and he was assisted by Tobias H. Burke, Charles A. Hobart, Thomas J. Smith, Jesse F. Curtis, William J. Williams, Frank L. Carlton, Charles F. Harwood, Walter C. MacEwen, Thomas E. Furnald, Albert A. Richards, Ed. L. Goodridge and William Patterson.

At the close of the concert there was a brief lull in the festivities while the couples were forming on the floor, preparatory for the grand march which was to open the ball. This started at 9 o'clock and was led by Noble Grand James S. Baker and Mrs. Baker. They were followed by the other officers of the ball with their ladies, and guests, the whole comprising nearly one hundred couples.

The usual march figures were executed, the marchers being greeted with a round of applause as they came down the centre of the hall with sixteen front. They then came down in single couples and the march ended in a circle. This over the order of twenty or more numbers was entered into with a zest that did not diminish until the closing waltz.

The order was made up with a plentiful supply of square dances, although the majority of the numbers were of the more modern variety.

At midnight there was a brief intermission during which refreshments were served in the annex.

James S. Moorhead was the floor director with D. E. MacDonald and James S. Baker as assistants. The aids were:—George H. Fisher, E. Frank Mitchell, Maynard C. King, Frank W. Flowers, Henry L. Kincaide, Charles H. Wood, Charles L. Hammond, Benjamin Bishop, William Westland, Ernest R. McDonnell, Orrin S. Hammack, Arthur H. Dunstan, Charles Barron, Abel S. Gomez, William A. Richards, Charles Prout, John R. Richards, John H. Gillis.

James S. Baker, chairman; E. Frank Mitchell, treasurer; Charles Barron, secretary and D. E. MacDonald, George H. Fisher, Frank W. Flowers and James Moorhead, Jr., had charge of the arrangements.

WEST QUINCY BOYS WIN AND LOSE

St. Mary's B. B. Teams Play Two Exciting Games

At the St. Mary's hall Thursday night, the St. Mary's basket ball players won and lost, the first team beating the Fenno Five of Boston 34 to 25, while the second team was defeated 14 to 10 by the Sacred Heart five of Cambridge. The latter five was the fastest second team that has appeared at West Quincy this season and played good ball.

A hot game was expected in the Fenno Five game, but the contest lagged and was more one-sided than the scores indicates. At no time was the local five in danger, seeming able to score a basket whenever they thought it was absolutely necessary. They had the game well in hand from start to finish.

W. Huddleston started the scoring, getting a pretty basket on a neat one hand shot. His team held the lead only for a minute however, for Dan Duggan came back strong and scored two in succession. From then on, it was easy money, St. Mary's leading 18 to 10 at the end of the first half.

In the second half the local boys didn't seem to want to pass the ball, but preferred to take shots the length of the floor. The result was some sensational long distance shots by different players. Johnny Kolson, the well known base ball pitcher, went into the game in the second half in place of Morrill and played a good game.

Morrill and the Duggans played best for St. Mary's, while W. Huddleston and Peterson excelled for the Fenno Five. Brit of the visitors was about seven feet tall and furnished a lot of fun for the spectator. He was christened "Longboat" as soon as he appeared . The summary:

ST. MARY'S	FENNO FIVE
W. Duggan, rf	lb, Peterson
D. Duggan, lf	rb, Sharkey
McLaughlin, c	c, W. Huddleston
Mullen, rb	lf, Britt
Morrill, Kolson, lb	rf, H. Huddleston

Score, St. Marys 34, Fenno Five 25. Goals from floor, W. Duggan, 4, D. Duggan 6, McLaughlin 3, Mullen 2, Morrill 2, Peterson 4, W. Huddleston 4, Britt 2, H. Huddleston 2. Goals from fouls, W. Huddleston. Referee, Joyce. Scorer, Canavan. Timer, Pendis. Time, 20m periods. Attendance, 200.

As a preliminary contest the St. Mary's second team played the Sacred Hearts of Cambridge. This game proved to be more interesting than the first game, the Sacred Hearts showing some fast teamwork and some accurate shooting. Galgay and Murphy took the honors for the winners, while Duggan, Bennett and Collins excelled for the losers. The summary:

SACRED HEARTS	ST. MARY'S 2d
Murphy, rf	lb, Croto, Bennett
Crowley, lf	rb, Collins
Galgay, c	c, Canavan
Norton, rb	lf, Duggan
Shannon, lb	rf, Bennett Morrill

Score, Sacred Hearts 14, St. Mary's 2d. 10 Goals from floor, Murphy, Crowley, Galgay 4, Norton, Bennett 2, Collins, Duggan 2. Referee, Joyce. Scorer, Canavan. Timer, Pendis. Time, 20m periods Attendance, 200.

TWO APPLICATIONS RECEIVED.

At their meeting held Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall, the Sons of Veteran's Auxiliary received two applications for membership. Among the visitors of the evening was National Patriotic Instructor Estella Richards, of East Weymouth.

At 6.30 a supper was served, provided by the side that was beaten in a contest for getting applications.

Interest in this organization is fast growing and the good of the order committee is providing something new every night.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

The Verdandi Temperance society held an entertainment and dance Thursday evening in Electa hall, Johnson building. It was the first anniversary of the society, the first meeting being held in the same hall one year ago. The entertainment consisted of declamations, songs and selections by Jacobson's orchestra. Refreshments were served during the evening.

MARTIN J. LENNON.

Martin J. Lennon, a brother of Edward J. Lennon, inspector of the Board of Health, passed away at his home, 89 Centre street, Thursday night as the result of a shock. Mr. Lennon, who was about 53 years of age , followed the occupation of a carpenter. He leaves a widow, three sons and two daughter s.

LOCAL KNIGHTS MEET DEFEAT

Weymouth Council Wins First In Series of K.C. Tournaments

Quincy and Weymouth councils, Knights of Columbus met Thursday night, at the local clubhouse, in the first of a series of tournaments that have been arranged between the two councils. The games played were pool, whist, forty five, cribbage, auction pitch and checkers.

Weymouth won at checkers and the cribbage, while Quincy won at pitch, forty-five and pool. The whist was a tie and didn't count in the points. This made the total score 6 to 4 in favor of Weymouth, for although Quincy won three events to Weymouth's two, the bad beating in checkers defeated them in the totals.

Greatest interest centered around the pool match for it was known that both sides had good teams. There were three men on each side, and each Quincy man was to play a 50 point game with a Weymouth man. The first pair were Leary of Weymouth vs. Keating of Quincy. Leary won 50 to 31.

White of Quincy played next against McCarthy of Weymouth, the former winning 50 to 41. This left Weymouth leading by 10 balls and excitement was high when McMaster of Quincy started after Sullivan of Weymouth. These were the two stars of the teams and some hot games were expected.

The Quincy captain got Sullivan's goat at the start however and ran off 50 points while his opponent was getting only 31. The final score was 131 to 122. Quincy winning by nine balls. The next in the series will be played Monday night at Weymouth.

The summary of games:

	QUINCY Won	QUINCY Lost	WEYMOUTH Won	WEYMOUTH Lost
Checkers	2	6	6	2
Cribbage	3	5	5	3
Pitch	5	4	4	5
Whist	45		45
Forty Five	28	26	26	28

Pool—Quincy 131. Weymouth 122.

Following is the summary by points:

	QUINCY	WEYMOUTH
Checkers	0	4
Cribbage	0	2
Whist	0	0
Forty Five	2	0
Pool	1	0

RECEPTION FOR NEW PASTOR

Memorial Church Scene Of Pretty Social Affair

YOUNG AND OLD GREET REV. THOMAS W. DAVISION

Mrs. Davison Also Given Hearty Welcome By Ladies of Church

Invitations were sent to two hundred and seventy-five families in Atlantic to attend the reception tendered to Rev. and Mrs. Thomas W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church, Thursday evening, and from the large number present it looked as if nearly everyone took advantage of the invitation.

The church was beautifully decorated with potted palms and ferns. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Davison, Benjamin F. Thomas, Mrs. William Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wells and Mrs. Harry Read.

Mrs. Davison was gowned in a handsome blue taffeta silk trimmed with white lace. Mrs. Cummings was dressed in brown silk. Mrs. Wells wore a handsome purple foulard and carried violets. Mrs. Read wore a black spangled net gown.

Fred Kolb, David Moffat, Henry Von Emden, Percy Hall, Alan Arthur, Frederick Burditt acted as ushers.

In one corner of the auditorium was the refreshment table, which was presided over by Mrs. F. J. Peirce and Mrs. Charles Cherrington. Mrs. Peirce wore an exquisite yellow satin trimmed with bands of gold. Mrs. Cherrington wore an elaborate silk muslin gown. The table was decorated with large bouquets of double jonquils.

The following young ladies of the church passed sandwiches, coffee, chocolate and cake: Miss Maude Read, Miss Anna Harding, Miss Florence Hill, Miss Martha Jenkins, Miss May Young, Miss Louise Hinckley, Miss Mary Farrell, Miss Louise Wilde, Miss Cora Harding, May Buckley, Miss Eleanor Nelson and Miss Helen L. Curtis.

A three piece orchestra from the Y. M. C. A. of Quincy furnished splendid music throughout the evening.

Those who were in charge of the affair were. Committee of Arrangements, Mrs. William F. Cummings, Mrs. Harry W. Read, Mrs. Charles E. Cherrington, Mrs. Frederick J. Pierce, Mrs. Harry B. Wells and Mrs. Welcome Young. Reception committee: Mr. Edgard E. Willey, Mr. William F. Cummings, Mrs. Millard W. Baker, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Frank Jenkins, Miss Louise Kolb.

NEW MACHINERY INSTALLED.

Old Granite Quarry To Be Operated After 15 Years Disuse.

John Fallon & Sons, who recently purchased the Frederick & Field quarry, have installed new machinery and will quarry granite for monumental and building purposes.

The power plant installed includes a 125 horse power boiler, a 40 horse power engine and a 50 horse power air compresser.

In addition to this, two large power derricks have been erected.

The quarry produces a medium and dark granite of fine quality. The quarry was opened upwards of 85 years ago but has not been worked for fifteen years. At the present time the firm is getting out some exceptionally large sheets of granite free from knots and blemishes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Editor Daily Ledger:

"Discussion is good food for thought when placed in the right direction."

I have noticed several worthy articles appearing in your paper favoring the removal of the United States Battleship "Maine" of '98 fame.

Indications point that one person in Quincy disapproves of the action or recommendations offered towards the removal of this wreck.

"A. B. H." otherwise known as Constable Arthur Hultman appears to interfere in this discussion ,the same as he does with the police of Quincy.

I have read the several letters with interest, one fact seems improper to me that Mr. Matthews' official duties in Quincy should receive mention. Knowing this gentleman to be steadfast, fearless and an admirer of fair play with a broader sense of purpose than his opponent "A. B. H."

Constable Hultman, the "Maine" discussion disturbs your peace of mind considerably. You are the first person to commence hostilities on an interested problem. Why not spend your spare time in more profitable business, there are crap-shooters invading our historical city. Cease your correspondence, joining your friend "J. A. B." who was a subject of Nova Scotia during and after the Spanish-American war.

The question of the disposal of the "Maine" can be argued without interruption by men with some knowledge of the facts. C. O. S.

YOUNG PEOPLE GIVE CONCERT

Interesting Program Rendered at Swedish Baptist Church

A concert was given by the young people of the Swedish Baptist church, Thursday night in the chapel, before a large and enthusiastic audience and was a grand success.

The first number on the program was a selection by the male choir and the way the different selections were rendered was a treat to hear, each man having his part down to perfection.

This was followed by Matthew Swanson who made a few remarks. Mr. Swanson said he was glad to see so many present and gave them all a cordial welcome.

A recitation by Gustaf R. Blomquist followed Mr. Swanson's remarks. Prayer was then offered by Mr. Halquist, secretary of the Brockton Young People's society.

The next number was a song by the young ladies quartet, followed by a selection on the violin accompanied by a guitar.

Rev. Mr. Hanson then made a few interesting remarks. He was followed by J. Peterson of Brockton. Mr. Peterson, who is president of the Young People's society of Brockton, said he was glad to be present on such an occasion, and that the way the different numbers were run off showed that the members who took part in the program had not worked in vain.

The next number was a selection by the men's choir, followed by a guitar solo by John Herbert. Mrs. M. Swanson then sang a solo, the ladies' quartet joining in the chorus. There was another selection on the violin, followed by the last and closing number, a song by the choir.

A committee of young ladies served refreshments in the parlor of the church during the evening.

Mr. Swanson, president of the Young People's society had charge of the concert and the way he conducted the affair shows that he was the right man in the right place.

MUSIC HALL.

The Quincy public certainly should appreciate the high class entertainment being given at Quincy Music hall. For Saturday afternoon and night the management have gone to the big expense engaging the great Ferrari the only living man that has succeeded in out-doing Houdini at his own wonderful work.

Ferrari will escape from a mail bag all kinds of handcuffs and his most remarkable feat will be the getting out of a straight jacket in the shortest time ever accomplished.

Ladies and children should try and come Saturday afternoon to avoid the great Saturday night crowd. Three specialties four thousand feet of moving pictures and two new illustrated songs.

One of the songs to be sung by Prof. Rock on Saturday afternoon and night will be somewhat of a novelty it is a moon song with stage effects and something new for Quincy.

IN HONOR OF PASTOR.

A new class called the Walther class was organized Thursday night at the Wollaston Baptist church. The officers elected were: President, E. J. Badger; Vice President, William Waring; Secretary, K. F. Harriman; Treasurer, E. L. Gannett.

About forty men attended the opening meeting. Rev. R. O. Sherwood of Attleboro was the speaker of the evening. His subject was "Just Like a Man." After the meeting adjourned refreshments were served.

—President Roosevelt had $50,000 a year, and $25,000 additional the last two years for traveling expenses. President Taft will have $75,000 straight. Perhaps four years hence the presidential salary may be increased to $100,000.

To hear the Rockefellers at Sunday school begging for money, and passing the plate for contributions, sounds paradoxical, but perhaps even Standard Oil will not lubricate the gudgeons of the salvation car and make it a mere joy wagon.

Ever since Hamlet in his great soliloquy classed the law's delay as one of the five principal evils of life, the tediousness and expensivness of litigation have been favorite subjects of comment. The evil is not abating; on the contrary cases are piling up in all our American courts, and people are demanding to know the cause. Lower court judges are fond of throwing the blame upon the attorneys, and there is no doubt that many unnecessary appeals are taken to the higher courts, thereby clogging the judicial machinery, and that many cases are entered in court with no honest intention of trying them. The attorneys on the other hand assert that if cases were tried more exhaustively in the lower courts, there would be fewer appeals, and there wouldn't be so many "Bleak House" cases in the higher courts. The following letter, which appeared in the Boston Herald is a fair sample of the lawyers' argument on this question: To the Editor of The Herald:

Your editorial in Tuesday's issue on the abuse of the right of appeal in our courts treats the matter in vigorous fashion, but, to my mind, fails to locate the trouble. It is in the courts of inferior jurisdiction that the trouble is to be found, and there the remedy should be applied.

If the judges of our lower courts gave up all legal work as attorneys and devoted their entire time to their judicial duties, hearing all cases fully and giving counsel ample opportunity for comment and argument, in other phrase, giving to every case the same painstaking attention that it would receive in the superior court, confidence in our lower courts would be established and appeals from their findings would appreciably decrease.

Until the feeling is overcome that cases can be only "half tried" in our lower courts, the right of appeal will continue to be exercised freely and business in the superior court will continue to be congested.

BARRISTER.

Now, what has the litigant to say about it? And what is the view of the taxpayer, the man who pays the freight? Probably the latter is not particular about fixing the blame, if only a remedy could be found and applied. Why not have a commission of laymen diagnose the case and prescribe a remedy?

MARK TWAIN ON NEW PLANET

Humorist Tells Why He Is Sure There Is One Near Neptune.

Mark Twain, whose interest in celestial affairs is generally known, contributes to Harper's Weekly his impressions of the new planet which, according to astronomers of Harvard, is believed to be causing perturbations to Neptune. He says:

I believe in the new planet. I was eleven years old in 1846, when Leverrier and Adams and Mary Somerville discovered Neptune through the disturbance and discomfort it was causing Uranus. "Perturbations" they call that kind of disturbance. I had been having those perturbations myself for more than two months—in fact, all through watermelon time, for they used to keep dogs in some of the patches in those days. You notice that these recent perturbations are considered remarkable because they perturbate through three seconds of arc, but really that is nothing. Often I used to perturbate through as much as half an hour if it was a dog that was attending to the perturbating. There isn't any Neptune that can outperturbate a dog, and I know, because I am not speaking from hearsay. Why, if there was a planet 250,000 "light years" the other side of Neptune's orbit Professor Pickering would discover it in a minute if it could perturbate equal to a dog. Give me a dog every time when it comes to perturbating. You let a dog jump out at you all of a sudden in the dark of the moon and you will see what a small thing three seconds of arc is. The shudder that goes through you then would open the seams of Noah's ark itself from figurehead to rudder post, and you would drop that melon the same as if you had never had any but just a casual interest in it. I know about these things, because this is not tradition I am writing but history.

Now, then, notice this: About the end of August, 1846, a change came over me, and I resolved to lead a better life, so I reformed. But it was just as well anyway, because they had got to having guns and dogs both. Although I was reformed, the perturbations did not stop. Does that strike you? They did not stop; they went right on and on and on for three weeks, clear up to the 23d of September. Then Neptune was discovered, and the whole mystery stood explained. It shows that I am so sensitively constructed that I perturbate when any other planet is disturbed. This has been going on all my life. It only happens in the watermelon season, but that has nothing to do with it and has no significance. Geologists and anthropologists and horticulturists all tell me it is only ancestral and hereditary, and that is what I think myself. Now, then, I got to perturbating again last summer—all summer through—all through watermelon time, and where do you think? Up here on my farm in Connecticut. Is that significant? Unquestionably it is, for you couldn't raise a watermelon on this farm with a derrick.

That perturbating was caused by the new planet. That Washington observatory may throw as much doubt as it wants to, it cannot affect me, because I know there is a new planet. I know it because I don't perturbate for nothing. There has got to be a dog or a planet, one or the other, and there isn't any dog around here, so there's got to be a planet. I hope it is going to be named after me. I should just love it if I can't have a constellation.

HORATIO HALL'S CREW IN BOSTON

Held Up by Storm While on the Way From Wreck

CAPTAIN STUCK TO HIS SHIP

Together With Four Men Who Remained With Him, He Refused to Leave Until Waves Swept His Feet—The Dimock High and Dry on Orleans Beach and May Be Saved If Weather Holds Good

Boston, March 12.—Tug John G. Chandler, having on board Captain Jewell and members of the crew of the steamer Horatio Hall, arrived here this morning, after having been held up for several hours on account of rough weather.

The tug found the sea so heavy off Race Point, with a fifty-mile gale blowing from the northwest, that she was unable to make headway yesterday afternoon and was compelled to heave to. After sundown the wnd moderated and the tug again got under way.

Steamer Horatio Hall, which was sunk to her hurricane deck in Pollock Rip Slue in the collision with the steamer H. F. Dimock, was abandoned to the wreckers Thursday, and another fleet of professional sea physicians assembled about the stranded steamer Dimock on Nauset Beach to patch her wounds and give her another chance for a useful life.

It was not until the ship beneath him was almost entirely submerged that Captain Jewell decided to leave the Hall. Together with the four men who remained by him, he left the pilot house of the vessel, which was all that remained above water.

All the passengers of the Hall and Dimock, together with the balance of the crew of the Hall and some of those of the Dimock, came to Boston by train, leaving Captain Thompson of the Dimock and about a dozen of his officers and crew still aboard the steamer to assist the wreckers in their efforts to float her.

A heavy surf during the night swung the Dimock around until she was nearly broadside to the beach and also pushed her a trifle farther inshore. Tug Underwriter of the Boston Towboat company appeared on the scene Thursday to begin the wrecking operations. She was followed today by lighters and other tugs.

High and dry on the beach the Dimock lies on Orleans beach, and the wreckers and underwriters have begun their work of saving the ship.

Captain Thompson, whose action in beaching the ship saved many lives, believes that the Dimock can be saved. He gave a lengthy statement describing the collision and the wreck of his own steamer, but in no way attempting to place the blame.

Captain Thompson said that it was the discovery that the sounding tube had been plugged up that saved the ship. When the crew were taking soundings they could not find that the Dimock was shipping much water, yet the steamer was settling heavily.

Then an investigation was made and seven feet of water was found in the hold. It was then that Thompson decided to beach the steamer.

All the bulkheads on this steamer held well. If one of them had given way the Dimock would have sunk two miles from shore.

LEADERS STUNNED

Prohibition Issue Suddenly Thrust Upon Massachusetts Legislature

Boston, March 12.—The legislative committee on constitutional amendments voted to report to the legislature a resolve providing for an amendment to the state constitution to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors within the commonwealth.

It was the feature of the legislative session of yesterday and one that stunned the Republican leaders, who foresee that the legislature will be split wide open in the settlement of the prohibition issue suddenly thrust upon it.

At the last election more places voted against liquor than at any time in the history of the state.

CITY SQUARE (Successor to Miss C. S. Hubbard) QUINCY

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Editor Daily Ledger.

Sir:—Replying to "J. A. Bamford of H. M. M. S '98," a gentleman I am not acquainted with, (nor have I any personal knowledge of the letters following his name, as this insignia was never in use by the boys who wore the blue uniform of the U. S. Army or Navy before or after '98.) This correspondent quotes the article printed in the issue of the 6th last in reference to Engineer Woolson of New York suggesting an island be built encasing the wreck of the "Maine," with beds of roses planted thereon, parks for people to walk or sit, to reflect and ponder over the bodies that lie beneath their feet. Every May 30, Memorial Day exercises are held by the veteran organizations in the various cemeteries. Mount Wollaston cemetery has a soldiers monument erected to the memory of those gallant men who responded to their country's call in '61. In order to observe the ceremonies held at this monument the public unconsciously trample over graves desecrating the ground made sacred by those entombed beneath. Committees have met and perfected arrangements whereby their monument or some other will be erected in City square, the ceremonies to be annually observed there. Why? Because the "American" sentiment prevailing against the multitudes of people walking over bodies in this cemetery makes this essential. Does this sentiment coincide with the proposition of Engineer Woolson or the advocacy of the correspondent, "J. A. B.?" Do American citizens desire a foreign element to walk, lounge, or trample the ground that entombs the remains of the brave boys that were sent into eternity at a moments action and disregard the sacredness to the memory of those dear shipmates and ruins of the ill fated "Maine." If this correspondent had served this country like many thousands have done honorably, raised his right hand on enlistment, swearing allegiance to the good old stars and stripes, the constitution etc., having a regular strict military training of the U. S. Army or Navy such quotations as he mentions in your respective issues would never be drawn from his pen. Thanks on the commendation of my qualities in criminology, such recommendations are unnecessary, uncalled for and out of jurisdiction when bearing on the topic of raising the "Maine." When it comes to discussing an engineering problem, my pen will not be sheathed, being capable of discussing this topic as well as many others of the time. "The strong sense of fellowship does not overcome my reasoning," only advocates Americanism.

Respectfully submitted,
Henry J. Matthews.

BRUTE IN HUMAN FORM

Janer Is Sent to Penitentiary For Twenty-One Years

Towson, Md., March 12.—Joseph M. Janer of Brooklyn was convicted of felonious assault upon Catherine Loerch, 12 years of age, also of Brooklyn, and was sentenced to twenty-one years in the Maryland penitentiary, this being the maximum possible under the particular count of the indictment on which conviction was had.

It was in evidence that Janer brought the child to Baltimore, representing her to be his daughter, and during two nights, one spent in a disreputable house and the other in a boarding house, repeately subjected her to most brutal ill-treatment.

Janer's counsel made a motion for a new trial, but this was subsequently withdrawn. When sentence was pronounced Janer showed not the slightest emotion. He was taken immediately to the penitentiary in Baltimore.

Janer's wife was in court throughout the trial.

TROPHY DECISION BY LOT

Fourteen Autos In New York-Boston Run Finish With Perfect Scores

Boston, March 12.—Fourteen of the twenty automobiles which left New York at 6:30 o'clock Thursday morning on the endurance run to Boston for the Chester I. Campbell trophy finished on schedule time at 6:30 last night with perfect scores. The tie will not be run off, but the holder of the trophy for the coming year will be decided by lot.

One serious accident marred the run, Aaron W. Wallace being killed at Fairfield, Conn., by attempting to jump from his carriage, his horse becoming frightened and running away at sight of the automobiles. Driver LaCroix was detained at New Haven on a technical charge to await developments, it being claimed his car was nearest the scene of the accident at the time.

WITHOUT LEGAL ASSISTANCE

Man Accused of Burglary Establishes Innocence In Court

Boston, March 12.—After pleading for two hours in his own behalf in his own defense without the aid of counsel, John W. Haley was acquitted in the superior criminal court of the charge of breaking and entering and intent to steal. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty after being out only twenty minutes.

Haley was arrested for burglary in Somerville. In his argument Haley quoted freely from the Bible and Shakespeare and laid stress upon the alleged lack of evidence presented by the district attorney's office. He asserted that if he had had means of procuring witnesses, he could have proved an alibi.

STEPHENSON'S "BARREL"

Wisconsin Game Wardens Came In For a Share of Its Contents

Madison, Wis., March 12.—State Game Warden Stone explained to the senatorial primary investigation commission what disposition he made of $2500 which he received from Senator Stephenson's campaign fund. Most of the money was handed to deputy game wardens in amounts varying from $50 to $500, to be used in the interest of Stephenson's primary campaign.

Some $600 of the fund Mr. Stone could not account for except that he "just spent it." Stone said he had a similar experience as to campaign expenditures "when La Follette ran for governor the second time."

Government Abandons All Other Suits Against Standard Oil

Chicago, March 12.—All of the criminal cases of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana pending in the northern district of Illinois, with the exception of two cases, have been abandoned by the government, as the result of Judge Anderson's decision, it is announced.

The two cases that may still be prosecuted are those involving oil shipments from Whiting, Ind., to Evansville, Ind., over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad by way of Dalton Junction, Ills.

DECISION NOT UNEXPECTED

But Miners Are Disappointed by Attitude of Employers

FLAT REFUSAL OF DEMANDS

Suggestion That Agreement About to Expire Be Renewed for Three Years—Anthracite Workers Asked For More Pay, Eight-Hour Day, Union Recognition, Check-Off System and Other Concessions

Philadelphia, March 12.—The anthracite coal operators' committee met the hard coal miners' committee here and flatly refused to grant any of the demands the men laid before them. At the same time they proposed to the mine workers that the present agreement, which expires March 31, be renewed for another term of three years.

This decision, while not unexpected by the mine workers, since they long ago learned that the operators were against making any concessions, was a great disappointment to the men when they were officially informed of it.

When the conference adjourned last evening President Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America and his colleagues filed out of President Baer's office with a spirit that was not as buoyant as that with which they entered the conference room. Lewis declined to comment on the developments of the day beyond stating that he and his committeemen would meet to discuss the situation. The miners will meet the operators again this afternoon.

The present agreement, made in New York three years ago, when John Mitchell led the miners in the negotiations, is identical with the award of the strike commission made in 1903 after the strike of 1902. Three years ago the miners made numerous demands, but all were rejected and they accepted the renewal of the strike commission award, which is the same proposal made by the operators yesterday.

The demands of the anthracite men as drafted at a convention in Scranton last October and approved by the national convention in Indianapolis in January are as follows:

First—That an agreement shall be negotiated between the representatives of the miners and the operators of the anthracite region and all disputes arising under the contract shall be adjusted as provided for in the said agreement.

Second—That we demand the complete recognition of the United Mine Workers of America as a party to negotiations to a wage contract and the United Mine Workers of America shall be recognized in our right to provide any method we may adopt for the collection of revenue for the organization.

Third—That we demand an eight-hour day with no reduction in wages.

Fourth—That all coal shall be mined and paid for by the ton of 2000 pounds.

Fifth—That we demand a definite and more uniform scale of wages and prices for all classes of labor at all colleries in the anthracite region, and that all employes paid $1.50 a day or less per day shall receive a 10 per cent advance, and all employes paid more than $1.50 and less than $2 per day shall receive a 5 per cent advance.

Sixth—That the system whereby a contract miner has more than one job or employs more than two laborers be abolished.

Seventh—That the employers be required to issue uniform pay statements designating the name of the company, the name of the employe, the colliery where employed, the amount of wages and the class of work performed.

So far as could be learned from the miners' committee the majority of the mine workers are opposed to a strike because they feel that they are not strongly enough entrenched to carry on a campaign of the magnitude of that of 1900 and 1902. But there are several men of influence in the delegation who say they would vote for a strike if no concessions were made.

GOULD DECREE IS MODIFIED

Decision of Court of Appeals in Famous Bucks Case

"WE DON'T PATRONIZE" LIST

It Must Not Be Used by American Federation of Labor, but Reference to Boycott Against Stove and Range Company Is Legal In Other Respects—Gompers Endorses Dissenting Opinion of Chief Justice

Washington, March 12.—The American Federation of Labor hereafter may freely refer to the boycott against the Bucks Stove and Range company of St. Louis except by inclusion in the "We Don't Patronize" list.

This, in substance, is the sweeping decision of widespread importance to the labor world, to manufacturers and to newspapers generally, handed down by the court of appeals of the District of Columbia in the noted injunction case of the Bucks Stove and Range company against the American Federation of Labor, which has been before the courts of the District of Columbia in various phases for months.

In a recent decision by Justice Gould of the supreme court of the district of Columbia the American Federation of Labor and the officers, Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell, Morrison and others, were enjoined from conspiring to boycott the Bucks Stove and Range company and from printing or publishing, or distributing through the mails or otherwise, any copy of The Federationist or other publication referring to the complaints, its business, or its products in the "We Don't Patronize" or "Unfair" list.

The decision Thursday, which was by Justice Robb, modifies and affirms the decree of Justice Gould. The court holds that the decree should be modified to the extent that it shall only restrain the defendants from conspiring or combining to boycott the business of the Bucks Stove and Range company, or threatening or declaring any boycott or assisting therein, and from printing the name of the complainant, its business or product in the "We Don't Patronize" or "Unfair" list of defendants in furtherance of any boycott against complainants' business or product and from interfering either in print or otherwise with complainants' business as in "We Don't Patronize" or "Unfair" list in furtherance of a boycott.

The court holds that the defendants cannot be restrained from all publications referring to the Bucks Stove and Range company, but only such as are made in furtherance of an illegal boycott.

In a practically dissenting opinion, in which he says that he is unable to concur entirely in the modified decrees of Robb, Chief Justice Shepard expressed the opinion that the decree should be modified "so as to restrain the acts only by which other persons have been or may be coerced into ceasing from business relations with the Bucks Stove and Range company, but so as not to restrain the publication of the name of that company in the 'We Don't Patronize' column of the American Federationist, no matter what the object of such publication may be suspected or believed to be."

Justice Van Orsdel concurred fully in the conclusion reached by Justice Robb, but by a different process or reasoning.

"The dissenting opinion of Chief Justice Shepard," said Gompers, "is exactly that for which the Federation has been all along contending so far as it refers to the freedom of the press. The right to freely express opinions is a constitutional guaranty. There is nothing libelous in anything The Federationist has published in connection with this whole case."

DIRECT NOMINATIONS

Plan Will Be Advocated by La Follette In New York Speech

New York, March 12.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, the famous "fighting senator," will deliver an address on "Direct Primary Nominations" before the Civic Forum in this city tonight. Invitations have been sent to Governor Hughes, the best known advocate of the direct nominations plan, and others prominent in the state government.

GEORGE E. CHAMBERLAIN.

Added interest will be given to the meeting by the presence of George E. Chamberlain, the new senator from Oregon, who will preside. Senator Chamberlain was the choice of the voters of his state at the primary polls, and, although he is a Democrat, he was elected by Republican legislators pledged to vote for him.

Tonight's proceedings will partake of the nature of a joint debate. Senator La Follettte, who has won fame in the senate as a debater, will reply to those who doubt the efficacy of the direct nominations remedy for the evils of politics.

ONE MORE FIGHT FOR JEFFRIES

Does Not Want to See Negro Champion of the World

New York, March 12.—All doubts about the ultimate intentions of James J. Jeffries regarding a fight with Jack Johnson for the heavyweight champion of the world were set at rest when the California giant declared that the advent of Johnson is the only excuse for his present training, and an intimation that he would have just one more fight, and that within the next six months.

Whereas, formerly Jeffries would never fight a negro, he declares that he will never fight a white man. The only reason he now contemplates reentering the ring is because a negro declared himself champion of the world, and this he will not endure if he can alter it.

BODIES FOUND IN WOODS

Suspicion That Two Men Were the Victims of Poisoner

New York, March 12.—The bodies of two men who appeared to have died from poisoning were found in a clump of woods near Northfield, S. I. The coroner ordered that autopsies be performed to determine the exact cause of their death.

The men, one of whom has been identified as Paul Perlieus, had been working together in the vicinity. After eating their luncheon they started out for a walk and did not return.

The theory is advanced that some one put poison in the food which the two ate at noon hour and the police have been asked to investigate.

MOORS DEFEAT FRENCH

Machine Guns and Specie Captured In Senegal Engagements

Bordeaux, March 12.—Passengers who have arrived here on the steamer Afrique from Senegal, a French colonial dependency in Western Africa, report that Colonel Gouraud's column recently suffered a severe defeat in that district, after several sharp engagements, in which they lost heavily.

The Moors captured several machine guns from the French and a large amount of specie.

Three thousand tribesmen, armed with magazine rifles, were threatening Podor, a French military post on the Senegal.

There will be a meeting tonight of those interested in the new Quincy base-ball team that has just been admitted to the Old Colony. The business of the meeting is to elect officers and get the club started on a systematic basis.

Absentminded Agent.

An absentminded agent is responsible for the fact that a tenant in an apartment is having all her rooms repapered this season. By the terms of the lease certain repairs were to be made, but papering, it seemed, was not included. Not knowing this, the woman telephoned the agent and asked where she should go to select papers. He, having much else on his mind and taking it for granted that she would not ask for anything not allowed, told her the dealer's name and sent her on an order. The paper was selected and paid for, and the woman supposed it had been hung until, going into the apartment last week to see, she found it still on the floor. Investigation proved that no orders for putting it up had been given, and the agent's telephone wire became hot. "Why isn't the apartment in order?" the tenant demanded, and the agent went scurrying to his books to find out. Then it was discovered that no agreement had been made as to paper, and that was why no orders to hang it had been given.

But, as the woman said, as long as they had bought it, was it worth while to let it stay on the floor? Wouldn't it be more economical to put it on the walls and not repaper next autumn? The argument was so logical that the agent was obliged to succumb, and seven rooms are being done now that except through error would have remained unfreshened.

Suffragettes In Ancient Rome.

The suffragette is no new thing There have been suffragettes for a long time. They had them in ancient Rome for Professor Ferrero, who lectured in Columbia university the other day, said so.

What's more, the old Romans, just like the men today, thought that things would go to rack and ruin just as soon as the women got the ballot. The Italian professor said: "The suffragette agitation is not new, for the victory of the feminine over the masculine spirit was a part of the history of the second empire, when greater wealth and security broke the bond of women during the earlier struggles toward imperialism. The Romans at a slightly later date complained that the dressmakers and the jewelers would send Rome and the empire to ruin and passed a great many laws in an attempt to restrain a great many extravagances in living and dress."

Dear, dear Rome fell. Somebody better be restraining these American women.

For Chapped Hands.

Alligator Steak For Taft.

Determined that Louisiana shall not be behind in furnishing unique viands for the president elect, Secretary M. B. Trezevant of the Progressive union is taking a prominent part in arranging for the entertainment of Mr. Taft on his visit to New Orleans. He has advanced a plan to give the visitor an alligator steak dinner in New Orleans.

QUINCY POINT

The Sons of Veteran's Auxiliary will hold a whist party tonight at the home of Mrs. G. W. Gragg of Packard street.

The Neighborly whist club met last evening at the home of Miss Charlotte Donovan of Chubbuck street. Mrs. Henry Gallagher won the first ladies' prize and John F. Donovan, the first gentlemen's. A social hour followed the whist.

Councilman Flynn was called to Providence this week by the death of an uncle.

A largely attended whist party was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Katherine Smith of North street. The party was held for a charitable purpose.

Morris Finklestein who keeps a Syrian boarding house on South street, is to leave Quincy and take up his residence in Lynn.

The new bungalow building on Winter street was broken into late Wednesday night and some valuable carpenter's tools taken. The bungalow is fast nearing completion although the carpenters are still at work.

Fore River meets the Hopedale Rovers tomorrow afternoon at the Washington street grounds. Soccer is very popular at the Point because of the large number of English and Scotch people residing here.

TODAY'S COURT.

James H. Cullen was fined $25 for larceny at Weymouth.

Bernard Smith was fined $10 for neglecting to send his child to school at Quincy. Sentence suspended until June 23.

James Mahoney was sent to the state farm for being a tramp at Holbrook.

—The $29,000,000 fine becomes the joke of the century. The Standard Oil people win, hands down. A pleasant smile may be imagined on the countenance of Mr. Rockefeller as he remarks that the good shall inherit the earth. Judge Anderson of Chicago yesterday threw out, practically, the case against the Standard Oil, and the the people in general will have another chance to ask "What's the use?"

—We examine in our dark-room with modern instruments. If we find disease we send you to a reliable oculist. Williams 1473 Hancock street.

DEATHS.

VINING—In South Weymouth, March 11, Mr A. Elliot Vining, aged 68 years, 6 months and 16 days.

A WONDERFUL MAGNET.

Startling Results Produced by a Cannon Wound With Wire.

A captain in the United States army at Willets Point several years ago made a wonderful experiment with an old sixteen foot gun. He conceived the idea of making it a magnet and to this end had it wound with about ten miles of copper wire and connected with an electrical battery. The result was astounding. The nature of the old gun had become wholly changed. Instead of being, as it had been, a powerful instrument of repulsion, it was now a powerful instrument of attraction. It soon became one of the sights to see cannon balls that no man could lift rise from the ground to the muzzle of the gun magnet, and it did not take long to find out that it had a lifting power of not less than twenty-two tons.

One of the most interesting experiments was to place a soldier about one foot from the muzzle of the gun and then turn on the electric current. Great iron spikes and big cannon balls would jump up from the ground and attach themselves to the man, clinging to every part of his body. Thus he appeared to be holding up without apparent muscular effort ten times as much iron as he could have lifted. As long as he remained within the influence of the great magnet the iron clung to him, but when he moved away it dropped from him as if he had suddenly released it.

THE GAME OF RUBBERS.

Only Boys and Girls Who Don't Mind Bumps Should Play It.

This is a game for children who don't mind getting a tumble, and if that frightens some children they can stop reading, and only the brave will find out how to play the "rubber game." This game, it is said, was invented in Germany, but it can be played in any part of the globe where there can be found two chairs, a cane, a broomstick and two pairs of rubbers—just plain, everyday overshoes that you wear in the rain. The two chairs, preferably with upholstered seats, are placed a little distance apart, facing each other, and the broomstick is laid from one to the other on the seats. Then the rubbers are hung on the backs of the chairs, one on each corner. Doesn't this sound remarkable? How do you suppose you are to play this game? Well, this is the way:

One child sits cross legged on the broomstick, keeping her balance with the cane, which she holds in her hand. Whenever she is steady enough she knocks off one of the rubbers with her cane, and if she succeeds in knocking them all off without falling off her broomstick she wins. But she probably won't.

Kindergarten Lunch.

Why, kindergarten is just fun.
It's out before it seems begun.
You see, there's always something new,
For teacher sort of plays with you.
It's first a story, then a song,
Which keeps the time from being long.

And then there's something else, you know,
For every day to school you go
You take a little lunch to eat—
Two sandwiches and a cake that's sweet.
It tastes so good and is so nice
That most times you could eat it twice.

How to Swallow a Lead Pencil.

Procure a piece of licorice ball about the size of a lead pencil, but only two inches long. Keep this concealed in your right hand, seat yourself in a chair and take a short lead pencil in the same hand and place it on the floor near your right foot. Call the attention of the company to the pencil and, taking it up, raise it to your mouth. However, as your hand passes your knees quickly conceal the pencil under the knee and hold it by slightly drawing the foot inward. As the hand reaches your mouth show the end of the piece of licorice for a moment, and the company will take it to be the pencil. Now put it in your mouth and eat it.

The Tomtit.

The tomtit, though an innocent looking bird, is both cunning and destructive. If unmolested he will kill and devour bees with rapidity and for this reason is regarded as an enemy to bee raisers.

CHEAPNESS AND SECRECY ATTAINED IN TELEGRAPHY.

Delany Telepost Shows What It Can Do In Actual Service—Low Rates Produce a Big Volume of Business.

Twenty-five word telegrams for 25 cents are no longer a promise. They are actually at hand. If a message can be mailed to the receiver at destination half a cent a word is the rate charged by the new telegraph company, the Telepost.

All the New England states today have the benefit of Patrick Delany's invention, known as the "telepost." Large business houses in Boston, having extensive New England connections, are employing this form of communication for much of their correspondence, where previously the mails were used. Within a short time it is confidently predicted that this system of cheap communication will be extended over the entire country.

By Mr. Delany's invention, which was often described in the press prior to being placed in commercial operation, it is possible to transmit messages any distance at the rate of 1,000 words a minute. Such speed of course requires automatic receiving, which is an essential part of the system this inventor has perfected. Not only has the telepost been in operation long enough to demonstrate beyond doubt that it can accomplish all that was claimed for the system mechanically, but it has also shown that its low rate produces a large volume of business that never existed when 25 cents for ten words was the minimum charge.

"Teletapes" at Four Words For a Cent.

Next to the fifty word twenty-five cent telepost and the ten word telecard for 10 cents, the greatest of telepost innovations is the teletape. The rate on this is only 25 cents for 100 words. To large users of wire service the company leases perforating machines, with standard typewriter keyboards. After perforating his own message the sender delivers the tape to the telepost company for transmission and delivery, and the receiver makes his own transcription. In addition to its great economy, the teletape gives the absolute secrecy that has long been demanded, but never before attained in telegraphy.

The telepost is the climax of Mr. Delany's long life of accomplishment in the field of telegraphy. About 150 patents have been issued covering his inventions, including his system of synchronous multiplex for transmitting six messages simultaneously over one wire, which was adopted by the British government and awarded a gold medal at the international inventions exhibit in 1885. Mr. Delany was born in Ireland sixty-four years ago, and his first employment after he came to this country was as a telegrapher. After thoroughly mastering this end of the business he began his career as an inventor.

Newest Food Fad.

Currant bread is the newest food fad. Two or three years ago this bread became very popular in England, where it was "discovered" after having been eaten for decades on the continent, especially in Holland. Following this example, American bakers and housewives have now taken up currant bread. Adding about three parts of currants to seven parts of dough makes a loaf which is said by food experts to be 50 per cent more nourishing than ordinary bread. The currants themselves are rated by chemists as being at least half again as nourishing as beef.

One reason why currant bread has not become popular here before this is that when it has been made it has usually been oversweetened. The bread now made is very slightly sweetened, so that it can form a part of everyday diet without the injurious effects produced by too large amounts of cake and pastry. Among the other advantages claimed for currant bread is that it requires no butter and is therefore much more economical.

By many whole wheat currant bread is considered the best of all. This is how it is made: Scald (do not boil) one and a half cupfuls of sweet milk and one cupful of water. When tepid add one-half cake of compressed yeast, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a teaspoonful of salt. Stir in enough whole wheat flour to make a stiff batter. Allow to raise. When light add one egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one cupful of cleaned and dried currants. Beat well, then add whole wheat flour to make a soft dough. Work well, place in greased pans, brush over with melted butter, let raise until light and then bake in hot oven. When brown cool the oven one-half and bake thirty minutes longer.

Fan Company Merger.

It has been announced that the American Blower company of Detroit and the Sirocco Engineering company have merged their interests and that the Detroit company, already the largest fan and blower concern in the United States, will hereafter control the Sirocco output. Ever since the Sirocco turbine fan runner, an English invention, was introduced in the United States it has been a source of consternation among fan and blower manufacturers, for the reason that a turbine fan of about half the size of older types does the same amount of work. All the Sirocco patents, both United States and foreign, are now, however, controlled by the American company, so far as this market is concerned. At mines, where enormous volumes of air are required, and on shipboard, where space saving is very important, the turbine blower is rapidly taking the place of paddle wheel fans.

CHANGE HANDS.

On March the fourth
A settled plan
It is to change
Our hired man.
A new one comes,
The old one quits,
And to the bench
A has-been flits.

Though the incumbent
May not ask
For leisure from
His four year task,
Yet in the midst
Of all the talk
He takes the hint
And takes a walk.

Off with the old,
On with the new.
We change the captain
And the crew.
But still amid
The storms and tides
The ship of state
Serenely glides.

And who would know
There was a change?
We notice nothing
New or strange.
Still bills come in.
Still it is true
That every month
The rent comes due.

Then They Love Us.

It is sad, but true, that our friends are most fond of us when we are sad and silent, for then we are listening to their troubles.

Missed a Chance.

"Why, you look as if you had seen a ghost."

"I—I—I did."

"See a ghost?"

"Yes."

"What did you do?"

"Ran away."

"Why, good heavens, man, why didn't you engage it for the season for exhibition purposes?"

Nothing to Him.

"Your note is overdue."

"So I hear."

"You don't appear to be worrying about it."

"Why should I? What have I got my securities on it for?"

Deceptive.

The day is bright,
The sun is warm.
There comes no blight,
No sudden storm,
To chill the hope
The sweet airs bring
That hill and slope
Will soon know spring;
That robins gay
Will flit about
And green boughs sway
In soft winds' rout.
Who trusts the hope
Is doomed to ills,
La grippe and dope
And doctor's bills.

He Missed It.

"His great-grandfather was hanged."

"He seems to be good and healthy."

"Yes, he is that."

"Evidently it isn't hereditary."

Not His Turn.

"Will you be my wife?"

"I would but for one thing."

"What is that?"

"A previous engagement."

Natural Product.

"Ever been on a roof garden?"

"No."

"What do they raise there?"

"Raise the roof, I guess."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is so hard to understand the mental attitude of some people because they have none.

The slim woman would like to be plump, and the plump woman would like to be thin; hence the beauty doctor.

Be careful about taking offense lest you be tempted to return it.

If we all kept our troubles to ourselves, would sympathy dry up or go begging?

The way to earn money is to work for it, but that hardly comes under the classification of high finance.

Man experiences a pocket edition of the panic every time he passes a millinery store in company with his wife.

When things go wrong with our neighbor it is easier to cheer up than when they go wrong at home.

The world could manage to rub along without us, but we are rather glad that it doesn't have to.

PUPILS TAKE PART IN PROGRAM

Founder's Day Celebrated at Woodward Institute

Founder's Day was celebrated Friday night by the pupils of Woodward Institute. A pleasing musical program was given in the school hall under the direction of John D. Buckingham, professor of music at the school.

The pupils were assisted by Miss Clara E. McClure '08. Miss Minnie R. Hardwick was to assist also, but illness prevented her appearance.

A large audience including the parents of the pupils, graduates and friends of the school filled the school hall.

Every number on the program was skilfully rendered, whether it was a chorus by the school or a solo on the piano. It could be plainly seen that the pupils were trained by a master, for everything went off without a mistake. There were about 150 girls in the chorus and they sang together like veterans.

Mr. Buckingham presided at the piano and so well were the pupils drilled that they sang without a director and without a slip-up. That the efforts of the performers were appreciated was evidenced by the bursts of applause that followed each number.

The soloists of the evening were Miss Amy E. Fallon '12, Miss Ruth A. Keating '10, Miss Clara E. McClure '08 and Miss Marion Moorhouse '10. Miss Fallon and Miss McClure gave piano solos, both playing like masters. Miss Fallon is one of the youngest pupils in the school, but as a musician takes one of the first places.

Miss Keating and Miss Moorhouse, on the violin and cello respectively, showed wonderful ability on these difficult string instruments. A trio on the piano, violin and cello by Misses Drummond, Keating and Moorhouse, all of 1910 class, was also very good.

The following program was rendered:

Chorus—
- a. A Maying — Minetti
- b. Sweet and Low — Matthews

Piano Solo—
- a. L'Adieu — Favarger
- b. Etude in C — Ravina

Miss Amy E. Fallon '12

Violin Solo—
- a. The Swan — Saint-Saens
- b. Perpetual Motion — Bohm

Miss Ruth A. Keating '10

Chorus—
- a. Doris — Nevin

(Violin and Cello Obligato)
- b. Little Pappoose — Sherwood

Trio—
- Piano, Violin and Cello — Bohm

(two movements)

Miss Drummond '10, Miss Keating '10 Miss Moorhouse '10

Piano Solo
- Valse de Concert — Wieniawski

Miss McClure '08

Cello Solo
- Tarantelle — Popper

Miss Marion Moorhouse '10

Ave Verum—adapted to celebrated Largo of Handel for strings and Chorus

Violins Miss Ruth Keating, and Miss Emma Walker. Cellos Miss Marion Moorehouse and Miss Dorothy Alexander.

LABOR DEMONSTRATION.

All local labor unions affiliated with the Central Labor union of Quincy are requested to meet tomorrow afternoon at the Quincy station for the 1.13 train, to attend the big Gompers protest meeting to be held in Faneuil hall, Boston, at 2 o'clock.

This is to be one of the greatest labor demonstrations that Boston has ever seen. It is expected that over 20,000 men will march through the streets of Boston on their way to the meeting.

EXHIBITION AND INSPECTION.

Boston Gear Works Entertain Guests at Norfolk Downs Factory.

The Boston Gear Works held a public exhibition of the various kinds of gears made by the company, at the factory at Norfolk Downs, Friday afternoon. In addition to the exhibit the guests were piloted through the departments of the plant, and given a chance to see the various stages of manufacture, from the raw material to the finished gear. Mr. Burgess for the company explained the uses of the many different machines, and answered all questions put to him by the guests, in an interesting and instructive manner.

One of the most interesting features of the inspection was the fire drill by the employees.

After the guests had inspected the plant, they adjourned to the office where refreshments were served. As the guests were leaving they were each presented with a watch charm in the form of a minature gear.

—The apple show of the New England states, scheduled for Boston next October, may easily lead to development of the greatest importance if it is backed up by sufficient brains and energy. The first conference called by the governors last November left no doubt in the minds of those who were present that New England could compete with any other section of the country in the production of apples, but that the producers had much to learn in the way of handling the product and getting it to the consumer. To learn this and to convince the farmer how great a profit there is if New England enters the apple field and utilizes her soil as she should, is the aim and end. It is a big opportunity.

ELECTS OFFICERS.

Washington Street Church Holds Anual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Washington street church was held Friday evening. After singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds," Deacon Bonney led in prayer. Then reports of the clerk and the C. E. societies were given. Mrs. Percy Holman reported the prosperous condition of the missionary society and Mrs. Rollin Newcomb spoke of the continued success of the Ladies' Aid society. Deacon Charles Sherburne read an interesting report of the Sunday school, which has a present membership of 325. Miss Amey Newcomb, the treasurer of the school reported all bills paid and money in the treasury. The church treasurer, E. M. Freeman reported on the benevolent activity of the church and shows a surplus in the church treasury. The clerk of the church, T. B. Pollard, reported 32 additions during the year. The deacon's report was read by Charles Sherburne, and showed the good condition of the parish and contained many helpful suggestions. The pastor's report dealt with the growth and opportunity of the church and of the unity and encouragement of the parish. Then followed the election of officers for the ensuing year. There was a good attendance at the meeting and members of the church have reason to feel grateful over the good work of the church.

PAID HIGH COMPLIMENT.

Councilman Charles M. Bryant for the past two years, president of the American Poultry association has been nominated for a third year receiving 384 out of the 404 votes cast.

This association represents the poultry industry in the United States and Canada.

It will be news to many to know that the volume of business that is done in eggs and poultry is larger than any other business in the United States, even exceeding cotton, steel or any other industry.

The general mode of procedure of the American Poultry association is to give its presidents but one year only and the compliment of being elected for a second year was very gratifying to Councilman Bryant. That he should be nominated for a third term must be particularly gratifying to Mr. Bryant.

FALLS BENEATH COAL WAGON

Joseph Curney Seriously Injured While Mounting Seat

Joseph Curney, 29, of 91 North street, employed by the Quincy Coal Company sustained a compound fracture of the left leg this morning while attempting to board his team as it was in motion. The accident happened about 9.30 on Quincy street, near Liberty.

Another man was driving the team, which was loaded with two tons of coal, when Curney alighted to spur on one of the horses which was hitched tandem fashion. When he started to get back on the team he slipped and fell beneath the wagon, the wheels passing over both legs.

At first it was thought that both legs were broken, but when Dr. W. J. McCausland arrived, it was found to be the left leg only. The right leg was badly crushed however. Hall's ambulance was sent for and the man was taken to the City Hospital.

"Joe" Curney is well known at the Point and has been a coal driver for many years, being employed by C. Patch & Son before he went to work for the Quincy Coal Company. He is the son of Peter Curney and is unmarried.

L. O. L. DANCE.

Members And Friends Have Merry Time Friday Evening.

The fourth annual dance of Quincy L. O. L. lodge was held in Electa hall Friday evening and was attended by over fifty couples.

Wilson's orchestra furnished the musical accompaniment and dancing was in order from 8 to 12 o'clock.

The dance opened with a grand march led by Andrew Stewart, the floor director, and Miss Beatrice Budd and was participated in by nearly fifty couples.

General dancing was then in order until midnight. No set order of dances was provided, the style of the several dances being by popular selections.

At 11 o'clock there was a brief intermission during which ice cream and cake were served.

Andrew Stewart was the floor director and he was assisted by Dr. John H. Anderson, Wilbur Wynot, Oscar Swanson and James Freeborn.

The reception committee who looked carefully after the wants of the guests of the evening were Richard Rundle, E. H. Geldes, H. A. Sproul and Gustaf Sandberg.

MUSICAL VESPER SERVICE

The vesper services on alternate Sunday afternoons at First church are to be continued through March on the 14th and 28th and on Easter Sunday April 11th. The musical program for tomorrow will be:

Organ Prelude
Anthem — Whiting
"Give Ear, O Shepherd of Israel"
Tenor Solo — Spicker
"Why Art Thou Cast Down, O My Soul?"
Anthem—"Deus Misereatur" — Mammatt
Organ Postlude

The music will be rendered by the church quartet with Mr. D. Landis Snyder at the organ. Rev. Charles B. Ames will conduct the service and he extends a cordial invitation to every one, especially the young people, to attend.

Ought to Have Done Better.

"One day," related Denny to his friend Jerry, "when Oi had wandered too far inland on me shore leave Oi suddenly found thot there was a great big haythen, tin feet tall, chasin' me wid a knife as long as yer ar-rm. Oi took to me heels, an' for fifty miles along the road we had it nip an' tuck. Thin Oi turned into the woods, an' we run for one hundhred an' twinty miles more, wid him gainin' on me steadily owin' to his knowledge of the country. Finally, just as Oi could feel his hot breath burnin' on the back of me neck, we came to a big lake. Wid one great leap Oi landed safe on the opposite shore, leavin' me pursuer confounded an' impotent wid rage."

"Faith an' thot was no great jump," commented Jerry, "considerin' the runnin' sthart ye had."—Everybody's.

Seek and Thou Shalt Find.

We know not what lies in us till we seek.
Men dive for pearls; they are not found on shore.
The hillsides, most unpromising and bleak,
Do sometimes hold the ore.

Go dive in the vast ocean of thy mind.
O man, for down below the noisy waves,
Down in the depths of silence, thou shalt find
Rare pearls in hidden caves.

Sink thou the shaft into the mine of thought.
Be patient, like the seekers after gold.
Under the rocks and rubbish lieth what
May bring thee wealth untold.

Reflected from the mighty infinite,
However dulled by earth, the human mind
Holds somewhere gems of beauty and of light
Which, seeking, thou shalt find.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Nearly.

Two Irishmen were discussing the death of a friend. Said Pat:

"Sure, Casey was a good fellow."

"He was that," replied Mike. "A good fellow, Casey."

"And a cheerful man was Casey," said Pat.

"A cheerful man was Casey, the cheerfulest I ever knew," echoed Mike.

"Casey was a generous man, too," said Pat.

"Generous, you say? Well, I don't know so much about that. Did Casey ever buy you anything?"

"Well, nearly," replied Mike, scratching his head. "One day he came into Flaherty's barroom, where me and my friends were drinking, and he said to us, 'Well, men, what is it going to be—rain or snow?'"

A Contagious Idea.

A teller who was detailed to the woman's window in a bank was asked by a portly German hausfrau for a new envelope for her bank book. The lady behind her, noting that her own envelope was a trifle dingy, asked also for a fresh envelope.

No. 3 said "Me, too," or words to the same effect, and so it went down the line.

When his patience and his stock of envelopes threatened to give out, the teller determined to call a halt. A fastidiously dressed lady appeared at the window holding out a perfectly gloved hand.

"I should like one, too, please," said she.

"One what, madam?" asked the teller.

The lady flushed and began to look comical.

"Why," she stammered, "what the other ladies had."

He Meant Well.

Some years ago a workingman of the best type, having been laid up in a London hospital with an illness which needed incessant care, was at last nursed into convalescence. Gratitude to the kind lady who had tended him beamed on his honest face as he wished her farewell with untutored cordiality: "Goodby, Miss Nurse, and thank you heartily. If there ever was a fallen angel on earth, it's you."

A Lincoln Story.

Mr. Lincoln said once that the best story he ever read in the papers of himself was this:

"Two Quakeresses were traveling on the railroad and were heard discussing the probable termination of the war.

"'I think,' said the first, 'that Jefferson will succeed.'

"'Why does thee think so?' asked the other.

"'Because Jefferson is a praying man.'

"'And so is Abraham a praying man,' objected the second.

"'Yes, but the Lord will think Abraham is joking,' the first replied conclusively."

Right and Wrong.

Nothing is so wrong as an unintelligent application of a right principle; nothing is so unjust as inflexible justice; nothing is so monstrously unrighteous as a righteousness that cannot bend.—John Spargo.

In a "Dry" Town.

Two men from New York awoke one morning to find themselves in Savannah. Remembering that they were in a prohibition state and having a thirst worthy of their surroundings, the pair started out on a still hunt for an eye opener.

They were not acquainted and were in a quandary as to where to start on their quest, and while they were debating the question mentally between them they were approached by a pleasant looking policeman, who wished them "good morning."

"Say, Jim," said one of the pilgrims to the other, "this is an opening. Here's a good fellow; let's ask him." It was agreed, and the officer answered their inquiry by saying laconically, "Follow me." He walked them three blocks until they stood in front of the cathedral. Here he paused.

The travelers looked at each other in astonishment.

"Surely, my good man," said the first, "you do not mean to tell us that a blind tiger is being operated in church?"

"You see the church, do you?" asked the policeman solemnly.

"Yes," answered the two.

"Well, that is the only place in Savannah that you can't get it," said he. —Bohemian Magazine.

Large and Respectable.

When Hannibal Hamlin first began his political career he was once at a caucus in Hampden, the only attendant besides himself being a citizen of very tall stature and ponderous build. Mr. Hamlin had some resolutions to pass which began by representing that they were presented to a "large and respectable" gathering of voters, and he proceeded to read and "vote" them on to the records of the caucus.

"Hold on!" cried the other man. "We can't pass that, for it ain't true."

"What isn't true?" demanded the wily Hamlin.

"It ain't a large and respectable caucus," objected the other member of the assembly. "There's only two of us."

"That's all right, brother; that's all right," assured Hamlin. "It goes as read. Just you keep still. This is a large and respectable caucus all right. You're large, and I am respectable."

And the resolution "passed" without further demur.

Cause of His Troubles.

A youth with an open, ingenuous countenance rose in a religious convention and made the following speech:

"Dear friends, large ships that look sound—and good—and—and seaworthy—are—sometimes found to be almost ruined—almost, yes—almost—ruined—by—by shipworms. They honeycomb the heavy timbers—and—and although the ship looks as if it might do great things for its masters—it—cannot. It—it—has shipworms.

"Dear friends, it is just so with some Christians. Outwardly a Christian may look like a fair ship. Dear friends, I feel that often I am like the ship and that I—that I—too—have shipworms."

Qualities In Men.

A sad nature sheds forth twilight. A merry and mirthful nature brings daylight. A suspicious nature insensibly imparts its chill to every generous soul within its reach. A bold and frank nature overcomes meanness in men. Firmness makes them firm. Fineness makes them fine. Taste directs, stimulates and develops taste.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Rather Double.

"My friend Woollen—William Wesley Woollen," said a Washington official, "was starting on a trip to Europe. He needed a steamer rug in a hurry and telephoned for one to be sent up to his house. The clerk took the order, but couldn't understand the name.

"'Spell it out,' he asked, 'and I'll write it down.'

"So Woollen started.

"'W,' said he.

"'Yes,' said the clerk.

"'W.'

"'Yes.'

"'W.'

"'Ye-es.'

"'Double o.'

"'Ye-e-es.'

"'Double l.'

"'Say,' interrupted the clerk, 'what do you think you are—twins?'"

A United Family.

An old couple in Glasgow were in a very depressed state owing to dull trade. Thinking their son in America would help them, they wrote, stating their trouble and that if he did not help them they would have to go to the poorhouse. Three weeks passed, and then came a letter from their son, saying:

"Dear Mither and Faither—Just wait anither fortnicht an' I'll come hame an' gang wi' ye. Your affectionate son."

When He Missed Her.

It is still the custom in certain parts of New England, when a marriage ceremony has been performed, for the bridegroom to address the company in a few well chosen words.

On one such occasion, relates Howard Morse in Lippincott's, when a Vermont widower had been married to his second choice, he is said to have formulated his observations in the following strain:

"Friends and neighbors, you all know that our good friend here, who has just done me the honor to share my joys and sorrows, is something of a stranger to our town. Being a mere man, I feel that I need your help to make her feel at home among us, so I'm going to depend on you women folks to make her feel perfectly at home here. I know you will do this, just as my first wife would do if she were here today. I miss her considerably at times, but more than usual on an occasion like this."

A Big Difference.

At one time there were two members of the house of commons named Montagu Matthew and Matthew Montagu, the former a tall, handsome man and the latter a little man. During a session of parliament, the speaker having addressed the latter as the former, Montagu Matthew observed that it was strange he should make such a mistake, as there was as great a difference between them as between a horse chestnut and a chestnut horse.

AMUSEMENTS.

Keith's Theatre

Of all the many celebreties that have entered vaudeville in recent years none have made a greater success than Mike Donlin, the famous ball player of New York. This may have been due in the beginning very largely to the fact that he was associated with his very clever wife, Mabel Hite, in a sketch which fit the pair of them like a glove. When they made their first appearance in New York crowds went to see the ball player with no idea of what he was to do and it proved a pleasant surprise all round. Those who came out of curiosity saw a remarkably good vaudeville act and Mr. Donlin held up his end in the most satisfactory manner. This was at the beginning of the season and their success has grown ever since. They now come to Keith's at the height of their popularity in a new field.

Castle Square Theatre

Everybody who knows Geo. Bernard Shaw's wit will want to see "You Never Can Tell" at the Castle Square next week, and many thousands more will want to laugh at the genial Irishman's humor of which they have heard so much. Mr. Craig will be giving this most humorous of farcical comedies its first stock presentation in Boston, and none of his patrons will be disappointed. "You Never Can Tell" is a play on which both action and speech are continuously funny. In its plot is involved Mrs. Clandon and the Clandon family, and it happens that she is much given to theorizing upon the welfare of mankind. Her husband has taken to drink, possibly with good cause, and they are separated. "You Never Can Tell" will have a run of only one week at the Castle Square, and that week will doubtless be all too short to accommodate the many that want to see this brilliant piece, of Mr. Shaw's humor.

Orpheum Theatre

Another excellent bill of all star features is announced for the Orpheum theatre next week. It combines in a happy manner an abundance of comedy, high class music and novelties. The head line honors are hard to place but will probably go to Chas. Ross and Mabel Fenton. This popular pair will be seen in Mr. Ross's domestic comedy "Just like a Woman" Ross and Fenton have long since won their place in the hearts of American theatre-goers. The demure singer of dainty songs, Lucy Weston, is sure to pluck her share of honors on the bill. She will be remembered as a star in the "Follies of 1908" during its New York run. Her offering will be in the nature of some lyrical advice, which immediately captivated New York. The Royal Musical Five, vocalists and instrumentalists will contribute the musical end of the program. The balance of the bill will include some of the highest class act now on the vaudeville stage, in fact the whole bill will be one of the best balanced and strongest ever seen in Boston.

will be best promoted—best preserved—if you are ready to give the proper remedy at the proper time. The proper remedy for all strains, sprains, or colic is Perry Davis' Painkiller. The proper time to use it is when trouble first shows itself. Be prompt and you'll not only save the horse suffering, but you'll spare yourself trouble and expense—maybe save a long time waiting. You ought to have a bottle ready. The new size bottle costs 35 cents; one larger, 50 cents. Be sure your druggist gives you Perry Davis'.

A Home For Harriett.

By FRANK H. WILLIAMS.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Harriett was a peculiar name for a cat; but, then, Harriett was a peculiar cat. Roger Webster surveyed her quizzically as she lay in the sun on the boarding house steps.

"Any feline but Harriett," he declared, "would at least feel mildly perturbed at the prospect of losing a home and a mistress."

"You'd think so, wouldn't you?" answered Bessie Roberts. Bessie was very pretty and wholly charming, but at the present time a little frown of anxiety wrinkled her forehead.

"I simply don't know what to do about it," she continued. "The landlady says that I've got to get rid of Harriett, and I can't find any other place so convenient to my work where I can live. I suppose—I suppose," she added wistfully, "that I shouldn't be so foolish over Harriett, but in some way she seems the only link between today and the other life. With all my people gone and Harriett some other place in this big city I'd feel too awfully, miserably lonely."

Roger saw that Bessie was near tears. "Poor, lonesome kiddie," he thought. And, leaning over, he stroked Harriett very carefully. Harriett arched her back, purred and rose slowly to her feet. Then, turning round, she jumped squarely into Roger's lap.

"What a sensible cat!" Roger smiled at the girl. "You see, she likes me very much. If only every one—that is, some one—liked me very, very much."

He glanced at the girl slyly. A little flush had spread over Bessie's face, and she kept her eyes fixed steadfastly on the cat.

"I only wish they allowed cats in my boarding house," he continued. "That's one of the troubles of living in a boarding house—you don't get the real, simon pure comforts of home. Now, I'll tell you what we'll do," he cried, jumping to his feet. "We'll take Harriett with us and go on a tour of inspection in this neighborhood. We'll hunt up a nice, quiet street where there are little cottages instead of big houses, and when we see a nice, 'homey,' comfortable housewife in one of the homes we'll go in and ask her to keep Harriett for us."

"For us?" queried the girl, with a little laugh.

"Sure," continued Roger, unabashed. "You don't think Harriett belongs to you alone, do you? I think Harriett would resent any such idea as that. She likes me too well, and I like her too well. No, indeed, I have a minority interest in this cat."

The girl laughed and rose to her feet.

"Well, come along," she said. "I suppose it's the best think we can do, and as it's Sunday afternoon we ought to be able to find lots of the people home."

* * * * * * *

Roger helped the girl down the steps, and, calling to Harriett, they walked down the street. Harriett, big, sleek and black, followed decorously enough until they reached a small, rather obscure cross street.

Roger happened to be looking back as they crossed this street and discovered Harriett very sedately ambling down the little thoroughfare.

"Come here, Harriett," Roger called and then whistled to the cat.

Harriett paid not the slightest attention, but continued her sedate walk away from Roger and the girl. Bessie called, but even to her Harriett paid no attention.

"Well, I declare!" cried the girl in surprise. "Harriett has always been peculiar, but she has never acted like this before."

"Let's follow her and see where she goes," cried Roger. "Perhaps she is looking for a home or perhaps she has a home already picked out."

"All right," said Bessie.

They turned back and hastened after Harriett, who was now about a fourth of a block ahead. The street was a quiet one. Neither Roger nor Bessie was familiar with it and had paid but little attention to it in previous times.

Now, however, they glanced curiously at the small, rather cozy houses which lined the sides. Although erected within recent years, they were almost old fashioned by comparison with the big buildings on the more important streets near by. It seemed as if the little street was a mere eddy in the swirling life and progress all around it.

"Oh, I like this street!" cried Bessie.

"It appeals to me, too," declared Roger, with conviction.

For several blocks they followed Harriett, who continued her steady course. At last they saw the cat turn into a gate in a charming stone fence, and they hastened after her.

The fence inclosed a cozy little cottage, well set back from the sidewalk. In the yard were a couple of trees, a flower bed or two and a delightful path, bordered by a low hedge, which ran up to the spacious veranda.

The little home had such a piquant, happy look that involuntarily both Roger and Bessie smiled as they gazed at it.

Then Roger laughed.

"Look who's on the veranda!" he cried.

Bessie looked closely and gasped. There was Harriett, curled up tightly in the blaze of the sun, as if she had been in the habit of lying there just like that day in and day out for years.

"Well," cried the girl, "Harriett seems to be perfectly satisfied with the place."

"Yes," acknowledged Roger. "I could be happy, too, in a home like this if I had the right person to share it with me." He looked directly at the girl. For a fleeting moment her eyes met his, and then, startled and with her face flushed, she ran up the path to the veranda.

"Why," she exclaimed as she reached the first step, "there's no one living here—the place is for rent!" She pointed to a sign that had slipped from its position in a window.

"Why, so it is!" cried Roger. "Harriett can't stay here, of course—unless—unless"— He looked at Bessie with a smile full of meaning.

"Of course she can't stay here!" cried the girl, making a grab for the cat. "I wish we could find a home for her, though, in in a nice little place like this."

She caught the cat up in her arms.

"How Harriett would enjoy the place," mused Roger. "Look, there's a big open fireplace in the front room, and there's a fine, dandy place where we could have our piano."

"We?" gasped the girl. With her face aflame and with the cat clasped tightly she ran off down the path.

But Harriett, who had been purring very contentedly in her mistress' arms, now became very angry. She snarled and dug her claws into Bessie's coat until the girl was forced to put her down.

"Why, Harriett!" she exclaimed in pained astonishment. "What's the matter with her? She never acted that way before."

"I'm sure I don't know," replied Roger. "But look what she's doing now. Harriett may be a very peculiar cat, but she certainly knows a good thing when she sees it."

He pointed at Harriett, who, on being released, had torn frantically back up the path to the veranda. On the veranda she walked around in a circle once or twice and then curled herself up on the floor in almost the identical spot and almost the identical manner as before.

"Well, I never!" cried the girl. She hurried back to the veranda and, sitting down on the top step, began petting the cat. Roger lost no time in sitting down beside Bessie.

"Dear!" he cried as he managed to imprison one of her hands. "Dear heart, why not follow the road Harriett has pointed out? Why not let this dear little house be Harriett's home and at the same time a real home for you and me? Come, dear, it only needs a minister and a marriage license to make us all three happy."

"Oh, I will; I will!" she cried suddenly, throwing her arms about Roger's neck. "We'll none of us be lonely again!"

Harriett, with a sigh of content that appealed to the couple as almost human, rose from her spot and, purring loudly, rubbed her side against the arm with which Roger was clasping the girl.

Other Times, Other Manners.

Sir Algernon West strikes a curious note on the ear of the present generation in the course of a book of reminiscences, "One City and Many Men," when he states that in his youth it was considered highly improper for a wife to address her husband by his Christian name or for a son to address his parents without saying "sir" or "ma'am."

"I never heard my mother call my father by his Christian name," he writes, "and I recollect distinctly that the fame of a very fashionable and brilliant woman was seriously imperilled because after some great man's death a letter from her to him was discovered beginning with his Christian name.

"The formal 'sir' was current everywhere. At Eton we never recognized any departure from this practice, and letters between boy friends began 'My dear sir.'

"A friend of mine dining with Lady Jersey heard her say she never recollected her father, Lord Westmoreland, though specially attached to her sister, Lady Lonsdale, calling her anything but Lady Lonsdale. And Henry Greville, who was present at the same dinner, said that he remembered his mother, Lady Charlotte, and her brother, the Duke of Portland, meeting in the morning at Welbeck abbey, when the salutations were:

"'How is your ladyship this morning?'

"'I am quite well. I am obliged to your grace.'"

He Didn't Say It.

He was a good little boy, and he lived not many miles from Boston. He never disobeyed his mother, he never called her names when her orders were not his wishes, and he had the face of an angel. Next door lived little Rosy, a girl who proved the proverb about small pitchers. One day Harry was allowed to go over to play with Rosy, but with strict orders not to take off his hat and coat to go in the house if Rosy could not come out into the yard.

Rosy could not come out, but would not Harry take off his things and play inside? Harry quoted sadly his mother's injunction.

"Your mamma is a silly," said Rosy crossly.

Harry went home and told his mother what Rosy had said. "She is a very naughty little girl," his mother declared. "You must never say such a word."

"No, mamma, I won't," said the dutiful Harry.

A few days later he was again forbidden to do something which he greatly desired to do. "Mamma," said he, lifting to hers his angelic face, "do you remember what Rosy said about you?"—New York Tribune.

PLEDGED TO SECURE PEACE

United States and Mexico May Intervene In Central America

NICARAGUA IS INVITING STRIFE

American Charge Is Withdrawn and Diplomatic Relations Practically Severed—Zelaya Said to Have Violated Treaty Pledging Each Republic Not to Interfere With Government and Solidarity of the Others

Washington, March 13.—Owing to continued disturbances in Nicaragua and President's Zelaya's failure to make serious effort looking to the settlement of the Emery claim, the state department has practically broken off diplomatic relations with that country by withdrawing Mr. Gregory, the American charge at Managua, and ordering the legation placed in the hands of the consul, who will have no diplomatic capacity.

Affairs in Central America have been closely watched by the American and the Mexican governments, both of which have now come to an understanding that the time has arrived when drastic measures should be enforced to insure peace in the Central American republics.

Ambassador LaBarra of Mexico spent some time at the state department Friday, consulting with Assistant Secretary Wilson, and the determination was reached that if the American warships now in Nicaraguan waters and to be sent there are not sufficient to impress Zelaya that the treaty of peace entered into between the central republics is not to be lived up to, more radical steps would be taken to accomplish that result.

The impression was given that if need be intervention would be resorted to. The governments of the United States and Mexico are in full accord as to the policy to be pursued toward Nicaragua and are now anticipating Zelaya's further action.

Under the conventions signed at the Central American peace conference at Washington in 1907, the neutrality of Honduras is guaranteed and each republic is pledged not to interfere with the government and the solidarity of the others. This conference and these conventions having been brought about by the United States and Mexico, whose geographical proximity and political interests compel them to be vitally interested in the peace of Central America, impose upon those two governments a moral right and obligation which makes it impossible for them to escape grave concern in a situation like that reported.

It is understood that the two governments are exchanging views as to the steps which they would be compelled to take if the present disappointing and highly unsatisfactory situation should unfortunately develop and meanwhile are observing events with great care.

BAN ON BULLFIGHTS

It Is Removed by a Measure Now Before the Cuban Congress

Havana, March 13.—In the house of representatives a bill repealing General Wood's military order prohibiting bullfights was introduced.

The preamble to the bill declares that in view of the proposal to permit cockfights it is unfair to the large Spanish element in Cuba not to remove the ban on their national sport. It says also that bullfights will be a valuable feature during the winter carnival season and attract many American tourists to the island.

The bill was referred to the committee on code. It is strongly supported and probably will become a law.

SMITH IS KINGPIN BOWLER

Wins by 567 Pins Over Franz In Final Game at Cleveland

Cleveland, March 13.—One of the greatest individual bowling contests ever held was concluded here last night when Jimmie Smith, champion bowler of New York, was declared the winner over Louis Franz, champion of Cleveland. In a series of thirty games, the final score was Smith 6366, Franz 5799, giving Smith a victory by 567 pins and a grand average of 212 1-5 pins a game. Franz' grand average per game was 193 3-10.

The first series of fifteen games was played in New York city a few weeks ago, when Smith obtained a lead of 634 points.

STATE HOUSE LETTER.

Boston, March 10, 1909.

More argument is excited by the proposed Boston charter than by any other business before the legislature. Organized support has been brought up as strongly for the finance committee as the Old Guard at Waterloo. Distinguished citizens, headed by Richard Olney and including the best of the Beacon street and Back Bay blood, have been before the committee on metropolitan affairs to persuade them that the charter is all right as it stands and that there ought to be no referendum. The work is so perfect that they hate to trust it to the butchering attacks of the mass of the people, especially the battalions headed by the democratic machine which has done such unspeakable wickedness during the last few years. On the other hand, there are public men of high standing, like Harvey N. Shepard, Robert Luce and others who believe strongly in the principle of democracy and who do not fear the unwashed people as much as others do.

It is of concern to every large city, and perhaps to every small one in the state also, for they are discussing the problem of the modern city and the best remedy for the expensive folloes and corruption which have fastened upon Boston till the taxpayers groan under their taxes. The large majority of the people, not being taxpayers, look on, hear their groans with indifference and continue their wicked ways. Taxation and representation are both concerned, as well as some vital details of popular government, and the remotest small town in the state has an interest in the outcome.

But country life has its woes. The recent conference of New England governors, in session in the Tremont theatre, recommended that particular attention be paid to fruit culture, and bright were the pictures of the barrels of red and rosy apples which could be rolled down from our Massachusetts hillsides, bring many dollars into the pockets of their owners. Now comes a man who has tried the experiment. His orchard was finely started, but, lo and behold, in the morning of one fine day he found that his orchard had been eaten up during the night. Then he cursed the deer which are protected by Massachusetts law and are multiplying like an arithmetic table under its shelter. But if rifles are permitted, then probably more folks than deer will be killed and it is suggested that farmers keep harmless dogs to bark and shoo the deer off. Sportsmen are anxious for recognition and that complicates the situation.

Great crowds continue to attend the state house hearings. The largest committee rooms are far too small for the interested public and the state's business is the center of the public thought this year more than ever. The hearings on the Boston charter are one illustration. The fish and game committee almost always have more men in the room than it can seat. Next week there promises to come an avalanche of milk producers. On Thursday the committee on agriculture will begin the hearings upon the milk standard. Within a few months there has been formed an organization of the producers in Middlesex and Essex counties. Meetings have been held in Newburyport, which have been largely attended. Worcester county shows strong interest, and the effort to abolish the standard entirely will roll up with redoubled force. Still, the state board of agriculture holds tenaciously the position that it is better to wait for one year longer and see how the new standard fixed last winter operates.

Some of the hearings affect only personal interests, such as that on the registration of osteopaths, which drew out a great crowd. The stationary engineers have made a strong showing before the committee on mercantile affairs. The hearing on injunctions and the petitions that labor unions may have a right to fine their members in order to enforce their orders to go on strike have had large attendance. Town divisions call out many interested citizens while the outrages committed by the drivers of automobiles have brought to the statehouse a crowd which could not find sitting room in Room 426,—one of the largest,—to hear the tales of girls and old people knocked down while the knocker scurried away without inquiring of the fate of his victim. So great is the mass of matters that no member can know much of the detail, but must rely more than ever upon committee reports, and the reports are being upset more than usual, strange to say.

Pending the inquiry by the state board of health into the truth about the beef situation, following the letter of Governor Draper to Doctor Henry P. Walcott, chairman of the board, it seems that there is a subsidence of the popular scare which never had much of a foundation in common sense to rest upon. There was a statement made to the board of health by Doctor Theobald Smith the other day which was very reassuring, as far as the public health is concerned, and it looks now as if there were no ground for the sensation which has been made out of the facts. But we shall know officially before long whether to be shocked or not and until we are told officially that we are infected the presumption is that we are not.

Yesterday the railroad committee finished hearing ex-Senator William B. Lawrence in support of his various petitions for further regulation of the course of the New Haven railroad in its absorbing intentions toward the Boston and Maine. The committee has had a large amount of fact and argument poured into its ears, but some of the members are certainly more impressed by the amount of time consumed than by the value of the things which consumed it. The railroad side will now be put in and Lawyer Choate is not likely to occupy nearly as much time as Lawrence. A noticeable incident in the merger case, as far as involved the New Haven road and the electrics, was that yesterday at the hearing upon the purchase of the Bennington and North Adams by the Berkshire, both of the companies being owned, presumably, by the New Haven, when Lawyer Bentley W. Warren said that his clients, (The street railways) had no further interest in the matter and did not care what report was made. This indicates the consequence of the recent court decision upon the holdings of trolly companies by the New Haven railroad company.

Every person in the United States, who suspects that he or she had an ancestor in the war of the Revolution, will doubtless favor the resolution, which was reported in the House this afternoon, urging Congress to open for public inspection, under sufficient protection against wear and accident, the muster rolls of the revolution and all applications for pensions for services in the revolutionary war. The way the thing is managed in Massachusetts is that the state has published, or is still publishing, the muster rolls of the Massachusetts men who served in the army and navy, and that satisfied the genealogy-hunters. There is a prodigious amount of that work done and letters come from all parts of the United States asking for information.

With five dissenters the joint committee on the judiciary, consisting of 16 members, has voted to report favorably the bill for turning 50 per cent. of the liquor license fees into the state treasury, instead of 25 per cent. as at present, and instead of 100 per cent., as the constitution permits and as some petitioners ask. It is certain that this will be opposed vigorously by all the large license cities in the state. The dissenters are Senator Shaw of Essex; and Representatives Kemp of Springfield, Lyman of Easthampton, O'Brien of Boston and Davidson of Boston.

The adverse report on woman suffrage, on the petition of Julia Ward Howe and others, with three dissenters, does not indicate that there will be a particularly hot debate, though the size of the women's demonstration makes it possible that there will be a few strenuous arguments for the women's side. There is no reason in sight to expect a different vote from that of recent years. Rule.

A GREAT RECORD

DR. LEONHARDT'S INTERNAL PILE REMEDY MAKES 98 PER CENT. OF CURES.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid has been tested in several thousand cases, and was successful in all but two per cent.

Hem-Roid's wonderful record is due to the fact that it is an internal remedy. The cause of piles is internal, and it is too much to expect to cure piles with ointments, suppositories or operations. Hem-Roid cures the internal cause.

OUR HOSPITAL
(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title—Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

A Golf Story.

Scotsmen are noted for their canniness, and a story told by a Lancashire commercial traveler, who was up in Aberdeen a few days ago, shows that the men beyond the Tweed are still worthily upholding their reputation. The traveler in question was asked by a prospective buyer to subscribe to the prize fund for the local golf tournament. He parted with 5 shillings, and as he was interested in golf he remarked that he would like to be kept informed of the progress of the tournament so that he could look out for the result.

"Oh," said the customer as he picked up the 5 shillings and placed it securely in his pocket, "ye needna dae that. The tournament was held last Saturday." This was rather a staggerer for the latest contributor to the prize fund, but he retained curiosity enough to inquire who had proved the happy winner. The guileless solicitor for subscriptions was quite undaunted, however. "The winner?" he said coyly, "Oh, just mesel'."—Exchange.

A Wonderful Shot.

They were telling how well they could shoot, and Tom Dawson recalled a duck hunt in which he had brought down five birds with one shot.

"Talk about shootin'," began old man Tilford. "I saw Jim Ferris do a mighty neat piece of work one day. His wife was puttin' out the washin', and she was complainin' about the pesky sparrows makin' dirt marks on the damp clothes with their feet.

"'They're thick as bees round here,' says she. 'There's seven of 'em sittin' on the clothesline this blessed minute.'

"'I'll fix 'em,' says Jim, takin' down his shotgun, which he allus keeps loaded with fine bird shot. He tiptoed to the door, took aim and"—

"Killed every one of them sparrows," broke in Dawson.

"You're wrong," corrected Tilford calmly. "He never teched 'em, but when his wife took in the washin' she found she had three pair of openwork stockin's and a fine peekaboo shirt waist."—Success Magazine.

Proved an Alibi.

This happened at a certain boarding house, one of those where "a few refined gentlemen may share an elegant home."

The girl with the dun locks brought in the soup. When she came to Jenkins he noticed a long string of substance entirely foreign to the soup itself. It was a hair. In the dim light it looked as if it might have been from the dun head of the waitress.

Jenkins called her attention to this, remarking that the best culinary authorities are agreed that a strip of cranial capillary substance is not essential to the success of a plate of consomme or other liquid nourishment.

She didn't follow him fully, but when she saw him holding up the quarter of a yard or more of hair accusingly she spoke up in her own defense.

"That ain't mine!" she declared in an aggrieved tone. "It couldn't be mine. Why, I ain't even brushed my hair since yestiddy!"—New York Press.

Foreign Gun Tests.

"The government ought to guarantee our guns as it guarantees our money," said a sportsman who had traveled abroad. "England and Belgium test and stamp every gun made in their confines.

"I have visited the Belgian testing works at Liege. A gun barrel gets two tests. The first costs 5 cents, the second 10. The works conducted on those small fees are self supporting. How many lives they must save! The gun barrels by themselves are tested first. A charge three times as big as the ordinary one is fired from them. They emerge, if they do emerge, strong enough three times over for the strain to be put on them hereafter. In the second test the guns complete, with the breech action attached, are fired. If they come through again all right, the government stamps them and they are put on the market. It is queer that only England and Belgium warrant in this splendid way the national firearms."

Going, Going, Gone!

A New York auctioneer was begging the crowd for a bid. He pleaded for ten minutes and then in desperation cried:

"For the Lord's sake, will no one give me a bid?"

A mild spoken gentleman replied:

"Why, yes, old man, I'll try to help you out. I bid you good night."

And the kindly disposed one departed, leaving the auctioneer to the tender mercies of a laughing crowd.—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

Helen's mother passed her the cake, and when the little one went to reach across the plate for the largest piece her mamma said, "Always take the piece nearest to you, dear."

"Well, then, turn the plate around," was the answer.—Delineator.

A Weighty Question.

"I took in $2 just now," said the first promoter. "Good enough," declared the second promoter. "Shall we issue additional stock to correspond with our increased capital or shall we have lunch?"—Puck.

The democrats think they have found something stronger than Cannon.

Time Alone Will Tell, was Ex-President Roosevelt's answer to a hint that he might run for the Presidency again.

The resolve which has passed in the Legislature seeking to make unlawful the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor has within it the germ of the greatest agitation that has stirred the people of Massachusetts on any moral question since the civil war. It will be readily admitted that poverty, disease, vice and crime follow in the wake of the saloon, whether it be a stationary saloon or the Quincy kind,—the saloon on wheels,— and that the state has the right to limit the operations of the saloon in the interests of health, morality and general well-being. On the other hand, intoxicating liquor in and of itself is not evil, and there are some people so constituted and poised that they can indulge in the moderate use of liquor without any perceptible bad effects. This class of people will fight vigorously against the proposed legislation and most interesting developments may be looked for. The evil sought to be reached is deep-seated, and the remedy sought to be applied is radical. And there you are, Mr. Voter.

The Board of Trade and kindred organizations should take in hand, kindly but firmly, the individuals who without capital or credit are holding themselves out as building contractors. Having everything to gain and but little to lose, they take chances on work that no responsible contractor could possibly compete with. Not infrequently they get jobs by means of underbidding, but the seldom able to complete them to the satisfaction of the owner or with any profit to themselves. This constitutes a species of unfair competition which the regular contractors should not be obliged to contend with. Unfortunately the difficulty is not one that will adjust itself. Parties without money cannot reasonably hope to build houses successfully, and in justice to the contractors who have money, in justice to the workmen and in justice to themselves they should be content with working for wages. Present methods are ruining the building business in Quincy and, in a sense, retarding the proper development of our city. These observations are made in the kindliest spirit; they merely express in words the prevailing sentiment among business men who have regard for the eternal fitness of things.

Owing to the fact that our correspondents have begun to indulge in personalities, regarding the question of raising the battleship Maine we have decided hereafter to refuse to publish any letters on this subject. In justice to A. B. Hultman, the Ledger disclaims any sympathy with or approval of the assertion or our correspondent in yesterday's issue that Mr. Hultman was interfering with the police of Quincy. Mr. Hultman's participation in police work is and has been proper and regular, and in accordance with the authority vested in him by his commission. The fact that he has been appointed every year during the past five years to perform the duties of a Constable indicates that he enjoys not only the confidence of the Chief Executives that appointed him but that of the Police department, the Courts and citizens generally as well. The article which contained the offensive reference was sent in by H. J. Matthews and was inadvertently published, despite the vigilance which we always exercise to exclude improper matter from our columns. There was no provocation in the letters signed "A. B. H." relative to raising the Maine, as those letters discussed the issue fairly and treated the subject and his opponents respectfully. The Ledger's columns have always been open for the discussion of topics of interest, but we shall refuse to publish any letters dealing with personalities.

ATLANTIC

A surprise party was given to Willet Safford of Clive street, Friday evening March 12th for thirty of his young friends, in honor of his fourteenth birthday. Games were enjoyed from seven thirty until nine o'clock for which prizes were awarded. At nine a collation was served and at ten o'clock the party dispersed, wishing Master Willet many happy returns of the day.

Captain Hammond of Billings street is detained at home for a few days on account of a lame foot caused by a bunion.

Mrs. George Hill has returned from a visit to her daughter, Robie.

Herbert A. Cassidy of Boston university, lead the prayer meeting at the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church, Friday evening.

The horses on one of A. T. Stearns Lumber Co.'s teams ran away on Hancock street yesterday, the lumber wagon striking the market wagon belonging to Eli Pitonouf, which was standing in front of his grocery store near the Hancock street overhead bridge, completely demolishing the wagon but the horse which was attached to it escaped without a scratch. When the lumber team struck the market wagon it checked the speed of the runaways so that the driver got hold of the reins and stopped them. It was only a few days ago that one of Mr. Pitonouf's horses fell and had to be shot very near the place of the last accident.

The white horse belonging to Gerald A. Sullivan was very seriously injured Friday morning on Commerce street, Boston. The rear wheel of a large truck wagon ran over the forward foot of the horse, crushing the hoof so badly that the horse could not walk. The horse was taken in an ambulance to the Albany street stables for treatment. It is questioned whether the horse will have the full use of his foot again. The horses of Atlantic seem to be doomed.

Rev. H. T. Coontz of Boston University Theological school will occupy the pulpit of the Atlantic M. E. church, Sunday, March 14th. Mr. Coontz preached here last Sunday and was liked so well by the people that he was invited to come again.

PINE TREE CLUB.

Members Pass Pleasant Evening at G. A. R. Hall.

One of the most enjoyable of the many pleasant meetings of the State of Maine club was that of Friday evening. The meeting was held at Grand Army hall and there was an unusually large attendance of members and considerable enthusiasm was displayed over the renewed interest that is being shown by the members.

During the first part of the evening there was a business meeting at which six who hailed from the good old "Pine Tree" state were admitted to membership.

Other matters of interest to the organization were discussed, including the annual dance.

This party will be held the latter part of the month and as it is in charge of an efficient committee, its success is assured.

After the business session, refreshments were served and Mrs. Bert Williams and Adolph Restelli entertained with songs. The evening closed with a social hour.

The Commencement.

The word "commencement" enables orators in frock coats to tell beautiful young ladies in white organdie that the extinction of the academic era marks the "commencement of their real lives." Maybe you have heard them and witnessed the thrill with which the notion was received by blushing maidenhood. It is a stupendous thought, bulging with originality, and I suppose it is mean to meddle with it, even though one knows how that use of the word commenced—or "began," if you prefer. In the old days degrees or diplomas were not granted in June. They were granted in September, and the seniors of yesteryear were forced to reinvade the academic shades to acquire them at the commencement of the new term. After awhile it dawned upon our institutions of learning that the arrangement necessitated undue bother, so they moved the "commencement" exercises back across the vacation and put them at the end of the year. However, they neglected to rechristen them, and oratory has gained much by that inspired oversight.—Boston Transcript.

A Fountain of Ants.

The house I was occupying in India was a bungalow, and, as is the case with many bungalows, the inner walls were constructed of merely sun dried bricks, and in the recesses of one wall a colony of white ants had established a nest. It was evening. I heard behind me a buzzing sound. I turned, and from a hole near the bottom of the wall I beheld a fountain of young white ants ascending. They reached the ceiling, and then the descent commenced. They alighted by thousands on the table and there shook off their wings. In a few minutes the cloth, the plates, the glasses, even the lamp shades, were covered with the little white, feeble, crawling creatures. The fountain of ants continued to play for at least ten minutes. When, next morning, the floor was swept the wings that the ants had shaken off filled a large basket. What became of the ants themselves I cannot say.—"Haunts and Hobbies of an Indian Official."

Sly Old Commodore.

"When Commodore Vanderbilt was alive," says a New York Central official, "the board of directors of the New York Central used to find their work all cut out for them when they met. All they had to do was to ratify his plans and adjourn. Yet they had their uses. Occasionally a man would come to him with some scheme which he did not care to refuse outright.

"'My directors are a difficult body of men to handle,' he would say. 'I'll submit it to 'em, but I warn you that they are hard to manage.'

"The matter would be submitted to the board when it assembled and promptly rejected.

"'There,' the commodore would say when his visitor came to learn the result. 'I did the best I could, but I told you in advance that my directors were an obstinate lot.'"

His Card.

Mr. Newrich, the dust contractor, having made a fortune, part of which he had invested in house property in the east of London, wished to rise, like a phenix, from his ashes into some sort of society. His golden key, applied to the coffers of an impecunious aristocrat, opened the way.

His new friend, among other things, advised him that visiting cards were a necessity, and, as a guide to drawing one up ready for the printer, handed him one of his own, which read, "Harold De Vere, Iona House, Portsmouth Square, W."

Two days later, as De Vere was sitting in his dressing room at breakfast, a servant brought in on a salver a visiting card bearing the following: "Ephraim Newrich, I Own 23 Houses, London, E."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Pepys' Kiss.

For more than two centuries the body of Katherine of France, Henry V.'s queen, uncovered in the building of Henry VII.'s chapel, was one of the sideshows seen by every visitor to the abbey. Pepys, indeed, records that on Shrove Tuesday, 1669, he "had the upper part of her body in my hands and did kiss her mouth, reflecting upon it that I did kiss a queen."—P. P.'s London Weekly.

A Little Matter Among Friends.

Two boys were in fighting attitude, like bantams. Another and a smaller one stood watching them, wiping his eyes, sobbing the while.

"What did yer hit him for?" said one.

"'Tain't none of your business."

"Yes, it is. He's my friend."

"Well, he's my friend too." — New York Globe.

Mr. F. O. Nash a former resident of Weymouth gave an organ recital Monday afternoon at East Weymouth Congregational church under the auspices of the Monday club. The public school teachers of the town were present as guests.

The annual fair of the Fairmount cemetery association closed last evening when the Booth Dramatic club presented the drama "Our Folks" with the following in the cast, Alice M. Nash, Carrie S. Robinson, F. Adelaide McCarthy, Franklin P. Whitten, Joseph W. Blanchard, Harold Hyland, Russell G. Niles and Lyman C. Williams.

The board of Selectmen organized Tuesday with Gordon Willis chairman and Bradford Hawes secretary.

Mrs. Theresa Dowd is confined to the home by illness.

The Village cemetery circle held a meeting Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. W. Clapp, Front street.

Rev. F. G. Merrill, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church, has been in Manchester, N. H., for a few days attending a minister's convention.

Miss Ethel Purchase has been visiting her sister in Brookville.

The funeral of Charles Edward Hoffses took place from his late residence on Washington street, Saturday afternoon and was largely attended. A delegation attended from the wholesale department of the Singer Sewing Machine, Boston, where deceased was employed as shipper for 35 years, also from Governor Greenhalge lodge, New England order of Protection Boston, of which deceased was a charter member. The service was conducted by Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity church and there was singing by members of the church choir.

Delphi lodge No. 15 Knights of Pythias celebrated its 39th anniversary and the 45th anniversary of the order with an entertainment, supper and dance at Pythian hall Thursday evening which was attended by several hundred of the members and friends of the lodge. Supper was served at seven o'clock by a Boston caterer, which was followed by an entertainment by the Imperial saxophone quartet George W. Kimball, James H. Kimball, James M. Kimball and George W. Stetson with James H. Kimball, monologist, William J. Maloney xylophone soloist and the Wessagussett minstrels assisted by Ralph D. Laurie in a black face sketch under the direction of Charles E. Leavitt.

Dancing followed until midnight. White's orchestra furnished the music. The committee in charge was Irving R. Nightingale, chairman, A. W. Davis, secretary, Jacob Dexheimer, Jr., treasurer, F. E. Hyland, R. B. Worster, B. F. Johnson, Francis M. Drown, George Horte, C. J. Newcomb and E. A. Smith.

MILTON.

Rev. A. E. Clattenburg of St. Chrysostom's church, Wollaston preaches Sunday evening at the church of Our Saviour, East Milton.

Our townsman Mr. Charles H. Johnson is to give his illustrated talk on "Historic Quincy" at the Bijou Dream, Boston during the week of March 15 to March 20. It should be a big boom for Quincy and Mr. Johnson should be commended for his enterprise.

The Advertiser plant has been handicapped for a month past because of a defective boiler; its motive power for running the newspaper press. The editor is now considering electricity instead of steam. In the meantime the paper has been printed at the Ledger office so that the paper has been able to come out about on time as usual.

Mrs. E. C. Bassett has returned home from a trip to Brooklyn, N. Y.

F. F. Smith the East Milton grocer is on a business trip to Chicago.

Owing to the Lenten season there have been no social affairs at the hall this week.

Charles Waite has returned from a business trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Bythner are being congratulated on the birth Mar. 5 of a little daughter.

The East Milton depot looks very fine in its new coat of paint.

The residents of East Milton are rejoicing over the prospects of a new freight house in the near future. The new building will be located not far from the Quincy line. The posts of the building are in and the lumber is on the ground so that it is an assured fact. The building will be about 30 feet by 15.

AGED RESIDENT DEAD.

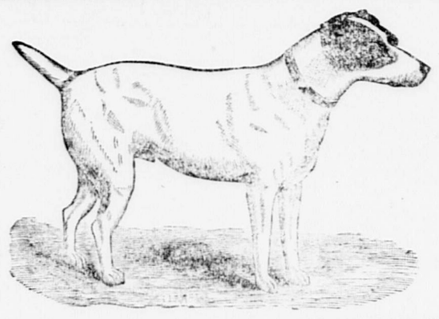

William Ferris of Houghs Neck Passes Away at Roxbury.

News was received at Houghs Neck of the death of William Ferris 90 years old at the home of a relative in Roxbury. Mr. Ferris was one of the best known men at the beach, where for years he made and sold ice cream which made him famous throughout New England. He was generally known as "Grandpa" Ferris. He settled at Houghs Neck years ago, when there were but few houses there. His last appearance at Houghs Neck was at the children's festival when he was the guest of honor. His place of business was located on Sea street. He is survived by three sons, one a doctor at Houghs Neck. Old age was the cause of his death.

SCENIC TEMPLE.

Manager Chenoweth has arranged an excellent bill for the Scenic patrons for the week of March 15. The wonderful cameraphone talking pictures will be continued as they have made a big hit the past week.

These pictures are new to Quincy and are extremely realistic. Some of the best actors on the stage today have posed for the films used in the pictures and they act as if they were really on the stage.

Dollie Burton's celebrated troupe of trained dogs will be the feature of next week's bill. There are about 30 dogs in the troupe and they do all kinds of clever tricks. "Dandy" will captivate everyone, being one of the cleverest performing dogs on the stage today.

Tuesday evening a unique souvenir will be given away free. It is called "Driving the Snakes out of the Grass," and is something absolutely new. The other numbers on the program are up to the usual high standard.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Residents of Quincy and those interested in historic features in that place are promised a rare treat at B. F. Keith's Bijou Dream in Boston, the coming week, by Mr. Charles F. Johnson. Mr. Keith has arranged for the presentation of a splendid lecture on historic Quincy which will be illustrated with a number of views of exceptional interest, some of which have never been shown. One of these is of Ann Hutchinson, of witchcraft fame, which Mr. Johnson recently secured.

The lecture will unquestionably be of great service in bringing the beauties of Quincy, as well as its industries and historical features prominently before the public, as it is intended to show the very best in a collection of several hundred views.

Mr. Johnson is well known, not only in Quincy where he is a member of the Historical Society, ex-Chairman of the Board of Assessors, but has long been a prominent business man. His collection of pictures is probably the best now in existence, dealing with Quincy.

The lecture will be given in the regular course of an excellent entertainment that is now drawing thousands of people daily to the Bijou Dream.

SCHOOL REPORTS.

The annual reports of the Quincy school department and Superintendent of Schools Frank E. Parlin for 1908 have just been issued. The committee, in its report, says that while the city has done much to relieve the congestion in certain directions, there has been but little gain in the total seating capacity of the school buildings. The new Quincy school has four rooms more than the old building but the pupils who formerly were accomodated in outside rooms have so filled the new school that it will be necessary to again utilize the old building for school purposes. As a solution for the problem in the Atlantic district the committee recommends that a building be secured for the Montclair section, thereby relieving conditions at the Quincy, Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields schools.

As to the new Coddington school, the committee says that while it has three rooms more than the old building,there were for some time two grades accommodated in the high school building, so the new Coddington, in reality, provides only one more room. The Washington school is reported as overtaxed and the committee recommends the erection of a building near the junction of Scammel, South and Sumner streets to relieve the Washington and also the Adams and Coddington districts. The committee also recommends a four-room building at Houghs Neck from which 125 pupils are transported to the Coddington school daily at an annual cost of $1,200.

The committee says the recent indrodution in the schools of the savings bank system has met with a success beyond the most sanguine expectations. The committee graciously thanks the Civic Betterment Committee of the Quincy Women's Club, through whose good offices the system was installed without expense to the city.

BALL PLANS DISCUSSED.

The Quincy base-ball club promoters met last night to discuss plans for the coming season in the Old Colony league. Several more men have signified their intentions of joining the project.

A meeting will be held next Tuesday evening, when a further discussion will take place. Officers will probably be elected at this meeting.

MAKES WORK EASIER.

Quincy People Are Pleased to Learn How it is Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure every kidney ill.

James P. Daugherty, living on Hammond Place, Quincy, Mass. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and am glad to let others know what they have done for me. I suffered constantly from backache and had but little strength or energy to get through with my day's work. I took many so-called kidney cures but did not succeed in finding relief until I began using Doan's Kindney Pills which I procured at the Cox, Drug Store. I was surprised and gratified at the prompt way they relieved me. My back was soon strong and free from pain and I felt better generally. I would go to considerable trouble to get anyone to use Doan's Kidney Pills as I have so much confidence in their merit."

COMPROMISE BACKED BY TAFT

It Fails to Meet the Approval of "Insurgents"

WAR ON RULES OF HOUSE

Plans All Prepared For Opening of Hostilities on Monday—Working Agreement Formed With Democrats Which May Force Speaker Cannon to Change Rules by Which He Governed the Last Congress

Washington, March 13.—Three important developments occurred Friday in the insurrection against the adoption in the house of the rules of the Sixtieth congress to govern the incoming congress.

A compromise, fathered by Senator Cummins of Iowa, and presented to the regulars by President Taft failed to unite the Republican members. What was pronounced as a satisfactory working agreement was entered into by the Republican "insurgents" and the Democrats. The name of Theodore Roosevelt was mentioned as an "insurgent sympathizer."

The compromise was one that the "insurgents" had under consideration ever since the report became current that President Taft desired a postponent of the fight on the rules lest it might delay the passage of a tariff bill. It provided for the re-election of Speaker Cannon and the adoption of the rules of the Sixtieth congress for the special session.

After the organization of the house on Monday it was provided that a resolution should be passed authorizing a committee to investigate the rules and report on proposed changes in the regular session in December. It was proposed that the "insurgents" be allowed to name four of their number for the committee, the Democrats six and the regulars five.

For the regulars, Mr. Watson replied that the compromise was acceptable if amended so as to allow the speaker to appoint the committee, due regard being given to the "insurgents" in its composition.

The leaders of the "insurgents" subsequently declared that they would accept no such proposal. It is believed, however, that President Taft will exert his influence to bring the two branches of the party together.

For more than two hours the steering committees of the "insurgents" conferred with a committee representing the Democrats. The "insurgents," it is said, convinced the Democrats that they could deliver thirty votes for any plan they desired to propose on Monday. The Democrats promised to furnish 170 votes against the motion for the previous question on the adoption of the old rules. This is the full Democratic strength less two, there being one vacancy on account of death and one on account of illness. As 195 will be a majority the allied forces claim victory.

The program tentatively agreed upon by the allies was to vote down the previous question on the adoption of the old rules on Monday, and if the amendment to the rules providing for a committee to select committees should be voted down, to propose that the committee on rules be elected by the house. The Democratic conferees are said to have expressed assurance that they could line up the entire Democratic delegation for the latter amendment, but that they were not so certain about the former. The regulars claim to have the promises of several Democrats not to vote with their party for the various amendments and deny that the "insurgent" forces will number thirty.

Both the Democrats and the "insurgents" say that no serious attempt will be made to defeat Cannon for speaker. The "insurgents" will be left to follow their personal inclinations along this line.

LOOSENED WHOLE WALL

Escape of Prisoners Reveals Plot For Wholesale Jail Delivery

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 13.—Arthur Miller, a grand jury prisoner, escaped from the county jail at Lake George. An investigation into the way in which Miller gained his freedom brought to light a plot for the wholesale jail delivery of the thirty prisoners now undergoing sentence or awaiting trial, including Beecher Faber, an accused murderer.

The prisoners had sawed the bolts and loosened the whole of one side of the corridor wall.

DIRECT PRIMARY LAW

La Follette Says Depew's Conception of It Is Wrong

New York, March 13.—George E. Chamberlain, the new Democratic United States senator from Oregon, who was chosen by a Republican legislature as a result of a hotly contested direct primary, acted as chairman last night of a meeting of New York's Civic Forum. The meeting was for the discussion of "Direct Primary Nominations," and the chief speaker was Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, who is an ardent advocates of the system. He said in part:

"Senator Depew was wrong when he called the direct primary law a leap in the dark. Twenty-seven states now have the law in one form or another. It is true that no state has as yet obtained a perfect direct primary law. In Wisconsin we have found that the provision which allows a candidate to secure a nomination on the plurality rather than on a majority makes it possible, under certain circumstances, for a compact and well-organized machine minority to dominate.

"The law will be amended to correct this. But it will never be repealed. As a whole it has the most sincere endorsement of the great body of voters.

"The voter is robbed of the best part of his franchise when he is not allowed a share in the making of a ballot."

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN

Other Important Events at the American Bowling Congress

Pittsburg, March 13.—A world's record broken, the election of a new president and the appointment of an international bowling conference committee were the features Friday of the annual international tournament of the American Bowling congress.

The new president is Robert H. Bryson of Indianapolis. His first official act was the appointment of an international conference committee, his idea being to make this committee identical in its relations to bowling just as the national baseball commission is identified with baseball.

Al and Tony Schwoegler of Madison, Wis., established a new world's record in two-men teams. They made the high mark of 1304, which is fifty points higher than the record of Chalmers and Kiene of Chicago at the Cincinnati tournament last year. It is the general opinion the score will remain topmost for some time to come.

CENSORSHIP FOR MOVING PICTURES

Agreed to by Large Number of New York Exhibitors

New York, March 13.—The campaign against the exhibition of alleged immoral pictures in the moving picture shows here has resulted in the establishment of a trial censorship by consent of 350 moving picture shows in New York city.

The members of the association agree to submit all films and songs to be used by them to a board of five censors made up of representatives of local civic organizations and a representative of the board of education. The members agree for a trial period of the three months to submit to the rulings of this board. If the system works well, it will be made permanent.

SOCIETY GETS A JOLT

Hannah Elias Takes House In Aristocratic Section of Long Branch

New York, March 13.—Hannah Elias, the negress who got the biggest part of the fortune of the late John R. Platt, the New York millionaire, has purchased the Henry Daly cottage, one of the finest residential properties at Long Branch.

The house is in the heart of the aristocratic section. The purchase was made two days ago from Samuel Corn of this city, who purchased it from the Daly estate.

It is expected that she will move into her new home with her two children in a few days. Residents of the section are making a noise that sounds like indignation.

Firemen Did Next Best Thing and Smothered Flames With Sand

Rockport, Mass., March 13.—A fire which burned Miller's dancing pavilion at Long Beach this morning threatened a lot of valuable property in the vicinity.

A hose wagon and a company of firemen from Rockport drove four miles to the beach in response to an alarm by telephone. There was no water available and they could only shovel sand on the blaze in the effort to smother it, which was finally successful.

Gans Defeats White

New York, March 13.—Joe Gans, former lightweight champion of the world, easily disposed of Jabez White, the English lightweight champion, in a ten round bout here last night. It was a tame exhibition and the big crowd was disappointed, for the men were slow and many of their blows lacked force.

Fruitless Conference of Mine Workers and Operators

TO HAVE ANOTHER MEETING

Miners of Anthracite Districts to First Consider Proposition That Present Agreement Be Renewed—Employers Considering Advisability of Lowering Wages—Present Indications Are That There Will Be No Agreement

Philadelphia, March 13.—The conference between the sub-committees of the anthracite mine workers and the anthracite operators to arrange a new agreement, to go into effect on the expiration of the present working arrangement, came to end late Friday without result.

While the prospects are not as bright as they were for a peaceful settlement, there is still hope that radical action by either side will be avoided. The miners' executive boards will issue a call today for a convention of the miners of the three anthracite districts for consideration of plans for further action and then will come another joint conference with the operators' representatives before March 31. The counter proposition of the mining companies that the present agreement be renewed for another term of three years will be placed before the convention by the executive boards of the miners.

National President Lewis of the union said, after Friday's meeting, that the suggestion that another conference be held came from the operators.

Mr. Lewis did most of the talking for the men at Friday's session. He says that several of the operators again referred to the statement made in conference Thursday that some of the coal companies had been considering the advisability of asking all of the companies to agree upon a 10 per cent reduction in wages because of the industrial condition, instead of thinking about an increase. Lewis further says that this was mentioned, the operators told him, to show how some of the companies felt regarding present mining conditions. Lewis told them, he says, that the mine workers would not think of considering such a proposition if it were ever made.

The miners now have nothing to say as to the probable action of the tri-district convention. The executive boards will meet here today to fix the time and place of the convention and to issue the call. After this they will leave for their respective homes and begin the work of stirring up the unions to elect delegates to the convention.

The miners' leader said positively before Friday's conference that the miners' representatives would not sign an agreement unless it explicitly provides for recognition of the United Mine Workers of America. He said also that an agreement of this kind must be signed by the miners as officers of the union and not as representatives of the anthracite mine workers.

If the miners support him in his attitude it looks as if there will be no agreement, because the operators since 1900 have been unalterably opposed to recognizing the miners' organization. There is possibility of the men continuing at work without an agreement and striking at the various collieries as grievances come up if they are not adjusted by the superintendents of these mines.

This, it is pointed out, would be a return to the chaotic conditions which prevailed prior to the strike of 1902, when there were strikes every day in all sections of the anthracite regions.

STATE'S CASE ATTACKED

Self-Preservation the Plea of Men Charged With Carmack's Murder

Nashville, March 13.—The defense's strongest lawyer attacked the state's case Friday with telling effect when Attorney Anderson began his argument for the defense in the Carmack murder case.

Judge Anderson is chief counsel for the defense. He was a close personal friend and political supporter of Carmack. He boldly disclaimed any idea of pleading that any editorial could justify the slaying of Carmack and declared that his clients' case rested alone on the law of self-preservation.

Child Burned to eath

Fall River, Mass., March 13.—While his mother had gone across the street on a brief errand, leaving him alone in the house, Henry Fitts, 4 years old, found some matches and set his clothing on fire, receiving burns from which he died.

Hockey For $1000 Purse

New York, March 13.—In the first of two hockey games for a purse of $1000, the Ottawas of Ottawa, present holders of the world's championship, defeated the Wanderers of Montreal here by a score of 6 to 4.

Hart Gets Decision on a Foul

New Orleans, March 13.—Marvin Hart got the decision on a foul in the thirteenth round of a twenty round bout with Tony Ross here last night.

HUB LABOR PROTEST

Forty Thousand Union Men to Express Sympathy For Gompers

Boston, March 13.—The greatest labor demonstration in the history of Boston will take place tomorrow. Forty thousand men, members of the unions of this city, will march in parade and attend mass meetings as a protest against the sentencing of President Gompers, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor for contempt of court.

The announced purpose of the demonstration is "to voice the protest of the workingmen of Boston and vicinity against the abuse of the injunction process by the judiciary, the encroachments by the courts on the constitutional rights of free speech, free press, trial by jury and other rights guaranteed by the constitution and to take further steps to secure legislation to define and limit the powers of judges in injunction cases."

Members of more than 300 Boston unions have declared their purpose of marching in the parade. The procession will be followed by big meetings in the afternoon in historic Faneuil hall and elsewhere.

FAREWELL GREETINGS

Roosevelt and His Wife Honored by Citizens of Oyster Bay

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 13.—Ex-President Roosevelt and his wife were the guests of the town of Oyster Bay last night at a reception held here in their honor at the town hall.

From 8:30 till 10:30 p. m. they stood behind the justice's railing in the town clerk's office and the townspeople filed by, shaking their hands and giving them farewell greetings.

For every one the ex-president had a hearty greeting and with many he chatted pleasantly for a minute or two. Reminiscences were numerous between Roosevelt and the older men who have known him since an early age. Almost every mother in the village brought with her her children.

Fully a thousand people shook hands with Roosevelt and when the reception was over he declared he enjoyed it equally as well as the receptions at the White House.

DIPLOMATS AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Taft's First Official Function a Most Brilliant One

Washington, March 13.—Never has a more brilliant official function been held at the White House, it is said, than the diplomatic reception Friday afternoon, the first given there since President and Mrs. Taft have occupied the executive mansion. Resplendency of color was given to the scene by the full court uniforms worn by all the members of the diplomatic corps.

Assembling in the East room, where they were welcomed by Secretary of State and Mrs. Knox, the ambassadors, ministers and the charges d'affaires with their staffs in uniform and the ladies of the diplomatic corps, passed into the Blue room, where they were received by President and Mrs. Taft. Thence, they passed into the state dining room, where tea and ices were served.

The color scheme was pink, white roses being used in the blue and red roses in the red rooms. Mrs. Taft wore a dress of pink silk, draped with gauze lace, and carried a large princess bouquet of pink roses.

AGGIE'S DEDICATION

Bay State's New Hothouses the Finest In the Country

Amherst, Mass., March 13.—The new French hall and the Durfee range of hothouses, comprising one of the finest equipments for horticultural investigation and teaching to be found in the country, were dedicated at the Massachusetts Agricultural college here. The new buildings were made possible by a legislative appropriation of $34,000.

The dedicatory exercises were simple, consisting of addresses by President Butterfield, F. M. Dickinson and W. H. Bowker of the board of trustees, Professor White and J. K. M. L. Farquhar of Boston.

BRITISH NAVY MONEY

Estimates Provide For a Total Expenditure of $175,713,500

London, March 13.—The eagerly awaited British naval estimates about which there has been so much controversy inside and outside of the cabinet were issued last evening.

A compromise won the day, for the estimates provide for a total expenditure of $175,713,500, an increase of $14,160,000 over the estimates of 1908-1909.

Russian Premier Very Sick

St. Petersburg, March 13.—The condition of Premier Stolypin, who is suffering from influenza, is causing anxiety.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It is hard to make some people understand that your time is not all their own and still keep any semblance of politeness.

The brand of courage that a man gets out of a bottle is too apt to ooze from his finger tips in a time of need.

If our mental capacity grew in proportion to our own estimate of it, geniuses would be so thick that we should step on them when we stroll abroad in the evening.

Sometimes wisdom comes with years and sometimes with tears.

They are really and truly our friends who will smile and look interested the tenth time we tell our stock of anecdotes to them.

A woman does hate to pay for fancy groceries when she has her eye on a swell bit of millinery down street.

The greatest compliment that you can pay your friends is to assume that they need no defense.

Something of a Snap.

Now come to think the matter o'er,
It really was too bad,
For Grandpa Adam didn't know
How large a snap he had.
He never did in all his years
Know just what he was worth
In real estate and other things,
For Adam owned the earth.

No rival offered to dispute
Possession of the ball
Or made a threat to jump his claim—
His title covered all—
For every ample continent
And island of the sea,
With lakes and rivers in between,
Was his in simple fee.

No tax collector came around
To say to him: "I fear
That you are getting off too cheap.
We'll raise the rate next year."
And no surveyor kicked about
The fences on his line
And said he'd have to move them in
Or there would be a fine.

The gentlemen who toil and strive
To own the earth today,
Although they partially succeed,
Don't have things all their way.
How they would toss their caps in air,
Turn handsprings and be glad
If they could just be guaranteed
The snap that Adam had!

Poor Woman.

"How is your wife?"

"On the mend."

"Why, I heard she was worse."

"So she is, but she said the stockings just had to be darned, anyway, if she died for it."

Too True.

"There are lots of women lecturers."

"Now, I wonder why you said it that way."

"How else?"

"There are lots of women."

The Modern Way.

"I suppose they killed the fatted calf on his return?"

"No; they just opened a new can of breakfast food."

Casting Shadows.

The weather's acting very queer;
Some days are dark and some are fair;
Sometimes the atmosphere is clear;
Sometimes the fog fills up the air.

Today's a smile, the next's a frown.
It's hard to tell what to expect.
The mercury plays up and down
Until its tube is almost wrecked.

Perhaps the woodchuck might explain
And tell us why the weather changes.
No doubt his dreams are full of pain
As in and out his fancy ranges.

And, soundly sleeping, "Shade or shine,
Which shall it be?" his visions vary.
"Which, shade or shine? What portion's mine.
Oh, fateful day of February?"

That Perplexed Look.

The perplexed look so often seen upon the faces of women is undoubtedly due to their struggles to keep up their dignity and to cinch a bargain at the same time.

At Her Trade.

"I had to fire the nurse."

"What for?"

"General incompetence."

"What is she doing now?"

"Nursing a grievance."

For the Ledger.

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

Washington, March 6, 1909.

Inauguration day, the fourth of March, has long been notorious for inclement weather, but the fourth of March 1909, the day of President Taft's induction to office, attained a climax of elemental violence. Never before had such preparation been made for inauguration ceremonies. More money had been expended than on any previous occasion for street and stand decoration, for fireworks and for the inaugural ball. Every prospect pleased and only the weather was vile. A blizzard set in the night before the fourth and raged with increasing violence until after the time for the President and the President-elect to proceed to the Capitol. It was pitiful to see thousands of soldiers and visitors making an effort in spite of the elements to see a parade that did not form or march. The banked seats and chairs that lined the south side of Pennsylvania avenue by the thousand were vacant. The avenue was deep in snow and slush. Water and snow, mixed, at the curb was from four to six inches deep.

At the appointed hour, President Roosevelt and President-elect Taft drove down the avenue in a closed carriage, escorted by a troop of dragoons. They drove rapidly and reached the Capitol in good time. The President-elect took the oath and instead of reading his address from the east front of the Capitol where an elaborate temporary platform and provision for seating two or three thousand people had been made, he read it in the Senate chamber. After this ceremony ,ex-President Roosevelt rose to go and taking President Taft by the hand, bade him goodby and good luck. The President put his hand on Roosevelt's shoulder and Roosevelt responded and President and ex-President embraced like brothers. This spontaneous, unrehearsed, impressive leave taking caught the sympathy of the audience and there was approving applause from the floor and the gallery. Ex-President Roosevelt had an ovation as he went to the Union station, only three blocks distant from the Capitol and there taking a seat with his family in the car, went to New York for the first time in eight years as a private citizen.

The inauguration ball was the only successful public fete of the inauguration ceremonies. It was well attended in fact crowded, although the admission was $5 for every man and woman. There was but little dancing. All interest centered in the appearance of President Taft, who with Mrs. Taft, and the managers of the ball, made an entire circuit of the immense hall in a roped off space and then proceeded to an enclosure in the balcony where the party was, for an hour, the cynosure of all eyes.

There is more emphatic talk than ever before about changing the inauguration date from March the fourth to April the 30th, or to the last Thursday in April. Of course, there is no assurance that there may not be occasional rain on this later date, but it will be almost certainly not be cold rain or snow, and absolutely certain no such blizzard as was experienced at this inauguration. There have been spasmodic efforts to change the inauguration date from the boisterous season of early March to the later and more salubrious season, but there has always been some congressional crank or cynic to object and such salutary change as would be possible and easy under a benign despotism appears to be next to impossible when it depends on three or four hundred members of Congress pulling at cross purposes. This seems to be the curse of democracy in more ways than one. What is everybody's business is nobody's business and what is nobody's business is everybody's business to mar and wreck.

There seems to be very general approval of President Taft's inaugural address. There is nothing startling in his administration or legislative program as announced. That he would uphold the Roosevelt policies was expected. He was chosen and elected to maintain them. He comes into office with a clean slate ;with probably many friends to reward but it is to be hoped with no enemies to punish. It is evident that although he has adopted the Roosevelt policies, he is determined not to estrange from himself and his administration the Roosevelt enemies. His administration is begun with reciprocal good feeling between himself and the national congress. Members of the Ananias club have already been invited to dine at the White House and it is believed that the well known geniality and bonhomme of the President will have an effect to oil the gudgeons of politics which hate ground and grated somewhat creakingly during the strenuous regime of his predecessor.

Of course the most important part of the inaugural address is that which announced that Congress will be called in extra season March the 15th to revise the tariff. This prompt keeping of a pre-election pledge is praise worthy, though expected. The tariff must be revised, for as it stands it is the cause of many conflicts in monopoly and restraint of trade which will not disappear until the schedules have been revised. Government revenues are falling off. A deficit of 140 millions is looming up. Adams.

BRIEFS.

An important meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening.

Ephraim C. Davis of 11 Brooks street left Friday for a two weeks' stay at Orlando, Florida.

Evacuation day, March 17, will be held as usual the annual meeting of the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, in Chipman hall, Tremont temple, Boston.

A meeting of the Columbia A. C. will be held tomorrow afternoon at their club rooms 343 Water street. Plans for the coming baseball season will be talked over and officers elected. The Columbia's average age is 18 years and they intend to have a fast team.

Several Quincy ladies are enjoying the cooking demonstration lectures at Wollaston on Monday afternoons, given by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, editor of the Boston Cooking magazine. The lectures are under the auspices of the Kindergarten committee of Wollaston.

Nothing is too large for women to undertake. For years there has been talk of regilding the dome on First church but as it would be very expensive the work has not been done. Now it is said the Fragment society is to undertake the work. It will cost between $500 and $1,000.

The vesper services which have been held at four o'clock on alternate Sunday afternoons in the First church will be continued. They will be held on March 14 and 28. The last of these afternoon services for this season will be held on Easter Sunday. April 11. The services are open to all who desire to attend.

Ten prizes are to be offered this year to Quincy girls under fifteen years of age for sewing, by the Education committee of the Quincy Women's club; four for articles of clothing, four for plain sewing, and two for fancy work. Names of prize winners and the work will be exhibited at the Children's Festival at Music hall in April. The committee on serving is Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold, Mrs. William F. Cummings and Miss Abigail B. Wood.

At the Elijah concert of the Quin-Choral society Tuesday evening, the oratorio was sung from beginning to end in a splendid spirit of understanding that is seldom demonstrated. So clearly was the religious spirit of the music brought out, the difference between the appeal to the pagan god Baal, and the awed wonder of the people at the proof of God's power, the worship and adoration of the Lord God in the mighty chorals, and so in sympathy with this were the beautiful voices and artistic interpretation of the solo singers, that one prominent musician of our city said after it was over, "I have heard the oratoria of Elijah many times; I have sung its choruses many times; and yet, after listening to it tonight I feel that never until now have I understood it." What higher praise than this could any society or any conductor ask?

SOUTH BRAINTREE.

The Misses Foster of Washington street spent Sunday with Mrs. W. C. Benedict at Winthrop.

James Morrison, who has been visiting his sister a couple of weeks, has returned to his home in Franklin, N. H.

Mrs. Julius Heurlin of West street held the highest score at the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary whist party on Thursday afternoon in G. A. R. hall.

Mr. Butler and family have moved from the cottage on Marstons Poultry farm to the house on Pond street, recently vacated by C. H. Stone.

Mrs. Mary J. Wheeler has been moved to 24 French avenue to stay during her convalescence, and will be glad to see her friends there.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the A. O. H. will hold a banquet, next Wednesday, in Odd Fellows hall. Father Johnson of Quincy will speak, and there will be a concert.

Mr, and Mrs. E. R. Jackson of Tilton, N. H. made a flying trip to South Braintree this week and were the guests of H. H. Snow of Tremont street. They visited the Automobile show on Wed.

Letters remain unclaimed at the South Braintree post office for John Bloomfield. Geo. O. Chamberlain, Antonio Celurzo, Frank A. Elliott, Mrs. L. G. Farmer, Guiseppe Gauaropoli, Mr. M. C. Hill, Miss Ella Simmons, Joseph Seymour and Michele Virginillo.

Husbands to Burn.

The elderly spinster in the rear of the drawing room car had no more than settled in her seat when her attention was attracted to a woman a little farther front who was garbed in the deepest mourning. As Miss Spinster adjusted her nose grabber glasses for a better inspection of the one in widow's weeds she saw the conductor lean over and converse with her earnestly for several minutes.

When the conductor got back to her seat taking the passenger's tickets Miss Spinster was consumed with curiosity about the woman in mourning.

"Conductor," she asked in her sweetest tones, "what's the trouble with the lady up there in widow's weeds?"

"Oh, that's Mrs. Gettem!" replied the obliging conductor. "She's just taking her third husband out to a crematory."

"Oh, how dreadful!" exclaimed Miss Spinster. And then in a faraway voice she added:

"And just think of it! Here I am past fifty and never had a husband in my life, while that woman up there has them to burn!"—New York Times.

Strong Monosyllables.

Instructors in the art of literary composition usually condemn a string of monosyllables, but in the well known hymn "Lead, Kindly Light," written by a master of the English language, you may count thirty consecutive words of one syllable only. They offend neither the eye nor the ear.

Milton often uses a series of monosyllables. In the second book of "Paradise Lost" we have:

The fiend
O'er bog or steep, through strait, rough, dense or rare,
With head, hands, wings or feet pursues his way
And swims or sinks or wades or creeps or flies.

Such lines are not uncommon in the book:

Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens and shades of death.

And again:

Of neither sea nor shore nor air nor fire.

Courtship In Ireland.

An Irish boy marries when he has a rid house and an Irish girl just when she pleases. Sometimes she so pleases while yet her years are few; at other times she is content to wait upon wisdom. In the latter case, of course, she makes a wise choice, but in the former almost always a lucky one, for luck is the guardian angel of the Irish.

"You're too young to marry yet, Mary," the mother said when Mary pleaded that she should grant Laurence O'Mahony a particular boon.

"If you only have patience, mother, I'll cure meself of that fault," was Mary's reply.

"And she's never been used to work, Laurence," the mother said to the suitor discouragingly.

"If you only have patience, ma'am," was Laurence's reply to this, "I'll cure her of that fault." And he did too.—Seumas MacManus in Lippincott's.

MOTORS TREBLE COST OF KEEPING UP ROADS.

Expert Shows Need of More Durable Surfacing—Advocates Use of Bituminous Cement With Macadam—Oiling and Other Makeshifts More Costly In the End.

Road problems, especially those that have come with the advent of the motor car, are now the subject of active discussion. Clifford Richardson, head of the New York Testing laboratory and a leading authority on street and road building, recently delivered an important address on this subject at Utica, N. Y.

Mr. Richardson showed that in England the use of automobiles has increased the cost of maintaining ordinary roads from 22 to 77 per cent. On the Massachusetts state highways maintenance cost, due to motor travel, has jumped from $100 to $300 a mile a year.

"Our roads are suffering severely from motor traffic," Mr. Richardson said, "and it was for this reason that the international road congress at Paris was called.

"The general opinion was expressed at Paris by the ablest English and French engineers that this can only be done by introducing into the wearing surface of the road some bituminous cementing material. This would bind the mineral aggregate together in such a way as to make it able to withstand the destructive shearing action of the rear wheels of a motor.

"Application of tar to the surface of roads has been most successfully carried out by the metropolitan park board in Massachusetts, and an excellent type of road of this description is to be seen in the Revere Beach parkway, Boston. The original cost of the application was about 6 cents per square yard and the renewals in the neighborhood of 3 cents per yard annually. It will be seen, however, that an expenditure of this description will soon reach that of the additional cost of bituminous over ordinary macadam. The tar treatment can therefore hardly be looked upon as economical.

Surface Applications Not Lasting.

"The same statement is true of the use of crude oil. Roads treated with it are dustless for a time, but the applications must be continually repeated, and the condition of the road immediately after is far from agreeable. In fact, all surface applications are mere palliatives and on this account are not to be recommended. Our only recourse which may be looked upon as entirely satisfactory is the construction of a bituminous macadam surface, using asphalt in place of the less lasting coal tar as a cementing material.

"Professor Arthur H. Blanchard, assistant engineer of the Rhode Island state board of public roads, has shown that the cost of a bituminous macadam surface over and above that of one of the ordinary form was for coal tar as the cementing material 12 cents and for tar and asphalt in equal proportions 13.3 cents per square yard.

"Where asphalt is used it results in a surface which supports without deterioration the heaviest motor traffic for a period of at least ten years. At the same time the road is dustless, while an ordinary macadam surface subjected to motor traffic of concentrated type, such as is found on many of our trunk roads, would require resurfacing in a few years."

NEED STRINGENT LAWS TO CHECK TRAMP EVIL.

Nearly Fifteen Hundred Trespassers Killed and Injured on Pennsylvania System Alone Last Year—Three Thousand More Arrested.

Reports just compiled at the general offices of the Pennsylvania railroad show that during the year 1908 657 trespassers were killed and 791 injured on the lines of the Pennsylvania system east and west of Pittsburg. For 1907 reports show 822 trespassers killed. Thus during the past two years on the Pennsylvania system alone 1,479 persons have lost their lives in this way.

These figures are pointed to as emphasizing the recommendation in the recent annual reports of the state railroad commissions of Pennsylvania and Indiana that laws should be enacted providing substantial punishment for all persons who trespass upon the private rights of way of any steam or electric railway.

These cases of trespass are not only a source of expense and danger to the railroad and its patrons, but it is felt that common humanity should prompt the most thorough measures to eliminate this evil as rapidly as possible. If these men frequent the company's tracks and yards they are certain to be killed or injured no matter how careful the trainmen may be. Yet trespassers have no business whatever upon the right of way of a railroad.

The extent of the trespassing abuse is to be found not only in the figures showing the number of persons killed or injured while trespassing, but also in the fact that during the year 1908, according to the figures just compiled, 2,989 persons were arrested for trespassing, 442 for vagrancy and 10,457 for illegal train riding on the lines of the Pennsylvania system. During the year 1907 the arrests for these causes numbered 5,588.

The management of the Pennsylvania hopes that the bringing to public attention of the above unfortunate conditions may serve to enlist still further support for the railroad commissions and the railroad companies, which are seeking to bring this evil to an end. In England, where there is a much greater amount of unemployment than in this country and where the density of population is much greater, railroad trespassing is almost nonexistent, and that is brought about by the stringent laws which are enforced to prevent it.

COCHATO CLUB

The annual meeting of the Cochato club was held Monday evening, and all the reports were encouraging.

Mr. F. Edgar Norris, the secretary, reported a membership of 175 gentlemen and 121 ladies, a total of 296. Of the gentlemen, 141 are residents and 34 non residents. The dues paid by members the past year amounted to $2,491.36, and $141.50 were received for entrance fees.

The Australian ballot was used in electing officers, and the following were chosen:

Treasurer,—William A. McKean.
Secretary,—F. Edgar Norris.
Executive Committee,—Albert E. Avery; Charles A. Boyce; Albion C. Drinkwater; F. Eugene Dyer; Harold M. Gage; George H. Hamblett; Aubrey Hilliard; Atherton N. Hunt; Herbert F. Kneeland; Gilbert V. Pennock; Plummer C. Spring; George O. Wales; George H. Wetherbee, and George E. Williams.

Team 8 did the trick this week, and now leads team 7 in the Cochato bowling tournament both in points and pinfall. However, it is by a very narrow margin, only half a point and 42 pins. It is now almost certain that one of these two teams will win the championship, but which ?

The standing to date:

Thursday Night.

It was necessary for team 7 to make ten points on Thursday evening to retain its lead in the tournment and it fell one short, as team 3 won six points and left only 9 for the deposed leaders. It would have been different if team 7 had not weakened on the second string, as they had lots to spare on the third.

MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR WAYWARD BOYS

Principal of Lyman School Gives Interesting Talk Before K. of C.

John Ryan, principal of the Lyman School for boys, addressed the local council Knights of Columbus Sunday afternoon, and a more interesting talk could not have been desired. Besides Mr. Ryan there were addresses by two others not down on the program, namely, Thomas M. Devlin, agent of the State Board of Charity, and Judge Albert E. Avery of the East Norfolk district court.

Mr. Ryan took for his subject "The criminal tendencies of boys," saying that the girls were what the boys made them and that if the boys were made right the girls would not go wrong half so quickly. He then proceeded to tell the working of the school and the kinds of boys that were there and why they were there. It is the environments that cause boys to go wrong said Mr. Ryan. Many people, he said, say that some children are born bad. That is a terrible thing to say about any child, continued the speaker, for we are all born into this world pure and holy, although we may have the germ of evil in us. This germ however, will not flourish and grow without fertile soil and if the child is surrounded with evil, the germ is sure to flourish.

Another point brought out by Mr. Ryan was, that this desire to do wrong and to be up to something all the time, was not a new desire found only in the boys of the present age. Mr. Ryan related many incidents of great men of years ago who had always been in trouble when boys and who, as history shows, had turned out to be the best of citizens.

Mr. Ryan urged every member of the Knights of Columbus to take a personal interest in at least one boy who was going wrong and endeavor, by good example and advice, to put him on the road to success. No greater or better work can be done than this of uplifting the boys who have been so unfortunate as to go wrong.

It is not the boy who is to blame so much as society and the surroundings, both at home and on the street, said Mr. Ryan. "And," he continued, "when you men hear a boy on the street cursing and swearing, if you take him aside and talk to him seriously, he will soon realize his wrong and very soon there will be a big change in the boy in general.

Mr. Ryan received a great burst of applause as he concluded and was extended a rising vote of thanks. When he stood up to thank the members he told something of his own life. He is a local boy, having lived in North Weymouth and Holbrook nearly all his life. He is a splendid example of a self-made man, having worked hard to pay his way through Boston University. He then taught school in New Hampshire and Maine until he was appointed to his present position.

Thomas M. Devlin of the State Board of Charity then spoke to the members. He came to hear Mr. Ryan and was not prepared to speak. This did not stop him, however, and he proceeded to give an interesting talk on his duties as agent. He takes up the work where Mr. Ryan leaves off, looking after the boys when they leave the school.

He said there were three causes for the present evils among boys, namely the cheap dance halls, the moving picture shows and the pool rooms. More wrong is concocted in pool rooms in the afternoon he said than anywhere else, and the plans are carried out at night. If boys are kept away from Saturday night dances, it means a general uplift among both boys and girls.

He related many incidents that he has experienced in investigating the homes of some of the boys. He said that often the parents try to shield their boys, thereby encouraging them to do wrong. He heartily seconded Mr. Ryan's urgent appeal to K. of C. men to take up the work of helping boys.

He too was given a rising vote of thanks. Both Mr. Ryan and Mr. Devlin are Knights of Columbus men and are enthusiastic over the general movement to have Knights help in this work.

Judge Avery, who had also come to listen, was called upon to say a few words. He responded, saying that he was glad he came to hear Mr. Ryan and that he had learned a lot that he didn't know before. He said he was glad to know that there was such a competent man at the head of the Lyman School.

Judge Avery said, like Mr. Ryan, that it was society that caused the boy to go wrong. "Why don't 'they' do this, and why don't 'they' do that," said the judge. "The whole trouble is that 'they' are 'we,'" he said. Why don't we do this? That is the point.

A great reception was given Judge Avery when he arose, the applause lasting for several minutes. Great applause followed his address, too, and he was given a rising vote of thanks

BARD OF AVON IN MONOLOGUE

Novel Entertainment Presented by Shakespeare Society

Not alone Atlantic but all of Quincy is much indebted to the Shakespeare society of Atlantic for each season holding an open meeting and presenting a good Shakespearean entertainment. One year it was Prof. Edward Howard Griggs in tragedy, another Marshall Darrah in comedy and on Saturday afternoon Shakespeare in music was given by Mrs. Alfred Chester Coursens.

Atlantic Music hall looked very attractive on Saturday afternoon as the patrons of the entertainment were gathering. The windows were darkened and the electric lights on. The stage was arranged with good effect with screens, evergreen and palms.

Guests were shown every attention on arriving—a young page Master Gearwar, at the head of the stairs ushered to a small ante-room where Mrs. Theodore Parker and Miss Elizabeth Cook received the tickets. Then Mrs. John Carver and Mrs. Cecil Marble presented programs and as the guests passed to the next room the officers of the club Mrs. Whitcher, Mrs. Harry W. Read, Mrs. George A. Richards and Mrs. William F. Cummings were in waiting to extend greeting. The ushers in the hall were Mrs. Charles L. Coe, Mrs. Edward S. Tenney, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Millard F. Baker and Mrs. Frederick J. Peirce.

Every seat in the hall and balcony was taken at three o'clock when Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher, president gracefully extended the greetings of the Shakespeare society and introduced Mrs. Coursens who would give a Shakespearean musical monologue, assisted at the piano by her daughter Miss Marion Coursens.

The arrangement of the work is most clever and deals with the return to this sphere of a young girl Mistresse Myne who lived in the time of the bard of Avon and is historically correct as to costume and music. Mistresse Myne comes upon the stage singing "O Mistresse Myne" from "Twelfth Night" and for an hour or more the audience is entertained by Shakespearean songs intermingled with clever sketches of incidents in the life and plays of Shakespeare.

Mrs. Coursens rendered the quaint and difficult old English songs with fine understanding, her rich, flexible voice being particularly adapted to the style of music. She was artistic in her interpretation and was frequently encored as the audience could not wait to show their appreciation until after the performance, so clever were some of the renderings.

An informal reception was given Mrs. Coursens and she was found to be as charming off the stage as on, by those who had the pleasure of meeting her.

For a small club the Shakespeare society of Atlantic leads in undertaking large things such as the series of entertainments given under their auspices. One can look forward to something novel and good when an entertainment is announced by them.

John Golgos Gets Six Months in House of Correction.

John Golgos employed at Bradley's was arrested by Weymouth officers Sunday for assault on Antone Mekeegke.

Golgos is alleged to have made Mekeegke a fit subject for the hospital. He suffered a dislocation of the shoulder a fractured leg and multiple injuries. He was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction.

POLICE MAKE RAIDS.

The police went on the war path after violators of the liquor law Sunday. Two places was raided liquor being found at both places.

The first raid was at the premises of Luigi Gaccimo on Bryant avenue In the raiding party were Inspector Goodhue, and Officers Bishop and Farrell.

The officers seized one-half barrel of ale and some empty barrels. The raid was made about 3 o'clock.

About the same time Inspector McKay with Officers Cahill, Johnson, Hinchon and Dinneen raided the premises of Ambrose Bertoni on the Rail. A barrel of wine and three half barrels of ale was seized.

SALMON RECITAL.

Mr. Editor—I wish to call to the attention of our people, the lecture recital of Mr. Salmon tomorrow night in the chapel of the First church. Mr. Salmon formerly a pupil of our Mr. Buckingham was a boyhood chum of mine, and when a youngster was a remarkably brilliant pianist. Since his school days he has journeyed and studied all around the world, until now as an authority on Russian music, he has no superior in this country. Those who enjoy piano music brilliant execution and remarkable technique may count an unusual opportunity lost if they do not hear Mr. Salmon.

Very truly yours,
Russell A. Sears.

THREE REGULARS AND ONE FALSE

Fire Department Kept Moving Saturday and Sunday Nights

The fire department was called out three times between Saturday night and this morning.

The first alarm was from Box 26 at 8.43 Saturday evening and was for a chimney fire in the old court room building on Hancock street owned by Henry M. Faxon. When discovered the flames were coming from the chimney in good shape. They also forced out a flue in a closet in the tenement occupied by Frank Nightingale and did some damage.

A large crowd quickly collected in City Square but the fire was soon out. A chemical stream was taken up through the building and forced into the chimney. The loss will not exceed $50.

The alarm from Box 23 at 11.10 Sunday night was for a fire in a long shed off Cottage street owned by Henry M. Faxon.

Just what caused the fire is not known but it is thought to have been set.

An Italian under the influence of liquor was taken from the building and sent to the police station to sober off. The loss will not exceed $150.

The third alarm was sounded from Box 136 at midnight and was for a fire in a building off Water street owned by Mrs. James Bisson. The fire was quickly extinguished with a loss of $15. The impression is that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Charles Starr of Revere road, who was on the battleship Kearsarge in the "round the world" tour, returned to his home Sunday night for a short visit. Charlie has many interesting stories to tell of the foreign lands visited on the trip.

According to a report from Oklohoma, a minister in that state, called down a plague on Bokhoma in the form of a drought, because he had been denied a sum of money he claimed was owing to him. Some "dunning" agency should hire him.

One of the hardest fought political battles, that has ever taken place in the House of Representatives will be held today when the "insurgents" and the "regulars" line up over the adoption of rules of the Sixtieth Congress. If the insurgents come off victorious, it will mean the ending of Speaker Cannon's arbitrary rule, a condition of affairs that would be welcome news to many citizens.

The Buck Stove and Range Company injunction, for the violation of which three noted labor leaders have been adjudged in contempt of court and sentenced to jail, has been very materially modified by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, from which it would seem that the sentences imposed on the labor leaders are based, in part at least, upon a misapprehension of the law. There is another tribunal—the greatest on earth— yet to be heard from on the questions involved, and until that tribunal has rendered its decision any extended discussion of the justice or injustice of Judge Wright's sentences would be premature and perhaps unprofitable. Fortunately the Supreme Court of the United States is composed of men whose legal attainments are high. They will deal dispassionately and impartially with the grave issues involved and declare the law of the land without variableness or shadow of turning. When they have spoken, the relative and corelative rights and duties of labor and capital will have a flood of light thrown upon them.

The Boston Post commenting on the weather bureau says: "Chief Willis L. Moore of the United States Weather Bureau takes seriously to heart the fun which unscientific persons have poked at him in connection with the inauguration day blizzard. He calls it "hysterical abuse."

"He sets forth in an official statement that the 4th of March storm made itself evident on the 3d and was recognized as one of the sort whose centre travels regularly in a fixed direction. It ought to have passed by Washington in time to give clear weather on the 4th, and Chief Moore made his prediction in confidence. But this storm did not behave as usual; it stopped there over night. "No forecaster could foresee this," he protests."

"Nine times out of ten, he says, the storm would have acted in the usual way; and he avers that one miss out of ten guesses is better than a fair average. So it is. Better luck next time!"

It seems rather childish for a man of Mr. Moore's standing to defend himself from the jests of fun lovers who are bound to jokingly hold him responsible for the inauguration blizzard.

The fun loving American will have his little joke, whether or no and Mr. Moore should realize this.

☞Your attention is called to the advertisment of W. G. Shaw. MANY MINISTERS IN ATTENDANCE

Rev. Carl G. Horst Installed at Wollaston Unitarian Church

NEW PASTOR GIVEN WELCOME BY LOCAL CLERGYMEN

Rev. Edward G. Horton Preaches Eloquent Sermon On Optimism

A representative audience attended the installation of Rev. Carl G. Horst as minister of the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The church was filled and seats were at a premium, many people coming from the other Wollaston churches and some from Quincy.

Following the organ prelude Rev. A. W. Littlefield offered the invocation and read from the scripture.

The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Edward A. Horton of Boston who spoke on "The church as a power house of optimism."

He took his text from John XII, 29 which reads, "Some said it thundered; others said an angel spake."

There are, Mr. Horton said, certain movements on foot at the present day that to be ignored by the pulpit the preacher must be either ignorant or stubborn.

Christian Science, whatever else it is, is an attempt to instil optimism, while New Thought is for the purpose of bringing sunshine from darkness and courage from fear.

The Lend-a-Hand is an attempt for more cheerfulness, while the Christian Endeavor flings out hope.

One of the lastest developments along this line, said Mr. Horton is the Optimist club which is so strong in the West, having a membership of some odd 300,000 and numbering among it some of the most prominent men of the day.

Andrew Carnegie is one of its presidents and President Taft is a member. On the badge of the society is the one word, 'Smile.'

The Civil War would not have accomplished the great results it did had it not been for this spirit of optimism. Easter is the church's great call to optimism.

Jesus was the Great Optimist and every church should take its discipleship from this keynote. Mr. Horton referred to Mr. Horst as coming with a clear title to this church and being the very apostle of optimism.

In extending the greetings of the parish Charles S. Adams, M. D., its president said that it was not in keeping for a doctor of the body to instruct a doctor of the soul.

He said that he would merely tell him that there was a congregation of 250 sinners here who were just as bad on Sunday as they were on Monday.

Rev. E. A. Chase, of the Wollaston Congregational church in extending the welcome of the community spoke of Wollaston as a place of hills and plains, kissed on one side by the sea and on the other by the hil's and the setting sun.

Wollaston, said Mr. Chase, is the home of young life and any one who stands on Newport avenue between the hours of 3 and 5 and watches the almost endless procession of baby carriages upon it will realize the truth of this statement.

This, he said, is a man's town. Men go to some towns to die, but here they come to live, make their homes and bring up their children.

The people of Wollaston as a whole keep together as churches. I do not think, said Mr. Chase, that I have been invited to dinner by a Unitarian family since I came to Wollaston and I do not know whether it is more from the fear of my orthodoxy, or my appetite" The people here, he said, want a gospel which will not criticise and destroy but will be constructive and spread good news.

In addressing Mr. Horst, Mr. Chase said that Wolaston had a heart and a hand and as far as he was able he gave both to him.

Rev. Ellery C. Butler, of the First church, Quincy extended the right hand of fellowship. In opposition to Dr. Adams he said he should say that the people in Wollaston were just as good on Monday as they were on Sunday.

Once it was a minister's duty to teach people how to die, now he must teach them how to live.

He likened the New England spirit to anthracite which was hard to get started but once aroused or its affections kindled it was hard to put out. He assured Mr. Horst of a hearty welcome.

Rev. Lewis G. Wilson, of Boston, secretary of the American Unitarian association extended the greetings of that body.

He spoke at length of the qualities a church expected in a minister and those which a minister hoped to find in a new church.

These qualities he said were seldom fully realized but the defects in the minister should be supplied by the church and those in the church by the minister.

The closing prayer was offered by Rev. Charles B. Ames of the First Church, Quincy and the meeting closed with the benediction by the minister.

Rev. George W. Cutter of Neponset delivered the installing prayer.

A chorus of mixed voices which rendered several selections and assisted in the congregational singing consisted of the following:

Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Nathaniel Hunting, Miss Ernestine Litchfield, Miss Helen Foster, Mr. Albert Moulton, Mr. Earl Boyce, Mr. Louis Weston, Mr. Frederick H. Bishop.

JOHN H. ROONEY.

John H. Rooney, a long and well known resident of West Quincy, died at his home, 30 Bates avenue, Saturday afternoon, aged 46 years.

Mr. Rooney was born in Milton in 1863 but came to Quincy with his parents when a child and has resided here ever since.

He received his education in the schools of Quincy. Leaving school he mastered the trade of a blacksmith which he has since followed.

He was for many years employed by O. T. Rogers Granite Co. Later he was employed at the shop of the Water department.

He represented Ward Four in the City Council of 1893 and 1894, serving on the standing committee on Legislative matters and Fire Department.

He was a prominent member of the St. John's C. T. A. & A. A. during its thriving years.

Mr. Rooney is survived by a wife and two sons, Joseph and George.

—By the resignation of Treasurer Fogg the office of treasurer of the town of Norwell passes out of the Fogg family, which has held it for the past 60 years. Hon. Ebenezer T. Fogg was treasurer for 48 years, and after his death was succeeded by his son, Horace T. Fogg.

NEW YORK SPRING FASHIONS.

Many charming novelties are being shown in silk and cotton goods. The new seersuckers are greatly in demand. Sateens have been revived once more and appear in pretty patterns closely resembling foulards. Cotton voile is being extensively used as it makes up into a showy but inexpensive frock and can be smartly trimmed with the new embroidered cotton bands, or heavy laces such as Cluny or imitation Irish.

COTTON CREPE SHIRT WAISTS.

Shirt waists are perennial. This season has introduced a real novelty in the shape of the new waists made of cotton crepe. Many of these waists have no trimming whatever being simply made with broad and narrow tucks, others are ornamented with a band of lace insertion down the center pleat and the same lace, trimming collar and cuffs. A waist of white crepe has the center pleat trimmed with two rows of small white crochet buttons, while a row of the same sort of buttons runs down the outside of each sleeve to the hands. Narrow accordion-pleated frills and frills of lace and embroidery are used on many of the new waists.

A PALE LAVENDER FROCK.

All the very smartest lingerie frocks this season are made in the princess or modified Directoire styles. A charming hot weather dress is of pale pinkish lavender batiste made with rather a deep yoke composed of alternate rows of embroidery insertion and Valenciennes insertion. The costume is shaped to the figure by tucks starting just below the waist line and extending down over the hips. Three closely set small white buttons on pockets, fronts, and running down the front of the skirt, together with a skilful use of narrow stitched bands of the linen lend an air of distinction to an otherwise perfectly plain suit.

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York. Patterns may be obtained at any McCall Agency.

A TOUCH OF BLACK ON SUMMER SUITS.

The linen suits continue to appear in more and more attractive guise and the latest fad of all is to give these costumes a touch of black. A few of the models in natural colored linens are fastened with big jet buttons or have collars, cuffs and perhaps a tie of black watered silk. Then again pearl buttons are lavishly used for trimming purposes on these suits. A suit of mixed gray and white linen illustrates this idea and the rows of graduated bands of the embroidery insertion, commencing at deep flounce depth, and separated by two rows of the lace, form the trimming of the skirt. The long sleeves are made entirely of the lace and embroidery. The close fit of costumes at present, and the long lines which fashion demands, necessitates great care in the choice of underwear, and nothing nicer in finish or prettier in style comes in womans underwear than the lingerie known as "Defender" whether simple and modestly priced, or elaborate and more expensive, the cut and finish are uniformly perfect, and such as appeal to the up-to-date woman of refined taste.

SILK COATS.

Black moire, soft and supple, is very much used this spring for separate coats and they are also made of faille and Ottoman silk, while coats of pongee in both the natural ecrue tints and in all the lovely new pastel shades are greatly favored. These models are in the loose hipless cut that is now so popular and the sleeves are in every instance rather small and coat shaped.

Lucy Carter.

SUFFRAGE DEMONSTRATION.

A culminating event in the series of demonstrations favoring women suffrage which have been made this winter by the Boston Equal Suffrage Association for Good Government will be the monster mass meeting to be held in Tremont Temple, Boston, this evening. This has been planned to prove to members of the legislature, all of whom have been specially invited to attend, that a great many people in Massachusetts are keenly interested in the world movement for political equality of the sexes. The management of the Equal Suffrage Association has been fortunate to secure as one of the speakers Rev. Charles F. Aked, minister of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. New York, which is attended by John D. Rockefeller. Dr. Aked has been an advocate of woman suffrage for many years past.

The other speakers will be Miss Anna H. Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association; Rep. William H. O'Brien of Dorchester, who is specially interested in labor problems; Franklin H. Wentworth of Salem, the well known Socialist leader and Miss Leonora O'Reilly, of New York, one of the most eloquent of woman orators in the country. A greeting will be read from the venerable Julia Ward Howe, author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." The "suffrage hymn" which won the first prize among more than a thousand competitors will be sung for the first time in public, with Mrs. Emma Kettelle Tilton at the organ. College girls, working girls and Harvard students will constitute the corps of ushers. As the meeting is open to the general public there is every expectation that the attendance will be record breaking, drawing not only upon those who are directly favorable to woman suffrage but those who have begun to be interested in the questions involved.

—The steamship companies believe that 1909 will prove a record year in immigration. The North German Lloyd has recently sold 30,000 prepaid tickets, which will bring a good middle class type of immigrant, and the Nordham, which arrived recently, brought a fine lot of sturdy Dutch families bound for farms in the west. Banker and Tradesman.

—The United States weather bureau recently authorized the erection of a weather kiosk in Boston, and within a few months this latest scientific appliance will adorn the common, where pedestrains will be enabled to determine the exact weather conditions at every hour of the day and night. The new kiosk will be placed near the Tremont street mall, directly opposite West street.

SOCCOR AND BASKET BALL

Fore River Team Defeats Hopedale Rovers

QUINCY Y. M. C. A. TAKES NORTH ABINGTON BOYS INTO CAMP

Employed Boys Meet Defeat at Hands of Intermediates

At the Fore River grounds, Quincy Point, Saturday afternoon, the Fore River soccor football team defeated the Hopedale Rovers of Hopedale by a score of 6 to 1. Fast individual playing and some clever teamwork at times, was the cause of the Rovers defeat. The game was in the New England Cup tie series and Hopedale drops out of the tie by this defeat.

At the beginning of the game, it looked as if the contest would be close all the way, but after Fore River got started, there was nothing to it. Carruthers broke the ice after about fifteen minutes of play, getting a pretty shot from the left wing. A nice bit of passing preceded the shot and enabled Carruthers to get in a position to shoot.

Clark followed shortly after with the only goal that Hopedale scored and the score remained a tie until toward the end of the half, when Elliot kicked the ball into the net and put Fore River in the lead.

It was all Fore River in the second half, the local boys taking things easy. Nuttal scored shortly after the half began, and Elliot caged the ball twice more before it ended.

For Fore River Malcolm, Temple, Lyons, Elliot and Carruthers played the best game, while Martin, Gray and Clark excelled for the Hopedale Rovers. The summary:

FORE RIVER	HOPEDALE ROVERS
Malcolm, g	g, Smithurst
Temple, rb	lb, Kratzch
Lewis, lb	rb, Martin
J. McDonald, rh	lh, Gray
Lyons, ch	ch, Hoggarth
Melville, lh	rh, Croskery
McFadden, rof	lof, McHenry
D. McDonald, rif	lif, Dean
Elliot, cf	cf, Clark
Nuttal, lif	rif, McLearie
Carruthers, lof	rof, Smith

Score, Fore River 6, Hopedale Rovers 1. Goals, Elliot 3, Nuttal 2, Carruthers, Clark. Referee, Hall of Pawtucket. Linesmen, Frazier for Fore River, Bateson for Hopedale Rovers. Time, 45m halves.

There were two good basket ball games Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. gym, the Quincy Y. M. C. A. team defeating the North Abington five 39 to 23, and the local intermediates taking the employed boys into camp 20 to 15. Fast team work marked the play in the first game, the local boys giving a clever exhibition of passing. Gourlie was the star getting nine goals from the floor.

The summary:

QUINCY Y M C A	NO. ABINGTON Y M C A
McKenzie, rf	lb, Chamberlain
Morris, lf	rb, Merritt
Tupper, c	c, Woles
Mundie, rb	lf, Calkins
Gourlie, lb	rf, Wheatley

Score, Quincy 39, North Abington 23. Goals from floor, McKenzie 2, Morris 5, Mundie 3, Gourlie 9, Chamberlain 2, Wheatley 8, Calkins 3. Goals from fouls, Gourlie, Calkins 3. Referee, Marden. Scorer, Miller. Timer, Littlefield. Time, 20m periods. Attendance 200.

The game between the intermediates and the employed boys was the hottest of the season, the result being in doubt right up to the finish. It was practically the High school team that represented the Intermediates and the Employed boys deserve great credit for the game fight they put up.

Excitement ran high all through the game, everyone being on edge. At first one side would lead, then the other and so on. Finally however the intermediates pulled away and won 20 to 15. Bates, Manning and Brooks excelled for the winners, while the Pinel brothers and Melville played best for the losers. The summary:

INTERMEDIATES	EMPLOYED BOYS
Bates rf	lb Jenkins
Manning lf	rb Melville
Brooks c	c Dakers
Hogan rb	lf Q. Pinel
Prout lb	rf J. Pinel

Score Intermediates 20, Employed Boys 15. Goals from floor Bates 2, Manning 2, Brooks, 3 Hogan, Prout, Q. Pinel 2, J. Pinel, Dakers, Jenkins 2, Melville. Goals from fouls, Brooks, Manning J. Pinel. Referee Tupper. Scorer Miller. Timer Littlefield. Time 15 and 20 m periods. Attendance 200.

"You are very much in love with him, dear, aren't you?" Mrs. Brevort inquired, not without a certain doubtful note in her tone, which seemed to hint that such possibly might not be the case.

The girl who stood by the window, looking out at the uneven pavements of the Roman street, turned slowly and smiled. In that smile were weariness and subtle understanding and patient resignation.

"Yes, I am very much in love with him, Aunt Elinor," she said in a colorless voice, as if she were saying the words more because they were expected of her than for any other reason.

Mrs. Brevort smiled her open approval. The little frown of doubt which for the past few moments had wrinkled her brow suddenly disappeared. She crossed the room to the girl's side and threw an arm about her.

"Of course, dearie," she cooed, "your happiness is my first, I might almost say my only, concern. No one realizes better than I the portent of this step—that all your future, all your lifelong happiness depends upon it. No one, I think you'll admit, too, is more averse to the majority of these marriages than I am, but the duke is so utterly different from all the other eligible men we have met. He is not seeking your money, dear, for he is immensely wealthy in his own right. He is an upright, honest, splendid type of an—more like our own men in America, I think, than any one we have seen. Isn't that your impression of him?"

"Yes," said the girl in the same colorless voice.

Mrs. Brevort's pale face grew rather eager. "Somehow I have felt from the first that your destinies were linked, yours and his," said she, "but when he talked with me this afternoon I gave him no definite answer. I let him understand that the matter rested primarily with you; that it was your happiness that was at stake.

"He didn't seem quite to understand my attitude at first, but he was perfectly charming about it, as he is in everything. He said I was to speak to you and that he would call for me this afternoon at 4 in the road car, and while we went out to the aqueduct I could give him my final decision, or, rather, yours."

The girl had turned again to the window. She was looking abstractedly at the passing crowd in the street below. Her brow was furrowed by a little disfiguring frown. Her lips were set tightly together. Her eyes were troubled.

"So I suppose I am to give him a favorable answer, am I not?" Mrs. Brevort suggested tentatively.

The girl was silent. The troubled look in her eyes grew more pronounced. Her aunt watched her narrowly and with growing impatience.

"Peggy, dear, I asked you a question," she reminded her niece. "Is it a favorable answer I am to give?"

The girl shrugged her dainty shoulders. "Yes, yes; oh, yes!" she said hurriedly. "It doesn't matter." Her voice suddenly choked. "Nothing matters!"

Mrs. Brevort elevated her brows. "Really, Peggy"— she began chidingly. But the girl turned swiftly and left the room, waving back the older woman, who started to follow her. Something like a smothered sob sounded as the door closed behind her.

Mrs. Brevort looked rather angry for a moment. Then she recovered her usual composure and smiled. But there was something distinctly unpleasant in that smile.

She glanced at the bronze clock ticking unobtrusively on the mantel. It pointed to half after 3. She went to a desk near the front window and from a drawer drew out a bundle of letters. They were all directed in the same hand—Peggy's hand. And they were all addressed to Mr. William Hale, at some outlandish Spanish sounding town in Ecuador, South America.

Mrs. Brevort smiled again. It had cost her a pretty penny to circumvent the mailing of those letters, but there are many itching palms in Rome, and what good money will not accomplish, if it is judiciously placed, is not worth accomplishing.

An open fire burned dully in the grate beneath the mantel. Mrs. Brevort stepped briskly over to it and fed the bundle of letters to the flames. She watched grimly until there was nothing left of them save a few gray white ashes.

Then from another drawer she took out another bundle of letters. They were thick letters, all of them. The sprawling superscriptions were all for Peggy, and they were postmarked with the name of the Spanish town in Ecuador.

Other itching Roman palms had been soothed in the conventional way to bring those epistles into Mrs. Brevort's possession.

These, too, she consigned to the grate, watched them burn and then arrayed herself for her appointment with the duke.

At precisely 4 he came in the road car. She descended the stairs, greeted him effusively, and together they whirled off toward the aqueduct.

Scarcely had Mrs. Brevort taken her departure when there came to the hotel a brisk, broad shouldered young man. Unmistakably he was American, and unmistakably he had been enduring recently all the discomforts of continental travel when such travel necessitates haste.

He glanced at the register, saw thereon a certain name and heaved a mighty sigh of relief, but even as he searched his pockets for his cardcase the owner of the name that had caused his recent sigh came tripping down the stairs arrayed for a walk through the autumn streets, and, turning around, the young man stood staring open mouthed at Peggy in all her glory.

The girl's eyes, too, lighted suddenly. She gave a little gasp of surprise. In an instant the young man was beside her, and both her hands were in his own.

"Peggy, Peggy!" he was saying breathlessly.

"Billy," she was saying in a low, shaken voice, "where on earth did you come from?"

In a masterful manner he led her to the street. Once outside they both began talking as fast as they could.

"Not a word from you all this time," he declared, "not one single, solitary word. I couldn't stand it any longer. I left the bridge building down there and my chances for eternal fame and fortune with it, all in the hands of Johnson, and came over here to learn the worst. I even had to cable north to Daniels to find out where you were."

"Billy, what do you mean?" she asked in unbelief. "I have written and written and never had one single answer from you."

"Eh? What's this?" said he. "I've written every day of my life. You haven't got them?" His eyes grew suddenly dark. "Where's that precious aunt of yours?"

And suddenly Peggy remembered in the midst of her new found happiness just where her aunt was.

"Oh, heavens, Billy!" she said. "Why didn't you come before?"

"Why?"

"Why?" she repeated. "Why, indeed! Aunt Elinor is out motoring this afternoon with the Duke of Selena. She has gone with him to tell him I'll marry him. I thought—I thought—when you were silent—when I didn't hear from you"—

His teeth came together with a click. He faced her there in the Roman street, with the Roman sunshine flooding it with mellow warmth.

"To tell him you'll marry him!" he repeated. "Peggy, you're not going to, are you?"

She looked at him archly. "It's the only offer I've had recently," she said in mocking happiness.

"You'll have another right away," said he, with determination, "one that I dare you to turn down," he added, with a boyish laugh.

"But the duke," she said breathlessly. "I'm probably engaged to him by this time. Aunt Elinor wastes no time."

"I'll attend to the duke and your aunt, too," said he grimly. "What time will they return?"

"Almost any minute now," said she. "Come, let's go back. We mustn't miss them, must we, Billy?"

A Grateful Boy.

A gift always opens the door of an Eskimo heart, declares Knud Rasmussen in "The People of the Polar North," and then tells the story of a little orphan boy whom he ran across in his travels.

I had a little pocketknife in my pocket, and I presented it to him in order to establish our acquaintance.

It was assuredly the first time in his life that the boy had ever had such an experience as to receive a present. I assured him that I really meant it. Then, without a change of expression, he snatched the knife out of my hand and ran off. I did not think that I should see any more of him and was just going into our tent when he came running up with a piece of walrus meat, which he pressed into my hand.

"Thou gavest, see; I give, too," said he, and his face shone with grease and pride. But from that day forth we were friends.

Kajoranguaq had no relatives at all to look after him. He was everybody's drudge and slept in an old ruined building, where he said he was very comfortable. He could not have been more than ten years old at the outside, although there was little of the child about him, but after he came to live in our tent we noticed that he began to sing when alone, and after awhile he would beat time to his singing on a little tin box, so in spite of a life of neglect he got a little joy now and then.

An Essay on Man.

Man that is born of woman is small potatoes and few in a hill. He rises up today and flourishes like a ragweed, and tomorrow or next day the undertaker hath him. He goeth forth in the morning warbling like a lark and is knocked out in one round and two seconds. In the midst of life he is in debt, and the tax collector pursues him wherever he goeth. The banister of life is full of splinters, and he slideth down with considerable rapidity. He cometh home at eventide and meeteth the wheelbarrow in his path. It riseth up and smiteth him to the earth and falleth upon him and runneth one of its legs into his ear. In the gentle springtime he putteth on his summer clothes, and a blizzard striketh him far from home and filleth him with cuss words and rheumatism. He buyeth a watchdog, and when he cometh home from the club the watchdog treeth him and sitteth near him until rosy morn. He goeth to the race course and betteth his money on the brown mare, and the bay gelding with a blaze face winneth. He marrieth a red headed heiress with a wart on her nose, and the next day the parent ancestor goeth under with a crash and great liabilities and cometh home to live with his beloved son-in-law.

those present, and valuable points were brought out.

Judge Avery, City Solicitor McAnarney, T. J. Carey and others asked questions and these were answered clearly by Mr. Ryan and Mr. Devlin.

Altogether it was an afternoon well spent and a treat that one seldom gets.

ATLANTIC

Mr. and Mrs. Williams Ward Whitcher of Webster street entertained at dinner at hotel Essex, Boston, Saturday evening, Mrs. Alfred Chester Coursens and daughter Miss Marion Coursens, who gave the delightful Shakespearean musical monologue at Atlantic Music hall in the afternoon under the auspices of the Shakespeare society, of which Mrs. Whitcher is president.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Memorial Congregational church have begun their series of sociables, with Mr. Walter Nichols as chairman of the social committee, holding their first one Saturday evening, March 13th. There is a lack of enthusiasm as far as work is concerned for the C. E. but if such a crowd turn out every time for the socials it is hoped that more may be accomplished in promoting C. E. work. Refreshments were served after numerous games and Mr. Nichols together with his committee feel sure that it was a grand success.

Mrs. John Carver formerly of Atlantic but now of Dorchester has resigned from her position as director from Ward VI for the Quincy Hospital Aid Association. The position has been filled by Miss Maude Read of Squantum street who is to begin her collections soon and it is desired that every one have their pledges ready.

DOWNS AND PARK

George E. Brown of Willow street, who for several months has been employed as foreman of the inspection department in the B. & R. rubber factory at North Brookfield, has resigned his position there to accept a better one in Boston.

Ruthie Coldwell of Marlboro street was tendered a surprise party by several of her little friends on Friday evening. Games were played and refreshments served.

Miss Marion B. Tuttle of Everett is the guest of Miss Edna Fowler of Phillips street.

Rehearsals are in progress for the play to be given in Quincy by the Park and Downs Congregational church in April.

The first practice of the new basebase ball team of the Excelsus class of the Park and Downs Congregational church was held in Merrymount park on Saturday afternoon. About eleven fellows were out. Games have been secured with other church teams in Quincy and vicinity and a schedule of games will be out next week. Guy Sass is captain of the team and Warren Humphrey its manager.

TODAY'S COURT.

Luigi Gaccimo was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Case continued until Friday.

Ambrose Bertoni was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

John Golgos was sentenced to six months in the house of Correction for assault at Weymouth.

Flora Ryder was arraigned for keeping a disorderly house at Quincy. Case continued until Friday.

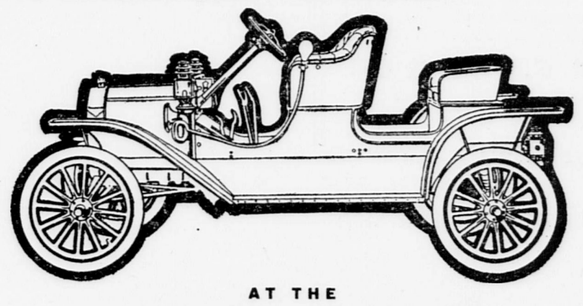

Patrick H. Shea was fined $5 and Michael O'Connell $10 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

William Hadder was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

FUNERALS.

Martin J. Lennon.

Martin J. Lennon, 53, was buried Sunday afternoon from his late home 59 Centre street. Services were held in St. John's church at 2 o'clock by Rev. John J. Casey. The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Randolph.

The bearers were Patrick Dricoll, Peter Manning, Patrick Fay, Michael Cunniff, Robert Smith and John Martin.

This morning at 7.30, a requiem high mass was sung for the repose of the soul of Mr. Lennon. Rev. John J. Coan celebrated the mass, and the regular choir sang, with John Mahon at the organ.

Mr. Lennon was born in Arlington and has lived in Quincy for 30 years. He was well known as a carpenter and builder, especially of churches all over the state and particularly of St. John's church this city. He leaves three sons and two daughters, Martin Lennon of Milford, John J. Lennon, Edward Q. Lennon, Mrs. Katherine Flynn of Hampton and Margaret A. Lennon.

Miss Ellen Welch.

The funeral of Miss Ellen Welch was held this morning from the home of her niece Mrs. John H. Walsh of 133 Liberty street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. John's church, Rev. John J. Casey officiating.

John Mahon presided at the organ and the Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir. Miss Mary McConaty sung the Pie Jesu.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy. The bearers were John Murphy, James Murphy, John Buckley and James Manning.

Miss Welch came to America in 1863 and has lived in Quincy ever since. She is survived by one sister Mrs. Mary Cotter of Water street and by one niece Mrs. John H. Walsh.

John H. Rooney.

The funeral of John H. Rooney was held this morning from his late home on Bates avenue. Rev. William J. Duffy celebrated a requiem high mass at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's church. The regular choir, with Miss Rena Bizzozzero at the organ, sang the Gregorian mass.

The bearers were Michael Flaherty, Edward McDevitt, Edward O'Brien, Michael Sweeney, Thomas O'Neil and James F. Burke. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

WEYMOUTH.

Misses Olive J. Dowd and Helen Dwyer attended the Boston auto show Saturday.

About 75 attended the banquet at Lincoln hall Friday evening tendered the gentlemen by the ladies of the Universalist church. Edwin Mulready of Rockland State Probation officer was present and made an address. A club was organized with fifty members.

Rev. H. C. Alvord pastor of the Old South Congregational church preached at the First Baptist church Sunday in exchange with the pastor Rev. C. H. Carey.

The funeral of Mrs. Nellie Moore Wilson took place from the St. Francis Xavier church yesterday afternoon. The remains were taken to Avon for burial in the family lot. Mass was celebrated at the church this morning by Rev. Father Butler.

At the Congregational church Rev. F. B. McAllister of Cochasset preached in exchange with Rev. R. H. Cochrane.

Leo Bourke has been off duty this week on account of trouble with his feet caused by fallen arches.

Dr. and Mrs. George Perkins have both been confined to the house for a week past with severe attacks of the grip.

The members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Division No. 9, A. O. H. received communion in a body at the church of the Imaculate Conception yesterday morning.

Ralph Randall and family have gone to Jamestown, N. Y. where Mr. Randall will engage in business.

Rev. W. A. Dextrick of Peabody occupied the pulpit at the Pilgrim church yesterday in exchange with the pastor.

SOUTH QUINCY

A false alarm was sounded from Box 321 at 7.43 Sunday evening.

During the absence of Mr. Duncan Grassick who is at Rutland, his oil business is being carried on by his son Robert. "Bobby" is very smart and always ready to accommodate his patrons. He will have full charge of the business during his father's illness.

The many young people of the First Presbyterian church were glad to welcome at there meeting on Sunday Miss Minnie Miller, who has been confined to the house for several weeks, with a sprained ankle.

Chief Engineer Williams who has been under the weather is on deck again.

The traveling crane at the Quincy Adams freight yard is doing good service and there is practically no delay to the teamsters.

Louis Berman has been nominated as a delegate to the twenty-third annual convention of the Independent Order Brith Abraham to be held at Tamany hall, New York, May 9. He will represent Pride of Quincy lodge.

At a meeting held Sunday the "Adams Athletic Association" was formed and the following officers elected for the ensuing term. Peter Dackers, president; Richard Collins, recording secretary; Nelson Tinney, treasurer; Joseph Collins, base-ball manager; William Littlewood, physical director; Albert Smith, music master; Harrison Carson, inside guard. The association is to have a crack base-ball team and will be ready to meet all comers. The club-rooms are at 341 Water street.

GRANITE CITY CLUB BANQUET.

The Granite City club at its monthly meeting Saturday evening voted to hold its annual banquet and entertainment in Quincy this year. The event will probably take place Thursday evening, April 8. The banquet will be served at 7 o'clock and will be followed by an entertainment by a corps of entertainers from the Keith circuit.

SUBSTITUTE ORDER FOR NEW STEAMER REPORTED

Several Other Important Matters Acted Upon At Council Meeting.

A number of important matters were acted upon at Monday night's meeting of the City Council. There was considerable questioning of the manager of the Citizen's Gas Light Co., at the hearing on the petition of the company for permission to extend its mains. There was also considerable debate on the order for the purchase of a new steam fire engine. The order for the annual appropriations was reported and the orders increasing the number of permanent policemen and for a new steamer were passed, and a large number of new orders were offered.

Councilman Bishop was the only absent member.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was received from the Mayor calling attention to the advisability of disposing of the old Coddington school building.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Dr. Ross K. Whiton as inspector of milk. Placed on file.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing James Robbie as a weigher of coal. Confirmed.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing T. Willard Burke a constable. Confirmed.

PETITIONS.

A petition was received from the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles on Glendale road. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Petitions were received from the Telephone company for attachments on Adams street and Belmont street. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from the Old Colony street railway Co., for approval to operate a trolley freight on all lines in Quincy except on Randolph avenue between the Milton and Randolph lines. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received for the extension of Furnace avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Smith presented a petition for the acceptance of Barry's lane. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Richards presented a petition to put Brook road in good condition. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Several applications for minor licenses were received including one from Stephen E. Wilson for an auctioneers license. This was laid on the table until later in the evening when it was granted.

GAS MAINS.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on the petition of the Citizens Gas Co., to lay mains.

Mr. Nichols of the company appeared in favor.

In reply to questions by Councilman McDevitt Mr. Nichols said about 15 miles of main was laid in 1908. Men employed laying mains were paid $1.75 per day. The company had not been able to get all the men wanted in Quincy and had to employ outside help.

In reply to question by Councilman Whiton he said the company had expended $375,000 in improving the plant and bringing it up to date. The deficit of the company for the year ending June 30, 1908 was about $8,000 and the deficit for the seven months ending Feb. 1. 1909 was about $250. There was every indication that the company would soon be on a paying basis.

In reply to a question by Councilman Abele Mr. Nichols said the street lights for which $25 were charged burned every night and were on isolated streets and the $16.50 lights burned on the moonlight schedule.

In reply to Councilman Richards he said the charge for gas in Milton was 80 cents. In some ways he considered Quincy as good a field as Milton.

The company came to Quincy at the request of citizens to build up the old plant and put it on its feet. He thought the company should be entitled to a fair return for the money invested.

Councilman Gilson asked about the number of miles of mains laid in other years.

In reply to his question Mr. Nichols said he had never been authorized to make any rates in Quincy.

In reply to Councilman Gardner he said the President of the company had said as soon as the plant was on a paying basis the price would be reduced.

Councilman McDevitt appeared as a citizen in opposition.

Councilman Bryant raised the point of order that it was not the proper time for the Councilman to discuss it.

The president ruled that while perhaps not in good form the gentleman had a right to appear as a citizen.

Councilman McDevitt then spoke against granting the petition. It was not right, he said, for the company to employ outside help. There were four thousand unemployed men in Quincy. He also quoted other cities where $2 per day was paid and gas was sold for 80 cents.

Councilman Nowland asked if the speaker knew of any citizen who had been refused work.

Councilman McDevitt did not give any direct answer except to say it was hard for men to go looking for work.

Mr. Sodergren of Atlantic opposed because he had not been able to get his house connected.

The hearing was then closed.

Councilman McDevitt moved to lay the order on the table but later withdrew it. The order was then recommitted.

At 8 o'clock a public hearing was held on the petition of the Electric Light Co. to locate poles.

Supt. Austin appeared in favor and in reply to question said that the poles were already in by permission of the Commissioner. That the company had attachments to 3000 trees which had been made to protect the trees.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

A NEW STEAMER.

The Finance Committee reported a substitute order for $5,000 for the purchase of a new steamer and authorizing the Mayor to sell the old steamer.

Councilman Whiton moved to amend by making the amount $5300 that rubber tires might be had for the wheels.

A discussion followed on the merits and demerits of rubber tires.

Councilman Whiton argued that rubber tires were more economical and Councilman Bryant that as most of the streets were not paved that steel tires would be the best.

Chief Williams called before the Council said he favored rubber tires.

Councilman Gilson asked about repairs to the Wollaston truck and the Chief said that since the accident less than $25 had been expended on the rubber tires.

Councilman Cherrington favored the amendment. The Fire Committee had gone into the matter thoroughly. It seemed to him that it was for the Finance Committee to see if the city could afford to expend the money and not go into the question. If they did do that the fire committee might as well be abolished.

Councilman Freeman opposed the amendment.

Councilman Flynn believed from what he had learned that an engine with rubber tires could be purchased for $5000.

After some further discussion during which Councilmen Gardner, Abele, Whiton, Nowland and Bryant spoke the amendment was defeated.

The rules were then suspended and the order passed to be ordained, Councilman Bean voting no.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order appropriating $6,000 for the purchase of all the upland of the William Norteman farm at Houghs Neck for a school lot. Referred to Finance Committee.

MORE POLICEMEN.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment to the order increasing the number of permanent policemen. The amendment increases the force by one man instead of two. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Finance Committee reported the appropriation order which was read and ordered to a second reading. The order as reported appears in full on another page.

The same committee reported an order for a public hearing April 1, on petitions of the Telephone Co. for attachments. Adopted.

MOTIONS.

Councilman Walsh offered an order appropriating $3,800 to construct Quincy avenue from Water street to the state highway. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Abele offered an order for a granolithic sidewalk on the northerly side of Maple street and on the westerly side of Washington street from Temple street to the Federal building. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Flynn offered an order that all streets in Quincy retain their primative name and all others be changed. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman Abele by request offered an order to widen Maple street on the southerly side at its junction with Chestnut street. To Committee on Streets.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for an incandescent light on Centre street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Whiton offered an order requesting the Mayor to ascertain at what price the Zenas Arnold estate on Coddington street could be purchased. Adopted.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order requesting the Commissioner to report to the Council the cost of erecting a retaining wall on Willard street near the Corcoran estate and for two catch basins at the same place. Adopted.

Councilman Abele offered a resolve requesting the Mayor to furnish the Council with the following information:

Number of water services unmetered December 31, 1907.

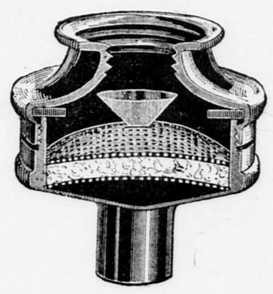

Number of such water services equipped with meters during the year ending December 31, 1908.

Number of water services installed during the year ending December 31, 1908, and whether or not these have all been equipped with meters. Adopted.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order that the Mayor petition the Gas

OLD VETERAN KILLED BY TRAIN

South Boston Man Steps In Front of Fast Express

On Monday, the outwardbound express train for Atlantic, leaving Boston at three twenty-seven P. M. instantly killed a man about two hundred and fifty feet north of the Swett street tower, South Boston. The man killed was Andrew Farrington, aged 65, of 146 West 9th street, South Boston. One shoe was gone, showing that Mr. Farrington had been thrown some distance. He was gathering kindling wood along the railroad tracks and when killed, had a bundle of wood on his back.

On account of curve Farrington evidently did not notice the rapidly approaching train until it was too late to save himself. Engineer George Fuller blew the whistle and set the brakes bringing the train to a sudden stop, but not in time to escape hitting the man.

Mr. Farrington was a verteran of the civil war and a member of Washington Post 32, G. A. R.

The railroad company takes every precaution to avoid such accidents. There is a law that persons caught walking upon railroad tracks may be arrested and either imprisoned or fined. The railroad company has tried to enforce this law, recently going so far as to hire private officers to patrol their tracks between Atlantic and Boston. This has been done not in order to show arbitrariness on the part of the railroad, but simply to protect the public, who do not seem, sometimes, to be able to protect themselves. Of course, therefore, the railroad company is not responsible for any such accident, as it was not due to any lack of care on the part of one of their engineers.

SALVATION ARMY CONCERT.

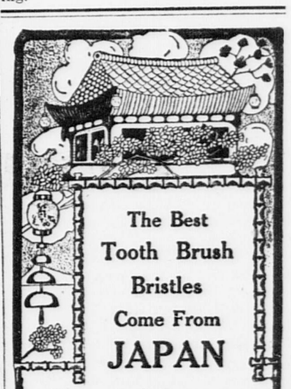

A song and music festival will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Swedish Salvation army hall on Granite street. Captain and Mrs. Henry Carlson of Cambridge will lead. An interesting program will be rendered, consisting of selection by the Cambridge Swedish corps string band under the leadership of Mrs. Carlson, music by a brass quartett, solos, duets and reading by Charles Stahl, the well known reader from Cambridge.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank McGinley and Henry Ubin were fined $10 each for drunkenness at Quincy.

Thomas Hockey was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until June 30.

The alarm from box 25, corner of Canal and Newcomb street this afternoon was for a slight fire on Newcomb street, caused by an oil stove exploding.

Office-seekers are discovering that President Taft can say "No."

Another victory for advertising. The army needs no more recruits.

In a little while, the African Villages will be expected to bestir themselves and appoint reception committees.

The manner in which the governors of various states met the horseback riding test in the parade would have delighted Mr. Roosevelt.

A "flare-back" is as good a name for an inauguration blizzard as any other in a community that confines itself to discreet language.

No doubt some of our more or less eminent statesmen look back on the past seven years as something in the nature of a horrible nightmare.

Mr. Taft's message was satisfying to many statesmen in the simple fact that it did not sound like the speech of a man who is looking for trouble.

Castro talks of returning to Venezuela to be a "simple private citizen." The chances are that he would be received as a malefactor of great wealth.

The Barre Times in commenting upon anonymous contributions, so frequently received by newspapers says, "There is so much, and, we might say such complete truth in what the Brattleboro Phoenix has to say about anonymous communications in the newspapers that we are tempted to print the following paragraph from the contemporary's editorial page:

"There are people of another class who consider knocking the main province of a newspaper. If a railing is needed somewhere on the highway, if a peevish dog has snapped at a neighbor's children, if the road commissioner has been derelict in his duty. If the physician has made a wrong diagnosis of a case, or the little political boss has been more intolerant than usual, the newspaper is urged to 'touch up' the people concerned. Very often the trouble which is magnified by the person with a grouch is not a proper subject for newspaper discussion, has only been heard from one side, and very often also the whole difficulty could be easily adjusted by a quiet attempt to reach an understanding and disagreeable feeling aroused by the publicity of an airing could be avoided."

"Then there is another side to this matter of anonymous contributions which The Times might touch upon at this time, and that is the cowardice of it. Nine times out of ten these communications would not be sent to newspapers if the writers thought their names would appear under them, for one reason because the subject matter of the articles contains something which the writer knows to be false or something which the writer has not the evidence at his command to support. So he resorts to an underhanded method of thrusting at an enemy when the latter is defenseless for the time-being. Another reason why nine-tenths of the communications would not be written if the signatures were to be printed with them is the sensitiveness of the writers to the public glare. Such people, we say, better not write communications. There may be, and probably are, other minor reasons why "Pro Bono Publico," "Constant Reader," etc., would go into their hole if they were asked to come out and fight man-fashion; but the two named above are the chief ones."

This matter of anonymous contributions is a serious one in the majority of newspaper offices, and the average editor refuses to publish any letters or articles, which fail to bear the writer's signature. Sometimes this is a hard thing to do, as quite often the letters contain much, that is interesting, and the editor would like to publish them if they were properly signed.

WHAT IS HEM-ROID?

A Tablet, Taken Internally, That Cures Piles.

Piles (hemorrhoids) are getting more common ever yday, because we live unnaturally, overeating, overworking, taking little exercise, gradually causing a deadening of veins and tissues in the lower bowel. Blood stagnation is the cause of piles, and a condition that can't be permanently cured with ointments.

BRIEFS

There are signs of spring for the Sunday ball playing has begun in Belleview Park.

Alvah Glover Salmon gives a recital of Russian music tonight at First church chapel.

Fragment society of First church holds an all day session in the church parlor tomorrow beginning at ten o'clock, with a box luncheon at noon.

Harry A. Sutherland of Columbia road, Dorchester, spent Saturday and Mr. William D. Grant of Boston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Olin A. Holbrook.

It is said that Mr. Charles H. Johnson is meeting with good success at the Bijou theatre, Boston, where he is giving this week his illustrated talk on Historic Quincy.

Rev. Charles H. Mockridge, D. D., preaches at both services on Wednesday at St. Chrysostom's church. Mr. Mockridge did many years successful work in Detroit and has now retired from regular ministeral labor.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Young of Elliot avenue entertained Chester Young and four children of Wollaston, the Misses Nellie F. and Gertrude A. Young, Mr. Ralph and Warren Rogers of Brighton, also Zenas Taylor of Hyde Park, over Sunday.

The lumber camp which was in the woods between Quincy and Milton was broken up on Sunday. The workmen spent all day Sunday going back and forth moving the portable building and tools and getting things in readiness to be left for the season. There is certainly too much of this general Sabbath breaking in our city.

Some time ago the Wollaston Land Company sold all of their standing timber. Work was begun at once at cutting and now there is a large clearing between Quincy and Milton. However there is much timber left standing which will probably be cut next winter. This entire tract of woodland burned for more than a week last fall which also helped to make a clearing. Doubtless before many years building will begin in this district.

QUINCY KNIGHTS LAND ONE EVENT

Second Series of K. C. Tournaments Goes to Weymouth

In the second of a series of tournaments between the Quincy and Weymouth Councils, Knights of Columbus, held in Weymouth, Monday night, the Quincy teams captured only one of the events which included cribbage, checkers, forty five, pitch, whist and pool. Whist was the only game won by Quincy.

This gave the evening's tournament to Weymouth by a score of 5 to 1, which gives them a lead of 7 to 5 in the totals. By a misunderstanding last Thursday night in the first meeting, it was given out that Weymouth won 6 to 4, but on a reconsideration it was agreed that Quincy won 3 to 2. The whist tie of last week was played off Monday night and Quincy won, adding one point to their score.

This gives last week's meet to Quincy 4 to 2. The method of scoring adopted Monday night is to count one point for each event won. Thus as Weymouth won five Monday night she gets five points, to one for Quincy who took one event.

As usual the pool match attracted the most attention. Last week Quincy won 131 to 122, but Monday night it was different, all three Weymouth men beating their opponents and winning 150 to 121. White of Quincy and McCarthy of Weymouth were the first pair to play and the Weymouth man came home with the long end of a 50 to 44 score.

Keating of Quincy and Leary of Weymouth were next and "Joe" could only get 40 while Leary was getting 50. This gave Weymouth a lead of sixteen balls, when McMaster of Quincy started Sullivan of Weymouth. In their first meeting Leo put it onto Sullivan, but Monday night Leo got beat 50 to 37, not playing his usual steady game. This last was true also of White and Keating.

The result of the other games follows:

Whist—DeCoste and Heaney (Q) beat L. Meuse and Lonergan (W) 26 to 23. Kelley and Moynihan (Q) beat White and A. Meuse (W) 25 to 15. Total, Quincy 51, Weymouth 38.

Checkers—Butler (W) beat Durant (Q) 9 to 0. H. Meuse (W) beat C. Keating 4 to 1. Total, Weymouth 13, Quincy 1.

Cribbage — Borden and Grant (W) beat Ford and Parker (Q) 7 to 1.

Pitch—Gallant and Smith (W) beat Magee and Sullivan (Q) 3 to 1.

Forty five—Conathon and Lamer (W) beat Cunniff and Mahoney (Q) 13 to 11. McIntosh and Madigan (W) beat Lynch and Barrett (Q) 15 to 10. Total Weymouth 28, Quincy 21,

The score by points:

	Quincy	Weymouth
Whist	1	0
Cribbage	0	1
Checkers	0	1
Forty Five	0	1
Pitch	0	1
Pool	0	1
	1	5

Next Monday the tournament will be continued, the same teams meeting at the Quincy club.

—A strong fight, says the Boston Transcript, will be made at Albany over an amendment to the bills passed last year for the protection of the wild birds of the State. The opposing forces are two big millinery and feather dealers' associations on the one hand and defenders of bird life on the other, including Professor Forbush and Dr. Theodore S. Palmer, who are regarded as the strong cards for the amendment. This provides that no part of the plumage, skin or body of any bird now protected by the law shall be sold or had in possession for sale, "irrespective of whether said bird was captured or killed within or without the State." Unless the law is thus strengthened, it will not accomplish its purpose, since it is very easy so to treat native birds as to give them the appearance of the imported article. The commercial bodies that protest say that the proposed action would wreck a great and growing industry that employs many thousand persons. That is the trouble. It is too "great and growing."

DAYS OF DIZZINESS

Come to Hundreds of Quincy People.

There are days of dizziness;
Spells of headache, sideache, backache;
Sometimes rheumatic pains;
Often urinary disorders.
All tell you plainly the kidneys are sick.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Here is proof in Quincy.

Mrs. George L. Mott, living at 99 North street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for entertaining a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint, after everything I tried had failed to help me. Prior to using this remedy I was troubled a great deal with headaches and dizzy spells, which were so severe at times that I would have to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My eyesight was affected and spots would seem to float before me. My back also greatly annoyed me. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Cox drug store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing, I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pils with equally good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

CHANCE FOR H. S. SCHOLARS.

Old Colony Street Railway Co., Offers Prize For Best Cover Design.

Letters have been received by the Principal and drawing teacher of the High School from H. A. Faulkner, Passenger Agent of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony Street Railway Co.'s, in which he offers in behalf of the Companies to pay $25 for the best design submitted by a pupil of the school, suitable for use on the covers of folders advertising trolly trips issued by this department. The sum of $5 will also be paid for other designs of which use may be made at any time later.

The details of the offer are contained in the following letter:

March 15, 1909.

To the Principal of the High School,

Dear Sir:—From time to time the Passenger Department of the Boston & Northern and Old Colony St. Ry. Co.'s is continually issuing advertising folders descriptive of the trips upon these lines. These require special designs upon the covers. It is always possible to secure plenty of these from professional artists, but it occurred to me that several good purpose could be served if we could interest in this matter the pupils in the drawing classes, or others having artistic talent in the High Schools.

To this end we are willing to offer a prize for the best design furnished by a pupil of the High Schools of our districts and contiguous territory. For what we consider the most adapted for our uses we will pay $25. For any other designs submitted of which we make use at any time later either as a whole as submitted or for the idea contained, we will pay $5.

Design should be drawn for use on a folder, the up and down dimensions of which are 73-4 inches with a width of 4 1-4 inches and should be drawn either this size or larger in the same proportion so that they could be reduced to this size, preferably larger. The designs should be in two colors, any two colors.

The originality and adaptability of the idea or suggestion in the sketch for our purposes of advertising trolley trips will count largely in the judgment, although these points being equal, of course preference would be given the most artistically executed work. One pupil might have a very bright and original idea and not be able to execute it quite as effectively as another who could make a very artistic finished sketch of an idea that was much less new and adaptable. What I wish to impress is that all points will be considered and no pupil need hesitate to submit a sketch merely because of not being quite so far advanced in technique as another.

Sketches for this competition should be submitted to the Passenger Agent, Boston and Northern & Old Colony St. Ry. Co.'s by April 5th. It seems to me that this should serve to put to practical use the instruction being received by your pupils and tend to stimulate strongly the interest felt by them in this branch of study. Therefore I ask for your co-operation and trust that you will present this offer to your pupils.

Thanking you in advance, I remain,
Sincerely yours,
H. A. Faulkner,
Passenger Agent.

MRS. JULIA T. PIERCE.

The funeral of Mrs. Julia T. Pierce, wife of Frank P. Pierce, was held this morning from her late home on Water street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. John's church by Rev. John J. Coan. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, John Mahon presiding at the organ. Miss Mary McConaty sang the "Pie Jesu" and John Mahon the "Domine Jesu."

Only the immediate family attended, as the funeral was private. There were a large number of floral tributes.

The pall bearers were Michael Hartrey, John Ford, James Cantfill, Thomas Shea, John Mead and Edward McGinty.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Mrs. Pierce was the daughter of Cornelius Moynihan, one of Quincy's oldest and best known residents, and a member of the board of registrars for many years.

Humor and Philosophy

DEVELOPS HIS CAUTION.

In China when the banker man,
By very pressing debts assailed,
Shuts up the bank and says, "Alas,
I'm sorry, but the bank has failed,"
They lead the banker to the block,
And then they settle up the score
By cutting off his head, and so
He cannot use it any more.

They do not stop to try the case.
They think it makes the matter worse
To let the lawyers wag their chins
And talk around the universe.
With no appeals and no delays,
No waiting for a higher court,
They mend the matter then and there,
And he is shortly one head short.

The evidence before their eyes
They think will hold him for a spell.
As soon as he has closed the bank
The incident is closed as well.
They whistle, and the ax man comes
And sees at once the work in hand
And nicks the culprit in the neck
With all the force at his command.

It seems a crude and cruel way,
But we are told it works a cure.
He'll never break a bank again—
Of that they may be very sure.
The banker knows what they will do.
He doesn't like the headsman's stroke,
And so, in China, we are told,
He doesn't let the bank go broke.

A New Gardener.

"I want some garden seed."
"What kind?"
"Small ones."
"Small what?"
"Just for a small garden."
"But what do you want to raise?"
"A garden, of course. Think I ed to raise oil wells?"

Business Head.

"My wife went shopping today with $10."
"Did she bring any of it back?"
"Yes, $10."
"Marvelous!"
"It wasn't enough for a starter, so she had the goods sent up C. O. D."

Patriotic.

"Walter," said the man with the newly acquired million, "a bottle of wine."
"Yes, sir. Imported, sir?"
"I don't care just so it is home grown."

Informed.

"Pa!"
"Yes."
"What is a blessing?"
"Anything that you don't want or can't get."

Unprofitable.

"It is hard to be untruthful."
"Yes; I find it so—that is"—
"What?"
"With any degree of success."

Co. for a reduction in price of gas and that in laying its mains preference be given to the citizens of Quincy. Adopted.

Councilman Flynn offered an ordinance prohibiting regular patrolmen from doing police duty at private parties and public entertainments. Referred to Ordinance Committee.

Councilman Flynn offered an ordinance providing that in the absence of regular patrolmen their places be taken by men from the Reserve list in the order of their civil service rating.

After some discussion as to the right of the city to pass such an ordinance the order was referred to the Ordinance Committee.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for a cross walk on Bryant avenue. Referred to Committee on Strets.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until April 22.

Adjourned at 9.51.

MONEY AND HOUSEKEEPER GONE.

John Farran of Winter street reported to the police this morning that his housekeeper had left for parts unknown and that between $25 and $30 of his money was also gone.

Farran runs a boarding house and according to his story the housekeeper collected the board money Saturday and was told to pay the grocery bill.

Farran however says that the bill has not been paid and that both the woman and money are gone.

MRS. POTTER'S ADVICE.

Valuable Aids For Acquiring the New Directoire Figure.

"If you wish to acquire the directoire figure, as of course every up to date woman does, diet yourself, eliminating all starchy foods, pastries and sweets from your meals," says Mrs. James Brown Potter. "My advice to those who wish to become slender, though fat, is to tub daily.

"I am a great believer in the morning bath, not cold, but tepid, for, though it in itself will not reduce flesh, daily bathing tends to strengthen the constitution, and this is most desirable when trying to take off fat. When the circulation has been stimulated by the bath throw a warm dressing gown around yourself, stand in a well aired room and go through these exercises:

"Draw in the muscles of the abdomen, inhale a deep breath and raise your arms above your head until the thumbs meet, bending body backward as far as possible. Recover pose and as you exhale bring the arms down in a sweeping curve forward until the finger tips touch the floor. Repeat six times.

"With arms hanging limply from the shoulders bend the body sideways as far as possible, first to left and then to the right. Repeat ten times.

"With arms in the same position, feet planted firmly on the floor, twist the body as far as you can, turn it from right to left, and vice versa. This is especially good for reducing the hips. Repeat twenty times.

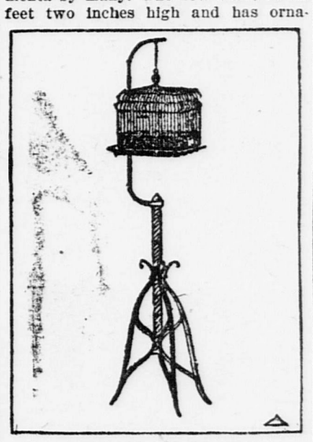

"Lie flat on your back, either on floor or couch. Without bending knees lift the legs till the feet are straight up, raising arms at the same time. Do this with the breath exhaled and inhale deeply as you lower them. Repeat six times.

"These exercises if consistently done both morning and evening will help any woman in acquiring the fashionable directoire figure."

STAND FOR BIRDCAGE.

A New and Useful Piece of Household Furniture.

A singing canary bird is considered an essential feature of many homes, so that the new invention in the shape of a cage stand will be regarded as a welcome piece of household impedimenta by many. The new stand is six feet two inches high and has ornamental wrought brass legs, forming a tripod with a spread of twenty inches, making it steady and unlikely to be upset by accident. The balance of the stand is made of brass tubing. A feature especially emphasized by the manufacturers is the fact that the stand may be entirely taken down for shipment, thus effecting a great saving in transportation charges.

NEW STAND FOR BIRDCAGE.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

A dainty corset bag can be made of white linen, with the top buttonholed in rather large scallops. Below the scallops work a row of long eyelets and through these run white ribbon in a twisted cord and tassels. The initials or monogram should be embroidered in white about the center of the bag.

Although it is almost impossible to draw wool through the eye of an ordinary needle, however large the latter may be, the needle can sometimes be threaded with fine wool if cotton is used as a "decoy." Both ends of a piece of cotton should be passed through the eye until only a short loop remains, the end of the wool being then run through the loop and the whole gently pulled through the eye of the needle.

Magazine covers are made from heavy linens and craftsman's canvas. For the postcard albums the latter fabric is preferred. Both materials can be had in a variety of colors, and an applique of cretonne is a popular form of decoration. Book covers in a cool gray linen adorned with a spray of purple orchids cut from cretonne are pretty, and so are those in terra cotta craftsman's canvas, displaying a swastika cross cut from cretonne in dull oriental colorings.

To make a dainty powder bag get a piece of thin flowered ribbon three-quarters of a yard long and about six inches wide. Cover a round disk about the size of the top of a tumbler with pink silk for the bottom of the bag and gather the ribbon to it and put a drawstring at the top. Place it in the powder puff. Next comes the clever idea of gluing to the bottom of the bag on the outside a small round mirror of exact size as the bottom of the bag; then cover the edge of the bag with a double ruffle of narrow ribbon, a narrow piece gathered through the center, and the lower ruffle will cover the edge of the glass, making a pretty finish.

GRANITE CUTTERS RETURN TO WORK

Trouble at Cameron Yard Satisfactorily Adjusted

A dark cloud is hanging over the granite industry and unless matters are speedily adjusted a lockout of the men is probable by the end of the week.

The trouble all arises over the strike of the union men employed at the yard of D. E. Cameron at South Quincy, or rather of the union men refusing to work at the Cameron yard with a man who was under discipline of the union.

It appears that some time recently Messrs. Cameron put a man to work as foreman who it is alleged was not only in arrears to the union for dues but had been fined which fine remains unpaid. Immediately there were mutterings of discontent. Then the man in question was admitted to the firm. When the union tried to collect of him the amounts due they were given the laugh.

Under rule 25 of the agreement between the Manufacturers and Union each association has a right to discipline its members. One of the methods of the union to discipline its members is to impose a fine for working with a non-union member. Thus it was in this case. If the men at Cameron's yard had continued to work with the man in question they would be fined. Rather than be fined they left work.

Then it was that the Granite Manufacturers' Association took up the matter and at a lively meeting, it is said, to have voted to give the Union until next Tuesday morning to order its men back at the Cameron yard or a lockout would be declared on all Association yards.

The trouble in this case is one that has been brewing for some time and that it has not come to a head before is somewhat of a surprise.

It has been a growing evil, encouraged by the jobbers in Boston, to get cutters to go into business for themselves. These men as a rule are those who have had trouble with their union and are men without financial standing. Once in business under their own name in some back yard they ignore the union and are as radical non-union men as can be found.

The union evidently has been trying to reach these men in some way but have not been able to up to the present time as they have been admitted to the Manufacturers Association and are to a certain extent protected.

In the strike at D. E. Cameron's yard however the matter has been brought to a head.

There are said to be many manufacturers who side with the Union in the stand that it has taken and in case a lockout is declared will refuse to lockout their men.

The man who is said to have been the cause of the trouble is Richard Clark. This morning it was said by Alexander Russell president of the union that Clark had paid his fine and that the men had returned to work.

There are still some matters remaining to be adjusted but they will probably be settled without further trouble. Cameron & Co., employed nine men.

CHILD'S BODY FOUND.

The body of a dead infant boy came ashore Tuesday night at Squantum and was found by Joe Coleman. The place where the body came ashore was near the end of the street car line. Coleman who lives near there saw a bag floating near the shore. He captured the floating bag which upon being opened was found to contain the body of a dead infant. There was nothing about it to tell where it came from. Medical Examiner Jones took charge of the body and will perform an autopsy.

SALMON RECITAL WELL ATTENDED

Noted Pianist Scores Triumph at First Church

One of the most enjoyable recitals of the winter was given by Alvah Glover Salmon of Boston at First church chapel Tuesday evening. The recital was held under the auspices of the Music committee of the Quincy Women's club, the proceeds to be used for the anti-tuberculosis work in Quincy.

The program was entirely Russian, and consisted of a lecture on Russia and her composers, followed by various compositions from the pens of representative Russian music writers.

Mr. Salmon is an authority on Russian music, having spent many years in Russia. He is an artist of exceptional ability and one whose equal is hard to find. His playing last night was remarkable and he was given a hearty reception.

Mr. Salmon was introduced by John D. Buckingham a former teacher and friend of the artist.

The music committee of the Women's club deserves a vote of thanks for giving Quincy people a chance to hear Mr. Salmon.

The following program was rendered:

Programme

Stcherbatcheff	Prologue Symphonique
Glinka	Fugue
Scriabine	Etude
Rimsky-Korsakoff	Romance

MRS. ABIGAIL A. SULLIVAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Abigail A. Sullivan, widow of Eugene Sullivan, was held this morning from her late home on Quincy avenue. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 10 o'clock in St. John's church by Rev. John J. Casey. The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir with John Mahon at the organ. Miss Mary McConarty sang the "Pie Jesu" and John Mahon the "Domine Jesu."

The bearers were Michael T. Sullivan, John Lyons, James H. Sullivan, Patrick Kelliher, Patrick Driscoll and Dennis Connolly.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

ANIMALS LOSE FAITHFUL FRIEND

George T. Angell Editor of Dumb Animals Dead

George Thorndyke Angell, who died at 2.05 yesterday morning in his apartments in the hotel Westminister, had been president of the Massachusetts society for the prevention of cruelty to animals for more than 40 years. His work in the cause of mercy, however, was international in its scope and had made him for years foremost in that field.

Mr. Angell who was born in Southbridge, June 5, 1823, was the only child of Rev. George Angell a Baptist clergyman of that place. His father died when he was but three years old, and his mother, who was the youngest daughter of Paul Thorndyke of Tewksbury supported her family by teaching school. When he was fourteen Mr. Angell went to Boston and entered a dry goods store on Hanover street. He remained there for two or three years, and was then sent to an academy in Meriden, N. H., to be fitted for college. He entered Brown University, in the autumn of 1842, but finding the expense there higher than he could afford, after a year's study, he left Providence and went to Hanover, N. H., entering Dartmouth. There he was graduated in 1846. He then returned to Boston, and for three years taught school and studied law. In 1851 he was admitted to the bar and entered the office of Samuel E. Sewall, with whom he subsequently formed a copartnership which continued for fourteen years.

Mr. Angell early became interested in the cause of animals, and as far back as 1846 he provided, by will, for the use of a considerable portion of his property, after his death, in "circulating in schools, Sunday schools and elswhere information calculated to prevent cruelty to them."

Early in 1868 he led actively in the formation of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. At that time he was enjoying a large and lucrative practice, but he substantially abandoned his profession and devoted his energies and the greater part of his time to his philanthropic work. The society was incorporated in March 1868.

From that time on until his death Mr. Angell has been actively engaged in his chosen work. As editor of "Our Dumb Animals" his name has become a household word from one end of the country to the other.

RIGHT LEG FRACTURED.

Walter Burke of Adams street had the misfortune Tuesday to fracture his right leg in two places. Mr. Burke was in a Boston office building and was going from one floor to another in an elevator, which was in charge of a green boy. In some way he got caught and before the car could be stopped his leg was fractured. He was hurried to the Emergency hospital, where the bones were set.

—That the teamsters of Greater Boston attach black rosettes to the harnesses of their horses on the day of Dr. Angell's funeral as a tribute to the work of the great humanitarian, is suggested by Dr. Charles T. Buck of 195 West Brookline street. At the headquarters of the Humane Society on Milk street it was learned that the exact date of the funeral of Dr. Angell had not yet been decided upon, though it will be held either Friday or Saturday.

HAS CASE CONTINUED.

Nellie Reagan Arraigned In Court on Larceny Charge.

Nellie Reagan, housekeeper for John Fassen of Winter street, who disappeared at the same time $29 of his money did, was arrested in Charlestown Tuesday by Inspector McKay on a warrant charging her with larceny.

She was arraigned in court this morning. She claimed that she took no money belonging to Fassen, that she was to receive $5 a week for her services and that the money she took was due her for services rendered. The court continued the case until March 24 and then turned it over to the Probation officer for adjustment.

All Honor to Erin.

Counting individuals and not administrations, Taft is the twenty-sixth President of the United States.

It will soon be time for the Assessors to begin their annual rounds of the city, noting improvements and new buildings.

A noiseless typewriter is to be manufactured in the East. That ought to fill a long felt want. Now let them invent one that doesn't chew gum.

Most people thought that they had seen the last of snow this winter and were somewhat surprised to find the ground covered with a white mantle this morning.

Mr. Bellamy Storer called at the White House on Sunday last. Incidentally, we presume, he opened the door of hope to his fellow-members of the Ananias club.

A grave and solemn Congressman recently expatiated at some length in the House anent "The law of the jungle." How hard it was for some of them to keep the former President off their minds.

President Taft gets the whole $75,000 per year without having to ride around on the tail end of a railroad train to rake in the extra twenty-five.

He was elected to lead the progressives, and that is what he will do.

By the death of George T. Angell, president of the American Humane Society and of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals,the United States has lost one of its most active and sincere philanthropists.

As a friend and lover of animals the name of George T. Angell has been a household word for more than a decade, not only in Massachusetts, where he lived and died, but throughout the entire country.

Many an animal has escaped cruelty and many a child has been taught "Kindness to animals" through the kindly and sympathetic writings of this kind and lovable old man.

Several times recently the Daily Ledger has printed communications from its readers, and editorials bearing upon the subject of the trolley express, the benefits and advantages which have come to other sections on the Old Colony St. Ry. company's system. It has taken the position that if the service is good for the other sections in which it is operated, as it would seem, Quincy should have it and has stated that it believes the majority of the thinking citizenship of the city favored it.

Apparently feeling that the Ledger is a true barometer in the indication of the majority sentiment of the people of the district in which it circulates, and the majority of the people, who have at heart the greatest good of the city of Quincy, the Old Colony St. Ry. Co. has taken action toward the desired end by presenting to the City Council Monday night a petition asking for the grant of a franchise giving permission for the operation of the trolley express service here.

It is generally conceded, in the districts where the service is now carried on, that it has brought to those districts nothing but benefits, shipping facilities such as they never before enjoyed. Why is it not fair to assume that this will be true to an even greater degree in the case of Quincy, with its large tributary territory and its peculiar location? Quincy needs new industries, more retail business, better shipping facilities (which directly or indirectly bear very heavily upon the two former wants) it needs many things to make it prosper, even more than it has in the past. Testimony from other places would seem to indicate that these things follow, to a large extent, the advent of the trolley express. Why should we not have them?

However, in this as in the granting of all franchises for public utilities, the greatest care should be exercised. The city's welfare and its future should not be forgotten, but most zealously guarded. The people of a city have their rights and no more. A public service corporation has its rights just as great, and no more. Justice should be done both and it can be done to the mutual benefit of all. This matter stands by itself alone and should be judged by its own merits alone, all other issues being cast aside.

This petition should be carefully, calmly and dispassionately considered. Fair judgment, keeping ever in mind only what is for the best interests of the city, should be used. If, after this, it is believed to be good, there should be no delay. Favorable action should be taken at once. If it is good the welfare of the city demands this action, that it may be in a position to reap all the advantage that possibly can come to it at the earliest possible moment, that there may be no hindrance to our city's progress.

It is now directly up to the City Council. Let them act wisely and well.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

If inauguration day is to be put in the neighborhood of the first of May, why not by the same stroke put election day in March or April? The inclemency of March is no serious objection to holding election then.

People do not have to march in procession to the polls over a long route exposed to the weather. Possibly in some country regions the state of the roads would be too bad in March. But if election were held in February and inauguration in May it would still be nearer than election in November is to inauguration in March.

The chances are that there would be no objection on account of roads to election early in March, thus having two months between election and inauguration instead of the present. The campaign could then be conducted while the leaders of opinion are at home instead of wandering over Europe or rural America.—Haverhill Gazette.

When Congressman Gardner told President Taft, speaking of the movement for new rules and the unseating of Speaker Cannon, that "this is a revolt," the President quietly asked him "What is the duty of the President in case of revolt?" The question was a brief statement of the attitude of the President, an announcement that he would take no part in it, and that it might be his duty to put it down. This was a hard blow to the leader of the revolt, especially when his work for Taft a year ago is recalled. It shows that a candidate is one thing and an elected official quite another. The President is committed to tariff revision. He cannot get it with a divided party and an unfriendly Speaker. Privately he might prefer another man in the chair, as we have no doubt that he does, but taking things as they are he must stand by the Speaker. If the insurgents succeed in securing a compromise, so that they will defer further demonstration against the rules until December, they will accomplish as much as they could expect under existing conditions. The President wishes to avoid the unpleasantness that existed between Roosevelt and Congress, and he will do nothing that will cause the members to organize against him. It is to be regretted that he is placed so that he must keep the peace, for the country is really suffering under the arbitrary rule of one man who happens to be Speaker because Congressmen are afraid to offend him.—Lynn Item.

The British government commission which has been investigating the use of opium in the Straits Settlements has issued a mischievous and misleading report, if that report is correctly reported in the London despatches. This statement from a lay and inexpert point of view can fairly and not impertinently be made, in view of the fact that it is unnecessary to question the commission report's assertions of facts in order to reach the conclusion that the report is evil.

"With the exception of those medical practitioners who hold views strongly opposed to opium," say the commissioners in their report, which was issued last week, "the medical witnesses are practically unanimous that the practice in moderation is relatively harmless. The great majority of evils alleged to result from the habit are applicable only in the cases of opium sots and smokers who indulge to an extent comparable to the habitual drunkard's indulgence in alcohol."

We prefer to pay respect to the wisdom of those forces which inspired the Chinese imperial edict against the use of and traffic in opium rather than to this British commission. For (it is an unfortunate fact) the use of opium, like indulgence in most habits, almost inevitably breeds excess. And, which is the point of the matter, excessive use of opium causes evils beside which the evils of intemperance in the use of alcohol are not to be compared.

Alcoholic excess breeds a sufficiently terrifying brood of horror, to be sure, but medical testimony—unprejudiced medical testimony—is to the effect that the depths of opium excess are almost unmeasurable. The commissioners' conclusion that, "in view of these facts," the evils of opium smoking are not sufficient to justify legislative interference with the traffic in the Straits Settlements, is manifestly false.

This extraordinary and menacing attitude is to be expected in the course of investigation of the opium problem, but it is displeasing to encounter it under the seal of a British government commission.—Boston Advertiser.

THIEVING STUDENT SEIZED BY MOB

Treated to an Icy Plunge and Run Out of City

Morgantown, W. Va., March 17.—After his rooms had been searched and a number of articles said to have been stolen from other students had been discovered, Ralph McCune, a student in the West Virginia university, was seized by a mob of more than 400 students as he was being taken to jail and ducked in the icy waters of the Monongahela river.

The mob, augmented by a force of at least 100 more students, then dragged the youth from the river and took him to Central square, where he was placed on an impromptu platform. After this he was ordered to leave the city on the next train. He obeyed.

JEALOUS WOMAN'S DEED

Kills Her Infant Daughter and Tries to Take Her Own Life

Bangor, Me., March 17.—Mrs. Claude H. Hutchinson cut the throat of her 4 months old daughter at their home here and then attempted suicide by drinking poison.

The overdose of the poison taken by the woman acted as its own emetic and Mrs. Hutchinson recovered consciousness soon after being discovered.

Mrs. Hutchinson had also made an ineffectual attempt to cut her own throat and is now under police guard at her own home. Before killing her child she left a note in which she stated that she had decided to end her life and the baby's because of her husband's attentions to another woman.

Hutchinson is a moulder and is 40 years old, while his wife is 27.

WOMEN LOWER RECORD

Drop Pins In Lively Manner at International Bowling Tournament

Pittsburg, March 17.—Another world's bowling record for women was broken at Tuesday's session of the ninth international tournament of the American bowling congress by Mrs. M. Kern and her daughter, Miss Bertie, of St. Louis, who in the double events rolled 1024, breaking the score of 964 made by Mrs. Bull and Mrs. Ross Kopf at Cincinnati last year.

A. C. Jellison and H. B. Sanders, both of St. Louis, rolled off a tie for the gold medal offered by the American bowling congress to the man making a perfect score during the year on an alley recognized and sanctioned by the congress. Jellison won with a score of 515. Sanders' figures were 442 and he received a silver medal.

IRISHMEN'S GREAT DAY

Parade In New York Participated In by Many Thousands

New York, March 17.—To the music of scores of bands playing Irish airs thousands of descendants of Irishmen marched today in the big St. Patrick's day parade in this city.

Today's procession was the biggest Irish parade in the history of the city and was unusually imposing. The men making up the giant column marched up Fifth avenue eight abreast, instead of four abreast as in former years. The result was a more compact formation and better time, adding much to the enjoyment of the thousands of men, women and children gathered along the route of the parade. The procession ended at a large uptown hall in which the annual St. Patrick's day ball will be held tonight.

Italian Colony Scared

Middletown, N. Y., March 17.—The local Italian colony has become much alarmed over reports that the Black Hand intends to harm several witnesses in important Italian murder cases which are to come up for trial here soon. The relatives of several of the threatened ones have appealed to the police for special protection.

Vagaries of a Cold.

You can never be quite sure where a cold is going to hit you. In the fall and winter it may settle in the bowels, producing severe pain. In the summer it may give you colic with diarrhoea or summer complaint. Do not be alarmed nor torment yourself with fears of appendicitis or inflammation of the bowels. At the first sign of the pain or cramp take Perry Davis' Painkiller in warm, sweetened water and relief will come at once. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. It is now put up in a large 35c size as well as the regular 50c. size.

WEYMOUTH.

An all day meeting of the Congregational churches of Weymouth, North, East and South Weymouth, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham and Rockland was held at the Union Congregational church Tuesday. Each of the churches were represented by the pastor and delegates. The meeting was one of 200 of the kind that are to be held in the Congregational centres throughout the United States, for the purpose of deciding upon some more equitable plan for distributing the funds donated to the seven benevolent societies connected with the Congregational churches, which include the American Board, Congregational Home Missionary society, American Missionary Association, the Church Building Society, the Congregational Education Society, the Sunday school and Publishing Society and the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief.

The morning session was attended only by the pastors and delegates, and was presided over by Rev. James L. Barton, D. D. Foreign secretary, A. B. C. F. M. The afternoon session was open to the public, and included addresses by Rev. H. H. Proctor, D. D., pastor of Congregational church, Atlanta, Georgia.

Rev. J. L. Barton, D. D. Foreign Secretary, A. B. C. F. M.

Rev. Lorin S. Yates, Missionary in India.

Rev. Charles Hartwell, Secretary Maine H. M. S.

Rev. R. B. Guild, N. E. Secretary C. C. B. S. and Rev G. H. Gutterson Eastern secretary, A. M. A.

Supper was served the visitors in the chapel.

At the evening session there were addresses by Rev. Proctor, Guild, Gates and others.

Rev. Robert H. Cochrane pastor of the Union Congregational church was unable to attend being confined to the house with an attack of the grip.

The funeral of Benjamin Kirton took place Tuesday afternoon from his late residence on Liberty street, East Braintree. Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity church, Weymouth conducted the service. The interment was at South Braintree cemetery. Mr. Kirton had been ill for several months. He leaves a widow and three daughters Magarett, Rhoda and Merle Kirton.

Mrs. John M. Nash and Miss Alice M. Nash have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Walsh, Upland road, Quincy.

FORE RIVER NOTES.

At noon Tuesday a prairie fire on a small scale started in the fields on Howard avenue opposite the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company. It was thought at one time that it would be necessary to ring in the fire alarm when the stable in the rear of the residence of Mr. Nay was discovered on fire, but owing to the presence of mind and hard work of Perry Green, the Quincy Point florist, the fire was extinguished with but little damage.

Workingmen's tickets are accepted on trains leaving Quincy at 5.29, 6.16 and 6.52 P. M. Monday to Friday inclusive; 12.13, 1.13, and 1.43 P. M. trains on Saturday.

The annealing plant, a high structure in the upper part of the yard is being re-covered with new corrugated sheet steel.

A large number of knives are being annealed and treated for the S. A. Woods Machine Co.

The Biesnaham Shoe Machinery Co., is having considerable work done at the yard.

Ten upper sections of coal hoppers have been manufactured for the Old Colony St. Ry. Co.

A rudder for the new battleship Utah is in process of construction at the shipyard.

Schooner William F. Green belonging to the Electric Boat Company has been caulked and painted.

Estimates and plans have been prepared for some 33 knot torpedo boat destroyers and 4300 ton cruisers.

A motor boat complete is being built at the shipyard for Mr. Arnold Scott.

Schooner Gardner E. Deering of Bath, Me., is discharging a coal cargo at the plant's coal wharf.

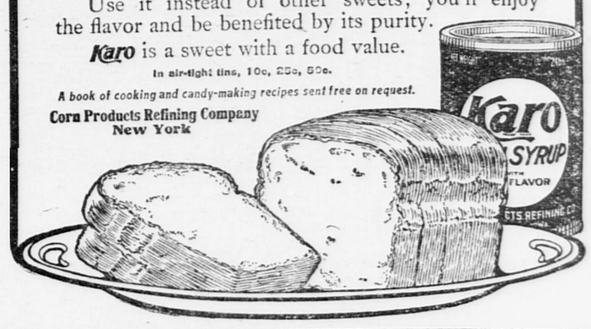

A number of large steel blocks for hoisting purposes have been made to the order of the Granite Railway Company.

Estimates are in preparation for submitting bids for the construction of a number of French cruisers and battleships.

UNEXPECTED LIGHT IS SHED

Great Britain's Supremacy on the Sea Is Threatened

GERMANY'S POWER TO BUILD

May Have Twenty-Five Dreadnoughts to England's Twenty In 1912—Balfour Thinks His Government Face to Face With New and Dangerous Naval Situation—"Small Navy Party" Given Something to Think Of London, March 17.—Dramatic revelations by Reginald McKenna, first lord of the admiralty, in parliament Tuesday, of Germany's extraordinary development in her capacity to build big battleships rapidly, seems likely to mark a crisis in Great Britain's naval history.

Quite certainly it will thoroughly arouse and alarm the country as to the possibility of England maintaining naval supremacy. Its effect was electrical.

Immediately the debate on the navy estimates was concluded, a hurried meeting was called of the members of the house representing the "small navy party," at which the situation thus unexpectedly revealed was anxiously debated. No decision was arrived at, but the speeches showed that little more will be heard of cheese-paring, so far as the navy is concerned. On the contrary, it seems that the government will be strongly urged by the majority of the members of their own party to make the "conditional" program for additional Dreadnoughts an absolute building program.

It becomes, as Mr. Balfour pointedly put it in Tuesday's speech, which greatly impressed the house, a question not of maintaining a two-power standard, but of maintaining a one-power standard in first class ships.

"I am forced," said Balfour, "to the conclusion that now, for the very first time in modern history, we are face to face with a naval situation so new and so dangerous that it is difficult for us to realize all its imports."

Mr. Balfour declared that according to his information, which he challenged McKenna to refute, Germany had laid down last year eight Dreadnoughts and that she was several months in advance of her program. If Germany continued at the same rate, he said, the relative position of the two nations in 1012 would be Great Britain twenty Dreadnoughts, Germany twenty-one, or if the Germans imitated Great Britain's policy of collecting materials and armaments beforehand, Germany would have twenty-five Dreadnoughts.

Mr. McKenna questioned these figures as being beyond Germany's constructive power, but Balfour retorted that it was difficult to discover what the Germans were doing.

"The safety of the country stands above all other sacrifices, and no matter what the cost, the safety of the country must be assured." This was the ground upon which McKenna justified the increase of nearly $15,000,000 in the naval estimates when they were introduced by him in the house of commons yesterday afternoon.

The sensation caused by the debate is reflected in all the editorials this morning, irrespective of party. The liberal organs make a feeble attempt to justify the government's program as adequate, but apparently with considerable misgiving.

The matter was warmly discussed in the lobbies of the house and the very general opinion was held that the government would be obliged in the autumn to introduce fresh estimates for one or two "conditional" Dreadnoughts.

PLACES UNION FIRST

National Laws of Secondary Importance to Would-Be Citizen

Danville, Ills., March 17.—Judge Wright of the federal court refused naturalization papers to William Strong of Westville, a member of the United Mine Workers of America. When asked "If it came to the point that the miners and the laws of the United States differed, which should you follow?" Strong answered, "The union, of course."

Judge Wright said: "I can never grant the right of citizenship in the United States to any man who follows the dictates of his trade union rather than the laws of our land."

Killed With Own Rifle

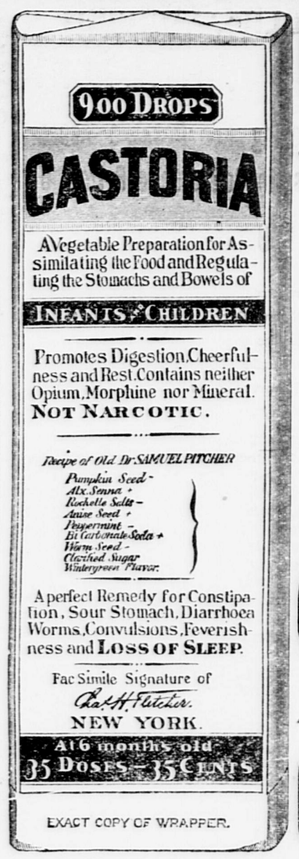

Newport, R. I., March 17.—The accidental discharge of his rifle while climbing a fence caused the death here of Frank Pinto, an Italian barber. The contents of the rifle tore off the top of Pinto's head. He was 32 years old.

A Ten Percent Reduction

Lebanon, Pa., March 17.—A general cut of 10 percent in wages in all departments of the Pennsylvania Steel company's plant at North Lebanon is announced for April 1.

Night Riders Again Busy

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 17.—Night Riders have resumed their lawlessness in Christian and Caldwell counties. Plants of farmers are being destroyed.

TIPS FOR THE LADIES

What They Must Wear to Be In Style the Coming Season

New York, March 17.—There were only two really new things shown at the first session of the Dressmakers' Protective association here. One was the "Style Clerical," a summer costume made to look as much like the French priests' robes as possible, with 500 buttons on it.

The other novelty was the "Moyen Age" gown. Several specimens of this were shown. The waist line in this model is "six inches above the knee, requiring corsets five inches longer than last year." Features of the "Moyen Age" are a separate hanging "pocket for pennies," suspended at one side, and a gigantic buckle of red and gold at the breast.

The favorite color for street wear next season is called "tea green." Then there is a new mustard shade known as "Khaki d'Or." In the pastel shades, the favorites will be "peach blossom," "cloud blue" and "cloud gray." Raw silks and a new diagonal crepe are to be the preferred materials.

UPRISING OF CUBANS

Not Yet Formidable, but May Be Part of Widespread Conspiracy

Havana, March 17.—The first armed uprising against the new Cuban republic occurred within a little more than six weeks after the inauguration of General Gomez as president. How serious the movement is it is impossible to determine at present, all that is known being that a sergeant of the rural guards stationed at the town of Vueltas, with a party of seven men, some other members of the rural guard and a number of peasants took to the woods and that the troops are in active pursuit.

While the movement apparently is unimportant numerically, all indications point to the fact that it is part of a widespread conspiracy.

HAVE NO MORE ROOM FOR CONSUMPTIVES

Los Angeles Charitable Officials Give Fair Warning

Los Angeles, Cal., March 17.—At a meeting of persons representing all the prominent charitable associations and institutions of Los Angeles, a resolution was adopted asking all charitable associations of the United States to refrain from sending any more consumptives to Los Angeles.

If more are sent, the resolution says, necessity will compel the local associations to return them at once to the place from which they started.

RABIES ON THE INCREASE

Quarantine Restrictions May Be Necessary In New York State

Ithaca, N. Y., March 17.—Dean Moore of the New York state college of agriculture states that the rabies has shown a rapid increase recently and that dogs' heads are coming in daily at the state college for examination. Since Jan. 1 there have been received 117 heads, of which 77 have shown signs of rabies.

"The scourge of rabies in New York state is increasing so rapidly," says Moore, "that quarantine restrictions seem to be imminent. When it is known that two-thirds of the cases tested are afflicted it can readily be seen what proportions the epidemic has reached."

CONTAINS 30,000 WORDS

Charge of Judge Hart to Carmack Jury Is All Prepared

Nashville, March 17.—Another one of those tedious delays which have marked the trial of Duncan B. Cooper, Robin Cooper and John D. Sharp for the murder of E. W. Carmack prevented Judge Hart from charging the jury.

Attorneys on both sides fairly swamped the court with requests for instructions and compelled him to go over much of the work he had completed. It was late last night when he dictated the last paragraph of his charge to the jury.

The charge complete makes about 30,000 words. It covers the entire range of the case and the various theories and explains exhaustively the law.

THREE-CENT RATE UNFAIR

Governor Hadley Will Fight Against Its Return In Missouri

Jefferson City, Mo., March 17.—That he would exhaust all the powers of the state before he would permit the railroads to return to the 3-cents a mile passenger rate was the declaration of Governor Hadley. His statement followed the action of a railroad conference in Chicago at which the decision to restore the old rate was taken.

"I have determined not to permit the railroads of this state to continue to impose upon the people what I consider unfair rates,' said the governor.

To Name Town For Taft

Madison, Wis., March 17.—The assembly passed a bill to detach territory from the town of Roosevelt, Taylor county, and create the town of Taft.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title—Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St. Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

TARIFF REVISION URGED BY TAFT

Says That Republican Promise Must Be Fulfilled

HE ASKS FOR SPEEDY ACTION

Points Out That In This Way Business Disturbances May Be Avoided—Conditions Not Met by Dingley Act, Which Does Not Furnish Sufficient Revenue—President's Message to Congress Remarkably Brief

Washington, March 17.—President Taft's tariff message Tuesday afternoon left senate and house gasping—because of its brevity. As the first message of a new president to an extraordinary session of congress it was some 300 odd words long. President Roosevelt's first message to congress on Dec. 4, 1904, was of more than 17,000 words, and its reading took 2½ hours.

In striking contrast to the scenes of confusion, disorder and acrimonious debate which marked the opening day of the house, the session of that body yesterday assumed its wonted air of dignity. There was general good feeling among the members, whose main topic of conversation was the fight over the rules. The message of President Taft met with prolonged applause from the Republicans.

Interest attached to the announcement by the speaker of the personnel of the committees on rules and ways and means. The biennial lottery for seats was conducted and many were the disappointments upon the part of those whose names were the last to be drawn.

The tariff bill was not introduced, the delay in its presentation being to receive the approval of a new Republican member on the ways and means committee whom the speaker will appoint to succeed Mr. Bonynge of Colorado, whose term has expired.

The text of President Taft's message was as follows.

"To the senate and house of representatives:

"I have convened the congress in this extra session in order to enable it to give immediate consideration to the revision of the Dingley tariff act. Conditions affecting production, manufacture and business generally have so changed in the last twelve years as to require a readjustment and revision of the import duties imposed by that act. More than this, the present tariff act, with the other sources of government revenue, does not furnish income enough to pay the authorized expenditures. By July 1 next, the excess of expenses over receipts for the current fiscal year will equal $100,000,000.

"The successful party in the late election is pledged to a revision of the tariff. The country and the business community especially, expect it. The prospect of a change in the rates of import duties always causes a suspension or halt in business because of the uncertainty as to the changes to be made and their effect. It is, therefore, of the highest importance that the new bill should be agreed upon and passed with as much speed as possible consistent with its due and thorough consideration.

"For these reasons, I have deemed the present to be an extraordinary occasion, within the meaning of the constitution, justifying and requiring the calling of an extra session.

"In my inaugural address, I stated in a summary way the principles upon which, in my judgment, the revision of the tariff should proceed, and indicated at least one new source of revenue that might be properly resorted to in order to avoid a future deficit. It is not necessary for me to repeat what I then said.

"I venture to suggest that the vital business interests of the country require that the attention of the congress in this session be chiefly devoted to the consideration of the new tariff bill, and that the less time given to other subjects of legislation in this session, the better for the country."

FRENCH STRIKE GROWING

Telephone Girls and Letter Carriers Are About to Join

Paris, March 17.—The indications are that the strike of the telegraph, telephone and postal employes will swell to serious proportions today. At the present moment the postal, telegraphic and telephonic services throughout the country are demoralized.

A basis for the increase of the general strike is found in the action of the telephone girls, who have voted to quit today, while the letter carriers also have adopted strike resolutions.

The Logan Still Aground

Honolulu, March 17.—The United States army transport Logan remains hard and fast on the reef inside this harbor, where she struck while attempting to enter a slip last Saturday.

Hits Jews In Finland

Helsingfors, Finland, March 17.—The senate passed a measure prohibiting the slaughtering of cattle in accordance with the Jewish ritual.

WEST QUINCY

Matthew Schatzel, a popular young man of West Quincy, and a member of the National Sportsman's club who left for Douglas, about four months ago, arrived home, Tuesday, and reported having had a good time. When Mr. Schatzel left here, he took his hunting dog with him and said he had been on many hunting trips with other gunners in Douglas.

Two petitions were presented to the City Council Monday evening for a connecting street between Copeland and Crescent streets between Cross street and Hall place. One of these petitions seeks to have Furnace avenue extended and the other seeks to have Barry's lane accepted. Either one of these would be a good idea.

SOUTH QUINCY

Box 321 from which a false alarm was pulled in Sunday evening is a new box having been installed late last year. It is the first time that the box has been sounded. Somebody evidently wanted to see how it would work.

In Hibernian hall Tuesday evening a St. Patrick's day entertainment was held under the auspices of Division 5, A. O. H. and was largely attended. A pleasing program was given by an excellent array of talent, the songs and dances being in keeping with the day. Matthew Fay was chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Sydney Patterson, the well known local ball player, has accepted a desirable position at the Fore River Works.

James Corrigan of Woburn is spending a few days with relatives on Franklin street.

Special services in honor of St. Patrick were held this morning in St. John's church. A high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock in honor of Ireland's patron saint.

Tonight in St. John's church, in connection with the Lenten services, there will be a sermon on the life and works of St. Patrick.

QUINCY POINT.

Alfred Thayer of South street has accepted a position in a pattern shop in Worcester. He has been working in Saugus the past few weeks, but formerly was employed in the Fore River, where he learned his trade.

Men are at work on Washington street repairing a leak in the water main. The leak has caused the street to be a mass of mud all the time, but when fixed this will disappear.

Mrs. William R. Corbin who for several weeks has been seriously ill, is now fast recovering her former good health.

Many of the yachts at Baker's basin are beginning to shed their winter coverings in preparation for the coming season. The basin at present is full of craft of all kinds, harbored for the winter. Inside a month, however, many of these will have departed for other places after receiving a thorough overhauling.

The regular weekly cribbage party of the Washington Social club was held Tuesday evening in the clubhouse on Washington street. High scores were made and many close games played.

Mrs. John Bruton entertains the Neighborly whist club tomorrow night at her home on Washington street.

Making It Last.

A young man was lately leaving his aunt's house after a visit when, finding it was beginning to rain, he caught up an umbrella that was snugly placed in a corner and was proceeding to open it when the old lady, who for the first time observed his movements, sprang toward him, exclaiming: "No, no; that you never shall! I've had that umbrella twenty-three years, and it has never been wet yet, and I am sure it shan't be wetted now!"—London Express.

An Annoying Error.

That was a very annoying typographical error that crept into the papers the other day, telling how a prominent society man had been held up by highwaymen and "robbed of his watch and other vegetables." The editor has come out with an explanation that the last word was not vegetables, but valuables.—Judge.

"The Pied Piper."

A New York normal school examination had among its questions, "What is the educational value of 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin?'" A would be teacher answered, "'The Pied Piper' teaches children to be kind to animals, especially rats."—New York Times.

* * *

Junior Friday club was pleasantly entertained on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Georgiana C. Lane, Presidents hill. "Rome of Today" was the subject of the afternoon's study with Miss Alice Keith Prescott as the chairman. Mrs. Ernest D. Gourd a new member of the club was present and cordially greeted. Miss Lane always has some pleasant surprise for the club when it meets with her and this year it took the form of cute little pots of shamrock for each member. The next meeting Mar. 29th will be with Miss Prescott, Spear street.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Next Tuesday is President's day with the Quincy Women's club and all the arrangements for the afternoon are in the hands of the president Mrs. George W. Morton, who promises a pleasing entertainment. Club presidents and secretaries of neighboring clubs from whom courtesies have been received have been invited to attend the meeting, also the King's Daughters and some of the local clubs.

Arrangements are under way by the Program committee for Mystery afternoon on April 27th and some delightful bits are anticipated as several of the local club are to contribute to the entertainment. Mystery surrounds the afternoon but that only adds to the interest of club members.

Members are now paying their dues. The waiting list is also growing longer and longer so that eventually the club membership may have to be increased to 400

The committee on club house grounds are to commence improvements as soon as the weather permits.

A fine lecture recital of Russian music was given Tuesday evening by Alvah Glover Salmon under the auspices of the Music committee which netted a goodly amount for tuberculosis work in Quincy.

NEIGHBORING.

One of the most delightful meetings this season of the Philergians of Braintree was on Tuesday "An afternoon with the Habitant" as given by Miss Edith Margaret Smaill of Montreal. Her recitation of Habitant stories and interpretations of Dr. Drummond's poem is always a pleasure to her listeners.

* * *

There is in preparation by the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution a souvenir booklet to be distributed at the coming convention of the General Society, to be held in Boston, beginning on May 10. The book will contain a description of the State headquarters of the society, at 100 Boylston street, and an account of the patriotic work done by Massachusetts Daughters of the Revolution since the last time the convention of the General Society was held in Boston, in 1904. It will be illustrated by cuts of the State Society rooms, the tablet to composers of patriotic music placed in the Public Library by the society in 1904, and of the Paul Revere room, the restoration and furnishing of which is the society's present patriotic work. Arrangements for the coming convention of the General Society are well in hand and State committees will soon be announced.

POLICE CONDUCT ACTIVE HUNT

Looking For Possible Accessories to Murder of Petrosino

A ROUNDUP OF BAD ITALIANS

Commissioner Watchorn Suggests Means For Getting a Strangle Hold on the Black Hand—Official Reports Indicate That Detective Had No Opportunity to Defend Himself—Many Arrests at Palermo

New York, March 17.—The death of Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino, who was assassinated in Sicily, was officially deplored by the board of aldermen, who adopted a resolution to that effect. The board also joins in the generally expressed wish "that his cowardly assassins may speedily be brought to justice."

What success the police are achieving in their hunt here for possible conspirators and accessories to the murder of Petrosino is obviously a strictly guarded secret, but there is no let-up in the activity in the case at police headquarters.

Robert Watchorn, the commissioner of immigration here, says there is no reason why the country should not throw off the curse of the Black Hand. It is time, he says, that the United States did something to protect not only its countrymen but the thrifty from foreign shores who had become good citizens.

"With more men and machinery to handle the immigration problem," Watchorn said, "there is no reason why the problem should not be solved. The vicious men of Italy and Sicily, by shipping as sailors aboard hundreds of ships, land on our shores constantly without government intervention. By extending the scope of immigration work to include the rigid inspection of all crews landing in our port—as we now inspect and admit or reject foreign passengers—our government will have a strangle hold on the infamous murder clan.

"And something else is necessary too. Steps should be taken by the police all over the country to round up the criminal and derelict Italians explanation of how they got into this country. Those who cannot give satisfactory answers should be deported at once. There are laws and machinery enough to perform this weeding out process successfully."

In answer to his cable addressed to the chief of police of Palermo, requesting details as to the murder of Petrosino, Commissioner Bingham received the following reply:

"I assure you I will do my best to arrest murderers of Petrosino."

Was Attacked From Behind

Rome, March 17.—Official reports received here concerning the assassination of Lieutenant Petrosino at Palermo Friday indicate that the New York detective had no opportunity to defend himself when attacked, as he was unarmed. The revolver found by his side, one chamber empty, proved not to have belonged to him. The police have discovered Petrosino's revolver, unloaded, at the hotel where he was staying.

Petrosino on Friday morning went to Caltanissetta, about forty miles from Palermo, where he had some business in connection with the compiling of criminal records to attend to. He returned to Palermo in the evening, going to the Cafe Crete, near the Piazza Marina. He left the cafe about 9 o'clock and was attacked a few minutes later.

The authorities are convinced that Petrosino was entirely unprepared for the murderous assault upon him. The assassins crept up behind him, as the course of the bullets show. One, entering the right shoulder blade, perforated both lungs; another penetrated the back of the neck, while the third struck him on the temple, probably as he was turning.

The American ambassador is in close touch with the local authorities in their endeavors to run down the murderers. While many arrests have been made, no direct proof has been discovered against any of these men, but the majority of them are being held by the police in close confinement.

VARNEY GETS FIVE YEARS

Sentence Pronounced Upon Man Who Embezzled $85,000

Portsmouth, N. H., March 17.—Pleading guilty to the indictment of the federal grand jury charging him with the embezzlement of $85,000 of the funds of the First National bank of Somersworth, Fred M. Varney, formerly cashier of that institution, was sentenced to five years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., in the United State circuit court.

Varney was present in the court house to answer in person to the grand jury's indictment, and after acknowledging himself culpable Judge Aldrich pronounced sentence.

THERE'S A REASON

why one kind of hosiery for men will wear so many times longer than other kinds WITHOUT HOLES OR DARNING. A good reason, too, for it's the new

Inter woven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

That makes all the difference in the world. We have taken up this new hosiery because we realize it is just what every man wants. A LIGHT WEIGHT, FINE TEXTURE sock that will give LONG WEAR WITHOUT DARNING. Because of this wonderful toe and heel a lisle sock is made which will outwear the heaviest, most clumsy hosiery with the ordinary double toe and heel.

Try these. 25c. will buy a pair and one pair will show you the difference.

REAL IRISH DRAMA.

Division 5 A. O. H. Presents Faugh A-Ballagh Before Large Audience.

There was a large attendance at St. Mary's hall Wednesday evening at the entertainment held under the auspices of Division 5 A. O. H. The entertainment included the presentation of the romantic Irish drama entitled Faugh A-Ballagh or the wearing of the green.

In the cast of characters were Timothy J. Corcoran, James Donovan, Frank A. Mullen, Patrick A. Gaven, Daniel F. Corcoran, Walter E. Barry, William Buckley, William Leary, John W. Shea, Miss Mary Ferriter and Miss Catherine Spain.

The several characters were well sustained and the parts were presented in a manner that showed careful training and brought out rounds of applause. Between the acts there was Irish jig dancing and Irish songs.

HOLD SALAD SUPPER.

Ladies of Houghs Neck Net Neat Little Sum for Building Fund.

The Ladies Houghs Neck Associates gave a salad supper at the Pandora hotel, Wednesday evening. The affair was easily the greatest of any of the many that have been held at the beach during the past winter. Over one hundred and fifty men, women and children were present and crowded the large dining hall of the hotel.

This is the first of a series of entertainments and supper that the ladies intend to hold for the purpose of raising funds for a building for the Houghs Neck Associates, of which they are an auxiliary. The supper was served between six thirty and eight-thirty after which the guests adjourned to the dance hall in the Associates clubhouse and enjoyed dancing until a late hour.

The dining hall was prettily decorated with green bunting and American flags. The tables were placed all around the room leaving plenty of room in the centre for the waitresses and saved a lot of confusion.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mrs. John H. Merriam, chairman, Mrs. Edna Catarius, Mrs. Ernest C. Mains, Mrs. Alice Steward, Mrs. Jason L. Harvey, Mrs. David Fenner, Mrs. Addison R. Hammond, Mrs. Frank Catarius, Mrs. Achilles N. LaBrecque and Mrs. Harry P. Stackpole. The music for dancing was furnished by Frank Boutilier and Miss Ella Acorn. A booth prettily decorated and in charge of Mrs. Alice Steward was located in the dancing hall and souvenirs and candy were sold.

PROBATE COURT.

Judge Flint held probate court in Dedham Wednesday and transacted the following business:

Wills allowed: Of Eleanor Ellicott Snelling, Dedham; Martha S. Harrington, Quincy; George Stephen Minot, Brookline; Sarah F. Moon, Brookline; Francis Seth Wight, Medfield; John J. Murphy, Weymouth; Mary B. Huntley, Millis; Matilda A. Leckie, Brookline; Stephen Murphy, Hyde Park; Sarah A. Whittemore, Brookline; Elizabeth P. Lee, Brookline; Henry J. Howes, Quincy and Mary F. Daniel, Millis.

Administrations granted: On the estates of Henry A. Bailey, Weymouth; Henry F. Cooper Medway; John C. White, Westwood; Sarah A. Capen, Stoughton; and Hannah H. Bailey, Weymouth.

Trusteeships were granted to several people; accounts were allowed on the estates of Henrietta T. Hallowell of Milton and several others. One conservator and two guardians were appointed.

CHELSEA MEN TO SPEAK.

Adjutant W. A. B. Antrim and Ensign J. N. Roberts of Chelsea will speak tonight at the Salvation Army hall, 150 Granite street. Adjutant Antrim is a well known speaker of wide experience. Ensign Roberts who is from Bermuda, West Indies, is a singer of marked ability. There will also be music by the string band.

KNOCKERS PARTAKE OF LENTEN MENU

Regular Gastronomic Performance Rather "Fishy"

The Knockers' Club celebrated Evacuation day by one of their regular dinners at Thompsons' restaurant. The table decorations were green carnations and at each plate was a souvenir postal emblematic of the day, on the back of which was a sentiment in prose fitting to the occasion. Out of respect to the general public however this work of art is not published.

The guests on this occasion numbered two, Sergt. Brovogel of the Metropolitan police and Charles C. Hearn. They were made knockers, on sight. It was noticed that a prospective owner of an automobile paid particular attention to the Chief of the Milton police and to the Sergeant. Evidently they thought some time they might be exceeding the speed limit in these sections and that it would be a good idea to cultivate the acquaintance of these officials.

Mayor Shea occupied the seat of honor at the head of the table and presided at the hearing on the charges made against the President, who was called upon to explain certain items that appeared in the annual report of the County Commissioners. He explained them to his own satisfaction if to no one's else.

The only thing on the table that did not harmonize with the day was oranges and some threatened to throw them out of the door. They were prevailed upon however to desist from this unknocker like performance. The menu was a Lenten one and started in with clam broth. Steam clams and clam chowder with scallops, french fried potatoes, and spinach as chasers. Then came broiled live lobsters and how the other lobsters did wade into them. Then came spaghetti, hot rolls, and brown bread. For desert there was ice cream and cake, toasted crackers, roquefort cheese and black coffee.

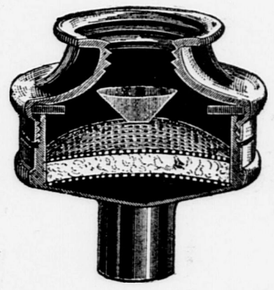

It was one of the best dinners the club has ever sat down to, and they have had some good ones during the year it has been in existence.

The two absent members will regret that they were unfortunate enough not to have been present. Some particularly good things will be found in the waste basket at the next gathering.

GOVT. SURVEY TO BE MADE

Signal Victory Won For Inland Waterways In East

The so-called inland waterways survey bill has been passed by Congress. and signed by the President.

The act provides for the construction of a continuous waterway from Boston to Long Island Sound, thence to New York bay, thence across the state of New Jersey to a suitable point on Deleware river or bay, thence from Norfolk, Va., to the sounds of North Carolina and Branfort Inlet for the purpose of ascertaining the cost of a channel with a maximum depth of 25 feet.

Appropriations are provided in the bill for carrying on the work and the Chief of Engineers with the approval of the Secretary of War is authorized to employ in his office such professionals and other assistants (from civil life) as in his judgment may be necessary, provided that their expenditure does not exceed $25,000 per annum.

The bill also provides for a Water Commission to be composed of five senators and seven representatives. The commission is given $50,000 to expend for a thorough examination of the Subject of Waterways here and in Europe. This commission to expire by limitation March 4, 1911.

FALLS FIFTEEN FEET.

East Milton Man Injured at Scenic Temple.

William Lawton, aged about 33 years, residing at East Milton, had his left ankle fractured Wednesday afternoon at the Scenic theatre.

Lawton, who is the operator of the moving picture machine, was at work on a raised platform when he lost his balance and fell a distance of fifteen feet to the floor.

The police ambulance was called and he was taken to the City Hospital.

POOL TOURNAMENT.

The 1000 point pool tournament of the Houghs Neck Associates is rapidly coming to an end. Many of the low men have dropped out and the ten leaders are fighting for the prizes. As many of the leaders are receiving handicaps it is hard to pick a winner. The score up to date is as follows:

MANY VISITING KNIGHTS PRESENT

Grand Officers Make Official Visit to Maple Lodge

The annual official visitation of the board of grand officers to Maple lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor was held Wednesday evening. Grand Protector Hicks of Charlestown and full board of grand officers were present as well as District Deputy, Sister Cunningham and representatives from fifteen lodges.

The hall had been especially decorated for the occasion by a special committee who received many compliments for the manner in which they had performed their work. National emblems were used in abundance and in addition there were the Irish and British flags the whole transforming the hall into a scene of beauty.

After the business session there were brief remarks by Grand Protector Hicks, District Deputy, Sister Cunningham, Grand Secretary, Samuel Hathaway, Grand Chaplin, Sister Lincoln, Grand Vice Protector, Parker, Grand Guide Horton and Grand Guardian Mrs. Emma E. Manock and Past District Deputy Nellie E. Hallett.

Between the addresses there were recitations by Mrs. Jennie Jones, songs by Mrs. Florence Lord, and Master Bert Reed and piano solos by Mrs. Effie Rhines.

After the meeting there was a social hour during which old acquaintances were renewed.

Souvenirs of the evening, consisting of small American flags to which was suspended a harp surrounded by a shamrock, were presented to all present.

CONCERT AT WOLLASTON.

Attractive Program Rendered by Newton Quartet.

Wollaston turned out in large numbers to attend the entertainment of the Newton Male quartet at the Baptist church on Wednesday evening.

The quartet was composed of E. B. Cross, E. E. Whitemore, A. C. Thomas and H. M. Barbour in charge of R. S. Pinkham. Seldom has the community been favored with such high class talent.

Each number was vigorously applauded and E. M. Watson, the Brown University reader, by whom the quartet was assisted received encore after encore.

BEFORE LADIES' AID ALLIANCE.

Secretary of Civic League Gives Interesting Address.

An appreciative audience attended the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Alliance of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Clark, secretary of the North American Civic League, spoke on "Constructive work for the immigrant" in place of Mr. Philip Davis, who was to have spoken.

He told of the work of the society in protecting the foreigners from the unscrupulous, and interesting them in American citizenship.

The league, he said, takes the immigrant the minute he leaves the detention pen, protects him from sharpers and cab men, and places him among friends or finds him employment.

This society is the only one which works simply for the immigrants at large and among other things gives lectures in evening schools and forms classes for the study of English, etc.

The members were very much interested in the latter form of work and asked many questions concerning it.

Upon a motion of Mrs. Park it was voted to form a committee from the Alliance to carry on the work in Wollaston.

LEFT PLUNDER BEHIND THEM

Crash of Glass Frightened Burglars at Wollaston

The house of J. W. Reed at 40 Marion street, Wollaston, was entered by burglars Wednesday night and but for the fortunate awakening of Mr. Reed the parties would have made a good haul.

The burglars gained entrance to the house by forcing a window and proceeded to help themselves to what valuables that were handy.

They gathered together a large amount of silver and other valuables which they piled on a table preparatory to tying up and taking away.

While thus engaged the burglar dropped a large dish which smashed with a crash as it struck the floor. This alarmed the burglars who hasterly escaped.

About this time Mr. Reed was awakened although he does not think that it was the crash of the dish that awakened him.

There is no clew as to who the burglars were.

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY.

Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs Entertains Atlantic Bridge Club.

A most elaborate St. Patrick's Day party was given Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs, Clark street, Atlantic, for the Atlantic bridge club. Mrs. Hobbs surely outdid herself in the line of preparation and decorations for her party, the color scheme being excellent throughout. Green electric lights cast a pretty light in every room and on the table set for twelve ladies.

At each place were place cards appropriately decorated with shamrocks with suitable "hits" for every member, and little green cups filled with green candies, and a flag. Sandwiches of the same color were served with a green salad, followed by fancy green cakes and ices, served on green plates.

It was a costume party, each member wearing a fascinating gown trimmed with shamrocks, etc., even to green slippers and stockings, crowns and hair ornaments. Green prizes were awarded at the close of the evening.

Mrs. Frederick J. Peirce, Mrs. Frank Emery and Miss Alice Coe rendered popular Irish ballads as an entertainment.

Those present were. Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs, Mrs. Frederick J. Pierce, Mrs. William Tower, Mrs. Frank Emery, Miss Lillian Waterhouse, Miss Laura Coles, Mrs. Charles Cherrington, Mrs. Henry Von Emden, Miss Mildred Gasset, Mrs. Alexander Hill, Miss Alice Coe, Miss Sadie Melzard.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Capt. and Mrs. P. P. Coombs Celebrate Their Golden Wedding.

Capt. and Mrs. P. P. Coombs very quietly celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home on Billings street, Wednesday evening. Capt. Coombs' three sons and their families were present, the youngest son being Ex-Rep. Rednor P. Coombs of Atlantic, who has two sons, the second son, Herbert E. Coombs of Atlantic, who has five daughters and two sons, and Phineas Coombs of Boston, who has three daughters, making twelve grandchildren. Mr. Coombs as a boy went to sea and was there for over forty years. He has lived in Atlantic for the last twenty-eight years.

Another fond hope shattered. Taft will continue the test rides for army officers.

Yet a little while and society heiresses will be eloping with their airship drivers.

Greatly increased imports of brown sugar indicate that the maple sugar season is close at hand.

President Taft is working hard to justify that increase in salary. He has cut out his midday lunch hour.

Perhaps if Secretary MacVeagh would use pink trading stamps, it might help that Treasury deficit some.

President Tuttle of the Boston and Maine Railroad, is evidently having some little difficulty in making people believe that the Boston and Maine is a law abiding benevolent "old company," instead of an octopus as some writers have recently insinuated.

The Boston Advertiser in an optomistic mood, says, Gifford Pinchot speaks out bravely to the Colorado assembly, to whom he says that he intends to carry out the laws and the rules of the agricultural department, despite the antagonism of self-seekers and mercenaries, thereby preserving the forests and their benefits to the nation and the state. Perhaps he, or someone else, will sometime have an opportunity to save what happens to be left of the White Mountain forests.

Unless M. Pinchot has a chance very shortly, the White Mountain forests will be a thing of the past, and the souvenir post card will be all that we will have left to remind us of the fact that the White Mountains were once covered with stately trees.

There seems to be much speculation among many of the business men of the city, as to why the petition of the Citizens Gas Light Company for permits to lay new mains, should have met with so much opposition on the part of certain members of the City Council, Monday night.

One of the reasons as put forth by a member of the council was, that the Gas Company had employed non-residents, when there were plenty of unemployed citizens looking for work.

Still another member said he opposed the petition because of the price charged for gas in Quincy. To substantiate his statement he cited the town of Milton where the price of gas is only eighty cents per thousand, while in Quincy the local gas company charges one dollar and a half per thousand; a rate almost double the rate in Milton.

While both of the councilmen's arguments are reasonable, their endeavors to block the petition will not prevent the company from extending its mains at some future time, or prevent it from maintaining the present rate, or employing non-resident workmen if it sees fit.

While on the other hand by allowing the company to extend their mains, thereby increasing their output might bring about the reduction in price which the consumers desire, and which is probably anticipated by the company.

Should the company fail to make the desired reduction the citizens have the right of appealing to the Massachusetts Gas Commissioners, to investigate the financial condition of the company, to determine whether they could make the reduction, and still receive fair returns on the amount of capital invested.

Of course at present the arguments are only in the air, and no definite statements will be made by either side until after the meeting of the committee on streets, Friday evening.

It is at least to be hoped that whatever the outcome may be the parties interested will continue to safeguard the interests of Quincy and her citizens.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The House Democrats seldom play the game of "Follow my leader" very long, as Bailey, John Sharp Williams and now Champ Clark have been fated to learn. When they feel like it they are subordinate, but they feel like it only at intervals, and their leader ordinarily follows. In the Senate, too the floor leadership of the Democracy is very often a thankless task, as was seen when on Panama, Gorman was marching in the direction, the majority of the Democratic senators were either marching in the other or had halted. As an opposition to oppose, the Democrats have achieved few successes in Congress of late years when unable to count on the cooperation of a detachment of disaffected Republicans, as on the ship subsidy question. —Boston Transcript.

A train going through Brockton was stoned the other day, and it was nothing new at that. Sunday three trains on the Boston & Maine, southern division, were bombarded in the same manner. In each case it is said that railroad and police authorities are on the trail of the fellows who had charge of the artillery fire. The trouble is that they seldom catch up when they go on the trail. Yet it ought not to be a matter of especial difficulty, it would seem, to gather in young fellows, well known in their neighborhoods, and who have probably been seen by at least a dozen other boys and quite possibly by some adults every time they have let drive missiles at trains. It would pay the roads to put men on the track of stone throwers and have them haled before the courts, and it would be a good idea if no special leniency were shown them when they got to court. It is not a mere "happy boyish prank" when youngsters deliberately take the chance of putting out somebody's eye or hitting somebody in the head and sending him to the hospital. Boys who play these tricks are, in the intent at least, as dangerous and evil of mind as those who try to throw switches or those who put something on the track in the hope of derailing a train.—Brockton Enterprise.

A despatch from Auburn, Me., states that Androscoggin County is financially embarrassed, and it is explained that the trouble is due to a falling off in receipts from liquor fines in the last four years. Where formerly from $25,000 to $30,000 a year was received from that source, it is said, only about one-fourth of this sum is now forthcoming. The correspondent hastens to add that the real reason for the shrinkage is not found in a suppression of the sale of intoxicants, but in the fact that the courts, grown weary of finding the sellers, have taken to imposing jail sentences instead, and where both fines and jail sentences are imposed the convicted persons prefer to serve extra time rather than pay their money over to swell the public revenues.

This is truly a sad state of affairs. Instead of having plenty of money to pay its bills, the country is obliged to ask the State for permission to borrow $50,000 to be used to build an addition to its jail, now congested with persons who purvey intoxicants when they are not doing time. It seems that the Maine prohibitory law is not only a living issue, but, in its violation, is an essential source of public revenue. Is it possible that the liquor business in Maine is suffering from too little competition? If so, the trouble must be due to the operations of the express companies that make this traffic a specialty. Won't some brand-new offenders please hurry up and get themselves arrested, so that the county of Androscoggin can get a little ready cash into its treasury?—Springfield Union.

The gift of 19 acres of land to the Boston Association for the Relief and Control of Tuberculosis by Mr. Prendergast, renews attention to the growing force of the contest of society against this disease, and nourishes the hope that at the end there will no more exist a "white plague" as it is now understood. As long as there exist conditions favorable for the production of tuberculosis the disease will exist. The fight against it may never end in the utter abolishment of danger. But progress already made is so striking that it is reasonable to believe that within the experience of living men the menace will disappear from the list of great and constant dangers to society. As living conditions in cities are improved, as knowledge of the disease and measures of treating individual cases advance tuberculosis will become no more, destructive of lives than are now other plagues which have been reduced to small proportions.

Every gift, such as this of land, is an offering to one of the most important causes of modern civilization. The country, the state, and municipalities can do much, and they are doing much, in the fight against tuberculosis, but private contributions of money, of land, of time and of medical skill are all needed, and they produce lasting effect in a constantly increasing ratio. Every man (and every organization) giving to this cause knows that he is positively advancing the welfare of the world. It should be a gratifying thought.—Boston Advertiser.

HAIR WHITE AS SNOW

Restored to Natural Color with One Bottle of

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

The Only True Hair Restorer, Tonic and Rejuvenator

ALMOST A MIRACLE

My hair was as white as snow when I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Restorer. One bottle restored my hair to its natural dark brown color. As I am now 70 years old, I consider the result most remarkable. It is an agreeable and refreshing hair dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy, without being in the least greasy or sticky.

WM. WESTLAKE,
210 West Main Street, Rochester, N. Y.

Why hesitate when WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER is daily producing just such results?

After years of study and analysis of the hair, we have been able to produce an ideal Hair Tonic and Restorer, which contains an actual constituent of hair, combined with ingredients of recognized merit for treatment of hair and scalp diseases. It makes and keeps the scalp clean and healthy, gives life, strength and lustre to the hair, and restores faded and gray hair to natural color.

IT IS NOT A DYE

No matter how long and thick your hair is, WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER will make it longer and thicker. It will remove every trace of dandruff in a few days, stop falling in one week, and start a new growth in from one to three months.

These are facts that have been proven in scores of cases. WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER is guaranteed to do all that it is claimed to do or the price will be refunded.

BLOODSHED BEGUN IN CUBA

Alleged Instigator of Uprising Killed by Rural Guard

WILL BE BITTERLY RESENTED

Government Claims That Insurgent Band Numbers but Eight Men, but Persons Acquainted With Leader Say That He Probably Has a Strong Party, Capable of Making Desperate Resistance to Government

Havana, March 18.—The indications are that the government is now in a fair way to crush promptly the incipient revolution which broke out in the province of Santa Clara Monday night.

The insurgents are now completely surrounded by a cordon of upwards of 1000 rurales, but owing to the rugged character of the country it will be extremely difficult for the troops to come into close quarters with the insurgents.

While the government still insists that the band consists of only eight men, it is alleged that the movement is far-reaching.

It is declared on apparently responsible authority that Cortes, who is leading the insurgents, is accompanied by fully 100 men mounted and well armed.

The government is gratified at the arrest and subsequent killing of former Captain Levastida of the rural guard, who is believed to have been the principal instigator of the uprising. Lavastida was arrested Tuesday night by Major Arteaga of the rural guard and was charged with conspiracy against the government. While on the way to Remedios, under escort, Lavastida attempted to escape, whereupon Colonel Esgueara, in command of the escort, shot and killed him. Heretofore this has been a common method in Cuba of dealing with inconvenient prisoners.

Lavastida was recently dismissed from the rural guard. He served with distinction in the Cuban war of independence and had many friends in Santa Clara province, by whom his summary death will doubtless be bitterly resented.

According to an official statement given out at the palace Lavastida started the conspiracy against the government to secure political favors by threats. It is alleged that Cortes was irritable because he did not receive a commission in the army, and Lavastida induced him to take the field by representations that by so doing he would alarm the goverument and create so great danger of another American intervention that his demands would be instantly granted.

The government claims to have been informed of the conspiracy several weeks ago and President Gomez then fully determined not to temporize with the revolutionists, but to embrace the opportunity to make a striking example of the leaders. For this purpose he directed a great concentration of troops in the vicinity of Vueltas to make short work of the affair.

Persons in Havana well acquainted with Cortes represent him as an experienced bush fighter, probably accompanied by a strong party capable of making desperate resistance to the government troops.

BELATED VOTE OF THANKS

Extended to Donor of Sacred Codfish After Century and a Quarter

Boston, March 18.—John Rowe, ancient mariner and fisherman, who sailed from historic T wharf, has received the thanks of the house for the gift to the house of the sacred codfish 125 years ago. Rowe was honored yesterday by the passage of a resolution in the house.

The great codfish is of wood, nearly six feet in length, and it hangs in the auditorium before the eyes of those who frequent the public galleries during the house deliberations.

Just how Rowe, who has long been dead, is to be made happy by this testimonial from the house, was not made clear in the order.

CARNEGIE'S LITTLE JOKE

Built Million Dollar School Without People Knowing About It

Pittsburg, March 18.—Andrew Carnegie's sense of humor was made apparent when it was discovered that he had built a $1,000,000 school here without the people of Pittsburg knowing anything about it, and that he is half-way through with another structure.

This was made public by the announcement that the Carnegie School of Applied Science was now ready and that it had cost $1,000,000.

Harriman Going to Panama

New York, March 18.—E. H. Harriman's yacht Sultana is being fitted out here for a sea trip. It is understood that Harriman and party of friends will go to Panama for an inspection of work on the canal.

Steel Company Cuts Wages

Johnstown, Pa., March 18.—The Cambria Steel company, which, when in full activity, employs 18,000 men, announces a 10 percent reduction in wages, to take effect April 1.

DAYS OF DIZZINESS

Come to Hundreds of Quincy People.

There are days of dizziness;
Spells of headache, sideache, backache;
Sometimes rheumatic pains;
Often urinary disorders.
All tell you plainly the kidneys are sick.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Here is proof in Quincy.

Mrs. George L. Mott, living at 99 North street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for entertaining a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint, after everything I tried had failed to help me. Prior to using this remedy I was troubled a great deal with headaches and dizzy spells, which were so severe at times that I would have to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My eyesight was affected and spots would seem to float before me. My back also greatly annoyed me. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Cox drug store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing, I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills with equally good results."

NEW ENGLAND IS LET ALONE

Industries Not Greatly Affected by Changes In Tariff

CLOTHING WOOLS UNCHANGED

Wool Tops Are Made Drectly Dutiable—Hides on the Free List—General Trend of New Proposition Is Downward, With Maximum and Minimum Provisions—Fifty Percent Cut In Steel and Lumber

Washington, March 18.—From a glance at the Payne tariff bill introduced in the house Wednesday, the New England textile industries are left with substantially their present rates of protection. The duties on clothing wools remain at their present figure of 11 and 12 cents a pound.

Wool tops are taken out of the blanket clause of the Dingley act and made dutiable, as the National Association of Wool Manufacturers recommended, in a paragraph by themselves at the same rate as imposed on the scoured wool of which they are made, and 6 cents a pound in addition.

This is in effect a large reduction of duty, or from a varying percentage of 50 and 55 percent ad valorem to 6 cents a pound, but leaves a high protection.

Downward revision, maximum and minimum provisions which impose an average maximum duty 20 percent in excess of the present tariff, and numerous provisions by which it is estimated that the revenue to the government will be increased from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 are the salient features of the new tariff bill.

The recommendations made by President Taft that an inheritance tax be provided and that a limited amount of tobacco and sugar be admitted free from the Philippines are included in the bill. The measure also provides for the issuance of Panama canal bonds to the amount of $40,000,000 to reimburse the treasury for the orignial purchase of the canal and re-enacts the provision for the issue of treasury certificates, the amount being increased from $100,000,000 to $250,000,000.

While coffee is retained on the free list, it is with the provision that a duty equal to an export duty tax or charge that shall be levied by any country from which it is imported shall be collected on the coffee imported from that country. Tea is taxed 8 cents when imported from the country where it is produced and 9 cents when from other than the producing country. The internal revenue tax on cigarets is materially increased, while the tax on beer and whiskey is undisturbed.

A Fifty Percent Reduction

A cut of 50 percent is made in the steel and lumber schedules, and iron ore, hides, tallow, cottonseed oil and works of art more than twenty years old are placed on the free list. The tariff on boots and shoes is reduced 40 percent and on other leather manufactures in proportion. The pottery schedule remains about the same, but the duties on window and plate glass of the smaller sizes are increased, while the duties on the larger sizes are reduced.

The recommendations for placing wood pulp on the free list and reducing the duties in print paper, with certain restrictions, made by the Mann committee of the house, are incorporated in the bill. The duty on refined sugar is reduced .05 cent a pound, and dextrin ½ cent a pound. A reduction of ½ cent a pound is also made in the duty on starch, with the exception of potato starch. Zinc in ore is assessed 1 cent a pound for the zinc contained. The tariff on pig iron is reduced from $4 to $2.50 a ton.

The principal increases are made in the duties on lemons, cocoa and substitutes for coffee, coal tar dyes, gloves and coated papers and lithographic prints.

As was expected, the next tariff bill is made on a maximum and minimum basis, with the provision that the maximum rates are not to go into effect until sixty days after the passage of the bill. Reciprocity provisions are contained in the paragraphs assessing duties on bituminous coal and coke and agricultural implements, by which these articles are given entry free of duty when imported from countries which permit the free importation of these articles from America.

The maximum and minimum provision of the bill does away with the necessity of continuing the foreign trade agreements. The abrogation of these is provided for in a section which authorizes the president to issue notices of the termination of the agreements within ten days after the bill goes into effect.

One of the most significant features of the Payne bill is the new drawback provision. It extends this privilege so that an American manufacturer need not use the material which he has imported to secure the refund of the duties which he has paid on his material. If he uses materials produced in this country in equal amount with the material which he has imported he will be entitled to the drawback benefits.

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh shower of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance, as follows:
"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips."

Another from Newark, N. J.
"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had very little hair, now I have the most beautiful long and thick hair anyone would want to have."

NOW at all druggists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other one preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of the Quincy Ledger.

Dear Sir:—In your Tuesday's issue a report is made of the Committee on public buildings having recommended to the City Council the purchase of a portion of the so-called Norteman farm for $6,000. To us who have lived at Houghs Neck for a long period of time it seems ridiculous for the City to pay such a fabulous price for a part of a property which 3 months before the purchase by Mr. Norteman was begging for a purchaser at $1,200. If the City deems it a fair price, an order ought to be introduced into the City Council recommending an investigation of the assessors who yearly assess this property for a very small sum.

It is surprising to us to learn that the committee favors this location as it is the most thoroughly unsuited and inaccessible location which could have possibly been selected for a schoolhouse, and no one at Houghs Neck wants the school there excepting those who are anxious to unload an elephant upon the City's hands, as the only thing which could possibly induce a business man to purchase that property would be for farming purposes, and $1,000 would be a fair price for the whole property. It is hard to understand why the Committee recommends the paying of $6,000 for a lot in the centre of a farm, necessitating a large outlay of money to build streets to reach the property, besides the portion of Sea street nearest to the property is the worst in Quincy for snow drifts and mud and small children would be unable to reach the school during a storm.

A schoolhouse lot ought to be located in the centre of the town on one or more streets accessible to and from the cars, and it should be where the people want it. If the City can afford to pay $6,000 for this lot why not purchase 60,000 square feet on the corner of two streets, one of the streets being 40 feet wide, and the owner is willing to give sufficient land to widen the other, Sea street, to 40 feet. All this for 10 cents a foot. It is puzzling to us why the Committee have ignored negotiations in this direction when they ought to know that it is the proper place for a schoolhouse. It seems that it is a case of "cutting off your nose to spite your face." The lot ought to be purchased wholly on its merit. The only people who favor the Norteman property are the vendors and their friends.

Now gentlemen of the committee do not pay $6,000 for a $1,000 article. You are not paying out your own money, but that of the taxpayers. Follow the rule established when the City purchased the engine house lot at Houghs Neck. For this property which was taxed for 5 cents a foot, the City paid 5 cents a foot. Will anybody attempt to argue that the Norteman property has any comparison whatever with the engine house lot?

From my point of view the finances of the City will be best preserved by purchasing a lot in a suitable location agreeable to the tax payers and the parents whose children are to attend the school.

Andrew A. Meyer.

FAILED TO ESCAPE FROM HIS CELL

Prisoner Had Facilities Furnished by Authorities

New York, March 18.—After sixteen hours spent in sawing two of the seven-inch steel bars of his cell with improvised saws made of knicked table knives, Francis L. Boissanade, who was set to the task of making an official attempt to escape from the detention prison at Ellis sland by Immigration Commissioner Watchorn, gave up the attempt last night.

Last August Boissanade escaped from the same cell with the connivance, Watchorn thinks, of one or more of the keepers. Upon being apprehended, however, he maintained that no one assisted him to break out of jail and that it was by sawing the bars of his cell for thirteen hours with table knives that he succeeded in gaining his freedom.

It was to prove the truth of this assertion that Boissanade was made to undergo the test which has just failed. Watchorn had promised to intercede for him at Washington and secure authorization for him to remain in the United States if he succeeded. As it is he will be deported and several Ellis Island employes now under suspicion will be dismissed.

Dedication of Norfolk's Beautiful Naval Y. M. C. A. Building

Norfolk, March 18.—The fine new naval Y. M. C. A. building in this city, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, was formally dedicated in the presence of a large assemblage, including a number of distinguished clergymen, naval officers and international naval Y. M. C. A. workers.

The building, which cost $300,000, is one of the finest structures in Norfolk, resembling a commodious hotel, and is fitted in many ways as a hotel for the accommodation of the enlisted men of the navy.

The handsome ship's colors made to order in China at a cost of $605, which it was announced the crew of the battleship Virginia would present to the state of Virginia, were presented to the Rockefeller naval Y. M. C. A. instead of to the state.

A feature of the dedication was the presentation of $1000 in cash from the officers and men of the battleship Virginia and $450 from the crew of the battleship Kentucky. These contributions are to be used toward furnishing the building.

VIGILANT DEATH HUNT

Many Cities Being Searched For Slayers of Detective Petrosino

Rome, March 18.—The Italian government has sent a telegraphic communication to the authorities of a large nurmber of cities requesting that a vigorous search be instituted for the murderers of Lieutenant Petrosino or their accomplices.

Especial vigilance is being observed in Constantinople, Tunis, Marseilles, Malta and parts of Egypt, while detectives have been sent to places where the Mafia is known to have many adherents.

According to a man now in the hands of the police at Palermo, who claims to be the only witness of the murder, the crime was committed by two men.

NO VERDICT EXPECTED

Judge Will Hold Carmack Jury Together as Long as Possible

Nashville, March 18.—The opinion begins to prevail that no verdict will be returned in the trial of Colonel Cooper, Robin J. Cooper and John D. Sharp for the slaying of E. W. Carmack.

Judge Hart began his charge to the jury at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday and finished at 11:15 a. m., when the twelve men retired to deliberate. Hart has declared his intention of holding the jury together for a week or two if necessary to get a verdict. The cost in the case has been enormous and it is realized that a second jury to try the case could never be obtained in this county.

BRIEFS

The alarm from Box 126 at 6.06 Wednesday evening was for a grass fire near Russell park.

The weekly dancing party of the Women's Relief Corps, 103, will be held tonight in Electa hall.

The alarm from Box 51 at 1.39 this noon was for a grass fire near the Tubular Rivet works.

The regular weekly whist party of the Washington Social club will be held tomorrow night.

Henry P. Kittredge has returned home after an extended trip through the Southern states and Cuba. Henry is as brown as a berry and his appearance reminds one of midsummer.

The City Council Committee on water supply meets tonight and the Committee on Streets Friday evening.

The high wind this morning was cold, raw and penetrating and was a reminder that March is keeping up its reputation for being a windy month.

The Columbia A. C. of this section has purchased the uniforms of the Washington Social club and will be in the field with a strong team this year.

One of the first social events scheduled after Easter is the annual concert and ball of the local street railway employes union. The affair will be held in Music hall April 23.

Lawrence Moran of Washington street, assistant engineer on the collier Melrose, built at Quincy, returns to his ship today, after a few days visit at his home.

William E. Dorley of River street leaves this week for Portland, Maine, from which place he will go to Key West, Florida. Bill is on a big ocean tug that at present is in the shipyard for repairs.

The Bigelow Jrs., sixteen year-old champions of the state, are preparing for the coming season when they say they will be the best ever. Already they have their paraphernalia out and they are busy polishing up their bats.

Regular Lenten devotions were held Wednesday evening in St. John's church. The services began with recitation of the rosary which was followed by a sermon on St. Patrick by Fr. Teeling of St. Philip's church, Roxbury. The sermon was followed by benediction which closed the services.

KNOX'S NOTE TO NICARAGUA

Supposed to Ask For Settlement of an Old Claim

ROWS IN CENTRAL AMERICA

State Department Will Endeavor to Put an End to Frequent Disturbances and Will Have the Co-operation of Mexico—South American Countries Have Fullest Confidence In Intentions of the United States

Washington, March 18.—Considerable interest, attended with much guessing as to its full import, is attached to the note which Secretary of State Knox has dispatched to Senor Espinoza, the Nicaraguan minister. It is supposed to contain a statement of the American government's present attitude on the Emery claim, which the United States has been trying to have arbitrated for years. Knox declines to say anything about the communication.

The secretary has been discussing the Central American situation with public men and with his congressional callers during the short period he has been at the head of the state department and it is known that he wants to see an end of the perennial disturbances which are a menace to the welfare of the various countries and a source of annoyance to the United States.

The situation has been likened to a hornets' nest, the causes for whose existence should be forever eradicated in no uncertain way. Whether the note to Espinoza contains any observations defining the position of this government as to what may be expected in the future from Nicaragua along the line of the wishes of this government cannot be learned from any responsible source, although this would not be surprising in the present temper of the administration.

That the permanent establishment of peaceful conditions in Central America may be brought about by the United States and Mexico is the wish expressed by the large South American countries, according to a statement of a prominent government official and a close student of Latin-American affairs.

He declares that there has been a recent change of attitude in these countries toward the United States, an attitude which would not have been possible several years ago. This is due, he added, more than to any other cause to the manner in which the government dealt with the Cuban situation, gaining thereby the confidence of the South American republics in the honesty of purpose and truthfulness of declaration of the United States. He pointed out that the administration papers in Brazil, Argentina and other countries, are advocating action by this government vigorous enough to bring the Central American republics to a realization of the fact that the welfare of all the American republics demands that they shall remain at peace with each other.

STAKED ALL ON DOWIE

Follower of "Apostle" Who Invested In Zion City Kills Himself

New York, March 18.—Despondent because he had lost all his life savings in investments in Zion City (Ills.) industries, the city started by the late John A. Dowie, Ludwig Auguszt, 71 years old, committed suicide by hanging in his room on Second avenue.

Auguszt became a follower of Dowie when the self-styled apostle of Zion visited here and held his famous meetings several years ago. The suicide invested about $3000 in the lace industry and bank stock in Zion City and was unable to get any return on his money after Zion went into the hands of a receiver.

A LACK OF MONEY

Many Porto Rican Public Institutions Are Forced to Close

San Juan, P. R., March 18.—The failure of the house of delegates to pass the deficiency appropriation bill has resulted in the closing of a number of night schools, the insular library, and other public institutions.

The federal court is without funds to pay jurors and the expenses of witnesses, and the lack of money will necessitate a reduction in the police force and the closing of the day schools several weeks earlier than is customary.

Use of Alcohol In Medicine

Washington, March 18.—Alcohol practically has no therapeutic uses, judging from the discussions at the semi-annual meeting of the American society for the study of alcohol and other drug narcotics. Some of the medical experts contend that on the whole it had few such uses, while one declared that alcohol is gradually being relegated as a drug.

Roseberry's Query

London, March 18.—Lord Roseberry has raised another alarming question by asking whether, in view of Germany's naval growth, Great Britain's territorial defense is adequate. He declares that this is an urgent matter, needing strict inquiry.

PLAYED POKER AND RECEIVED REBATES

Shippers Enjoyed Themselves While Railroads Footed Bills

Chicago, March 18.—Competition between soliciting agents for the Union Pacific railroads, prior to the so-called Harriman merger, became so active that representatives of the roads sought to buy business from shippers. Such was the statement of A. H. Ginz, former traffic manager of the South Bend Plow company, in the Chicago hearing of the government's dissolution suit against E. H. Harriman et al.

W. H. Knight, formerly general agent of the Union Pacific railroad, gave this description of competition between the railroads prior to the alamgamation of the Union and the Southern Pacific:

"Competition was so active that the railroads loaded the cars while the shippers played poker in a nearby hotel and were given rebates beside, instead of paying for the loading of the cars."

Other witnesses testified to active competition between the roads before the consolidation and the apparent lack of it since.

THEIR BUSINESS WANING

Coal Men Conclude That They Must Do Something to Brace It Up

Boston, March 18.—A two days' convention of the Retail Coal Dealers' association of New England, during which addresses have been delivered by prominent men in the trade from various parts of the east, closed last night with the election of officers for the coming year.

The general result of the conference has been the deduction that the consumption of coal has decreased in New England during the past few years and that a campaign of publicity and advertising must be taken up to retain business.

Running High Kick Record

Southboro, Mass., March 18.—A new world's record in the running high kick was made at the meet at St. Mark's school here by Harold Beebe of Malden, who did 9 feet, 10¼ inches. The previous record was 9 feet, 8 inches.

Oliver Formally Elected

Harrisburg, March 18.—The two houses of the Pennsylvania legislature, in joint session, formally declared George T. Oliver of Pittsburg elected to the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of Philander C. Knox.

WOLLASTON

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Townsend formerly of Warren avenue have returned from Boston where they have been for two years, and are living on Beale street corner of Old Colony avenue.

John Morgan of Standish avenue is on a week's business trip to Sing Sing, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

On Wednesday Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg was the guest of Rev. A. St. John Chambre, D. D. of Lowell, and preached at the evening lenten service in St. Anne's church of which Dr. Chambre has been the rector many years.

A two horse furniture team dashed down Dimmock street at a lively pace about 3.30 Tuesday afternoon, as they swung onto Hancock street Sergeant Hanson happened along and made a clever stop.

It is rumored that M. A. Boynton has bought the Redman property on Beale street and will open a provision store, after repairs are made.

Harvey Swan's absence from home makes it impossible for him to fulfil his engagement of the Unity club for Friday, March 19th. Mrs. Grace Gilbert, an interpretive reader of Somerville, and a graduate of Emerson School of Oratory, has kindly consented to give her services for that evening. Mrs. Gilbert will read "The Perfect Tribute" and afterwards "The Vindication of the Limerick." The music is in charge of Mrs. Page.

The quarterly convention of the Norfolk County Grand Army and Woman's Relief Corps associations were held at East Weymouth Wednesday. The Grand Army vets convened at 10 A. M. at G. A. R. hall and the meeting was presided over by President Oliver Houghton. The regular routine business was transacted and reports were read from the various Posts connected with the association. The morning session of the Woman's Relief Corps was held at Odd Fellows hall. The President Mrs. Laura A. Holt of Quincy presided and Mrs. Eliza Penniman of Quincy was secretary. Sixteen corps responded to the roll call.

The following towns were represented at the convention, Quincy, Hyde Park, Braintree, Holbrook, Cohasset, Canton, Brookline, Franklin, Dedham, Wellesley, Stoughton, Sharon, Walpole, Milton, Randolph, Medfield and Weymouth.

At noon dinner was served by the members of Reynolds Woman's Relief Corps. 325 sat down to the dinner.

In the afternoon a union meeting was held at the Opera house.

The department of Massachusetts G. A. R. was represented by the department president John Parker, Assistant Adjutant general De'Wolfe and Chaplain Lovejoy. The National Woman's Relief Corps was represented by the department secretary Mrs. Maria Going and the state department by Senior vice commander Mrs. Florence Haynes. Past department commander Mrs. Lue Stewart Wadsworth was also present.

The exercises of the afternoon were presided over by President Houghton and consisted of addresses by the department officers, selections by the Grand Army quartette and the singing of patriotic songs by those present.

The committee in charge was Mrs. Mary A. Holbrook, chairman; Mrs. Frank Vining, Mrs. J. J. Mahoney, Mrs. Job Lewis, Mrs. E. T. Jordan and Mrs. Sarah Cain all of Reynolds Woman's relief corps.

Mrs. William P. Litchfield has been entertaining her sister Mrs. J. F. Cushman ,wife of J. F. Cushman who is keeper of the North Scituate lighthouse.

The ladies of the Third Universalist church North Weymouth, on Wednesday evening gave a banquet to the members of the Universalist Dramatic club of Weymouth Landing, who presented the drama "Our Folks" at North Weymouth a few weeks ago.

ALL IN GREEN.

Novel St. Patrick's Day Party Held at Home of Mrs. H. S. Barker.

Mrs. Herbert S. Barker of Hancock street gave a St. Patrick's Day party Wednesday evening to many of her friends. Green was the predominating color and everything looked very effective. Green candles with shades to match burned at each end of the table, which was decorated with green and white flowers and spread with a green and white table cloth.

The guests played whist the first part of the evening, after which a green supper was served. Potted shamrocks were presented to each guest as a favor for the evening.

Those present were: Mrs. Pinkham, Mrs. Bachelder and Mrs. Herbert T. Baker of Weymouth, Mrs. Glover of Jamaica Plain, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Harry W. Read, Mrs. William F. Cummings, Mrs. James H. Churchill, Mrs. Frank Jenkins and Mrs. Elija Hall, Atlantic.

BARLOW—STONE.

A very pretty home wedding took place Tuesday evening at Wollaston when Miss Agnes Mabel Bailey of 124 Belmont street, daughter of Mrs. Carrie E. Stone, became the bride of Warren Jackson Barlow. Mr. Barlow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha J. Barlow of Norfolk street, Wollaston.

Rev. James Walther of the Wollaston Baptist church performed the ceremony at the home of the bride, which was prettily decorated with palms and ferns.

Chester F. Barlow of Wollaston, was the best man, while the maid of honor was Miss Gertrude Barlow of Wollaston, who wore a gown of pink silk.

Four young ladies, friends of the bride, attended her as bridesmaids. These were Miss Madge Hatfield of Wollaston ,wearing a gown of blue erepe de chine, Miss Zita Pitts of Wollaston, white organdie trimmed with val lace, Miss Lois A. Calderwood of Wollaston, ecru net over corn colored silk and Miss Nellie McKenna of Braintree, blue silk .

Miss Irene E. Pitts was the flower girl and Master William C. Hoxie the page. The ushers were Sherman H. Calderwood, John B. Shay, Hammond B. Rodd, Michael Pitts of Wollaston and John Curtis of Quincy. James Maynard, the noted blind musician presided at the piano and during the evening played several pleasing selections.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a dress of blond net over white silk, trimmed with thread lace. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses. To each one of her bridesmaids she presented a beautiful lace handkerchief. The groom gave the bride a sunburst of pearls and the best man a stick pin.

After the ceremony there was a reception from 9 to 12, the bride and groom being assisted in receiving by Mrs. S. H. Calderwood and Mrs. Hammond B. Rodd both of Wollaston. Mrs. Calderwood wore a simple dress of white silk and a pearl necklace, while Mrs. Rodd wore pale pink silk and a gold necklace .

After a honeymoon to Vermont Mr. and Mrs. Barlow will reside at 124 Belmont street, Wollaston.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Barlow, Mrs. Elisha Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Hammond B. Rodd, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman H. Calderwood, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Shay, Mr. and Mrs. James Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Pitts, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, Miss Gertrude M. Barlow, Miss Lois A. Calderwood, Miss Madge Hatfield, Mrs. A. M. Lord, Miss Helen Lord, Miss Zita Pitts, Miss Nellie McKenna, John Taft, Chester Barlow, Llewellyn Barlow, William C. Hoxie, Harry Blockridge, John Shay.

GRANITE CITY WHIST.

Good scores were the rule Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament at the rooms or the Granite City club. Seven tables contested and the play was keen. When the percentages were figured up it was found that George W. Jones was the high man with a score of 71 percent and Dr. H. C. Hallowell a good second with a score of 70 percent. The usual lunch was served at the conclusion of play.

MIX-UP IN NUMBERS CONFUSES FIREMEN

Box Sixty-One Pulled But Fifty-One Rings

Alarm from Box 61 1.38 Thursday afternoon was for a fire in the blind attic of a double house on Squantum street owned by the Hodges estate.

The fire started from some unknown cause in the attic, worked its way through the roof.

Box 61 which is within a few feet of the house was pulled in.

For some unaccountable cause the first two rounds of the box came in as 51. This misled the Wollaston apparatus which went to the Tubular Rivet works.

Finding a grass fire near there it was supposed that the alarm had been rung in for this.

Meanwhile the Atlantic apparatus was at work at the fire.

As Wollaston did not respond Officer Larkin was sent to Box 51 to notify the Wollaston firemen that the fire was at Box 61.

This delay fortunately did not work any damage as the Atlantic firemen soon had the fire under control.

The fire did not get into the house proper. It worked through the roof however and this will have to be reshingled.

The loss will probably not exceed $300 at the outside.

The house was occupied by Henry DeYoung and Charles Landry.

WHITING—SAWYER.

A quiet wedding took place Monday evening when William J. Whiting and Mrs. Annie E. Sawyer both of Quincy were married by the Rev. Henry G. Megathlin at his residence on Wollaston avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Whiting will be at home to their friends after May first at 738 Hancock street, Wollaston.

DATES ASSIGNED FOR OPEN RACES

Mass. Yacht Racing Asso. Holds Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the yacht racing association of Massachusetts was held Thursday evening at Young's hotel, and was largely attended. The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed the association to be in good condition with $811 in the treasury.

After the reelection of the 1908 officers there was a discussion of the question of the association holding a run from City Point to Marblehead the Sunday before Marblehead midsummer week.

This idea was favored principally by the clubs of Boston harbor, but upon a vote of the delegates it was defeated.

The amendments to the racing rules as adopted by the Atlantic coast conference at the meeting in December, 1908, with a number of changes, principally striking out the words "yawls" and "schooner" wherever they occurred, were passed.

The associations racing dates and those of the Corinthian, Boston and Eastern yacht clubs for 1909, were assigned. The conflicts in the dates are those of June 26, when the Eastern and Mosquito Fleet clubs hold races: July 10, Corinthian and Columbia; July 24, Corinthian and Squantum; Aug. 7, Boston and Winthrop; Aug. 11, Boston and Corinthian; Sept. 6, Corinthian and Lynn.

The Quincy cup races will come July 19 to 24 and the Sonder trials Aug. 16 to 21, with the German-American match probably beginning Sept. 6 or 7.

The racing dates:

May 31—South Boston Y. C., open, City Point.

June 5—Boston Y. C., club, City Point.

June 12—Corinthian Y. C., club, Marblehead.

June 17—Boston Y. C., open, Hull.

June 19—Corinthian Y. C., club, Marblehead.

MUSIC HALL.

What should be of great interest to all children is the singing school of popular songs to be conducted by Jack Payne the famous baritone next Saturday afternoon at Music hall. This will be a novelty that all children within ten miles of Quincy should see.

The program will consist of St. James and LaToy in their funny make up as the jester jugglers.

Billy Colemon the College boy who is doing a great musical stunt. Mr. Colemon has just finished a long engagement with Keith's circuit and his act is considered one of the best of its kind in this country.

Jack and Gilda Cannon in their Irish Comedy sketch will keep you laughing from the start to finish. Quincy has certainly got a show at last worthy of the biggest patronage and Music hall should be well attended both Monday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee. During the Lenten season but three performances each week will be given Monday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee.

MRS. ANNIE MEWIS.

Mrs. Annie, wife of William Mewis died Monday in the Homoeopathic Hospital where she went five days previous. Mrs. Mewis had been ill for two years and in her weakened condition was unable to rally sufficiently after the operation. She leaves a husband a son, Albion, and five daughters Harriette, Gertrude, Lillian, Grace and Delphine.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon from her home 10 Quincy street. The Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg officiated and the burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

—Brigadier-General Andrew S. Burt, retired, who commanded a regiment of negro soldier before he became a brigadier general, comes forward to say that negroes make good soldiers. He says that the negroes under his command were "the right sort." He adds. "I have always found the majority of negro enlisted men to compare more than favorably with white soldiers." Referring to the Brownsville soldiers, he believes that "it will be found that a very large percentage of those who apply for re-enlistment will be able to show that they had no connection with the shooting." His opinion based on experience, commands respect.

—The American Society for the Study of Alcohol and Other Drug Narcotics (which should undergo an operation upon its title) is in session at Washington. An Atlanta physician has told the delegates that alcohol soothes the English, excites the French, is an anaesthetic to the German, emboldens the Italian, gives enthusiasm to the Irish, and gives the American a general feeling of power and capacity. This is very important.

WILL RETURN IN FIFTEEN MONTHS

Roosevelt Tells Neighbors He Will Come Back "Alive."

Oyster Bay, N. Y., March 19.—Theodore Roosevelt received at his home on Sagamore Hill "Roosevelt's Neighbors of Nassau County, N. Y." a delegation of 250 men, Republicans and Democrats, who he had planned to receive at the White House on March 3, but who failed, on account of the storm, to reach Washington in time.

To them the former president, from the veranda of his home, made his last public utterances prior to his departure for Africa. He assured them that he intended to disprove the gloomy foreboding of Professor Starr, who declared that Roosevelt will not come out of Africa alive if he follows the itinerary he has mapped out.

He promised those present that if he proved he was right in a year and a quarter they would celebrate together. From this remark it appears that Roosevelt will be absent from the United States no longer than fifteen months.

OPENS WRONG DOOR.

Aged Man Falls Down Stairs and Breaks His Back.

William Smith, aged about 60 years, fell down the cellar stairs at his home, corner of Paine and Phipps street, this morning and broke his back.

Mr. Smith got up in the night and went down stairs for something in the closet.

In the darkness he became confused and instead of opening the closet door he opened the cellar door and fell headlong to the bottom.

The noise of his fall aroused the family, who ran to his assistance.

He was attended by Dr. Jones.

Mr. Smith is a member of the Smith Bros. Granite Co.

LARGE FINE IMPOSED.

The continued case of Laura E. Rider for keeping a disorderly house on Parkhurst street, Houghs Neck was heard before Judge Avery in the district court this morning.

A number of neighbors were called as witnesses. They testified that the house was very noisy on Sunday nights.

That men and women had been seen going there and that the noise of dancing and singing often continued until 2 or 3 o'clock Monday morning. There was no evidence however that liquor had been sold there, or that the parties were intoxicated.

The court imposed a fine of $75 and suspended the sentence until September.

GYMNASIUM NOTES.

At the Y. M. C. A. state meet at Newton Thursday night the Quincy relay team, consisting of W. Griffiths, J. Wilson, H. Ulrich and J. E. Newell defeated the fast Malden team. The medals for the race are on exhibition at the Y. M. C. A. building and will be presented to the winners at the exhibition on Saturday evening.

Tomorrow evening the basket ball team journeys to North Abington to play a return game.

The free exhibition on Saturday night, March 20, promises to be something new. It will be a gymnastic exhibition without apparatus. A full program consisting of athletic drills, gymnastics, folk dances, games and races will entertain and amuse all who attend.

The exhibition is free to the public and all are cordially invited to enjoy an evening in the gymnasium.

—A daughter of John Pierpont Morgan, says the Lynn Item, has procured the right to start a restaurant in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, for the benefit of the men employed there. The meals are not to be given to the men, but she believes that better food for less money can be provided than the men now can buy, and it is her purpose to demonstrate this to the government and persuade the department to maintain such an institution in all the navy yards. Miss Morgan is in a position to make good any deficit that may attend the experiment. Of course she will endeavor to make it a success, and if she does, her name will be ranked in the minds of the grateful employees of the navy yard, as the name of Helen Gould stands in the affection of the jackies. The philanthropies of these daughters of wealthy fathers are to be highly commended.

PICKWICK CLUB.

Members and Guests Enjoy Reminiscent Show.

It was "open meeting" at the Pickwick club on Wednesday evening, and many guests were present to enjoy the Reminiscent Show, which had been prepared by several of the members.

H. Houghton Schumacher was host and entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Page of Winthrop avenue.

Mrs. Alden read an outline of "The Rivals," after which the "Challenge" and "Duel" scenes were presented with the following cast:

Bob Acres, Mr. Simmons; David, Mr. Marsh; Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Mr. Loring; Captain Absolute, Mr. Arthur Hall; Faulkland, Mr. Badger; Sir Anthony Absolute, Mr. J. O. Hall; Mrs. Malaprop, Mrs. Simmons; Lydia, Mrs. Badger; Julia, Mrs. Arthur Hall.

The second number on the program was a musical comedy entitled "Cups and Saucers," in which the following took part:

Mrs. Nankeen Worcester, Mrs. Gurney; General Deelah, Mr. Gurney, Jane, Miss Hubbard.

Two scenes from "Henry V" were then presented with the characters:

King Henry, Mr. Schumacher; Katharine, Miss Hubbard; Alice, Miss Fay.

The dramatic part of the program closed with the play "Apples." Parts were taken by Mrs. Beattie as Lady Roedale, Miss Sargent as Betty Tyrrel, and Mr. Hardwick as Claude Huntley.

Several of the parts have been taken by the same people before and the old favorites were received with special enthusiasm.

During the evening Mrs. Chandler W. Smith gave several musical selections, which were greatly enjoyed.

Last but not least delicious refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake were served.

THE SCARLET BONNETT.

Young Girls Present Clever Comedy at the Point.

"The Scarlet Bonnet," a comedy in two acts, was presented Thursday evening at the Washington street Congregational church by several of the younger girls of the church. A large attendance was present and liberally applauded the work of the girls. All the parts were played very well and showed hard work and excellent training.

Following is the cast of characters:

Mercy Mather and Hope Mather, (two pinster sisters who have lost their fortune and who start a girls' school)—Erminie Caine and Esther Dahlberg.

Jane Gordon (with strict ideas and a soft heart)—Elizabeth Beattie.

Jean Gordon, (orphan niece)—Helen Mayer.

Mattie White and Alice Bennett, (two pupils)—Mildred Bonney and Clara Bushnell.

Johan Lorentsen, Ethel Joy, Florence Thayer and Isabella Foster acted as ushers.

GIVEN A SURPRISE PARTY.

Friends of Miss Mabel Skinner Present Her With Handsome Umbrella.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Mabel Skinner at her home on Charles street, Quincy Point, Thursday evening. A very pleasant evening was spent playing games, etc. Miss Skinner was presented with a handsome umbrella. Refreshments were served during the evening. Among those who were present were: Miss Mildred Gragg, Miss Elizabeth Auld, Miss Helen Sherburne, Miss Ruth Thayer, Miss Minnie Thayer, Miss Lulu Moody, Miss Lillian Eaton, Miss Mabel Means, Miss Mabel Skinner, Miss Bessie Chisholm, Fred Holbrook, Alfred Artis, Forrest Hayden, William Thayer, Jack Nix, Lewis French, William French, William Artis, Earl Grant, Tom Skinner and Master Arthur Skinner.

RECENT DEATHS.

Robert B. MacPherson.

Robert B. MacPherson aged 60 years of 87 Rhoda street, Rock Island, died March 17, after a brief illness. Mr. MacPherson was a carpenter and was at work shingling a house. He became exposed to the high wind and took a severe chill which caused heart trouble from which he died. He was a widower.

Luke J. Coyle.

Luke J. Coyle a well known resident of Quincy died Thursday night at his home 125 Brackett street after a lingering illness aged 53 years.

Mr. Coyle was a blacksmith by trade which he followed for many years until failing health compelled him to give up work.

He was one of the first election inspectors appointed when Quincy became a city and he has been reappointed every year since that time. He leave a family.

FROM SECOND UNITARIAN CHURCH

Funeral of George T. Angell To Be Held Saturday

At a special joint meeting of the Massachusetts society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the American Humane Education society Thursday official recognition of the death of George T. Angell, the founder and president of the societies, was taken by the adoption of resolutions expressing profound regret for the death of the great humanitarian, deep respect for his memory and heartfelt condolence for his widow.

The directors of the M. S. P. C. A. voted to close the general business offices of the society all day Saturday, the day of the funeral. In accordance with Mr. Angell's idea, however, that the society should be always ready to receive emergency calls, agent Harry L. Allen will remain on duty.

It was also voted that the directors act as honorary pallbearers

The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock Saturday at the Second Unitarian church, Copely square, Boston, Rev. Thomas Van Ness, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. D. S. H. Roblin of the Second Universalist church.

The body will lie in state in the church from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. Saturday, and will have a guard of honor chosen from the agents of the society.

NEIGHBORLY WHIST CLUB.

The Neighborly whist club met Thursday night at the home of Mrs. John F. Bruton on Washington street. As usual the scores were high and many close games were played.

Mrs. John Robb captured the first ladies' prize, while the first gentlemen's prize was won by William T. Donovan. Mrs. Henry Gallagher and Thomas F. Hoyle won the second prizes.

Consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. James Gallagher and John F. Donovan.

After the whist a social hour, was spent, during which refreshments were served.

Do You Use A Filter?

We do not wish to alarm you but with our present system of water supply we would suggest that you place in operation on one of your cold water faucets, from which drinking water is drawn, one of our MODERN FILTERS and observe results. The filter is inexpensive and may be operated with ease by a child. Filter pads may be changed as frequently as desired, a pad or two a day if necessary. Renewal pads cost but 25 cents per 150 pieces. If you will call at our shop, we will gladly show you filter and pads after being in use 24 hours. An optical demonstration is the most convincing evidence. Free trial of FILTER at your home, if you desire.

It may be well to remind the ground-hog, that his contract is about to expire by limitation.

The difference between Root and Platt is already noticeable without the aid of a field glass.

The trust is to increase the price of cigarettes, which is better news than we might have expected from that quarter.

It is announced that Secretary Dickinson of the War Department will go to Panama at his earliest convenience and that he will occupy a private stateroom upon a public liner, and not preempt a war vessel. This would seem to indicate that travelling by the cabinet officers under the new regime is to be conducted along simpler lines than has heretofore been the case.

Comparing imports of manufacturers' materials during January last with those of the two preceding Januaries renewed activity is shown, according to the figures prepared by the bureau of statistics. The quantity of wool, for example, imported in January 1909, was more than 24,000,000 pounds against 9,500,000 pounds in January 1908, and 18,000,000 pounds in January 1907. Of lumber there was imported in January 1909, 35,785,000 feet as against 30,744,000 feet in January 1908, and 44,747,000 feet in January 1907.

There seems to be little doubt that a clash between Nicaragua and Salvador is imminent, though the reports are conflicting as to the actual existence of hostilities, and that President Zelaya of Nicaragua is at the bottom of it. Evidently these turbulent republics need to be brought to a realization of the fact that the Central American "Peace pact" is something more than printed paper. Both the United States and Mexico were represented at this convention and are parties to it, and both will regard it their duty to intervene in case of hostilities to the extent of using force if need be. These governments believe unquestionably that the signing of the peace conventions at Washington on December 20, 1907, by themselves and the Central American republics was virtually an acknowledgment of their right and duty to maintain peace and order in Central America.

Although the Ledger makes it a rule not to print articles sent in anonymously, the following article which we found in our mails two successive days, was so pertinent that we decided to use it

"A gentleman from out of town was in our midst last week looking over the field to determine whether there was room for another newspaper in this city. After being informed that within the past five years three journalistic ventures had been laid away in unmarked graves, he decided not to experiment here. The Ledger prints all the news that is fit to print, and it affords ample opportunity for the business men to reach the people through advertisements in its pages. Readers and advertisers are satisfied with the paper, and the paper reciprocates their confidence and good-will by giving to them their money's worth. In addition to this, the Daily Ledger does its full share to promote the interests of the city, thereby serving the interests of the citizens in a double sense. And the equipment and resources of this paper are such that it can in the future, as in the past, expand to meet and serve the journalistic needs of Quincy as fast as they increase."

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

The emphatic rejection of the proposition to give juries in capital cases the authority to stipulate, in the verdict of guilty, that the punishment of death shall not be inflicted, reflects unquestionably the popular sentiment as regards this question. The death penalty for the crime of murder will be retained. It may be that juries will be deterred by sentiment from conviction because of this fact, but we doubt that failure of justice will often follow in consequence. The question is one which has long pressed upon our legislation. This should settle it for the present at least.—Boston Post.

Not content with regulating the thirst of its citizens, Maine now has under consideration—said to be serious—a plan for coercing its wilful celibates into marriage, or, if not quite that, at least for making them pay an annual tax to be used as a fund from which to pension those whose celibacy is reluctant. The proposition, as formulated in a bill introduced by a Maine statesman, is to extort $10 a year from every bachelor over thirty years of age who cannot prove that he has offered marriage to three women or to one woman three times, and the money thus raised is to be divided among the spinsters who have never received even one proposal from a fairly eligible suitor.

This scheme is to be commended in that it admits the possibility that some women, as well as some men, remain unmarried from preference, not compulsion, but in these days, when there is so much talk about equal rights for both sexes, it is hard to see why the women who avoid the matrimonial yoke should not be fined as heavily as the men guilty of the same incivism. It would be only justice, if the voluntary bachelors are to contribute to the support of the involuntary spinsters, that the obligation should be reversed and the voluntary spinsters contribute to the support of the involutary the involuntary bachelors.

And there will be trouble when it comes to deciding on claims for exemptions and pensions. By what standards, for instance, is the eligibility of suitors to be decided? Why any woman marries any man is usually a dark mystery to the acquaintances of both, and reasons for rejection in any given case might be even harder to discover. Our own impression is that the plan will not work. The economists try to make out that there is a relation between the number of marriages and the state of what is called "the times," and the statistics seem to bear out their theory, but the relation, if it exists is a vague and indirect one, and the heed given to it must be purely subconscious in the vast majority of cases.

Perhaps it would be safe enough to pass the law, however, for every unmarried man could swear to anywhere from a dozen to twenty true and holy passion that came to nothing, much against his will, and of course there never was a woman who would go into court and testify that she never had an offer.—New York Times.

WOLLASTON YACHT CLUB.

Benjamin Pitts of Boston has been appointed janitor of the Wollaston Yacht club house and will take charge next Monday.

The executive committee of the club has decided to change the locks and keys on all of the lockers at the club house. This work is now under way and the new keys will be ready to be issued in about two weeks.

Work will be commenced next week painting the club house and wharf trimmings.

COVERT THREAT TO MURDER BOY

Made In Letter to Mother Written by Kidnapper

DEMANDS A $10,000 RANSOM

Unknown Man Takes Eight-Year-Old Son of Well-to-Do Parents From School In Pennsylvania Town and Disappears—Police and Detectives Think That Abductor's Capture Will Be Question of but a Short Time

Sharon, Pa., March 19.—Ten thousand dollars ransom is demanded for the return of William Whitela, Attorney James P. Whitela's 8-year-old son, who was spirited away from school here by an unknown man, furnishing a mystery which the detectives of the country are being asked to solve. Accompanying the demand for ransom is a covert threat that the boy will be killed unless the money is produced.

Hundreds of telegrams and telephone messages have been sent to the police of various cities asking their assistance in the search for the boy and his abductors.

The first fruit of these came when Chief of Police Crain of this city received word that the vehicle in which the lad was taken away had been recovered at Warren, O., with the child's hat on the buggy seat.

All the zeal of police and detectives is now being centered in the region about Warren, and those in charge of the case think that the kidnapper has but a slender chance. To the boldness and openness of the abductor is attributed his success in getting the child out of Sharon without exciting serious suspicion.

Attorney and Mrs. Whitela are among the town's leading residents. The former is a brother-in-law of Frank H. Buhl, the multi-millionaire steel man. A stranger drove up to the East Ward schoolhouse Thursday, where young Whitela is a pupil, and told the janitor, Wesley Sloss, the lad was wanted at once at his father's office.

Sloss conveyed the message to Mrs. Anna Lewis, the boy's teacher, who dismissed the child. As she was helping him put on his overcoat she remarked, half jokingly, "I hope that man does not kidnap Willie."

The man in the buggy had a dark complexion, dark hair and a stubby mustache. He was stockily built. He spoke excellent English and was evidently American born. When Sloss appeared with the boy the stranger smiled and helped him up to the seat beside him. He then drove off in the direction of Whitela's office.

Several persons say a confederate joined the kidnapper before he left the town. Little was thought of the incident and there was no belief that a crime had been committed until the lad failed to appear for his noonday meal. Becoming worried, Mrs. Whitela began a search. At the school she learned of what had occurred there three hours before.

Terrified, she conferred with a friend of the family. The latter telephoned to Whitela, who had gone to New Wilmington on business. Whitela directed what steps should be taken immediately to recover his son and late in the afternoon arrived in person.

At 1 o'clock a letter directed to the mother was delivered at the house by a mail carrier. Mrs. Whitela at once recognized the handwriting on the envelope as that of her son. Opening it she found the following communication written in a strange hand:

"We have your boy and will return for $10,000. Will see your advertisement in the papers. Insert in Indianapolis News, Cleveland Press, Pittsburg Dispatch, Youngstown Vindicator. 'A. A.—Will do as requested. J. P. W.' Dead boys are not desirable."

The penmanship and spelling of the note indicated it had been written by a man of fair education. Whitela decided to comply with the conditions of the letter and sent for publication to each of the newspapers specified the note it directed him to insert.

PARNELL LAND LEAGUE.

The Parnell branch of the Irish National land League held its 27th anniversary in Hibernian hall on Wednesday night. In the early part of the evening there was an entertainment consisting of Irish songs and dances, in which the following, among others took part: Peter McConarty, Mrs. Edward Burns, Margaret Burns, and John Coughlin. Thompson's orchestra furnished music for the dance which followed the entertainment.

During the evening a lunch was served by the members and their wives.

George Cahill had charge of the floor, and he was ably assisted by a corps of aids. Edward Burns was chairman of the committee of arrangements which included Michael Burns, James D. Kelley, Timothy Ford and Henry Murphy, assisted by the members of the league.

BLAME IS PLACED UPON NICARAGUA

Her Military Activity Causing Central American Uneasiness

Washington, March 19.—Central American affairs continue to be an important topic of discussion at the state department.

This government has been frank with the Central American republics and has taken pains to acquaint them with the steps taken by the United States and Mexico for the preservation of peace in Central America, made necessary by the warlike activity in Nicaragua.

Word received here is that military activity in Nicaragua continues and she is charged with being the sole cause of the unsettled conditions in Central America.

DISCUSSION OF TARIFF

Indications That Party Lines Will Be Eliminated by Congressmen

Washington, March 19.—That party lines will be eliminated during the consideration in the house of the Payne tariff bill was indicated by the action of Representative Broussard of Louisiana in withdrawing from the meeting of the minority members of the committee because he differed with their views on the tariff.

With few exceptions, each member of the house will fight for the interests of his home district. There is little prospect of any lengthy general debate on the bill and the consideration of the measure under the five-minute rule for amendment will be proceeded with as soon as possible.

PROBE IS CONCLUDED

Number of Indictments Expected In Pittsburg Graft Case

Pittsburg, March 19.—The grand jury investigation of alleged councilmanic corruption has concluded. A report will be made by the jury to Judge Davis today and interesting developments in the graft scandal of Pittsburg are expected to follow immediately.

Rumors are extremely sensational. One report is to the effect that at least ten men prominent in the affairs of this city are to be arrested. In all quarters it is generally believed a number of indictments will be returned.

Anticipating Stork's Visit

The Hague, March 19.—In view of the imminence of an interesting event in the royal household the government today will ask parliament, in the case of a birth of an heir to the throne, to confide the regency to the queen mother. In default of the queen mother the appointment of the prince consort will be requested.

SILVER MEDAL FOR MISS M'CANN

Speaker Cannon Throws In a Kiss For Good Measure

CEREMONY AT THE CAPITOL

Young Woman Saved Lives of Many Children In the Slocum Disaster When She Was a Girl of Fourteen and Was Just Recovering From Scarlet Fever—Long Search to Confer Honor Upon Her

Washington, March 19.—For heroism in saving the lives of nine children during the burning of the General Slocum, near New York, in 1904, Miss Mary McCann was presented by Speaker Cannon, on behalf of congress, with a silver life saving medal.

Then she was just a little girl, 14 years old, recovering from scarlet fever on North Brother Island. Now she is a young woman, but, notwithstanding her more advanced age, at the conclusion of the presentation ceremonies the speaker took her blushing face between his hands and kissed her. The presentation ceremonies took place in the speaker's rooms at the Capitol.

Miss McCann is about to be graduated as a trained nurse from the Florence Crittenton training school in this city, and a number of women from that institution accompanied her.

Representative Goulden of New York, in whose district Miss McCann lives, explained to Speaker Cannon that for four years a search was made to find Miss McCann to confer this honor upon her. She was one of the nine persons who were awarded medals by congress for heroism in saving persons from the ill fated picnic steamer. All but Miss McCann were men.

The New York congressman related how Miss McCann, at the imminent peril of her life, waded out into the water to bring ashore such children as she could carry. He told of how her strength failed her on the tenth trip and how she then had to be rescued herself.

In presenting the medal Cannon commented upon the theory that there is a great breadth between sanity and insanity and between cowardice and heroism.

"How fortunate it was that day you were on the side of heroism," and he looked steadily at the heroine of that day. He concluded, however, that when put to the test most of the human family are likely to prove themselves heroes and heroines. Despite those who clothe themselves in hypocrisy and tell the public that things are going to havoc, the speaker declared America and the world in general are all right.

"And new permit me to present to you an expression of appreciation of your heroism, and may your tribe increase," concluded the speaker. A photograph of the speaker and Miss McCann and others was taken and the speaker with a kiss wished Miss McCann a happy life.

STRIKE BILL IS KILLED

Massachusetts Senate Turns Down Bill to Make Them Legal

Boston, March 19.—The closest labor fight in the senate since the passage of the famous overtime bill, resulted in the defeat of the bill to legalize strikes by upholding the imposition of fines. The vote was 13 to 14 on a roll call.

The bill was that submitted by Senator Ross on the petition of the American Federation of Labor, permitting any association to impose fines. It was intended to cover the decision of the supreme court that a labor union could not legally fine its members for the purpose of carrying on a strike.

END OF LENOX FARMS

New York Man Buys the Last Ones For a Residence

Lenox, Mass., March 19.—By the purchase of five farms in this town, Harris Fahenstock of New York acquired an estate of 724 acres and it is said will spend immediately $250,000 in the erection of a residence and the improvement of the property.

The purchase removes from Lenox practically the last of the milk and produce farms. The town now consists almost wholly of large estates.

Fahenstock is a member of the firm of Fahenstock & Co. of 2 Wall street and has a residence in New York city.

Union Depot Destroyed

Louisville, March 19.—By the destruction here, at a loss of $400,000, of the Union depot, the local terminal for five leading railroads, Louisville will probably benefit by a new union station. This was decided by the Commercial club half an hour after the building was a mass of smoking debris. Crossed wires caused the fire.

First Bill to Pass Special Session

TAFT'S TRIBUTE TO CLEVELAND

Great Democrat Is Lauded at New York Meetings

NATION OWES MUCH TO HIM

President Says Some Useful Precedents Were Established by Courage Displayed In Controversy With Senate—Roosevelt Bears Testimony to Late President's Courage and Earnest Purpose to Serve Country

New York, March 19.—Notable eulogies were rendered here to mark the 72d anniversary of the birth of the late President Grover Cleveland. At the memorial exercises President Taft, Governor Hughes, Chief Justice Fuller and Mayor McClellan made addresses.

President Taft was introduced at Carnegie Hall by Mr. McClellan, who called upon the audience to rise and be presented to the President of the United States. The president's speech was frequently broken by applause.

He reviewed Cleveland's public work through his two presidential administrations, and regarding his influence upon a much-mooted problem of today, said:

"We hear much in these days of the usurpation of the legislative jurisdiction by the executive branch. As long as the legislative branch has the power of the purse, the danger of executive usurpation is imaginative.

"The real danger arises from the legislative branch to assume that it has the omnipotence of parliament and may completely control the discretion conferred upon the executive by the constitution. The country is under obligations to Mr. Cleveland for having pointed out in his controversy with the Republican senate some of the limitations that there are in the constitution upon attempted legislative action to restrict executive discretion.

"In the end Mr. Cleveland won in his controversy with the senate. Whether he might have done so, had both the house and the senate been against him, is a matter of doubt. The limit of legislative restriction upon executive action is a difficult line to define.

"We owe to Mr. Cleveland and his courage in dealing with the senate of the United States the establishment of some useful precedents."

A letter from ex-President Roosevelt was read, and also an appropriate poem written by Richard W. Gilder.

Ex-President Roosevelt's letter was as follows:

"I was a member of the legislature when Mr. Cleveland became governor of the state of New York at the beginning of the year 1883, and for the next twenty-five years on several different occasions I was brought into close contact with him. For two years during his second administration I served under him as civil service commissioner. Like all others who were thrown closely with him I was much impressed by his high standard of official conduct and his rugged strength of character.

"Not only did I become intimately acquainted with the manner in which he upheld and enforced the civil service law, but I also saw at close quarters his successful fight against free silver, and the courage with which he, aided by men like the late Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota, supported the judiciary at the time of the Chicago riot; and, finally, I happened to be in a position in which I knew intimately how he acted and the reasons why he acted in the Venezuelan matter.

"This knowledge gained at first hand enables me to bear testimony, which I am more than glad to bear, to the late president's earnest purpose to serve the whole country, and the high courage with which he encountered every species of opposition and attack. Owing to peculiar combination of circumstances he went out of office assailed even more bitterly by his own party than by the opposing party, and shortsighted people thought that the great mass of American citizens had repudiated him and disbelieved in him.

"All Americans should pay honor to the memory of Mr. Cleveland because of the simplicity and dignity with which as ex-president he led his life in the beautiful college town wherein he elected to live. He had been true to the honorable tradition which has kept our presidents from making money while in office. His life was therefore of necessity very simple; but it was the kind of life which it is a good thing to see led by any man who has held a position such as he held."

CLIMAX OF PARIS STRIKE

Tieup of the Public Service Now Appears to Be Complete

Paris, March 19.—There is not the slightest indication of a break in the deadlock between the government and its striking employes, nor is there any prospect of an improvement in the situation. The strike, however, will be made the subject of consideration in the chamber of deputies today and a solution of the problem may then be furnished.

The climax of the strike was reached last night when 5000 repairers, linesmen and mechanics decided to join the strikers. These were the last remaining workmen employed by the postal administration.

The cabinet at its session last night passed a decree authorizing the dismissal of its late employes of the state service and reaffirmed its determination not to yield. It announced that many merchants have offered to lend to the government their employes to ensure the public service. This is indicative of the completeness of the tie-up and the extremity to which the government has been forced.

NOT PROPERLY LABELLED

More Than Fifteen Thousand Bottles of Catsup Dumped Overboard

Providence, March 19.—The waters of Narragansett bay were well seasoned with tomato catsup when 650 cases, containing 15,600 bottles, were dumped into the sea because they did not meet the requirements of the provisions of the federal pure food law.

The catsup was intercepted here while in transit from Baltimore to Boston. Judge Brown of the United States district court ruled that the catsup should be confiscated, inasmuch as the manufacturers had not labelled the bottles in accordance with the pure food law.

The stuff was placed on the steamer Saganaore and carried to a point off Hog Island, when the corkscrews were brought into play and the contents of every bottle went overboard. United States Marshal Ballou superintended the work and it took over three hours to accomplish the task.

WONDERFUL RECORD OF HOLSTEIN COW

Five Hundred and Fifty-One Pounds of Milk In a Week

Brockton, Mass., March 19.—A world's record yield of milk by a cow for seven consecutive days has been made at the Amherst experiment station by Pontiac Gladi, a Holstein, belonging to the herd owned by Fred F. Field of this city.

During the seven days of the test the cow yielded 551.2 pounds of milk, from which 31.94 pounds of butter was obtained. The average percent of fat was 4.66.

To insure correctness of figures the cow was under watch continuously, night and day.

THE CUBAN UPRISING

Fugitives Likely to Evade Their Pursuers For Several Days

Havana, March 19.—The government is without further news of the uprising in Santa Clara province. Renewed assurances, however, have come from General Monteagudo that all avenues of escape for the insurgents is cut off and that the capture and destruction of the band is absolutely certain.

Owing to the sparse population and the rugged nature of the country it is possible that the fugitives may succeed in evading pursuit for some days. The principal danger now is that they may commit some serious depredations, such as burning sugar plantations or blowing up railroad bridges.

The killing of ex-Captain Lavastida by the rural guards has excited much unfavorable comment. President Gomez has appointed a special judge to investigate the affair.

NO HASTY CONCLUSION

Feeling Growing That Jury In Carmack Case Will Disagree

Nashville, March 19.—Another day passed and no intimation of an agreement came from the room in which the twelve men are trying to decide the fate of Duncan B. and Robin Cooper and John D. Sharp for the alleged murder of E. W. Carmack.

This was the second day of suspense and the feeling is growing that there will be a disagreement. Counsel on both sides, however, as well as the court, hold that there will be a verdict.

Merrymaking Turned to Panic

Miller, Nev., March 19.—Isaac Pissek was burned to death and six others were burned or injured in a fire which destroyed Lyndsay's hotel and two adjoining buildings here. The fire broke out during a dance and caused a panic.

Murder Plot Against Ameer

London, March 19.—A Times special says that the Ameer of Afghanistan has ordered numerous arrests on the discovery of a plot to murder himself, the heir apparent and the other members of his family.

WEYMOUTH

Weymouth Council Knights of Columbus held a meeting last evening and after the business meeting the chaplain Rev. John A. Butler gave the first of a series of Lenten addresses on "The Bible."

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Hunt are home from their Washington trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Tutty have been entertaining William J. Tutty of Gardiner, Maine and Eldrege Tutty of Worcester.

Dr. D. J. Driscoll has been entertaining his father Charles Driscoll of Holliston.

There will be a Lenten service at the church of the Sacred Heart and at Trinity Episcopal church this evening.

Mrs. C. E. Hoffsess has moved into the house on Walnut avenue recently vacated by Elmer Smith.

Victor C. Lasson, manager of the Victor Metal Works at East Braintree was operated upon for appendicitis a short time ago at Dr. Emerson's hospital, Forest Hills and for a time his life was dispaired of. He is now on the road to recovery but will have to stay at the hospital for several weeks yet.

William H. Waite has purchased of C. V. Dowse the cottage house on Washington street formerly occupied by Mr. Waite. He takes possession the first of next month.

The men of the East Braintree Methodist church held a supper and entertainment at Lincoln hall Wednesday evening and it was a big success. 250 people sat down to the supper which was cooked and furnished entirely by the men. An entertainment followed.

Alonzo Blanchard a veteran of the civil war and member of Reynolds Post 58 G. A. R. died Thursday after a few days illness of the grip. His wife died some years ago. He is survived by two daughters.

The boys of the James Humphrey grammar school are to organize a base ball team.

The boys' club of Old North church has organized a base ball team with Clement Curtis captain and George Bicknell manager.

KELLOGG RECITAL.

Charles L. Kellogg, the nature man will give an illustrated lecture recital on Friday afternoon, March 26 at Quincy Music hall.

Any attempt to give an idea of this inimitable entertainment, within the scope of a newspaper article, would be idle. Not alone the bird songs he warbles, the pictures he shows, the charming stories he tells of camp life, but back of all these the subtle kindly spirit and splendid manhood of the man himself fascinates and enthralls his audience.

He is as he himself says, "nine months out of the year a natural naturalist." He lives in God's out-of-doors and is absolutely in love with natrue for nature's sake. The birds and animals—every living thing—he approaches as a personal friend and gains their friendship. His warbling of bird notes is a wonderful gift, and his reproduction of the tender tones of the oriole, the bobolink, cat bird, wren and other birds is astonishing in its accuracy.

BRIEFS

Students at the Quincy Mansion school are to give a musicale this evening in Livermore hall.

A. G. Dolliver has severed his connections as manager of Henry P. Kittredge store in Quincy square.

David J. White of Elm street has accepted a position with a large contracting firm in Lawrence, Mass.

Mrs. N. J. Regan of Sea street, Houghs Neck is spending the week with her mother at Marlboro, Mass.

The entertainment committee of the Quincy Yacht club are taking up the matter of the smoker that opens the club season.

Joseph Walker speaker of the House of Representatives is expected to be the principal speaker at the Board of Trade banquet next week.

Many Quincy people are purchasing new automobiles. In most of the cases the cars will not be delivered until late in May after the assessors have been around.

Representative Thomas is reported to have got after President Bancroft of the Boston Elevated at a legislative committee hearing this week and propounded some questions which the General found hard work to answer.

WEST QUINCY

Fred C. Bailey of Holyoke is visiting friends on Cross street for a few days.

Stations of the cross and benediction will constitute the regular Lenten services to be held tonight in St. Mary's church.

Mrs. John F. Chester and daughter Ruth, who have been spending a few days here with friends, returned yesterday to their home in Athol.

The Bryant A .C. are making plans for the coming base ball season, when they intend to have a fast nine. There are some crack players on the club roll and the team will play the best amateur teams in the state.

A hot game of basket ball is scheduled for tomorrow night in St. Mary's hall, when the speedy Winthrop Yacht club five are booked to appear. Thursday night these teams met at Winthrop and the yacht club team won 28 to 21. Tomorrow night the local team will endeavor to turn the tables. It will surely be a fast game and one well worth watching. Both second teams will play as a preliminary attraction.

QUINCY POINT

Mrs. Ella Harris of Edison street is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Mrs. W. C. Crosby of Cape Cod is visiting her sister Miss Annie Carter of South street for a few days.

Edgar C. Hayden, Washington court, the well known fish dealer of the Point is confined to his home with illness.

Many of the jackies from the battleships now in the harbor, are seen daily about the Point. They come out to see the yard where the Vermont and Rhode Island, the best ships in the fleet were built.

Frank M. Howard of Washington street has left the employ of the Fore River company and has gone to Philadelphia where he has accepted a position in the Cramp yard.

ELIMINATE WORRY.

It Is a Habit of Quick Growth—How to Avoid Its Development.

When you feel a sense of dissatisfaction with what you have or what you do and begin to worry over possible results, then is the time to stop it. Just don't allow yourself to worry, said a woman writer recently. It is largely a matter of habit. It comes most frequently from taking things too seriously.

If the habit once gets a foothold, goodby to cheerfulness. Then it will be easy to lose your serenity. Any one, from the baker who sends the cream puffs too late for your dessert to the dressmaker who fails to get your gown finished when she agreed to, can throw you into the profoundest gloom.

A good model for most of us would be that sublime old heroine of fiction who, when she became so old that she only had two teeth left, devoutly thanked God that they hit.

When the demon of worry takes hold fly out of doors, fill your lungs with fresh air and get something for dinner which is particularly dainty or is especially liked by the family. Turn your thoughts toward this little act of pleasure giving, and the enjoyment of the results by your family will go a long way toward dispelling the beast.

Many times "the blues" are a reflection of a disordered body. Treat them as you would positive ill health. Simplify your living not by buying more cooked foods, but by cooking more of them yourself. Simple, plain, easily digested meals served more attractively will aid to better digestion. Better digestion will clarify the general outlook.

We do not think being preached to will help much, but diverting thoughts forced to take the place of the worrying ones will. In proportion to your own downheartedness absorb yourself in some other individual's trials. Nine times out of ten yours will grow smaller and you will become more sane and cheerful. Preach to some one more blue than yourself. You can always find them.

Train yourself into an atmosphere of content. Use a bit of philosophy. Just know that if you ever reached the point of having all of your desires of this present time gratified there would still be others ahead forming in line to aggravate and disturb your peace of mind if you allowed them to do so. Just practice being content with what you are fortunate to possess and you will help yourself to better health, which is the promoter of cheerfulness.

This is as much a matter of training as bodily gymnastics and more important, for it affects all those around you.

THE SMALL GIRL'S TOILET.

Color of Hair Ribbon Should Be Carefully Selected.

There is no detail of the small girl's toilet over which mothers linger as lovingly as the arrangement of the soft, silky hair. The little girl's hair should be kept in scrupulously dainty condition, the fortnightly shampoo with pure, soapy water being supplemented by nightly brushings to make the locks fluffy and lustrous.

The color of the little girl's hair ribbons should be carefully selected. Not every color is becoming. The pure white hair ribbons, which many mothers like for formal wear, are often distinctly trying to their young wearers. Ciel blue and rose pink are usually pleasing with rosy cheeks and bright eyes, and vivid scarlet is delightful with either dark curls or blond hair.

The art tones—Dutch blues, burnt yellows and more delicate greens—are often very smart when worn with cotton frocks showing the same color tones, but fashion's caprices in color, like peacock, mustard, citron and such shades, should never be put near childish faces.

Satin taffeta ribbons are the most desirable for tying the hair. They are soft and pliable, yet crisp in character, and are beautifully lustrous. The filet of ribbon, outlining the shape of the head, with a loose bow at one side, is charming on a very pretty child. Less trying is the double bow arrangement, with the locks caught back at each side of the face under a big soft bow.

The young girl of thirteen or fourteen wears her hair in a thick plait ended by a curl. The fad is to allow the hair to hang quite loosely from the head, the plait not being started for several inches below the collar. At this point a wide soft bow of black ribbon is tied about the hair, and below it the thick braid hangs downward.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

It is just as well to put out the light as soon as the baby is asleep. Any light is bad for the eyes when closed, especially the tender ones of a young baby.

Liquid green soap, which is the chemically pure potash soap used in surgery, is excellent for the complexion, but so strong is it that once a week is sufficient for its use.

The old fashioned remedy of applying a cold compress is one of the best that can be used for sore throat. To make it a bandage, such as a folded handkerchief, is wet in cold water and wrung, not very dry. It is then bound around the throat, and over it entirely to cover the wet cloth a flannel is securely pinned to keep it in place. No part of the bandage should be left exposed, or the air, striking the skin through it, will make the cold worse.

WOLLASTON

The third of a series of lectures on fancy cookery will be held in Wollaston hall by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, editor of the Boston Cooking School magazine, on Monday afternoon, March 22 at 2.30. The subject will be "Fancy Salads."

Among those present at the dress rehearsal Thursday evening of "The Gum Shoe Girl," the play to be given in Potter hall by the Cadets, were Arthur D. Ropes and William D. Wade, both of Wollaston avenue.

The next meeting of the Laicos club will be held Saturday evening, March 20, with H. D'Arcy Curwen of Wayland street.

The two residences on Willow street for Mr. Edmund R. Wade and Miss Robinson, which are nearing completion, are quite an addition to the neighborhood.

At a recent meeting of the trustees of the National Sailors' Home, it was voted to still continue the milk route of the home with an advance in price, if enough customers can be retained, instead of abolishing it as was formerly decided.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Rufus B. Tobey 75 Lincoln avenue when Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham will speak on "Current events in Reform work."

Robert W. Whiteacre of Safford street went on Wednesday to his father's farm in Plainfield, N. H. He has many friends and will be greatly missed in St. Chrysostoms church where he has rendered valuable service to the rector.

The Rev. Newton Black, rector of Christ church Needham, will preach at St. Chrysostom's church Sunday afternoon.

SOUTH QUINCY

The cigar makers' union are to give a free moving picture show at Hibernian hall, March 23.

Regular Lenten devotions will be held in St. John's church tonight. The devotions will consist of the stations of the cross and benediction.

The No-Name Whist Club met at the home of Mrs. Mary A. Fox Thursday afternoon to celebrate her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Fox received many handsome and useful presents. Whist was the feature of the occassion, play being in progress for two hours, when the club was invited into the dining room, to a table loaded with good things. Jests and laughter ran high. The club after wishing Mrs. Fox many more happy birthdays, did justice to the goodies, and then adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. McNeil next Friday.

Mrs. Frank McNeil of 90 Pleasant street returned Thursday on the S. S. Saxonia, accompanied by her father, T. J. Lawther of the E. I. Railway, where he was employed by the British government as inspector of boilers. Mrs. McNeil had a short stay in Scotland, the land of her birth. She also had the pleasure of being on the S. S. Mauretania, March 5, when she made her record day's run of 605 knots in a day of 23 hours, making the run from New York to Liverpool in four days, 20 hours and 37 minutes.

TODAY'S COURT.

Adolph John was arraigned for larceny at Quincy. Case continued until Monday.

Mrs. Laura E. Rider was fined $75 for keeping a disorderly house at Houghs Neck. Sentence suspended until September.

AMUSEMENT WITH A PURPOSE.

In coming to Boston to introduce himself to the local public as "A humorous traveller," Mr. R. G. Knowles announces his appearance as providing "Amusement with a purpose." As a traveller he has made use of his keen sense of humor, quick study of character, and an inclination to look upon the bright side of life; to secure a fund of amusing stories and illustrations of native wit which give local color to his descriptions of his rambles in foreign lands. He has just concluded a series of very successful appearances at Daly's theatre and is to repeat at Tremont Temple on five successive Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons, beginning this week, the same entertaining features which gained him favor in the metropolis. Mr. Knowles has expended a round hundred thousand dollars in his travel and preparations for the present season, having secured all that was best in photographic and motion picture reproductions of the scenes he has visited. Friday evening and Saturday afternoon Mr. Knowles will take for his subject "Ireland As It Is," and describe in a dramatic manner, his experiences during his recent tour in the "Emerald Isle," showing glimpses of the life and scenery of the country which have proved vastly entertaining to his New York audiences. The subjects for his later appearances will be duly announced.

The Persevering Guesser.

"It is amazing what perseverance will achieve," said an Englishman. "Even misdirected perseverance has achieved marvels. There is the case of Robson, the great Notts cricketer. Robson during his Australian tour was determined one sorching afternoon that his side shouldn't do the hard work of fielding. Well, when the Australian captain spun the coin Robson shouted, 'Woman!' Then, seeing that heads lay uppermost, instead of acknowledging defeat Robson said, with perseverance and nonchalance:

"'Well, we'll go in.'

"'But—er—I thought,' said the puzzled Australian—'you see, I don't quite know the English meaning of "woman."'

"'Then,' said Robson gallantly, 'we'll toss again.'

"The Australian made a second toss. Robson called heads, and tails came up. The ordinary man would at this point have surrendered in despair, but not so Robson.

"'Honors are now easy,' said he, with a pleasant smile. 'On with the rubber.'

"The Australian a third time flipped the coin, and, having at last called the toss correctly, the persevering Robson led in his side to the shady benches."

An Unofficial Order.

Thomas, tenth Earl of Dundonald, at his death vice admiral in the English navy, tells in his "Autobiography of a Seaman" of an incident on board the Hind, on which he served as midshipman. The pet of the ship was a parrot, the aversion of the boatswain, whose whistle the bird learned to imitate exactly.

"One day a party of ladies paid us a visit aboard. By the usual means of a 'whip' on the yardarm several had been hoisted on deck. The chain had descended for another. Scarcely had its fair freight been lifted out of the boat alongside when the parrot piped, 'Let go!'

"The order was instantly obeyed, and the unfortunate lady, instead of being comfortably seated on deck, was soused in the sea. Luckily for her, the men were on the watch and quickly pulled her out, and, luckily for the parrot, the boatswain was on shore or this unseasonable assumption of the boatswain's functions might have ended tragically for the bird."

How Prisoners Converse.

A man who was sent to jail recently for three days for a small offense was greatly impressed with the precautions taken to prevent the prisoners engaging in conversation. There seemed to be warders everywhere, and no one was allowed to utter a word.

On the Sunday he was in the church the psalm given was the "Old Hundredth." Beside him were two old jailbirds, and instead of the orthodox words beginning "All people that on earth do dwell" this pair sang a hymn of their own in conversational style, which went something as follows: First convict sings:

"How long are you in for?
I am doing sixty days.
I nearly broke a copper's jaw.
Sing low or else they'll maybe hear."

Second convict replies:

"You are a lucky pic-can.
I've got twel-elve months to serve.
Tried to break into a house.
Some'dy must have gi'en me away."

By this method they exchanged histories during the singing.—Glasgow News.

Too Humiliating.

A certain small boy of six is rapidly assuming manly ways. Not long ago his "room" at school planned an entertainment. There were to be little songs and recitations and a mysterious grab bag. The small boy waxed eloquent concerning the coming glories of this show, and more especially the part he would take.

On the morning of the entertainment his mother suggested that he should take his little sister, aged four, with him. He hung his head.

"Don't you want to take her?" his mother asked.

"No, I don't," he answered.

"And why not?"

The reply came quickly.

"'Cause there ain't none of th' other fellers has to bring their children!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

No Acid Needed.

Getting His Straight.

"I wouldn't make a confidante of May," said the conceited fellow, with a self satisfied smirk. "She told me you said you were crazy to marry me. Of course she's no friend if"—

"No," interrupted Miss Wise, "and she's not even a good reporter. I didn't say I 'was,' but 'would be.'"—Catholic Standard and Times.

BASKET BALL.

St. Mary's basket ball team met defeat Thursday night at Winthrop, when they lost a 28 to 21 game to the speedy Yacht club five of that town. All through the season the North Shore boys have been trimming all corners, big scores having been quite a common thing. It was close against St. Mary's however, and was one of the best games of the season.

Many fouls were called during the game, Winthrop securing six points and St. Mary's five, in this way. Marks was high scorer getting five baskets from the floor. McCarthy and Kimball also played well for Winthrop. For. St. Mary's Mullin and "Bill" Duggan played the best game. Between the halves both second teams played and St. Mary's won by the score of 30 to 20. The summary:

WINTHROP Y. C.	ST. MARY'S
Mahoney rf	lb, Mullin
Marks, lf	rb, Morrill
L. McCarthy, c	c, McLaughlin
Kimball, rb	lf, D. Duggan
Miller, lb	rf, W. Duggan

Score, Winthrop Y C 28, St. Mary's 21. Goals from floor, Mahoney 3, Marks 5, McCarthy 2, Kimball, Mullin 3, McLaughlin, D. Duggan. W. Duggan 3. Goals from fouls, McCarthy 2, Kimball 3, Miller, W. Duggan 5. Referee, Crowley. Scorer, Fitzgerald. Timer, Nilson. Time, 20m halves. Attendance, 400.

BOWLING.

The Bucko's gave the Bantams a bad beating at the Houghs Neck Associates' alleys Thursday night. The Bucko's won three straight easily. Philip Catarius of the Bucko's was high man with a single of 93 and a three string total of 263. W. Norteman of the same team was second with 252.

The score was as follows:

BUCKOS.
Hutchinson	79	85	78	242
Regan	68	65	78	211
P. Catarius	93	84	86	263
W. Norteman	86	82	84	252

—The largest electrical cooking device in actual use is an electric bake-oven at Marseilles, France. This furnace stands over six feet high and has two compartments, one above the other each of which is heated by electric currents passing through resistance coils. The cost of baking fifty pounds of bread is less than 50 cents. Among its advantages are rapidity of action, even temperature, absence from fire dangers, and precise control.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The man who has plenty of friends need never be in any doubt as to his failings and shortcomings.

It often looks like a soft snap until you land on it with a bump.

The less sense the more need for dollars.

For once that joy comes halfway ten times trouble covers the entire distance.

We may know a good thing when we see it and still find our vision imperfect so far as making discoveries is concerned.

People who have entirely clear consciences often have pale responsibilities and limp backbones.

The habit of eating three times a day is responsible for holding many a nose to the grindstone.

When a man feels as if he would like to reform the world it is time to borrow a looking glass.

Our Great Truth Teller.

You may have had your faults, dear George.
We don't know what they are.
They didn't show at Valley Forge
When feeble was your star.
Your honors later would have turned
The head of any dub,
But you were not a member of
The Ananias club.

You had ability enough
To make King George look slow,
And no one ever ran a bluff
On you and made it go.
In war and peace you were the first.
You never turned up shy,
For you could do most anything
But tell a simple lie.

When you had anything to say
Or any scheme to push
You did not shoot a mile away
Or beat about the bush.
Oh, no; you blurted out the truth,
And if it meant a fight
You loafed around and licked the man
To prove that you were right!

Oh, George, I fear we do not raise
Your kind of men today,
Who, whether it brings blame or praise,
Will truth alone display!
The hero medals you deserved
Would fill a good sized tub,
Grand model for all men except
The Ananias club.

In the World of Art.

If pay day came oftener would work come any easier?

Meant Business.

"The world owes me a living."
"Does it?"
"Yes, so I am not going to worry."
"That may be all right for you, but it won't do for me."
"Why?"
"I want an account against a piece of property that can be accurately described in the recorder's book and can be levied against."

Bird Talk.

"Let me sell you this bird for your clothing store window."
"Go 'long! That wouldn't attract trade."
"Sure thing. Hang it up at the door, and whenever any one goes by it will call out, "Cheap, cheap!"

Quite So.

"Some things are so difficult that they at once become easy."
"Easy?"
"Certainly."
"Would you mind explaining?"
"We at once give them up."

Unmovable.

"Where is the great hypnotist?"
"He has retired broken hearted."
"Work a failure?"
"Not until he tried it on the office boy of a millionaire."

He Thought It Appropriate.

"She is very much affronted."
"Why?"
"Jack sent her a present."
"What was it?"
"A rubber plant."

Not Mutual.

"I fear I'll have to raise your rent," The horrid landlord said.
"At prices I am getting now
I can't come out ahead."
"Well, you may raise it," said the man,
"But I can't figure how I can."

Wrought the Change.

"What ails old Jabbs?"
"Just a trifle eccentric."
"They used to say he was crazy."
"He inherited money since then."

EVENING SCHOOLS CLOSE TONIGHT

Exercises To Be Held In Y. M. C. A. Building

The closing exercises of the Y. M. C. A. evening school will be held in the Association building, tonight at 8 o'clock. Certificates will be awarded to those successfully passing their year's work.

The school has had an exceptionally good year. The enrollment was larger than last year and the quality and volume of work done, surpasses any previous year's record.

The total enrollment was 68. This does not include the work in English for Italians done outside the building which would add twenty to this number.

The classes in mechanical drawing including all grades numbered 26. The monumental drawing, freehand drawing, pen and ink drawing and design 24 and the architectural drawing 8. The years average attendance for all classes for the year has been 85 per cent of the enrollment.

The last term's average was only reduced to 81 percent which indicates the splendid interest which was maintained to the last night.

The average age of the students was 23, the youngest being 16 and the oldest 49.

The personell of the classes was a very interesting study, it being made up of several nationalities and trades, but all with one intent that of getting practical knowledge which should help them in earning more wages or filling their positions better.

The progress made by some of these men is little short of wonderful. It should be borne in mind that this school is wholly industrial and is supplimental only, no classes are made to thorough technical training the courses are arranged, all covering three years of 40 nights each, so as to land the student in the shortest possible time by the shortest possible route at a point of practical efficiency.

The results of the past four years have been very satisfactory, as over 200 different men have received instruction which has been of great practical and commercial value to them.

A very complete exhibition of the results of the year's work is being held at the building. This exhibit may be seen by any one interested to call between 9 o'clock A. M. and 10 P. M. daily. The exhibition will continue for two weeks at least.

DEFENDS STREET RAILWAYS

The Men's club of Atlantic held a meeting in the Memorial Congregational church Thursday evening. A large number of men were present. President George Sawyer presided and introduced the speaker of the evening the Hon. William E. Weeks of Everett who is a member of the house of representatives at the present time. He spoke for about an hour. In the first part of his speech he explained how bills, etc., had to be acted upon by the house of representatives and the senate before they could become a law, which was very interesting as well as instructive. The latter part of the hour was given up to a talk in defense of the street railways of the state. He said in part: "There are sixty-two street railway companies in the state of Massachusetts, thirty of which were bankrupt, thirty had not paid any dividends to their stockholders and the other two, the Boston Elevated and the Boston and Northern paid not over four and a half per cent." Mr. Weeks, is chairman of the committee on street railroad affairs in the house of representatives, consequently is in a position to know the true state of such affairs. The club gave a rising vote of thanks to the speaker and the meeting adjourned at 9.05 P. M.

The Social Realm

If you would hit the mark you must aim a little above it:
Every arrow that flies, feels the attraction of earth.

Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child of Boston, who is to give a song recital in Quincy early in April, has been spending the week in New York, where she has been the recipient of many social attentions.

Mrs. John F. Wentworth and son and Miss Gertrude Carroll, all of Miller Stile road, have just returned from a short visit to Washington. They spent a very enjoyable time visiting points of interest and old friends of Mrs. Wentworth. Among the many attentions shown them while there was a special audience with President Taft, admission at the opening of the Senate to that part of the gallery of the Senate reserved for the senators, relatives and special friends, and admission to the House during now historic meeting in which Speaker Cannon got his first turn down. The success of their visit was due to attentions received from the old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth, and from Senator Gallinger and Representative Sulloway of New Hampshire, in which state Mr. Wentworth retains his legal residence. The visit will not soon be forgotten.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, of Presidents hill, entertained at dinner Wednesday evening; covers being laid for twelve. The decorations were unique and in keeping with the day.

* * *

Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs of Clark street entertained the Atlantic Bridge party most delightfully, on Wednesday evening. Covers were laid for twelve. It being a costume party, the effect at the table, combined with the dainty green decorations and viands, was remarkably pretty. Bridge and music rounded out the evening's pleasure.

The many friends in this city of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crane, will be interested to learn that they are in good health, and since February 1st have been located at "Hotel Park in the Pines," at Aiken, S. C. Mr. Crane writes, "We are having spring weather with occasional cool days and many warm ones and now with showers the plum, peach and cherry trees, also spiraea and jasmine are coming out."

At Mrs. Herbert Lawton's on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of Christ church a most delightful musicale occurred. Presiding most gracefully, Mrs. Theodore Hardwick introduced these well known artists, Miss Spear, Mrs. Frank Page, Mrs. Laurance Sturtevant, Miss Carruthers, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. Frank Moore, Mrs. Clarence Burgin and Mrs. Charles Sampson. The songs were given in groups of three, the Irish ballads predominating in honor of the day. The charming surroundings and pretty gowns marked this as one of the most artistic affairs of the season. Quincy is indeed to be complimented on such a galaxy of talent.

The last of the Friday evening Germans is to be held at Colonial hall next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Glover of Elm street are hoping to have a permanent home on Presidents hill among their friends, and have in contemplation a cosy bungalow on Glendale road near the estate on Goffe street recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Hall.

—Japan likes the new president, and with good reason. He likes Japan, and probably better than any other American statesman understands the eastern situation in which she plays so important a part. His administration is certain to reflect the most liberal sentiment toward all the world.

Having approved of Mr. Roosevelt's course in frowning upon and helping defeat the mischievous anti-Japanese manoeuvers on the Pacific coast, President Taft will, we may all be sure, square his own conduct in office by the same broad and liberal and patriotic spirit. The Taft administration means friendship for Japan.—Washington Star.

THE "HIGHFLIER."

Pi Eta Club Play Said to be Extremely Clever.

The Pi Eta theatricals are progressing under the direction of F. W. Taft '07. "Jimmy" Reynolds as usual has charge of the dancing. The play for this year takes the form of a musical comedy entitled "The Highflier." The book and the lyrics are by H. B. Sheahan '09 and A. S. Olmsted '09, the music by A. C. Tilton '10.

The cast is as follows:

Martini,	B. C. Voshell '11
Keeper of the Castle
Maraschino, his wife	P. C. Squire '11
Marietta, their foster-child	W. D. Owen 5p

The Count Spagetti, in love with Marietta	J. R. Benton '08
Two Italian Women

The plot of the play is based on the search through Italy by Tanner for his daughter who has been kidnapped by a couple of Italian street musicians a number of years before the story opens. The first act is laid in the courtyard of the Count's castle in Italy, the second act in the garden adjoining the Castle. The following is the list of performances, April 16, Grad's Night, Club Theatre, Cambridge. April 20, matinee Jordan Hall, Boston. April 27, Lowell. April 28, Quincy. April 30, Cambridge. May 3, Haverhill. May 5, Cambridge.

NEW YORK APPRECIATIVE.

Editor of the Ledger:

Father Time was turned back a few paces in his onward march Wednesday night when I heard Edward E. Bullock of my one-time home town of Wollaston sing a few of his beautiful love songs. It was a source of much pleasure to me Wednesday afternoon when I had a telephone call from my friend Bullock, and I very promptly accepted his kind invitation to attend a concert which his company, the Temple quartet of Boston, gave in this city Wednesday evening. Really, it would do the Quincy people good to see how much their good fellow citizen is appreciated by a select New York audience.

Yours very truly,
J. P. Seely.

OPPOSED TO NORTEMAN LOT

Many Residents Want School Nearer Centre.

Considerable opposition seems to have developed at Houghs Neck over the purchase of the lot of land of William Norteman, selected by the City Council Committee on Public Buildings for a school lot and more will probably be heard on the question before the matter is definitely settled.

During the past few days petitions have been in circulation about the district, remonstrating against the purchase of this lot. The objection is that the lot is not as central as it should be, that it is located too far back from the street and that the sewer hides it from view. The petitioners desire some lot situated on the line of the electric care.

At the public hearing given by the City Council, but two lots were offered, that of Mr. Norteman and the Peterson lot. The Cavanagh lot which is situated near the fire station was not presented at this meeting. The reason for this is said to be because Mr. Cavanagh had already offered his lot to the committee and he thought it unnecessary to do so again at the public hearing.

All things being equal the Cavanagh lot would without question be the most desirable. The only opposition to the lot being the price, which Mr. Cavanagh wanted. The price asked for the lot is 15 cents per foot. It is said however, that since the public hearing, Mr. Cavanagh has said that he would sell for a less price.

The upland of the Norteman farm, according to the City Council order reported, contains 110,000 square feet and the price is $6,000 or practically 5 1-2 cents per foot.

Mr. Peterson offered his lot to the Council for 10 cents per foot. Since the hearing however, Mr. Peterson has died, which will probably present this lot being secured at the present time.

The matter of the purchase of a school lot at Houghs Neck is now before the Finance Committee and it is possible that the committee may report at the adjourned meeting of the City Council to be held Monday evening.

On Monday, March 22d, the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., will conduct an exhibit of Educational interest at 1366 Hancock street, Quincy, next to Granite bank.

The exhibit will contain many drawing plates of students of this city and vicinity, also the certificates of successful completion of the many subjects , which are taught by this institution. There will be a representative in charge every day and evening, who will be glad to give information regarding the method of instruction and all students are cordially invited to attend and bring interested friends.

ALUMNI CHORUS "EIGHT YEARS"

Taft Receives Great Greeting From Graduates of Yale

FIFTEEN HUNDRED AT DINNER

Clever Devices Wake Memories of the Old Days—President Declares That Yale Spirit Has Been the Guiding Influence In His Life Since Childhood and Is Carried by Him In Discharge of Present Duties

New York, March 20.—With songs of the football field and the boat race course, with a deafening cheer and a rousing chorus of "Here's to good old Yale, drink her down," President Taft was greeted last night as the first Yale President of the United States by more than 1500 graduates of the famous old New Haven university.

The dinner, one of the largest ever given in New York, was served at the Waldorf-Astoria. The immense ballroom was decorated with a lavish wealth of flowers. The speakers' table, at which President Taft sat with President Hadley of Yale and other prominent graduates of the university, was canopied with artificial representations of the elms of old Yale. Back of the table was a huge drop-curtain, bearing a painting of the old brick row. In front of the curtain and back of the speakers was a replica of the old Yale fence. The representation of the old barrier was complete down to the last details. Many of the initials, including the "W. H. T." of Taft, and the "A. T. H." of Hadley, were faithfully reproduced.

President Taft was probably the happiest man at the dinner, which was given entirely in his honor. He was not hailed as the president, however, but as "Bill"—the salutation which interrupted the cheering as he entered.

While the dinner was being served many of the graduates, including a number from his own class of '78, shook hands with him, slapped him on the back and renewed the acquaintance of college days.

Just before the president spoke the lights in the ball room were dimmed and a screened calcium sent a flood of blue rays upon the speakers' table. Through the windows of the "old brick row" lights gleamed.

It was nearly 11 o'clock when Mr. Taft began to speak and as he was leaving on the midnight train for Washington his remarks necessarily were brief. He confined himself almost entirely to an eulogy of Yale and of the Yale spirit, which, he declared, had been a guiding influence in his life since the time he was 6 years old.

Mr. Taft spoke largely of reminiscences of his own days at college and those of his father. Not content with graduating five of his own sons at Yale, the president declared his father had sent the boy of a dead friend through the college.

"This is a personal gathering," he explained, "and you must expect some personal references."

Mr. Taft said he was carrying the Yale spirit with him to the discharge of the duties of president, which office, he declared, was the greatest responsibility which could come to an American.

"And," he added, "it is a great deal better to leave that office with the plaudits of your countrymen than to enter it. The opportunity for mistakes, the opportunity for failure, or if not failure, of a dead level of doing nothing, are so many that I look forward with great hesitation and reluctance to the results of the next four years."

"Eight," called a voice, and others took up the chorus.

"If I do all that I ought to do in the next four years," rejoined the president, "I will have done all that is in the contract and the next four years can take care of themselves."

"Eight, eight," cried the alumni again in a swelling chorus.

"There are great problems to solve," said the president, "but I will take to them the application of honesty of purpose, industry and common sense. That is what I understood we learned at Yale and if in bringing those things to bear I solve all the problems of the next four years satisfactorily I will be willing to meet you again at the end of that time and to compare notes."

A VOTE OF CENSURE

It Will Show British Commoners' Attitude Toward Naval Program

London, March 20.—A. J. Balfour, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, has decided to take the sense of the house as to whether four or eight Dreadnoughts should be definitely included in this year's naval program.

He has given notice to move a vote of censure of the government next Monday, declaring that the proposed provision for ships of the newest type is not sufficient to secure the safety of the empire.

CO-OPERATIVE BANK REPORT

The condition of the co-operative banks of this state shows a gratifying state of affairs, according to the annual report of Bank Commissioner Pierre Jay.

The number of co-operative banks in this state has been increased by of $4,119,000.

The real estate held by foreclosure and common form mortgages shows a marked decrease. The investment in municipal bonds and notes has been still further decreased, until at the date of the closing of the report it amounts to only .4 of 1 per cent.

In the face of heavy withdrawals and demands for money during the early part of the year the repayments on real estate loans were the largest in the history of the co-operative banks of the state.

The report reflects the healthy condition of a growing division of the state's banking institutions and also reflects in a measure the consistent efforts of the Bank Commissioner in the direction of sound banking.—Banker and Tradesman.

JUDGE HOLDS JURY TOGETHER

Wants a Verdict as to Guilt or Innocence of the Coopers

SHARP IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

Foreman Reports That They Are Tied Up Tight as to Other Defendants In the Carmack Case—Will Not Be Discharged Until It Becomes Certain That They Cannot Agree—Sharp Is Released From Custody

Nashville, March 20.—When the jury returned a verdict of acquittal for John D. Sharp, charged with the murder of former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, and declared it was hopelessly tied as to the Coopers, it was generally conceded that the end of the famous case had all but been reached.

Nothing daunted by the expressive firmness of Foreman Burke's declaration of a disagreement as to the guilt of Duncan B. Cooper and his son, Robin, jointly charged with Sharp with slaying Carmack, Judge Hart sent the twelve men out for further deliberation and announced that he would not discharge them until he was convinced that an agreement could not be reached.

The jurors looked tired, worn and ill at ease. From the loud talking heard in the room they have been having a strenuous time. They are chafing under the restraint, but they evidently are conscientious in their determination to vote with their convictions. They sent word to the sheriff late Friday that the room was poorly ventilated, that the plumbing was defective, and that several of the men were ill. The sheriff decided to let them sleep last night in the quarters in the jail set aside for a woman's hospital.

Judge Hart expected a verdict Friday. Several times during the morning he consulted with one of the jury deputies and when he had concluded the day's docket at noon he sent to the jurors to ask if they had anything to report.

The reply "nothing" came back. Evidently the judge had some information, however, for he ordered the prisoners brought into court and instructed the sheriff to "carry in the jury."

In response to the judge's question as to whether a verdict had been reached Burke replied: "We are tied up tight as to the Coopers, but we find John D. Sharp not guilty."

Judge Hart quickly dismissed Sharp and ordered the jury to continue its deliberations as to the guilt or innocence of the Coopers.

Mrs. Sharp, wife of the acquitted man, seemed the most affected of all those interested, and her greatest concern seemed to be whether Attorney Keneral McCann could do anything more to him. The jurors put in the afternoon deliberating, but after supper at 6 p. m., devoted the rest of the evening to amusing themselves with cards and singing.

Plans Maturing For Rescue Party's Trip to the Arctic

New York, March 20.—Plans for a rescue expedition to go to the relief of Dr. F. A. Cook, the Polar explorer, who is believed to be still alive in the Arctic regions, were outlined by Captain Osborn of the Arctic club.

The committee has in contemplation the purchase of a small schooner rigged vessel to carry a rescue party of four or five persons, who will sail during the early summer. The vessel which the members have in mind is now in winter quarters in Hudson Bay.

SPEAKER CANNON A MIGHTY FORCE

Efforts to Overthrow His Rule Prove Unsuccessful.

Washington, March 13, 1909.

The force and effectiveness of Cannon-ism and its ability to perpetuate itself have been strikingly illustrated during the past week when a body of brave insugents have been exerting every effort to overthrow the tryranny which now dominates the lower House of Congress Through his able, if unscrupulous, henchman, ex-Representative Watson of Indiana, Mr. Cannon has been gradually communicating to the various members of the House, not excluding the Democrats, the dire fate which awaits them should they join the insurrection against the House rules and he is reelected Speaker. Mr. Watson, for instance, has pointed out to the southern members that they have educated their constituents to a great interest in the deep waterways movements and to expect adequate appropriations for river and harbor improvement. "Of course you realize" says Mr. Watson, "that if you join the fight against the Speaker, you cannot expect him to permit any measure appropriating funds for the improvement of rivers and harbors in your district to pass the House."

Under the existing rules the Speaker has authority to appoint all the members of the House committees. As a matter of custom and courtesy, the minority leader has been permitted to select in the past the minority membership, but Mr. Cannon does not hesitate to instruct his henchmen to threaten a withdrawal of this privilege. Accordingly, Mr. Watson is going to these Democrats who now hold good positions and saying, "Of course you realize that your fate rests with the Speaker. If you oppose him he will certainly oppose your appointment to any committee worth having. Do you think it worth while to join the insurgents and thus risk the good place you have long enjoyed on the Appropriations committee?" This argument has been used, and it is understood with good effect, on Representative Livingston of Georgia who has long held an important place on the committee named.

Finally, the tariff is being used to perpetuate Cannon-ism. Surprising as it may seem, there are many protection Democrats in Congress, many who feel that their political life depends on the amount of protection they can secure for certain Southern industries. To these men, Watson and his cohorts say, "No doubt you have taken into consideration the fact that the new tariff bill will contain no protection for Louisiana rice, or Florida pineapples, or Alabama iron, or Virginia tobacco if you join the insurgents and oppose either the reelection of Mr. Cannon or the readoption of the House rules. Under circumstances it is hardly surprising that the Democrats are distraught and find it hard to decide between their duty to their party and the people and their own self-preservation.

The officers of President Taft's cabinet will be given every encouragement by the President to travel and thoroughly familiarize themselves with every detail of the work over which they have control. Secretary Ballinger of the Interior Department intends to go to Alaska this summer and tour the territory with especial reference to the coal lands, which it is claimed are valuable ,and to investigate the possibilities of reclamation. The President, also, wishes Secretary Dickinson of the War Department to go to the Isthmus at the earliest opportunity so that he may familiarize himself with the details of the work there and become thoroughly posted in a direct way on the affairs of this gigantic undertaking.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture is in receipt of nearly a hundred letters from millers and kindred interests asking him to refer the question of bleached flour, which the department has branded as adulterated, to the referee board of the department which recently permitted the use of benzoate of soda previously condemned by Dr. Wiley, and clamored for by many of the food packers. To all of these letters the Secretary has replied that the matter would not be so referred. Great pressure is being brought to bear, however, and some weeks ago the manufacturers of the flour-bleaching apparatus brought suit in the District Court for a mandamus to prevent the Secretary from continuing a distribution of the pure food decision in which bleached flour is classed as adulterated food. The case has not yet come to trial and in the meantime bleached flour remains under the ban.

Though Congress has declined to include, in the appropriations for the War Department ,the $500,000 asked for aerial experiments and the purchase of aeroplanes and dirigible balloons, nevertheless the inventors of airships in this country are to receive every encouragement by the department. In the general appropriation bill for the army there is an amount available for the general purposes of ordinance and fortifications and of this sum the department has set aside $46,000 to pay for the Wright and Herring airships, provided they come up to specifications at the trials, and for both of which they have a contract with the inventors. The time for the official trials of these machines is now fixed for not later than the last day of June. Adams.

Hicks' Story.

It was in 1847 that Hicks first made a county name as a witty raconteur. In that year Sir Samuel Spry, who had been member for Bodmin since the great reform bill, lost his seat and in a petulant mood took legal proceedings against Hicks on the ground that he had abused his official position to influence voters at the poll. In the course of the trial Hicks was called upon to state what he had to say in his defense. In the course of his statement he asked leave of the court to illustrate his position by a story. His request being assented to, he related how a few days previously he had been to see a lad whom he knew well who was laid up from a fall from a vicious donkey, which had kicked out all his front teeth. The lad, said Hicks, had taken the matter in the most kindly way and had said to him, "'Tisn't the fall, Mr. Hicks, and 'tisn't the vally of the teeth what annoys me, but 'tis the nashty, ghastly, wishous disposition of the jackass."

Sir Samuel Spry sprang up in the well of the court in a fury and exclaimed, "He has called me a jackass!" The court was convulsed with laughter, and Hicks was promptly and fully acquitted of the trumpery charge brought against him.—Cornhill Magazine.

Great Wars From Trifles.

Great wars, pregnant with bloodshed and all the horrors accruing thereto, have very often been the outcome of trifling incidents which might, had they been treated properly, have been smoothed over and the slaughter averted. More often was this the case in earlier times than it is now. Every one knows that William the Conqueror lost his life in France through his horse treading on a redhot cinder while he was superintending the burning of Mantes, but few people know the fact which gave rise to the campaign that cost William his life.

During the latter part of his reign he became abnormally stout and consequently the laughingstock of not only his subjects, but his neighbors across the water. One day his contemporary, Philip of France, compared him to a fillet of veal on casters and suggested that he should be exhibited at a prize monarch show. This so enraged William that he straightway made war upon his ridiculer, and the loss of thousands of lives was the result.—London Tit-Bits.

Gestures Part of Talk.

There is a man who from a very early age has lived in countries where Spanish is the almost universal tongue. From force of this training he speaks Spanish perfectly. He has not the slightest trace of an English accent, and persons who do not know that he is of American parentage are willing to believe he is a Spaniard, merely from hearing him talk. He is so perfectly bilingual that it shows even in his gestures. When talking with English speaking persons he sits quietly and does his conversing with his mouth alone. Only in case of making a point most emphatically does he use a gesture. But the moment he drops into Spanish his every word is accompanied by a movement of the hands or arms. It is interesting to watch the change from the English to the Spanish side of him, because it comes so suddenly. He really can't speak Spanish without gesturing.—New York Sun.

Some Slang Words.

A remarkable fact is that many slang words have a classical origin. For example, the word "mill," a vulgarism for a fight, is traceable to the Greek word "hamilla," which means a combat.

"Uncle," the affectionate term for a pawnbroker, is derived from the Latin "uncus," a hook on which the article pledged was hung.

To go before "the beak" is a distinct reference to the old Roman custom of adorning the platform from which justice dispensed with the beaks of ships, which platform came to be called the rostrum, that being the Latin for a beak or prow.

Cruel.

The rich bachelor sighed and looked at the beautiful girl fixedly. "Things are at sixes and sevens with me. I feel the great need of a woman in my home, one who could straighten out my tangled affairs and make life worth living again." Her glance spoke an interest which approximately expectation. "Yes?" she queried softly. He blurted out, "Do you know of any good, ablebodied woman whom I could get to clean house?"—Argonaut.

A Sure Scheme.

Young Wife—I am determined to learn at what hour my husband comes home at nights. Yet do what I will I cannot keep awake, and he is always careful not to make a particle of noise. Is there any drug which produces wakefulness? Old Wife—No need to buy drugs. Sprinkle the floor with tacks.

Aristocratic Fowls.

"Do animals have their social customs and institutions?"

"I presume so. I have no doubt that the geese have their descendants of the cacklers who saved Rome."—Puck.

MEMORABLE VISITS OF ANNE ROYALL

Woman Journalist Tells Of Trips to Quincy In 1824.

In the Life and Times of Anne Royall by Sarah Harvey Porter, just published by the Torch Press, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is given an account of almost the earliest woman journalist of America. Anne Royall wrote voluminously, and with much originality on the men and events of her literary period—1824-54—and covered many states and cities. Of especial interest to Quincy are the following extracts from Mrs. Royall's sketches:

VISIT TO JOHN ADAMS 1824

"During my visit to Boston, I frequently rode out in the country, if country it may be called, which is covered with towns and villages. In one of these excursions, I paid my respects to ex-President Adams of Quincy. Quincy lies south of Boston about eight miles. Mr. Adams does not live exactly in the town, but a little to the right, about two hundred yards from the road, on this side of Quincy. He lives on a farm which is kept in fine order, and fitted out with barns, stables ,and carriage houses. My heart beat high as I knocked at his door, which was opened by a servant. I told her I wished to see Mr. Adams, if he was not too much indisposed, (having heard he had been unwell.) 'Which Mr. Adams do you wish to see?' she replied, 'the Judge or the President?' 'The President,' I answered. She withdrew, and in a few minutes a most enchanting female entered the parlor. I handed her my address and desired her to present it to the President. She returned in a moment and asked me to walk up stairs. I followed her, and took the precedence in entering the chamber of this venerable patriarch. I found the dear old man sitting up, before the fire. He would have arisen, but I flew forward to prevent him. He pressed my hand with ardour and inquired after my health.

We conversed upon general subjects relating to Alabama, the state I was from, such as its trade, navigation, and productions of the soil, etc. In answer to several inquiries relative to himself, he replied, that he was then, (April, 1825,) eighty-nine years and six months old; 'a monstrous time,' he added 'for one human being to support.' He could walk about the room, he said, and even down stairs, though he was at that time very feeble. His teeth were entirely gone, and his eye-sight very much impaired; he could just see the window, he said, and the weather-vane that stood before it, but retained his hearing perfectly. His face did not bear the marks of age, in proportion to his years; nor did he show the marks of decay in his appearance, with the exception of his teeth ,and his legs, which were evidently much reduced. He had a slight obstruction in his breathing, from having recently taken cold, and his tongue seemed to perform its office with abridged vigor. He coughed a little but said he was free from pain.

He was dressed in a green camblet morning gown, and his head uncovered except his venerable locks, which were perfectly white. He appeared as he sat in his chair to be about the size of his son, the present President of the United States, and his features bore a striking resemblance to the portraits and busts I had seen of him. The most child-like simplicity and goodness appeared in the sunshine of his countenance, which, while speaking, or listening, became extremely animated ;but when left to itself, subsided into an unclouded serenity. When I mentioned his son, the President, and Mrs. Adams the tear glittered in his eye ;he attempted to reply but was overcome with emotion. Finding the subject too tender, I changed it as quickly as possible.

Mr. Adams is represented to have been a patron of merit and genius, and amongst the most charitable men of the age. His mansion is a large venerable frame building, built, as he told me, about thirty-six years ago. It is large for a country house, consisting of three apartments, of equal size below stairs, with a gallery leading to the staircase. One of these is a common room, into which strangers are first introduced. In passing to the next room, you turn suddenly to the right ,and crossing the gallery enter a parlor, the furniture of which resembles a female Quaker's dress, rich but simple. The chairs were furnished with deep satin cushions; elegant sofas and carpets completed the furniture. From this in the same direction you enter the third apartment, which contains the family portraits. The portrait of Mr. Adams and his lady when they were young, likewise his daughter and John Quincy. The latter had very little resemblance to the original at this day, but as much like George Washington his son, as if it had been taken for him. Besides Mrs. Smith, the lady already mentioned, who is a niece of the good ex-President, another niece lives with him; they are both widows. It was truly interesting to see the tender, affectionate attention these ladies paid to the venerable old man; his happiness and comfort engrossed all their care, whilst peace and resignation sat on his brow. Like a calm evening sun, he is imperceptibly gliding to lighten other worlds.

His house faces Quincy, looking to the south, and commands a full view of that village. After partaking of a repast, without which no one is permitted to depart from his house, I walked over the village; it is the most delighful spot in Massachusetts. A bold transparent stream runs purling along through the midst of it; it is likewise adorned with lofty elms, grass plats and gardens of inexpressible beauty.

This part of Massachusetts. and the whole way that leads to it from Boston, is one uniform representation of matchless beauty; superb country seats, intermixed with groves and gardens, relieved by luxuriant meadows, with the same stream which waters Quincy, winding its way to the bay. These specimens of art are sometimes heightened by piles of the wildest rocks in nature.

On the road to Quincy, near Boston, stands Dorchester Heights, from which Gen. Washington forced the British to evacuate that city. The old breast-work, or fort, is still to be seen from the road, though partly overgrown with grass. This was the piece of generalship that so much astonished the British, it was erected in one night. Here it was that several thousand barrels of sand were ready to overwhelm the enemy, had they attempted to climb the hill. This must have been, what we, in the southern states, call a Yankee trick. The British, however, disappointed their expectations, by evacuating the city, and General Washington, amidst the shouts of the men, and the smiles of the ladies, entered Boston in triumph.

It appears that the ladies of these times were truer Whigs than the men, they not only threw all the tea they had into the streets, but abjured the name of tea. Gen. Washington, or some of his officers, sending to one of them to borrow a tea-kettle, the lady replied, that she had no tea-kettle, but she would lend him her coffee-kettle.'

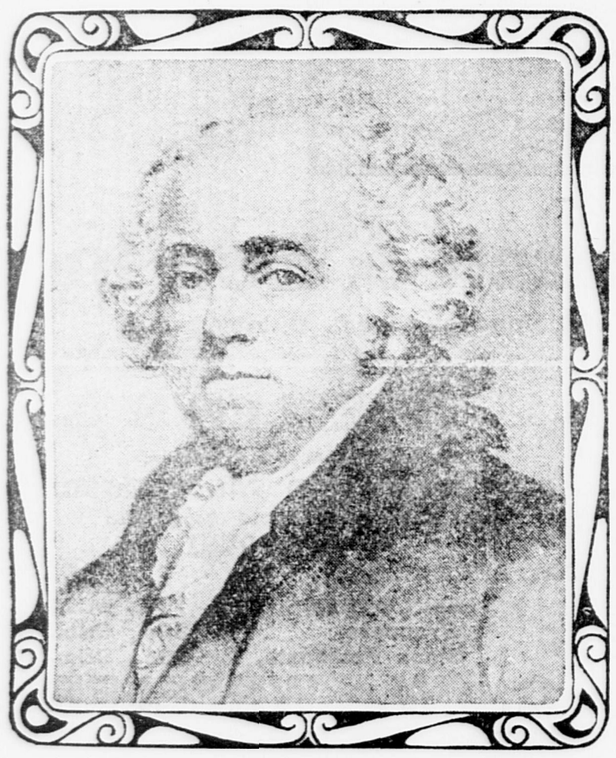

Returning from Quincy to Boston, I was agreeably surprised to find in the stage, the brother of Mr. Gales of Washington city, whose resemblance to him led to the discovery. He was taking an excursion with his beautiful wife, whom he had just married in Greenwich, Mass., and was soon going to North Carolina, where he resides. See what the fame of our Yankee girls effects."

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS. 1824.

"I called upon Mr. Adams, Secretary of State. It being his hour of business, I found him in the State department. Mr. Adams received me with that ease of manner, which bespeaks him what he really is, the profound scholar, and the consummate gentleman; he saluted in softest accents, and bid me be seated. I had heard much of Mr. Adams. I had admired him as a writer, and applauded him as a statesman. I was now in his presence. While beholding this truly great man, I was at a loss how to reconcile such rare endowments with the meek condescension of the being before me. He neither smiled nor frowned, but regarded me with a calmness peculiar to him, awaited my business. Mr. Adams appears to be about fifty years of age, middling stature, robust make, and every indication of a vigorous constitution. His complexion is fair, his face round and full, but what most distinguishes his features, is his eye, which is black ;it is not a sparkling eye, nor yet dull, but one of such keenness that it pierces the beholder. Every feature in his face shows genius, every gesture is that of a great man, his countenance is serene, and dignified, he has the steadiest look I ever witnessed, he never smiled whilst I was in his company, it is a question with me whether he ever laughed in his life, and of all men I ever saw, he has the least of what is called pride both in his manners and dress."

Humor and Philosophy

HIS OWN MANAGER.

The actor on the stage of life,
He doesn't have a cue
Or low suggestion from the side
To help him hurry through.
No; he must struggle with the plot
And action of the play
And all unaided by himself
Must think of things to say.

No limelight plays about his head,
No band starts a refrain
To help him over places hard
And make the meaning plain.
The makeup man on whom he leans
Sells hand-me-downs unless
The old clothes man with secondhands
Supplies his modest dress.

And if he does a noble deed
Or aids a worthy cause
He knows too much to stand around
And wait for the applause.
He feels the chance for getting praise
For it is mighty slim.
The audience sits back and says,
"What's in the thing for him?"

The actor and the actorine
Must dig and save and scrub
Because stage money will not pay
For furniture and grub.
If playing on the stage of life
It doesn't end in talk,
No odds how fancy is his line,
The ghost will never walk.

Love Versus Money.

When a man makes love to a woman a woman always wonders why, but it is the other woman who does the wondering.

Half Revenge.

I have no automobile
To mangle up my foes,
But I can buy some gasoline
To sprinkle on their clothes.

Chance For Scrap.

"They can't decide on a name for the baby."

"Why don't they have a family conference?"

"You mean a council of war?"

"Why, would they include the mother-in-law?"

Pa Knew.

"Pa."

"Well?"

"What is a danger signal?"

"The kick your mother gives me under the table."

Painful.

"My rich uncle is dead."

"Leave you anything?"

"Just a collar button."

"Got it in the neck, didn't you?"

Strictly Modern.

Yes, Farmer Jones is up to date.
He daily rides to town in state.
His nobby auto in the chase
Annihilating time and space.
His airship is the latest brand.
A handy thing to have at hand.
For, sailing airily on high,
He picks his cherries on the fly.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Try to have a pleasant word for every one, but if at any time you should run out of pleasant words don't try to substitute brickbats.

And then, too, it may be that some of your friends call your conservatism mere superstition

Mental reservations are very good things to have on hand when you find yourself in a tight place.

A woman is fond of a good box of candy, but she doesn't like to enjoy her complexion that way.

Some people find not worrying so very trying to their dispositions that their families find it hard to live with them.

Keep on good terms with your neighbor. You don't know how many rods he has in pickle that he could very handily use on you if he felt so minded.

It is hard to believe what some people say and so impolite not to believe it, so in that case what is a well meaning person to do?

Some men can't escape the conviction that they are superior to their fellows, and the worst of it is that they have a burning desire to communicate their opinion of themselves to the rest of us.

There is one cheerful thing about the troubles that your friends retail to you—they will forget them almost as quickly as you will.

The more plentiful you find good advice the less use you have for it.

In spite of the pressure that has been brought to bear on Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, to have him refer the whole question of bleached flour, branded by the department as adulterated, to the referee board of the department which recently permitted the use of bezoate of soda condemned by Dr. Wiley and clamored for by many of the food packers, bleached flour continues under the ban.

Legislation is pending, and is to be pressed to enactment if possible during the special session of Congress, intended to confer explicitly upon the President full authority to govern the Canal Zone and to administer its affairs according to his discretion. It is difficult to see how objection can be made to such legislation. It seems to be desirable, from every point of view, that the President should have such power, and there is already precedent for such a course on the part of Congress, in the case of the Louisiana purchase, for examples, when Florida was annexted to the United States.

The Sixty-first Congress which convened in extraodinary session this week is confronted with anything but child's play in the stupendous undertaking of revising the tariff. And to this delicate task is added its concomitant, that of enacting a law to create sources of additional revenue required to meet the growing expenditures of the nation, and it is of vital importance that this law shall not impose undesirable burdens on the average American Citizen. The Sixty-first Congress is not to be envied its complicated and delicate tasks.

A life-size bust of former Vice President Fairbanks has been placed in a niche in the Senate chamber at the Capitol recently, and this makes the collection of Vice Presidents' busts complete with the exception of Theodore Roosevelt, which is not yet completed by James Frazier of New York. The bust of Mr. Fairbanks is the work of Franklin Simmons, an American sculptor at present residing in Rome. It is a splendid likeness of Mr. Fairbanks and is of white marble, like the others. In the same corridor are busts of Andrew Johnson, and John Tyler, two Vice Presidents who became Presidents, and William A. Wheeler who served with President Hayes.

It is announced that President Taft has accepted invitations which will take him to Chicago, Denver, the Pacific coast and possibly Alaska. Evidently the President is intending not only to keep up his reputation for knowing things at first hand by personal investigation, as far as possible, but intends also to set his cabinet the example. Trips have been announced already for the Secretaries of War, of the Interior, of Agriculture, and of Commerce and Labor, to investigate the administration of the affairs under their immediate control. It is well for the members of the cabinet to keep in touch with the people in all sections of the country and to learn from them direct their wishes and difficulties as well as their criticisms of the conduct of the various departments of the national government.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Washington seems to be a little uneasy since the strain of strenuosity has been relieved. They miss the excitement they have been accustomed to, and as yet have not been able to adjust themselves to the quiet that has come over the capital city. Even Congress that two years ago had a message from the President that required two and one-half hours to read, could hardly realize that it was a message that came to them on Tuesday, and was read in three minutes. But Congress will get accustomed to the change, and the people of Washington will get used to the new order of things, and they all will like it. There will be much accomplished under the new regime, and while there was need of a Roosevelt method, there is now just as much necessity for a Taft manner, and national affairs will proceed in a calm and satisfactory way.—Lynn Item.

The Salem Board of Trade is being denounced in some quarters around Salem because it allowed a business to leave the city and didn't raise a hand to stop it. Boards of trade seem doomed to be criticised. Sometimes they are very busy and very energetic boards, too, but they cannot avoid some criticism even when they are at their best. They are occasionally expected to perform impossible feats. It is often the case that a firm desiring to leave for a new location couldn't be induced not to leave by any inducement short of the purchase for them of a new factory and equipment. Argument is wasted at such a time, and boards of trade as a rule do not have any enormous sums of money at their disposal with which to buy the favor of the manufacturers and others who may think of shifting their position.

Sometimes the boards show carelessness, weariness, and almost total lack of interest in the business for which they are appointed; but this is not always the case. They deserve credit oftentimes for good work attempted, even though it may not be performed; and while they are regarded as fit subjects for attack at all times by some citizens, they generally have on their list able, hardworking men who are vitally interested in the welfare of their city or town, and who do their best to improve local conditions in the places where they live.—Brockton Enterprise.

The new revenue bill reported to the house of representatives is proof positive that the republican party intends to keep certain promises made by it during the last campaign. There is no mistake about that. It is, of course, possible that the measure may not go through as reported, but, considering the efficiency the republicans have manifested in more than one exigency, it is not likely they will brook any serious interference with the program agreed upon. As the steam roller went over those who stood in the way of Mr. Taft at Chicago, it will roll over those who may try to undo the work so auspiciously begun by chairman Payne and his associates.

But in giving indisputable evidence of its intention to pass a measure of genuine tariff reform the republican party is not voluntarily conferring a boon upon the country. It is simply trying to undo some of its own mischief. It is trying to patch up the big hole made in the treasury of the United States by its own administrative extravagance.

It is fun to contract bills, but it is usually far from amusing to collect them, and as for paying them, one can conceive of much more exhilarating sport.

Pay, the people of the United States must, and pay they will, and that cheerfully. Let us hope the next time, however, that we get a little money ahead, the republicans will let it remain in the treasury over night.

Yet the people will pardon the republican impatience to spend money as freely as if it were waste paper, if they will pass the revenue bill at once and help along the business boom.

New Englanders seem to like the bill. And there are many reasons why they should.—Boston Globe.

ATLANTIC

Atlantic and Norfolk Downs people are shocked at the news of the death of Miss Edna Pritchard of Brockton. Miss Pritchard lived on Billings road about three years ago. Death came at nine-thirty A. M., March 18th, after an illness of but a few days, which was not thought to be dangerous. The cause of her death is supposed to have been heart trouble. Miss Pritchard was nineteen years old and was giving promise of a useful life. She was a splendid musician. The father of Miss Pritchard is the manager of the White Sewing Machine Co. in Brockton. Miss Pritchard has always kept up her friendships in Atlantic and her young associates deeply mourn her loss.

The Rev. W. J. Dudgeon of Boston University School of Theology will preach at both the morning and evening services in the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church. Everyone in Atlantic who has no church home is invited to worship with this congregation.

The Friday night prayer meeting at the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church was lead by Miss Helen Grant Holbrook. The subject was "Earnestness and Enthusiasm." A good number were present and almost everyone took part in the testimony meeting.

Henry H. Faxon Memorial lodge No. 159, International Order of Good Templars, initiated another new member at their regular meeting Wednesday evening. Several other names were proposed for membership and the prospects for the lodge are encouraging. The lodge elected the following delegates to the Grand Lodge session at Springfield: Miss May Young and H. O. Cassidy. Alternates, Beecher Poquett and Miss Marion Moffatt. The lodge was honored at the public meeting held two weeks ago by the presence of Past Grand Chief Templar Albert Sutcliffe, who addressed the meeting following the remarks of Deputy Grand Chief Templar, Mrs. Jennette Mann.

CHARLES P. PETERSON.

Charles P. Peterson, one of the oldest residents of Houghs Neck, died at his home on Sea street, late Friday afternoon after an illness of only three weeks.

The news of his death was received with great sorrow by the residents of the Neck where he was very popular. Mr. Peterson came to Houghs Neck in the early 80s. He located on Nut Island and engaged in the lobster business which at that time was going in full blast. After remaining in the lobster businehs for a number of years and amassing quite a large fortune he purchased a large tract of land on Sea street and built a home there. He bought a drove of cows and built up a large milk route.

His last appearance was made at the meeting of the council of last month when he offered a part of his land for sale for a school house site. Mr. Peterson was an active member of the Houghs Neck Associates and his presence will be missed greatly.

He is survived by a widow and two stepsons, one living at Houghs Neck and engaged in the grocery business under the name of George Peterson.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

Large and appreciative audiences have been teh rule all the week at B. F. Keith's Bijou Dream, Boston, to hear our townsman Charles H. Johnson give his lecure on Historic Quincy. The week of the lecture at this place will certainly advertise Quincy more than many Old Home week days. Our people should show their appreciation of the public spirit of Mr. Johnson in preparing this most interesting talk. Quincy has received widespread advertising through Mr. Johnson's personal efforts not only by the lectures this week but by those given last winter and he has bookings ahead in neighboring towns.

THERE'S A REASON

why one kind of hosiery for men will wear so many times longer than other kinds WITHOUT HOLES OR DARNING. A good reason, too, for it's the new

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

That makes all the difference in the world. We have taken up this new hosiery because we realize it is just what every man wants. A LIGHT WEIGHT, FINE TEXTURE sock that will give LONG WEAR WITHOUT DARNING. Because of this wonderful toe and heel a lisle sock is made which will outwear the heaviest, most clumsy hosiery with the ordinary double toe and heel.

DAYS OF DIZZINESS

Come to Hundreds of Quincy People.

There are days of dizziness;
Spells of headache, sideache, backache;
Sometimes rheumatic pains:
Often urinary disorders.
All tell you plainly the kidneys are sick.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.
Here is proof in Quincy.

Mrs. George L. Mott, living at 99 North street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have every reason for entertaining a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint, after everything I tried had failed to help me. Prior to using this remedy I was troubled a great deal with headaches and dizzy spells, which were so severe at times that I would have to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My eyesight was affected and spots would seem to float before me. My back also greatly annoyed me. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Cox drug store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing, I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pils with equally good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The funeral of Benjamin Kirton took place Tuesday afternoon from his late residence on Liberty street, East Braintree. Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity church, Weymouth conducted the service. The interment was at South Braintree cemetery. Mr. Kirton had been ill for several months. He leaves a widow and three daughters Magarett, Rhoda and Merle Kirton.

Next Wednesday March 24, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist church will entertain the Providence District meeting. The morning will be devoted to business. At noon a basket lunch will be enjoyed, coffee being served by the hospitality committee. In the afternoon there will be papers and addresses, and a generally fine program, to which the ladies of every church are cordially invited. Come and bring friends.

Wednesday evening, the members of the Matrons' whist club and their husbands were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Simonds of Franklin street. The spirit of St. Patrick's day was delightfully carried out. The color scheme was attained by green decorations and favors and other reminders of the land of the shamrock. Whist was the feature of the evening, and after the bestowal of the souvenirs dainty refreshments were generously served. With music and sociability, the evening passed quickly and the first gentleman's night of the year became a pleasant memory.

The Young People's society of Christian Endeavor of the Union church will meet Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Mr. Frank P. Chisholm, a graduate of Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, will be present and address the audience on the work of the institute which Booker T. Washington has made famous. All members of the parish and of the community are cordially invited. The Methodist and Universalist societies have been invited to join the Y. P. S. C. E. in welcoming Mr. Chisholm, who is reported to be a forceful and interesting speaker, and they have accepted the invitation .

The Krow Eldeen society met at Mrs. Dawson's house on Tuesday evening, Miss Vera Tarbox being hostess. As the members entered the reception hall they were requested to pay their respects to the bust of St. Patrick. Miss Tarbox had shown her skill as a sculptress by carving the bust out of an Irish potato. Games were played, the one causing the most enjoyment being the potato race. To see the different ones balancing a large potato on a very small spoon, while walking sedately across the room, provided a great deal of fun for the on-lookers. The color scheme for the evening, green and white was duplicated in the refreshments. After refreshments were served each one was requested to tell an Irish anecdote, a prize being awarded for the best one. The society will meet March 30, with Mrs. A. Cooks. Mt. Vernon avenue.

PHILERGIANS OF BRAINTREE.

Tuesday afternoon a regular meeting of the Philergians was held in Cochato hall, the president Mrs. Susan J. Avery, in the chair. After the business of the day, Miss Edith Margaret Smaill, lecturer and interpreter of Dr. Drummond's poems, was introduced. Her talk on the French-Canadian peasantry was admirably informal. Natural and sincere in style, obviously in love with her subject, Miss Smaill draws from her fund of folk-lore, and the results of keen observation, a hundred facts that serve to reveal the "Habitant" in a more intimate light. She has a subtle sense of humor, and makes her points with absolutely no straining after effect.

The talk was followed by a recital of several of the poems of Dr. Drummond. In her recital of these poems, Miss Smaill gives us the living spirit of Drummond's works. It is the habitant done to life, in varying mood, grave and gay, rejoicing or sorrowing. Her well-balanced dramatic sense enables her to keep within the bounds of emotional expression, and there is never, in any of her recitations, the slightest suggestion of overdoing any sentiment.

It is needless to say anything about these poems. They have passed into the place of a heritage to all Canadians, and they fill adequately and effectively a much needed want, that for years has been an obvious void, in Canadian literature. One has to hear them interpreted by such an artist as Miss Smaill to realize all their poignant humor, their simple pathos, and their utter naturalness. The delightful raillery of "Mon Frere Camille," the quiet humor of "De Habitant," the poignant pathos of "Pelang," the dramatic force of "Jean Beaucoup," reveal new charms under Miss Smaill's sympathetic interpretation.

The afternoon was in every way a delightful one, and the club should be congratulated on being able to obtain an artist of Miss Smaill's ability. Her work has a deeper value than appears on the surface, for she is doing something for Canada in thus bringing people into closer touch with the Habitant, a national type. There was an exhibit of handicraft and a club tea later.

Theatricals will be given under the management of Miss Miriam Thayer, Tuesday, April 6.

The Carita Dulce club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Joseph W. Crossley Beach street, Wollaston, Wednesday. The dainty green luncheon which the hostess served to her guests in observance of the day was very prettily arranged throughout the dining room as well as the table appointments. The meeting of March 24 will be held with Mrs. Harrison Loud.

—Ex-President Roosevelt—by the way, he is the only ex-president—starts from New York for Africa March 23. Meantime he is employed at various jobs about his Long Island estate, chopping wood, repairing fences and the like, and positively refuses to be photographed or interviewed. Why he chose 23 as his starting date is not known, but we know the colloquialism of that number.—Mansfield News.

Mortgagees' Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Henrietta B. Pratt and E. Granville Pratt to the Quincy Savings Bank dated November 1, 1890, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk book 645, page 309, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the first mentioned lot of the hereinafter described premises, on TUESDAY, the thirteenth day of April 1909, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—The following parcels of land, viz:

A certain lot of land, containing about 23,740 square feet, with all the buildings thereon situated in said Quincy, and being the homestead estate of the late Seth Spear, and as follows:—Southwesterly on Spear street, southeasterly on land of Franklin Hardwick and of F. P. Loud, southwesterly on land of N. B. Furnald and of Nash; northwesterly on land of Prescott.

Also a strip of land bounded southeasterly on lot 3 on plan of Orchard Lot, estate of Seth Spear, for (4) feet; southwesterly on said private way twenty-six (26) feet; northwesterly on said land now or late of C. A. Spear, five (5) feet; northeasterly on land of Kemp about twenty-six (26) feet. For my title to said premises, reference may be made to a deed or the record thereof, of Edwin W. Marsh, Executor of the last will of Seth Spear, of even date and record herewith.

Also another lot of land containing about 41,120 square feet, situated in said Quincy and bounded and described as follows:—Southwesterly on Spear street two hundred (200) feet; northwesterly on land of Tupper and of Hersey, two hundred and twelve (212) feet; northeasterly on land of N. B. Furnald and of C. A. Spear, one hundred and ninety-one (191) feet; southeasterly on said lot No. 4, above described being land now or late of C. A. Spear and on lot No. 5, hereinbefore conveyed, two hundred and eight (208) feet. Be all these measurements more or less. Being the premises bequeathed to me, said Henrietta, by my father, the late Seth Spear, by his will, duly proved and allowed by the Probate Court for Norfolk County, May 9, 1888, and the same conveyed to him by S. Henry Spear by his deed dated December 17, 1868 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds in Libro 374, folio 175.

The above described premises comprise the property conveyed by said mortgage except those parcels which have been released by partial releases duly recorded. This property will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles and assessments if any.

$500.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.

Balance cash in ten days from said sale on delivery of deed.

COCHATO CLUB BRAINTREE.

The commodious clubhouse of the Cochato club was thronged Monday evening at the pop concert. The Fadette Ladies Orchestra, which has long runs every year at Keiths theatre, was the great attraction, and the members of the club enthused over Mrs. Nichols and her aggregation of accomplished young artists quite as much as the theatre goers do.

In the hall were as many card tables as could possibly be crowded in, and while the orchestra rendered a very pleasing musical program, the ladies and gentlemen also enjoyed bridge or whist. Light drinks and other refreshments were served, and it was one of the most popular social evenings of the club this season.

A matched game of candle pins, will be rolled between the Wompatuck club of Hingham and the Cochato club, next Tuesday evening, at the Cochato club house.

A progressive bridge party was held under the auspices of the club last evening and fourteen tables were in play. The committee in charge were: Mrs. G. W. Tinkham, Mrs. W. E. Field, Mrs. G. H. Baker, Mrs. Charles Clapp, Mrs. C. D. Harlow, Mrs. H. S. Barker and Miss Harriet Ripley. Souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. Harry Parker, East Braintree; Mrs. G. D. Bullock, Weymouth; Joseph Wilder and John E. Arnold, Braintree. Coffee, cake, nuts, olives, cheese and candy were served for refreshments.

COLLEGE DANCE.

A good deal of interest is being taken in anticipation of the Smith-Dartmouth dance that will be held at cochato hall Braintree evening of April 3. The rather unique plan of running a typical college dance during the Easter holidays, has been under the direction of a committee of Smith and Dartmouth people. A special musical program, containing many college and football and topical songs, has been arranged. The hall will be decorated with college banners and pillows, the prevailing colors being green and white.

A large number of students from these two institutions are planning to be on hand at this occasion. The idea of the dance is not, however, as the name might indicate, an affair exclusively for Smith and Dartmouth people, but is rather intended to be a school and college dance at which all are welcome, whether they be from Brown or Wellesley.

Another dance that is being planned for April 12, will be run by the XX club and the young ladies bridge club, in combination. These two organizations have both run very successful dances during the winter and their combined efforts should afford an exceptionally fine dance.

MASONIC SOCIAL AT BRAINTREE.

The first social of Delta lodge of Masons last evening was such a success that there will probably be more occasionally. Bridge and whist were enjoyed by fully one hundred ladies and gentlemen from 8 to 10. Ices, cake and coffee were served, and informal dancing concluded the festivities.

Worshipful Master and Mrs. Charles Sampson of Rural lodge were among the guests who included Masons from Weymouth, Randolph, Quincy and elsewhere. The committee were: E. S. Grover, H. A. Rhoades, John Guy, Atherton Hunt and John N. Rogers.

ONCE POWERFUL AND INFLUENTIAL

Joseph Moore Closes His Life as a Country Physician

A FACTOR IN GRANITE STATE

Rose From Obscurity to Position of President of National Bank, Savings Bank and Insurance Company, and Became Sole Owner of the Manchester Union—Rocket Financial Career Had Unhappy Ending

Laconia, N. H., March 20.—The career of a once notable figure in New Hampshire finance closed last night in the passing of Dr. Joseph C. Moore, who died at his cottage in Lakeport, where, since his downfall from a position of power and influence, he had lived the quiet life of a country physician.

In the height of his career Dr. Moore was known as the New Hampshire "Napeoleon of finance," and in addition to controlling banks and other corporations was a factor in politics to be reckoned with.

The failure of the National Bank of the Commonwealth, Derryfield Savings bank, and People's Fire Insurance company, all of Manchester, in 1893, following the flight of Charles F. Morrill, cashier of the National bank and treasurer of the other concerns, to the Argentine republic, where he died eight years ago, ended the business life of Moore, who was president of all three.

Joseph C. Moore was born in Loudon, N. H., in 1845. His father was a physician with a somewhat limited practice. In 1866 he went into the practice of medicine with his father in Lake village, and for thirteen years followed a country physician's routine. He found time and money to invest in a number of business enterprises, and gained an insight into the methods and plans which aided him greatly afterward in the prosecution of his various business matters.

In 1879 he went to Manchester, and with Dr. J. H. Riedell and Stillson Hutchins purchased the Evening Union and established a morning paper of the same name. In time Moore became sole owner of The Union, which was a financial success.

In the state election of 1880 he was made a member of the state senate. In 1884 Dartmouth college conferred on him the degree of master of arts.

Moore's troubles began in 1892, when he induced Warren Lane, then cashier of the Merchants' National Bank of Manchester, to lend him $60,000 without the knowledge of the directors. The downfall of Lane shook the public confidence in the National Bank of the Commonwealth and Derryfield Savings bank. During the panic of 1893, the national bank examiner visited the Commonwealth bank several times, but on each occasion, although the institution was insolvent, the government officials were deceived by securities which had been switched from the savings bank and fire insurance company. Within a week the comptroller of the currency issued two calls, each to be of the same date.

Distracted by the perplexities of his position Cashier Morrill took what cash was available and fled to the Argentine Republic. The doors of all three institutions were closed forever, and indictments against Moore and Morrill were brought by the federal and state courts. Moore escaped conviction for banking irregularities, but later served a short term in prison for over-issuing stock of one of his other companies.

The bank crash which began in Manchester in 1893 spread indirectly to many other places in the state and it took New Hampshire nearly a dozen years to recover from the blow.

Morrill never returned to the state alive. He and Frank McKeen, a defaulting bank cashier of Nashua, conducted a business in South America. Morrill's body was brought to his native state. McKean died later in Paraguay.

Moore had not been in good health for several years. Last Tuesday he was stricken with paralysis and had been in a critical condition since. The former financier when in his prime was a man of powerful physique and was more than six feet in height.

LONG DISTANCE CHESS

Princeton, N. J., March 20.—Play was begun here today in the international cable chess match between students of American universities and the students representing the English universities of Oxford and Cambridge. The American colleges represented are Columbia, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Harvard.

There are six players on each side. The prize is the Isaac L. Rice trophy, now held in this country. It was won by the American students last year by the score of 3½ to 2½.

MRS. SILSBY GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

She Displays No Emotion While Verdict Is Rendered

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Mrs. Rose A. Silsby was found guilty of manslaughter in killing Clinton E. Childs. Sentence will be imposed some day next week. Meantime Mrs. Silsby is kept under bonds of $3000.

Clerk Ambrose read the verdict. Mrs. Silsby's husband stood at the bar with her. In the courtroom were also her daughter and two sisters. No emotion was shown by Mrs. Silsby, but her husband and daughter both wept.

Mrs. Silsby killed Clinton E. Childs at her home in Waltham by shooting.

DISPLAY OF AEROPLANES

Best Machines Are Seen at Exhibition Opened In London

London, March 20.—Proof of the awakening interest of Great Britain in the subject of aviation is seen in the international aeroplane exhibition, the first ever held, which began at the Olympia today. The show, which contains models of the leading French and British flying machines, will remain open nine days.

The best French machines as well as the best built in this country are on exhibition at the show. The Aero Club of Great Britain shows models embodying the latest flying machines.

Orville and Wilbur Wright, the famous American aeronauts, are expected to attend the exhibition. They are to visit England in response to an invitation of the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain, which will present the brothers each with the gold medal of the society. The Aeronautical society has erected sheds for their experiments at Dagenham, Essex.

READING OF TARIFF BILL

It Fails to Interest Members of House of Representatives

Washington, March 20.—For four and a half hours the house of representatives listened to the reading of the tariff bill, which was concluded. It was perhaps the dreariest legislative session of any held by that body in recent years. Some of the members early in the reading took to the cloak rooms and lobby back of the speaker's desk, while others left the building for the day.

Mr. Sims (Tenn.) injected a breath of life into the proceedings. He wanted the reading of the bill dispensed with as a farce, but objection was made. Then he asked unanimous consent that the bill be put on its passage, saying it was evident no opportunity would be afforded to amend the measure in the house. To this suggestion, however, Mr. Mann (Ills.) objected.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF FOUR

Mrs. Kelleher Charged With Killing Relatives With Poison

Cambridge, Mass., March 20.—Mrs. Mary Kelleher, the Somerville woman held in the Cambridge jail on an indictment for arson, will not be tried upon that charge, but will face a Middlesex county jury in the near future, who will decide whether or not she will be sent to the electric chair. She is accused of the murder of four of her relatives.

This is the announcement of District Attorney Higgins, who made it known that Mrs. Kelleher had been secretly indicted early this month on the charge of killing three of her children and her sister-in-law.

For reasons best known to the district attorney's office, the strictest silence on the matter was preserved until yesterday.

LONG CONSIDERED UNSAFE

Collapse of Tanks Followed by Flood and Loss of Life

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 20.—Two lives were lost, five persons were seriously injured and a property loss estimated at $225,000 was caused when two iron tanks on Prospect Hill, holding the city's entire water supply of 2,000,000 gallons, collapsed.

Thirty residences were partially or enirely demolished as the torrent rushed down the steep hillside 200 feet high. St. John's Lutheran church, recently completed at a cost of $15,000, was completely demolished.

The tanks have long been considered dangerous. It is said that many damage suits will be filed.

Foreclosure on Calla Estate

Portsmouth, N. H., March 20.—To satsfy a mortgage of $25,000, foreclosure proceedings were instituted against the Newington estate of Glacia Calla, an actress, who attained considerable publicity when she informed the police that her husband, Paul Roy, had slain her brother, George Carkins.

Wright's Pupils Doing Well

Pau, France, March 20.—Wilbur Wright's aeroplane pupils, Count Lambert and M. Tissandier, made several flights in the Wright machine of twenty minutes' duration. The evolutions were as successfully carried out as if Wright had been in charge.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title: Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000, but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St., Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

DOINGS ON BEACON HILL

Resume of Week's Business At State House.

Boston, March 17, 1909.

Before this letter will be read by some of its readers, the legislature will have settled the fate of the constitutional amendment for prohibition of the liquor business. But there is not the slightest indication that it will get even a majority of the House, whereas a two-thirds' vote is necessary for its second stage and there is precious little interest in the corridors upon the subject. It does not count for a live issue here this year, no matter what prestige it may have gained by the unexpected majority report in its favor by the committee on constitutional amendments. If there were any faith on the part of the prohibitionists that they were going to win, there would be a flutter of excitement in the reading room and there would be that expectancy which attends important measures which are in doubt. But this is strikingly absent.

The truth is that it was not expected that there would be any such favorable report by the committee. If this had been anticipated, there is no doubt that there would have been such a display of activity as would have informed the committeemen that they must have more regard to the political situation. The republican managers have got the perplexing issue just where it is least dangerous to them. If the republicans were straight prohibitionists as a party, there is little doubt that the democrats would be the party permanently in power in Massachusetts. Hence it is important that there shall be no danger that the state will be democratic and the republican party must be made prohibition-proof. Hence the safest course is to leave the issue just where it is now, as a matter of local option. That keeps it out of state politics. Besides, it is easy to make a strong argument that this course is the very best for promotion of temperance sentiment.

Next Tuesday will come the vote upon constitutional woman suffrage, and that is likely, also, to get a hard bump. Of course the women will turn out in mass, but the movement has reached the stage now where the opposition on the part of the women sizes up well compared with the support by the women, and that tends to justify the masculine conservatism. There are no indications that the spectacular demonstration of woman suffrage speeches from the steps of the state house and from the Charles street mall of the common has had the effect of converting the members to favor the amendment.

It looks as if this House were rather conservative. It did not show any favor yesterday to the bill to provide that juries which find a person guilty of murder in the first degree may qualify their verdicts by the words "without capital punishment." The argument that was the law of United States and in 17 of our states did not carry much weight and the bill was snowed under by 54 in its favor to 146 against it, and eight pairs. That was a very surprising adverse vote considering that there were 11 of the committee on judiciary in favor of the bill to only five against it. The argument seemed to carry weight with the House that this bill would make the penalty for murder wholly uncertain, for it would not depend upon the law, but upon the opinion, or even whim of the jury. That is, the jury would no longer be held to their present duty of determining what were the facts, but they would have also judicial duty of imposing the penalty, which is radically contrary to the spirit of our institutions which separate carefully the functions of the jury, the judge and the executioner, so that each person in the chain acts strictly according to law and cannot act otherwise. There was a high grade of speaking for and against the bill, better than the arguments, but the outcome proves that the tendency of thought, as far as the representatives reveal it, is against the abolition. For it was only a few years ago that a bill for the straight abolition of capital punishment had only two less in the House than its opponents.

It will not fail to attract attention that military service in the Philippines still fails to command the admiration or sympathy, to any expressible extent, of our people. Once more there has been made a unanimous report against giving medals to the men who have served in the Philippines, and the proposition to stretch the veteran exemption laws so as to include the soldiers of the war with Spain has, for the first time since the close of that war, proved so weak and without public support that it has failed to be presented to the legislature. It always encountered strong and successful opposition and the fact that the first veterans' exemption law is now seen to have been a mistake due to a commendable motive tends to prevent a repetition of it in the case of the men in our war with Spain.

Per contra, there has come unanimously from the committee on federal relations a series of resolutions strongly in favor of promoting peace and arbitration as against a great national navy and the attitude of Masachusetts in support of world progress on this line is thus strongly demonstrated. Back in 1903, when the resolution for a regular international congress had been passed unanimously by House and Senate, the Senate, after debate, turned down with only five votes in favor a resolution for a big navy, and the conclusive argument was that such a resolution was inconsistent with their resolution just adopted for a world legislative body. And, at that time Senator Lodge was a big navy man, too. So Massachusetts is strongly committed to peace, arbitration and the political organization of the world into one body, which is precisely what the world legislative proposition points to and what the second Hague conference, following the lead of Massachusetts, has officially favored by recommending the calling of the third conference.

The committee on election laws has reported leave to withdraw on all the 14 different propositions for direct nomination of political candidates. Such a sweeping report will be sure to call out vigorous dissent, but the majority will probably carry their side through triumphantly. Majority parties are skittish about political innovations. Rule.

WILLING TO PAY $10,000

Return of William Whitela Is All Uncle of the Boy Asks

Cleveland, March 20.—Frank H. Buhl, the millionaire uncle of William Whitela, the 8-year-old son of James P. Whitela of Sharon, Pa., who was kidnapped Thursday morning, arrived here last night, having received notice that a clue to the missing boy had been found in this city.

"I will remain in Cleveland and hunt this clue down to the last," he said. The cost amounts to nothing. What I want, what Whitela wants and what all of us are determined to have is Willie back with us again.

"I am prepared to pay the $10,000 for the return of the child. There need be no questions about who stole him or how he was stolen. The man who returns him shall have the $10,000 in order to get the boy back. I have set no limit. The child shall be returned at any cost."

CONCEALED IN JUNK SHOP

Brooklyn Detectives Think They Have Found Black Hand Arsenal

New York, March 20.—The discovery of ten kegs of gunpowder and some other suspicious material in the cellar of an Italian junk shop in South Brooklyn led the police to believe that they had discovered the arsenal of a Black Hand band.

Detectives went to the junk shop in search of some stolen automobile tires which had been disposed of in this neighborhood. The proprietor made strenuous objections to their going into the cellar with lighted cigars. After a search they found the powder carefully concealed. They also came upon a collection of scraps of iron pipe, capped at one end in the manner which is frequently used for the manufacture of bombs.

The proprietor was arrested and a police guard was placed at the junk shop.

A VEGETABLE DIET

Recommended as Cure For Alcohol and Tobacco Users

Washington, March 20.—"If you have a strong appetite for King Alcohol and tobacco and want to be cured of the habit, just eat a vegetable diet for six months."

This was the advice given by Dr. D. H. Kress of this city in an address entitled "Dyspepsia and its relation to inebriety" before the American Society for the Study of Alcohol and Other Drug Narcotics. He discussed the evil effects of an excessive diet and declared that over-eating leads to drunkenness.

"If you would not become a drunkard," said Kress, "then quit eating meat."

HORSES WEAR MOURNING

Follow Funeral Cortege of George Angell, Friend of Dumb Beasts

Boston, Mass., March 20.—Over 2000 horses in Boston streets today are decorated with black rosettes as mourning for George T. Angell, the country's foremost defender of dumb animals. Thirty work horses, their appearance testifying to the laws which he had enforced, followed the funeral hearse as an escort of honor.

The work horses formed behind Trinity church and followed the hearse as far as Massachusetts avenue, where they were drawn up and formed a lane through which the rest of the funeral procession passed.

The Winning of Edmonia.

By JANET CHRISTINE STEPHENS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

There was nothing of the knight errant about Percivale Bonney. In the thoughts of Edmonia Turner, thoughts which invariably formed the frowning background to Percivale's waking hours, he was discouragingly and modernly inoffensive.

She had once stated succinctly, as was Edmonia's way, that the only thing about him that remotely suggested standing up for itself was the cowlick at the back of a square and otherwise irreproachably groomed head. The subject of this rather doubtful approval was secretly encouraged in the belief that the cowlick indicated an aggressive spirit which seemed to be the heroic attribute in the imagination of Edmonia's set.

Edmonia's faintly appreciative remark had been inspired in her mother's attic during the rummaging of a rain bound house party, when, upon the discovery of an ancient coat of mail, Percivale had pulled it out from under the eaves and had fallen speedily to calculating how many chain dishcloths it would have made for Mrs. Turner's carefully ordered kitchen.

This was too much for Edmonia. A man who could evolve dishcloths from the fabric of romance must be lacking in the most rudimentary instincts of chivalry. It counted for naught with her that Percivale Bonney was evincing a business ability that made his father prouder every day or that she had never had a rival in his loyal devotion to her.

She dreamed of the clash of armor and the risks of joust and tourney, a knight who should perform feats of arms for her sake and rescue her, if need be, from a tyrant's might. In the free wholesomeness of American society the tyrant had not appeared, and to do Edmonia justice she really did care a great deal for Percivale's allegiance, only she desired a more daring proof.

It was therefore incumbent upon this thoroughly consistent young lady that she steel her heart against the pleasing picture which a tall, broad shouldered, gray clad figure, hat off and light hair tossing in the breeze, made against a morning sky on the first day of one of his erratic autumnal visits near her country home.

She accordingly let her disdainful glance dwell upon his offensively ruddy cheek and ignored his unaffected stare of astonishment at her modern equipage, a brilliantly red automobile at a standstill upon the country road.

"What, ho, Rebecca!" he greeted her when within speaking distance of where she sat in the crimson rambler. "Armed cap-a-pie I see! Is the drawbridge down?"

Edmonia smiled tolerantly and gave him her hand.

"But why linger so far from the paternal castle? Has thy gentle palfrey gone lame?"

Edmonia glanced suggestively back along the highway. "I'm waiting for a friend." She said it with conviction.

The dusty road stretched in two long, undeviating lines in either direction. No one was in sight. Percival's gaze abandoned its quest and returned suspiciously to the crimson rambler. "Could I," he asked anxiously, "figure in that capacity?"

She reddened in turn, then scanned him critically. "Perhaps." She was still rather doubtful of his capabilities. Mentally scorning as inexcusable a devotion to his business which had made him hitherto ignore the automobile craze, he flattened himself out after the manner of the ardent automobilist under her car and confided his despair to her tonneau.

It was bad enough not to be romantic, but not to be even useful was unbearable. He had not the slightest idea of how to start the machine. He crawled out from under the machine and mounted to the driver's seat.

Her sudden accession of trust, inspired by his businesslike manner, provoked him to fresh endeavor. He made a great show of moving brakes, tightening useless screws and peering into the machine while she scanned the scenery.

Whatever he finally did to that automobile to start it Percivale does not know. Suddenly it slid out of the shade into the road like a bird from under his hand. "Aha," he cried, with an assurance that he was far from feeling, "I thought so!"

He held a trembling hand upon the wheel and answered irrelevant questions at regular intervals. They were now gliding along between hedgerows of gorgeous autumn color. He began to feel more at ease. Edmonia hummed a little sing as old as it was sweet:

The rose that all are praising
Is not the rose for me.

He looked at her and in that look forgot his new responsibility. She was gazing steadily down the dusty turnpike, a little smile upon her lips, as though she would see the knight of her dreams in plumed helmet and shining armor riding to bear her away.

"He couldn't catch us," said Percivale in response to her thought. She started and looked with more interest at her companion. He had spoken in the confidence that is born of ignorance.

"Say, Ted," he continued, "I don't know much about your 'flowers of chivalry.' I don't even understand the first thing about an aut"— He caught himself up. He positively would not divulge this humiliating fact. He went on more confidently: "But you are the rose for me, sure, Ted. You must say you will marry me this time," he ended, with an air of desperation, "or I'll"—

The threat was not completed. In the earnestness of his plea Percivale had forgotten that he was running an automobile for the first time in his life. They were now going at a tremendous speed and every instant gathering momentum. Edmonia gripped his arm as they lurched around a curve and bounced over a culvert.

"Hang on!" yelled Percivale as they approached a slight descent. In his clumsy efforts to control the machine he inadvertently put on more speed.

"What are you doing?" screamed Edmonia. "Stop! Why, you are running away with me!" she laughed tremulously.

"Why not?" he shouted wildly, as she thought, recklessly. The idea of stopping was a delectable one now to Percivale, but one which he felt that he must abandon.

The roadsides of fireweed and goldenrod flew by like a track of flame. Hens flapped from under his wheels as they passed farmhouses at a rate of speed that made the occupants rush out of doors to stare after them. Outraged cries followed them when a barking dog was not quick enough to elude those blurring wheels and with a yelp of pain rolled over and over into the ditch. Three horses baiting by the roadside in front of another house stampeded as they whizzed by and raced them out of sight.

Edmonia now tried to expostulate with her mad cavalier. But Percivale said nothing to her almost tearful appeals. His whole attention was concentrated on keeping the thing within the limits of the road.

"Beats Lochinvar!" he yelled breathlessly as they grazed a watering tub.

Edmonia moaned. "You are crazy!" she cried. "Let's go home! Oh, take me home!" she commanded him.

"Home!" Percivale ground the word passionately between his teeth. "You will be lucky if you ever see home again. We shall never stop!" But even as he spoke he felt something respond to his groping fingers. The machine was obeying his controlling hand.

Joy and a relief that rolled over him like a wave made him shout aloud. Edmonia received this new demonstration as the exultation of a captor and commanded and implored by turn. But he did not at once diminish his speed. He knew now that Edmonia had not realized his impotence. He put the machine at a hill and plunged down the other side. Edmonia was clinging to him with wild promises.

He brought the car carefully to a standstill and climbed painfully to the ground. Edmonia was sobbing into her handkerchief. He hoped he was accepting the role of victorious knight modestly, but the iron was hot!

"Ted," he cried, "you've got to keep your promise, you know. I'm not much of a knight, and I don't know how to run"—

His unsuspected confession was interrupted for the second time as she suddenly, to his astonishment, smiled up at him through her tears.

"I never was driven like that in my life!" she remarked, with pride. "But—but let's go home in a buggy!"

"Not until we're married," said Percivale firmly.

Edmonia refused to continue in the car, however, so they walked on to the nearest town, where the minister's fee was the first of a series of more mundane charges which punctuated their homeward journey in the buggy.

But in his new joy, which was only enhanced by pecuniary interludes with the wrathful owners of slaughtered hens, the tearful mistress of an injured dog and damages due to the recovery of errant horses, Percivale made it a triumphal journey.

Why He Saved Them.

For weeks upon weeks the heavy rains descended upon the holiday resort of Lakeswash, and the proprietor of the Punt and Puntpole was looking very blue. Indeed, those two straw hatted, miserable looking objects out in the Lakeswash canoe were the only visitors of the season. The hotel proprietor gloomily watched their clumsy endeavors to navigate their tiny craft. Suddenly, plop, splosh! "Help!" In a moment the hotel proprietor had changed from a sluggish do-nothing to a frenzied rescuer. Putting out rapidly in a boat, he succeeded in reaching the terrified men just at the critical moment.

"Oh, thank you—thank you!" they cried as they scrambled into the boat.

"Don't thank me!" growled the hotel keeper. "Thank the weather! Visitors is so scarce this year we can't afford to let even the fools drown! I did it for your board and lodging!"—London Answers.

For a Loaf, All Right.

As the tramp looked at Mrs. Godard he felt a thrill of hope. Here was surely an easy and benevolently inclined person. "Could you gimme a dime to buy a loaf o' bread?" he whined.

Mrs. Godard's guileless soul looked out at him through her nearsighted eyes, and she fingered her purse hopefully.

"I have only a quarter here," she said, "and I'm really too tired to walk home."

"Sure, I can change it for you," said the tramp cheerfully as he took out a dime and a nickel, and not until Mrs. Godard was halfway home on the car did it occur to her that there was anything unusual in the transaction.—Youth's Companion.

Generous.

"What would you do if you went fishing and a whale were to bite your hook?"

"Make him a present of it."

A Fulsome Compliment.

During Mr. Cleveland's tour of the south shortly after his marriage Mrs. Cleveland and he were driving one day through the streets of one of the larger towns escorted by two of its citizens. Some one threw a bunch of violets to Mrs. Cleveland, and Mr. Cleveland bent forward to catch it, remarking as he presented it, "I wonder why no one gives me flowers."

One of the gentlemen present gallantly replied, "We think you have won the fairest flower in all the land."

"Ah, yes," returned the president; "but, you see, I can't keep her in water!"

"It is not necessary since you keep her in such excellent spirits," was the reply.

Here Mrs. Cleveland interposed, saying, "I am afraid you are guilty of flattery," whereupon came the reply:

"No, madam. Flattery is fulsome compliment, and in this instance no compliment could be either too frank or too fulsome."

The charm of this response lies in the last and fourth from the last words, Mrs. Cleveland's maiden name being Frances Folsom.

A Queer Chinese Notion.

One of the beliefs which the Chinese are slowly unlearning is that foreigners use the eyes and hearts of Chinamen in compounding rare and costly drugs which are valuable aids in magic. Medicine and magic have for ages gone hand in hand in China, just as they once did in Europe. Ignorant Chinamen therefore readily believe such tales. The use of eyes of Chinese by foreigners in metallurgy is described in a work called "A Deathblow to Corrupt Practices," published in 1870. According to this, when white Christians had charge of a funeral they drove all the relatives and friends from the house. Both eyeballs were then removed from the corpse, the orifices being filled with plaster. This was called "sealing the eyes for the western journey." By compounding these eyes with a hundred pounds of Chinese lead, this veracious chronicle continues, eight pounds of silver could be extracted from it. The sight organs of any other people were useless for this purpose.

Marine Rubber Chewers.

The sailor, taking a fine, new rubber band from the stationery display, began to chew it with vigorous enjoyment.

"What are you up to there?" snarled the druggist.

"Just rubber chewin'," said the sailor. "It's a habit with all us navy fellers. Keeps off gun headache.

"Of course you, a landlubber, don't know nothin' about it. But let me tell you, mate, when a sixteen inch gun goes off aboard ship the jar shatters winders, splits planks and brings your lower teeth up against your uppers like a straight left from old John L.

"The result is a gun headache—such a headache! But if you chew rubber in firing time it eases off the shock and you don't suffer none. I been chewin' it steady ever since Manila Bay."

"Rubber chewing—what a nasty habit," said the druggist.

"Rag chewin's worse," was the sailor's reply.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Close Quarters For Washington.

At the time, now some years ago, when subscriptions were being solicited for the erection of a statue in New York city to President Washington a gentleman called to secure a contribution from an old resident who, although wealthy, was a little "near." On learning the object of the visit the rich man exclaimed:

"Washington! Washington! Why, Washington does not need a statue! I keep him enshrined in my heart!"

In vain were the visitor's solicitations, and he was naturally indignant at the parsimony of the millionaire.

"Well, Mr. R.," he remarked quietly as he rose to leave, "all I can say is that if the Father of His Country is in the position in which you describe him he is in a tight place!"

The Title "King."

The sovereign title of king has generally been supposed to be derived from the old British word "gyning," signifying "wise." But the Hebrew term "rosch" is doubtless the root of all the present titles denoting kingly power, including the Punic "resch," the Scythian "reix," the Latin "rex," the Spanish "rey" and the French "roi." The German nations styled their monarch according to their different dialects—"konig," "kuning," "koning," "king."

Time's Changes.

The captain was receiving the new middy.

"Well, boy, the old story, I suppose—fool of the family sent to sea?"

"Oh, no, sir," piped the boy, "that's all altered since your day."—London News.

Not Misplaced.

TECH MAY BUY.

A Boston paper is authority for the statement that the Institute of Technology is considering the buying of a tract of land near the head of the tidewater of the Fore River, known as Haywards grove. The land contains many valuable specimens of what are known as trilobite fossils and would be a valuable addition for the geological department to make.

A large outcropping ledge of primordial rock about as old as any of its kind in the whole country extant in this part of the continent contains these fossils in large numbers. The first person to call attention to the fact was President Rogers, the founder of the institute. Dr. John Dixwell has within the past year been organizing a movement to preserve the ledge, which is now threatened by an adjacent quarry, for the purpose of study and investigation by scientific students.

BOWLING.

The see-saw continues between teams 7 and 8, in the Cochato bowling tournament, the two having changed places this week. Team 7 leads by half a point, but on pinfall is 52 behind team 8. Team 6 almost clinched third place this week. Team 3 won the most points this week, while team eight bowled the highest total.

The standing to date:

	Nights	Pinfall	Points
Team 7 	10	12,113	78 1-2
Team 8 *	10	12,165	78
Team 6	10	11,757	64 1-2
Team 4 *	10	11,702	57 1-2

Tuesday Night.

The leaders in the tournament met Tuesday evening, team 8 leading team 7 by half a point. Team 7 won the first string by 20 pins, with a record breaking total of 440 pins. Then team 7 weakened a little, while team 8 improved, and the latter won by 43 pins. In the rubber game, team 7 improved while team 8 weakened, and the former won by 13 pins. Team 8, however, won on totals by 10 pins. The town meeting was a greater attraction for team 1. Team 7 won eight points and team 8 took seven.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Keith's Theatre.

Again Alice Lloyd at Keith's. There is no more popular attraction than this dainty, little English comedienne, who won her way into the American hearts and in a short year became the highest priced attraction in vaudeville. The mere announcement of her appearance at Keith's always makes a big week a certainty, and this will positively be her last appearance before starting out at the head of her own company in a Klaw and Erlanger production. The surrounding bill will be in keeping with this splendid headline feature. One of the most important acts will be a new short opera, "The Patriot," which has been meeting with such wonderful success, with Miss Helena Fredericks in the leading part. Also on the bill are Bert Levy, the whistling cartoonist; the Exposition Four; The Bounding Gordons; Kaltmar and Brown; Irene La Tour and Zaza; Hy Greenway; Fiddler and Shelton and a number of other strong attractions.

Boston Theatre.

While "The Man of the Hour, which William A. Brady and Joseph R. Grismer brought to the Boston theatre last Monday night, renewed its former great popularity in Boston, it can only remain for the week beginning the 22nd instant. It is perhaps the best known play in America. It grips and keeps hold. It is sound and wholesome, with flesh and blood characters, dealing with vital conditions in a virile manner. It contains more laughs than many a farce, and its love interest is quite charming. It is a graphic exposition of political juggling. Its tremendous vogue is clearly significant of appeal to all manner of men and women. "The Man of the Hour" is talked about everywhere. Men and women prominent in social life, as well as leaders in business and political affairs, flock to see it. Oscar Hammerstein's Manhattan theatre grand opera company begins an all too brief engagement of two weeks Monday night, March 29. The sale of seat for the single performances begins on March 22 at 9 o'clock A. M.

Castle Square Theatre.

Clyde Fitch has written many plays, and he has never written a failure. Among the best and most popular of them is "Her Own Way," in which Maxine Elliott starred several seasons ago with her customary success. It will be given at the Castle Square next week by the John Craig Stock Company, and it will reveal Mr. Fitch's ingenuity at the construction of an interesting plot and act at the writing of entertaining dialogue. Its scenes are laid in New York at the present day, and its characters are a group of people who reflect the emotions and the feelings of our own every day life. Many types of American character are brought to life by Mr. Fitch in "Her Own Way," and under the direction of William Parke the play will be cast and played with more than usual. The leading roll of the heroine, Georgiana Carley, will be acted by Mary Young, while in the other characters will appear Mabel Colcord as Mrs. Carley; Gertrude Binley, as Bella Shingle; Beverly West, as Lizzie; Minnette Cleveland, as Mrs. Louise Carley; Theodore Friebus, as Sam Coast; Donald Meek, as Stephen Carlet; George Hassel as Dick Coleman and Al. Roberts, as Moles.

Orpheum Theatre.

James J. Jeffries, the champion of all champions will be the star feature of the excellent bill at the Orpheum theatre next week. The appearance of Jeffries in Boston will mark an epoch in local athletics, for since the title passed to a colored man by the defeat of Tommy Burns by Jack Johnson, the whole sporting world has looked to the real champion James J. Jeffries to redeem it. Whether Jeffries will fight Johnson or not is not known even by Jeffries himself. It will depend entirely on whether or not the man who voluntarily relinquished the title, is able to get into proper condition. The clever entertainer to the "400" of New York, Willa Holt Wakefield is sure to win a warm place in the hearts of Boston Theatregoers. The William Morris (Inc.) certainly played a trump card when they secured her for the circuit of which the Orpheum is a part, and that their judgment will be endorsed after her appearance here goes without saying. The balance of the bill will include such artists as Eugene O'Rourke who with a capable company will present the great laughing piece "Parlor A;" Ina Claire who has won popularity by her excellent imitations of the great Scotch Comedian Harry Lauder; Techow's Cats, marvels of feline intelligence; Scott and Whaley, eccentric colored comedians; Campbell and Barber, comedy and acrobatic cyclists and other all-star features.

MUCH WANTED MAN ARRESTED

George H. Barber Taken Into Custody By Police

ARRAIGNED IN DISTRICT COURT ON CHARGE OF LARCENY

Police Of Several Towns Will Prefer Charges Against Him

A very much sought after man was arrested Saturday afternoon, when George H. Barber was taken in custody by the police on the charge of larceny. The police of Boston, Lynn, Cambridge, Somerville and Brookline, all say that they have charges to prefer against the man.

According to information from the police, Barber is an agent for a check perforating machine company and has also represented himself in many places as the repair agent of another concern which makes check printing machines, which stamp on checks the words "not more than,—" leaving a place for the amount of dollars and cents.

In Quincy the charge against Barber is, that he took a machine from the office of F. H. Crane & Sons, saying he would return it in perfect repair. It has never been returned. Saturday afternoon Frank Crane of the firm saw the man and had him arrested.

When arrested Barber had a new check printing machine which he said he was taking to Mr. Crane's office. Mr. Crane examined the machine and said that it was not the one that had been taken away. Later Mr. Crane's machine was found in the office of another business house on Hancock street, where it was purchased six weeks ago from a young man.

Barber said he was 29 years old and that he lived at 8 Village street, Cambridge. Inspector Norton of the Boston police said Sunday night that he would prefer six charges against Barber.

Barber was arraigned in the district court this morning on the charge of larceny.

He pleaded guilty and was held until Wednesday when he will be sentenced.

CONCERT BY PUPILS.

Interesting Program Rendered at Quincy Mansion School.

A very successful concert was given by the music pupils of Quincy Mansion school in Livermore hall, on Friday evening. Miss Louise Drake gave a pleasing violin solo, and Misses Ernestine Smith, Hazel Goodman and Monnie Tarkington contributed vocal selections, with Mrs. Child as accompanist. Piano solos were given by Misses Miriam Daniell, Elida Williams, Fentress Kerlin, Marion Smith, Marion Browne, Florence Arnold. Mildred Crowell, Susan Wales, Irma Caldwell, Beatrice Atwood, Cora Reinherz, Helen Spalding, Selma Stahl, Harriet Loring, and Llorence Zimmer. This was the first appearance in public of many of the pupils and their accurate and expressive playing reflected much credit on their teacher, Mr. Cutler.

ST. MARY'S TEAM AGAIN VICTORIOUS

Fast Winthrop Yacht Club Five Taken Into Camp

SECOND TEAM ALSO COMES OUT ON TOP

Large Crowd Witnesses Most Interesting Game of Season

"The best ever." This was the verdict of everyone in the large crowd that attended the game Saturday night in St. Mary's hall, between the St. Mary's five and the crack Winthrop Yacht club quintet. The game resulted in favor of the local five by the close score of 8 to 6.

Excitement ran high all through the game, for the players covered each other closely every minute. Many times just as a man was about to shoot, someone would block him and stop the score. Although the game was rough, there was no trouble between any of the players.

After the treatment received at Winthrop when St. Mary's threatened to leave the floor, it was expected that there would be trouble when the teams met again. But to the credit of the West Quincy players and crowd, it must be said that the Winthrop boys received good treatment and liberal applause for a good play.

Winthrop drew first blood in the scoring, McCarthy making a swell one hand shot from the middle of the floor. The ball rolled around the rim of the basket a few times and then dropped in, much to the delight of the Winthrop rooters. The next minute Bill Duggan got away and on a pretty running shot tied the score.

Close covering followed now neither side being able to score. At last Johnny McLaughlin lost his man and caged the ball, putting St. Mary's in the lead. Not to be outdone Kettlety started down the floor with the ball and shot a pretty basket tying the score. It looked as if "Ket" shot from a dribble, but the basket was allowed.

The second half began with the score 4 to 4 and both teams got down to business right away. Here was where St. Mary's came strong and especially Frank Mullen. Frank, at this point, got one of the most sensational shots ever seen in St. Mary's hall.

He was back to the basket and closely covered. Everyone else was covered, too, and his only chance was to shoot over his head. With an upward heave he let the ball go at the basket. It sailed right into the basket without touching the rim and the home crowd went wild with joy.

Hardly had the cheers for this shot ceased, when down the floor came Mullen again. This time he was free and on a pretty pass caged the ball again and St. Mary's led 8 to 4.

At this point Charlie Morrill turned his ankle, and after a minutes rest gamely resumed his position at right back. He could hardly touch his foot to the floor but stuck it out and prevented his man from scoring.

Winthrop got two points on fouls in this half leaving the score 8 to 6, with about five minutes to play. One basket would have tied the score and McCarthy nearly got it. Charlie Morrill got him just in time, however, and the game was saved.

But Charlie was out again and it was thought that he would have to retire. He came back though and stayed in the game to the end. It was an exhibition of gameness, seldom seen and Charlie showed his nerve by staying in the game.

Kettlety, McCarthy and Marks played best for Winthrop, while McLaughlin, Morrill and Mullen excelled for St. Mary's.

The summary:

ST. MARY'S		WINTHROP Y. C.
W. Duggan rf		lb Miller
D. Duggan lf		rb Kettlety
McLaughlin c		c McCarthy
Morrill rb		lf Mahoney
Mullen lb		rf Marks

Score St. Mary's 8, Winthrop Y. C. 6. Goals from floor W. Duggan, McLaughlin, Mullen 2, Kettlety, McCarthy. Goals from fouls McCarthy 2. Referee Joyce. Scorer Canavan. Timer King. Time 20 m periods. Attendance 400.

Between the halves both second teams played, St. Mary's second winning 50 to 28. The game was so one-sided that it was uninteresting, the only redeeming feature being the basket shooting ability of the home team. Morrill was high scorer getting nine baskets, Bennett got five and Duggan six. O'Rourke got seven for Winthrop. The summary:

St. MARY'S 2nd		WINTHROP Y. C. 2nd
Morrill rf		lb McKinley
Bennett Collins lf		rb Whalley
Duggan c		c Willet
Collins Croto rb		lf O'Rourke
Hebert lb		rf Connolly

Score St. Mary's 2nd 50, Winthrop Y.C. 2nd 28 Goals from floor Morrill 9, Bennett 5, Duggan 6, Collins 4, Croto, Whalley 2, Willet 3, O'Rourke 7, Connolly 2. Referee Joyce. Scorer Canavan. Timer King. Time 20 m periods. Attendance 400.

TO BE DAISY GIRL.

Quincy Girl Honored by Vassar College Mates.

Of the 24 maidens selected to carry the daisy chain at the Vassar College class-day exercises in June, six come from Massachusetts. One of these six is Miss Marguerite Davis of Quincy, daughter of Dr. E. E. Davis of Chestnut street. To be a daisy girl is a great honor at Vassar and only the prettiest girls are chosen.

The daisy girls are chosen from the sophomore class, the seniors being the judges. Immediately after the Christmas holidays, the "sophs" begin to look pretty and the seniors have a hard task to pick the prettiest. This year however they think they they have made an excellent selection.

FINANCE COMMITTEE AT HOUGHS NECK

Official Inspection of Norteman Lot Made

RESIDENTS BITTERLY OPPOSED TO THE PURCHASE BY CITY

Claim Cavanagh Land Is Far Better Suited For School Building

That the majority of the resideuts of Houghs Neck are not in favor of the Norteman lot for the site of the proposed school house was shown by the way they spoke to the members of the finance committee who visited the Neck on Sunday.

Apparently the residents were not aware of the intention of the finance committee to view the land Sunday but when the news was circulated that Councilman Bryant, Whiton, Nowland, Gilson and Bishop were at the Neck about fifty men gathered at the Norteman lot and expressed themselves freely on the matter.

It would have been as easy to find a needle in a haystack as to find a man that favored the Norteman lot. Every one seemed to have been in favor of the lot on Cavanagh's Farm with the exception of Henry W. French who stood out in favor of the Norteman lot. The finance committee looked over the Cavanagh property. John T. Cavanagh was present and made the following proposition to the committee. "Have the city engineers take off whatever land you want on my farm and if we cannot come to terms I will allow you to choose three dis-interested men and let them make a price and I will abide by their decision."

Petitions have been circulated in every section of the beach and have been signed by nearly every resident, they were addressed to the finance committee and will be presented to them today.

WET GOODS SEIZED.

Police Make Successful Raid at South Quincy Sunday.

Inspector Goodhue with Officers Hinchon, Curtin, Johnson, Cahill and Dinneen raided the premises of Eugenio Ciardelli at 69 Liberty street Sunday afternoon. It was about 3 o'clock when the officers arrived at the house and they found the door locked. They were about to kick in the door when it was opened. The officers found eight men seated about a table drinking.

They seized 70 bottles of beer, a small quantity of whiskey, a quantity of wine, 20 gallons of hard cider and some empty bottles. Ciardelli was arraigned in court this morning and had his case continued until Saturday.

—The fervor of the movement to amend New York's excise law so as to allow barrooms to keep open Sundays from 1 P. M. to 11 P. M. is only exceeded by the mixed character of the advocates, says the Boston Advertiser. Twisted reform, like politics, makes strange bed-fellows. We find in favor of the "reform" (?) such people as William Jay Schieffelin, president of the Citizens Union; Miss Frances A. Kellor, of the Bureau of Municipal Research; Rev. Dr. John H. Peters and ex-Police Commissioner McAdoo. And the arguments are curious. Says Mr. Schieffelin: "The extra license fee means that the saloon- keepers will pay the state for the right to do legally what they now pay the police for permission to do illegally." "It is better to have a law that you can enforce," said Miss Keller, "than to have one that is not enforced." New York is disposed to confess that it cannot enforce a law which other cities do enforce.

Not Well to Butt In.

"After the crash," imparted the first hospital surgeon to the second, "I ran over to where it lay on the pavement, and when I raised it up I saw at once that its ribs were smashed, while a gaping hole was torn in its"—

"Pardon me, doctor," broke in the medical student, who had caught these words as he was about to pass by into the consumptive ward, "but if you have no objections I'd like to take a few notes on that accident case." He pulled his notebook from his pocket. "Was the case a child?"

"No," the surgeon informed him to his embarrassment. "I was speaking of my umbrella."—Judge.

REAL ESTATE MEN HAPPY.

Land Office Business Done at Houghs Neck.

The ideal weather of Sunday was the means of bringing many people to Houghs Neck looking for cottages for the coming summer. Suitable cottages are not very easy to obtain as many of them have been turned into winter houses and the tenants have secured them for year round residences. The real estate offices did a large business and what cottages could be obtained were quickly hired.

The so called clubs that have created a lot of trouble for the past ten years will have a hard time getting cottages this summer as the majority of the owners have absolutely refused to let their cottages to clubs under any conditions. But as careful as the cottage owners try to be the clubs get the best of them by getting the mother of some member to hire a cottage in her own name and then turn the cottage over to the club.

That the record of 172 new houses of last year will no doubt be broken this year is the opinion of the real estate men. Hardly a day passes but the inspector of buildings issues from one to ten permits for houses at the Neck. According to the statement by the inspector the majority of the houses now in course of construction are winter houses.

The tradesmen are of the opinion that the coming summer will be a good one for business and sincerely hope for good weather.

RECENT DEATHS.

William Smith.

William Smith, 59, who broke his back by a fall last week, died early Sunday morning at the City hospital. An operation was performed Saturday afternoon in an attempt to save the man's life, but to no avail. Mr. Smith lived at the corner of Phipp and Payne streets and leaves a wife.

William Hill.

William Hill, aged 54, of Winthrop park, died Saturday night at his home, after a lingering illness with consumption. Mr. Hill was born in Scotland, but came to this country when a young man, learning the trade of a granite cutter. He was very well known in Methodist church circles. He leaves a widow, two sons and six daughters.

FUNERALS.

William A. Mitchell.

The funeral of William Allan Mitchell was held Sunday afternoon from his late home 359 Water street. A large number of friends attended, the Clan McGregor, of which the deceased was a member, attending in a body and marching to the cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. E. N. Hardy and the burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Luke J. Coyle.

A large number of friends, Protestant as well as Catholic, attended the funeral of Luke J. Coyle of Brackett street on Sunday afternoon. Services were held at 2 o'clock in St. John's church, and the throng, which included many city officials, filled the edifice.

Rev. John J. Casey conducted the services. The bearers were John A. Avery, James P. McGovern, Thomas H. Elcock, Andrew M. Deane, Timothy J. O'Connell and Philip H. Cook. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

There were many floral tributes, including pieces from the Ward One election officers, the teachers of the Washington school, the Bigelow baseball club, relatives and friends.

This morning at 7.30 a requiem high mass was sung for the repose of the soul of Mr. Coyle, Rev. John J. Coan officiating.

Mrs. Christine Gillis.

Mrs. Christine Gillis, wife of Duncan Gillis, was buried Sunday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Dingwell. Rev. Henry G. Megathlin, pastor of the Park and Downs church, conducted the services. The body was placed in the receiving tomb at Mt. Wollaston cemetery and later will be taken to Nova Scotia for burial.

TO DETERMINE STATE OF BRIDGE

Legislative Committee Inspects Structure Across Neponset

FLOOD TIDE PREVENTS COMPLETE EXAMINATION

New State Boulevard Also Inspected By the Committee

The joint legislative committee on Roads and Bridges visited Quincy this morning to inspect the bridge between Quincy and Neponset. There is a bill before the legislature for a new bridge and the committee desired to see for itself what condition the present bridge was in.

In the committee were Senator Hibbard chairman of the Senate committee, Representative Nason chairman of the House committee, Senators Cowee and Failey, Representatives Malley, Holt, Sargent and Wright, Senator Abbott and Representatives Langelier and Mildram also accompanied the committee.

The committee were due at Neponset at 10.30 but it was an hour later before the four automobiles containing the party arrived. They were met at the bridge by City Solicitor McAnarney who represented the City of Quincy in the absence of Mayor Shea who is confined to his home by illness.

Unfortunately it was flood tide and the condition of the piers of the bridge could not be seen. Representative Mildram the father of the bill, explained the condition of the bridge and the committee saw for itself that while the Quincy end was fairly wide and in good condition the Boston end was in bad condition and sadly in need of repair as well as being very narrow.

While the committee were on the bridge teams from Randolph, Weymouth and Quincy passed over as well as a large touring car showing the class of travel that used the bridge and formed an argument as to why the expense of the new bridge should not be borne wholly by Quincy and Boston.

After viewing the bridge the party made a visit to the new boulevard that starts from Atlantic street and runs along the Quincy shore. From Quincy the party were to visit West Roxbury and Columbia road.

The navy department once received from the commander in chief of the fleet an official communication relative to certain changes recommended by him to be made in the uniform shirt of the enlisted men. In accordance with custom this letter was forwarded to various officials for comment or expression of opinion, the remarks of each officer being appended on an indorsement slip. Each indorsement introduces the subject matter of the letter in a brief, and one of them thus tersely explained the contents: "Commander in chief desires to change shirt."—Lippincott's.

Mr. Harriman remained in Texas on inauguration day. He wanted room in which to laugh.

Washington never tried to advise mothers and crowd the land with Ananias clubs.

A recent despatch from Washington states that President Taft has definitely made up his mind to offer the post of ambassador of the United States to the court of St. James to President Eliot of Harvard. While it is not known whether President Eliot will accept the post or not, his especial fitness for it goes without saying.

Does it pay in the long run to live honestly, to "Do unto others as they would do unto you" to sacrifice our own interests if by so doing we can lighten the burdens others are forced to bear? These are a few of the many questions that confront us all, some time in our lives.

Some people, unfortunately, think it does not pay, that their own interests are first, last and always. That altruism is a farce, that gentleness and kindness are signs of weakness, in short that success and power are all there is in life, and must be gained no matter what they may cost, or how many lives may be blighted and crushed, in furthering their ambitions.

The utter folly of these people is clearly illustrated in the tribute paid to the late George T. Angell, whose whole life was given up to the work of uplifting his fellow beings, a man of the people, working for them, never thinking of himself or of his own interests, a humanitarian, and a philanthropist in the broadest meaning of the words. Gentleness and kindness were not signs of weakness in him, they were signs of power.

Although not a public man, in our generally accepted and narrow meaning of the word, the tribute paid Mr. Angell by men, women and children in all walks of life, was sincere, and came from the heart. In his eulogy, Dr. Van Ness struck the keynote of life itself when he said, "Many prosper, it is true, along their own selfish lines, but is a man disinterested who devotes his powers and activities to interests greater than himself? At once there comes to your mind this continuous work, this man's ceaseless industry in Boston, in Washington for pure food laws, his crusade against adulterated articles.

"Again there comes back to you that he puts on a workman's clothes and goes into the horrible stockyards of Chicago so that he may arouse a feeling, so that he may be a friend of those who have no friend, who cannot speak the language that he knows, but can only speak that common language of appreciation expressed in feeling. His willingness to give his time, his strength and what either of education, of example he could give—the wide establishment and dissemination of literature—by all this proved his devotion to interests which are larger and wider than the interests centering about self."

And again when he said "Our friend stands before us peerless for his honesty and integrity of character in an age when I am sorry such honesty, conspicuously beautiful, is all too rare—'only be thou faithful even unto death.' What then? He will give them a crown of life, life immortal."

As an example of all that is good and true and noble in men, Mr. Angell's name will stand forth as refutation; that altruism and all the other virtues are things of the past, back numbers so to speak.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

This year's war against the house fly has begun, Florida being the scene of the first organized attack. Northward through Atlanta, Savannah and other cities of the South the warfare will spread as the warmth of spring sunshine proceeds. In their breeding places the flies will be hunted and there the work of extermination, as far as possible, will be carried on. Cleanliness being the deadliest weapon that can be used against the house fly, the numerous organizations which exist here in the North for promoting the virtue that ranks next to godliness should be counted on to make the anti-fly movement of the present season the most effectual yet recorded.—Boston Transcript.

What we expect is to see things done decently and in order—sometimes against the congressional will, it may be—but still done, and done without turmoil and bitter bickering. Mr. Taft has the nature to enable that, and Mr. Roosevelt had it not. The chances are that if Mr. Roosevelt had been a different sort of man the things wouldn't have been begun. But having been begun, Mr. Taft is a better fitted man to pursue them to their logical conclusion than Mr. Roosevelt would be . Such seems to be the general verdict of the country, and at no time has a President started his official life more thoroughly assured of the good will and esteem of all sorts and conditions of men.—Lowell Courier Citizen.

The country is informed from Washington that a senatorial ring proposes to put La Follette out of politics. If ring work could have done that La Follette would be in his political grave now. He has at no time had any friends except the unprivileged public. Judged by human standards the senatorial desire to down him is reasonable enough; he has half a dozen senatorial scalps at his own belt; Long, Ankeny, Kitteridge, Dryden, etc. It is not impossible that the Senate managers may finally "get" the doughty Wisconsin. They can punish his state for his presence in the Senate by withholding "pork," such as public buildings and river improvements, from his constituents. That, in time, may injure his popularity in Wisconsin. Then they can buy up the politicians, as Senator Stephenson did, and so draw further support from him. But even if they drove La Follette out of the Senate the thorn would not be out of their side. They cannot hope to drive him off the platform, and there is where his most effective work is done.—Nebraska State Journal.

The era of non-competition that monopolistic enthusiasts sought to usher in and which they fondly imagined they had established on a sure and lasting foundation has proved short-lived. Intoxicated by their success in absorbing or crushing rivals, puffed up by an overweening conception of their almighty power, gorged with new-won riches and exulting over their fancied ability to annihilate the antiquated laws of supply and demand, certain "magnates" proclaimed that henceforth, thanks to their genius, a new and more comfortable order of things would rule a universe heretofore allowed to wallow in ignorance. Believers in "the old doctrine" of competition and other outworn theories associated therewith were laughed to scorn as being wedded to "inherited beliefs." In a lecture delivered before a body of New York students in February, 1898 one of our widely known young financiers who graduated from an insurance company to membership in an international banking firm of unrivalled eminence, and who has taken a very active part in "running" the United States Steel Corporation, made these statements: "It is almost heresy to say that competition is no longer the life of trade, yet this has come to be the fact as applied to the old unreasoning and unreasonable competition, because of the conditions of our day. The spirit of cooperation is upon us. It must, of necessity be the next great form of business development and progress. At this moment many people are looking askance upon the change still believing in the old doctrine. They hold to it for several reasons: First, because they have inherited the belief. Second, because they think that competition means lower prices for commodities to the public. Third, because they think it provides the best incentives to make men work. This may have been the best known method at one time, but it is not and cannot be true in the mechanical, electrical age in which we live." If all of which be sound logic, why stop short of the acme—or, if preferred, the reductio ad absurdum—of coopertion—socialism? The laws of Utopia embodied "the spirit of cooperation," but in this mundane world, peopled by beings of instincts that even "the mechanical, electrical age in which we live" cannot cast off, by beings in whom are implanted that primeval impulse to struggle and overcome, it is greatly to be feared that competition will not become unknown on this side of the millenium. The afore-mentioned lecturer will perhaps grant this much after the chastening experiences he and his like-minded conferrees have undergone.—New York Journal of Commerce.

Followed Instructions In Letter From Kidnappers of Son

THE $10,000 IS UNDISTURBED

Police In Ohio Town Interfere With Plans For Return of Willie Whitla and Block Arrangements Made With His Father—Efforts Will Now Be Made to Capture Abductors With Boy In Their Possession

Cleveland, March 22.—After failing in an attempt to effect a settlement for the return of his kidnapped son Willie in a park at Ashtabula J. P. Whitla has returned to his home in Sharon.

Whitla was instructed in a letter from the kidnappers to leave $10,000 in Flatiron park, Saturday night.

If no detectives were about, the kidnappers promised they would get the money and deliver the boy safely to the father in the hotel at Ashtabula at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

Whitla deposited the money as requested, but the Ashtabula police learned of the plans to pay the ransom and went to the park. The kidnappers are supposed to have seen them, for at 3 o'clock the money was intact and not a man had approached the spot at which it had been left.

Whitla had a score of detectives in readiness in this city to start a search for the kidnappers as soon as he had secured the boy. The detectives left for Sharon last night.

A conference is being held in Sharon, and plans are to be made to attempt to capture the kidnappers with the boy in their possession. Whitla believes that the failure to effect a settlement with him Saturday night will frighten the kidnappers and they will not communicate with him again.

The police of Ashtabula are unwilling to believe that the kidnappers have left that section of the country. Although Whitla has instructed them to discontinue their search, as he believes it is useless, they are attempting to find the hiding place of the kidnappers.

When a press representative called at the Whitla house at Sharon last night and told Whitla of the story sent out from Cleveland to the effect that he had visited Ashtabula for the purpose of paying the ransom Whitla refused to affirm or deny the report.

"My sole intent," said he, "is the recovery of my boy and not the punishment of the kidnappers." He refused to talk further and, haggard and wearied, he retired to rest.

BALLOONISTS MISSING

Fate of Six Men Who Ascended at Pasadena Not Definitely Known

Pasadena, Cal., March 22.—No direct word has come from the balloon America, which went up at Tournament park Saturday with Captain Mueller as pilot and five men as passengers. Word came in a roundabout way that the balloon was seen by a rancher crossing the second range of mountains north of Pasadena early Sunday. When last seen, the balloon was going in a northerly direction.

The wind was blowing northerly all of Saturday night and Sunday, while a severe storm has prevailed, with a copious rainfall. The wind at times blew forty miles an hour.

If this information is accurate the balloon has doubtless landed on the north side of the range on the Mojave desert.

ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED

Rheumatism Compels Paderewski to Abandon a Profitable Tour

New York, March 22.—Ignace J. Paderewski, the piano virtuoso, arrived here from Minneapolis, after cancelling three engagements in the west, to place himself in the hands of a specialist on rheumatism.

Paderewski was suddenly stricken with rheumatism in his right hand and arm on Friday a few hours before the time scheduled for his concert in Minneapolis, but by a supreme effort managed to play his program through.

The abandonment of his western tour has already cost Paderewski $10,000. He is confident, however, that his disability is only temporary.

Americans In the Lead

Princeton, N. J., March 22.—The international cable chess match between American universities and Oxford and Cambridge universities, England, the American end of which was played here, was won by America when the game at the fourth board was drawn. This gives the Americans 3½ points to half a point for Great Britain.

Roller Skating Record Falls

Denver, March 22.—The world's roller skating record was broken in the six day relay race here. Eisenhand and Burke completed 1519 miles, 4 laps on an 11-lap track. The previous record was 1512 miles, 8 laps.

SCOUT CRUISERS SET SAIL

To Ascertain Comparative Merits of Different Types of Engines

Newport, R. I., March 22.—The three new scout cruisers of the navy, the Salem, Birmingham and Chester, have started on the first of their series of comparative tests.

The cruisers headed due south, and will run for 1000 miles at an average speed of ten knots. They will return to this port in about four days to coal. After a run of 750 miles at fifteen knots they will then start on a 2000 mile race at twenty knots speed. The final test will be a run of twenty-four hours at their highest possible speed.

The object of the trip is primarily to ascertain the comparative merits of the different types of engines, the Birmingham being equipped with triple expansion engines, the Chester having four English style turbines, while the Salem has two turbines of American make.

WAS SELF-MADE MAN

Connell Begun Life In Mines and Died a Multi-Millionaire

Scranton, Pa., March 22.—Former Congressman William Connell, coal operator, capitalist and philanthropist, died Sunday, the result of a paralytic stroke. Beginning his life work in coal mines Connell, by paying close attention to business, died a multi-millionaire. He was actively connected with numerous important interests in and around Scranton. In politics Connell was always a staunch Republican. He served four terms in congress.

One of the biggest tasks Connell ever undertook was as sole arbitrator for the Lehigh Valley road in settling the claims arising from the Mud Run disaster of Oct. 10, 1888, when sixty-three persons were killed and 120 injured. Only one case went to court. Connell was also active as mediator in coal strikes and other local industrial disputes.

HAZING RESULTS IN BOY'S DEATH

Strung Up by Ankles For Alleged Tattling to Teacher

Indianapolis, March 22.—Officers have begun an investigation of the death by hazing of Charles Stintson, a pupil at the White school in White county. Stintson, it is alleged, was strung up by the ankles to a sapling near the school and left hanging so long that he died a few hours after he was taken down.

Several teachers of the school had been driven away by unruly pupils. A few days ago a new teacher was employed. He was more determined than his predecessors, and whipped several rebellious boys. These castigated pupils alleged that Stintson tattled and thus caused their humiliation.

END OF PARIS STRIKE

Government Meets the Dissatisfied Workers Half Way

Paris, March 22.—The great strike of the employes of the postoffice department, which has practically isolated Paris and cut off France from communication with the outside world for the past week, has collapsed. The strike committee decided to call off the employes and made the first move to effect a settlement, virtually suing for peace. The government met the committee half way.

An official statement reports that more than a third of the strikers resumed work in Paris Sunday.

WITHDRAWS CHALLENGE

Minister's Daughters Begged Him Not to Enter Athletic Contest

Philadelphia, March 22.—Rev. L. W. Munhall, an evangelist and a total abstainer, has withdrawn a challenge he issued to any moderate drinker of his own age, 64, to meet him in nine athletic contests.

"My daughters begged me to withdraw my challenge," he said, "and I have done so. Had I known that I should be kept awake all night answering inquiries concerning the challenge I would never have made it. I don't think that I will ever issue another challenge."

German Warships In 1912

Berlin, March 22.—In view of the assertions made in the British house of commons that Germany, in the spring of 1912, would have seventeen warships, all of them of the big gun type, the navy department authorizes the statement that in the autumn of 1912 Germany will have thirteen such vessels.

DISASTERS IN NORTH ATLANTIC

Sixty-Two Total Wrecks During Fall and Winter Season

LIVES LOST NUMBERED 221

Value of Wireless Telegraph Demonstrated In the Republic-Florida Disaster—Steamers Soo City and Stickelstad Never Heard From—Loss of Cruiser Yankee the Only Serious Accident to Naval Vessels

Boston, March 22.—Two hundred and twenty-one persons perished by shipwreck and eighty-nine vessels met with disaster off the New England and British North American coasts, or while engaged in the New England or Canadian trade during the fall and winter season of 1908-'09, which ended last night. Of the eighty-nine vessels cast ashore or lost at sea, six steamers and fifty-six sailing craft were totally wrecked. The financial loss exceeds $3,000,000.

The most thrilling disaster of the season was the collision between the White Star line steamer Republic and the Italian steamer Florida. The Florida cut down the Republic during a dense fog off Nantucket before daylight on Jan. 23. Five lives were lost. The Italian did not sink, but the Republic foundered on the night of the 24th while in tow of government craft. The Republic-Florida disaster demonstrated the value of the wireless telegraph, by which other vessels were immediately summoned to the aid of the damaged steamers.

In the series of storms which prevailed from Nov. 17 to Dec. 5, 165 persons were drowned. During this period four steamers and thirty-five sailing craft were lost. The greatest disaster, so far as public interest was concerned, was the destruction of the American steamer Soo City, which foundered off the southwest coast of Newfoundland, with all on board—twenty-five men. It is supposed the steamer went down in one of the fierce storms which swept over the Gulf of St. Lawrence during the latter part of November. The hull was never located, but much wreckage, marked "Soo City," came ashore near Cape Ray, N. F.

Another steamer which undoubtedly foundered during the latter part of November was the Norwegian steamer Stickelstad, Glasgow for Sydney, N. S. The Stickelstad, which carried a crew of thirty, never reached port. Like the Fabre line steamer Nevstria, New York for Marseilles, nothing was heard from her after sailing.

On Dec. 23, Barge No. 101 of Boston foundered in a terrific gale off the southern coast of Nova Scotia, while in town of tug James Hughes from Boston for Halifax. Seven men lost their lives.

The French bark Artere, St. Malo for St. Pierre, Miq., and a number of Newfoundland vessels bound from Spanish and Portuguese ports were never heard from, and it is probable the crews were lost. The bark had a crew of seventeen.

During a gale on Dec. 2-3, a dozen fishing vessels were wrecked on the Newfoundland coast and seventeen men were drowned. Twenty men were lost from half a dozen St. Pierre vessels in the same storm.

On Oct. 6 the French fishing schooner Juanita, carrying a crew of twenty, foundered on the Grand Banks. All perished except the captain.

Seven seamen belonging to the French warship Admiral Aube were drowned by their launch capsizing in the St. Pierre roadstead in a gale on Dec. 14.

A collision with a scow off Boston harbor on Nov. 21 sunk the British schooner Hugh G. and cost the lives of five of her crew. The accident was due to fog.

The long list of marine casualties was lengthened on March 10 by the loss of the steamer Horatio Hall, sunk by the H. F. Dimock off Nantucket. The steamer Massachusetts, which went ashore the same day in Vineyard Sound, was saved. There was no loss of life in these accidents.

The navy had few accidents during the season. The cruiser Yankee, which went ashore on Spindle Rock, at the entrance of Buzzards Bay on Sept. 23, was floated Dec. 4, but foundered north of Penikese Island twelve hours later, while being towed to port. There were no fatalities.

In Decebmer the Fall River line steamer Commonwealth sunk the Norwegian steamer Volund off Race Rock, Long Island Sound, the crew escaping.

The most northerly disaster was that which befell the British bark Stork with a cargo of $1,500,000 worth of furs. The bark was totally wrecked on Lisbon Shoals, Hudson Bay, in a December gale. The crew was rescued, but a large part of the cargo was lost.

Taft's Quiet Sunday

Washington, March 22.—President Taft, as is his wont, spent the Sabbath in rest and recreation after a week filled with constant activity. He attended religious services at All Souls Unitarian church.

NATURE'S HAIR RESTORER

WYETH'S
SAGE AND SULPHUR
HAIR RESTORER

One Great Reason Why
This Great Hair Beautifier and Color Restorer Produces Such Remarkable Results

Sulphur Is a Natural Element of the Hair.

When there is not a sufficient amount of sulphur in the hair, it loses its life, color and strength, turns gray, and falls out. There are many forms of sulphur, but only one kind that is suitable for treatment of the hair and scalp; and that is the kind used in preparing WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER.

We Have the Secret, and We Give You the Benefit Of It At An Exceedingly Low Price

IT IS NOT A DYE

BALDNESS CURED

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair, and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

ARCH-ENEMIES TO MEET

United States' Stand Causes Central Americans to Take Notice

City of Mexico, March 22.—It is believed that a conference of the five presidents of Central American republics will be held shortly. Word has reached here that Presidents Cabrera of Guatemala, Davila of Honduras and Zelaya of Nicaragua have agreed to attend the proposed meeting.

It is thought certain that the presidents of San Salvador and Costa Rica will also consent. The invitation was sent out by President Echeverria of the Central American branch of the Bureau of American Republics, and the purpose of the gathering will be a discussion of ways and means to live up to the letter and spirit of the Washington peace pact and thus remove all cause for intervention by either the United States or Mexico.

This new turn in Central American affairs is believed to have been forced by the firm stand of the state department at Washington.

DID NOT EARN SALARY

Alderman Sends Check For $166.66 to New York City Comptroller

New York, March 22.—Comptroller Metz had a new sensation when he received a letter from Alderman George A. Morrison refusing to accept his salary for last February. Morrison sent back $166.66 because, he said, he did not earn it. He explains as follows in the letter to the comptroller:

"I called at the office of the city paymaster to notify him to return my February check to the city treasurer, as I was absent from the city and did not render any direct service to the taxpayers for that month. He informed me that he did not have authority to return the check to the city treasurer. Therefore, I inclose you my salary check for the month of February, drawn on the National City bank for $166.66, indorsed by me to the city of New York, and ask you to return it to the city treasurer."

"I guess I'll put that in the conscience fun," said Metz.

ACROSS CONTINENT IN A BALLOON

Scientist Clayton Expects to Make a Remarkable Trip

Boston, March 22.—A balloon journey from the Pacific to the Atlantic oceans across the breadth of the United States has been practically assured for the near future by the assurance of the Aero Club of Seattle that it will finance such a journey to be undertaken by Henry H. Clayton of the Blue Hill observatory.

Clayton, who has carried on interesting and valuable scientific experiments as to upper air currents through his balloon voyages, recently expressed his conviction that a balloon could travel from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean in approximately four days, riding at an elevation of two miles, where he was convinced favorable currents of air were to be found.

Clayton will probably be accompanied by Thomas S. Baldwin, the aeronaut and dirigible builder for the government. It is expected the scientific observations to be made will be worth the expenses of the trip.

AMERICANS WIN

McFarland and Moran First In Berlin Six-Day Bicycle Race

Berlin, March 22.—In the presence of the crown prince and an immense throng of spectators, the American team, composed of Floyd McFarland and James Moran, finished winners of the six day bicycle race and received an ovation, the cheers of the crowd mingling with the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner."

The Americans won by a lap, there being fourteen laps to the mile. Stol of Holland and Berthel of France finished second.

The total distance covered was 2425 miles, 312 less than McFarland and Moran made when they won the six day race in New York in 1908.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

In the Quincy Daily Ledger I read a few evenings ago that the committee on public buildings had recommended to the Council that a sum of six thousand dollars be appropriated to purchase the Norteman farm for a school lot and as a tax payer of about two hundred dollars besides about fifty dollars for water I do enter my protest against the purchase of that farm for the following reasons. First it is not in any way suited for such a purpose. Second it would be detrimental to the health of the children. Third no honest man in my opinion would recommend a bog hole for a school lot.

Fourth the Peterson lot would be cheaper in the end at ten cents per foot than the Norteman lot would be if given to the city for nothing.

Fifth no women would send their children to such a place, as the object is to prevent the white plague and not to spread it which it will surely do if the children are forced to attend a school on the Norteman plot. William John Tilley.

—Murillo's painting of "The Assumption of the Virgin" was sold Thursday at the Fifth Avenue Art gallery, New York, for $22,000. The purchaser was Mr. R. M. Fleischmann of Philadelphia. The height of the canvas is eighty and one-half inches and it width fifty-six and three-quarters inches. It came from the convent of the Carmelites at Seville.

TWENTY YEARS FOR COOPERS

Jury Finds Them Guilty of Murder In Second Degree

BAIL FIXED AT $25,000 EACH

Bond Signed by Friends Worth $1,500,000 Pending Result of Appeal—Court Asked to Declare a Mistrial Because of Verdict of Disagreement as to the Coopers When Sharp Was Declared Not Guilty

Nashville, March 22.—After filing a bond of nearly $1,500,000, Colonel D. B. Cooper and Robin J. Cooper, convicted of murder in the second degree and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary for killing Ex-United States Senator E. W. Carmack, retired to the home of Judge Bradford and discussed the next move in the case.

Although Judge Hart fixed the bond at $25,000 for each defendant, there was a rush to sign by many rich citizens of Nashville, which fairly swamped the clerk. In vain he protested over and over again that more than enough sureties had signed.

When there was no more room for names at the foot of the document, the new bondsmen indorsed it across the face until it was difficult to decipher the signatures.

The Coopers returned to the jail and removed their personal effects. For the present Colonel Cooper will make his home with Mrs. Burch, his daughter, and Robin Cooper will return to his old quarters with his uncle, Judge Bradford.

On Friday a partial verdict was rendered when the jury reported:

"We are tied up tight as to the Coopers, but we find John D. Sharp not guilty."

Judge Hart quickly dismissed Sharp and ordered the jury to continue its deliberations as to the guilt or innocence of the Coopers.

The Cooper defense has moved to set aside the verdict because of the verdict of disagreement of Friday, and asked the court to declare it a mistrial. Judge Hart said he would listen to arguments on this motion later. He then fixed the defendants' bonds at $25,000 each.

The defendants took the verdict coolly.

BIG MATCH ASSURED

Promoter McIntosh Will Bring Johnson and Jeffries Together

Chicago, March 22.—It took Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter, only a few minutes to get Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion of the world, to consent to fight James J. Jeffries for a purse of $50,000. After a short conference here Johnson expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the terms offered by McIntosh.

McIntosh is confident he will get Jeffries' consent. McIntosh returned to New York today, saying he will be back here in a few days with Jeffries' signature to the articles.

McIntosh's offer is a purse of $50,000, to be divided 60 percent to the winner and 40 percent to the loser. Each man will be required to put up a forfeit of $5000 when he signs the articles.

HEAVILY HANDICAPPED

But American Horses Are Expected to Win In British Races

London, March 22.—The opening of the English racing season this week with the Lincolnshire handicap begins a season full of interest to sportsmen on both sides of the Atlantic. Many of America's best runners are entered in the big English events, and leading native horsemen have given it as their belief that the foreigners will carry off some of the stakes.

Among the American horses who are heavily handicapped in the Epsom Derby, the Liverpool Spring Cup, the Great Jubilee handicap and other big races are Colin, Ballot, Fair Play, Priscillian, Sir Martin, Norman III, Delirium and other cracks.

WILL HEED POWERS' ADVICE

Action to Be Taken by Servia Means Peace In the Balkans

Belgrade, March 22.—Peace is regarded as assured. It is semi-officially stated that the powers today will invite Servia to declare the question of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina settled, and to disarm and discharge its reservists.

Furthermore, it is said that the Servian government will accede to this request, thus opening the way for direct negotiations between Austria-Hungary and Servia for a commercial agreement.

Five Men Killed In Mine

Evansville, Ind., March 22.—Five men were killed and a score were injured in an explosion at the Sunnyside coal mines near here. The explosion was caused by a windy shot.

Safe Blowers Visit Bank

Exchange, Pa., March 22.—Safe-breakers visited the Farmers' National bank here and blew open the vault. The vault contained over $5000. The robbers escaped.

BRIEFS

The Sanish War Veterans hold a whist party at Electa hall tonight.

March is keeping up its reputation as being the month of cold raw winds.

Junior Alliance meets in First Church parlor this evening at half past seven.

Farmers are getting their gardens ready to plant peas early in April if the frost is out of the ground which it seems likely to be.

The street railway company is filling in another section of its land near the car barn with ashes upon which additional tracks will be laid.

The eighth annual banquet of the Board of Trade will be held at Music hall Thursday evening. There will be a concert from 6.30 to 7 o'clock and the banquet will be served at the latter hour.

The Committee on Cities reported this afternoon in the Senate by Senator Dixon of Suffolk, leave to withdraw on the petition of William T. Shea, Mayor of Quincy, that the Mayor be a member of the School Committee of Quincy.

Anthoni Bartoni whose place was raided by the police last week was in court Saturday for violation of the liquor law. After a lengthy trial he was found not guilty and discharged.

The Electric Light Co., is out with a new automobile truck.

Quincy and Weymouth, Knights of Columbus meet tonight in the Quincy clubhouse for the third in a series of tournaments consisting of pool, checkers, whist, forty-five, pitch and cribbage. Weymouth leads so far with a score of 7 to 5.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. The meeting was adjourned to this date to act on the annual appropriation order. In addition to this it is possible that the matter relating to the Houghs Neck school lot may come up.

Presidents' day is observed tomorrow afternoon by the Quincy Women's club when club presidents of neighboring and local clubs will be guests of the club. Mrs. George W. Morton, president, has the program in charge and announces that she has arranged an entertaining afternoon.

The Woman's Missionary society of Bethany church holds a missionary tea at the home of Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Greenleaf street, on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Calliope Vaitses speaks on "Mission work for Greeks" and Mrs. N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston will sing. Mrs. Vaitses is missionary to the Greeks in this state.

Miss Florence L. Brown celebrated her twenty-first birthday at her home on Sea street, Houghs Neck, Sunday. Friends gathered in the evening and a very social party was held. Miss Brown is well known at Houghs Neck and is an expert pianist. She composed all the music that is to be used in the minstrel show of the Houghs Neck Associates. Miss Brown received many beautiful presents. During the evening refreshments were served and an informal entertainment was furnished the guests by, Miss Brown, Charles O'Brien, Winton Murphy and Miss Helen Gagon.

WEST QUINCY

Manager McLaughlin of the St. Mary's basket ball team is negotiating for a game with the crack East Boston professional five to be played at West Quincy this week either Thursday or Saturday night. This game, if arranged should prove a great drawing card as both these teams are playing fast basket ball.

Michael Kiley and John Stanton have accepted the challenge of John McLaughlin and Joseph Buckley to play a series of games for the handball championship of St. Mary's C. T. A. Kiley and Stanton not only claim the championship of Quincy, but also of New England and are ready to meet all comers.

The experience meeting held under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the West Quincy M. E. church was a financial success about $80 being realized, and the account of the experience of earning a dollar afforded much amusement to all present. A short musical program was given with Miss Loud at the piano and songs by Mr. Goucher and Miss Grant. The candy table was in charge of Miss Jennie Doble, Miss Olive Grant and Miss Nettie Loud. Refreshments were served by Mrs. William Loud, Mrs. George Hawes, Mrs. F. L. Badger, Miss Gragg, Mrs. J. F. Merrill and Mrs. W. A. McCormick.

Snubbing a Snob.

Jasmin, the Gascon poet and barber, once treated a rich snob to the snubbing he deserved. Jasmin had been reciting his poems for the benefit of the poor and had afterward been escorted in triumphal procession to his hotel. Next morning while he was still in bed some one knocked at the door, and a vulgar nabob entered and installed himself without invitation in a chair.

"My dear Jasmin," said he patronizingly, "I am a banker, a millionaire, as you know. I wish you to shave me with your own hand. Please set to work at once, for I am pressed for time. You can ask what you like for your trouble."

"Pardon me, sir," said Jasmin, with pride. "I shave for pay at home only."

"What do you say?"

"It is true, sir. I shave for pay only at home."

"Come, come! You are jesting. I cannot be put off. Make your charge what you like, but shave me."

"Again I say, sir, it is impossible."

"How impossible? Isn't it your trade?"

"It is, but at this moment I am not disposed to exercise it."

In spite of renewed bribes and entreaties Jasmin remained firm, and the millionaire went away unshaved.

Mortgagees' Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Henrietta B. Pratt and E. Granville Pratt to the Quincy Savings Bank dated November 1, 1890, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk book 645, page 309, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the first mentioned lot of the hereinafter described premises, on TUESDAY, the thirteenth day of April 1909, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—The following parcels of land, viz:

A certain lot of land, containing about 23,740 square feet, with all the buildings thereon situated in said Quincy, and being the homestead estate of the late Seth Spear, and bounded Northeasterly on Spear street, Southeasterly on land of Franklin Hardwick and of C. P. Loud, southwesterly on land of N. B. Furnald and of Nash; northwesterly on land of Prescott.

Also a strip of land bounded southeasterly on lot 3 on plan of Orchard Lot, estate of Seth Spear, four (4) feet; southwesterly on said private way twenty-six (26) feet; northwesterly on said land now or late of C. A. Spear, five (5) feet; northeasterly on land of Kemp about twenty-six (26) feet. For my title to said premises, reference may be made to a deed of the record thereof, of Edwin W. Marsh, Executor of the last will of Seth Spear, of even date and record herewith.

Also another lot of land containing about 41,120 square feet, situated in said Quincy and bounded and described as follows:—Southwesterly on Spear street two hundred (200) feet; northwesterly on land of Tupper and of Hersey, two hundred and twelve (212) feet; northeasterly on land of N. B. Furnald and of C. A. Spear, one hundred and ninety-one (191) feet; southeasterly on said lot No. 4, above described being land now or late of C. A. Spear and on lot No. 5, hereinbefore conveyed, two hundred and eight (208) feet. Be all these measurements more or less. Being the premises bequeathed to me, said Henrietta, by my father, the late Seth Spear, by his will, duly proved and allowed by the Probate Court for Norfolk County, May 9, 1888, and the same conveyed to him by S. Henry Spear by his deed dated December 17, 1868 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds in Libro 374, folio 175.

The above described premises comprise the property conveyed by said mortgage except those parcels which have been released by partial releases duly recorded. This property will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles and assessments if any.

$500.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.

Balance cash in ten days from said sale on delivery of deed.

WOLLASTON

The meeting of the Wollaston W. C. T. U. to have been held Tuesday afternoon has been postponed to Thursday afternoon, to meet with Mrs. Rufus B. Bobey of 75 Lincoln avenue. Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham will speak on "Current Events in Reform Work."

The John A. Barbours of Grand View avenue are in Florida.

Rev. A. Edwin Clattenburg preached Sunday evening at Christ church, Needham.

The cellar is being put in for George E. Carr's house on Safford street.

The good weather on Sunday brought more people out on the Wollaston boulevard than there have been any day this year. A fine view can certainly be obtained from the bluff where, in one direction the long smooth boulevard and shore can be seen while in another, one can see the steamships going in and out between the islands.

The residence at the foot of East Elm avenue, formerly occupied by the Stoddard family is being raised a matter of four or five feet. This is but the first of several houses along the boulevard which will have to be raised when the streets are graded to the level of the boulevard.

Winter storms have caused the channel of the culvert leading under the boulevard to become so filled with sand that hardly any water is able to pass from one side to the other.

"A man's word to his brother-in-law" was the subject of Rev. Joseph Walther at the evening service of the Wollaston Baptist church on Sunday.

The annual musical service was held by the Young People's Religious union of the Wollaston Unitarian church. Many took part and an attractive program was enjoyed.

At the morning service of the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday, Henry T. Richardson of Boston spoke of the work of the Congregational church union.

Mrs. Joseph Walther is heading a movement for the formation of a Nearer and Farther Lights society among the young ladies of the Wollaston Baptist church. A meeting to this end will be held in the chapel on Wednesday evening, March 31.

Reginald Sprague of Park street is confined to his home with an attack of appendicitis.

Rev. W. J. Heath who has been pastor of the Wollaston M. E. church for four years is to take charge of the church at Norwood and Rev. Wesley Wiggin of Whitinsville has been invited to become the pastor of the Wollaston church.

Work is progressing rapidly at the grounds of the Wollaston Tennis club on Everett street, and it is expected that the courts will be in readiness to use in another month.

An all-day meeting will be held in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church by the Ladies Benevolent society.

A. L. Baker is building an addition to his residence on Winthrop avenue.

Another good-cheer service of song was held in the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday afternoon, assisted by Miss Ida L. Poore, soloist, and a chorus choir. The subject of the hymn talk of Rev. E. A. Chase was, "Let the lower lights be burning."

An interesting debate was held at the meeting of the Laicos club on Saturday evening. Charles M. Thompson and Everett Rhodes were the principal speakers. An impromptu mock trial, indulged in by all the members, closed the evening.

Ernest V. Pletsch and Roland M. Prentiss of Marlboro street will take part in the gymnastic exhibition at the Boston Y. M. C. U. on Friday evening. They will do an act on the Swedish box.

Dr. Frank C. Richardson of Boston will speak on "Psyche the Popular Goddess" at the meeting of the Wollaston Congregational club on Tuesday evening, March 30.

The Sectional Tire Co. of Wollaston has purchased a Sterling touring car for use in demonstrating the sectional rubber tire.

DOWNS AND PARK

Word has been received by Mrs. Robert Vandell of Rawson road of her husband's safe arrival at Plymouth, England. Mr. Vandell is a buyer for Jordan Marsh Company, and goes abroad for Easter novelties. He will visit London, Germany, Italy and France before his return.

Mrs. Fred P. Loud is slowing convalescing at her home on Beach street since her return from the Homoeopathic hospital, Boston.

Frank E. Hall of Muirhead street is in New York on a business trip.

Kenneth Smith entertained a few of his friends on Saturday evening at his home on Willow street. Games were enjoyed and dainty refreshments served. Among those present were Freda Klingenhagen, Florence Luhmann, Ednah Rhodes, Olive Fay, Gordon Jameson, Willard Atkins, and Sylvester Brown.

Miss Amelia Linnell of Lebanon, N. H., is spending her spring vacation at her home on Davis street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Lovell of Winchendon were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Atkins of Beach street.

ATLANTIC

Rev. B. F. Crawford recently of the Atlantic M. E church has assumed his new charge in Baltimore.

Many people took advantage of the first day of spring and frequented the boulevard between Atlantic and Wollaston. If an estimate should be given, the number would probably be a thousand or more.

Mrs. Gilbert H. Rhodes of Old Colony avenue has returned from Brockton, where she was called last Thursday by the illness of her sister-in-law.

Miss Flora G. Brown of Beach street leaves tomorrow for New York to attend the spring millinery openings.

Rev. Thomas W. Davison of the Memorial congregational church Atlantic has formed a Saturday evening club for the younger set of boys. A large number were present March 20, and the boys feel that it is a splendid chance to make new acquaintances and spend pleasant evenings together.

QUINCY POINT

Hose 4 was called out on a still alarm at 10.10 Sunday morning for a chimney fire in a house on East Howard street owned by the Fore River Ship building Co. There was no damage.

The members pool tournament of the Washington Social club begins tonight. There are twenty men entered, and all have been practicing hard, so some good matches should result. "Colonel" Albert Whitman has offered two handsome prizes for the winners.

Alfred W. Brown of Washington street, who has been in Jacksonville, Florida, for the past two months, in the hotel business ,has returned to his home. Alfred says it is a great country down there and that the climate is almost perfect.

The Priscilla Sorority of the Washington Street Congregational church holds a Winter Garden party and Conundrum supper tomorrow night in the vestry.

Rev. Alfred R. Atwood of the Washington Street Congregational church took for his subject on Sunday, "Our Heavenly Father's Interest in Earthly Homes."

A surprise was tendered Friday night to Miss Margery Morrison, at her home 202 School street. About fifty of her friends were present and all had a merry time. Miss Clara Lillie presented Miss Morrison with a handsome gold locket and chain. Games were played and refreshments served during the evening.

—Miss Bessie Thompson of Derry, N. H., who is dying from consumption, has requested the police and newspapers of Lynn, Mass., to find her father, Fred O. Thompson. Miss Thompson states in a letter, written for her by friends, that her father formerly lived in Weymouth, Mass. When she heard from him last he was working in a finishing room in a shoe factory in Lynn.

FORCES LINEUP FOR VIVISECTION BATTLE.

Animal Experimenters and Their Opponents In Two Day Contest Before New York Legislature.

March 23 and 24 will be anniversary days in the history of vivisection. These two days were set by the judiciary committees of the New York senate and assembly on which to hear the arguments for and against regulation of experiments on animals. Two such measures are before the legislature, and in explanation of this cleavage F. P. Bellamy, counsel for the Society of the Prevention of Abuse In Animal Experimentation, says:

"The New York Anti-vivisection society does not like the Davis-Lee bill, for which we are sponsors, because, in the opinion of the out and out anti-vivisectionists, it is not sufficiently radical. The doctors, on the other hand, oppose our bill because it is too radical, a situation that strongly suggests that the Davis-Lee measure represents a reasonable compromise between extremists."

A new development of the campaign actively waged by a committee of New York physicians especially interested in vivisection against any and all measures to lessen the abuses of the practice is the widespread circulation of literature in which it is claimed, for example, that animals do not suffer pain from the same causes and in the same ways that affect human beings. Nor, it is claimed, do yelps and writhings by an animal under experimentation necessarily mean that it is suffering.

Going a step further, one vivisectionist has written an elaborate article in which he asserts that the opposition to vivisection is a manifestation of a mania which in its milder forms is seen in the extreme affection of the afflicted ones for horses, dogs and cats.

All of which, it is pointed out, goes to show that perhaps the vivisectionists from the nature of their calling are not the best judges of what suffering is nor of the means necessary to prevent needless cruelty.

We've seen that same smile on hundreds since we've been selling and it's no wonder. The equal of an ordinary three-for-a-quarter cigar for a nickel, would create on anybody "the smile that won't come off."

"BLACK & WHITE"

"BLACK & WHITE"

contains a filler of Cuban-grown leaf, wrapped in excellent quality of Sumatra wrapper, and it's free, burning fragrance makes its popularity greater than any cigar for 5c. that we sell.

AGAINST TARIFF TAX ON GOOD ROAD MAKING.

Work For Better Highways Would Be Halted by Concession to California's Demand For Duty on Asphalt.

Protesting against the proposal to increase the tariff on asphalt, the Chicago Tribune, one of the leading Republican papers of the country, says:

"The California producers of asphalt ask that the duties on the competing asphalt of Trinidad and Venezuela be more than doubled. They say that they, who have to pay railroad freight rates across the continent, cannot compete in the east with the foreign product, which is cheaply carried by water. This will not be disputed, but it does not follow that eastern cities should be made to pay more for their pavements in order to make a wider and better market for one of the minor products of a distant state. They ought not to be mulcted because the freight on a ton of Trinidad asphalt is $2 and a ton of the California product $11.

"In spite of the alleged insufficiency of the present duty the California producers are doing fairly well. Their output in 1907 was 98,000 tons, while 105,000 were imported. They have a practical monopoly in several states. They have an equal chance with their competitors in others. They ought, under the circumstances, to be satisfied with that. They should turn their attention to the lowering of freight rates rather than to the raising of duties. That would be a method of widening their market which would hurt nobody.

"The general superiority of asphalt for paving purposes is admitted. Nothing but the cost stands in the way of its almost universal use. Municipalities and property owners should not be forced through legislation that would add to the cost of asphalt to put up with less desirable pavements. Those pavements would be likely to cost them a little more than they do now if the cost of paving with asphalt were increased.

"The national government should do nothing through its tariff legislation to hurt the cause of good roads and good pavements. Many counties in many states are trying to improve their roads with asphaltic compounds. They should not be discouraged by the imposition of higher duties on asphalt at the request of some California producers. Crude asphalt should be put on the free list as a concession to the interests of the city and country communities."

A Gentle Hint.

A lady who suffered from a neighbor's fowls that overran and spoiled her garden politely asked her neighbor several times to keep his pets at home, but no attention was paid to her grievance. Finaly she hit upon an ingenious method of protecting herself. She prepared grains of corn by tying to them with a strong thread small cards bearing the words, "Please keep your chickens at home," and distributed the grains about her flower beds. The chickens came to feast as usual and greedily swallowed the corn, not preceiving the thread until the card was against their beaks. Then they could neither swallow the card nor rid themselves of the swallowed corn. Twenty or thirty of the marauders ran home, bearing the polite request to their culpable owner, who, struck with the method of the hint, promptly cut the threads and cooped up his fowls.—Bombay Times.

ART OF SALAD MAKING SHOWN

Mrs. Hill Gives Third Cooking Lecture At Wollaston

The third of Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill's demonstration lectures on cooking under the auspices of the Wollaston Kindergarten committee, was given Monday afternoon in Brasee hall. The attendance is growing each week, over a hundred ladies being present Monday.

Mrs. Hill began her lecture by saying the first salad was simply dressed with salt, afterwards vinegar or other acid was used, then the oil. The English make a good salad, but cross the channel and the Frenchman gives you the daintiest of dishes, with the Italian you will fare no less well, better perhaps. In Germany there may be less play of fancy in the choice of materials they far excel in their dressing and the mixing of them, but Hungary is the true home of the salad. From "The feast of Autolycus" she read in part—"Of every woman worthy of the name, it is the duty to master the secret of the perfect salad, and to prepare it for her own—and man's—greater comfort and joy in this life and—who knows?—salvation in the next. This secret is all in the dressing. It is easy to buy lettuce, cucumbers or tomatoes, but to make of them a masterpiece there's the rub."

Tomato salad Macedoine style, contained several ingredients including capers, olives, green string beans and with gelatine was formed in little moulds, and each on a lettuce leaf with a cooked salad dressing was pronounced by all the best they ever tasted—a delicious concoction. Mrs. Hill explained in detail the making of both, and why the butter should not be cooked. How to use a clove of garlic the use of which made you wonder why you liked some salads better than others.

The Potato Salad was a revelation compared with potato salad served by the majority. The surface was divided into four sections by means of thin slices of olives and the spaces filled with finely chopped cooked beets, sifted yolks of boiled eggs shredded whites of eggs, and chopped green pickles, a harmonious blending of hues. Some salads will not stand "fatiguing" but you can mix and mix potato salad until you are fatigued yourself, then will every mouthful be a special plea for gluttony. The onion must not be omitted it is as essential as the oil but it must be chopped finer than fine and she also told of numerous other things that could be used herring, anchovies, etc. Mrs. Hill made a Mayonnaise Dressing, which made her way, there is no danger of the mixture curdling and is far easier to make than the usual way of drop by drop. She said there were more than a thousand ways of dressing a potato salad, each better than the last.

Stuffed Beet Salad.—The little beet cups filled with chopped cucumber mixed with French dressing, a little mayonnaise on each and decorated with figures cut from beets, and each set in a crisp lettuce leaf, were as delicious to taste as they looked. She also explained how celery, cabbage and radishes could be used to serve with fish.

The Prune and Pecan nut salad and Cream dressing was an exquisite combination and would make a far better and wholesome dessert than the pie or cake usually served. Mrs. Hill said the Germans use sour cream as often as sweet cream and why not? With a french dressing this salad could be served with roast meats.

The Spanish Salad was another new idea in salads which any who enjoy cream cheese would relish. Every one liked the lucious Pineapple salad decorated with pimento and served with mayonnaise. Mrs. Hill said a salad should always be cold, the light ones with dinner and the heartier salad for luncheon or supper. Of green salads the name is legion and they sharpen the dullest appetite, and she made a special plea to have them every day especially for the children. Keeping the pie and cake for company. Children as a rule do not like animal fat, oil costs no more than butter and makes good bone and flesh, then give them a pure vegetable oil. Mrs. Pinkham called the ladies attention to the different electrical appliances and the fireless cooker in which she had cooked at one time both oat meal and onions.

It is rumored that Rev. Julian E. Johnstone, one of the curates of St John's church has been appointed to a parish in Boston and that he will leave Quincy sometime this week,

It is not definitely known when or where Fr. Johnstone is going, but it is practically certain that he is to leave St. John's church.

He will be greatly missed when he goes, for he was extremely popular throughout the city, both in Protestant and Catholic circles.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR QUINCY

S. H. Couch Company To Erect Plant In Wollaston

FIRM EMPLOYS ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIVE MEN

Board Of Trade Responsible For Getting Company Here

For some weeks the Committee of Industries and Trades of the Board of Trade have been considering the introduction of a new industry to our city.

Last week the Chairman of the committee, Walter E. Piper, called a joint meeting of the Committee on Ways and Means and the Committee on Industries and Trades. As a result of that meeting, a special meeting of the Board of Trade was called Monday evening, at which meeting the report of the joint committees was accepted, and ratified, the Board of Trade voting to introduce the new industry to Quincy on the plan that was used by the Weymouth Board of Trade in locating the Keith Company at East Weymouth.

The Committee on Ways and Means being impowered to raise funds by subscription to make up the necessary funds guaranteed by the Board of Trade.

The company which has accepted the proposition of the Board of Trade to locate in our city, is known as the S. H. Couch Company Inc., manufacturers of telephone apparatus, doing business at No. 156 Purchase street, Boston.

This is a live, up-to-date concern that employs one hundred and twenty-five men, all high class workmen, and the President, S. H. Couch and his brother, William Couch are both residents of Quincy, residing at Wollaston.

Land has been secured and plans are made for the building. The plant is estimated to cost about ten thousand dollars and is expected to be ready for occupancy about Sept. 1st.

Several prominent business men of Quincy square have already subscribed $100 towards raising the necessary money and many others have expressed their willingness to do so. This is one way to help the Board of Trade, whose members have made a good start in inducing this company to locate in Quincy.

Much credit is due Walter H. Piper and his energetic Committee on New Industries and Trades for securing this industry for Quincy.

GAS COMPANY'S PETITION LAID ON THE TABLE

Council To Await Reply to Mayor's Petition For Cheaper Gas Before Action Is Taken.

Discussion of the matter of granting the Citizens Gas Light Co., permission to lay mains, the annual appropriation order and incidentally the Houghs Neck school lot prolonged Monday night's meeting of the City Council until after 10.30 o'clock. Councilmen Gardner and Russell were absent.

A venire was received for the drawing of our grand juror and Councilman Flaherty assisted the City Clerk in drawing the name of Stephen E. Wilson.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the secretary of the Commonwealth relative to approval of a certificate of corporation of the Wollaston Tennis Club. Referred to Ordinance Committee.

PETITIONS.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

Petitions were received from Houghs Neck residents protesting against the Norteman lot and favoring the Cavanagh lot, also a petition favoring the Norteman lot. These petitions were referred to the Finance Committee. Later in the evening they were referred to the joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings.

A petition was received from the Scandinavian Socialistic Labor Association for a license to run a wrestling exhibition. Laid on the table until later when the license was granted.

Petitions were received from the Telephone Co., for attachments on Gay street and to lay underground conduits on Washington street between Temple and Hancock streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

GAS MAINS.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Citizens Gas Light Co., permission to lay gas mains.

Councilman McDevitt presented a minority report that the order be laid on the table until a reply is received from the order requesting the Mayor to petition to company to reduce the price of gas.

In support of the minority report Councilman McDevitt said he had been approached directly and indirectly by people interested in the Gas Company. The means used by corporation is approaching public servants was very improper. He considered his duty as a citizen paramount to any other party.

The gas sold Milton and Brookline is purchased from the New England Gas and Coke Co., for 45 cents and sold to the consumers for 80 cents. The Quincy company pay 45 cents and charges $1.50 making 233 1-3 per cent profit. If gas can be sold in Milton and Brookline for 80 cents we are in a peculiar position. A company is about to start in Weymouth and will give that town one dollar gas. The methods used by the foreman in employing labor should be refudiated.

Councilman Richards said the gas company had a good thing and it is a question if we should furnish the tools for them. He did not want to block the company but wanted cheaper gas. It was time some of these corporations were checked.

Councilman Whiton said figures are not to be considered. The gas company have no heart. The fact is we are paying $1.50 for gas and Milton 80 cents. He hoped the company would be given nothing until they came to terms.

Councilman Freeman said it was well to consider the situation in Quincy. The company here was a bankrupt corporation with only twelve miles of mains when the present company took it. They have expended $379,000 and are now $14,000 behind. The figures given the Gas Commission have to be sworn to. We have a right to go to the Gas Commission but with a company showing a loss he did not believe we could get a reduction. The more mains and the more consumers the company have the quicker will the reduction be made.

Councilman Cherrington favored the minority report. This is the time to dicker with the gas company he said.

Councilman Bryant said 25 or 30 years ago we had not water supply and the people were so short sighted they said it would never pay. A private company put in a plant and the city lost money.

The city petitioned the legislature and asked to put in its own gas plant but was refused. Then the present company took hold of the plant and voluntarily reduced the price to $1.50 and said when it could afford to further reductions would be made. Give this company a chance to expand. We want to understand that it costs something to lay mains. The only way to get cheaper gas is to let this company expend all the money it wants in laying mains and then go to the gas commissioners.

When we can show that they are earning a good sum and charging exhorbitant prices the commission will say reduce your price. He thanked heaven that we had found men willing to develop the gas situation in Quincy.

Councilman Gilson said it would do no harm to lay the order on the table until the Mayor had received a reply from the company. No company will reduce its price voluntarily. As long as they can get a certain price they will not reduce it. There was hardly any large corporation that made money at the start.

Councilman Whiton said they came here to make money and have made it. It was all a bluff to say how much they were lossing.

Councilman Nowland said it was simply a matter of common sense. Piping the city will enable them to make money and they will have to reduce the price.

Councilman Flynn asked if anyone knew of a corporation that made any reductions unless they were obliged to. He did not believe in making any concession.

A roll call was asked on the question. The minority report was then accepted by roll call by a vote of 16 yes and 4 no as follows:

YES—Abele, Beal, Bean, Bishop, Carey, Cherrington, Flaherty, Flynn, Gilson, Hadlock, McDevitt, Nelson, Richards, Smith, Walsh, Whiton—16.

No—Bryant, Freeman, Moir, Nowland—4.

WEYMOUTH LEADS BY TWO POINTS

Third Tournament Held at Local K. of C. Rooms.

EACH TEAM CAPTURES THREE EVENTS IN SERIES.

Tournament To Be Continued At Weymouth Monday Night.

Quincy and Weymouth Councils, Knights of Columbus, broke even on Monday night in the third of their series of tournaments held at Quincy. Of the six events contested, each team took three, Quincy winning in pool, forty-five and cribbage and Weymouth in pitch, checkers and whist.

This leaves the relative standing of the teams the same, Weymouth still leading by two points 10 to 8, three points being added to each side of last week's score which was 7 to 5.

The crack cribbage and forty five players of Weymouth went down to defeat before the Quincy boys, while the reverse may be said of the whist and pitch players.

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Weymouth will win at checkers although Monday night's win was not as decisive as those of former meetings. Butler of the Weymouth is a crack and has yet to be defeated in the tournament.

As usual, the pool attracted a lot of attention, this being considered the main event, although it counts no more in points. Again it was up to McMaster to pull off the match and unlike the meeting of a week ago Monday night in Weymouth, Leo did the trick, beating his man handily.

Leary of Weymouth had defeated Joe Keating of Quincy 50 to 34, and Lou White of Quincy had defeated McCarthy, his Weymouth opponent, 50 to 41. This gave Weymouth a clear lead of seven balls on totals, when McMaster of Quincy and Sullivan of Weymouth hooked up.

Leo was in fairly good form, but Sully was away off and only got 36 balls while Leo got 50, the latter winning every frame, and giving the match to Quincy 134 to 127.

While the tournament was going on two bowling teams from Quincy and Weymouth went to the Granite street alleys for a bowling match. It is said that Quincy won, but nobody seems to know for sure.

The results of the other events were as follows:

Forty-five—Barrett and Lynch (Q) beat Conathon and Lamer (W) 11 to 8; Cunniff and Mahoney (Q) beat Yourell and Quinlan 15 to 13. Total, Quincy, 26, Weymouth 21.

Checkers—Meuse (W) beat Durant (Q) 3 to 2; Butler (W) beat Shortle (Q) 2 to 0. Total, Weymouth 5, Quincy 2.

Whist—Hefferan and Martell (W) beat Sweeney and Heaney (Q) 10 to 0; White and Meuse (W) beat Kelley and Monahon (Q) 24 to 20. Total, Weymouth 34, Quincy 20.

Pitch—Gallant and Smith (W) beat C. Keating and E. Parker (Q) 4 to 3.

J. Parker and Ferguson (Q) beat Grant and Borden (W) 4 to 2.

The points were divided as follows giving one point for each event:

	Quincy	Weymouth
Pool	1	0
Pitch	0	1
Checkers	0	1
Forty-five	1	0
Whist	0	1
Cribbage	1	0
Totals	3	3

After the tournament a lunch was served. A short entertainment consisting of piano solos by George Powers, vocal solos by Dennis Sweeney and recitations by Harry McGrath then followed.

The tournament will be continued next Monday night in Weymouth every K. of C. man is invited to come over. The boys go on the 7.20 car from Quincy.

Now that spring is officially here, would it not be well for Quincy, like the proverbial New England housewife, to have a general house cleaning in preparation for the summer.

In the first place the sidewalks should be looked over and repaired, and the hollows in the streets filled in.

The citizens should do their part, by cleaning up their yards and removing the dirt and waste that has collected through the winter.

All it takes is a little time, and the results are fully worth the labor expended.

The American Consul General at Calcutta has some interesting things to say in regard to the export trade of jute from India to the United States.

According to his report India is sending annually $21,921,941 worth of bags and cloth that could just as well be made in this country, thereby giving Americans a chance to share in the profits now being sent to India.

At the present time he says, "We are receiving articles that are made by the cheapest paid labor on earth and which could be made by mill labor in the United States. We are buying $8,787,485 worth of raw jute annually and manufacturing it into cloth. Why not buy as much raw jute as we need and manufacture it into cloth and bags? This would give additional employment to our people and keep the profits at home.

"It would be still better to encourage the growth of ramie on the lands going to waste in the Philippines, where that fibre can be successfully cultivated. Thus we would be absolutely independent in respect to bags for use in handling our flour, wheat, corn, oats, and other commodities. Since the process of cheaply degumming ramie has been discovered there seems to be no longer any excuse for holding back in the cultivation of ramie on an extensive scale."

Here then is a chance for an enterprising American to make a comfortable fortune and also give employment to many of the men now out of work.

Ever since the Brockton boiler explosion four years ago the state inspection law has been particularly rigid, now certain legislators are protesting that the law is too rigid and should be amended. Brockton which has not forgotten the accident of four years ago is especially outspoken in its opposition to any weakening of the law. The Brockton Enterprise in commenting upon this topic says "legislators forget quickly—that is, some of them do. Boston engineers are protesting vigorously against weakening the present boiler inspection laws of the State, and we should think they had good reason for objecting to the proposed plan to exempt steam fire engines and agricultural boilers and some others from inspection. It might prove the entering wedge also against inspection on other boilers, or at all events a less vigorous inspection. Just at this time it seems especially timely for Brockton to protest against a risk of exposing anybody to death or injury from exploding boilers. It was but four years and two days ago that Brockton was plunged in horror by the ripping apart and burning of a factory because a boiler burst, and nearly threescore humans lost their lives and others were injured, some of them to a frightful degree. Some time later nearly a score were hurt by a similar explosion in a Lynn factory. The last thing in the world any legislator should think of for a minute should be the weakening of the protection thrown about the workers by the laws which call for careful and prompt inspection of useful inanimate slaves that can become on occasion masters with most tyrannical and horrible cruelty."

If other papers in the state would take the question up editorially we think that instead of weakening the law it would be made still more rigid.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

It would have been to the lasting disgrace of Tennessee, if the slayers of ex-Senator Carmack should have escaped without some punishment; but even as things are, is the performance very creditable to the state? In the case of the Reelfoot lake murders, it was shown that justice could reach some murderers, who were comparatively poor and without influence. Yet those murderers at least thought that they were fighting for their homes and their families. The Reelfoot lake murders were not the mere whim of members of the "first families," with the idea that they had the right to take the life of any man who offended their pompous and baseless conceit, but who were too conscious of their own shortcomings to risk a libel suit in the courts, with the danger of consequent exposure. The murder of Mr. Carmack was a foul, brutal and cowardly achievement, a disgrace to the men who perpetrated it, and who apparently thought that they were subject to no law of God or man. And it reflects upon Tennessee that there is not justice enough in her courts to punish such a crime to the extent it clearly deserves.—Boston Advertiser.

President Taft's views outlined in his inaugural address on the railroad, trust and allied issues, as well as his reference to the departments of the Government charged with the regulation of such affairs, indicate a busy session along economic lines in Congress next winter. Whatever the outcome it is certain, so far as the railroads and great corporations are concerned, the steps leading to it will be free from that hostility, partisanship and animosity which were conspicuously in evidence whenever the railroads or the trusts were the subject of Congressional debate in the last five years. Moderate, sensible, constructive, Mr. Taft will not espouse a policy in which he does not believe, nor assent to a measure which in his position is only a partial remedy for a particular objective. The man is thorough. Every act of his official career proves this, and, we may rest assured, what he attempts to do will be done well—as well as it is possible for common sense, calm deliberation and sane judgment to accomplish. His rejection of the terms "good" and "bad" trusts, and his substitution of the word "reasonable," in speaking of the Sherman law, is an indication of his grasp of that issue and a reassurance of a promising attitude.—Roach's Financial Facts.

La France

The woman with a pair of La France shoes gets more solid satisfaction out of them than most women would consider reasonable or even possible.

She wears them for outdoor sports with comfort and pleasure.

She wears them when she receives her most critical guests with a sure feeling that none will be more daintily and stylishly shod than she.

She knows they are correct. They fit like a glove. They hold their fresh unwrinkled shape in a most marvelous way. Their long serviceability attests the high quality materials and good workmanship.

And the prices are reasonable—$3.00, $3.50 and $4.00. Do you know these famous shoes? May we not have the pleasure of showing them to you?

LONG STANDING EMERY CLAIM

State Department Will Insist Upon Prompt Settlement

NICARAGUA REPLIES TO KNOX

Expresses Willingness to Have Commission Pass Upon Decision of Her Courts In Annuling Mahogany Concession, but Does Not Meet All Demands of United States—Congress Will Act If Difficulties Continue

Washington, March 23.—President Zelaya of Nicaragua has, through Mr. Espinoza, the minister of that country to the United States, sent his reply to the demand made by Secretary Knox for the arbitration of the Emery claim arising from the annulment by Nicaragua of a concession granted by that country for cutting mahogany, because of an alleged violation of its provisions.

No statement was obtainable at the state department as to the nature of Zelaya's reply, but enough is known to warrant the statement that it does not meet every demand of this government. It is understood, however, that Nicaragua has suggested a method of adjustment of the whole issue, which, in its judgment, provides for settlement on an equitable basis for all parties interested.

The Emery claim has been dragging on between the state department and Nicaragua for years, the department being unable to obtain the consent of the Central American country to arbitrate it along lines satisfactory to this government—that is, by a commission sitting outside of Nicaragua which, while passing on the question as to the right of Nicaragua to annul the claim, should also fix the amount of damages to which the Emery company might be entitled, if any, as a result of the action of the Nicaraguan courts.

Nicaragua has expressed her willingness to have such a commission pass on the decision of her courts in annuling the concession, but has insisted that the question of damages should be fixed by a local arbitration commission, made up of a representative of the company, a representative of the government, and a third to be chosen by those two as contemplated in the concession in the event that issues arise between the company and the government.

The note from Espinoza reaffirms Nicaragua's willingness to arbitrate the question at issue, but, as previously, differs with this government as to the form in which this is to be brought about. State department officials are not yet prepared to make any statement of the attitude of this government on the counter-propositions advanced. If the differences between the two countries continue to be radical, the whole matter will be passed on to congress for action to obtain satisfaction for the concessionaries.

The discussion of the merits of the case has passed into history and now the state department is determined to have a prompt settlement reached.

FLIGHT OF SIX MILES

Distance Covered by New Aerodrome In Eight Minutes

Baddeck, N. S., March 23.—The aerodrome Silver Dart, with J. A. D. McCurdy of the Aerial Experiment association at the wheel, made two successful flights Monday, starting from the ice in Baddeck bay. In the second flight McCurdy circled the bay three times in succession, covering a distance of about six miles in eight minutes.

In its flight, the Silver Dart flew without difficulty at various elevations from six to thirty-five feet, demonstrating the operator's entire control of his machine at all times.

LILLEY ORDERED TO BED

Governor of Connecticut Suffering From Nervous Exhaustion

Hartford, March 23.—Governor Lilley, after spending Monday morning in his office in Waterbury, returned to his home here suffering from nervous exhaustion and was ordered to remain in bed for a week by his attending physician.

C. A. Goodwin, the governor's secretary, says that Lilley's condition is not at all serious and that after a week's complete rest he will be able to assume his duties.

Beamers on Strike

Waltham, Mass., March 23.—Because of an announced immediate reduction in their pay, twenty-five beamers employed at the cotton mills of the Boston Manufacturing company in this city went on strike.

Governor Curry Resigns

Washington, March 23.—The telegraphic resignation of Governor Curry of New Mexico was received at the White House last evening and will be called to the attention of President Taft today.

Whisky Destroyed by Fire

Danville, Ky., March 23.—Fire in the main warehouse of the Searceys distillery at McBrayer destroyed 28,000 barrels of whisky, valued at $300,000.

MEETING OF MINERS

President Lewis Stands Pat on Recognition of the Union

Scranton, Pa., March 23.—Unless the tri-district convention of anthracite miners which began in this city today adopts plans for making further efforts to obtain from the coal companies a new agreement to take the place of the one which expires March 31 a strike of the hard coal miners will probably result.

"Recognition of our union is one point upon which we shall stand fast," said President Thomas L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers. "Our other demands are reasonable and just and should be granted by the operators, but the matter upon which we are united and in entire harmony is recognition. The demand of the miners for recognition of the union imposes no hardships on the operators."

The present agreement between the miners and the operators was made in 1906 to run three years. The operators assert their willingness to renew the agreement, but declare that they cannot grant the present demands of the miners for shorter hours and higher wages without increasing the price of coal. This they declare themselves unwilling to do, in view of present industrial conditions. The operators have also come out for the "open shop."

CONFESSION OF DEFEAT

French Strikers Want Government to Make It Publicly

Paris, March 23.—Although the chamber of deputies, by a vote of 345 to 138, again sustained the government's position with reference to the strike of the postal employes and several of the members of the strike committee consider the government's terms amply satisfactory, hotheads at a big meeting held Monday afternoon succeeded in postponing final action until today.

Not content with winning all the substantial points for which they contended, including the elimination of Under Secretary Simyan, whose retirement, it is understood, is only a question of hours, the militant strike leaders want to force the government to a public confession of defeat by the dismissal of Simyan.

ALLEGED GRAFTERS ARE INDICTED

Charges Against Men Prominent In Pittsburg Affairs

Pittsburg, March 23.—Six indictments, three for conspiracy, one for perjury and two for bribery, were returned in the councilmanic graft cases, upon which the grand jury of the criminal court had been deliberating for several days.

The men indicted are: Dallas C. Byers, millionaire manufacturer, indicted jointly with Councilman John F. Klein, already twice convicted in the graft cases, and Councilman W. H. Weber, on a charge of conspiring to secure the passage of a street paving ordinance; F. A. Griffin, president of the Columbia National bank, charged with perjury in one of the recent graft trials; Councilman Charles Stewart, charged with soliciting a bribe of $2500; and H. L. Bolger, hotel proprietor, charged with being an accomplice of Klein in demanding and accepting a bribe for which Klein has already been convicted.

BOWERS SUCCEEDS HOYT

Retiring Solicitor General to Be Rewarded With Federal Judgeship

Washington, March 23.—President Taft announces the appointment of Lloyd Bowers of Chicago to be solicitor-general of the United States to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Henry Hoyt, who has held this post in the department of justice for a number of years. Bowers is general counsel of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad.

It is generally understood among Hoyt's friends that he is to receive a federal judgeship as a reward for his work in preparing and prosecuting a number of important cases during his term of office.

Preferred Death to Being Sold Out

Philadelphia, March 23.—David Lark, aged 55, head of a firm of marble workers, shot and killed himself to avoid being sold out by the sheriff. He is said to have carved his own tombstone shortly before his death. The sheriff's deputy arrived at Lark's office a few minutes after he had killed himself.

Kidnapping Scenes Barred

Chicago, March 23.—Moving picture exhibitions of kidnappings in 5-cent theatres were forbidden by the police department Monday in view of the strong public sentiment arising from the Whitla kidnapping case. Two films portraying the kidnapping of a child were confiscated.

Auction Sale of Canal Material

Washington, March 23.—It has been decided to advertise and sell to the highest bidder the material acquired of the French company with the Panama canal property and no longer useful in that work, instead of disposing of it at private sale as had been suggested.

ROOSEVELT ON WAY TO AFRICA

Ship Bearing Him and His Party Sails Today

DUE AT NAPLES APRIL 3

Crowd Sees Former President Off at Hoboken Pier—Youngster's Good Wishes Bring Smile to His Face—The Hamburg, Carrying Him to Europe, and the Admiral, on Which He Will Sail For Africa, Among the Finest Vessels Afloat

New York, March 23.—Out on the "bosom of the ocean," as the writers have it, is Theodore Roosevelt with his party of lion hunters. They are aboard the Hamburg-American line steamer Hamburg, which cast off her lines from her Hoboken pier this morning and to the music of the whistles of numerous ferryboats, tugs and other vessels sailed down the bay with her distinguished passenger.

Accompanying Mr. Roosevelt—or Colonel Roosevelt, as some wise reporters addressed him on the pier this morning, winning thereby a smile—are his son, Kermit Roosevelt; Major Edgar A. Mearns, medical corps, U. S. A., retired; Edmund Heller and J. Alden Loring. The last named three men accompany Mr. Roosevelt as representatives of the Smithsonian institution, while the younger Roosevelt is official photographer of the expedition.

Crowd on the Pier

The long pier to which the Hamburg was moored was jammed this morning with persons gathered to see the Roosevelt party sail. They made the pier ring with their cheers for the voyager from the time of his arrival from New York city until the Hamburg sailed. He was mightily pleased with the reception and showed his gratification by his smiles and the frequency with which he lifted his hat in response to greetings. To a request for a formal statement of his plans Mr. Roosevelt returned a smiling denial. "It has all been printed over and over again," he said, "and I have nothing to say."

Among the most enthusiastic of the cheering crowd when the Hamburg moved slowly away from her pier was a small boy, who had crowded to the very limit permitted by the authorities of the steamship line. His last cry, "Goodby, Teddy; take care of yourself!" brought a smile even to the face of the ex-president, who seemed then a little tired of smiling.

Two Fine Ships to Carry Party

The Hamburg is due at Naples on April 3. Mr. Roosevelt and his party will remain in the Italian city two days, sailing thence on the Admiral of the German East African line on April 5. The Hamburg is one of the finest vessels of the Hamburg-American line and is the favorite ship of the German emperor. The Admiral is her equal in all the comforts and conveniences needed for the hot trip through the Suez canal, down the Red sea and along the moist and sticky coast of East Africa. The Admiral is due at Mombasa, where the Roosevelt party will disembark, on April 22.

On his arrival at Mombasa Mr. Roosevelt and his party will go direct to the estate of Sir Alfred Pease, a member of the well known English Quaker family, which is situated at Kilima Theki, Kapiti plains, British East African Protectorate, and remain there for three months during the heavy rains.

Afterward the Roosevelt party will go to Nairobi and pay a visit to the estate of Philip MacMillan, who is head of an American company that has a concession of 100 square miles in the district. They will cross Lake Victoria early in December to enter Uganda when the dry season commences in order to do the thirty-seven days' march in Gondokoro in fine weather.

It is expected that the Roosevelt expedition will complete its trip through the dark continent in the spring of next year, reaching Cairo about April 1, 1910.

A GLOOMY PREDICTION

Starr Says Roosevelt Will Not Return From Dark Continent

New York, March 23.—Professor Frederick Starr of the University of Chicago, who is in this city, spent many years in Africa in anthropological studies, and on one occasion made a long trip over a route very similar to that which ex-President Roosevelt has mapped out. Starr said last night:

"For two reasons, I expect Mr. Roosevelt will not return alive from Africa—his age and his quick temper. No man can expect to go into the dangerous climates of the African wilds at fifty years or more and come out alive. The strange, unidentified fevers which abound there are withstood with difficulty, even by the youngest and sturdiest blood. For a man of the ex-president's age, the attempt is suicidal.

"Then the matter of temper. In the tropics there is nothing more dangerous than a quick temper such as Mr. Roosevelt has. Sudden outbreaks of temper frequently result fatally in these regions."

FATHER GETS WILLIE WHITLA

Boy Returned to Him Upon Payment of $10,000

PROPOSITION OF KIDNAPPERS

It Is Carried Out to the Letter, a Woman In a Cleveland Candy Store Acting as Agent and Receiving the Ransom—Child Disguised and Put Aboard Street Car, Which Quickly Brought Him to Parent In Hotel

Cleveland, March 23.—Willie Whitla, who has caused the police of the entire country endless worry since he was kidnapped from school in Sharon, Pa., last Thursday, was returned to his father at the Hollenden hotel here last night at 8:30 o'clock.

In compliance with an agreement entered into between the kidnapped boy's father and an agent of the kidnappers here, the boy was placed on a street car on the outskirts of the city and started to the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock.

Two boys, G. W. Ramsey and Edward Mahoney, recognized the lad on the car, and, taking him in charge, conducted him to his father, who was in waiting, according to a prearranged plan which he had followed at the dictation of the kidnappers.

The boy wandered about the hotel lobby unannounced for several minutes, asking bellboys for his father, before the latter knew his son was in the big foyer.

The moment Whitla heard that a strange boy was in the hotel sauntering about in aimless fashion, he rushed across the lobby, grasped him in his arms and smothered his face with kisses.

An attempt had been made to disguise the lad. He wore a pair of smoked glasses and a large tan cap, which was pulled down over his ears, and the father said it would have been difficult to have recognized the boy in such a garb had he passed him on the street.

Willie is in good health. He says that he has been well treated, and ever since his capture has been constantly indoors. He believes he was taken from Sharon to Warren, and thence to Newcastle, Pa. It is his opinion, expressed in a happy schoolboy way, that he was in Ashtabula on Saturday night at the time his father was to leave his $10,000 in Flatiron park.

Mr. Whitla said that he received a letter Monday from the kidnappers at his home in Sharon, saying that if he called at a confectionery store in the east end of Cleveland he would be told how to secure his boy unharmed and "well fed."

Shortly after noon he left Sharon for Cleveland. He was unaccompanied. His immediate family and the private detectives he had in his employ had been apprised by him of the proposed meeting, but he insisted that he must make the trip alone, unheralded, and that no attempt at the capture of the kidnappers must then be made.

Mr. Whitla was certain that if he spoiled the plans of his son's captors last night he would never see the lad again. His experience at Ashtabula served as a warning.

About 2 o'clock Monday afternoon he went to a candy store in the west end. With him he carried the $10,000, expecting that it would be demanded of him there. He was met by a woman, who detailed to him the terms of the kidnappers. With distracted eagerness Whitla agreed to them immediately. Half an hour later he returned to the Hollenden hotel and awaited developments.

In the meantime Willie, feeling comparatively safe in the hands of his kidnappers, for he was being treated kindly and even now does not realize the danger he was in, was being prepared for his return to his father.

The woman at the candy store had done her duty. She communicated with the captors of the boy and told them that the father had made no attempt to trap them. The kidnappers were satisfied.

But Whitla declines to name the woman in charge of the confectionery store and almost dares the police to find her. So the boy was brought from the hiding place—where it was no one knows—to a car line in the east end of the city which brought him into town quickly.

Before retiring for the night Whitla admitted that he had paid $10,000 to the woman in the candy store. It was in currency and bills. The woman did not count the money. Whitla believes the woman was an Italian, but he refuses to dislose her identity.

Mrs. Whitla Hears the News

Sharon, Pa., March 23.—The first act of J. P. Whitla, upon the recovery of his son in Cleveland, was to call his wife over the long distance telephone and tell her that Willie was safe in his arms again. Mrs. Whitla, evidently expecting the news, manifested the most perfect self-control. Not only was the family overjoyed at the receipt of the news, but the entire community seems to be sharing their happiness and a great demonstration is being arranged.

Cupid on The Air Line.

By LITTELL M'CLUNG.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Look, Grant!" exclaimed the girl, touching the arm of her companion as they passed the exhibit of vegetables on the fair grounds. "There's the captive balloon they've all been talking so much about. Bessie and Sam went up in it yesterday, and they thought it simply dandy."

The young man glanced ahead to where a crowd surrounded some taut guys that stretched up to a big balloon floating gracefully in the air 300 feet over their heads.

A man stepped upon a platform and began to address his auditors in stentorian yet persuasive tones.

"All right, Lila, we'll see it through, too," declared Grant Allen, and they hurried up close to the speaker.

"This way, ladies and gentlemen!" he cried. "Who'll be the next to go up in the big gas bag? Here's a glorious chance to see the world as a bird sees it! This balloon is as safe as a trolley car and safer. Experts say so.

"It is fastened securely to the earth, ladies and gentlemen, and stays up ten minutes with each ascension, giving you plenty of time to enjoy the magnificent scenery. Come! Who'll be the next? The balloon holds only two at a time. Tickets are 50 cents apiece, two for a"—

"I'll take two tickets for the next trip," said Grant, pushing forward with the necessary dollar in his hand. The man handed him the coupons to fame and stepped down from the platform to engineer the next ascension.

By turning a sort of handle and wheel device that resembled a windlass the balloon was towed back to earth. A young man and a girl stepped out of the "basket" smiling triumphantly, and Lila and Grant stepped in. The wheel to which the guide rope was attached began to turn again, and slowly the balloon rose above the fair grounds. When the rope gave out the basket was high enough for its occupants to see the level country for miles around.

"Oh, isn't it just perfectly grand!" cooed the girl, clapping her hands and peering down at the upturned faces.

"Yes, it really is," he answered. "You feel apart from the world and above everything in more senses than one. No wonder aeronautics are almost epidemic."

The great bag above them swung off in a semicircle and then stood motionless, the basket swinging gently to and fro. Suddenly Lila glimpsed a thick cloud of dust whirling spiral fashion across the fair grounds.

"What is all that dust, Grant?" she asked innocently.

"Why, it's a whirlwind," he exclaimed, "and a big one at that, and, what's more, it's coming directly toward us. If it strikes us we'll get a lively little swing around in the air. I hope it does!"

But the girl seemed apprehensive and clung to his arm. Evidently his wish was about to be realized, for the whirlwind, gathering momentum every second, was bearing straight down on the guide ropes of the balloon, carrying with it a dozen or more hats it had gathered from the crowds.

In another second it hit the balloon, whirling it around like a bubble in a hundred foot circle. Lila gave a little shriek of fear, but Grant laughed.

"Don't be nervous," he said. "We're getting a fine ride."

Then his face whitened as the sound of snapping ropes struck his ears. He glanced below to see uprooted pegs and stakes flying into the air. Another crack followed, and the balloon tore loose the last line that bound it to earth.

For a second it paused; then, like a rocket, it shot cloudward several hundred feet and, encountering "upper currents," floated off across the fair grounds.

Over the girl's face flashed an expression of terror, but by a superhuman effort Grant kept calm. Below they could hear the wild shouts of the people who were running in the direction the balloon had taken.

"Keep your nerve, Lila," urged Grant quietly. "There is really no danger. Don't you see the gas can't possibly get out of the bag, and we'll begin to go down when the wind slackens a little."

But the wind continued strong, and the balloon declined to descend an inch. Neither did it rise. It simply floated along rapidly, but steadily, about six or seven hundred feet above the ground. In five minutes the fair inclosure was fading in the distance, and in another five minutes so was the town.

"Don't you see, Lila," said Grant, with assurance, "we are perfectly safe? We've joined the first class aeronauts, and we're going on a tour of the world. Just think how famous we'll be if we discover the north pole."

This forced levity dispelled Lila's terrified look, and gradually the color came back into her face.

"I'm glad of one thing," she said as her courage returned. "Papa, mamma and all the folks are up in the country today. Maybe they won't hear of our aerial disappearance until we land somewhere and start back. They'd be frightened to death if they did."

"Don't worry, Lila," he answered, feeling now that there really was very little danger, after all. "Just look out over the country and let's enjoy the trip. Maybe we won't have another one like this soon."

Their airship was sailing beautifully now, flying over orchards and farm lands and throwing into a state of intense excitement hundreds of peaceful country folk.

"It is simply heavenly," the girl suddenly exclaimed. "I'm not a bit afraid now, Grant, and I don't care much how hard we sail. I've always longed for some exciting adventure, and surely this is it, and you are with me. I'm so glad it's you!"

"Why are you glad it's me?" he demanded, seizing her hand and ignoring the cries of the farm hands in the valley below.

"Oh, I don't know exactly, just because—isn't that reason enough?" she questioned, her eyes a-twinkle.

"Guess it is, dear girl," he replied, and he might have, but at that second the careless balloon careened sharply to starboard, reminding him that he must keep the ship "trimmed" if he ever expected to land safely.

They were now passing over a good sized town, and hundreds of people were out in the streets gazing skyward. Of a sudden the wind died away, and the balloon sank within 200 feet of the housetops. Then, without an instant's warning, there was a violent tug at the basket, and its flight ended with startling abruptness. Grant felt his heart bob up in his throat, but he peered over the side; then he drew breath again. An iron peg dangling from the end of one of the ropes had caught under the edge of a slate roof.

"Well, Lila, we're certainly anchored at last!" he announced. "Guess they'll be hauling us down pretty quick, for they're running into the house."

His surmise was correct, for in a moment several men climbed out on to the roof through the skylight and seized the rope. Then hand over hand they began pulling down the balloon, while the street throngs shouted enthusiastically.

In another moment Lila and Grant clambered out of the basket, to be greeted by a dozen men, who bombarded them with questions. They did not know which way to turn until a tall, mild eyed man in clerical garb made his way through the throng.

"It's my house that caught you," he laughed. "We received a telephone message asking us to be on the lookout for a runaway balloon with two passengers which was drifting in our direction, and we are more than glad to have been able to rescue both you and the balloon."

Rapid fire thanks and introductions followed, with handshaking all around, and after the balloon was made fast to a chimney and a man set to guard it the minister led the way to the skylight. In a few minutes the young aeronauts found themselves in a spacious parlor hemmed in by an animated, questioning group.

"Lila," whispered Grant at the first opportunity.

The girl inclined her head.

"Lila, don't you think, dearie, it is sort of providential that—that we landed at a minister's house? Don't you hope so, at any rate?"

For a moment she was silent, the color deepening in her cheek.

"Don't you?" he repeated eagerly.

"No—that is, yes. Yes, I do, Grant, dear," she whispered back, giving his arm a little corroborating squeeze.

Five minutes later Grant Allen was hurrying up the street. On the corner he met a policeman. "Which way to the office of the marriage license clerk?" he asked breathlessly.

Weeping Marble.

The activity of surrounding businesses may have jeopardized more than one portion of the sacred edifice of St. Bartholomew the Great, but it was not always safe even at the hands of its own congregation. In the seventeenth century the parishioners, in their combined wisdom, thought the cloisters would look better if they were whitewashed and promptly proceeded to carry out their original idea. They then found, however, that two marble statues, which may still be seen, did not show up well enough against the white background, so in order to remedy this defect they had the images tarred! The same people wanted to get rid of the fourteenth century baptismal font in the church on the ground that it was too old for use. The most curious monument is that in "weeping marble" to Edward Cooke, scholar and physician, with the inscription:

Unsluice, ye briny floods. What! Can ye keep
Your eyes from teares and see the marble weep?
Burst out for shame, or if ye find no vent
For teares yet stay and see the stones relent.

For a long time the marble "wept" without restraint, but since the church has been reroofed and heated its peculiarity of "relenting" through damp has ceased to exhibit itself.—London Globe.

Whistler and a Supper.

Though frequently hard up, Whistler had an income which seemed princely to students who lived on nothing at all. If Whistler had money in his pockets, Mr. Ionides says, he spent it royally on others. If his pockets were empty, he managed to refill them in a way that still amazes M. Oulevey, who, in proof of it, told us of the night when, after the cafe where they had squandered their last sous on kirsch had closed, he and Lambert and Whistler adjourned to the Halles for supper, ordered the best and ate it. Then he and Lambert stayed in the restaurant as hostages while Whistler, at dawn, went off to find money to pay. He was back when they awoke with 300 or 400 francs in his pocket. He had been to see an American friend, he said, a painter, "And, do you know, he had the bad manners to abuse the situation; he insisted on my looking at his pictures."—"The Life of James MacNeill Whistler," by E. R. and J. Pennell.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Quincy Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Quincy people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. E. Burke, living at 143 Quincy St., Quincy, Mass, says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy for Kidney trouble, both my husband and myself having used them and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Mr. Burke had such a severe pain in his back that he could hardly do his work, but Doan's Kidney Pills fixed him up in good shape. They were procured at the Cox Drug Store and have our highest recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United Statts.

Peter Hynes of Broadway left Monday for Bath, Me., where he has accepted a position in the Bath Iron Works. Mr. Hynes formerly worked in the Charlestown Navy yard and at the Fore River Works.

WEYMOUTH.

The unusual sight of a man running around the street with a gun in hand caused a lot of excitement at Lincoln square Sunday afternoon, when a crowd of several hundred people soon gathered to see what the trouble was, and in a few minutes a dog came running down the street with the blood pouring from his mouth, where he had been cut by stones thrown at him. Meanwhile the man with the gun was trying to get a chance to shoot him. It was first said that the dog was mad, but later that he had been poisoned, and the man was trying to put him out of suffering which he finally succeeded in doing by filling the dog's body with buck shot.

Lysander B. Nash observed his 87th birthday Monday by a family gathering at the home of his daughter Mrs. Henrietta Davidson on Summer street. Relatives were present from Quincy, Wollaston, Abington and Whitman. There was a program of vocal and instrumental music.

H. B. Reed has gone on a trip to Colorado.

Rev. F. B. Cressey of Cambridge, a former pastor of the First Baptist church in this town preached at the Union Congregational church Sunday forenoon for Rev. R. H. Cochrane who is confined to the house with an attack of the grip.

Weymouth Council Knights of Columbus held a meeting Sunday afternoon and entertained as guests former assistant district attorney of Suffolk county Michael McEttrick and past grand Knight Daniel F. Pendergast. A banquet followed the business meeting.

A wagon load of baled hay weighing several tons tipped over on Front street yesterday forenoon, and Eljard Burke and John Hawley who were riding on the load jumped just in time to save themselves from severe injury.

—Boston Lodge of Elks at its annual meeting Sunday evening elected George H. Johnson as exalted ruler by a vote of 437, which was afterwards made unanimous.

Father—"I've just found out that the strange young man who comes to see you has been borrowing money right and left."

Daughter—"Isn't that lovely? He must be a nobleman in disguise."

In Hot Water.

"Typographical errors," said a writer, "are continually cropping up. I called for a magazine editor the other day to take him out to luncheon. As he was getting gratefully into his coat a man entered.

"'Do you read your magazine?' the man asked.

"'I do,' replied the editor.

"'Have you read the new number, the one that came out yesterday?"

"'I have.'

"'Have you read my poem, "To Gabrielle," on page 117?'

"'N-no.'

"'No! Well, in that poem I wrote the line, "I love you better than I love my life."'

"'A neat line—neat and well turned,' said the editor soothingly.

"'And one of the professional humorists of your composing room set it up to read, "I love you better than I love my wife.'"

"'How—er'—

"'Than my wife—precisely that. And my wife knows nothing of composing room comedy, and she thinks the line was printed exactly as I wrote it.'"

China's Four Religions.

China has four state established religions, and in each the emperor exercises sacerdotal functions. Twice a year the emperor as "son of heaven" worships before the tablet of Shang Ti or supreme heaven in accordance with the ancient imperial monotheism. Twice a year he burns incense before the tablets of his ancestors in accordance with Confucianism. Twice a year he sacrifices to the gods of Taoism and twice a year to the image of Buddha. The ancient and primitive religion of China is monotheistic, but this direct worship was regarded as too sublime for the people, so that it became reserved for the emperor alone as the "son of heaven" and as priest of the nation. The people on their part worshiped their ancestors, and it was this ancestral religion which Confucius identified himself with and reformed. The old superstitions rejected by Confucius were absorbed by Taoism, which is polytheistic and the religion of the populace. Then Buddhism came into China about 65 A. D. and, like the other three religions, became state supported and state endowed.

Squeezed the Squeezers.

It is said that when Mr. Yerkes began to make money some of the banks from which he had borrowed thought to "squeeze" him by demanding instant repayment or a large consideration for further time. He was invited to call on one of these "bankers" and there met the others. Their demand was made, and their victim seemed at their mercy. They did not, however, know the resourcefulness of Mr. Yerkes, who retaliated by remarking: "Well, I owe a lot to all the banks here, and I'll just publish a statement tomorrow in the papers, giving the full amounts and stating my inability to pay. This will make such a run on the banks that they will soon be as broke as I should, and therefore I shall not be the only sufferer."

The "squeezers" recognized the truth of this and so withdrew their demand. Mr. Yerkes, however, refused to withdraw his threat unless they lent him another $50,000. They did so.

The Constipation Evil
IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MOST CASES OF PILES.

Constipation paralyzes the blood vessels of the lower bowel, and often causes piles. Women, and all other indoor workers, are the most frequent sufferers. But curing constipation alone won't cure piles. A special medicine is needed—internal treatment, to strengthen the flabby veins and start pure blood circulating.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is the only internal pile cure. Sold under guarantee. $1 at Clyde T. Cox's Quincy, Mass., or Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B. Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet.

ATLANTIC

Miss Jane Norman, sister of Mrs. A. L. Baker of Atlantic street, has returned from Bay Roberts, Newfoundland, where she has been spending the winter.

The younger set of boys and girls rejoiced in Atlantic Monday afternoon, when Master Gordon Sherwin returned from the Massachusetts General hospital. Master Gordon has been greatly missed and is pleased to be home again.

Mr. Frank Whall of Webster street, returned Sunday evening from a business trip to New Orleans, La.

Mr. Frank Stocker of Clark street left Sunday afternoon on a business trip in the west.

George A. Schiller, the prominent actor who makes his summer home at Squantum, is staying with Mrs. William Whall of 42 Hunt street during his two weeks' engagement at the Majestic theatre in "Mr. Hamlet of Broadway."

Timothy, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Danahey of West Squantum street, is seriously ill with rheumatism of the heart.

Y. M. C. A. BASKET BALL.

The first team won its fourth consecutive victory on Saturday night at North Abington, defeating the fast local team on their own floor in a rough hard fought game.

Though the team felt the loss of D. Gourlie, who scored nine baskets against the same team on March 20, H. Ulrich filled his position splendidly.

An effort is being made to bring the Brockton Independents here next Saturday evening. This would prove a splendid game with which to close the season as each team has been beaten once by the other this year.

Line up for North Abington game:

QUINCY	NO. ABINGTON

City Council Meeting

$40,000 for the extension of the water system. The substitute order appropriates $72,000 of which amount $32,000 is for the purchase and installation of water meters. Referred to Finance Committee.

MOTIONS

Councilman Walsh offered an order for a light on River street. Referred to Executive.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

Upon motion of Councilman Whiton the order for a school lot at Houghs Neck was recalled from the Finance Committee.

Councilman Whiton then moved it be referred to the joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings.

Councilman Gilson. It is the duty of the Finance Committee either to report the city has no money or that the city must borrow the money. That is my opinion as a parliamentarian. This committee has reported substitute orders but in doing so they went beyond their power.

Councilman Gilson then told in detail of the work the public buildings committee had done in the matter. He also spoke of the different lots considered. The Cavanagh lot was one of these. The price given for this was 15 cents. Mr. Cavanagh refused to accept 10 cents.

Councilman Whiton said that it was simply out of courtesy that he asked that the Public Buildings committee be joined with the Finance Committee.

The order was then referred to the joint committee.

MARLBORO STREET. ....

Councilman Bean offered an order appropriating $1000 for resurfacing Marlboro street and repairing the sidewalks. Referred to Committee on Streets.

BATES AVENUE.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order appropriating $2000 for resurfacing Bates avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Richards offered on order for two lights on Smith street. Referred to Executive.

BUILDING ORDINANCE. . . ..

Councilman Hadlock offered an amendment to the Building ordinance which was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

The amendments offered changed the ordinance relative to Houghs Neck so as to put some restrictions on the buildings erected there.

Councilman Whiten requested that all members of the Council visit Houghs Neck before the next meeting and look over the school lots.

CODDINGTON PLAYGROUND.

Councilman Nowland offered an order requesting the Mayor to obtain the price of a lot of land adjoining the Coddington school lot for a playground. Adopted.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for a light on Cyril street. Referred to the Eexecutive.

APPROPRIATION ORDER.

The annual appropriation order took its second reading.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant the item for street watering was amended so as to read "Watering or Oiling streets."

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant the following item was added "By Inspector of Milk $50."

The rules were then suspended.

Councilman Nowland moved the motion be divided but later withdrew it.

Councilman Nowland moved to amend by adding to the school amounts "Manuel training $2000."

In support of his motion he said Quincy schools were going behind. We have sewing classes for girls but nothing for the boys. We ought to make a start and appropriate $2000 for the boys who are now learning almost nothing. If some boys were in a work shop they would be learning a great deal.

Councilman Bryant said the School Committee did not ask for this. They had been given within $500 of what they asked. The Committee had to cut every department to keep within the $12 limit.

Councilman Whiton said there was no doubt it would be a good thing but we simply could not afford it. If there was any place $2,000 could be cut he would like to know where.

Councilman McDevitt suggested that it could be taken from the Police department.

The motion to amend was lost.

Councilman McDevitt then moved to add the sum of $2500 to street lighting.

A discussion then followed during which the Auditor was requested to give the estimated amount of receipts. These were something like $50,000 of which the Finance Committee had taken $28,000 in making up its budget.

In reply to a question the City Solicitor said the Committee had no right to use all of the receipts.

Assessor Adams in reply to a question said the assessors by law had a right to take all of the receipts to reduce the tax rate.

The motion to amend was lost.

Councilman McDevitt then moved the appropriation for special police be reduced $2000.

This motion after some discussion was lost.

The order was then passed.

Adjourned at 10.26 until April 5.

AUTO SPEED CARNIVAL

All Sorts of Records Expected to Fall In Florida Contests

Daytona, Fla., March 23.—With the firing of the pistol starting the Florida stock car price class race this morning the seventh annual international automobile races on Daytona beach began. The opening race will be followed by twenty-one events, contested on four days, the last event of the speed carnival being a bicycle race on Friday.

It is expected that all sorts of automobile, motor cycle, aeroplane and bicycle records will be broken during the four day tournament. Some of the best automobile drivers of the world are here, and their ranks are re-enforced by motor cyclists and bicyclists of international reputation. The aeroplanists are not so well known, but keen interest is expressed in their contest.

Among the events on the program are the Minneapolis trophy race, the two-mile-a-minute speed crown race, the one mile record race for the Sir Thomas Dewar $2000 trophy, the international free for all race, the motor cycle 100 mile Marathon and the aeroplane speed trials for the cash prizes offered by President Bishop of the Aero Club of America. Of especial interest is the invitation match automobile race, in which George Robertson, Lewis Stang, Herbert Lytle, Ralph de Palma and other noted drivers are entered.

Daytona and the other towns along and near the famous sand course are crowded with visitors from all parts of the United States. A record breaking attendance for the races is assured.

TARIFF DEBATE OPENS

Payne Talks For Over Four Hours In Explaining New Features

Washington, March 23.—The tariff held full sway in the house of representatives Monday. The measure was promptly put before the body immediately after it convened. Mr. Payne (N. Y.), chairman of the committee on ways and means, made an exhaustive speech in explanation of the bill, the time he was actually on his feet being four hours and ten minutes. Then, somewhat fatigued, he postponed the rest of his speech until today.

In speaking of the maximum and minimum features of the bill, Payne predicted that France, Germany and other European countries would hasten to so equalize their duties on American products as to derive the beneft of the minimum rates offered.

BALLOONISTS' FATE REMAINS IN DOUBT

No Trace of Them Since Their Ascent on Saturday

Los Angeles, March 23.—Friends of the six men who ascended from Tournament Park in Pasadena Saturday afternoon in the big balloon America are without word of them or the slightest knowledge of the fate of the intrepid aeronauts. As far as information here goes, no human being has caught sight of the huge gasbag since it rose above the park enclosure, in the sight of 5000 persons.

The belief that a tragic end has befallen the men who formed the party has led to the formation of many relief expeditions into the various parts of the Sierra Madre mountains, directly over which the strong current carried the balloon.

"THE LAW ON TRIAL"

Graft Hunter Heney Makes Long Journey to Deliver a Lecture

New York, March 23.—Clear across the continent for the sake of expressing to the people of New York views on "The Law on Trial" was the trip made by District Attorney Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, the famous graft hunter, who was badly wounded by a criminal a few months ago.

Mr. Heney will speak to the Civic forum in Carnegie hall tonight. He will be introduced to the audience by former Attorney General Bonaparte.

Murder and Suicide

Winsted, Conn., March 23.—Antonio Cifferi, an Italian, 24 years old, shot and killed Mrs. Joseph Lalli, 24 years old, attempted to shoot her two daughters, Rose, 4 years old, and Mary, 2 years old, and then shot himself in the head, dying shortly afterwards. No motive is known for the shooting.

Jeffries Not Ready to Fight

Boston, March 23.—When James J. Jeffries was told of the offer of $100,000 by Chattanooga capitalists for an eight round bout with Jack Johnson he said: "I won't fight until I get into the right shape to deliver the goods."

Knew Their Ways.

Walter, aged seven, is a wise son who knows not only his own father, but his mother as well.

"Now, Walter," said the teacher, "if your father can do a piece of work in one hour and your mother could also do it in one hour, how long would it take both of them to do it?"

"Three hours," answered Walter, "counting the time they would waste in arguing about how it should be done."—Chicago News.

SOUVENIR FROM THE ORIENT

Elks Remembered by Brothers On U. S. S. New Jersey.

An important meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks was held Tuesday evening. Aside from being the annual meeting it was the occasion of the presentation to the lodge of a handsome souvenir by the members of the lodge who are officers on the battleship New Jersey, which has recently returned from a cruise around the world.

The souvenir was a replica of the cover of the dance order used at the first ball of Quincy lodge. It was made in Yokohama, Japan. It is of purple and white silk and was incased in a gilt frame.

Attached to it was a brass tag bearing the names of the donors as follows: E. W. Andrews, Percy Herbert, W. H. F. Schluter, J. H. McDonough and W. H. Sampson.

It is a very handsome affair and will adorn the walls of the club house.

Messrs. Andrews, Herbert, and Schluter are members of Quincy lodge, Mr. McDonough of Annapolis lodge and Mr. Sampson of Brooklyn lodge. All, however, are attached to the New Jersey.

The brothers also spoke interestingly of their trip around the world and recounted many of the incidents of the trip as well as to describe some of the places visited.

At the election the following officers were elected:

Exalted Ruler—William J. Coleman.
Esteemed Leading Knight—James Jeffrey.
Esteemed Loyal Knight—R. J. Williams, Jr.
Esteemed Lecturing Knight—Leo J McMaster.
Secretary—E. W. Courtney.
Treasurer—Benjamin Johnson.
Tyler—Edward Desmond.
Trustee for three years—William T. Shea.
Representative to Grand Lodge—William R. Thomas.
Alternate—D. J. Deasy.

TRANSFERRED TO ROXBURY.

Rev. Julian E. Johnstone Appointed Assistant at St. Teresa's.

The announcement was made Tuesday from the office of Rev. Joseph Anderson, vicar-general of the archdiocese of Boston, that Rev. Julian E. Johnston of St. John's church, Quincy, had been transferred to St. Teresa's church, Roxbury, of which Rev. John F. Broderick is pastor. It was also announced that Rev. Francis H. Houston, formerly of St. Joseph's church, West End and later assistant to Rev. James J. Chittick of Hyde Park, but recently assistant to Fr. Broderick at St. Teresa's had been appointed to succeed Fr. Johnstone at St. John's church.

BRINGS HOME MANY CURIOS

Wollaston Boy Returns From "Round World" Trip.

James Costello of Wollaston avenue, who for the last six months has been on a trip which took him nearly around the world, has returned to Wollaston.

Mr. Costello is a graduate of the Quincy High school of the class of 1907 and after attending Tufts college for a year left it to take the trip.

He left New York on September 19, 1908, as a passenger on the ship Matoppo and after crossin gthe Atlantic and passing through the Strait of Gibraltar the first stop was made at Malta.

The Matoppo is an English ship which carries on trade between the United States and the far east, and left New York laden with machinery.

From Malta after passing through the Suez canal stops were made at many cities in Ceylon, India, the Philippines, China and Japan.

While in Tokio he met a young Japanese student with whom he had coresponded while in High school. When Mr. Costello bade him goodby he was presented with a quaint Japanese medal from watch fob of a Japanese which had been won in a fencing match.

The course then lay from Tokio stopping in Korea and Manchuria, to Fort Arthur.

There Mr. Costello saw the results of the great siege and was greatly impressed by the evidences of the conflict.

The return trip was then made leading at Calcutta with jute, hides, silk and the like. The vessel reached Boston last Friday.

The officers were the guests of Mr. Costello at a theatre party at the Colonial on Monday evening and the ship sailed for New York today.

Mr. Costello is the nephew of Paul Carter who was formerly secretary to the governor general of the Philippines and is now purchasing agent.

To Costello home is a perfect mine of relics and souvenirs from the Orient as a result of Mr. Costello's trip.

To his mother and each of his sisters, among other things, he brought beautiful Japanese crepe kimonas and to his elder sister an elaborate Chinese mandarin's robe which will be worn as an opera cloak.

Among other things were sets of beautiful china, genuine Malta laces, antique Moro vases, a brass fire pot, from the interior of China, odd Korean pipes, Chinese lacquer and mystery boxes and countless other gems.

One of the most valuable articles is a jewel casket intricately carved out of solid ivory, which came from China.

Another of interest is a post-card album with a cover of lacquer inlaid with silver and mother-of-pearl. The leaves are of silk, upon which are hand painted Japanese scenes.

Mr. Costello has no plans for the immediate future but will return to Tufts in the fall.

UPON EVE OF RETIREMENT.

Edward Southworth Given Farewell Reception by Dorchester club.

Edward Southworth of Greenleaf street, who has been headmaster of the Mather school in Dorchester for a number of years, was given a reception by the Father and Mothers' club at the Benjamin Cushing school, Dorchester, Monday evening, which was attended by fully three hundred of his friends.

The reception took the form of a farewell to him as he is about to relinquish his duties, having reached the age limit.

Benjamin H. Hunt Jr. president of the club, presided and an interesting musical program was rendered.

Mr. Southworth gave an interesting talk on the "Relations between parents and schools."

There was also an address on the "Unmaking of a boy" by Rev. George Luther Cady D. D. of the Pilgrim Congregational church.

FOR LARCENY.

George F. Barber Given Six Months in House of Correction.

George F. Barber who was arrested Saturday for the larceny of a print stamp machine from F. H. Crane & Sons, was given a hearing before Judge Avery in the district court this morning. Barber pleaded guilty and was sentenced to six months in the house of correction.

Barber is wanted by Boston officers for the same offence and a Boston officer was in court this morning ready to arrest Barber had he been released.

ARRESTED IN WASHINGTON.

L. P. Hastings Accused of Larceny in Quincy.

Word was received by the police department this morning from Major Sylvester of the Washington, D. C., police of the arrest of Lawrence P. Hastings alais Joseph McIlhenney.

Hastings is wanted by the Quincy police for larceny.

It is alleged that Christmas eve last year he stole a kodak from Cox drug store and $50 worth of fountain pens from the store of C. F. Carlson.

Do You Use A Filter?

We do not wish to alarm you but with our present system of water supply we would suggest that you place in operation on one of your cold water faucets, from which drinking water is drawn, one of our MODERN FILTERS and observe results. The filter is inexpensive and may be operated with ease by a child. Filter pads may be changed as frequently as desired, a pad or two a day if necessary. Renewal pads cost but 25 cents per 150 pieces. If you will call at our shop, we will gladly show you filter and pads after being in use 24 hours. An optical demonstration is the most convincing evidence. Free trial of FILTER at your home, if you desire.

WINTER GARDEN AND SUPPER

Priscilla Sorority Of Point Church Holds Novel Party.

A winter garden party and conundrum supper were held Tuesday in the vestry of the Washintgon Street Congregational church, under the auspices of the Priscilla Sorority. The vestry was decorated prettily with crepe paper of orange and brown, the club colors, and presented an attractive appearance. All about were the different tables and amusements. There were eight in all and they were in charge of the following young ladies: Candy, Miss Elizabeth Auld; target shooting, Miss Elsie Kirby and Miss Ethel Mitchell; punch table, Miss Cora Barnes and Miss Helen Lincoln; grab bag, Miss Helen Sherburne and Miss Mabel Skinner; fortune telling, Miss Clara Buzzell and Miss Ada Gerroir ;smelling table, Miss May Oliver; ice cream, Miss Lillian Eaton. Miss Bertha Smith and Miss Mabel Means acted as waitresses at the conundrum supper.

The matrons of the affair were Mrs. Thomas B .Pollard, Mrs. Thomas L. Lincoln and Mrs. George Bailey. French's orchestra furnished music during the evening.

The conundrum supper was quite a novelty and was the cause of a whole lot of fun. Everything on the menu was numbered and each one ordered accordingly.

No one knew what the numbers stood for, so no one knew what they were to get. It was extremely funny to see what some got. However, as each could order more than once, there was no one hungry.

The girls were dressed in the old Puritan costume of Priscilla and together with the rest of the decorations were very attractive.

Target shooting seemed to be one of the most popular features. The targets were the letters of the girls' names and when a letter was shot off the board ,the girl owning it ,had to give the marksman a prize.

Much credit is due the girls for the successful manner in which they carried out the affair. They looked after all the details, prepared everything and did everything ,except some of the decorating which some obliging young men consented to do. Altogether the affair was very enjoyable and those present are eagerly looking forward to the next one.

BUNCO STEERERS TRIMMED DOCTOR

American Easily Separated From His Money In London

London, March 24.—"How anyone can be deceived by such simple tricks is amazing," said Judge Wallace when he passed sentence on three men who had buncoed Dr. Harriott Hutchins, president of the board of education of Lake county, Mich., out of $1000 in cash and a diamond ring. The judge sentenced the thieves to twenty-one, fifteen and nine months' imprisonment respectively.

The confidence men, according to the testimony, succeeded in getting Hutchins' valuables as a guarantee of good faith, after they had requested him to assist them in the distribution of $50,000 which, according to their story, a philanthropist had left for charitable purposes.

FEATURES OF TARIFF BILL

Those Which Are Criticised Are Discussed by Chairman Payne

Washington, March 24.—Occupying the entire five hours' session of the house Tuesday, Chairman Payne of the committee on ways and means concluded his speech in explanation of the tariff bill.

His arguments covered a wide field. He took the position that the bill would not injure the tin-plate or steel file industries of the United States and that free hides would not be a menace to the farmers. He discussed the inheritance tax at great length and said it was preferable to an income tax, because it would not give rise to perjury or fraud. He held to the view also that an income tax was wholly unconstitutional.

THE BALKAN SITUATION

Extremely Pessimistic Views Continue to Come From Vienna

Berlin, March 24.—The Lokal Anzeiger's Vienna correspondent, quoting an unnamed official, states that all the efforts of the powers to mediate in the Balkan trouble have proved fruitless.

The present situation, he declares, cannot last longer than a few days. Servia must give unequivocal guaranteees by the end of the month of her peaceful intentions. Otherwise only a miracle can avert war.

A dispatch from Vienna to The Tageblatt is similar in tone.

Murdered His Brother

FIRE CAUSED BY GASOLINE

Building In Rear of Music Hall Block Badly Gutted.

The alarm from Box 23 at 2.30 this afternoon was for a stiff blaze in a small building adjoining the blacksmith shop back of Music hall. The fire which was burning briskly would no doubt have proved a serious one had there been any wind.

The building which is owned by the Quincy Real Estate trust was occupied by L. Warshaw and was used as a garment cleaning shop. There was a large amount of gasoline in the building which continued to blaze until it had burnt itself out in spite of the fact that two streams of water was poured into it.

The interior of the building was completely gutted. The roof of the blacksmith shop of Daniel Mannex adjoining was also burned somewhat.

It was very fortunate that the gasoline did not evplode. The location is a dangerous one as there are several old buildings near by. The fire however did not communicate to these.

As the Ledger predicted the bill filed by the Mayor, providing for an amendment to the city charter, making the Mayor chairman of the school committee failed to pass the Legislature.

At the hearings on the bill it was clearly shown that the citizens in general were not in favor of having the school committee drawn into politics, as would surely have happened had the Mayor been made chairman of the school committee.

The Board of Trade is deserving of much praise for bringing the Couch company to Quincy, and we congratulate them for their work in inducing the concern to move their plant here. A concern like this company employing one hundred and twenty-five hands, is not to be had every day, and Quincy citizens should be greatly pleased by the addition of this new industry.

It is a good beginning, and we hope that the work commenced so auspiciously will continue.

New industries are what we need and what we want.

Now that the Board of Trade has succeeded in gaining a new business, it is up to the Citizen's Association to hustle around and see what they can do in the same line.

Although the matter of purchasing a site for a school building at Houghs Neck, was barely touched upon at the council meeting Monday night, from what little was said during the meeting and afterwards it looks now very much as if a more suitable site than the Norteman lot would be selected.

The majority of residents at Houghs Neck are very much opposed to having the new schoolhouse erected on the Norteman lot, and as they are the ones who are to be benefited by the school it is only fair that they should have a voice in the matter.

If the city can purchase the Cavanagh lot at a suitable figure, it should be done. If they cannot they should try still farther leaving the Norteman lot as a last resort.

Although it had been rumored in the street that the minority members of the committee on streets would make a report on the petition of the Citizen's Gas Light company for permits to extend their mains, it was expected that the majority of the council would pass the order giving the company the desired permission.

When, however the order was laid on the table, putting off action on the matter until the next council meeting at least, it was apparent how deep rooted was the plan to force the company to make certain concessions before granting it the right to extend its mains.

If the company agree to reduce its rates, all will probably be well. While on the other hand if they refuse to do so, it will mean a lot of hard work on the part of the Gas company to get the desired permits from the council.

One of the important matters that came before the City Council Monday night, and of which but passing notice was taken at that stage, was the order reported by the Committee on Sewers and Water Supply calling for an appropriation of $72,000.

The order provided that $40,000 of this sum together with the receipts from services should be expended in the purchase of pipe and fitting and the laying of mains to extend the water system of the City. The balance of the appropriation $32,000 the order says shall be expended in the purchase and installation of water meters.

Under the law of the City of Quincy has ten years in which to meter all its water services.

Up to the present time about 2-5 of the services in the city have been metered.

It is evidently the intention, should the order in question pass, to make one job of metering instead of doing it by piecemeal.

Quincy has been crying for cheaper water and more equitable rates but it has been impossible to give them us to the present time.

People who use gas or electricity do not buy these commodities at any fixed charge per service but they pay for what they use. The same should be the plan as to the use of water.

It does not seem fair, and it is not fair or equitable that a family using 20,000 gallons of water per year, should pay the same price as a family using 50,000 gallons as is done now.

Under the present system there is a flat rate of five dollars for one faucet and a rate of something like $20. for a full plumbed house.

There are doubtless some families who have one faucet that do not use five dollars worth of water while there are many who use much more than that amount but pay only the five dollars.

This is particularly true in some of the boarding houses in the Fore River district.

In houses where there are 20 or more boarders the supply of water for them is taken from one service for which the owner pays but $5.

Then there are other houses where small leaks are allowed to go unrepaired and thousands of gallons of water runs to waste.

If all the services in the city were metered the water department could fix a rate of so much per 1000 gallons used and every taker would then only pay for what water was used.

The result would be a great saving in the consumption of water and this department would soon be on a paying basis.

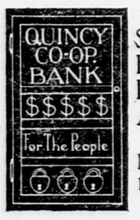

Another argument in favor of making one job of metering is the matter of the purchasing meters.

As purchased at present in small lots there is no reduction, the city being obliged to pay as much by the 100 as if they purchased but one at a time. If however 2,000 or 3,000 could be purchased at one time a considerable saving could probably be made.

Therefore if it is the plan of the committee in reputing the order to make one job of metering the services of the city the order should be passed.

SIERRA MADRE MOUNTAINS

Landing Place of the Balloon America After Two-Hour Trip

PASSENGERS ARE UNHARMED

Wandered Aimlessly Around Desolate District From Saturday Afternoon Until Sunday Afternoon, When They Reached an Isolated Ranch—Suffered From Cold, a Terrific Snowstorm Having Swept Mountains

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—After one of the most harrowing experiences in the history of ballooning, Captain Mueller and five companions, who ascended in the racing balloon America at Pasadena on Saturday, landed in the Sierra Madre mountains Saturday and arrived on foot at Switzer's camp on the slopes of Mt. Wilson unharmed Tuesday.

Many searchers had been scouring the mountains for the aeronauts. The men passed through a series of hardships, the details of which have not reached Los Angeles.

The balloon was in the air less than two hours. It was carried by the strong north wind over the mile high summit of Mt. Lowe, and swept on across the intervening peaks and canyons to the lofty summit of Mt. Gabriel.

Their ballast was thrown out and the balloon soared away towards Strawberry peak in the third range. Crossing this at a low altitude the balloon encountered a strong current of cold air, which brought it rapidly to earth.

A successful landing was effected on the north side of Strawberry peak, in what is known as Little Tejugga canon, about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The distance covered was less than fifteen miles in a direct line, but by any possible foot route it was many times that distance.

The aeronauts wandered aimlessly over the mountains until 1:30 Sunday afternoon, when they unexpectedly came to Colby's ranch, an isolated habitation far from any road and without communication with the outside world.

In the meantime, a terrific snowstorm had swept over the mountains and for hours the men suffered of cold.

At the ranch the party remained until Monday afternoon, when the storm ceased. They immediately took up the snow-choked trail across the mountains toward Pasadena. The party traveled through Monday night and until Tuesday afternoon, when they reached Switzer's camp.

With Captain Mueller in the America were L. B. Gilliam, Richard Halsted, Sydney Gray, Harold Parker and Edward Dodschutz, all residents of Passadena.

MINISTER SHOT TO DEATH

Presbyterian's Life Snuffed Out by a Baptist Preacher

Lebanon, Mo., March 24.—Rev. M. D. Johnson shot and killed Rev. Solomon Odell, following a quarrel at Russ. Johnson is pastor of the Free Will Baptist church and Odell was pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Johnson surrendered.

Johnson, who is a capitalist as well as a preacher, is president of the Laclede County Telephone company. Some of the subscribers, including Odell, made some complaints, and a conference was held. A quarrel developed and later, meeting Odell, Johnson spoke again of the trouble. Odell began pulling off his coat. Then Johnson drew a revolver and fired at Odell.

RETIRES AHEAD OF TIME

Beresford Not In Sympathy With the British Admiralty

London, March 24.—Great Britain loses today the services of its most picturesque admiral, and British private life gains a figure that has been much in the public eye in recent years. The sailor who retires today is Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, who has been in the naval service half a century.

ADMIRAL LORD CHARLES BERESFORD.

According to the usual course of procedure in the British navy, Admiral Beresford would not have been retired until 1911. His retirement now is said to be due to his lack of sympathy with the admiralty and the desire of the naval authorities to group the channel squadron, which he has commanded, with the main fleet, under the command of Vice Admiral May.

Lord Beresford's friends believe that he has been forced out of the navy by the faction that follows Sir John Fisher, first lord of the admiralty, with whom he has recently waged a constant strife.

The press is showing much interest as to whether Lord Beresford will stand for parliament, as he has done before, and debate naval policies.

Admiral Beresford has visited America frequently and has many friends in the United States.

UNANIMOUS VOTE ON ANTI-PASS BILL

New Hampshire Solons Live Up to Platform Pledges

Concord, N. H., March 24.—A stringent anti-pass bill was passed without a dissenting vote by the New Hampshire house of representatives, and it is generally believed that it will also go through the senate.

The persons to whom it shall be legal for railroads or other common carriers to grant free transportation are strictly limited. Railroad employes will be permitted to ride free, but this class is very clearly defined and does not include attorneys employed by a railroad company.

The passage of this act is in line with the platform of both the Republican and Democratic parties in the last campaign.

MOTIVE NOT KNOWN

Michigan Boy Who Was Kidnapped Being Searched For In Toledo

Toledo, March 24.—Toledo police are searching the city for Harold Moon, aged 10, who was kidnapped from his home at Flint, Mich., on Feb. 27, and who, with his captor, is supposed to be here.

A boy answering Harold's description, accompanied by a man, was seen Monday in a gondola car in a Michigan Central train bound for Toledo. Flint citizens have offered a reward of $1300 for the boy's safe return.

In this case no ransom has been demanded and the police are unable to find a motive for the abduction.

WOMAN PLANNED KIDNAPPING

Admission When Placed Under Arrest In Cleveland

MAN IS CAUGHT WITH HER

Most of the $10,000 Secured From Father of Willie Whitla Is Found Concealed In Skirts of the Woman—Both Appeared to Be Intoxicated When Captured and Decline to Explain Possession of Large Sum

Cleveland, March 24.—In the arrest here of a man and woman having $9790 in their possession, the police believe they have captured the kidnappers of Willie Whitla. In fact the woman in the case, who was somewhat befuddled, admitted that she had been responsible for the kidnapping.

When placed in custody she said to Captain Shattuck: "I am the one who planned the whole thing. There will be trouble for me and hell in Sharon."

Beneath the woman's skirts was found $9790. All of it but $40 was bound in packages, with the original slips placed on the money when Whitla took it from the bank still around it.

Captain Shattuck and Detective Wood made the arrests in the east end of the city. When near the police station the man broke away from Wood and ran toward an alley. The police official fired two shots from his revolver into the air and the man stopped. The woman made no attempt to escape.

The woman appeared to be well educated and is refined in manners. She says she spent fifteen years of her life in a convent in Pennsylvania, but denies that she has ever been in trouble before. Both the man and the woman deny that they know the name of the other. They admit they are not man and wife.

According to the police they were intoxicated when placed in custody. Owing to their condition they were not questioned closely by the police and were locked in separate cells. Both will be arraigned in police court on the charge of abduction, according to Wood.

The man and woman thus far have declined to explain the possession of such a large sum of money, or where they came from or their destination.

SHARON CELEBRATES

Citizens Join In Demonstration Over Return of Willie Whitla

Sharon, Pa., March 24.—The whole borough of Sharon turned out last night and participated in the demonstration over the homecoming of Willie Whitla. A big parade was led by the Buhl independent rifles and the National Guard company and the Buhl rifles band, both named for Willie's uncle, and thousands of persons marched behind them through the principal streets of the town to the Whitla home, where fully 5000 persons assembled on the lawn and in front of the house, cheering and giving every evidence of the public participation in the family joy over the recovery of the boy.

The band took a position on the front porch of the Whitla home and played several selections, while the whole crowd cheered frantically. In a front room, visible through a window, were the Whitla family, Willie beside Detective Ward, his father and mother behind the boy.

When calls were made for a speech, Whitla appeared on the porch, accompanied by Rev. Albert J. McCartney of the First Presbyterian church, who briefly expressed the joy of fellow citizens over the recovery of the boy.

Mr. Whitla then addressed the throng. He extended his thanks to all the officials and individuals who had assisted in the search for the boy, expressed the gratitude of himself and family for the sympathy of the people, which he said had done so much to help the family bear up during the darkest hours of their sorrow. He suggested that children be taught by their parents to fear strangers and to make an outcry whenever any stranger should attempt to induce children to accompany him. With the singing of the "Doxology" by several thousand voices, the demonstration was ended.

Kidnapping Scenes Barred

Detroit, March 24.—All moving picture shows in this city and theatres which show moving pictures have been notified by the police that they will not be permitted to show any scenes hereafter of the kidnapping of children.

Calhoun Case Drags

San Francisco, March 24.—There has been no addition to the roll of jurors in the trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, indicted on a charge of having offered a bribe to a former supervisor. Seven hundred talesmen have been examined thus far.

Prohibition Bill Killed

St. Paul, March 24.—In the house of representatives the bill prohibiting the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors in this state was killed. The anti-treating bill was also killed.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

NEIGHBORING.

Mrs. Sarah Weld Smith of Swampscott, who was on March 17th elected to the regency of the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, is a charming woman and well known in club circles. She was the first president of the Friday club of Everett and is active in club work in Swampscott.

Last week the Melrose Woman's club voted to erect a club-house at a cost not exceeding $12,000; land $2,000 and building $10,000. The building will not be started until the entire fund is completed. A committee has been elected to raise the money and secure plans for the building.

The Newton Social Science club at its meeting on March 17 had the question of "Billboards and Civic Improvement" presented by Mr. Edward F. Hartman, secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League. Mr. Hartman considered the most effective way to get rid of this, or any other civic nuisance, is to arouse public opinion to such a degree against them that there will be no resisting and they will come down almost of themselves. The movement on the part of a few will be of little avail. Yet the few may succeed in starting public sentiment sufficiently to be effective. This week the subject of "Playgrounds" was presented by Mr. Thomas Curley of Waltham. These subjects follow quite naturally and appropriately after the club's study of the ideal city as means by which it may be attained.

The Industrial and Child Labor committee announce that two bills have been introduced in congress to create a National Children's Bureau at Washington and they have the endorsement of the executive board of the General Federation of Women's clubs. Such a bureau, it is stated, would investigate and report on all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and of child life and would especially investigate the question of infant mortality, the birthrate, physical degeneracy, orphanage, juvenile delinquency, juvenile courts, dangerous occupations, employment, accidents and diseases of children.

The committee further states:

"The work of the women throughout the country must concentrate on these bills. Women are a great force in securing the passage of the pure food bill. We can be of service in securing a bill for a national children's bureau, if each state does its share of work."

The committee specially urges club women in each state to write to the two senators from her state and to her own congressional representative asking their support of this measure.

The committee also states the following facts which are of the utmost importance and are recommended for the consideration of club women.

"The movement for workmen's compensation for industrial accidents is sweeping over this country and we cannot afford to remain unmoved by the increasing number of accidents which cause each year more deaths in our industrial army than many a bloody war. The burden of such a loss by accidents rests, at present, for a large part on the mothers, and is therefore a fit subject for the Federation's interests. Bills are being introduced in some of the states calling for a state commission to investigate this subject. We would ask our members to notice if such legislation is pending in their states and keep this committee informed of its status.

"Referring specifically to our interest in the abolishment of child labor, we desire to urge upon all women that they must not abate one particle in their efforts to obtain state legislation on this vital subject. No personal interest that any one from any section may feel in a federal law such as has been proposed, but the constitutionality of which is in question must relax in efforts for better state laws.

"The women in many states have had wonderful success in securing protective laws for the children. They must go on toward something even stronger. In addition to obtaining new legislation, we must see that operative laws are enforced.

"The condition under which women work must be carefully scrutinized, and tactful efforts to obtain better environment and conditions for all work-women will always meet with a measure of success. The employer must not be approached as if he were the enemy of either the woman or the child, for he is often ready to be the friend, if his attention be properly called to any improper condition that may exist. No one set of people is responsible for any dark feature that are a blot upon our industrial prosperity. In some measure by being partakers of the prosperity of the times we are all responsible for conditions.

Information regarding the work of the committee, legislation and advice may be obtained from the chairman, Helen Varick Boswell, 29 East 29th street, New York city, or of Mrs. William Burlingame, Exeter, N. H., who is chairman of the district comprising the states of Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania.

DIAMOND—BERMAN.

South Quincy Couple Wed in Electa Hall.

A pretty wedding took place Tuesday evening in Electa hall, when Louis Diamond, son of David Diamond of South Quincy, was united in marriage to Dora Berman, also of South Quincy. Rev. Julius Sandolavitz performed the ceremony, and he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Wolk of East Boston. The wedding was attended by a large number of relatives and friends from Quincy and surrounding cities and towns.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white lace and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Mrs. Harry Berman as matron of honor, and the following bridesmaids: Mrs. Louis Berman, Miss Annie Berman, Mrs. George Berman, Mrs. H. Sarkin and Miss Alice Silver. Harry Berman, brother of the bride, was best man. The bride was given away by Mr. and Mrs. Berman, the latter being the bride's sister. The bride has no parents here. Harry Berman, George Berman, Louis Berman Canner and Max Abramson acted as ushers.

After the ceremony was performed the grand march took place, about seventy-five couples participating. The march ended in the banquet hall where a supper was served. After which dancing was in order, and the guests enjoyed themselves until 12 o'clock. Wilson's orchestra furnished the music.

BOWLING.

The Bucko's defeated the Rousers three straight at the Houghs Neck Associates' alleys Tuesday night. The Rousers broke the low score record. "Phil" Catarius of the Buckos was high with 273 with Hammond of the same team a close second with 269. Frank Catarius of the Rousers was low with 213.

The score was as follows:

THERE'S A REASON

why one kind of hosiery for men will wear so many times longer than other kinds WITHOUT HOLES OR DARNING. A good reason, too, for it's the new

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

That makes all the difference in the world. We have taken up this new hosiery because we realize it is just what every man wants. A LIGHT WEIGHT, FINE TEXTURE sock that will give LONG WEAR WITHOUT DARNING. Because of this wonderful toe and heel a lisle sock is made which will outwear the heaviest, most clumsy hosiery with the ordinary double toe and heel.

Try these. 25c. will buy a pair and one pair will show you the difference.

WOMAN PLANNED KIDNAPPING

Admission When Placed Under Arrest In Cleveland

MAN IS CAUGHT WITH HER

Most of the $10,000 Secured From Father of Willie Whitla Is Found Concealed In Skirts of the Woman—Both Appeared to Be Intoxicated When Captured and Decline to Explain Possession of Large Sum

Cleveland, March 24.—In the arrest here of a man and woman having $9790 in their possession, the police believe they have captured the kidnappers of Willie Whitla. In fact the woman in the case, who was somewhat befuddled, admitted that she had been responsible for the kidnapping.

When placed in custody she said to Captain Shattuck: "I am the one who planned the whole thing. There will be trouble for me and hell in Sharon."

Beneath the woman's skirts was found $9790. All of it but $40 was bound in packages, with the original slips placed on the money when Whitla took it from the bank still around it.

Captain Shattuck and Detective Wood made the arrests in the east end of the city. When near the police station the man broke away from Wood and ran toward an alley. The police official fired two shots from his revolver into the air and the man stopped. The woman made no attempt to escape.

The woman appeared to be well educated and is refined in manners. She says she spent fifteen years of her life in a convent in Pennsylvania, but denies that she has ever been in trouble before. Both the man and the woman deny that they know the name of the other. They admit they are not man and wife.

According to the police they were intoxicated when placed in custody. Owing to their condition they were not questioned closely by the police and were locked in separate cells. Both will be arraigned in police court on the charge of abduction, according to Wood.

The man and woman thus far have declined to explain the possession of such a large sum of money, or where they came from or their destination.

SHARON CELEBRATES

Citizens Join In Demonstration Over Return of Willie Whitla

Sharon, Pa., March 24.—The whole borough of Sharon turned out last night and participated in the demonstration over the homecoming of Willie Whitla. A big parade was led by the Buhl independent rifles and the National Guard company and the Buhl rifles band, both named for Willie's uncle, and thousands of persons marched behind them through the principal streets of the town to the Whitla home, where fully 5000 persons assembled on the lawn and in front of the house, cheering and giving every evidence of the public participation in the family joy over the recovery of the boy.

The band took a position on the front porch of the Whitla home and played several selections, while the whole crowd cheered frantically. In a front room, visible through a window, were the Whitla family, Willie beside Detective Ward, his father and mother behind the boy.

When calls were made for a speech, Whitla appeared on the porch, accompanied by Rev. Albert J. McCartney of the First Presbyterian church, who briefly expressed the joy of fellow citizens over the recovery of the boy.

Mr. Whitla then addressed the throng. He extended his thanks to all the officials and individuals who had assisted in the search for the boy, expressed the gratitude of himself and family for the sympathy of the people, which he said had done so much to help the family bear up during the darkest hours of their sorrow. He suggested that children be taught by their parents to fear strangers and to make an outcry whenever any stranger should attempt to induce children to accompany him. With the singing of the "Doxology" by several thousand voices, the demonstration was ended.

Kidnapping Scenes Barred

Detroit, March 24.—All moving picture shows in this city and theatres which show moving pictures have been notified by the police that they will not be permitted to show any scenes hereafter of the kidnapping of children.

Calhoun Case Drags

San Francisco, March 24.—There has been no addition to the roll of jurors in the trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, indicted on a charge of having offered a bribe to a former supervisor. Seven hundred talesmen have been examined thus far.

Prohibition Bill Killed

St. Paul, March 24.—In the house of representatives the bill prohibiting the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors in this state was killed. The anti-treating bill was also killed.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

NEIGHBORING.

Mrs. Sarah Weld Smith of Swampscott, who was on March 17th elected to the regency of the State Society of the Daughters of the Revolution, is a charming woman and well known in club circles. She was the first president of the Friday club of Everett and is active in club work in Swampscott.

Last week the Melrose Woman's club voted to erect a club-house at a cost not exceeding $12,000; land $2,000 and building $10,000. The building will not be started until the entire fund is completed. A committee has been elected to raise the money and secure plans for the building.

The Newton Social Science club at its meeting on March 17 had the question of "Billboards and Civic Improvement" presented by Mr. Edward F. Hartman, secretary of the Massachusetts Civic League. Mr. Hartman considered the most effective way to get rid of this, or any other civic nuisance, is to arouse public opinion to such a degree against them that there will be no resisting and they will come down almost of themselves. The movement on the part of a few will be of little avail. Yet the few may succeed in starting public sentiment sufficiently to be effective. This week the subject of "Playgrounds" was presented by Mr. Thomas Curley of Waltham. These subjects follow quite naturally and appropriately after the club's study of the ideal city as means by which it may be attained.

The Industrial and Child Labor committee announce that two bills have been introduced in congress to create a National Children's Bureau at Washington and they have the endorsement of the executive board of the General Federation of Women's clubs. Such a bureau, it is stated, would investigate and report on all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and of child life and would especially investigate the question of infant mortality, the birthrate, physical degeneracy, orphanage, juvenile delinquency, juvenile courts, dangerous occupations, employment, accidents and diseases of children.

The committee further states:

"The work of the women throughout the country must concentrate on these bills. Women are a great force in securing the passage of the pure food bill. We can be of service in securing a bill for a national children's bureau, if each state does its share of work."

The committee specially urges club women in each state to write to the two senators from her state and to her own congressional representative asking their support of this measure.

The committee also states the following facts which are of the utmost importance and are recommended for the consideration of club women.

"The movement for workmen's compensation for industrial accidents is sweeping over this country and we cannot afford to remain unmoved by the increasing number of accidents which cause each year more deaths in our industrial army than many a bloody war. The burden of such a loss by accidents rests, at present, for a large part on the mothers, and is therefore a fit subject for the Federation's interests. Bills are being introduced in some of the states calling for a state commission to investigate this subject. We would ask our members to notice if such legislation is pending in their states and keep this committee informed of its status.

"Referring specifically to our interest in the abolishment of child labor, we desire to urge upon all women that they must not abate one particle in their efforts to obtain state legislation on this vital subject. No personal interest that any one from any section may feel in a federal law such as has been proposed, but the constitutionality of which is in question must relax in efforts for better state laws.

"The women in many states have had wonderful success in securing protective laws for the children. They must go on toward something even stronger. In addition to obtaining new legislation, we must see that operative laws are enforced.

"The condition under which women work must be carefully scrutinized, and tactful efforts to obtain better environment and conditions for all work-women will always meet with a measure of success. The employer must not be approached as if he were the enemy of either the woman or the child, for he is often ready to be the friend, if his attention be properly called to any improper condition that may exist. No one set of people is responsible for any dark feature that are a blot upon our industrial prosperity. In some measure by being partakers of the prosperity of the times we are all responsible for conditions.

Information regarding the work of the committee, legislation and advice may be obtained from the chairman, Helen Varick Boswell, 29 East 29th street, New York city, or of Mrs. William Burlingame, Exeter, N. H., who is chairman of the district comprising the states of Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania.

DIAMOND—BERMAN.

South Quincy Couple Wed in Electa Hall.

A pretty wedding took place Tuesday evening in Electa hall, when Louis Diamond, son of David Diamond of South Quincy, was united in marriage to Dora Berman, also of South Quincy. Rev. Julius Sandolavitz performed the ceremony, and he was assisted by Rev. Mr. Wolk of East Boston. The wedding was attended by a large number of relatives and friends from Quincy and surrounding cities and towns.

The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white lace and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Mrs. Harry Berman as matron of honor, and the following bridesmaids: Mrs. Louis Berman, Miss Annie Berman, Mrs. George Berman, Mrs. H. Sarkin and Miss Alice Silver. Harry Berman, brother of the bride, was best man. The bride was given away by Mr. and Mrs. Berman, the latter being the bride's sister. The bride has no parents here. Harry Berman, George Berman, Louis Berman Canner and Max Abramson acted as ushers.

After the ceremony was performed the grand march took place, about seventy-five couples participating. The march ended in the banquet hall where a supper was served. After which dancing was in order, and the guests enjoyed themselves until 12 o'clock. Wilson's orchestra furnished the music.

BOWLING.

The Bucko's defeated the Rousers three straight at the Houghs Neck Associates' alleys Tuesday night. The Rousers broke the low score record. "Phil" Catarius of the Buckos was high with 273 with Hammond of the same team a close second with 269. Frank Catarius of the Rousers was low with 213.

The score was as follows:

THERE'S A REASON

why one kind of hosiery for men will wear so many times longer than other kinds WITHOUT HOLES OR DARNING. A good reason, too, for it's the new

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

That makes all the difference in the world. We have taken up this new hosiery because we realize it is just what every man wants. A LIGHT WEIGHT, FINE TEXTURE sock that will give LONG WEAR WITHOUT DARNING. Because of this wonderful toe and heel a lisle sock is made which will outwear the heaviest, most clumsy hosiery with the ordinary double toe and heel.

Try these. 25c. will buy a pair and one pair will show you the difference.

BRIEFS

The Wollaston Glee club announces another concert to take place just after Easter, the date set being Wednesday, April 14.

Mrs. Ross K. Whiton of Hancock street, corner of Saville avenue, is hostess Thursday afternoon for the monthly meeting of the Hospital Aid association.

At the Wollaston Y. P. R. union meeting on Sunday evening in the Unitarian vestry Mr. Walter Lacy will be the leader and Mrs. Robert E. Park the speaker with "Choosing a Soul" as the subject.

The regular cribbage party of the Washington Social club was held Tuesday night. George Thurber won the first prize, while the second was captured by George T. Hammond. All the games were close and exciting.

The Quincy baseball club of the Old Colony league met Tuesday night and elected the following officers: John Faircloth, president; John Ford, secretary; George A. Bolster, treasurer and Sydney Patterson, manager.

Charles Veno, aged 10, who was taken to the City Hospital last week to be treated for hip disease, died there Tuesday night. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Veno of Washington street and was in the third grade of the Washington school.

The closing entertainment of the Unity club program for this season promises to be most entertaining. Mr. Willard E. Keyes has charge of the program with "Short Studies in Human Nature," as the general subject divided as follows: bores, difficult people, the young person, the great divide.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of George F. Barber for the larceny of a private stamp machine at Quincy from F. H. Crane & Sons was heard and he was sentenced to 6 months in the House of Correction.

Charles Havey was sent to the state farm for drunkenness at Cohasset.

Peter Tallon was arraigned for assault on his wife at Braintree and was ordered to give $200 bonds to keep the peace for three months.

Adolph E. Goreff was arraigned for larceny at Quincy. Case continued until Thursday to allow him to make restitution.

—Some of the notable events which happened on a Friday are worth recording. For instance: Queen Victoria was married on a Friday; George Washington was born on a Friday, as too, were Shakespeare and Napoleon Bonaparte; America was discovered on a Friday; King Charles I. was beheaded on a Friday; Julius Caesar was assassinated on a Friday; Joan of Arc was burnt at the stake on Friday; the Bastille was distroyed on a Friday; and the Battle of Waterloo was fought on a Friday.

—We examine in our dark-room with modern instruments. If we find disease we send you to a reliable oculist. Williams 1473 Hancock street.

POLAR REGION SECRETS BARED

Shackleton's Expedition Penetrates Far to the South

ALMOST REACHED THE GOAL

Party Turned Back When Within 111 Miles of the Pole—Reached Magnetic Pole and Discovered Eight Mountain Chains—Other Accomplishments of Great Geographical Importance—Endured Privations

London, March 24.—Lieutenant Ernest H. Shackleton of the British navy, who left his permanent quarters last autumn for a dash to the pole, has succeeded, after an arduous sledge journey of 1708 miles, which occupied 126 days, in reaching within 111 miles of the South Pole, or 354 miles nearer than the distance attained by the "Discovery" expedition, of which he was an officer.

As the expedition to the south was undertaken rather for the purpose of geographical survey than with the idea of reaching the pole itself, it may be said to have succeeded beyond the most sanguine expectations.

Profiting by former experiences in the Antarctic regions, when all the dogs succumbed to the strain and rigors of the climate, Shackleton made some departures from the usual preparations for a journey across the snow and ice. He took with him a motor car which could be converted into a sledge, and substituted ponies for dogs and light woolen clothes for heavy furs.

The main expedition, of which Shackleton was in command, reached latitude 88.23, longitude 162 east, while a second party pushed forward to the soutnern magnetic pole, reaching latitude 72.25, longitude 154 east. The British flag was left flying at both points.

The narrative of Shackleton's achievment shows that the expedition endured the greatest trials and privations. The motor-car, which was useful in the preliminary expeditions, failed on the uneven surface of the barrier ice.

Briefly summarized, the results of the expedition are that a point was reached within 111 miles of the South Pole. The magnetic pole was also reached. Eight mountain chains were discovered and more than 100 mountains. Mount Erebus, 13,120 feet in altitude, was ascended by the party. New coasts and high mountains were located running west from Victoria land, and coal measures were discovered in the Antarctic continent. The theory of the existence of an area of atmospheric calm around the South Pole was disproved.

Lieutenant Shackleford reports that the South Pole is doubtless situated on a pleateau 10,000 to 11,000 feet above the sea level. The new mountains' altitude range from 3000 to 12,000 feet approximately. The violent blizzards in lattitude 88 degrees show that if the so-called "polar calm" exists it must be small in area or not coincident with the geographical pole.

"Peaceful Picketing" Bill Beaten

Boston, March 24.—An attempt to get the "peaceful picketing" bill, in the petition of J. R. Crozier of the American Federation of Labor, before the Massachusetts senate was lost by a vote of 25 to 10.

Hoppe Wins Again

St. Louis, March 24.—William Hoppe defeated Charlie Peterson in the third block of their 19.2 billiard match here by a score of 400 to 192.

Senatorial Deadlock Still On

Springfield, Ills., March 4.—The forty-eighth joint ballot of the Illinois legislature for United States senator resulted in no choice.

WOLLASTON

Dr. George W. King of People's Temple, Boston, will speak on the subject of "Visions" at the meeting of the Wollaston Methodist club to be held on Thursday evening, March 25. An invitation has been extended the members of the Congregational club to attend this meeting.

At the election of Lay delegates to the Methodist Conference to be held in Lowell the first week in April, the Wollaston church selected Mr. A. N. Murray and George Taylor to represent the church.

On Sunday morning Rev. W. J. Heath will preach his farewell sermon at the Wollaston M. E. church. This will end a pastorate of six years in the Wollaston church, which is a long term for a Methodist church, for up to recent date the time was limited to five years in one charge. Very few preachers have a record such as Mr. Heath's, fifty-one years of active ministry and still a powerful forceful speaker is uncommon in church history.

In a series of five games for the two pair championship of the New England Whist Association, in which nine teams were entered, team B of the American Whist club, composed of Fuller, Childs, Eaton and Hoxie, won the trophy with 33 1-2 plus.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

A conference of Women's Auxiliaries to the Young Men's Christian associations of the Fourth District is to be held on Tuesday of next week, in the Baptist church of North Abington beginning at ten o'clock. Lunch is to be served at noon, by the Abington Auxiliary. Mrs. Amos Albee is on the committee of arrangements and Mrs. E. W. Sheppard is among the speakers at the morning session.

* * *

During Lent the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church will meet Friday afternoons at half past two for sewing and social intercourse.

* * *

The Hospital Aid association meets Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ross K. Whiton of Hancock street.

* * *

Mrs. Henry M. Faxon is hostess for the Friday club this week and Miss Edith Randall in charge of the program, which should be interesting in her hands as her frequent visits to Venice qualify her to handle entertainingly the subject, "Walks in Venice as Seen and Described by Famous Women."

* * *

But two more meetings of Quincy Alliance will be held this season; April 12th when Miss Emma C. Low president of the National Alliance will address the meeting, and on April 26th when the annual meeting will be held with reports and election of officers.

* * *

E. B. Bird, of Wollaston Park, is to have an exhibition of book plates in the Arts and Crafts room at the Quincy Women's club house on April 13th. Being the date of the Arts and Crafts' afternoon when Anna Seaton Schmidt is to speak, club members will, at the same time, enjoy Mr. Bird's exhibit.

* * *

The program for the Wollaston Alliance, on March 31, is not down on the season's program but is to be announced.

* * *

Junior Friday club meets on Monday afternoon with Miss Alice Keith Prescott of Spear street, when "Foreign residents in Rome" will be discussed under the leadership of Mrs. William Whitney of Wollaston.

* * *

Junior Alliance of First church is to hold a cake and candy sale on Saturday afternoon to raise funds for its work.

* * *

The play given so successfully in February by the Program committee of the Quincy Women's club, is to be repeated on Saturday afternoon, April 3d, for the benefit of the Quincy Day Nursery association.

* * *

A theatre party consisting of the members of the Roundabout club; Miss Helen Curtin, Miss Louise Hinkley, Miss Georgianna Priest, Miss Ardelia Barber, Miss Mary Farrell, Miss Cora Harding, Miss May Buckley, Miss Florence Hill, Mrs. Fred M. Burditt. Miss May Buckley, Miss Martha Jenkins enjoyed seeing "Her Own Way" at the Castle Square theatre, Boston, on Tuesday evening. The club will meet with Miss Curtin next Tuesday evening.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB. ....

President's day will go down in the club history of 1908-09 as another delightful afternoon. Tuesday afternoon the clubhouse was taxed to its limit to accommodate guests and club members some 300 who gathered to enjoy the program prepared by Mrs. George W. Morton, president of the club.

After a few words of greeting Mrs. Morton called the meeting to order for a short business session. Reports were given by the secretaries and the announcement made that there were one hundred names on the waiting list. The by-laws were amended so that the club dues are now payable before May first.

Mrs. Otho A. Hayward for the Music committee reported that $60 was realized by the Salmon recital for the tuberculosis work.

Mrs. Charles R. Safford for the Education committee spoke of the Children's Festival to be held at Quincy Music hall on the afternoon of April 24th and asked club members to assist by contributing may-baskets, candy etc.

Mrs. Morton made announcement of the annual dramatics of the Brockton Woman's club on April 12 also that the dramatics of the Philergians to have been held April 6 had been postponed to April 20 on account of illness of two members of the cast. To fill in the date there would be an arts and crafts exhibit and a talk by Mrs. Overholser.

Following is the afternoon's program:

Greetings of Club by the President
Mrs. George W. Morton
Club Hymn Irene Chipman Tirrell
Sung by Audience
Our Club Work Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth
"The Potent Germ" Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney
"The Absent Guest" Gibson
Maud McLean Ferguson
Spinning Song, from the "Flying Dutchman" Wagner
Double Quartette
"Mrs. Cummidge Soliloquizes" Dickens
Mrs. John F. Welch
"On Wings of Song" Mendelssohn
"Au Du Sonneuschein" Schumann
"The Maiden's Wish" Chopin
Mrs. Frank A Page
"Cyrano de Bergerac," Act 3 Rostand
Mrs Ferguson
"May Song" Thuringia
Double Quartette

In announcing the program Mrs. Morton said it was almost entirely by club talent and would open with the singing of the Club hymn written by Mrs. Henry W. Tirrell, as follows:

CLUB HYMN.

Tune: "Fair Harvard."

We meet here to-day where a dearly loved home,
An altar to memory uprears,
Once more to commune with the spirit of hope
And the spirit of faith without fears,
To blend this fair light with the spirit of right
Through the length and the trial of years,
May we ever press onward, or ever turn back
Till the angel of judgment appears.

O judgment of mortals that knows us alway,
And presses us close in the throng,
Be gentle with us in all failure or loss,
That may come to the weak or the strong,
For the day must be bright that has everything right,
And the day must be dark that is wrong,
But God shall know best how to crown all the works,
That His love and His mercy prolong.

Irene Chipman Tirrell

Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, 2d vice president gave a brief resume of the club history; how Dr. Brackett had given the use of the house which had been an incentive to active club life and good work in Quincy. She told how the club house was used; the ground floor for club meetings and how the second floor was divided. The southerly suite was used by the Visiting Nurse as her home and from it she each day visited the sick carrying comfort to many suffers. The northerly room was used by the Education committee and in it the committee met and planned their work of summer schools, for their work does not stop with the club year in May. The rooms on the front and west side were used by the Arts and Crafts committee. Here was a hand loom that was always busy and an exhibit of fine handicraft. Also in these rooms were classes for millinery, dressmaking, leather and stencil work.

The small room at the head of the stairs was used by the Civic committee. Although the room was small the committee did big work. Had had a tuberculosis exhibit, established penny savings in the public schools. Hospitality committee had no room as the whole house was theirs. This committee made the social life of the club run smoothly and looked after the wants of the inner man (woman.)

Another committee which had no room but whose works were far reaching was the Philanthropy committee but their work was done so quietly that the left hand did not know what the right was doing. She knew personally of women tired of the heat of the city being entertained by the committee at the club house.

The Music committee by its fine programs had made club members better and happier and also helped create a music loving and music producing community.

The Art and Literature committee had held exhibitions by members and also outside people can exhibit here. The Program committee had been an important factor in this year's program and had recently given a play which was received with much enthusiasm. Nothing is a success without a head and today we honor our head, our president, Mrs. George W. Morton.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney 1st vice president said the friendly disposed ever fall into rhyme and the following verses speak for themselves:

THE POTENT GERM.

Far away in distant Eden
In the year of the world called one,
There lived a lone man and woman
And of other folks there were none.

But there were beasts without number
Opossum—and bear and camel—
From the reptiles and birds of the tertiary age
Way up to a full grown mammal.

And Adam had work a plenty
For he was the beasts' name-maker
And he made them live up to the names that he gave
For he was no nature fakir.

But Eve had nothing at all to do
Her life was monotonous, very;
There were no books to read,—she couldn't play bridge,
And she knew naught of millinery.

And I'm sure that you will with me agree—
That life would be dreadfully narrow,
If all we could do was to talk to a snake
Or chat with an English sparrow.

Now the snake was a sinuous, subtle beast
He was just "chock full" of evil—
And they say (tho' it's not at all nice to repeat)
That his Christian name was the Devil.

And he tempted Eve—But I need not repeat
The legend grim and hoary;
For every one who is well brought up,
Is acquainted with the story.

Enough that she fell—and her husband and she
Eat the apple—justly famous.
Tho' you'd think Adam never had a bite
By the way the men-folks blame us.

But he did. He took the best of the fruit,
For that's man's prorogative.
And to Eve who was just as hungry as he
He only the core did give.

Now in the heart of the core that she eat,
Imbedded deep and firm—
So that quite unconscious she swallowed it
Lay hidden The Potent Germ

The potent germ of divine discontent
That makes for the world's salvation;
And when it works in a human heart
It results in organization.

This discontent with things as they were Made Eve long to make them better
And I'm sure she'd have done much more than she did,
If Adam would only let her.

For while he was moping, sulky and sad,
And quite given over to grieving,
She opened an Arts and Crafts Exchange,
Beginning with fig leaf weaving.

And when they were driven far away
From the scene of their sweet communion,
She nagged her husband as women will—
Till he joined a Labor Union.

And when her little ones came to her
She said to each—"O my sweeting!
For you I will start a Childs' Nurture Club,
Or perhaps a Mother's meeting."

And I know that it's very frequently said,
Tho' to hear it gives me pain,
That she gadded about, neglected her home,
And left Adam to raise Cain.

And that was why Cain turned out so bad,
But the argument's most unstable
The only reason that Cain wasn't good
Was just 'cause he wasn't Able.

To speak of Eve's boys I'd like to make
A very slight diversion
And when one's writing such stuff as this,
To diverge is no exertion.

The boys grew up as all boys will
For years alas! won't tarry—
And when they had reached a suitable age,
They both determined to marry.

To know where the young men found their wives,
Has puzzled all creation.
But 'tis plain that their mother met the girls
At the General Federation.

To return to my theme, the snake saw Eve
Grow stronger than he'd e'er thought her.
And he trembled with fear as he saw her power
Descend to every daughter.

And he roused himself with a mighty oath,
To deeds that were most inhuman;
To kill the soul of each man on earth,
To break the heart of each woman.

And war and murder, greed and graft,
Spread abroad by the Serpent's venom,
Built prisons dark for the sons of men
When vice and crime should pen 'em.

And the voices of children no more were heard
In bright and joyous singing
For the Serpent struck at the little ones
And hushed them with his stinging.

But the Potent Germ of Divine discontent
In the Daughters of Eve was burning
And to make things better than they were,
Each woman's heart was yearning.

'Twas a woman who heard the childrens' cry
She saw their sad tears glisten.
And the glowing words from her impassioned pen
They made the whole world listen.

'Twas a woman who went to the battlefield,
To nurse the sick and dying,
And the wounded men—kissed her shadow that fell
On the cots where they were lying.

'Twas a woman who entered the prisons dark,
The abodes of gloom and sorrow,
And order and cheer, at her word shown forth
And hope of a glad tomorrow.

'Twas a woman who noted the cruel wrong,
In slavery's relation
And the story she told—stirred to righteous war
A great and mighty nation.

'Twas a woman that saw the gleaming light
Of a hundred camp-fires glowing
And she thrilled all hearts by the song she sang
Of the Lord of wrath's out-going.

And the Daughters of Eve joined hands with these
To work for the world's salvation.
For the Potent Germ of Divine discontent
Results in Organization.

And as he listens and watches and waits
The Serpent's growing weary.
For he knows that when women together work.
The prospect for him is dreary.

And daughters of Eve—we are doing our part,
To give the old snake a drub.
For the very best weapon to use against him
Is an active Woman's Club.

Mrs. Ferguson made a decided hit in her readings, especially in the childish renderings and was heartily encored, giving five selections; three in response to encores.

In the double quartet were Mrs. Edith Cary Page, Mrs. F. A. Page, Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Mrs. Hunting, Mrs. Nickerson, Miss Litchfield and Miss C. F. Spear. Mrs. Slade was unable to be present. Their selections were good and finely rendered. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. John F. Welch as Mrs. Gummage made a decided hit and was recalled.

Mrs. F. A. Page in her solos sang with feeling and expression which always gives her audience pleasure.

After the closing selection by the quartet the president invited all to enjoy a social cup of tea. Miss Alice Keith Prescott was in charge of the of the hospitality and the pourers were Miss Abigail Baxter Wood, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchneld, Mrs. Alfred R. Remick and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon. The assistants were: in the dining room—Mrs. Perry Lawton, Mrs. Fenimore Andrews, Mrs. Frank A. Emery, Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs, Mrs. John Christiansen; Mrs. H. Everett Crane, Mrs. George H. Brown, Mrs. Henry M. Wright, Miss Marjorie Rideout and Miss Almira Simmons; in the reception room—Mrs. Alfred P. Thompson, Mrs. William H. Whitney, Mrs. James L. Edwards, Mrs. John B. Cornish, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Mrs. Ernest D. Gourd, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., in the large room—Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. Harry W. Read, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Mrs. Clarence Burgin, and Miss Georgiana C. Lane. All the club members participated in the hospitality, greeting guests and assisting with the refreshments.

Spring flowers tulips and daffies decorated the tables and at the president's desk was a large bunch of pinks. Each guest on arrival was presented a daffy which added to the springlike effect. A guest of special honor was the president's husband, Mr. George W. Morton, who was most cordially greeted by club members.

Among the clubs sending representatives were the Hyde Park, Brockton, Winchester, Watertown, Brightelsmstone of Brighton, Rockland, Dorchester Fortnightly, New Hampshire Daughters, Medford, Council of Jewish Women, Randolph, Braintree, Newton Federation, Newton Centre, Roxburghe, Norwood, Milton, Walpole, East Boston, Everett, Monday club of Weymouth, New England Press Association and the Quincy clubs, the Women's Auxiliary Y. M. C. A., Daughters Revolution, Catholic Charity Club, Day Nursery, Women's Christian Temperance Union, Hospital Aid Association, Junior Friday Club, Friday Club, Unity Circle of King's Daughters, Charitable Ten King's Daughters, Reapers' Circle King's Daughters, Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters.

Regrets were received from the South Framingham club, Dorchester Woman's club, Malden, Peabody, Physiological club, Jamaica Plain, Woman's Charity club and Old Colony of Weymouth.

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

Fifty were present at the Alliance meeting in First Church parlor on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Morton, president, as usual conducted the meeting.

Following the devotional and business session there was music to open the afternoon program, Mrs. Laurance H. Sturtevant singing "Four leaf Clover" by Coombs and "Pussy Willow" by Mildenburg. Mrs. Clarence Burgin accompanied at the piano.

Mrs. Abbie Perry of Framingham gave a paper on "A disciple of John the Baptist," which was listened to with earnest attention. The true humility of John the Baptist, furnished the thread of Mrs. Perry's discourse. No character can be great without this quality. Like John the Baptist, we must prepare the way for the one who is to come who is greater in our work or in our friendship. We forget that we needs must love the highest when we see it. To the question "Is Christianity a failure, "there is no answer, as no one has tried it. The practical use of trying to be like John the Baptist, is that we come to be at peace with our ideals; to be able to distinguish real from unreal; to be a messenger of God to our fellowmen. The test of holiness today is that we are able to stand unmoved under anything that comes, because we understand."

The discussion which followed the paper, brought out a psychological side of the subject which was of peculiar interest.

Neighboring clubs continued on inside pages.

THE Young Men's Christian Association OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title Incorporated 1852.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries

OUR HOSPITAL
(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St Quincy, or the Treasurer RICHARD D CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries

ANNUAL MEETING OF POINT CHURCH

Officers Elected And Routine Business Transacted.

The annual parish supper and meeting of the Washington street Congregational church was held Wednesday evening in the vestry and was largely attended. At 6.30 a supper was served by the ladies of the church and was pronounced one of the best.

After the supper was over the meeting was called to order, Eugene R. Stone presiding as moderator. Dr. E. H. Bushnell was clerk. Both were re-elected to their respective offices. It was reported that ten new members had been added to the parish since the last meeting a year ago.

Reports were read from Rev. Alfred R. Atwood, pastor; H. D. Adams, treasurer; Charles Sherburne, auditor; Dr. E. H. Bushnell, prudential committee; Mrs. Rollin H. Newcomb and Mrs. H. D. Adams, for the Ladies Aid society. All the reports showed success during the year past and augured well for the future.

The following officers and committees were then elected: treasurer, Marcus E. Wight, to succeed H. D. Adams who had served for many years. Mr. Adams was given a vote of thanks for his long and faithful service; auditor, Charles Sherburne; prudential committee, H. E. Bonney, William E. Lee and H. H. I. Smith; musical committee, James Melville, Harry Sherburne, Thomas B. Pollard, James W. Hendry, Miss Margaret Shirley and Mrs. James Melville; finance committee, Eugene R. Stone, Thomas B. Pollard, James Melville, John Hendry and Miss E. M. Freeman.

It was announced that the affairs of the church were in very good condition, considering the hard times passed through during the last year.

A vote of thanks was also extended to the members of the Ladies Aid Society for the good they have done both socially and financially.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

Joint Committee To Consider Matter Monday Evening.

The joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings of the City Council to whom the order for the purchase of a school lot at Houghs Neck was referred, will meet next Monday evening to consider the matter. As petitions have been presented for and against the purchase of the Norteman lot the committee has decided to invite all interested in the purchase of a lot to appear before them at this meeting. These parties will be heard at 7.30 o'clock after which the committee will consider the matter.

SENDS BOOKS TO FACTORIES.

The Cambridge Public Library is extending its usefulness, establishing sub-stations at factories. This distribution has come about through the cooperation of shop workers of the Cambridge Young Men's Christian Association with the superintendents of the factories and Clarence Ayer, the librarian. Although the plan has not yet had a fair trial, everything points to its success. Lots of fifty books are sent and returned weekly and the demand already is so large that the supply very likely will be increased. The people whom this distribution benefits are mainly foreigners; unless the books are taken to them it is not probable that they will take advantage of the opportunity afforded by a visit to the library or its branches. The plan, therefore, brings books to them with scarcely any effort on their part and it cultivates the habit among them of getting acquainted with good literature and, what is more important, in a general way is a means of education of people who now constitute a considerable part of the city's population.

ANNUAL REPORT.

In the annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, President Theodore N. Vail sets forth the usual statistics, which indicate by the growth of the business the place which the telephone holds with the public.

There was a total of 4,364,629 telephone stations connected to the Bell system as against 3,839,000 at the close of the previous year, an increase of 525,629 stations. Of the total, there were 1,103,144 exchange and toll stations connected to the Bell system by toll or long-distance lines, but operated by some 7,700 local, co-operative, and rural independent companies or associations having sub-stations or connection contracts.

MUSIC HALL.

Quincy Music hall will give another grand matinee next Saturday afternoon especially for women and children.

The performance will be exactly the same as in the evening. Jack Payne will again lead the singing school for the young folks and a very pleasant afternoon may be expected.

One of the biggest and funniest acts ever seen in Quincy has been engaged for Saturday afternoon and evening in Bates and Ernest the men who can make you laugh, no matter how blue you may feel. This high-class team of performers have played in all of the largest vaudeville houses in this country and it is quite a feather in the cap of the manager to be able to secure them for Quincy. Two other acts, two new illustrated songs and four thousand feet of moving pictures lasting two hours.

PREACHES HIS FAREWELL SERMON

Touching Scene when Rev. J. E. Johnstone Says Good Bye

Never before in the history of St. Johns church, has there been such a demonstration of universal sorrow and such tribute to popularity as took place Wednesday at the regular Lenten services, when it was rumored that Rev. Julian E. Johnstone was to say goodbye to the people of Quincy on the eve of his departure to another parish.

Rev. Fr. Johnstone has been appointed to St. Teresa's parish, West Roxbury, and as he leaves before the end of the week, he took the opportunity of saying goodbye Wednesday night. The big church was crowded to the doors with Fr. Johnstone's admirers from all over Quincy, for when he came here St. Mary's and the Sacred Heart churches were in St. John's parish and he was well known in both churches.

The crowd taxed the seating capacity and filled the vestibules while many stood in the aisles. When Fr. Johnstone appeared on the altar he was visibly affected by the vast crowd that was present. It was a demonstration and a tribute seldom given to a man and something that will never be forgotten.

After the recitation of the rosary, Fr. Johnstone preached a very touching sermon on "The Character and Manhood of Jesus Christ." He began with the birth of Christ, telling of the humble circumstances in which He was born. Fr. Johnstone told of the trials that Christ had passed through and described the wonderful patience with which He had borne with everything.

Fr. Johnstone urged all the people to try and follow in the footsteps of Jesus Christ and to bear without a complaint whatever might happen.

When Fr. Johnstone finished his sermon he stopped for a few minutes. Not a sound was audible in the church. Everyone waited for the good priest's farewell.

Fr. Johnstone began. "My dear friends, I must now say a few words of goodbye." He was forced to pause here, for the sobs of sorrow could be heard all over the church. Fr. Johnstone himself was overcome by this demonstration and could not continue for a few minutes. When he regained his composure he said, "Don't cry, for I do not want to break down."

Fr. Johnstone said it was one of the saddest duties of his life, to stand up and say goodbye to the people of Quincy among whom he had lived and labored for thirteen years. I have come to love Quincy and its people with an undying affection, with a love that can not pass away. He said, "I don't know how I can ever become contented anywhere else, but like the Master, I will bear it without a murmur."

Fr. Johnstone said he wished to ask pardon of all those whom he had ever injured in any way, and that he freely forgave all those who had ever said or done anything against him. He said he would never forget the many kindnesses that had been shown him since he came to Quincy. "Wherever I may go, said Fr. Johnstone, "whether it be 100 or 10,000 miles from Quincy, my heart and my soul will always be with you and with this old historical city.

He asked all to pray for him and said that he would surely pray for them. He also extended a cordial invitation to all to come out to West Roxbury to see him.

Fr. Johnstone said further: "I also wish to thank my Protestant friends and wish they were here tonight. I wish you to thank them for me."

Fr. Johnstone then thanked all the societies of the church, especially praising the teachers of the Sunday school of which he had charge, and the members of the Holy Name society of which he was the spiritual director.

The large audience was held spellbound by his oratory and tears were in nearly every eye when Fr. Johnstone closed his sermon with "Farewell and God bless you."

Rev. Julian E. Johnstone was born in Boston in November 1868. His early education was received in the Lincoln Grammar school and Boston English high. He then entered Boston College grdauating in 1891 with honors, and entered the seminary at Niagara University to study for the priesthood. He was ordained May 30, 1896, came to Quincy at once and has stayed here ever since.

As a student in the public schools, college, seminary and later as a priest, Fr. Johnstone's career has been one of continued successes. While at the Lincoln school he won $20 in gold for the best essay on "Daniel O'Connell" and while a student at English High, he won the Franklin medal, one of the highest honors to be obtained at this old school.

His success as a scholar contin-

QUINCY SOCIETY MUCH IN EVIDENCE

Reception Held in Braintree For Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Patch

A very pretty reception was held Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin King Patch, who were married several weeks ago.

The reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Williams of Middle street, Braintree.

Mr. Patch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Patch of Quincy and is very well known in the younger social set. Mrs. Patch is very popular in the social circles of Braintree.

The affair was attended by about 500 friends of the young copule, from Quincy, Braintree, Boston, Weymouth, and surrounding towns.

In the receiving party were Mr. and Mrs. George E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Patch and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin King Patch.

The ushers were friends of Mr. and Mrs. Patch and were, Alvah M. Dow, Harry Drake, Eric Patch and Lorenzo D. Gilson.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout with ivy, palms and roses. The balustrades and stairways were decorated with yellow jonquils and evergreen, the whole presenting a brilliant scene in the glare of the many electric lights.

From the house to the garage a canopy was erected and after the guests arrived, this was transformed in a beautiful dining room, the decorations here being the same as in the rest of the house, roses and palms.

Tapestries adorned the walls and the tables were decked with beautiful pinks and roses. At one end, completely hidden by a mass of potted plants and flowers, an orchestra sent forth beutiful strains of music.

The affair was one of the most brilliant events of the social season.

ON DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. D. J. Kiley Dies Suddenly at Houghs Neck.

Mrs. D. J. Kiley died at her home on Babcock street, Houghs Neck at ten fifteen Wednesday night.

Her daughter Gertrude was celebrating her fourteenth birthday with a party when her mother died. Mrs. Kiley had made arrangements for the party two weeks ago and when taken ill in the afternoon refused to have the party postponed and told her little daughter to let the guests have a good time as she enjoyed their noise and laughter. Early in the evening Mrs. Kiley called her daughter into her room and presented her with a locket and chain, saying that she thought that this would be the last birthday party she would live to see.

About twenty children gathered at the home at about eight o'clock. Shortly before ten they were told to eat refreshments which were there and go home as Mrs. Kiley was getting worse. The children left about ten fifteen and Doctor Ash was called. As the last child left the house Mrs. Kiley died.

Mrs. Kiley had complained of being sick and told her husband that she was not going to live very long but nothing was thought of it as she looked healthy. She was very well known in Roxbury where she lived previous to coming to Houghs Neck.

She is survived by her husband and two daughters and one son.

VICTIM OF UNREQUITED LOVE.

A woman, unrequited love, jealousy and intoxicating liquor were a combination that resulted in quite a commotion in a Granite street barber shop early Wednesday evening.

The woman had looked too long and often on the bright red wine and had then seen her lover walking with another fair one. It was too much for any one to bear especially this woman. She desired vengeance and vengance she would have. Grabbing a big rock she rushed into the barber shop intent upon doing up the object of her affections whom she believed might be there.

The proprietor who happened to be the only occupant of the shop explained to the woman that he friend was not there but to no avail.

Officer Johnson appeared on the scene about this time. He tackled the infuriated woman and had quite a tussle holding her until the patrol wagon arrived and she was rolled away to the stone building on School street.

This morning when the woman had sobered up she was allowed to depart in peace.

NEW SCHOOL SITE DISCUSSED

Houghs Neck Associates Hold Lively Meeting

The matter of a school house sito at Houghs Neck was settled as far as the people of Houghs Neck were concerned, at a regular meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates held Wednesday evening.

That the great majority of the people do not want the school to be built on the Norteman lot was easily seen by their actions and talk at this meeting. Henry W. French as chairman of the school committee, made a report for that committee. Daniel J. Maloney, first vice president of the Associates, made a motion that the report of the committee be rejected and that the committee be discharged. After considerable discussion the motion carried by a large vote. Captain Oliver G. Fosdick, a member of that school committee made a short address and told about his part part in the committee's work and declared that as far as he was concerned he had done just as he was instructed to do by the association. As a result of the school committee being discharged, Henry French tendered his resignation from all committees. President Baird refused to accept his resignation and left the chair and took the floor and told about the good work done by French in the past.

Ernest Norteman, representing his father told about the advantages of the lot that his father had offered to the city for a school house site. James E. Wall, representing the Peterson estate offered a lot on the corner of Sea and Winthrop streets. Neil J. Regan spoke in favor of the lot on Cavanagh's farm.

On a motion of Niel J. Regan it was voted that a roll call be taken to see what lot was desired by the Houghs Neck people for a school house.

It was also voted that a two-thirds vote would be necessary. The vote was as follows those favoring the Cavanagh lot 47, for Norteman lot 11, for the Peterson lot 4, refused to vote 3.

A new school committee consisting of Oliver G. Fosdick, William P. Taylor, James E. Wall, Frederick Brooks, and Captain Ross Y. Woodbury was elected from the floor. They were instructed to do all they could to have the city purchase a lot on Cavanagh's frm for athe site of the proposed school house.

It was voted that a committee of three be appointed to inspect the by-laws and revise any section of them considered wrong. The following committees made reports that were accepted as progressive, express, street, membership ,garbage, sewers, and drains, ways and means and secretary's. The meeting, which was by far the livliest one that was ever held since the organization was started, was adjourned at midnight.

BETHANY MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Annaul Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. E. W. Sheppard.

Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard was the hostess at the meeting of the Missionary society of the Bethany church which was held Wednesday afternoon at her home on Greenleaf street.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Vaite who with her husband is doing missionary work among the Greeks of Boston and vicinity. Mrs. Vaite's talk was on her work and was very interesting.

Mrs. N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston sang a group of songs.

During the afternoon refreshments were served by Miss Addie Parks and Miss Wetherel and Mrs. J. F. Welch.

The meeting was also the annual one of the society and these officers were elected·

President—Mrs. Charles W. Miller.

Vice Presidents—Mrs. Farnk W. Crane and Mrs. George A. Sidelinger.

Secretary—Mrs. A. L. Melcher.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL LOT.

Joint Committee To Consider Matter Monday Evening.

The joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings of the City Council to whom the order for the purchase of a school lot at Houghs Neck was referred, will meet next Monday evening to consider the matter. As petitions have been presented for and against the purchase of the Norteman lot the committee has decided to invite all interested in the purchase of a lot to appear before them at this meeting. These parties will be heard at 7.30 o'clock after which the committee will consider the matter.

SENDS BOOKS TO FACTORIES.

The Cambridge Public Library is extending its usefulness, establishing sub-stations at factories. This distribution has come about through the cooperation of shop workers of the Cambridge Young Men's Christian Association with the superintendents of the factories and Clarence Ayer, the librarian. Although the plan has not yet had a fair trial, everything points to its success. Lots of fifty books are sent and returned weekly and the demand already is so large that the supply very likely will be increased. The people whom this distribution benefits are mainly foreigners; unless the books are taken to them it is not probable that they will take advantage of the opportunity afforded by a visit to the library or its branches. The plan, therefore, brings books to them with scarcely any effort on their part and it cultivates the habit among them of getting acquainted with good literature and, what is more important, in a general way is a means of education of people who now constitute a considerable part of the city's population.

ANNUAL REPORT.

In the annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, President Theodore N. Vail sets forth the usual statistics, which indicate by the growth of the business the place which the telephone holds with the public.

There was a total of 4,364,629 telephone stations connected to the Bell system as against 3,839,000 at the close of the previous year, an increase of 525,629 stations. Of the total, there were 1,103,144 exchange and toll stations connected to the Bell system by toll or long-distance lines, but operated by some 7,700 local, co-operative, and rural independent companies or associations having sub-stations or connection contracts.

MUSIC HALL.

Quincy Music hall will give another grand matinee next Saturday afternoon especially for women and children.

The performance will be exactly the same as in the evening. Jack Payne will again lead the singing school for the young folks and a very pleasant afternoon may be expected.

One of the biggest and funniest acts ever seen in Quincy has been engaged for Saturday afternoon and evening in Bates and Ernest the men who can make you laugh, no matter how blue you may feel. This high-class team of performers have played in all of the largest vaudeville houses in this country and it is quite a feather in the cap of the manager to be able to secure them for Quincy. Two other acts, two new illustrated songs and four thousand feet of moving pictures lasting two hours.

PREACHES HIS FAREWELL SERMON

Touching Scene when Rev. J. E. Johnstone Says Good Bye

Never before in the history of St. Johns church, has there been such a demonstration of universal sorrow and such tribute to popularity as took place Wednesday at the regular Lenten services, when it was rumored that Rev. Julian E. Johnstone was to say goodbye to the people of Quincy on the eve of his departure to another parish.

Rev. Fr. Johnstone has been appointed to St. Teresa's parish, West Roxbury, and as he leaves before the end of the week, he took the opportunity of saying goodbye Wednesday night. The big church was crowded to the doors with Fr. Johnstone's admirers from all over Quincy, for when he came here St. Mary's and the Sacred Heart churches were in St. John's parish and he was well known in both churches.

The crowd taxed the seating capacity and filled the vestibules while many stood in the aisles. When Fr. Johnstone appeared on the altar he was visibly affected by the vast crowd that was present. It was a demonstration and a tribute seldom given to a man and something that will never be forgotten.

After the recitation of the rosary, Fr. Johnstone preached a very touching sermon on "The Character and Manhood of Jesus Christ." He began with the birth of Christ, telling of the humble circumstances in which He was born. Fr. Johnstone told of the trials that Christ had passed through and described the wonderful patience with which He had borne with everything.

Fr. Johnstone urged all the people to try and follow in the footsteps of Jesus Christ and to bear without a complaint whatever might happen.

When Fr. Johnstone finished his sermon he stopped for a few minutes. Not a sound was audible in the church. Everyone waited for the good priest's farewell.

Fr. Johnstone began. "My dear friends, I must now say a few words of goodbye." He was forced to pause here, for the sobs of sorrow could be heard all over the church. Fr. Johnstone himself was overcome by this demonstration and could not continue for a few minutes. When he regained his composure he said, "Don't cry, for I do not want to break down."

Fr. Johnstone said it was one of the saddest duties of his life, to stand up and say goodbye to the people of Quincy among whom he had lived and labored for thirteen years. I have come to love Quincy and its people with an undying affection, with a love that can not pass away. He said, "I don't know how I can ever become contented anywhere else, but like the Master, I will bear it without a murmur."

Fr. Johnstone said he wished to ask pardon of all those whom he had ever injured in any way, and that he freely forgave all those who had ever said or done anything against him. He said he would never forget the many kindnesses that had been shown him since he came to Quincy. "Wherever I may go, said Fr. Johnstone, "whether it be 100 or 10,000 miles from Quincy, my heart and my soul will always be with you and with this old historical city.

He asked all to pray for him and said that he would surely pray for them. He also extended a cordial invitation to all to come out to West Roxbury to see him.

Fr. Johnstone said further: "I also wish to thank my Protestant friends and wish they were here tonight. I wish you to thank them for me."

Fr. Johnstone then thanked all the societies of the church, especially praising the teachers of the Sunday school of which he had charge, and the members of the Holy Name society of which he was the spiritual director.

The large audience was held spellbound by his oratory and tears were in nearly every eye when Fr. Johnstone closed his sermon with "Farewell and God bless you."

Rev. Julian E. Johnstone was born in Boston in November 1868. His early education was received in the Lincoln Grammar school and Boston English high. He then entered Boston College grdauating in 1891 with honors, and entered the seminary at Niagara University to study for the priesthood. He was ordained May 30, 1896, came to Quincy at once and has stayed here ever since.

As a student in the public schools, college, seminary and later as a priest, Fr. Johnstone's career has been one of continued successes. While at the Lincoln school he won $20 in gold for the best essay on "Daniel O'Connell" and while a student at English High, he won the Franklin medal, one of the highest honors to be obtained at this old school.

His success as a scholar contin-

QUINCY SOCIETY MUCH IN EVIDENCE

Reception Held in Braintree For Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Patch

A very pretty reception was held Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin King Patch, who were married several weeks ago.

The reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Williams of Middle street, Braintree.

Mr. Patch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Patch of Quincy and is very well known in the younger social set. Mrs. Patch is very popular in the social circles of Braintree.

The affair was attended by about 500 friends of the young copule, from Quincy, Braintree, Boston, Weymouth, and surrounding towns.

In the receiving party were Mr. and Mrs. George E. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Patch and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin King Patch.

The ushers were friends of Mr. and Mrs. Patch and were, Alvah M. Dow, Harry Drake, Eric Patch and Lorenzo D. Gilson.

The house was beautifully decorated throughout with ivy, palms and roses. The balustrades and stairways were decorated with yellow jonquils and evergreen, the whole presenting a brilliant scene in the glare of the many electric lights.

From the house to the garage a canopy was erected and after the guests arrived, this was transformed in a beautiful dining room, the decorations here being the same as in the rest of the house, roses and palms.

Tapestries adorned the walls and the tables were decked with beautiful pinks and roses. At one end, completely hidden by a mass of potted plants and flowers, an orchestra sent forth beutiful strains of music.

The affair was one of the most brilliant events of the social season.

ON DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. D. J. Kiley Dies Suddenly at Houghs Neck.

Mrs. D. J. Kiley died at her home on Babcock street, Houghs Neck at ten fifteen Wednesday night.

Her daughter Gertrude was celebrating her fourteenth birthday with a party when her mother died. Mrs. Kiley had made arrangements for the party two weeks ago and when taken ill in the afternoon refused to have the party postponed and told her little daughter to let the guests have a good time as she enjoyed their noise and laughter. Early in the evening Mrs. Kiley called her daughter into her room and presented her with a locket and chain, saying that she thought that this would be the last birthday party she would live to see.

About twenty children gathered at the home at about eight o'clock. Shortly before ten they were told to eat refreshments which were there and go home as Mrs. Kiley was getting worse. The children left about ten fifteen and Doctor Ash was called. As the last child left the house Mrs. Kiley died.

Mrs. Kiley had complained of being sick and told her husband that she was not going to live very long but nothing was thought of it as she looked healthy. She was very well known in Roxbury where she lived previous to coming to Houghs Neck.

She is survived by her husband and two daughters and one son.

VICTIM OF UNREQUITED LOVE.

A woman, unrequited love, jealousy and intoxicating liquor were a combination that resulted in quite a commotion in a Granite street barber shop early Wednesday evening.

The woman had looked too long and often on the bright red wine and had then seen her lover walking with another fair one. It was too much for any one to bear especially this woman. She desired vengeance and vengance she would have. Grabbing a big rock she rushed into the barber shop intent upon doing up the object of her affections whom she believed might be there.

The proprietor who happened to be the only occupant of the shop explained to the woman that he friend was not there but to no avail.

Officer Johnson appeared on the scene about this time. He tackled the infuriated woman and had quite a tussle holding her until the patrol wagon arrived and she was rolled away to the stone building on School street.

This morning when the woman had sobered up she was allowed to depart in peace.

NEW SCHOOL SITE DISCUSSED

Houghs Neck Associates Hold Lively Meeting

The matter of a school house site at Houghs Neck was settled as far as the people of Houghs Neck were concerned, at a regular meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates held Wednesday evening.

That the great majority of the people do not want the school to be built on the Norteman lot was easily seen by their actions and talk at this meeting. Henry W. French as chairman of the school committee, made a report for that committee. Daniel J. Maloney, first vice president of the Associates, made a motion that the report of the committee be rejected and that the committee be discharged. After considerable discussion the motion carried by a large vote. Captain Oliver G. Fosdick, a member of that school committee made a short address and told about his part part in the committee's work and declared that as far as he was concerned he had done just as he was instructed to do by the association. As a result of the school committee being discharged, Henry French tendered his resignation from all committees. President Baird refused to accept his resignation and left the chair and took the floor and told about the good work done by French in the past.

Ernest Norteman, representing his father told about the advantages of the lot that his father had offered to the city for a school house site. James E. Wall, representing the Peterson estate offered a lot on the corner of Sea and Winthrop streets. Neil J. Regan spoke in favor of the lot on Cavanagh's farm.

On a motion of Niel J. Regan it was voted that a roll call be taken to see what lot was desired by the Houghs Neck people for a school house.

It was also voted that a two-thirds vote would be necessary. The vote was as follows those favoring the Cavanagh lot 47, for Norteman lot 11, for the Peterson lot 4, refused to vote 3.

A new school committee consisting of Oliver G. Fosdick, William P. Taylor, James E. Wall, Frederick Brooks, and Captain Ross Y. Woodbury was elected from the floor. They were instructed to do all they could to have the city purchase a lot on Cavanagh's frm for athe site of the proposed school house.

It was voted that a committee of three be appointed to inspect the by-laws and revise any section of them considered wrong. The following committees made reports that were accepted as progressive, express, street, membership, garbage, sewers, and drains, ways and means and secretary's. The meeting, which was by far the livliest one that was ever held since the organization was started, was adjourned at midnight.

BETHANY MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Annaul Meeting Held at Home of Mrs. E. W. Sheppard.

Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard was the hostess at the meeting of the Missionary society of the Bethany church which was held Wednesday afternoon at her home on Greenleaf street.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Vaite who with her husband is doing missionary work among the Greeks of Boston and vicinity. Mrs. Vaite's talk was on her work and was very interesting.

Mrs. N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston sang a group of songs.

During the afternoon refreshments were served by Miss Addie Parks and Miss Wetherel and Mrs. J. F. Welch.

The meeting was also the annual one of the society and these officers were elected:

President—Mrs. Charles W. Miller.
Vice Presidents—Mrs. Farnk W. Crane and Mrs. George A. Sidelinger.
Secretary—Mrs. A. L. Melcher.

Roosevelt, the private citizen seems to be just as popular as Roosevelt, the President.

"Come take a trip in my airship" may become as common as "come for an auto ride" was five years ago.

The United States government considers the investigation of the preservative treatment of timber of such importance that the business of one branch of a bureau in the Department of Agriculture—the "Office of Wood Preservation" in the Forest Service at Washington, is given over entirely to the work of experiments in co-operation with railroad companies and individuals in prolonging the life of railroad ties, mine props, bridge timbers, fence posts and transmission poles. Advice and practical assistance is furnished all who request this advice of the Forester. The lengthening of life of timber means the saving of thousands of dollars annually through doing away with the heavy expense of labor and cost of material for renewals.

According to a writer in the Boston Globe Mayor Shea is quoted as saying that he expects Quincy will double in population in the present generation.

At first thought it would seem as if the Mayor was a trifle too optimistic, but when one stops to consider the fact that in the last eighteen years Quincy has almost doubled in population, the Mayor's claim does not seem so impossible after all.

Every year Boston is becoming more and more overcrowded, and the residents of the "Hub" are continually getting farther and farther away from the centre of the city. Brookline and Newton are fast filling up, as are many of the other towns surrounding Boston. Then, what is more likely, than that when these places are filled,, people will turn to Quincy for a residence.

The order introduced in the Council meeting Monday night, by councilman Nowland, requesting the Mayor to communicate with Henry M. Faxon and find out the smallest figure the lot, adjoining the new Coddington school building, could be purchased for, by the city, will meet with the approval of the citizens in general and particularly with the parents of the children who attend the Coddington school.

The idea is to make the lot into a playground, providing the city can buy it at a reasonable price.

The land is especially well adapted to this purpose, and with a small outlay of money, could be made into an ideal place for pupils of the Coddington school and others to play in.

Within three years the city must provide suitable playgrounds for the children, therefore the purchase of the Faxon lot would not be a luxury but would only mean that the city was complying with the law a little ahead of the time limit.

If the amendments to the building ordinance, as proposed by the order offered by Councilman Hadlock, at Monday nights meeting of the City Council, becomes a law they will do much toward improving the class of buildings hereafter erected at Houghs Neck, Wollaston beach and Squantum.

When the present ordinance was enacted two years ago it was rushed through with but little consideration, for the reason that it was near the end of the year, and it was desirable that some ordinance should be passed immediately.

Previous to that time the matter of a building ordinance had been before City Councils for several years.

The framers of the ordinance as originally passed, realized that there were several things in it that should be changed but lack of time prevented.

The ordinance as it stands today divides the city into three fire districts known as distinct one, two and three. All the restrictions in the ordinance apply only to districts one and two no restrictions whatever being placed on district three which included Houghs Neck, Wollaston beach and Squantum.

The result has been that many shacks have been erected in this district. In fact they are not only unsightly and a detriment to the adjoining property but also dangerous from a fire point of view.

The proposed amendments places district three in the same class as the other two districts of the city and as noted above will have a tendancy to compel a better class of buildings being erected in the future.

In addition to this there were several other sections in the present ordinance that need revising in the mind of the Inspector of Buildings and these are taken care of in the order mentioned.

NO SUSPENSION OF COAL MINING

Men Are to Remain at Work After the First of April

POLICY COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Permits Three Executive Boards to Make Any Concessions They Deem Necessary—Lewis Says Responsibility For Any Suspension Will Rest Upon Operators—Leaders Against Appointment of Commission

Scranton, Pa., March 25.—Last night, after reaffirming the demands already presented to the operators, the anthracite miners in convention voted to remain at work after April 1 under the terms of the agreement of 1906, and to allow the union's district executive boards in the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania to continue their efforts to seek an agreement with the operators satisfactory to the men.

The miners were instructed by the convention to stay at work until otherwise notified by the official representatives of the three anthracite districts and the executive boards were instructed to negotiate an agreement upon such basis as the boards in their judgment believe the conditions warrant.

Upon the reading of the report of the special committee to define the policy of the anthracite miners, as above outlined, there was silence in the hall which was broken by President Lewis, who asked if there were any remarks. A delegate moved its adoption, which motion was quickly seconded. For a moment it looked as if the most important report of the convention would go to a vote without debate, but a delegate arose and asked what would happen if the operators would not let the miners go to work after April 1.

President Lewis replied: "If the employers will not let the men continue at work, the responsibility for the suspension will rest upon the operators."

The convention was called to act upon a resolution looking to arbitration as a final solution if the men and their employers cannot agree. The resolution in substances asked President Taft to create a commission similar to the one appointed by President Roosevelt in 1902. A heated debate followed, with the result that the resolution was referred to the three executive boards. Nearly all the leaders were against it and it may never be put into effect by the boards.

While a suspension of coal mining by the men has been avoided for the present, there is still a possibility of a strike, but it is remote. The report of the special committee instructing the three executive boards as to what policy to pursue gives the boards wide latitude and permits them to make any concessions they deem necessary.

The final speech of the night was made by President Lewis, who told the men to stand together and to unitedly support their representatives. With a final word to the delegates to "go home and build up the organization" the convention adjourned sine die.

President Lewis left for Indianapolis today and it is probable a conference with the operators will be held next week, either in Philadelphia or in New York.

ASKED TO LEAVE HUSBAND

Poison Administered to Woman Who Refused to Do So

Vincennes, Ind., March 25.—Mrs. Jessie Overton Culbertson is dying, it is said, as the result of having carbolic acid forced down her throat and having her jaws afterwards securely bound.

She was found in a shed back of her home. Revived for a few seconds, she said: "A man and a woman dragged me into the woodshed and poured something down my throat."

The police attribute the crime to jealousy. They have held a letter purporting to be from a jealous woman. The letter was found under Mrs. Culbertson's doorstep. It warned her to give up her husband under penalty of death.

Cambridge, Mass., March 25.—Ten years in the women's prison at Sherborn was the sentence imposed on Mrs. Rose A. Silsby for the murder of Clinton E. Childs, at her home in Waltham on Sept. 24, 1908.

In commenting on the case Judge Sherman said that it ought to be a warning to wives who have as good husbands as Silsby seemed to be. To the husband Sherman gave all his sympathy.

Mrs. Silsby, who had heretofore maintained a rather stolid, unemotional front, broke down completely, and with her husband, wept.

Gray Hair Restored
My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head
For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

OFFER OF CRIMINALS

Bribe of $600,000 a Year Rejected by Gotham's Police Commissioner

New York, March 25.—A dishonest man holding the position of police commissioner in New York city might easily become a millionaire in a few months, so great are the opportunities for illicit gains, according to a statement by Commissioner Bingham.

During Bingham's first year in the office, he said, a single bribe of $600,000 a year was offered him if he would protect certain criminal interests.

"Compliance with the conditions of the offer, he added, "would have been entirely of a negative matter—all they wanted was to be let alone."

Bingham was worked up over the refusal of the city aldermen to vote him an appropriation of $100,000 for a secret service to investigate Black Hand crimes and other matters. He referred to the sum as a paltry one compared with the amounts which the criminal interests are willing to pay to obstruct and prevent the operation of the law.

Bingham declined to give the name of the man who had made the offer, nor would he say what interests had sought protection.

SHACKLETON PRAISED

Keen Appreciation of His Efforts In Behalf of Science

London, March 25.—Lieutenant Shackleton's achievements and discoveries have brought a chorus of praise and admiration from other explorers, geographers and scientists.

Louis C. Bernacci, who was physicist to the Discovery Antarctic expedition in 1901-4, says that the sledge journey of 126 days under such conditions as were described was one of the most magnificent feats in the annals of polar exploration.

Mr. Bernacchi is of the opinion that the geological and other results of the expedition corroborate the belief that the Antarctic region was at some remote period far warmer than it is now and also that the signs of less severe glaciation show that the climate is growing warmer and the ice cap on the Antarctic continent is diminishing and receding.

CARNEGIE TALKS ON BIG NAVIES

Thinks Great Britain Responsible For "Fatuous Blunder"

New York, March 25.—The growing tendency towards bigger and more formidable navies shown by the leading nations of Europe, and now by the United States, was denounced by Andrew Carnegie at the International Peace festival, held under the auspices of the Peace Society of the City of New York.

"An explanation of this deplorable condition," said Carnegie, "is to be found in the fatuous blunder of the government of Britain in creating a new class of battleships, the so-called Dreadnaughts, which have a displacement of 26,000 tons."

Mr. Carnegie advanced the theory that no one or two nations should be permitted to disturb the peace of the world. France, Great Britain and Germany, he said, could compel observance of this rule if banded together for that purpose. It was by a tacit understanding of this kind between the United States and Mexico, he declared, that the turbulent republics of Central America had been made to keep the peace. What had been done in Central America, he thought, could be done throughout the world.

JUSTICE NAAR RESIGNS

Adopted a Peculiar Method For Fining Auto Speeders

Trenton, March 25.—Manfred Naar, the Trenton justice of the peace who was threatened with impeachment at the suggestion of the Automobile Club of America, has placed his resignation in the hands of Governor Fort.

Naar would have a machine timed if it was going at a rate higher than the law permits and then inform its owner by postal card that he was fined for the offense. The fine would be paid through the mails, and in this way, it is alleged, about 250 persons settled their bills for over-speeding without going near the justice.

Naar says there was nothing illegal or fraudulent in his procedure.

Methodist Church Burned

Stoneham, Mass., March 25.—The Methodist Episcopal church here was badly damaged by fire last evening. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Several churches and schools nearby caught fire, but were saved. What caused the fire is unknown, but defective wiring is understood to have been responsible.

NEWS IN BRIEF

President Taft has accepted an invitation to attend the Mecklenburg celebration at Charlotte, N. C., May 20.

The yellow fever is gradually disappearing from Barbadoes, there having been only twenty new cases in the last month.

WOMAN KEEPS HER COUNSEL

The Probable Moving Spirit In the Whitla Kidnapping

ACTED AS WILLIE'S "NURSE"

Boy Establishes Connecting Link Between Her and the Offense—Husband Is Implicated, but Her Actual Identity Is Shrouded In Mystery—Sharon Full of Whispers of an Impending Scandal

Cleveland, March 25.—A woman, whose actual identity is as much enshrouded in mystery as it was when she was arrested on suspicion of being involved in the kidnapping of Willie Whitla, was the moving spirit in the famous case, the police charge.

Beyond the assertion of James H. Boyle, her companion and alleged coconspirator, that she is his wife, not a word can be obtained to clear the situation.

Sweated thoroughly by the police, the woman, beyond breaking down and giving way to tears, keeps her counsel.

"That is the woman who acted as the nurse," Willie Whitla said when he first saw "Mrs. Boyle."

"Hello, Willie," the woman exclaimed as she laid her hand upon the boy's head and for an instant fondly caressed him.

The woman and the boy met in the private office of Chief of Police Kohler. The boy established the connecting link between the mysterious woman and the offense. After all was done the police were confident that they had in custody the one who planned the coup and directed its successful consummation.

Considerable information concerning Boyle was gleaned from many sources. It was said that Boyle and the woman were married a year ago in Denver. Mrs. Boyle intimated several times that there would be a sensation in Sharon as soon as her real identity was made known.

This assertion spurred the police to exhaust every effort to find out who she is and what her Sharon connections are. After she had been seen by J. P. Whitla, father of Willie, the police were no nearer a solution of the mystery. Whitla did not indicate whether he knew her or not. He positively refused to discuss the woman.

That another person was involved in the job was the theory of the police when last evening a woman said to be Mary Deiner committed suicide by taking poison, dropping dead on the street. It developed that this woman had been in company with the Boyles in a saloon Tuesday night.

Investigation showed, however, that she was simply an innocent participator in the hospitality of the Boyles. It is believed that fear for possible results for being in the company of the alleged kidnappers caused the woman to do away with herself.

Sensation Predicted

Sharon, Pa., March 25.—Was Willie Whitla kidnapped by one of his relatives? Was the stealing of the boy due to the shaking of an old-time family skeleton?

Are James Boyle and his wife, now under arrest in Cleveland, the real child-thieves, or are they the stalking horses for others who are working out an old domestic grudge?

All Sharon is full of whispers. Questions are being asked on every side, and it is rumored that when the true story of the taking away of Willie Whitla is made known—if it ever is—there will be a sensation that will shake up some of the oldest and wealthiest families in western Pennsylvania.

Believing that the most interesting part of the story is yet to come the people of Sharon are awaiting the positive identification of all the persons arrested at Cleveland and the story of the other persons connected with the case.

That others besides those who are now charged with the crime are implicated in it is doubted by few here, and the discovery of the others in the case promises a sensation when the facts become known.

Cuba's Great Need Is Development of Her Export Trade

Boston, March 25.—"What Cuba needs is not more laws, but better trade conditions and a revision of the tariff with the United States to develop her export trade," declared Alfredo Zayas, vice president of Cuba, in an address before the Commericial club.

J. M. Aquirre, Cuban consul to the United States, made a plea for a direct steamship line from Cuba to Boston and more money to develop the great resources of the island.

Servian's Long Jaunt

New York, March 25.—Stephen Stanbustan, a Servian, who started from Los Angeles on a walking trip around the world six months ago, reached New York and dropped in on Mayor McClellan to obtain the mayor's endorsement in a memorandum book which he carried. He plans to take about three years for his entire trip.

They Take a Turn at Discussing Features of Tariff Bill

Washington, March 25.—Declaring, among other things, that a mistake was made in framing the Payne tariff bill in not arranging the revision on the basis of raising revenue only on every item, Mr. Clark (Mo.), the minority leader, held the attention of the house for more than five hours in discussing that measure.

Incidentally, he pointed out that much time would have been saved in the consideration of the bill had the Democratic members of the committee been consulted about the various provisions of the proposed law.

He was followed by Messrs. Washburn (Mass.) and Adamson (Ga.), the former attacking the inheritance tax provision of the bill and the latter the erection of a tariff wall so high as to prevent the people of the United States buying in all the markets of the world as well as disposing of their surplus products.

DEADLOCK IS UNBROKEN

Vote For Dineen Relieves Monotony In Illinois Senatorial Contest

Springfield, Ills., March 25.—Twelve futile ballots were taken Wednesday by a joint session of the Illinois legislature in an effort to break the senatorial deadlock, but the only incidents of consequence were the solidity of the support of former Senator Hopkins and the casting of the first vote for Governor Dineen for the toga.

Givernor Dineen at once sent emissaries to squelch any effort to elect him and forty-six members of the house pledged obedience to the governor's desire.

Speaker Shurtleff, who was elected by caucus-bolting Republicans and Democrats, cast his vote for Dineen. The speaker, who is a candidate for senator, twice more cast his vote for Dineen, but that was the extent of the speaker's boom of the governor for senator.

RECEIVED A BULLET IN HIS ABDOMEN

Sto'en Rifle Returned to Owner In a Mysterious Manner

Ipswich, Mass., March 25.—Untying a parcel which he believed contained a rifle which had recently been stolen from him, Hugh J. Broderick, proprietor of Hayes Tavern, released a secret mechanism which fired the gun and the bullet lodged in his abdomen. It is feared he cannot live.

A short time ago Broderick missed a rifle which he prized highly as having belonged to a brother now dead. A searching inquiry was made, but nothing developed until last evening, when one of the employes at the Inn brought in a package found in an outhouse. It was peculiarly wrapped up and before the last wrapper had been taken off the gun was discharged.

No one seems to know how the gun came to be loaded, as it had not been loaded for some time and was empty when stolen, or how it came to be placed in the outhouse.

STORM VISITS DENVER

Snow Puts Telegraph and Telephone Wires Out of Business

Denver, March 25.—Eight inches of wet snow, after several hours of steady rain, did damage in Denver estimated at from $200,000 to $300,000 and cut off wire communication with the outside world for many hours.

Every telegraph wire was carried down by the heavy snow, along with hundreds of poles. The city's fire alarm system was almost destroyed, 6000 telephone wires in Denver were rendered useless and hundreds of trees were damaged.

For several hours street car service was at a standstill. Suburban electric lines were useless and trains on all railroads were many hours late.

Misrepresented Qualities of Farm Which He Leased to Others

Greenfield, Mass., March 25.—Verdicts aggregating $1627 against Rev. George F. Pentecost, who is now located in Hartford, were returned in the superior court in behalf of Arthur F. Stone and Marian P. Thompson, who have occupied a dairy farm in East Northfield owned by Pentecost.

The plaintiffs, who are brother and sister, leased the farm in 1906 and alleged that they lost money through its operation because of misrepresentations as to its productive qualities.

WEST QUINCY

Mayor Shea, who has been confined to his home for a week with a severe cold, expected to get out Wednesday, but upon advice of his physician he remained at home. He, however, hopes to get to City hall before the week is out.

The people of the West Quincy M. E. church are rejoicing with their pastor, Rev. C. H. Raupach, on the recovery of his son, Master Paul R. Raupach, who has been confined to his home with diphtheria. Mr. Raupach has received a unanimous call to return to West Quincy for another year.

The Orients of South Quincy are in training at the Ward 3 playground. The team hopes to make an excellent showing this coming year and are hard at work to get in condition. The team would like to hear of games with any 15 or 16 year old teams, the Copeland Jrs., preferred. Bradley and Mattson will most likely hold down the battery end, and with this battery the Orients hope to clean them up.

QUINCY POINT.

It is rumored that the Fore River Company has contracts to build two merchant steamers. Work on these it is said, will start at once.

Mr. and Mrs. David Curney of Sumner street are receiving congratulations on the birth of twins, a boy and girl, born Wednesday morning.

The Junior Christian Endeavor society of the Washington Street Congregational church will conduct the evening services at the church next Sunday night. During the evening the promotion of juniors into the intermediates class will take place.

ATLANTIC

Mrs. Josiah L. Kendall of Walker street is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Master Gordon Sherwin of Clive street has returned from the hospital and although he has to go to the hospital every few days for treatment, he is doing nicely.

Mrs. Thomas P. DeWolfe of Walker street, who has been suffering from a very serious valvular and muscular trouble of the heart and has been attended by five very skilful physicians, is slowly on the road to recovery.

HEARING ON PUBLIC LANDINGS.

The committee on cities gave a hearing this morning at the State house on the petition of Mayor William T. Shea of Quincy for a law authorizing the city of Quincy to establish public boat landings in Quincy harbor, at Houghs Neck and such other points as may be selected by the Mayor or the City Council, with the provision that the City Council many discontinue any public landing and make such rules and regulations as any landing place may require. The bill also contains provision, whereby the law pertaining to the laying out and discontinuing of town ways, shall also apply to public landings.

Representative William R. Thomas of Quincy, appearing in favor of the bill, said that there were twenty miles of shore front in Quincy, that it was desirable to have this authority and that there was no opposition. The hearing was then closed.

AN UNUSUAL REAL ESTATE ISSUE.

On Saturday, April 3, the Boston Evening Transcript will contain a vast amount of matter of special interest to persons looking for summer homes to purchase or to rent; and of more than usual interest to people desiring to buy or hire city, suburban or country properties of various classes. The real estate agents are being called upon earlier this year than has been the custom in the past, for estates in desirable centers, and the demand seems to more than equal the supply. The opportunity for giving publicity to properities of all descriptions through the medium of a newspaper like the Boston Transcript in the issue of April 3 will surely not pass unheeded. Builders of new houses, property owners who are desirous of selling or exchanging their holdings, agents and others will not permit such a chance to pass by. The "Real Estate" and "Houses for the Summer" advertisements of that date will be of great interest. Each class will be placed under respective headings if received in good season for publication.

GRIEVANCES OF PORTO RICO

Chairman of Commission Airs Them In Washington

SUFFERS UNDER OUR RULE

Island Government Declared to Be Worse Than That Practiced by Most Tyrannical Governments—Foreign Markets Taken Away as Result of American Tariff Laws—Executive Council Stumbling Block

Washington, March 25.—That Porto Rico was governed better under Spanish rule than under American, that the Spanish-American war and the consequent occupation of the island by the United States has ruined the coffee industry, the most important in the island, and that the executive council, composed largely of Americans, is responsible entirely for the present crisis, were declarations by Luis M. Rivera, chairman of the commission now here.

The commission was appointed by the house of delegates to lay before President Taft, congress and the American people, the reasons for the existing conditions in the island and to ask for concessions from this country, both regarding the form of government of the island and the tariff.

Commissioner Rivera contended that all the Porto Ricans ask for is justice and the Americans are not giving them this. He said that the house of delegates has been made practically a nonenity by the executive council, corresponding to the upper house, and that the upper body refused to listen to the house of delegates in the recent extraordinary session of the Porto Rican congress called by Governor Post, even when the lower body was perfectly willing to make all necessary concessions in legislation.

"It behooves the executive council," said Rivera, "to solve the problem without submitting it to the consideration of either the president or the congress of the United States. The lower house did all it could within its dignity to reach an agreement; the executive council was stubborn. The incompatibility of both houses will be a source of future troubles which the government should adjust now for the benefit of all concerned."

In regard to the tariff on coffee he declared that as a result of the American occupation of the island the price of the article had dropped from $35 to $9 a hundred pounds, all its markets having been taken away as a result of the American tariff laws.

It is possible that the commission as a whole or Rivera will appear before the senate finance committee, to which the Payne bill will be referred, to ask for a hearing on the question of a duty on coffee, sugar and other articles which would affect the economic welfare of the island.

Rivera declared that the executive council does not consider the desires of the Porto Rican people in the legislation which comes before them. The upper body, he said, refused to sanction bills passed by the house which met with the approval of the people of the entire island. Instead of granting them manual training schools, for instance, which he said were much needed and desired, the executive council sent back a bill to do away with the only boys' charity school in the island.

He reiterated the statement that the Porto Ricans ask only for justice, but that at present the island government is worse than that practiced by some of the most tyrannical governments in the world.

UP TO NEXT LEGISLATURE

Prohibition Resolve Is Shelved by Massachusetts Solons

Boston, March 25.—A brand new state issue was raised yesterday in the house that threatens to loom up big at the state campaign next fall. This is the defeat of the prohibition resolve by a reference to the next general court.

The reference was made out of regard for the members of the house from close districts, who declared that they would vote to refer it, but not to kill it. The resolve would stop the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor.

The vote was 131 in favor of referring to the next general court and 69 against such a reference.

Wright's Pupils Win Prize

Pau, France, March 25.—Count DeLamber and M. Tissandier, who were pupils of Wilbur Wright, gained the aero club's prize awarded to every aviator making a flight of more than 250 meters. Both men made fine flights, remaining in the air about twenty-seven minutes.

Slosson Outplays Cutler

New York, March 25.—George Slosson of this city outplayed A. G. Cutler of Boston in last night's game of the international billiard championship now being played here.

A Chance to Earn $5000

Brussels, March 25.—King Leopold has offered a prize of $5000 for the best work on progress of aviation published in the world before March 1, 1911.

WOLLASTON

Rev. W. J. Heath will close his work as pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday morning. Herbert A. Cassidy will preach in the evening.

The Quincy Mansion school closed Wednesday for the customary Easter vacation.

Ralph Greene of Beach street who has been confined at home with a sprained ankle has returned to High school.

Miss Helen Jones of Beach street, is home from Vassar college for the Easter holidays.

The mid-week Lenten services at St. Chrysostoms church are being largely attended.

Plans are on foot for an entertainment to be given by the Wollaston Congregational club some time before its closing meeting. An informal gathering at "The old country store." has been suggested.

Slight interior improvements are being made to the residence of Rev. Carl G. Horst on Berlin street.

Poland hall will be the scene of a reunion of the class of 1907 of the Massachusetts Fields school on Friday evening, April 2.

The foundation is being put in for the residence on Beach street, which is being built for Mrs. Lydia O'Neil.

The fourth of a series of lectures on fancy cooking by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, editor of the Boston Cooking School magazine, will be held in Wollaston hall Monday afternoon, March 29, at 2.30. Mrs. Hill's subject will be "Desserts, not frozen."

At the meeting of the Wollaston Congregational club on Tuesday evening, Dr. Frank C. Richardson, registrar of the Boston University School of Medicine and professor of clinical neurology, will speak on the present epidemic of psychism or mental treatment of disease and will touch upon its fallacies and its truths.

DISPENSERS OF JUSTICE

New Englanders of Note to Gather at Banquet Board

New York, March 25.—Some of the ablest legal minds of the nation will be assembled tonight at the annual dinner of the alumni association of the New York university law school in this city. The graduates of the school will have as guests, among others, the chief justices of the five New England states. Chief Justices L. A. Emery of Maine, Frank N. Parsons of New Hampshire, John W. Rowell of Vermont, Marcus P. Knowlton of Massachusetts, Edward C. Dubois of Rhode Island and Simeon E. Baldwin of Connecticut will be entertained and will make speeeches.

Judge Willard Bartlett of the New York court of appeals, ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, Judge Francis J. Swayze of the New Jersey superior court and Martin W. Littleton, the famous New York attorney, will also be among the speakers.

COUNT BONI LOSES

Tried to Get Property Belonging to His Former Wife

Paris, March 25.—Count Boni de Castellane's petition for an inventory of the papers and furniture in the de Sagan mansion and at the chateau Marais has been declined by the court, which sustained the contention of the de Sagans that they were married under the regime of "separation of property," and that the papers and furniture in question belong to Princess de Sagan until competent proof to the contrary is forthcoming.

Princess de Sagan married her present husband after securing a divorce from Count de Castellane. Previous to her first marriage she was Miss Anna Gould of New York.

The count claimed in his petition that the de Sagans have refused to hand over property belonging to him.

THREATENS TO KILL PROMINENT MEN

"Polish Voter" of Toledo Sends Letter to Speaker Cannon

Toledo, March 25.—Threats to kill President Taft, Mayor Whitlock, Joseph Cannon, speaker of the house of representatives, and Patrick McCarren, state senator from Brooklyn, were contained in a letter sent to Cannon in Washington from Toledo on March 19 and signed "Polish Voter."

The letter was returned to Toledo to the mayor by L. W. Busbey, secretary to Cannon, a personal friend of Whitlock.

"The writer may be a harmless crank," says Busbey, "or he may be something worse. The speaker does not care to turn the letter over to the secret service or to the postoffice authorities. You will know better how to handle it than anyone here."

Mayor Whitlock turned the matter over to the newspaper men. "Some poor, harmless fellow, I suppose," was his comment.

NEW RECORDS HUNG UP

Interesting Results of Races In Daytona Beach Tournament

Daytona, Fla., March 25.—In the second day's Daytona Beach tournament the first event was a half mile dash bicycle race with a flying start, in which there were ten starters. Fogler won by a half length in 47½.

The next event was a five-mile motor-cycle record trial. Chapple covered the distance in 3:52, followed by Walter Goerke, who went the five miles in the remarkable time of 3:30 1-5, establishing a new world's record.

In the first heat of the invitation race for five miles the huge Benz, with Robertson at the wheel, crossed the line in the remarkable time of 2:45 1-5, breaking the world's record for gasolene cars—2:54 3-5.

BRITAIN'S FOREIGN POLICY

Strengthened by King's Visits to Other European Nations

London, March 25.—In replying to some criticisms that have been made on King Edward's foreign visits, Sir Edward Grey, secretary of foreign affairs, in the house of commons last night, declared that the visits of the king had been exceedingly valuable to the country's foreign policy.

"The king, in his own person," said Grey, "has the exceptional gift of conveying to the people abroad the impression of good will and the good disposition of the British nation toward them that is a great national asset."

"Old Hutch's" Widow Dead

Lynn, Mass., March 25.—Mrs. Sarah M. Hutchinson, aged 76, widow of the late Benjamin P. Hutchinson, the Chicago wheat speculator, popular known as "old Hutch," died suddenly of heart failure while visiting in this city. Mrs. Hutchinson's maiden name was Ingalls, and she was a native of this city.

Farewell Sermon

ued when he entered college. During his junior year at Boston College he won a prize of $30 in gold for an essay on "Charles Dickens" and also won gold medals for excellence in mathematics, French and German. He was chosen to represent his class in the prize debate in 1890 but, on account of illness he was unable to appear.

In his senior year he won the gold medal for the ode on the Tercentenary of St. Aloysius and also won medals for English essays.

After graduation at Boston College, Fr. Johnston entered St. John's Seminary at Brighton, but on account of ill health, he was obliged to leave and sought a change in the cooler climate of Niagara University at Niagara, New York.

His years of seminary life at Niagara were but a repetition of wonderful successes that had placed his name high upon the rolls of Boston's leading educational institutions.

During his first year at Niagara, he won the Terry Gold Medal for a prize sermon on "The Dogmatic Exposition of the Holy Eucharist," and also won a class premium for general excellence.

During his second year he won a prize of $100 offered by Rev. Dr. Cronin of Buffalo, for the best essay on "Darwinianism." In his third year he won the prize for an ode to the Blessed Virgin and took second premium for an essay on "The Samaritans." He also took the class honors at the end of his course and then returned to Boston to be ordained.

After his ordination he was assigned to St. John's church, the late Rev. Francis A. Friguglietti being pastor of the church at that time. Ever since coming to Quincy he has been a tireless worker for the success of everybody. He has worked for the boys and the girls, the men and the women, non-Catholic as well as well as Catholic.

He has won a place in the heart of every man, woman and child in the parish and he will always be thought of with the fondest memories. As a priest he is considered one of the most intellectual and scholarly in the diocese, his abilities as an orator being known all over Greater Boston.

Last June Fr. Johnstone received the honor of preaching the Baccalaureate sermon to the class of 1908 of his Alma Mater, Boston College. This honor usually goes to a bishop or someone high up in the church and its bestowal on Fr. Johnstone was a great tribute to his oratorical ability.

He leaves Quincy with the best wishes of all and his friends, both young and old, Catholic and Protestant, will miss him, they may be happy in the thought that he is only a few miles away. The Daily Ledger, with the other people of Quincy, wish Fr. Johnstone all possible success and happiness in his new field of labor.

EIGHTH ANNUAL BANQUET QUINCY BOARD OF TRADE

Interesting Addresses by Hon. Joseph Walker, Guy Ham and others

Although the weather was extremely unpleasant Thursday evening there was a good attendance at the eighth annual banquet of the Board of Trade and the affair was an unqualified success. The banquet was held at Music hall, five long tables being laid lengthwise of the hall while across the front was a smaller table for the officers of the organization and speakers.

The tables looked very attractive, the decorations being potted plants. The guests of the evening began to arrive shortly after 6 o'clock and from 6.30 until the banquet was served an orchestra gave a concert. During this time greetings were exchanged and acquaintances renewed.

Shortly after 7 o'clock word was given to be seated at the tables, a command that needed no second invitation. Seated at the head table were President and Mrs. John R. Richards, vice president and Mrs. Eugene R. Stone; Ralph W. Hobbs president of the City Council, who represented the Mayor, and Mrs. Hobbs; Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Piper, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fessenden Crane, H. G. Smith and J. A. Sedgewick, representing the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., Mr. Cavanagh and Mr. Connors, representing the Houghs Neck Steamboat Co., A. W. Parker and W. H. Teasdale. There were also at this table Hon. Joseph Walker, speaker of the House of Representatives and Guy Ham, assistant U. S. District Attorney, the two speakers.

President Richards immediately gave the word to partake of the good things and his word was followed by a clatter of knives and forks. The menu included cold turkey and ham, escalloped oysters, lobster salad, banana fritters, rolls, coffee, ice cream and frozen pudding.

The banquet over President Richards welcomed those present. He said that he was pleased to see so many ladies, for it showed that the ladies believed in the Board of Trade and female suffrage. When we see the needs of our city we can not flatter ourselves at what we have accomplished. Not but what we have worked faithfully. He felt however that the people do appreciate the Board of Trade and that it was trying to do something for Quincy. When he looked about and saw what had been done in other cities it amazed him what had been done here. We have great natural facilities in our granite industry and water front of 25 miles. It is the duty of the citizens to see if we can not develop this water front. The trouble here is that we are always waiting for some one else to take the initiative. That feeling should be eradicated and all should work together. No matter what organization takes the initiative for the benefit of the city all should take hold. If we would do this we should see results. We want co-operation in Quincy. If not in the Board of Trade in some other similar organization. One of our members, meaning C. H. Johnson, is doing much for our city in the pictures that he is showing in Boston and elsewhere.

President Richards then spoke of the granite industry and told how it was handicapped by the railroad because there was no competition. There was competition at one time but since that had been withdrawn the rates had been greatly increased. The loss amounted to over $100,000 a year. Our wharves are rotting for lack of service. Quincy must go forward or go backward. It is for the citizens to say which. He then spoke of the matter of encouraging new industries to locate here and the fostering of present industries. These matters are being taken up by the Board of Trade.

President Hobbs of the City Council, was then introduced as a representative of the Mayor who was unable to be present on account of illness. President Hobbs said that he wished he could fittingly tell of the illustrious past and the glorious future of Quincy. He could not give the Board of Trade the keys of the city for the Mayor had them in his pocket. He would however give all a hearty welcome and he trusted their stay would be as satisfactory to them as it was to the Board of Trade. He congratulated the Board of Trade on what it had accomplished and what it may accomplish. The city of Quincy is one of great possibilities. It is a bit of God's country which has been lavished with great beauty. In closing he said he could only say, Root! Root! Root! for Quincy.

Hon. Joseph Walker president of the House of Representatives was then introduced. He said he was glad to be present for he liked Quincy. It was a town in which Massachusetts took pride. He was also glad because it was a part of the good old county of Norfolk in which he also resided. Also because some of the best friends he had in the world came from Quincy. No man did more to place him in the speaker's chair than did Senator Hultman. Because of the importance of Quincy he had placed its two representatives on two of the most important committees of the legislature. He was one of the glorious minority in the legislature who favored female suffrage and he was glad therefor to see so many ladies present. His subject he said would be finances and municipal affairs.

Our expenses he said are getting away from us. We have not that grip on our expenses we should have. The expenses of the commonwealth in fifteen years had grown from six million to fourteen million. Our revenue had increased from four and one half to eleven million. Our expenses grow much faster than our wealth and population. There is an increase in cost of living and shorter hours of labor all of which tend to increase our expenditures. Every year the commonwealth takes on a new burden, such as home for the consumtives, the blind, the cripples, gypsy moth and the like. All of these involve an immense amount of money. The same is true of cities and the burdens are constantly being added to. More serious however is the increase in debt which we are facing. The net debt has increased from seven to seventeen millions during the past fifteen years.

We need to stop and think. The expenditures of money are for worthy causes, but if it goes on unchecked it is only a question of time before it will be said that Massachusetts is extravagant. It is a question of good sense and judgment how fast to go. He did not believe sufficient control was exercised over our expenditures and debt. The present method of determining the expenses is the power that expends the money. They decide how much they should have. There is no one under whose eye these expenditures come. These things should be carefully considered. The only remedy is to place the responsibility where it belongs, on the Governor. All should be submitted to him for his aproval before they go to the legislature. He is the one who should be made responsible.

The lack of control of borrowing money is bad. It is so easy to borrow. If the amounts go into the tax levy every citizen is notified the money has been expended. We should put it there and pay as we go and not leave it to the next generation to pay. The unrestricted borrowing of money is bad. We are inclined to put all that is possible into borrowing and not into the tax levy. What officers are afraid of is the tax levy. The temptation is to put too much into the debt. A $100,000 borrowed on a twenty year loan costs $136,750 at the low rate of 3 1-2 per cent. The true policy is not to borrow but to pay as you go.

The commonwealth ought to exercise supervision over cities as over its own institutions. There is one certain thing every city ought to do and that is to have a competent set of books. The commonwealth should audit these books every year. A strict supervision would then be had over cities and towns and if it was found that money was being borrowed for twenty year loans for current expenses, such as paving streets, the commonwealth should call the attention of the citizens to it. The commonwealth would compell municipalities to bring these things to light and the government to deal fairly and squarely with the citizens. With these things its citizens and politics would be fairer and squarer.

The last speaker was Guy Ham who was termed the silver tongued orator. Mr. Ham opened his remarks with a few stories that immediately put his hearers in sympathy with him He said that he was in doubt what to talk about but had decided to speak of the department of justice and the secret service. He then told of the bringing of the idea of a grand jury from Great Britian. The grand jury was to inquire into matters and see if a man should be indicted. Then came the Attorney General of the United States and the department of justice. The country was divided up into districts and in each was a judge to enforce the law and an assistant United States District Attorney to assist in the prosecution. They had great power and there was no one to whom they were answerable until the department of justice was created in 1871.

He then told of the work of the district attorneys and how they had power and any stage of a case to writ on the back of a warrant "I will not prosecute further" and the defendent was discharged.

Taking up the secret service he said their work could not be compared with the ordinary police officer. Their duties were defined and limited. They were engaged in looking up counterfitters and pension frauds. Every department has its own corps of secret service men, to protect the public. These men are skilled in the detection of crime.

To illustrate their work he told of the work of post office inspectors who were able to trace and fix upon guilty parties, by the process of elimination. He then cited a case in Massachusetts where the mutulation of money order packages had been reported and told how by this process of elimination the crime had been fixed upon the guilty party. He also spoke of the work of the inspectors of the treasury department who ran down counterfitters.

His talk was a particularly interesting one and gave his hearers a clearer insight into the dutles and work of the secret service men and the work of the United States District Attorneys.

Mr. Ham was the last speaker although President Richards said that there were local speakers of note, present but on account of the lateness of the hour he would not call upon them at this time.

He then extended the thanks of the Board of Trade to the two speakers of the evening and the eighth annual banquet came to an end.

The committee in charge were: C. C. Foster, A. W. Parker, W. E. Piper, W. H. Teasdale, C. H. Johnson, E. J. Sandberg and A. L. Whitman.

DR. KING SPEAKS AT WOLLASTON

Addresses Methodist Club on Visions.

Owing to the extremely stormy weather Thursday evening the meeting of the Wollaston Methodist club was not largely attended. Those who did attend, however, were repaid with an interesting evening.

Dr. George W. King of People's Temple, Boston, addressed the club on the subject of "Visions." Members of the Congregational club were present by invitation.

Opening with a quotation from the scriptures Dr. King went on to say that the first to be considered under this subject were religious and moral visions as those are of primary importance.

It is a wonderful thing, he said, when a young man gets his eyes opened and realizes the beauty and utility of a moral life. What is needed is a more open and pronounced Christian life. At this day, Dr. King said, there is no danger in overdoing the religious proposition. The more a man realizes this the better he feels. It is not the external forms that count, but the vision of a true religious and moral life.

It is the opinion of many, he said, that religion is a thing for women and old people and not for the active men. Every young man can afford to believe that the greatest thing in the universe is the best for him. Man, said Dr. King, comes into three births, the natural, spiritual and intellectual. Of the two latter, the spiritual has the most to do in shaping one's career.

Dr. King spoke of the great influence good books have on a person and told of the humble way in which his interest in reading was first aroused.

Among other things, Dr. King believes in the teaching of religion in the school as well as all the "'ologies." Not that of sectarianism, but the fundamental truths of this great study. Religion, he said, opens a man's eyes to the possibilities and opportunities of life. People as a rule underestimate themselves. Where one man is ruined by conceit, ten are ruined by discouragement or lack of confidence in himself. It is, he said, this blessing of "visions" that helps a man on in the world.

At the close of Dr. King's address a period of social intercourse followed, during which light refreshrefreshments were served.

Piano selections by Harry Smith were enjoyed. Before the meeting adjourned, President Hogue of the Wollaston Congregational club read a communication inviting the club to its meeting on next Tuesday evening.

SEVEN HOUGHS NECK CARPENTERS FINED

Men Violated Lord's Day Act Working Sunday

The police are determined that Sunday carpenter work at Houghs Neck must be stopped. Every year just about the present season, carpenter work on cottages has been carried on as freely Sundays as though it was an ordinary week day. This is in direct violation to the Lord's Day act.

Last Sunday Inspector McKay was sent to the beach to see what was doing in this line. He found a number of carpenters at work and took their names.

This morning seven of them were summoned into court. They were William F. O'Connell, Walter Steiper, Charles Edgarton, Albion Boyson, John Ingraham, Edward Boulter and George Gibbs. They were all charged with violating the Lord's Day act.

After hearing the evidence the court allowed the men to enter a plea of "nolo" and imposed a fine of $1 each.

BUILDING PERMITS.

Warren S. Parker, the inspector of buildings, has issued the following permits:

To Charles Parker for a cottage on Sea street, Houghs Neck.

To Sidney F. McIntire for a house on Billings road.

To Joseph C. Morse for an auto house on Fairmount way.

To Mrs. Lydia O'Neil for a house on Beach street.

To M. E. Kilpatrick for a house on Henry street.

To Charles W. Payzaut for a three flat house on Freeman street.

To Margaret A. Merriam for a store on Centre road, Houghs Neck.

To John H. Loughan for a cottage at Squantum.

To Joseph A. Dasha for an auto house on Washington street.

To Erica Carlson for a house on Federal avenue.

To Mary DiPanfilio for a stable on Washington street.

—The Senate Wednesday passed to be engrossed, the bill to require mufflers on motor boats.

It is disclosed that the surplus of $6,000 of the inaugural committee has been turned over to the National Committee for use in bringing about a change in the date of inauguration. It could not be better expended.

In spite of the strenuous efforts made to create an impression that the United States Steel Corporation is to lead a campaign for widespread wage reduction, there is no definite basis in fact for such representations and it is with pleasure we learn that the corporation and its employees are on the friendliest terms, for which, no doubt, the profit sharing plan which has been in operation for some years, is largely responsible.

The conference at the White House on Saturday last when the President discussed at some length the new tariff bill with Senator Aldrich, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury, crystalized into serious difficulties what have been heretofore discordant notes in the somewhat tentative discussions of the proposed methods for increasing the revenue. For instance, Senator Aldrich advised the President that the inheritance tax provision of the Payne bill would not pass the Senate as that body entertains intense and insuperable opposition to any such measure on the ground that while it is a proper source of revenue for the state, the federal government ought not to resort to it except in times of extreme need; the income tax, too, it developed, is not considered altogether advisable; the contention is made that the maximum and minimum provision in the bill is based on a wrong principle,—that it implies retributive instead of conciliatory action. Truly the lines of the party leaders are not cast in pleasant places.

While Boston's financial methods have been a conspicuous subject of discussion during the past two years or more it may be usefully remembered that some, at least, of the criticisms directed against the capital city can be fairly applied to American cities generally. This is particularly the case in regard to the issue of loans, notwithstanding the existence of well known statutory restrictions affecting the debt limit and the tax rate.

The subject was considered, last year, in its relation to a plan for a new Boston charter, by a special committee of the Boston Economic Club, over which President Eliot of Harvard presided. The committee was unanimously in favor of creating a State board to supervise the issue of all Massachusetts city loans. The idea was indorsed by the Boston Chamber of Commerce and is now being actively furthered by a "Local Government Board Committee," of which Hon. John D. Long is chairman.

Competent authorities in local government matters look to the control of loans by such a board for a much needed check upon municipal borrowing, whether within or without the debt limit of individual cities. They believe that the benefits would not be confined to the immediate economy involved but that the experience acquired by the board would greatly assist in laying down definite lines of policy in this respect. The constitution of such a board was suggested in a recent substitute bill before the Committee on Cities as one member appointed by the Governor with two others who shall be heads of existing State departments.

SERVIAN HEIR IN SCANDAL

Renounces Claim to Throne as Result of Murder Charge

DARK SPOTS IN HIS RECORD

Prince George the Central Figure of Many Episodes of Unsavory Character—Assault on Convent Showed His Loss of All Sense of Decency—His Withdrawal May Have Calming Influence on Balkan Situation

Belgrade, March 26.—A cabinet council last night decided that the premier is incompetent to receive a direct communication from Crown Prince George, who is subject only to his father's authority.

The premier will therefore return the letter which the crown prince sent to him, renouncing his right of succession to the Servian throne, and advise the prince to address himself to the king.

In the letter to Premier Novakovitch the crown prince announces that he has taken this step rather than rest under the suspicion of having murdered his servant, and that by the renunciation he foregoes all special privileges and immunities that attach to the person of the heir to the throne.

Recently a bitter press campaign has been waged against the crown prince, who was accused of being implicated in the death of one of his servants and it is now learned that the prince took this action because of a threatened interpellation in the national assembly on this subject.

The prince now declares that before leaving the country he will await the final result of the pending political situation, and will join the volunteers as a private in event of war.

The actions of Prince George of Servia in recent years have been the scandal of the Servian court. He will be 22 years old in August, and was designated crown prince of Servia when his father, Peter I, ascended the throne in 1903 after the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga.

The young prince has been the central figure of several sensational episodes since he came to Belgrade with his father, culminating with the latest affair of the murdered servant.

The exil exploits of Prince George would fill a good-sized volume. It is said that, compared with Prince George, the late kings of unsavory reputations, Milan and Alexander, may be regarded as having been the perfection of western civilization.

The record of this royal hooligan contains some very dark spots. In 1905 he shot and killed a young Macedonian whom he met and quarrelled with while on an excursion with his tutor. This was one of several similar incidents which have been diplomatically smothered under the description of "unfortunate accidents."

The prince's daredevil feats of horsemanship once led him to put spurs at a team of oxen which, harnessed to a wagon, blocked the roadway in a lane. His horse cleared the oxen, but his hoofs injured the back of one of the beasts.

The assault on the convent of the Blessed Trinity outside of Belgrade proved that the crown prince was lost to all sense of decency. With three companions he drove from the Cafe de Paris in the small hours of the morning, battered in the convent wicket gate, ran a sword through the body of the faithful watchdog, and then, as they started on a tour of the choisters, they were suddenly confronted by the mother superior. Only the threat that she would kill herself if they proceeded farther brought them to their senses.

The prince has been turned out of the principal music hall in Belgrade for flinging champagne bottles at the leader of the orchestra and for mounting the stage and publicly making love to Mme. Beyla, a favorite performer of the Servian capital. He had contracted a bogus secret marriage with a beautiful girl, the daughter of a general, three of the prince's friends masquerading as priests and witnesses.

The Balkan difficulty has assumed a somewhat new aspect owing to the abdication of Prince George. The prince hitherto has been considered the leader of the war party at Belgrade and his firebrand speeches have done much to inflame the feelings of the Servian people. There are not wanting those both here and at Vienna who believe that a political move underlies his renunciation.

Whether or not this is the case, it is certain that the removal of the crown prince from the scene is a step making for peace. It will be easier under present conditions for Servia to retreat from a difficult situation.

"Humane" to Carve Live Hogs

Chicago, March 26.—President Brennan of the Independent Packing company, charged with cruelty to animals in that he allowed branding of hogs with a carving knife instead of tagging them, was found not guilty by a jury. Brennan contended that it is more humane to carve letters on a hog's back than to pierce its ears for a tag.

CASTRO LEAVES FRANCE

Loves His Native Land, but Will Not Go There Directly

Bordeaux, France, March 26.—Sailing today on the steamer Gaudeloupe, bound for West Indian and Venezuelan ports, was Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, who has been in Europe several months for his health.

Members of Castro's party declared that his sailing for home was a reply to his enemies, who had asserted that to his enemies, who had asserted that he would never return to South America. Castro professed a warm love for his native land and declared vehemently that his foes had maligned his government. In view, however, of the indictments returned against him by the high court of Venezuela, in which he is accused of compassing the deaths of some of his political opponents, he will not go directly to La Guayra, the port of Caracas, but will leave the Gaudeloupe at Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Both Castro and his staff declared that there was no foundation for the report that he intended to lead a rebellion against President Gomez, his successor in Caracas.

HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

"Yale Man" Said to Have Raised Many Thousands of Dollars

New York, March 26.—George Cheever of Andover, Mass., who has been posing as a Yale man, was arraigned in court here and held in $2000 bail for trial on a charge of forgery.

Cheever, who is 24 years old, is said to have obtained about $20,000 in the last six months by means of forged checks, mainly from the fathers of college men. He boasted in court that he had spent $25,000 in a few months in entertaining chorus girls and playing the races.

One of Cheever's boldest presumptions happened in April, 1907, when he entered Chicago on a special train he had chartered in Denver. He got the train through posing as a stepson of Vice President Fairbanks. He was arrested, but the railroad officials refused to prosecute and he was discharged.

THOUSAND MILE RUN COMPLETED

Scout Cruisers End First Test In Good Condition

Newport, R. I., March 26.—The scout cruisers Salem, Chester and Birmingham have completed the first of their series of tests upon which they started from here Sunday with all the vessels in good condition.

The first test was over a 1000 mile course which led out to sea on a two days and two hours' run, and a return occupying the same length of time. The test is the first of a series arranged to determine the qualities of the three different types of engines used in the scout cruisers, as regards coal consumption, endurance and speed.

CABLE CHESS MATCH

First Moves Made In Annual International Tournament

New York, March 26.—Play was begun today in the great annual international chess cable match between the best players of the United States and the champions of Great Britain and Ireland. The games on this side are being played in the rooms of the Brooklyn Chess club, which has charge of the American end of the match. The first moves were made this morning, and the games will continue until tomorrow night unless concluded sooner.

There are ten players on each side. The Americans represent the principal clubs throughout the United States. Among them is Frank J. Marshall, who won the international tournament in Europe last year. They hope to repeat the American victory of last year.

Anti-Suffragettes of Influence Attend Meeting In London

London, March 26.—Determined to show to the public that all Englishwomen do not share in the views of those who invade the house of commons and besiege the house of Premier Asquith in their desire to acquire votes, a large meeting of influential women was held here today.

The women who do not desire to vote are led by Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the famous novelist, who presided at the meeting. Among the other speakers were Lord Cromer, the former ruler of Egypt, and Austen Chamberlain, son of Joseph Chamberlain. The meeting of the anti-suffragettes was held in Queen's hall.

I. E. GIRLS HOLD DANCE.

Pretty Party Given Thursday Evening in Colonial Hall.

There was a very pretty dancing party given Thursday evening in Colonial hall by the I. E. girls and although it was raining outside, all was sunshine within. The hall was tastily decorated with the club colors blue and gold, while Wilson's orchestra, which furnished the music, was seated behind a mass of potted plants.

A unique feature of the party was two little girl pages, Miss Margaret E. Dunham and Miss Myrtle A. Waite, who distributed the dance orders.

The matrons of the affair were Mrs. Florence Lawrence, Mrs. Margaret A. Dickey and Mrs. Margaret C. Dunham. The members of the club were ushers and had charge of the floor. These were Miss Stella A. Wheble, Miss Bertha H. Pierson, Miss Elizabeth Ruxton, Miss Nellie S. Souter, Miss Agnes F. Souter, Miss Margaret A. Gardner, Miss Florence J. Jones and Miss Elsie M. Lawrence.

WEYMOUTH

The funeral of Arthur M. Raymond took place Thursday afternoon. There was a prayer at his late residence on Broad street, East Weymouth. After which the remains were escorted to the Congregational church by South Shore Commandery, Knights Templars and Orphans Hope lodge of Masons. Notwithstanding the severe storm the church was filled with the friends of the deceased including many people prominent in musical circles. The service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. Emery L. Bradford, assisted by Rev. Mr. Fitch, pastor of the Mt. Vernon Congregational church, Boston, where the deceased was organist and musical director for sixteen years; and Rev. Daniel Waldron city missionary of Boston. The quartette from Mt. Vernon Congregational church sang several selections. There were many beautiful floral tributes The ritual of Orphans Hope lodge of Masons was performed by Worshipful Master Leavitt W. Bates. The ushers were Winslow M. Tirrell, Preston Lewis, Dr. Joseph Chase, M. P. Garey, Lester Bates and W. H. Pratt. The bearers were Mace Gay of Brockton, William C. Earle, Charles H. Pratt, William Bailey, S. B. Totman and Fred N. Bates. At the close of the service the remains were escorted to Fairmount cemetery by South Shore Commandery and Orphans Hope lodge, and at the grave taps were sounded by Mace Gay. The schools and stores were closed during the funeral.

The Ladies Aid society of James L. Bates Camp, Sons of Veterans, celebrated the 13th anniversary of its organization with a banquet, concert and dance at Masonic hall last evening.

The annual fair of the ladies' aid society of the Porter M. E. church was held at the vestry Wednesday evening. The tables were in charge of the following: Mrs. Amelia Anderson, Mrs. Mabel Tisdale, Mrs. Myra Shaw, Mrs. Annie Poole, Mrs. E. K. Johnson, Miss Amy Lovell, Miss Florence Shaw, Mrs. Ann Stewart, Mrs. Josephine Loud, Mrs. Carrie Gardner, Mrs. Mae Loud and Mrs. Emma Shaw. A quartette composed of George Hunt, Ralph Flint, Charles Vilhum and Alvin King sang with Miss Helen Pratt as accompanist and there were piano duets by Miss Eleanor Blanchard and Mrs. Warren Loud.

Mrs. Pierre Lorillard Takes Own Life by Asphyxiation

A LEADER IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Had Entertained and Been Entertained on Large Scale In Washington—Death Occurs a Few Hours After Attending a Dinner—Body Found on Bathroom Foor With Diamonds Still Bedecking Her Hair

Washington, March 26.—Weary of the gay whirl of society and face to face, as she believed, with years of physical suffering, Mrs. Pierre Lorillard, Jr., aged 49, committed suicide by asphyxiation at her home near the fashionable Dupont Circle in this city.

Her tragic death has shocked the first social circles of the capital as nothing else in years. In spite of the coroner's certificate of death by suicide, members of the family declare that Mrs. Lorillard died of heart failure.

The death was made more dramatic, occurring only a few hours after Mr. and Mrs. Lorillard had been the guests of Mrs. Townsend at a dinner given in honor of Lady Paget. In fact, it is believed that as soon as Mrs. Lorillard arrived at her home she began to prepare for her death.

The butler in the Lorillard residence detected an odor of gas permeating the rooms. The fumes were traced to Mrs. Lorillard's apartments. Opening the door of the bathroom, the butler found the mistress of the house stretched out lifeless on the floor.

Mrs. Lorillard left a note which the coroner has seen but which Lorillard has declined to give his permission for it to be made public. While addressed to no one, it is said, it is personal in its nature.

Mrs. Lorillard was subject to frequent attacks of despondency, it is said. When found she was clothed in a dressing gown. The dog collar of diamonds she wore at the dinner had been removed, but the costly circle of diamonds that adorned her hair had not been displaced.

Mrs. Lorillard, before her marriage to Mr. Lorillard in 1881, was Miss Caroline J. Hamilton. She is survived by two sons, Pierre Lorillard, 3d, aged 27, who is traveling in the Orient, and Griswold, aged 24, in college in New York.

Since the Lorillards began spending the winter social season in Washington they have entertained and been entertained largely. They were prominent in the social and diplomatic life of the capital.

Pierre Lorillard, Jr., married Miss Hamilton in 1881. The son took on the great Lorillard tobacco works and relieved his father of nearly all personal cares and responsibilities on account of the latter's poor health.

It has been a matter of comment among those who have met Mrs. Lorillard at dinners and receptions here this winter that she appeared to be having the best time of anyone present always. She was noticeably cheerful and gracious. There seemed to be no cloud whatever in her sky, so far as outward appearances were concerned.

GALE AND HEAVY RAIN

Considerable Damage Reported Along the New England Coast

Boston, March 26.—Fourteen hours of rain, accompanied by a terrific gale yesterday, gave the New England coast the worst storm since 1898. All along the Massachusetts shore the gale struck with all its fierceness and caused considerable damage. The rain fell in torrents, tearing out great holes in the streets about the city and suburbs and blowing down telephone and telegraph wires. Washouts were numerous throughout New England and the train service was greatly delayed.

Seeking refuge in Salem harbor from the northeast gale, the little schooner Ravela ran up on the rocky shore of Winter Island, where she is pounding to pieces. The captain and crew of six are safe.

A Professional Poisoner

London, March 26.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from St. Petersburg says that a woman named Popova has been arrested at Samara, charged with having poisoned at least 300 persons during the past thirty years. She made a business of ridding wives of their husbands for a small fee.

Maeterlinck Loses His Suit

Paris, March 26.—Maurice Maeterlinck, the Belgian playwright, lost his case against the directors of the National Opera, from whom he demanded $2000 for each performance of "Manna Vanna," on the ground that the production of this play was unauthorized.

HOOTED FROM BUCKEYE STATE

Alleged Kidnappers of Whitla Are Sent to Pennsylvania

CLEVELAND CASE IS CLOSED

Joint Indictment Charging Blackmail Will Be Pressed, However, If Pennsylvania Courts Fail to Convict Boyle and His Wife—Denial That Woman Had Anything to Do With Actual Kidnapping of the Boy

Cleveland, March 26.—With hoots and jeers ringing in their ears, James H. Boyle and his wife, arrested here as the kidnappers of Willie Whitla of Sharon, Pa., were escorted last night by police to a train bound for Mercer, Pa.

This practically closes the case as far as Cleveland is concerned, as further action will be taken by the Pennsylvania authorities. However, the Cleveland police have a club over the heads of the Boyles in a joint indictment returned charging James H. Boyle and Helene Boyle with blackmail.

This charge is based on the payment of $10,000 ransom by J. P. Whitla for the recovery of his son here last Monday. This indictment will be used by the local officials in the event that the case in Pennsylvania fails of conviction.

Sheriff Chase of Mercer county, Pa., and Chief of Police Craue of Sharon arrived Thursday and immediately originated proceedings for the return of the prisoners.

The Cuyahoga county officials waived their rights to the Boyles and the latter informed Chief Kohler that they would not fight extradition to the Keystone state.

That Mrs. Boyle had nothing to do with the actual kidnapping of Willie Whitla was the statement made by the woman and her husband. Boyle said that although he expected to be "railroaded" when tried in Pennsylvania, there is absolutely no way to connect his wife with any offense committed in that state. Mrs. Boyle said she first saw "Billy" here in Cleveland and that she "had nothing to do with the other part of the case."

Mrs. Boyle apparently was in good spirits, but her husband maintained his indifferent manner, having little to say.

Mrs. Boyle denied that she is Helen Faulkner, and declared emphatically that she had never been on the stage. "But maybe I'll get the chance now," she added.

The last doubt as to the identity of Boyle was removed when Thomas F. Boyle of Sharon called at the police station and said the prisoner is his brother.

Landed In Pittsburg Jail

Pittsburg, March 26.—Fearing for the safety of their prisoners if they were taken to Sharon or the county seat at Mercer, officers last night brought James H. Boyle and his wife to the Allegheny county jail here. The prisoners were guarded in their car by sixteen detectives and officers.

It is the intention of the officers to keep their prisoners in the jail here for several days and at some time when the public is not expecting it, to remove them to the Mercer county jail, where they will be kept till the grand jury convenes the third week in April.

THREE-CORNERED CONTEST

Speakers of Harvard, Yale and Princeton to Meet In Debate

Princeton, N. J., March 26.—At three colleges—Yale, Harvard and Princeton—tonight the leading speakers of the undergraduate bodies will hold a triangular debate on the subject, "Resolved, That all corporations engaged in interstate commerce should be compelled to take out a federal charter."

Princeton will have the negative side and Harvard the affirmative at Princeton. At Cambridge Yale will have the affirmative and Harvard the negative, and at New Haven Princeton will take the affirmative side against Yale. Two years ago the last triangular debate of this kind resulted in the victory of Princeton over both Yale and Harvard.

Gatun Embankment Settles

Colon, March 26.—A section of the embankment, 300 feet long, of the re-located Panama railroad line at Gatun has again settled about thirty feet at the same spot where the last movement occurred. The depression will be filled with rocks until the former level is reached.

Rockland, Me., March 26.—Steady employment for nearly fifteen months is assured to 500 men at Vinalhaven and Hurricane Island by the subletting of a contract for 200,000 cubic feet of cut stone, to be used in the construction of a new railroad terminal in Chicago.

Weston Strikes Bad Roads

Batavia, N. Y., March 26.—Edward P. Weston encountered bad roads and a stiff head wind west of Rochester and was compelled to stop last night at Bergen, three miles east of Batavia.

SNOW KING DANCE.

The second annual dance of the Snow King club was held Wednesday evening in Electa hall, about 150 couples being present. This club is named after a big double runner of the same name, which is probably the biggest double runner in the state. Dancing was enjoyed from 8 to 12, Cronstrom's orchestra furnishing the music. During the evening whist was enjoyed as well as dancing.

The floor was in charge of George Littlewood and he was ably assisted by Miss Mary McKay, Miss Mabel Hodge, Miss Grace Hodge, Axel Matheson, Frank Anderson and Gerald Swanson.

"Here's to the good old Snow King,
With all her speed and power;
A ring a ding ding, a crowd she will bring,
Which enjoy themselves every hour."

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Quincy Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

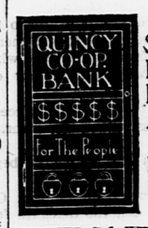

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kindney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Quincy people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. E. Burke, living at 143 Quincy St., Quincy, Mass. says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy for Kidney trouble, both my husband and myself having used them and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Mr. Burke had such a severe pain in his back that he could hardly do his work, but Doan's Kidney Pills fixed him up in good shape. They were procured at the Cox Drug Store and have our highest recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United Statts.

JUSTICE AND EQUITY

Declared to Be Better Protection Than Armies and Navies

New York, March 26.—A notable function took place at the Hotel Astor last night when the Alumni Association of the New York university celebrated its silver jubilee at a banquet, at which New England chief justices were guests of honor.

Chief Justice Emery of Maine, in speaking of his home state, said:

"For more than 500 miles Maine is open to invasion from Canada and for more than 300 miles is open to invasion by sea, yet you do not hear us nor our delegation in congress clamor after a larger army nor a bigger navy.

"We believe that national and international justice and equity are better protection than armies and navies, and that this great republic will never be attacked unless itself compels attack by its own injustice or inequity, and this we believe will never be."

TRAFFIC CLUB'S BANQUET

Leading Railroad Men of the Country Will Be Present

Pittsburg, March 26.—One of the greatest gatherings of leading railroad men ever assembled in this country will meet here tonight at the annual banquet of the local Traffic club. While the greater part of the guests at the banquet will be railroad men, a large number of other prominent men will also be present.

Among the orators at the banquet will be Secretary of State Knox, former United States Senator Hemenway of Indiana and President Finlay of the Southern railway. Over 300 invitations have been sent to prominent railroad men, captains of industry and others. On the list of guests is James McCrea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, and Chairman Knapp and other members of the interstate commerce commission.

INFECTED BEEF CANNOT BE SOLD

Opinion Rendered by Bay State's Attorney General

Boston, March 26.—Governor Draper has stopped the sale of infected beef in Masachusetts. Attorney General Malone sent to the governor an opinion that the laws of the state did not permit such sales.

The governor started immediately on reading Malone's opinion to have the law enforced. He instructed the state board of health and Dr. Peters, the head of the cattle bureau, to get busy and stop the sale of the tuberculosis meat.

The opinion of the attorney general came to the house of representatives in response to an order introduced about a week ago asking if animals infected to any degree with tuberculosis could be killed and the beef sold as food within the commonwealth.

Governor Draper sent a special message to the legislature as quickly as he learned of the opinion of the attorney general.

THE TARIFF DEBATE

Vreeland a Prime Mover For Countervailing Duty on Oil

Washington, March 26.—An admission by Mr. Vreeland (N. Y.) that he was to some extent responsible for the retention in the Payne tariff bill of the countervailing duty on oil was the climax of the day's discussion of the tariff in the house Thursday. He explained that his action was in response to requests from thousands of his oil producing constituents and in behalf of thousands of others engaged in the same business. The debate on the oil schedule called forth some bitter criticism of the Standard Oil company.

In the course of the day numerous speeches were made. The arguments from the Democratic standpoint were for a tariff for revenue only, while the Republicans who spoke attacked such schedules as those on wool, wood pulp and print paper and crude petroleum.

BOTH ANKLES CRUSHED

Man Jumps From Church Steeple While Temporarily Insane

Greenfield, Mass., March 26.—Jesse C. Powers, 27, was brought to the Franklin county hospital suffering from injuries received in a jump from the steeple of the Congregational church at Wendell while temporarily insane. Both his ankles were crushed and he probably is injured internally, but it is expected that he will recover.

Powers borrowed the keys to the church and climbed up into the second landing of the belfry. He crawled out through the lattice work and then jumped out into the street. He struck on his feet beside the road.

Missionary Society's Centennial

Northampton, Mass., March 26.—What is believed to be the oldest missionary society in the country observed its 100th anniversary here last night. The organization is the Dorcas Society of the First Congregational church of this city, which was formed in 1809.

BRIEFS

The next meeting of the Dorcas society will be held at the Universalist church vestry on Tuesday evening.

Mayor Shea has signed the order appropriating $5,000 to purchase a new steam fire engine and the annual appropriation order.

A large delegation from Quincy attended the 13th anniversary of S. of V. Auxiliary 31, Thursday evening at Masonic hall, East Weymouth.

Junior Alliance of First church, which is also the flower committee of the church, is trying to raise funds by a cake and dessert sale tomorrow afternoon.

Fred L. Cross of the upper middle class at Phillips academy is on the honor list for French, the announcement being made Wednesday at the close of the winter term.

Quincy was represented at the reception given on Wednesday by Governor and Mrs. Draper at their Beacon street home, Boston, for members of the legislature and their wives.

The weather man is surely on the side of the school children, allowing three days inside of a month to be of such horrid weather that it was impossible to keep school. It is so now, that at the slightest indication of a storm, ears are pricked up for the no-school alarm.

Mr. George Stenzel of Botolph street is to be congratulated on his henery. Mr. Stenzel has about 100 hens who average between 290 and 325 eggs a week. He has now 97 eggs out of 112 in an incubator; which he expects to hatch in a week or so.

Mrs. L. A. Child of Boston has started a series of rehearsals for a musical entertainment named the "Flower Queen," to be given in Music Hall, Atlantic, some time in May. Mrs. Child is a splended instructor and the affair is looked forward to with great interest.

JOHN HANNON.

John Hannon, aged 50 of 4 Hill street, West Quincy, who died Wednesday in West Rutland, Vermont, was brought to his home Thursday for burial. Mr. Hannon is one of West Quincy's best known residents and was a member of Div. 4, A. O. H. of West Quincy and the Irish National Foresters of Neponset. He is survived by a wife and six children.

—Save the broken lens; we can match it. We grind them at 1473 Hancock st., Quincy. You may watch the operation. Williams. Tel. 279-3.

DEATHS.

WEST QUINCY

Mr. Matthew Schatzel, a well known young man of West Quincy, and a member of National Sportsman's club, who arrived from Douglas last week, left Thursday for North Carolina, where he expects to work through the summer months cutting stone.

The many friends of J. Harry Gustafson of Arthur street, are glad to see him out and around again after a lingering illness of about three weeks.

The many friends of George Keene a popular young man of West Quincy, are sorry to learn that he is to leave for the far west next week. The members of National Sportsman's club of which Mr. Keene was a member, are sorry to have him leave, but wish him the best of luck and success on his long journey.

Work is now progressing in the remodeling of the barn, now on the estate owned by Mrs. Sullivan on West street, into a fine looking house.

The people of the Swedish Baptist church society, are working with might and main to make their free concert, which is to be held in the church chapel on Tuesday, March 30, a grand success.

There will be no basket ball game at St. Mary's hall this week, but arrangements are being made for a big game next week. This game will probably close the season.

Stations of the cross and benediction will constitute the regular Lenten services to be held tonight in St. Mary's church.

Clerk or Bricklayer?

"You often hear clerks say they would rather be bricklayers on account of the pay, but they don't know what they're talking about. Clerking beats bricklaying every day in the week and twice on Sunday."

He took another cheese sandwich in his long, pale, ink stained fingers and, perched on the lunch counter's high stool, declaimed warmly:

"Clerks, however poor, are popular with the ladies on account of their fine clothes, but bricklayers, when they go sparking, get the cold shoulder.

"A bricklayer, no matter how much he makes, has trouble in getting into swell boarding houses, for his clothes soil the fine furniture, but a clerk, with his white hands, is welcome in any house he can afford.

"I know what I'm talking about, for I bricklaid two years before I took to clerking. And you'll find lots of young bricklayers forsaking the trowel for the pen; but, though clerks often say bitterly that they'd rather lay bricks than push a pen, they don't really mean it—they never turn."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The Dog of Montargis.

Animal actors are by no means new to the stage. There are on record instances where a four legged performer has made the greatest success in a play, drawing hundreds of people night after night by the magnetism of his inarticulate art. In 1814 "The Dog of Montargis" was produced at Covent Garden theater, London. It was written around a true incident in which a man was murdered in the forest of Bondy and the murderer tracked by means of his dog. One day this dog suddenly sprang at the throat of a man and almost killed him, whereupon the wretch, terror struck, confessed that he was the murderer. This dramatic incident formed the basis of the play, and everything depended upon the cleverness of the dog. He was called Dragon, and his acting was so marvelous that the play achieved a remarkable success, running for thirty-nine performances.

Boston's English.

"If I were asked to name the city of these United States where the purest English is now spoken," said Otis Skinner, the actor, "I should unhesitatingly pronounce in favor of Boston. The clarity of speech there is not confined to people of wealth and culture, but extends to the working classes, the toilers and persons in all stations of life. I do not say that this excellence in articulation and this admirable pronunciation can be found all over New England. Corruption of speech begins not many miles from Boston, and the distressing nasal twang is difficult to escape. In Philadelphia a peculiar burr that is distinctly provincial prevails. From Pittsburg to other sections of the middle west this burr assumes more or less exasperating forms."

Wanted Results.

"You are always trying to throw cold water on my literary ambitions," growled the aspiring author. "You say it doesn't pay. Look at Charles Dickens, will you? He left a fortune of $400,000, all earned with his pen."

"I know it, dear," said his wife, caressing him, "but don't you remember that Aladdin could make more than that in five minutes by simply rubbing an old lamp? I'd so much rather you'd do something of that kind, Will!" —Chicago Tribune.

Economical.

"I'd rather waltz than eat," confided the sweet girl.

"Then we'll have another dance instead of going to that fashionable restaurant," remarked the thrifty swain. "And," he added mentally, "that's $6 saved."—Kansas City Journal.

Stung.

"That man has no conscience."

"Why do you think so?"

"He cheated me fearfully in a horse trade in which I supposed I was easily getting the better end of the bargain." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE EXCEPTIONS.

To think that you can do a thing
Will help you pull it off.
With lots of confidence and grit
And never knowing when to quit,
At failure you can scoff.

That is the secret of success
Quite often, I opine,
The way to make a project go,
But in the working you should know
The place to draw the line.

There is a limit even here,
Though some may not agree
That pushing and undaunted will
May not get over every hill.
But let us wait and see.

To think that you can lick a man
Just twice your weight and size
Will never make him hit the hay
Or help you as you limp away
To doctor up your eyes.

To think that you could run a bank
Might possibly be sane,
But never think, if you are wise
And do not want a quick surprise,
That you can stop a train.

In business it is useful and
In other walks of life
To think that thinking makes things true,
But do not for the life of you
Attempt it on your wife.

There With the Remedy.

"We never sleep," said the great detective, patting himself on the ample chest and pausing to let his hearers admire him.

"Glad I met you, sir," said a stranger, pushing his way through the crowd and presenting his card. "My insomnia cure is warranted to cure the most stubborn cases. You will do yourself a great injustice if you do not try it. Six bottles for $5 or single bottle only $1."

Too One Sided.

We are none of us too fond of fun when the other fellows are having all of it.

So Previous.

The young lady from Boston was trying to get information at first hand for her new work on sociology.

"Mr. Cornfed," she said, "I would like to ask you if it is your custom to dress for dinnner in the country."

"Pshaw," replied the subject, who was willing to contribute such facts as he knew, "we've got that beat. We dress for breakfast."

His Ancestors.

"The lecturer said we evolved originally from plants."

"Did you believe it?"

"He said so."

"What did you come from—a rubber tree or a cabbage head?"

Entitled to the Title.

For some time the stockholders had been dissatisfied with the mine, so they sent a committee out to see. The committee only found a hole in the ground."

"Ah, I see—a committee of the hole."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

When a man thinks he is the whole thing he doesn't see any use in trying to conceal it, and there isn't any.

Foolish is the man who rejoices at the approach of spring and hopes to escape housecleaning.

It isn't hard to do as you please if you are easily pleased.

Men with plenty of time to spend like to meet up with easy marks who have plenty of money to treat the same way.

Intelligence is the thing that makes a man conspicuous when he ought to show it and doesn't.

It is hard to believe that some people are honest after a talk with their hired man.

It is one thing to advocate a measure and quite another to be willing to practice the subject matter when it is in force.

Hard times carve more lines in a man's face than years of prosperity can massage away.

One objection we have to minding our own business is that it may look like intrusion on our part.

A difference of opinion may be quite serious even though the opinions concerned are far from being so.

Gordon's Last Chance.

By TAYLOR WHITE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"Jimmie, do you speak slang?" demanded Maud Tolliver suddenly as her small brother came into the room.

"Do I walk on my feet?" demanded Jimmie in surprise. "Pipe your lay, angel face. I'll get you somehow, even if your speaks are all to the muddle. Throw it off your chest."

"It's this way," explained Maud. "You know Mr. Gordon?"

"I've seen him once or twice," admitted Jimmie, with a grin. Gordon was a regular visitor at the Tolliver home.

"Papa wants me to marry him," explained Maud. "He's so strict and proper that I hate him. I thought that if I were to talk slang and 'act up' perhaps he would leave me in peace. He hates a slangy girl. He said so last night."

Jimmie grinned appreciatively. He had no great liking for the eminently staid and correct Gordon. He hated men whose suits always looked as though it was the first time they had been worn.

His own preference was for Barry Spaulding, who occasionally offered him a cigarette and who talked to him precisely as though he was a grownup.

Gordon never seemed to see him, never laughed and joked, and Jimmie entered into the conspiracy with his whole heart after being assured that Maud would never disclose the source of her education in slang.

Before the week was out Gordon looked troubled. He was very much in love with Maud after his own fashion. There was no want of real affection, but Gordon was no gallant wooer. He had been accepted by the family, and in his quiet, patient fashion he was laying siege to Maud's heart.

He had fancied he had been making headway until she developed a trick of interlarding her speech with slang expressions.

At first he was shocked, but as Maud acquired proficiency and grew more and more slangy Gordon withdrew from his campaign. Though he loved the girl as much as ever, he assured himself that a wife who used slang was utterly impossible.

In secret Maud gloated over the fact, but bore herself demurely when her father sharply questioned her concerning her treatment of Gordon, for the latter's visits had fallen off, and, though Gordon had pleaded business as an excuse, Mr. Tolliver had an idea that there was something else that might explain the lover's sudden lack of interest.

Then fate took a hand, and so it happened that Jimmie Tolliver, crossing the avenue, slipped on the muddy paving and fell directly in front of a rapidly advancing automobile.

There was a cry of horror from the spectators, but one man sprang forward and with an easy movement grasped the boy's arm and carried him to safety.

For a moment Jimmie was too dazed to comprehend; then he slowly came to realize that Gordon, unmoved as ever, stood beside him, answering the questions of the crowd, but refusing to give his name.

"All right, old man?" he asked as he saw that Jimmie was pulling himself together. "Suppose we move on. This crowd is a little too eager."

He signaled a passing taxicab and directed the driver to go to a tailor's where Jimmie's muddied garments might be made presentable. The rush of cold air drove the last of the cobwebs from Jimmie's brain, and, gazing admiringly at Gordon, he decided that Maud was wrong in her estimate of the man. There was fire under the ice, red blood beneath the waxenly, immobile expression, and Jimmie's heart warmed to his rescuer.

"Say, Bo," he demanded suddenly, "are you still dead nuts on Maud?"

"I esteem your sister very highly," admitted Gordon.

"You're all right," declared Jimmie admiringly. "If you want to win cast your port ear over this way and make a noise like a listen."

The noise of a listener was continued long after the visit to the tailor's was concluded. Gordon's face was as expressionless as ever, but there was a twinkle in his eye.

Some evenings later Maud, coming downstairs, reached the lower hall just as Gordon was admitted by the butler. Jimmie had been cautioned under pain of losing his promised reward to say nothing of his rescue, so it was merely "that tiresome Kenneth Gordon" whom Maud greeted with perfunctory cordiality.

"I butted in to tear off a piece of talk with the boss bloomer wearer. Is he in?" asked Gordon.

"If you mean my father"— began Maud icily.

"That's the guy," interrupted Gordon. "Will you tell the delegate from the wax works to ask him to grease his heels and slide down here?"

"I will go myself," offered Maud nervously. Gordon was as coldly correct in appearance as ever, but perhaps he was drunk.

"Nix on the scamper," declared Gordon, raising a detaining hand. "Use the butler for the wireless, and we'll call out some conversation while he makes a home run."

"I must go," explained Maud. "I forgot something upstairs, and I must see about it at once."

"Tell it to wait," commanded Gordon. "I'm the head of the procession just now. Don't you bother about the water carriers."

"But"— began Maud. And Gordon interrupted again.

"Don't be a goat and butt in," he urged. "Hit the plush."

He pointed to a chair, and timidly Maud seated herself. As she had led the way into the parlor the butler had disappeared, supposing that he would not be required further. To ring for him now would only make a scandal among the servants. Perhaps her father would come down in a few minutes.

He usually spent the evening in the library when he did not go to the club, and in either event he must pass the open door. If the worst came she could call for the butler, but meanwhile perhaps she could induce Gordon to leave quietly. She took the chair indicated, sitting nervously on the edge, ready to spring up and run should occasion demand.

"It doesn't cost any more to have a whole chair," reminded Gordon as he sank into a seat between her and the door. "I want you to put me wise to some things. What's your grouch against me?"

"I have no grouch," protested Maud eagerly. "Indeed, I like you very much."

"I never saw you on the front steps waiting for me," said Gordon grimly. "Let it come out with a rush. I'm in wrong. How can I square myself?"

"There is nothing to be squared," insisted Maud. "I don't see how you can imagine such a thing."

"Naughty, naughty!" reproved Gordon, shaking his forefinger at her admonishingly. "Look here, kiddo, put me next! You don't like me, and I like you. I can't help it if I've got a frozen face. It was wished on me, and it's none of my doings. Tell me how I can loosen up so you'll have a yin for me."

"A yin?" repeated Maud uncertainly. This was a word not in Jimmie's vocabulary.

"A yin—a yearning," explained Gordon. "I want you to think that I'm the whole works, and you won't even let me be the second hand. Fix me up so I can come into the big tent and be a part of the program. I'm the 'what is it' out in the freak tent, and I don't like the job. I may not be quite your style, but I can learn. I'm the star pupil in the little red schoolhouse, and I'll always be at the head of the class if you'll be the teacher. I love to love my teacher."

Maud sprang to her feet, her eyes blazing.

"Mr. Gordon," she said coldly, "I will not prolong this interview. I do not know what is the matter. I do not want to know, but you must go, please. I cannot listen to you when you talk this way."

Gordon had sprung to his feet when Maud rose, and now he smiled down into the flushed, angry face.

"It seems," he said a little sadly, "that my latest effort is no more successful than the earlier attempts. They say that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, and yet you are not pleased."

"What do you mean?" gasped Maud in astonishment.

"You learned slang for my benefit," he reminded. "When I do the same thing you object. Of course my slang is more pronounced than your own, but then you have only Jimmie, while I have the valuable assistance of several elevator boys, my office boy and the janitor's son, who qualifies as an expert. You use slang to disgust me—with yourself. I am using it to disgust you—with slang."

"And you know?" gasped Maud. "Jimmie has told?"

"Be it said to his credit that the temptation was great," said Gordon gently. "Do not blame the lad. He meant well in giving me my last chance to win you. He saw beneath the surface and was sorry for his part. I foolishly imagined that if I could excel you in the use of slang I might startle you into an interest that I see now you never can feel. It was a foolish experiment, Miss Tolliver, and I ask your pardon for having bored and then frightened you. It was my last chance, and I hoped that it might succeed.

"I gather from Jimmie's remarks that you fear paternal pressure will be brought to bear on you. I beg to assure you that I will so contrive the situation as not to involve you. I am —sorry that—the last chance—failed."

The little pauses in his speech were Gordon's only evidences of emotion. They were only little halts in the evenness of his soft, even voice, but they showed the strength of feeling, and it touched Maud with a sudden emotion.

"Don't go," she said softly, laying a detaining hand upon his arm. "Perhaps the last chance has not—I mean"— But she could say no more. Gordon's arms were outstretched, and in his face, no longer expressionless, there was a look of such appeal that she suffered herself to be drawn within their protecting circle. The last chance had won.

The Bigelow Jrs., who have dropped the "Jrs." from their name and are now the Bigelows, have planned to have their first practice tomorrow afternoon if the weather permits. The team has been strengthened in several places this year and should keep up the brilliant record made in former years. These boys are fast and some of the plays they pull off would do credit to much older players.

BIG DEMAND FOR HOUSES.

The demand for houses in Wollaston at the present time is very great. Agents are having hard work to find suitable homes for their clients and houses are being let almost before the cellar is begun. One two apartment house on Safford street, which has but just been started, has both apartments let and another on Beach street is equally well provided for. Real estate men have long lists of people who would like to locate in Wollaston, but do not wish to buy.

☞Wadsworth & Co. are now showing their spring line of suits, coats, waists and skirts.

GIVES TALK ON BIRDS AND ANIMALS

"Nature Man" Kellogg Pleases Audience at Music Hall.

Music hall was well filled Friday afternoon with men women and children, the children being in the majority, to hear Kellogg the great nature man, talk about his friends and companions the birds, the wild animals and the reptiles, and to see their mode of living portrayed by motion pictures. Mr. Kellogg is a very interesting talker, having a pleasing voice and countenance, and the liberal applause given Mr. Kellogg at the conclusion of his lecture bore witness to the fact that everyone present enjoyed the talk.

Mr. Kellog began by telling something about his own life and his method of living, saying that, born as he was in the mountains of California, 200 miles from civilization, he naturally learned to love nature and her wild animals, and to have no fear of any of them. He said the animals were not wild, but as tame as any of the domestic animals and that there was no such thing as danger unless a person was afraid. "An animal will never harm you" said Mr. Kellogg, unless you fear him."

As pictures of different birds were thrown upon the screen Mr. Kellogg gave imitations of their songs, the sweet trills of the birds sounding through the hall making one think he was indeed in a great forest. Pictures of all kinds of birds were shown and many of their characteristics described by Mr. Kellogg.

Mr. Kellogg also showed many pictures of reptiles, beavers cutting down trees, the dams these beavers built and some beautiful views of deer and moose.

The moose pictures were perhaps the most interesting of the afternoon. One was a picture of a big bull moose pursued by Mr. Kellogg in a canoe. He was pursued simply for the purpose of getting a picture at close range, for Mr. Kellogg wouldn't harm the smallest insect. Another excellent picture was that of a moose taken at night by flashlight. The picture was taken from a canoe, and when the moose saw the flash from the powder, instead of running away, he jumped straight at the camera.

The canoe was tipped over and the camera smashed, but the picture was saved. Other fine pictures of life in the Maine woods were shown and were very interesting.

Mr. Kellogg is a perfect specimen of manhood and says he has never been sick. He attributes this to the fact that nine months of every year he spends in the woods, sleeping and living entirely with the animals. A lot of the credit for his success is given to his dog "Don," a beautiful collie, who has been with him for fifteen years.

PILES CURED IN 6 TO 14 DAYS. PAZO OINTMENT is guaranteed to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days or money refunded. 50c.

TO STAMP OUT WHITE PLAGUE

Campaign Planned By Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

A meeting of the Council of the Anti-Tuberculosis association was held Wednesday evening at the residence of the President, Dr. Welch and plans for energetic action in the suppression of tuberculosis were considered.

The finance committee were authorized to make a public appeal for funds that the association may accomplish the good work in Quincy so frequently reported in other communities.

Anyone contributing annually any amount, may become a member of the association.

All money contributions, for the use of the association, in the care of patients or the suppression of the disease or for any special purpose should be sent to the treasurer, Mrs. Frank S. Davis, Elm street, or in her temporary absence to Mrs. J. F. Welch, Hancock street from whom proper acknowledgement will be received.

All funds used by the various committees of the organization must be voted by the Council and the general work of the committee will also be under the direction of the Council.

A full list of the members with their contributions, will be published in a few days.

The next council meeting will be held on the second Monday in April.

A contribution of sixty dollars has just been received from the Music committee of the Quincy Women's club the proceeds of the Salmon recital. Grateful acknowledgment is made to the chairman, Mrs. Otho A. Hayward.

ARGENTINE BATTLESHIPS.

One At Least May Be Built By Fore River Co.

One battleship for the Argentine Republic will surely be built in the United States, and it is possible that the two vessels, for which bids were recently opened in London, as well as several torpedo boats, will be constructed here. Shipbuilding firms from all over the world bid for the contracts.

Three United States firms sought the contracts. They were the Bethlehem steel company, whose president, is Charles M. Schwab; the New York shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., whose president, De Coursey May, is still in England, and the Fore River company of which was represented in London by Ex-Rear Admiral Bowles. Samuel M. Knox, secretary and treasurer of the New York firm, returned today on the Adriatic.

Kidder, Peabody & Co., of Boston and J. Pierpont Morgan are understood to have underwritten a loan to the South American country of between $30,000,000 and $40,000,00 with which to build the ships.

It is practically assured that the contracts for one of the warships will be given to a United States firm, but which of the three firms that bid will not be known for several months. Mr. Knox, who refused to discuss the situation, went to his home in Philadelphia.

Steps In Front Of Train

Ten Year Old Child Killed at South Quincy

The ten year old daughter of John Curry of North Payne street was struck by an express train just south of the Quincy Adams station at 2.02 this afternoon and instantly killed.

An outward and inward express train passed each other at this point. The little girl stood on one side of the track and as soon as the outward express had passed she stepped onto the inward track directly in front of the fast approaching express.

She was struck by the locomotive and thrown some distance and when picked up was dead. The body was viewed by the Medical Examiner at the Quincy Adams depot and given in charge of an undertaker.

The child's parents are prostrated over the accident.

YOUNG AMERICA AT THIS DAY.

That there is a startling difference between the temper of the rising generation and that of the youth whose young ideas shot up according to the teachings of Mrs. Hannah More and Sanford and Merton has recently been proved by a little 7-year-old girl, who was laboriously spelling her way through a reading lesson.

"Always speak the truth," she said, "and obey your parents."

"Be gentle and quiet. Nev-er slam the doors and shout and scream about the house."

"At the ta-ble eat slowly; not in a greed-y manner like a pig."

Suddenly the little girl shut the book with a portentous bang, and announced with firmness and decision:

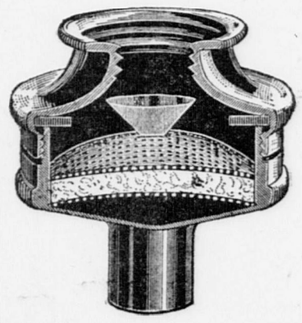

"I'm not going to let any old Third Reader boss me like that!"

PROHIBITION'S BEST ORATOR

Responds to Challenge of Mayor Rose of Milwaukee

SAYS LIQUOR BREEDS CRIME

Saloon the Foe of Capital, but Pre-eminently the Enemy of Labor, According to Dr. Dickie—Opposition Claims That Records Show More Insanity, Drunkenness and Divorces Exist In Prohibition States

Milwaukee, March 27.—The first of a series of remarkable debates was held last night on the question: "Resolved, that prohibition, as applied to the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages, is right." Mayor Rose of Milwaukee took the negative, and Dr. Samuel Dickie, president of Albion college, Albion, Mich., spoke for the Prohibitionists.

The hippodrome, with a seating capacity of 4000, was jammed to the doors and throngs were turned away. There were five applications for every ticket. This was the first of three debates, the second to be held in Chicago and the third at some city in the south.

Mayor Rose recently challenged the Prohibition party to produce its best orator to meet him on the question debated last night. Dickie was chosen as the accredited representative of the Prohibitionists. There was no decision. Dickie said in part:

"The prohibition of the liquor traffic is right, if considered only from the economic standpoint. The saloon is the foe of capital, but pre-eminently the enemy of labor. It paralyzes the arm of the working man, shortens his life, excludes him from many lucrative callings, decreases his power as a producer and throws into the labor market a vast mass of debased and unintelligent laborers who compete disastrously with sober and industrious workmen. No line of manufacture gives employment to so few men in proportion to the capital invested as does the liquor traffic.

"The liquor business breeds criminals. The testimony of prison chaplains, of wardens, sheriffs and judges of the criminal courts warrants the assertion that from 80 to 90 percent of crime is directly or indirectly traceable to the use of intoxicating liquors. Not only is the liquor traffic a breeder of criminals, but it is itself largely composed of men who do not hesitate to violate the law. The great majority of retail liquor sellers are open and notorious law breakers.

"Prohibition is right, because it has been found to be the most efficient method of restraint."

In arguing that prohibition is wrong, Rose treated the subject from three viewpoints, the Biblical, the ethical and the material. He showed that while the evil existed when the ten commandments were written, no attempt was made to inject prohibition in the Decalogue and he challenged any one to find one word in the Bible advocating the theories of prohibitionists.

Treating the subject from the ethical side, he took the census figures of the government and records of cities and states to prove that prohibition increased crime, insanity, deaths, domestic infelicity, pauperism and stagnated business. He showed that more drunkenness existed in Maine than in Wisconsin. He quoted census figures to show that more insanity existed in prohibition states than in neighboring "wet" states, and that the death rates in Maine and Kansas were higher than the "wet" states adjoining.

Much was said about thousands of drunkards dying every year, he said, but he quoted census figures to show that more persons died of whooping cough and measles than of alcoholism. Alcoholism caused the deaths of 6.4 persons in every 100,000 who died, while digestive diseases caused 231.3 deaths in every 100,000.

The mayor quoted figures to show that there were more divorces in Kansas and Maine than in Wisconsin; that prohibition states also had more paupers. He showed that the bank deposits of dry states were smaller than in liquor states and said that prohibition had been a failure wherever tried.

Nation-wide prohibition, he said, would mean a loss of $215,903,000 of revenue a year to the government, would seriously affect the farmer and the laborer of the country because the brewers and malsters and distillers consumed $100,000,000 worth of grain a year. Prohibition would paralyze business, cripple railroads and hurt every walk of life. It would deprive people of personal liberty; and all for no purpose, except the fanaticism of the prohibitionists. The mayor urged some regulation as the true solution of the drink problem.

The Business Outlook

New York, March 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says that favorable conditions in crop growing sections promise well for the future and the seasonable weather generally prevailing is helpful to trade. On the other hand depression in iron and steel trade continues and this depression must be lifted before complete business convalescence is established.

PEELED OFF HIS COAT

Mississippi Congressman Took Exceptions to Remarks by Fordney

Washington, March 27.—The monotony of the tariff debate in the house of representatives was relieved for a time by a clash between Messrs. Fordney (Mich.) and Byrd (Miss.) which came near ending in blows.

Fordney had been making an exhaustive discussion of the lumber schedule, when he was interrupted by Byrd, who insisted that the lumber manufacturers, of which Fordney was one, were in a trust. Fordney denied the statement and said that Byrd didn't "know a damned thing about it."

Byrd made a move toward Fordney and was in the act of removing his coat when some of his Democratic colleagues took hold of him. Later it developed that the incident grew out of a misunderstanding and both men made mutual explanations and apologies.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S DINNER

Congressional Scrappers Enjoy Hospitality of the White House

Washington, March 27.—President Taft brought representatives of all the warring factions in the lower house of congress together last night at the first formal dinner he and Mrs. Taft have given at the White House.

The prsonnel of the guest list was something of a tribute to the president's capabilities as a diplomat and his ambition as a peacemaker. Representative Clark, Democratic leader of the house; Representative Fitzgerald, the Democrat who broke away from his party in the notable fight on the house rules; Representative Gardner, "insurgent" leader among the Republicans in the house, and Representatives Payne and Dalzell, stalwart members of the so-called Cannon machine, were among the noted figures about the table set in the state dining room.

LOYAL TO THEIR MOTHER COUNTRY

British Colonies Offer to Help Expand the Navy

London, March 27.—At the admiralty office great interest is manifested in the report that Canada will make on offer of naval assistance to Great Britain and that the feeling among the Canadian ministers is favorable to the building of one, and possibly two Dreadnaughts. This, with the actual and prospective offer of similar Dreadnaughts from other British colonies, notably New Zealand and Australia, has opened up new possibilities of naval expansion.

In the aggregate the colonies could probably furnish six Dreadnaughts in case of emergency, in addition to the fourteen vessels of this type contemplated by the program of the admiralty.

WITHOUT KNOWN CAUSE

Master of Boston High School Commits Suicide In Hotel

Boston, March 27.—The dead body of Josiah M. Kagan, junior master in German at a Boston high school for many years, and a graduate of Harvard college in the class of 1894, was found in a room at the American House, where he had registered as J. M. Schmidt of New York. He had committed suicide by shooting.

The identity of the man was not known until Medical Examiner Magrath was summoned, who found the dead man was a classmate of his in Harvard.

Professor Kagan lived in Cambridge with his wife, who is president of the Radcliffe College Jewish settlement fund. No cause was ascribed for the suicide.

KETCHEL DEFEATS O'BRIEN

Ten-Round Bout Was a Hot One From Start to Finish

New York, March 27.—In a fast and furious contest here last night Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, defeated Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia. It was a hot bout from start to finish.

In the tenth and final round O'Brien was knocked down three times and his last fall was practically a clean knockout, as the timely clang of the gong found the Philadelphian in a hopeless state. It was Ketchel's fight for the greater part of the way and O'Brien has no excuse to make on the outcome.

Popular Governor Promoted

St. John's, March 27.—Governor MacGregor has been promoted to the governorship of Queensland. His salary will be $25,000 yearly, an increase of $15,000. His departure is regretted by all classes.

Sutton Defeats Cutler

New York, March 27.—George Sutton defeated A. G. Cutler last night by a score of 500 to 283. Sutton was in excellent form and gave a rare exhibition of clever nursing.

OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title - Incorporated 1892.)
The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the donations.
Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.
The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of MARY M. HAYES late of Quincy, in said County, deceased,

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate by Francis L. Hayes of Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham, in said County of Norfolk, on the seventh day of April, A. D. 1909, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in said Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this eleventh day of March in the year one thousand nine hundred and nine.

At the Minstrels.

"What," asked Mistah Bones of Mistah Tambo at the conclusion of the justly celebrated silver sand clog dance by Professor Slinghele—"what am de diffunce atween a red headed brakeman dat gits offen a freight train an' lets it run in on de sidin' at a small town at midnight an' a man dat has a whole lot o' work to do an' keeps gittin' somebody else ter do it because he loafs all de time?"

"How dat?" asked Mistah Tambo, nervously strumming his tambourine.

Mistah Bones repeated his conundrum, and Mr. Tambo immediately said:

"What am de diffunce, anyway?"

"One am a-workin' de switch an' de uddah am a-switchin' de work," explained Mistah Bones.

Before the applause had subsided Mr. Squeekin de Throte, the celebrated contra tenor, stepped to the footlights and began the rendition of the pathetic ballad, "It Would Have Been All the Same Today if You Hadn't Done What You Did."—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

He Was Under Oath.

The late Professor Rowland of Johns Hopkins university was the most eminent physicist since the days of Joseph Henry. Among his notable achievements in the realm of pure science was the calculation of the mechanical equivalent of heat and the use of gratings in spectrum analysis, for which purpose he devised a machine that could cut 40,000 lines to the inch on a plate of polished metal. In the practical application of his knowledge he was noted as the inventor of the multiplex telegraph apparatus.

Some years ago, testifying in a case involving the Cataract Power company, in answer to a question on cross examination as to who, in his opinion, was the greatest American scientist, he replied, "I am."

After leaving the courtroom one of the lawyers ventured to criticise this answer for its effect upon the jury, whereupon Rowland exclaimed:

"Well, what else could I say? Wasn't I under oath?"—New York Globe.

The Starboard Light.

"Twice a day for a week I have been harassed by doubt as to how far a man should go in correcting the glaring mistakes of strangers," said the man who enjoys looking in shop windows. "There is an art store downtown where the present window collection includes the picture of a ship. It is elaborately framed and has a lighthouse carved on the wooden strip at one side, but the artist should never have tried marine work, for he has got the red side light of that vessel on the starboard side. Two or three times I've been on the point of going into the store and asking the proprietor either to remove that picture or put a patch of green paint over that red, and each time my nerve has failed me.

"I am half hoping that the false side light will cause a collision in that window which will smash the picture, and then my anxiety will be relieved."—New York Post.

Protective Coloring of Insects.

A well known little moth with pale green mottled wings is the only case in which I have myself watched the protection afforded by color at work. It was on a summer's evening when I saw this little moth zigzagging up and down with the most extraordinarily irregular flight and a bird pursuing it. Twice the bird swooped and just missed his prey owing to a sudden turn and drop on the part of the moth. And then to my great delight the moth flopped against the stem of a tree on which was growing a greenish gray lichen. The bird swooped again close to the tree, but failed to see the insect and quitted the chase. It took me an appreciable time to detect the little moth resting against the lichen and closely matching it in color.—Sir E. Ray Lankester in London Telegraph.

Hard to Believe.

A station master requested an increase of salary and threatened to leave if he didn't get it.

The superintendent replied to his request by relating a story.

"When I was a young man," said he, "I once did as you are doing—I told the superintendent of the line I was then working on what you have told me. He refused my demand, and I left, and—would you believe it?—that railway line is running yet."—London Tit-Bits.

Not Encouraging.

A pastor in a rural church not far from Milwaukee announced the wedding in his church during the following week of two of his parishioners.

He followed the announcement with the title of the hymn which was then to be sung. It was "Mistaken Souls That Dream of Heaven!"—Milwaukee Free Press.

The Pyrophore.

A living light, called the pyrophore, makes illumination cheap and convenient in Brazil. The pyrophore is a monster firefly, an inch and a half long. With one it is possible to read fine print, and three will light a room. The Brazilian peasant, when he traverses by night the perilous forest paths of his country, fastens to each shoe a pyrophore. Thus illuminated, he has no difficulty in avoiding poisonous snakes, pitfalls and wild beasts. The Brazilian coquette fastens in her hair or her corsage a pyrophore incased in white tulle. The effect is as of a great luminous pearl or opal. When a pyrophore's light goes out it is not necessary to fill him up with oil, to drop a coin in him or to throw him away, but a moment's ducking in cold water suffices. Thereafter his three little lanterns, one on the breast and two on the back, emit again as bright a radiance as ever. The pyrophore, as all nature students know, is called vulgarly cuengo, but scientifically the name is Coleopter serricorn stermose elaterides.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

In the Presence of Death.

Some years ago a Swansea vessel was caught in a terrible gale, says an English paper. The captain had his wife on board, and when the wind was still rising he told her to go down below and sleep, for all was well. He remained on the bridge till the mate came up and said: "We've done all we can. Hadn't you better tell the chaps to get out the boats?"

"Yes, yes, my lad, if you think so," said the captain, who knew the only choice left was whether to go down with the ship or in a small boat, which couldn't live ten seconds in that sea. The engineers came up with the news that the fires were all out.

"Very well, my lads," said the captain quietly. "Save yourselves if you can."

"Won't you fetch the wife on deck, sir?" asked one of the men.

"No," was the calm reply. "Let her sleep, poor girl! I am going down to have a smoke." And, smoking by the bedside of his sleeping wife, he went down with the ship.

A Man of Resources.

A young man genial of face and correct in attire arose from his seat in a well patronized cafe an evening or two ago, raised high a dollar bill and addressed those present.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I have here a dollar bill. It is a good bill, open to inspection by all. I want to raffle it off, and I will esteem it a favor if fifteen gentlemen will come in. Ten cents a chance—10 cents for a dollar bill. It's dirt cheap. Who will come in, please? I'll esteem it a favor, as I said, and there's the chance for a real bargain."

Fifteen men good naturedly chipped in 10 cents each, drew small squares of paper from a hat, and the winner pocketed the bill, with a laugh.

"Thank you, gentlemen," said the raffler, with a Chesterfieldian bow. "That dollar was of no use to me. But now that I've sold it for a dollar and a half I have my car fare home. Thank you. Good night."—New York Globe.

Old College Ways.

Students at St. Andrews university two centuries ago paid nothing for their rooms, but £3 10s. per quarter enabled them to dine at the high table. For £5 11s. 1d. poorer men could get through the whole session—just six months. Breakfast was served at 7 a. m. and consisted of an oatmeal loaf and half a pint of beer. For supper each had half a twopenny loaf and a pint of beer. At the high table poultry, broth and beef were served, and at the second a plentiful supply of broth and beef. Herrings and flounders sometimes graced the board. Beer there was in abundance, and the colleges in those good old days had their brew house, a perquisite of the porter, who was permitted to sell ale to the students.—London Antiquary.

Just a Mistake.

During one of the banquets of the church congress in London a certain bishop had as his left hand companion a clergyman who was completely bald. During dessert the baldheaded vicar dropped his napkin and stooped to pick it up. At this moment the bishop, who was talking to his right hand neighbor, felt a slight touch on his left arm. He turned and, beholding the vicar's pate on a level with his elbow, said: "No, thank you, no melon. I will take some pineapple."

Line Carrying Rockets.

The first line carrying rockets were invented in 1820 by an Englishman named Trengrouse and were soon after adopted by the Massachusetts Humane society for use at its stations, where they proved very successful, though today brass cannons are exclusively used for throwing lines to wrecks.

JEST BY A CASUAL ACQUAINTANCE

Light on "Bribe" Which Would Enrich Head of Police

New York, March 27.—Police Commissioner Bingham, who recently stated that he had been approached with an offer in the nature of a bribe which, if accepted, would have enriched him to the extent of something like $600,000 a year, appeared by request before the county grand jury in relation to the bribe offer.

It developed that Bingham's revelations to the grand jury had been of a conversation with a casual acquaintance made while in Europe during which the man had told the commissioner laughingly: "I suppose your job could be made worth $500,000 or $600,000 a year, if you wanted the money."

The impression in the district attorney's office following Bingham's examination was that no further notice would be taken of the incident.

HEMENWAY AND FINLEY

Entertain Members of Traffic Club at Their Annual Banquet

Pittsburg, March 27.—With more than 500 guests in attendance, including representatives of practically every important railroad and every large city in the country, the seventh annual banquet of the Traffic club of Pittsburg was held here last night.

Former Senator Hemenway of Indiana and W. W. Finley, president of the Southern railway, were the honor guests of the occasion.

President Finley devoted much of his speech to showing the growth of the south in recent years and its resources, which assured even more progress in years to come. Hemenway made a defense of the rules of the national house of representatives and said they were necessary to enable the majority to transact business.

RETIRES FROM POLITICS

William O'Brien's Unexpected Move Creates a Sensation In Cork

Cork, March 27.—A sensation was created here by the appearance of a letter from William O'Brien announcing his resignation as Nationalist member of parliament for Cork and his retirement from politics. The letter says:

"Recent developments, notably the defection of five members for Cork, make it impossible for me to continue further to press my views upon a country which apparently is unable or unwilling to hear me."

O'Brien will also drop the new movement, the "All for Ireland" league, and cease publishing his paper, Irish People. This decision, it is alleged, was due to John E. Redmond's public warning against the movement.

Washington, March 27.—The first big political event in the District of Columbia since the inauguration will come off tonight. The occasion will be the annual dinner of the League of Republican Clubs of the District of Columbia, at which many of the leaders of the party will be present.

Among the men who will make addresses tonight will be Vice President Sherman, Speaker Cannon, Senators Warner of Missouri and Brown of Nebraska, and Representatives J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania Francis W. Cushman of Washington and John J. Esch of Wisconsin.

EACH WINS A LEG

Debate Between Harvard, Princeton and Yale Results In a Tie

Cambridge, Mass., March 27.—As the home team won each leg of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton triangular debate last night, the contest ended in a tie. The subject of the debate was: "Resolved, That all corporations engaged in interstate commerce be compelled to take out a federal charter."

Harvard met Princeton at Princeton and Yale at Cambridge. Yale debated Princeton at New Haven.

The home team at each place had the negative of the question.

Veteran Oarsman Dead

St. John, March 27.—George Price, who was a member of the celebrated Paris crew which held the four oared championship of the world, died after a long illness at his home in this city. Elijah Rose is now the only survivor of the world famed quartette. Price was born in this city 70 years ago.

Synod Opposes Salvation Army

St. Petersburg, March 27.—William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, is in St. Petersburg and is negotiating with the government for permission to establish a branch of the Salvation Army in Russia. He is being strongly opposed by the holy synod.

Date of Canal Opening

Washington, March 27.—"Unless there is some unforeseen dificulty, such as labor trouble or an epidemic of some kind, I feel confident that the canal will be opened by Jan. 1, 1915," said Colonel Goethals.

For the Ledger.

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

Washington, March 20, 1909.

The new tariff measure which takes its name, the Payne bill, from Chairman Payne of the Ways and Means committee, taken as a whole, makes provision for a material reduction of the duties imposed by the Dingley law, and experts predict that it will at the same time produce an important increase of revenue. It is estimated by the framers of the bill, that its revenue producing power will be $335,000,000 from imports, and $275,000,000 from internal revenue, making an increase in the government's annual revenue of $10,000,000.

The provision for a graduated inheritance tax, similar to that of New York, is the most striking innovation and the system of maximum and minimum duties whereby the principle of reciprocity is to be carried out practically automatically, is another innovation. To make up the needed revenues ,among other provisions, luxuries have been transferred to the dutiable list, such as perfumes and highly perfumed soaps, and a long list of spices have been taken from the free list and put upon the dutiable schedules.

It is expected that general debate on the Payne bill will begin in the House on Tuesday next, as the minority members of the committee on Ways and Means have been given until that day to file their reports, and the present indications are that party lines will be eliminated during the consideration of the bill. Each member of the House will look after the interests of his own district during the fight, with but few exceptions.

Secretary McVeagh of the Treasury Department expressed satisfaction with the general features of the new tariff bill. From the viewpoint of the Treasury Department the maximum and minimum feature of the bill is one of its most important provisions. By this provision the government is given a weapon by which it is in a position to retaliate for any discrimination sought to be practiced by a foreign government, and it is considered that in this way the interests of American exporters will be conserved and promoted.

Another feature of the bill commended by the Treasury officials is the paragraph providing an improved way of establishing "market value" for imports. The new bill provides that in the absence of a home market in the country of origin, the market value of such imports is to be determined by working backward from the selling price in the United States. Under this plan a certain percentage will be allowed for profit on the goods, and to this will be added freight, cartage, and other charges. Under the method now in force, the so-called German agreement, the market value of imports from that country, of goods which have no sale there, is determined by taking an average of the export price of such goods sold to all other countries.

Senator Aldrich, chairman of the committee on Finance, intends to push the consideration of the tariff bill in the Senate committee with all possible dispatch and it is expected that, beginning with Friday, the committee will be in continuous session. In this way the delay incidental to the usual method of committee consideration will be avoided. The Senate leaders will engage their own experts in tabulating information and preparing comparative tables so that all Senators may have abundant data bearing upon every schedule.

The Central American situation ,in all its phases was discussed with Secretary Knox by the various representatives from these republics, at the State department on Thursday of this week, the regular diplomatic day. From advices received at the State department, military activities in Nicaragua still continue, and she is blamed with being the cause and the sole cause of the unsettled conditions in Central America.

Official announcement is made that the 600 foot tower, which the government proposes to construct for wireless telegraph purposes, will be erected at either Annapolis or in the District of Columbia. It will be capable of sending messages three thousand miles and receiving them from a distance of a thousand miles. It is expected that bids for the concrete work will soon be in the hands of the Navy department officials, and it is hoped to have the tower started in about a month. It will require three and four months to erect it.

The Commissioner of Pensions, Col. Vespasian Warner, is the recipient of an unusual tribute. President Taft is to be presented with a petition asking the retention of Col. Warner and signed by nearly every member of Congress, regardless of political affiliation, in recognition of the able way in which he has administered the affairs of his office. Adams.

Fate and Mrs. Bayard.

By LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"You may come in," called Ethel, eying approvingly the tall, well proportioned figure in the doorway. "I'm hiding," she explained as Chisholm came forward. "I'm hiding from a man."

"Remarkable!" was Chisholm's quiet comment as he dropped into a chair opposite the settee on which Miss Sprague sat. "I have come here to hide from a woman—a woman I never met."

Ethel clapped her hands. "Wouldn't it be funny if it happened that you were running away from me and I were running away from you and we both should be hiding here together—from each other?"

"More than likely we are the victims of Mrs. Bayard's well intentioned efforts," asserted Chisholm. "It is odd that after dodging Mrs. Bayard we should find ourselves in the same retreat with the common aim of avoiding each other."

"If you should tell me your name," suggested Ethel, "we could find out if we really are the only two victims of Mrs. Bayard's matchmaking craze."

"And rob the situation of its piquancy!" objected Chisholm. "No, Miss—Miss—er—Miss Dimples. I think we will enjoy a chat far more, because we are not absolutely certain that presently we will emerge from our retreat only to be pounced upon by the energetic Mrs. Bayard, thereupon to be introduced to each other while the world—our little world—looks on and smiles its commiseration."

"Mrs. Bayard means well," declared Ethel, "but it is dreadful the way she goes around introducing people with a look that says, 'Now I have introduced you young people I shall expect you to be married immediately, because you are perfectly suited to each other.' Every one finds such amusement in Mrs. Bayard's matchmaking that her victims are marked persons, so they come to hate each other."

"If she were content with mere hints it would not be so bad," continued Chisholm comfortably, "but she had me over here this morning to tell me that tonight I should meet my fate."

"And she wrote me," explained Ethel. "It seems that she has three sets of victims here tonight, so as soon as I came I made straight for this flirtation nook. Mrs. Bayard believes in flirtation booths to further her amiable ends, and it seemed a clever bit of satire to take refuge in one of her matrimonial traps."

"I felt much the same way," assented Chisholm. "Of course some time in the course of the evening I shall have to undergo the ordeal, but I am trying to defer her introduction until the last moment.

"This is the first time that I ever have been warned that I must marry, whether or no, and—well, I don't suppose that it would sound right to say that I am bashful, but I don't seem to fancy the idea."

"Which is ungrateful when Mrs. Bayard goes to such trouble on our account," reminded Ethel. "She gives three or four balls a year just to 'bring people together,' as she expresses it."

"Just as though the people would not find each other if let alone!" commented Chisholm, with a laugh. "Now, I can imagine that in happier circumstances I might"—

"What?" demanded Ethel as Chisholm paused.

"I was going to say," he concluded, "that left to myself I might perhaps have carried out Mrs. Bayard's wishes through natural impulse and not through a sense of duty."

Ethel colored softly at the remark, for the meaning was not to be mistaken. Moreover, she suddenly regretted the matchmaking propensities of her hostess, which had resulted in prejudicing the mind of this new found acquaintance against her.

"I remember when I was a youngster in short trousers," reminisced Chisholm, "that one day my father mixed a pail of whitewash, placed a brush beside it and gave me strict orders not to whitewash the chicken coops because I did not have the requisite skill. Then he went downtown, and I took chances on a thrashing to prove that I could do it."

"We always want to do the forbidden things," assented Ethel. "I suppose we inherit the trait from our first parents."

"It's human nature," agreed Chisholm. "Now, if Mrs. Bayard had said, 'Above all things, keep away from Miss—er—Dimples,' I should have hunted up the introduction the very first thing instead of running off to hide."

"And then you make my acquaintance the very first thing, just the same."

"But we are not certain, you know," pleaded Chisholm eagerly. "You said yourself that there were four other victims."

"But of course we are one of the pairs," insisted Ethel.

"Perhaps not of the same pair. It may be that through some happy chance fate has been permitted to take a hand and do things right."

"If you would tell me who you are," suggested Ethel, "we could settle the matter."

"And spoil it all," reminded Chisholm.

"Then I shall tell you my name," declared Ethel firmly. "I am"—

"You are Miss Dimples—for just a little while," pleaded the man. "All too soon the awakening will come. Let us enjoy these few minutes without the thought that fate and Mrs. Bayard are contriving to make us hateful to each other."

"If I am hateful"— suggested Ethel, rising.

"Don't go," pleaded Chisholm. "I didn't mean it that way. You are not hateful. You are a most adorable and charming young woman. It is only as an inevitable thing that you could become—not hateful, but"—

"Irritating," suggested Ethel, resuming her seat. "I suppose that when we are introduced I shall feel the same way about you."

"Then you do not feel that way now?" he pressed.

"You are not hateful—yet," she conceded. "I think that I should like you if I were not certain that Mrs. Bayard is looking everywhere for us to give the detested introduction."

"Then don't let us be introdueed," pleaded Chisholm. "I mean not by our hostess. We can get some one else to introduce us, and when Mrs. Bayard sees us talking together she will leave us alone."

"Perhaps that might be done," agreed Ethel thoughtfully. "The only trouble is that so few here know me. It would be running a risk to go in search of an introducer."

"Then we might go and look for—the devil," he completed unexpectedly as the palms which screened the entrance parted and Mrs. Bayard swept in.

"There you are," she cried, shaking a plump, roguish forefinger at the pair. Mrs. Bayard would insist on being kittenish in spite of 200 pounds of all too solid flesh. "I have been looking everywhere for you two," she added, and Chisholm groaned. Evidently they were one of Mrs. Bayard's "pairs."

"I think it's a shame," continued the good lady. "There are Mr. Wynne and Miss Maurer flirting desperately, and all the time I've been looking for you two to introduce you to them."

A gleam of interest shone in Chisholm's eyes.

"Dear Mrs. Bayard," he suggested, "don't you think that perhaps it would be well to let that infatuated couple alone and rest content with introducing us to each other?"

"Miss Sprague—Mr. Chisholm," repeated the hostess, adding, "I am sure that you will like Miss Maurer when you meet her, Mr. Chisholm."

"I am quite convinced of that," assented Chisholm calmly. "I am already very grateful to Miss Maurer for occupying Mr. Wynne's attentions."

There was no mistaking the meaning and the mastery in Chisholm's tones. Mrs. Bayard turned and fled. Chisholm faced the blushing girl.

"Since it was fate and not Mrs. Bayard who took an interest in our affairs," he said significantly, "I—that is—there is a good half hour before the supper dance. Let's spend the time in getting better acquainted." And he sat down again, this time on the bench beside her.

His Lady's Tresses.

Sarah, the first Duchess of Marlborough, whose tempestuous character lacked many of the ordinary graces of womanliness, was yet sincerely loved by the two persons who knew her best—her husband, the Duke of Marlborough, and the "good" Queen Anne. Among the many pictures which Mr. Fitzgerald Molloy, the biographer of the duchess, incorporated in his "Life" is one which is not only lively, but charming:

On the death of the duke the duchess found in a cabinet where he kept all that he most valued a mass of her hair. Years before when he had thwarted her in something she resolved to mortify him, and, knowing that her beautiful and abundant hair was a source of pride and delight to him, she had it cut off.

The shorn tresses were left in a room through which the duke must pass and in a place where he must see them, for whatever Marlborough's lady did she did thoroughly. But he came and went, saw and spoke to her and showed neither anger, sorrow nor surprise.

When he next quitted the house she ran to see her tresses, but they had disappeared, and on consulting her looking glass she saw how foolish a thing she had done. But she said nothing about her shorn locks, nor did the duke. She never knew what had become of them until after the death of the duke she found them among those things which he had held most precious.

How Oysters Drop Pearls.

"The pearl oyster gives its pearl to you as a pretty girl gives you her white hand," said a jeweler. "Did you think that, like an oyster opener in an eating bar, the fisher pried open the shell with a knife and went jabbing about in the soft flesh? Oh, no—nothing so unpoetical. The oyster opens its lips and silently lets drop its pearl.

"The oysters," he explained, "are brought in to port and are laid on sloping boards, mouths downward. A few inches below their mouths is water. In two or three days the oysters become dreadfully dry and thirsty. The water tantalizes them. It increases their thirst. At last they open their shells, and if there are pearls within they roll forth and drop into the pans of water. That is how pearls are obtained. To open the oysters and search them is a useless task that is never thought of at the fisheries."

Too Much Equality.

"Why are you so vexed, Irma?"

"I am so exasperated! I attended the meeting of the Social Equality league, and my parlor maid presided and had the audacity to call me to order three times!"—Fliegende Blatter.

Only four more days of March.

That quake reported in Africa, was probably caused by the denizens of the forest shaking with fear at the news that T. R. had started on his African hunt.

Hurrah! for the first straw hat and woman who had the courage to wear it.

The now famous White House conference seems not to have been given over entirely to pessimism, as the opinion was there expressed that an issue of bonds would not be necessary before next fall, if at all, to meet current expenditures. The revenues of the Treasury are increasing, it is stated, and the outlook is more promising than some time ago. Issues of Panama bonds are expected before long to repay advances from the Treasury funds for the construction of the canal, and with the proceeds of the sale of these bonds and the regular income from other sources, the Treasury may be able to avoid selling bonds or Treasury certificates for revenue purposes for many months Evidently the outlook is far from hopeless.

From the State Department comes the report that Secretary Knox has delivered an ultimatum to President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, requiring him to submit to arbitration, as he promised to do, certain cases in which Americans are involved. It is intimated, also, that if the ultimatum should fail in the desired effect, the President will ask Congress for authority to take such steps as may be necessary to bring Nicaragua to terms. Had it not been for the insignificance of Nicaragua there would have been a strong public demand for action long ere this, even to the extent of war, for the wrongs perpetrated on American citizens. It looks however, as though forbearance on the part of the United States had ceased to be a virtue.

Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, and chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, was a blacksmith before he was called upon to represent his district in Congress, and is of a mechanical turn of mind. Owing to this fact the United States government will save about $140,000 annually. Mr. Tawney is responsible for the invention and installation in the bureau of engraving and printing, of an improved bank-note printing machine which by one operation will do the work heretofore performed by three machines and three operators.

Absenteeism in the House of Representatives is becoming a real evil, to such an extent indeed as to interfere with the business of the lower branch of Congress. It is well known that during the closing days of the Sixtieth Congress a number of votes were lost to the organization as a result of the absence of members. From Washington comes the gratifying report that Speaker Cannon intends to look after these delinquents who do not stay on the job during the consideration of the tariff bill and that they will be "docked" if they fail to attend the sessions. History affords ample precedent for such a course. Speaker Crisp in the Fifty-third and Speaker Reed in the Fifty-fourth Congresses both brought a lot of absentees to their senses by ordering that deductions should be made from the salaries of those who failed to attend the session. The pity of it is that such method must needs be resorted to in order to enforce a responsibility that should be regarded as a duty and a privilege.

☞Quincy is to have the pleasure of hearing a singer of national as well as European reputation, Mademoiselle Sigrid Westerlind, the Swedish Finnish soprano being booked to appear at Quincy Music hall on April 16th. She will be assisted by the Edgecomb trio of Boston and Mrs. Isabelle Davis of Quincy. Mlle. Westerlind possesses a dramatic mezzo soprano voice and her interpretation of Grieg, Strauss, Sibelius and the Finnish folksongs is a treat.

BRIEFS

But two weeks more of Lent and then the social season will be in full swing again.

The boys' club of Christ church is preparing a show to be given in May under the direction of Mr. Wrigley.

Many out of town Chapter Masons will be in Quincy next Friday at the exemplification of the four degrees at Masonic apartments.

There is still so much frost in the ground that builders find it difficult to dig cellars and it is holding them back on spring contracts.

A candy sale held by Constance Sears and Josephine Smith netted eight dollars, which they presented to the Quincy Day Nursery.

Mrs. Isabelle Davis and Mr. Erastus Osgood are training members of the Galahad club of Christ church in the play "The Two Buzzards."

The regular meeting of the Young People's Religious union of the Wollaston Unitarian church which was to have been held on Sunday evening, will be postponed one week.

The late Caleb Chase of Brookline, brother-in-law of Mrs. James H. Stetson of this city, left an estate valued at over $2,000,000. Considerable of which goes to charity.

Dr. Edward V. Huntington addressed St. Margaret's Guild in the parish house of Christ church last evening. The meeting next week will be for business.

The monthly vesper service will be held in the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. The choir will be assisted by Mr. S. P. Moorhouse and Miss Marion Moorhouse.

The public are invited to hear Dr. Frank C. Richardson, professor at Boston University, speak on Psychism at the meeting of the Congregational Men's club on Tuesday evening, March 30, at eight o'clock.

The last of the course of Lenten entertainments will be held on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. George H. Brown of Elm street. These afternoons have been largely attended and enjoyable.

Those in favor of and those opposed to the purchase of the Norteman lot at Houghs Neck will be given an opportunity to express their arguments before the joint committee on Finance and Public Buildings, Monday evening.

A children's party will be held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening, April 1, for the members of the Sunday school. It will consist of a supper, which will be served at six o'clock, games and other entertainment.

Wollaston was represented at the gymnastic exhibition held at the Boston Y. M. C. U. on Friday evening. Roland M. Prentiss and Ernest V. Pletsch, both of Marlboro street did an exceedingly good act on the Swedish box.

Mrs. Christopher R. Eliot will speak on the "Work of the Bulfinch Street church" at the next meeting of the Ladies' Aid Alliance of the Wollaston Unitarian church to be held in the vestry on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Willard E. Keyes of Wollaston, who two weeks ago addressed the Tuck school at Dartmouth college, on the subject of "Advertising and the Development of Trade," has since been notified of his appointment on the regular staff of outside lecturers.

The annual meeting of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten will be held at the residence of Mr. Frank K. Linscott, 15 Lincoln avenue, on Tuesday evening, March 30, at eight o'clock. Mr. Henry W. Holmes of the education department of Harvard University will speak on the subject: "Why should the kindergarten be made a part of our public school system?"

The last meeting of the season for the Unity club will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry on Friday evening, April 2. Mr. Willard E. Keyes will be in charge and the subject will be "Short studies in human nature." LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Editor:—

Enclosed you will find some clippings from the Monumental News of February current year which voices an optimistic spirit in so far as the producing and of our granite industry is concerned. Also great hopes of prosperity for the future, and while we all agree that the conditions for production were never better and the capacity of the men of Quincy in the granite business unsurpassed for energy and integrity, an occasional exception, simply proving the rule. We have other very important factors entering into the problem which must be considered and properly solved before we can in our city hope for a full era of prosperity in this the principal business, and on which in a great measure the business welfare of our city depends.

We have now the energy and capacity and the product, now what is required, is transportation facilities to meet competition along that line and until that problem is solved, and solved right, our business cannot possibly attain the full measure of prosperity, for the cost of production in our city is down to the bottom level, and the producer finds it extremely hard even now to meet outside competition and in some cases owing to excessive freight rates the markets have been practically closed to Quincy business.

There is a solution of the problem as plain as anything possibly can be, and that is to utilize our water facilities.

The time was only a very few years ago when we had a packet line consisting of one schooner running between Quincy Point and New York. We little realized at that time what this one man was doing for Quincy.

Unfortunately this vessel was lost and we immediately commenced to feel the result of the loss of even this small competition for the rates to Boston were almost immediately doubled, transfer across Boston also nearly doubled, and the rate to Brooklyn, N. Y., was also practically doubled.

The loss of business to our city in this one matter is as nearly as I can find out about one hundred thousand dollars a year.

Should this situation be allowed longer to prevail? I for one think not and stand ready to subscribe with other citizens of our city to a fund to operate a line between this city and New York.

If we have five hundred really live citizens who are ready to go into a stock company and put in two hundred dollars each, Quincy will begin to be what it should be, coming to its own.

At present as we look at our possibilities, Quincy seems like a gigantic giant impotent through lack of development, and something must be done by the citizens, or outside parties will come and do what we should be doing now.

The Federal Government has appropriated $25,000 a year, as a fund to be used in the survey of the inland waterways project. The people want it, they will have it, and it is time the people of Quincy were abreast of the times. You will note the tonnage from our city in 1908, was about six hundred and twelve thousand tons. The average freight rate on this would be about four dollars per ton, or $2,448,000. Probably twenty-five percent of this at least could be shipped from our water front and reach its destination for less than 50 percent of the present cost and leave a good profit for the shipping company, and not only that the present excessive rates by rail would drop like a house of cards.

I have tried to be conservative in figures and estimates. My object is not to magnify the situation but a simple statement of the problem as it appears to me. Another thought in connection is that our electric company desires a franchise to run express cars through our city.

I believe in granting such a franchise they should agree in return to connect our producing plants and quarries with our water front, when needed. In other words agree to do something for Quincy in return for favors granted. This would minimize rate to shipping point and be a vast saving on our roads. I trust too much of your valuable space has not been taken but we must know that at present we are in the hands of a corporation whose sympathies are not with our city, and whose object in freight matters seem to be aimed solely to get all possible out of us and which if allowed to continue will eventually take a greater part of the business from the city. We cannot compete at four dollars a ton to Brooklyn, N. Y., when eastern quarries are putiing it there at 50 cents a ton. I trust we will wake up to the situation. The stone in Solomans temple was drawn by oxen, we are told we should be advanced beyond that now.

Yours truly,
John R. Richards.

THERE'S A REASON

why one kind of hosiery for men will wear so many times longer than other kinds WITHOUT HOLES OR DARNING. A good reason, too, for it's the new

Interwoven TOE AND HEEL REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

That makes all the difference in the world. We have taken up this new hosiery because we realize it is just what every man wants. A LIGHT WEIGHT, FINE TEXTURE sock that will give LONG WEAR WITHOUT DARNING. Because of this wonderful toe and heel a lisle sock is made which will outwear the heaviest, most clumsy hosiery with the ordinary double toe and heel.

Try these. 25c. will buy a pair and one pair will show you the difference.

GIVES TALK ON SHIP BUILDING

Manager of Fore River Co. Speaker at Banquet.

One of the best events of the season took place at the Young Men's Christian Association last evening. It was for the Employed Boys of the association and some forty were on hand to enjoy the occasion. Every one present did justice to the chicken pie supper prepared by the boys. W. H. Bentley acted as toastmaster. R. L. Chase made a few remarks. After a number of stories by Mr. Bentley, which were enjoyed by all, the speaker of the evening, H. G. Smith, manager of the Fore River Ship Building Co., was introduced.

His talk was the best ever given for the Employed Boys of the association. Mr. Smith told the fundamentals of "Starting a Ship," going back to the laying out of a shipyard, telling of the many things to be taken into consideration in this great undertaking.

There are special things to be considered in building a ship, first material, second, expense account, and third, labor. In closing, Mr. Smith said that the management is very optimistic regarding the future of the yard and prophesies that it will ultimately be the greatest shipbuilding plant in America.

The banquet ended with a few remarks by Mr. Bentley.

The committee that served the supper were: David Melville, Alexander Mundie, Joseph Pinel, Gus Shirley and Alexander W. Clark.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Mary McCue.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary McCue, wife of James McCue of 19 Sumner street, was held this morning from her late home. A high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. John's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. Casey.

The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, John Mahon presiding at the organ. Miss Mary McConarty sang the "Pie Jesu" and Mr. Mahon the "Domine Jesu." Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Mrs. B. J. Kiley.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the funeral of Mrs. D. J. Kiley of Babcock street, Houghs Neck, which was held this morning in St. John's church.

Mrs. Kiley died suddenly Wednesday night while giving her daughter a birthday party.

Rev. John J. Coan celebrated a requiem high mass at 10 o'clock, the regular choir, with John Mahon at the organ, singing the Gregorian mass. The "Pie Jesu" was sung by Miss Mary McConarty, while John Mahon sang the "Domine Jesu."

Mrs. Kiley is survived by a husband, a son and two daughters. Her son is a student at Boston college high school, and several priests from that institution attended the funeral.

The bearers were John Rooney, William Rooney, Joseph O'Keefe and John Deegan. Burial was in New Calvary cemetery.

John Hannon.

The funeral of John Hannon who died at West Rutland, Vt., was held this morning from 4 Hillside street. A high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock by Rev. William J. Duffy. The regular choir with Miss Rena Bizzozero as organist sang the Gregorian mass. At the offertory Mrs. J. F. Hennessey sang De Profundis. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were Jeremiah Dinneen, Bartholemew Gunning, William McLaughlin, John N. Drohan, Malcolm Gillis and John Sanderson.

Mr. Hannon who leaves a widow and seven children was a member of the Irish National Foresters and of Division 4, A. O. H., both of which organizations were represented at the funeral. There were many beautiful flowers.

ROYAL PURPLE DEGREE.

Manet Encampment I. O. O. F. Works Degree On Four Candidates.

Manet Encampment I. O. O. F. entertained the members of Natick encampment at its meeting Friday evening. The work of the evening was the Royal Purple degree which was worked on four candidates in a manner that called forth many words of praise from the visitors. The hall was very prettily decorated for the evening, the color scheme being royal purple. After the business meeting, an adjournment was made to the banquet hall, where a supper was served which included cold meats, salads and ices. The tables looked very attractive, the decorations here being potted plants.

A social hour followed the banquet, during which interesting remarks were made by many of the visitors.

MILTON.

Milton academy closed Thursday for the spring vacation.

Eldon Clark of Adams street sailed for Europe on Tuesday.

Dust was so thick the first of the week the street sprinklers were put in commission.

Juniors of the Milton High school gave a reception Friday night for the Seniors.

The annual meeting of the Woman's club will be held on Monday, April 5.

An entertainment consisting of songs, readings and other features was given Wednesday evening at the Baptist church in East Milton, by the Sunday school. Readings were contributed by Mrs. Irad Hardy, wife of the pastor, and solos by Mr. Wetmore. There were also tableaux, and an exercise. "Froggers at Play" by a class of small boys. Much credit is due Mrs. Hardy not only for her readings but for her work in arranging the tableaux. The special lighting effects were arranged by Ernest E. Choate and Robert Forbes. About 250 were present.

C. E. CONVENTION.

The Christian Endeavor societies of Norfolk County are completing plans for their annual convention which will be held this year at Norwood on April 19th. The East Norfolk and Clark unions have chartered a special train which will leave Boston at 9.30 A. M., arriving in Norwood in time for the morning session.

The forenoon will be devoted to Junior work, with exercises by members of the local societies and addresses by Junior workers.

At 12.30 a free lunch will be served at the headquarters of the Boys' Brigade, after which there will be time to visit points of interest in the vicinity.

At the afternoon session, which begins at 2 o'clock, there will be a business meeting followed by an address by Miss Margaret Slattery of Fitchburg and a question box conducted by Dr. E. N. Hardy of Quincy.

After the banquet at 6 o'clock the evening session will be held. There will be two addresses "State Work" by Rev. J. Spencer Voorhees, president of the state union and "First Things First" by Rev. James Alexander, D. D., of Boston. Following this will come the installation of officers by Rev. John Reed of Franklin and the consecration service conducted by Rev. Arthur H. Gordon of Cambridge.

Music for the convention will be furnished by a girls' vested choir and a male quartet.

Although the convention is primarily for members of Endeavor societies, everyone is welcome and a large number are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity for a pleasant holiday outing combined with the privilege of enjoying an unusually attractive program.

ATHLETIC EXHIBITION.

Much interest is manifested by pupils and graduates of Thayer Academy in the 13th annual athletic exhibition to be held this evening at Braintree Town Hall.

There will be ten interesting events to be followed by dancing. Twenty-seven different students are entered, several taking part in more than one event. Winners will score five points, second place will give three points, and third place one point.

The events will include a 15-yard dash, a potato race, stick drill, high jump, Indian war dance, three-legged race, high dive, club swinging, Indian games and pyramids.

Souvenir programs have been issued from the office of the Observer-Reporter, and have much of interest besides the schedule of events.

It is said the special committee on the proposed new school house at East Braintree will be ready to report at the town meeting next Monday evening.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Quincy Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kindney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Quincy people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. E. Burke, living at 143 Quincy St., Quincy, Mass. says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy for Kidney trouble, both my husband and myself having used them and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Mr. Burke had such a severe pain in his back that he could hardly do his work, but Doan's Kidney Pills fixed him up in good shape. They were procured at the Cox Drug Store and have our highest recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United Statts.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Better Stir up Your Liver a Little!

Not too much, just a little, just enough to start the bile nicely. One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime is all you need. These pills act directly on the liver. Made for the treatment of constipation, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick-headache. Ask your doctor if he knows a better pill for a sluggish liver. Then follow his advice. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

BRAINTREE.

James Thayer of Liberty street is having his stable made into a dwelling house.

Miss Ora Conant, a popular teacher of the Pennimaq school, was given a linen shower on Monday evening, at the home of Miss Irene Holbrook.

There was more passing on the country roads last Sunday than there have been for six months almost every one seemed to be welcoming the spring.

The Union school was closed on Monday by order of the Board of Health because of cases of scarlet fever and measles. A pupil of the school, while visiting in Brockton, contracted the disease. It will not reopen until April 12.

Box 135 was pulled at 2 P. M. Wednesday for a fire in the woods in the rear of the estate of Peter Ness between West street and Monatiquot avenue. It set the fence on fire at several points and threatened the paint shop but was checked by the firemen.

Some opposition having been manifested to the removal of trees on Elm street, as contemplated, between Lowell and Cedar streets the Tree Warden gives notice today of a public hearing to be held on the site next Monday afternoon. The trees in question are located nearly fifteen feet inside the boundary line of the street, and the car track makes the street very narrow at this point. The street railway is willing to build up the retaining wall and widen out the street, if the trees are removed, and will then relocate its tracks. It is claimed that the trees are irregular and unsightly and that it would be an improvement rather than an injury if they were removed. The new Improvement association, however, think differently.

A series of health lectures is announced today to be given at Cochato hall by William Anthony Spinney, A. M., a teacher of mental and physical culture. These lectures have received high testimonials from clergymen, educators and the press, and promise to be of interest and value.

The last entertainment in the Brotherhood course at the First Congregational church on Wednesday evening was by far the best. It was a recital by Mrs. Charlotte Adams Dunne of "Leah, the Forsaken." Mrs. Dunne, unassisted took all twelve characters, including three acts and eight scenes. It was a novel and pleasing entertainment.

Adoniram Dyer of Hancock street is unable to attend to his business because of illness.

Lester B. Payne of Stedman avenue is planning to locate in Taunton about the first of April.

Mrs. James Holbrook is dangerously ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. Martha Wilson of Thayer place.

Mrs. Thaddeus Blake of Franklin street is able to be out after a prolonged illness.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Willie Simonds of Tremont street have been entertaining Howard Wade this week.

Mrs. David Thayer of Thayer place is making an extended visit in Middletown, Conn.

The W. R. C. will hold their supper on Thursday evening, April 1, instead of Monday evening, April 15.

Master Charles Parker of Liberty street, who has been seriously ill with scarlet fever, is on the road to recovery.

The young people of the St. Francis parish are making active preparations for a minstrel show, which is to be held at an early date.

Camp 32, Sons of Veterans, initiated a candidate at their regular meeting thereby adding another recruit to their fast increasing membership.

Monday evening the members of the Matrons' whist club were entertained by Mrs. George E. Snow of Hancock street.

H. Sands Burgess is reported to be very ill with pneumonia at his home on Washington street. His many friends anxiously await his recovery.

The doctors state that there is a great deal of illness about town at the present time. In addition to grip and pneumonia,, measles and scarlet fever are reported.

Captain James T. Stevens and H. A. Monk attended on Tuesday evening the banquet of the Boys of '61-'65, who have been members of the Legislature. It was held at the American house and attended by 75 or more.

H. Willie Simonds of Franklin street was tendered a surprise on Tuesday evening by a large party of his friends, the occasion being his fifty-ninth birthday. Among the presents received was a six quart ice-cream freezer filled with ices. After a merry evening with music and games, the guests departed at a late hour, wishing Mr. Simonds many happy returns of the day.

Letters remain unclaimed at the South Braintree post office for: Mrs. C. J. Cheney, Louis Felix, Mrs. Frank Greenwood, John Gazarosian, Walter Hovey, Oscar Johnson, Adonio Magio, Miss F. Smith and John Wilson.

Miss Bessie M. Hollis of Union street was suprised on Saturday evening by 25 of her young friends who called to celebrate her 17th birthday. Games and music were enjoyed and refreshments were served. In behalf of those assembled Fred Watson presented Miss Hollis a beautiful signet ring.

St. Mary's Guild will meet with Mrs. Bill next Wednesday, March 31.

Several new members were admitted to Delta lodge of Masons at the communication this week.

Only one letter remains unclaimed for a week at the Braintree post office, for Miss Annie G. McCarthy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Smith were called to Newport, Vt., last week by the fatal illness of Mrs. Smith's mother who died on Sunday. Mrs. Dow has visited in Braintree.

James H. Stedman, of Cedar street, has been in Washington, D. C., this week. Mrs. Stedman, who has spent the latter portion of the winter in Augusta, Ga., will return with him next week.

SALLY JOY WHITE.

Thursday papers record the passing away of a well known woman, Mrs. Sally Joy White. She was widely known in club circles and as a magazine and newspaper writer under the pen name of "Penelope Penfeather." She was one of the founders of the New England Woman's Press association and its first president as well as its present president. She was also one of the founders of the Daughters of Vermont and served as president. Whenever she joined a club she was at once an active member working for the good of the club.

She was generous and kindly to all women especially to fellow-workers and many young journalists owe a debt of gratitude to her for cheery words of encouragement. Mrs. White lived in an old colonial house in Dedham and leaves two daughters to mourn her loss. Mrs. Granville Darling and Mrs. Chester Mayo Pratt.

BUILDNG PERMITS.

Building has taken a boom in Quincy and from now on business in this line will be rushing.

Eight new building permits were issued yesterday by the inspector of buildings as follows.

To Ada McFarland for a house on Oxen Bridge road, Wollaston.

To the Old Colony Broken Stone Cement Co., for a crushing plant off Albertina street.

To James E. Shannon for a cottage on Rock Island road.

To Alfred Gingreas for a cottage on Rockland street, Germantown.

NOTES PLACED IN HER SHROUD

Coroner Complies With Written Request of Mrs. Lorillard

TRINKETS ALSO IN CASKET

Suicide's Evident Desire That No Human Eyes Should See Them After Her Own Had Turned From Them —Husband and Son the Only Mourners to Follow the Remains as They Left Washington

Washington, March 27.—In the folds of her shroud the material evidence of the death secret of Mrs. Pierre Lorillard, Jr., is sealed with her body on its final journey to the grave.

The funeral party left the Lorillard residence last evening for New York. At the old home of the Lorillards at Irvington, on the east bank of the Hudson, the casket will be interred today.

At the very hour when the first social circles of the capital, in which Mrs. Lorillard has been accorded such a prominent part, were crowding aristocratic Massachusetts avenue, the body of the deceased was driven rapidly down that thoroughfare toward the station. The husband, one of the famous Lorillards of the tobacco business, and prominent clubman and sportsman, and his son, Pierre, by their own preference, were the only mourners.

The funeral ceremonies had been conducted several hours before. A few of Mrs. Lorillard's most intimate friends were present. Rev. Roland C. Smith of St. John's Episcopal church officiated at the services, which occupied only half an hour's time.

Shortly afterward the most dramatic event of the day occurred, when Dr. Nevitt, the coroner, laid away in the folds of the shroud two notes and the mysterious trinkets found on Mrs. Lorillard's body after her death.

It is now believed that the only words she wrote on the morning of her death were on the envelope that contained the notes and the trinkets. They were:

"Bury this with my body unopened," The ink with which these words were written had been freshly smeared over the face of the envelope. Its freshness was in marked contrast with the ink of the two notes.'

Another fact that has been brought out is that one of the notes was addressed to Mrs. Lorillard and was in the handwriting of another person. The second note had been written by Mrs. Lorillard.

The trinkets consisted of a chain to which were attached some pendants of little intrinsic value, reminding those who have beheld them of the high school days of girls. It was evidently Mrs. Lorillard's hope that neither the notes nor the trinkets would be revealed to human eyes after hers had turned from them.

The envelope in which the notes and trinkets were placed was not found until hours after the death, when the undertaker was preparing the body for burial.

A study of Mrs. Lorillard's apartments is said to have led to the conclusion that Mrs. Lorillard was most determined in ending her life. It is believed that she deliberately inhaled the poisonous fumes unil a gentle stupor seized her. Then she calmly lay down upon the rug in the bathroom to sleep into death.

THE FUTURE OF CUBA

Will Be Discussed by Men Posted on Affairs of the Island

Philadelphia, March 27.—At a special session of the American Academy of Political and Social Science to be held in this city tonight, the subject of discussion will be "The Future of Cuba."

The opening address will be delivered by Charles E. Magoon, until recently provisional governor of Cuba. General Leonard Wood, who was governor of Cuba during the first intervention period, will preside at the meeting. Among the other speakers will be Alfredo Zayas, vice president of Cuba, who is spending a short time in the United States.

Victories For Americans

New York, March 27.—When play ceased for Friday in the eleventh annual Anglo-American chess match the Americans had succeeded in placing two victories to their credit and the outlook was that the Sir George Newness trophy might be saved by a narrow margin, unless some upsets occur today when play is resumed.

Teddy May Meet Italy's King

London, March 27.—The Milan correspondent of The Daily Chronicle telegraphs that a meeting is likely at Naples between King Victor Emmanuel and former President Roosevelt. He adds that the desire for a meeting is a mutual one.

American Guaranty Liabilities

Chicago, March 27.—The liabilities of the American Guaranty company are placed at $2,075,398 and the assets at $792,865, in a report filed by Receiver Potter in the United States circuit court here.

The Scrap Book

The Head of the Firm.

One Saturday shortly before the close of business Kuhn, Loeb & Co. had occasion to send some bonds to J. Pierpont Morgan. As all the other employees had left, it was necessary to intrust the negro porter with the errand. He received careful instructions to take the valuable package to Mr. Morgan's office and to insist upon giving it to "Mr. Morgan of J. P. Morgan & Co. and to no one else."

By commendable persistence and many repetitions of his instructions he finally succeeded in reaching Mr. Morgan, who was in session with several other gentlemen in his private office.

"Ah wants to see Mr. Mawgan ob J. Piehpon' Mawgan an' Comp'ny," he doggedly insisted.

Mr. Morgan arose. "Well, I'm Mr. Morgan," he said. "Who are you?"

"Who—er—me?" stammered the porter. "Why, I's de coon ob Kuhn, Loeb an' Comp'ny, an' heah's de papers Ah done brung yo'."

Duty.

The sweetest lives are those to duty wed,
Whose deeds, both great and small,
Are close knit strands of an unbroken thread
Where love ennobles all.
The world may sound no trumpet, ring no bells.
The book of life the shining record tells.

Thy love shall chant its own beatitudes
After its own life working. A child's kiss
Set on thy singing lips shall make thee glad;
A poor man served by thee shall make thee rich;
A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service which thou renderest.
—Browning.

Wanted to Make Sure.

A number of students from a German university were drinking in a beer garden. A self satisfied looking American said to one of the shortest and stoutest Dutchmen:

"I'll bet you $5 you can't drink seven schooners of beer."

The Dutchman hesitated, then declined the bet and left the room. In ten minutes he came puffing back, hurried up to the American and exclaimed:

"I vill dake der bet!"

The beer was ordered, and the Dutchman, in the presence of an admiring and envious company, quickly drank off the seven schooners.

The $5 was paid over, and the American asked:

"Would you mind telling me why you went out before you took the bet?"

"Nein; to see could I drink der seven schooners, what?"

A True Sport.

A pessimistic young man dining alone in a restaurant ordered broiled live lobster. When the waiter put it on the table it was obviously minus one claw. The pessimistic young man promptly kicked. The waiter said it was unavoidable—there had been a fight in the kitchen between two lobsters. The other one had torn off one of the claws of this lobster and had eaten it. The young man pushed the lobster over toward the waiter. "Take it away," he said wearily, "and bring me the winner."—Everybody's.

Plenty Good Enough.

Aunt Chloe was burdened with the support of a worthless husband, who beat her when he was sober and whom she dutifully nursed and tended when he came home bruised and battered from a fighting spree.

One Monday morning she appeared at the drug store and asked the clerk for "a right pow'ful linerment foh achin' in de bones."

"You might try some of this St. Peter's prescription, aunty. It's an old and popular remedy. Cures cuts, bruises, aches and sprains. One dollar the bottle. Good for man and beast."

Aunt Chloe looked at the dollar bottle and then dubiously at her flat purse. "Ain't yo' got some foh 50 cents," she ventured—"some for jes' on'y beasts? Ah want it foh ma ol' man."—Lippincott's.

She Got the Money.

The young wife of a Philadelphia man, who is not especially sweet tempered, one day approached her lord touching the matter of $100 or so.

"I'd like to let you have it, my dear," began the husband, "but the fact is I haven't that amount in bank this morning—that is to say, I haven't that amount to spare, inasmuch as I must take up a note for $200 this afternoon."

"Oh, very well, James," said the wife, with ominous calmness. "If you think the man who holds the note can make things anything hotter for you than I can—why, do as you say, James!"

She got the money.—Harper's Weekly.

Value of Experience.

The learning thou gettest by thine own observation and experience is far beyond that thou gettest by precept, as the knowledge of a traveler exceeds that which is got by reading.—Thomas a Kempis.

Why He Was Serious.

They sat each at an extreme end of the horsehair sofa. They had been courting now for something like two years, but the wide gap between had always been respectfully preserved.

"A penny for your thochts, Sandy," murmured Maggie after a silence of an hour and a half.

"Weel," replied Sandy slowly, with surprising boldness, "tae tell ye the truth, I was jist thinkin' how fine wad be if ye were tae gie me a wee kissie."

"I've nae objection," simpered Maggie, slithering over and kissing him plumply on the tip of his left ear.

Then she slithered back.

Sandy relapsed into a brown study once more, and the clock ticked twenty-seven minutes.

"An' what are ye thinkin' aboot noo—anither, eh?"

"Nae, nae, lassie; it's mair serious the noo."

"Is it, laddie?" asked Maggie softly. Her heart was going pitapat with expectation. "An' what micht it be?"

"I was jist thinkin'," answered Sandy, "that it was aboot time ye were paying me that penny!"

They Wouldn't Toss.

The varied financial interests of John W. Gates once called him to a certain city, and the news of his arrival was bruited long before the event.

The good livers of the city assembled in order to inaugurate a poker game. After much energy and discussion a fund of $20,000 was gathered. The plan was to invite Gates into the game. The sports felt that they had a very large, not to say an appalling, capital. A committee waited upon the financier to inform him that such a game was in progress and that they were ready for him.

"Gentlemen," said he, "I have a time."

It was urged with great eloquence that a treasury of $20,000 was in perfect readiness. Again Gates refused, and again the urging was resumed. Finally Gates lost patience. He produced a quarter. "Gentlemen," he said, "I'll toss you for the $20,000."

The committee melted away.

The Old One.

Old Jacob Grimes was an Illinois farmer, and one summer his nephew from Chicago came to work on the farm for him. Jacob told the boy that the first principle of farming was to use up and wear out the old things first.

"Don't touch this year's fodder," he would say, "till last year's has been consumed. Don't use the new harness while the old holds out. The new reaper cart runs better, but we will keep it in the barn till the old gray one breaks down."

Jacob sounded this principle of his till the boy got tired of it. He would get especially tired when he would be obliged to eat last week's bread, and so forth, according to the principle.

Jacob one stormy night said to his nephew:

"William, I've got to go to the village. Fetch up and harness one of the horses from the four acre field."

"Which shall I fetch," said William, "the old horse or the young one?"

"The old one, of course," said Jacob. "Always wear out the old ones first, you know."

William paused in drawing on his rubber boots.

"In that case, uncle," he said, "hadn't you better go and fetch the horse?"

On Being Happy.

Pleasures are more beneficial than duties because, like the quality of mercy, they are not strained, and they are thrice blessed. There must always be two to a kiss, and there may be a score in a jest. But wherever there is an element of sacrifice the favor is conferred with pain and received with confusion. There is no duty we so much underrate as the duty of being happy. By being happy we shower anonymous benefits upon the world. A happy man or a happy woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of good will, and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Ready to Collect.

Dr. Jobson was a famous specialist. He had a rule—it expedited business—that each patient must divest himself of his garments in an outer room before entering the private office for examination. Jobson grew very testy if this rule was disregarded. A man one day entered the doctor's office fully clad.

"I don't know what you mean, sir," said Jobson angrily. "All must remove their clothing before coming in here to me. That is my rule, and I'll request you to observe it."

With a hasty apology the man withdrew. He returned in a few minutes with nothing on. Dr. Jobson smiled. "And now, sir, what can I do for you?" he said graciously.

"I have called," said the naked man, "about that bill of Tailor Snip's. It is a long time overdue, doctor."

Told Him the Place.

But recently arrived, a shade bustled up to St. Peter. "My good man," said he, "will you tell me where I must go to get souvenir post cards?" And St. Peter, eying him sourly, told him where he could go to.

He Knew His Boss.

A reporter of the Cincinnati Enquirer, John R. McLean's newspaper, was once sent into a small town in southwestern Ohio to get the story of a woman evangelist who had been greatly talked about. The reporter attended one of her meetings and occupied a front seat. When those who wished to be saved were asked to arise he kept his seat and used his notebook. The woman approached and, taking him by the hand, said, "Come to salvation."

"Madam," said the newspaper man, "I'm here solely on business to report your work."

"Brother," said she, "there is no business so important as salvation."

"Well, maybe not," said the reporter, "but you don't know John McLean."

Kidnapper Boyle Is Landed In Mercer County Jail

WIFE REMAINS IN PITTSBURG

Prisoner Feared Mob Violence on the Journey From Pittsburg and Appears Relieved Upon Arrival at Destination—Will Be Formally Arraigned In a Few Days—Refuses to Reveal Wife's Identity

Mercer, Pa., March 27.—Heavily manacled to Sheriff Chess and guarded by several detectives, James Boyle, one of the kidnappers of Willie Whitla, was brought here from Pittsburg and lodged in the Mercer county jail. His wife, it is said, will be brought here from Pittsburg today and the couple will be formally arraigned on a charge of kidnapping in a few days.

Boyle feared violence on his arrival in Mercer, and on the journey from Pittsburg asked Sheriff Chess if he thought the crowd would harm him. The prisoner looked greatly relieved when he saw only a scattering of people at the Mercer station.

Boyle was hurried into a waiting bus and taken to the jail, where he was locked up in a cell on the second tier. An armed guard was placed in front of Boyle's cell and a patrolman was stationed outside the jail. Sheriff Chess says that the jail will be guarded until the trial of the Boyles is over.

Word that the authorities were bringing Boyle to this place caused small crowds to gather at all stations en route from Pittsburg. Over 200 people flocked about the train at Grove City and peered in the car windows. There were no demonstrations of violence during the trip, but Boyle showed he was nervous.

Boyle absolutely declined to discuss his case in any of its phases except to say that he expected to engage a lawyer in a few days.

The officials questioned the prisoner about his wife's identity, but other than to say that there was no question about the fact that he was married, would say nothing. Boyle would not talk of his movements previous to the kidnapping.

There is no fear of a demonstration being made here against the kidnapper. The jail officials clothed Boyle in overalls and an old shirt after he was put in a cell.

BACK TO OLD FOOTING

Taft Orders Restoration of Marines on Naval Vessels

Washington, March 27.—The last remaining vestige of the Roosevelt order taking marines off the battleships and cruisers of the United States navy was swept away when President Taft directed that an order be issued restoring the marines to exactly the same duties that they performed prior to their being ordered ashore.

After congress had placed a provision in the navy appropriation bill to the effect that a certain percentage of the marine corps should be assigned to ship duty, an order was issued the day before President Roosevelt went out of office restoring the marines to ships, but placing them under the orders of the captains of the vessels on which they were to serve.

GREAT SAVING OF COAL

Reciprocating Type of Engines Does Better Than the Turbines

Newport, R. I., March 27.—A victory for the reciprocating type of engine in point of coal consumption was the showing of the first test of the three naval scout cruisers, Birmingham, Chester and Salem, according to unofficial figures given out here.

By these figures the Birmingham, which is fitted with reciprocating engines, consumed 32 tons of coal an hour. The Chester, which is fitted with English turbines, consumed 40 tons an hour. The coal consumption of the Salem, which has turbines of an American make and pattern, was 49 tons an hour.

Charges Not Sustained

Albany, March 27.—George W. Schurman, who was appointed commissioner to take testimony upon the charges preferred against John Bradley, Jr., sheriff of Saratoga county, alleging that he permitted violations of the Agnew-Hart anti-race track gambling laws at Saratoga, has recommended the dismissal of the charges.

Easy For Gotch

Omaha, March 27.—Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, last night defeated John Perrelli, introduced as the champion of Italy, in a one-sided match, Gotch winning both falls in twelve and nine minutes respectively.

Prince May Not "Resign"

Belgrade, March 27.—King Peter consulted with his political leaders concerning his son's desire to renounce his right of succession and the indications are that Crown Prince George will withdraw his renunciation.

For the Ledger.

STATE HOUSE LETTER.

Boston, March 24, 1909.

It apepars that there was more than first supposed to the hidden forces which, on Monday, reconsidered and killed the resolutions for peace and arbitration which were adopted unanimously by the Senate Friday. President Treadway was by no means the only active man in the movement, but Gov. Draper had a hand in it and it is the most reasonable supposition that Senator Lodge had a share in it, with perhaps Senator Crane advising and consenting if not actively working for the same end. That the reasons given were not the reasons active for the killing is also evident, for it has been the practice of the legislature, time out of mind, to address resolutions to Congress. The argument that it is not the province of the legislature to interfere with the business of Congress is used as an excuse for covering up political reasons. The upshot of argument is that if the legislature wants to pass resolutions, it passes them. If it does not want to pass them, it says Congress ought not to be memorialized by the legislature. In this case the action is highly regrettable, but it reverses the favorable attitude of the state toward international peace and arbitration. As far back as 1838, when Robert C. Winthrop was speaker and Edward Everett was governor, the legislature adopted resolutions for an international court to remove causes of war. The resolutions for an international parliament, adopted in 1903, taken up by the Interparliamentary Union at St. Louis in 1904, urged by the Union upon the Hague Conference in 1907, was a powerful force for the movement for the regular international parliament and the organization of the world as a political unit. What makes the case worse is that the peace resolutions were doubtless sacrificed so that Massachusetts should not oppose a big navy, and the men who killed the resolution seem to be totally ignorant of the strength and standing of the peace movement, with President Eliot favoring governmental action, with the recent dinner to Elihu Root in New York applauding a proposition to educate the public, with a strong movement being organized today in New York to establish some public institution for the object and Denmark increasing its public peace appropriation from $2,500 to $125,000.

Chaplain Horton of the Senate always keeps up to date when he addresses the throne of grace and he did not disappoint expectations when the departure of Col. Roosevelt for Africa was a prominent feature of his petition Tuesday. The chaplain always prays with extra unction, and he is the only man whose prayer I have ever heard applauded by a crowd.

President Treadway of the Senate had the satisfaction of having by his side Tuesday afternoon Lieut. Gov. Francis W. Treadway, lieutenant governor of Ohio and president of the Massachusetts Senate. After the adjournment of the Senate both the Treadways went over and sat by Speaker Walker in the House, and then called upon Gov. Draper. Treadway stock is thus at the highest quotation the public has seen.

Tonight comes the formal reception by Gov. Draper, at his Boston residence, at No. 150 Beacon street, Back Bay, to the members of the Senate and House and those who come in that class. When Curtis Guild, Jr., was governor, he had three receptions one year, for the different departments of the government,—legislative, judicial and military. Time will show whether Gov. Draper will follow suit. Guild's receptions were at the Hotel Somerset ,the swell hotel on the Fenway, but Draper takes the crowd right into his home.

In the meantime, Frothingham is getting his training as lieutenant governor and learning how to drive the team of state. When Gov. Draper was at President Taft's inaugural he performed the usual gubernatorial service, including the signing of bills, and he is on duty at his desk in the suburbs of the executive department about every day of the week. He gets the atmosphere of public life, plus the actual handling of the reins at times and will be ready to take his predestinated succession after Draper's three years.

Representative Norman White of Brookline gets leave to withdraw his proposition for an investigation of the methods of the state library in order to see if it cannot be used more for legislative purposes. Of course he will raise his voice in clamorous protest, but with only one of the committee on his side, it looks as if the case would be hopeless this year, in spite of his circulars to every public library in the civilized world.

All persons of moderate means, or less, who cannot have banking facilities under present conditions will have a sympathetic eye for the new system of credit unions, proposed by Savings Bank Commissioner Jay, who retires this week for his new position with a New York banking company. In his last report he gave space to the system as one with much benefit for poor and honest people. "Credit union," in the bill reported by Senator Greenwood of Worcester for the committee on banks and banking, means "a co-operative association formed for the purpose of promoting thrift among its members." Seven or more citizens, with the consent of the board of bank incorporation, may become a corporation for the purposes of the act and may receive the savings of its members in payment for shares or on deposit, may lend the money to its members at reasonable rates, or invest as provided, or undertake other germane activities. The bill contains 25 sections and prescribes in detail the working of the unions. This institution has great strength and usefulness in Europe and gives marked advantages to persons of small financial means, with unquestioned honesty.

This afternoon was devoted by the House to debate on the prohibitory constitutional amendment. Crowds of women were in the galleries. The only new element of the discussion was the argument upon the fact that within the last political year a majority of the cities and towns, to the number of over 23,000 voters, has declared against local license and therefore was presumably in favor of state prohibition. Otherwise there was very much the usual assortment of moral and economic arguments, though with a less tendency to statistics than usual. No square vote, unfortunately, was reached upon the merits of the case, for Mr. Cushing of Boston put in a motion to refer the amendment to the next legislature in order to give time to hear from the people and to see if the vote for no-license locally meant a vote for state prohibtion. The roll call on this motion was 131 yeas to 69 nays and 10 pairs If the vote had come squarely on the amendment the temperance side would not haev got even the minority it seemed to have, for there were members who voted against reference to the next legislature because they wanted to kill the amendment on the spot by direct vote. As the vote stands it does not give the prohibition people any advantage, for it will be as easy for them to introduce a petition anew as to take the present petition from the files.

The Senate, this afternoon, without debate, accepted the adverse report on the petition of Robert Luce for direct nominations applied to the state ticket.

By unanimous vote this afternoon the House suspended its rules to admit the resolution of Mr. Montague of Boston protesting against the imposition of an inheritance tax by the national government, for the reason that so many states have such a law now themselves. Rule.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Only one thing equals the impertinence of some sweet young things, and that is the meekness with which their parents take it.

A man is often a wolf in sheep's clothing, but not more often than a girl is a lamb in fox fur.

The reason people disagree about poverty is because those who really know about it are too busy with it to give definite information.

Don't try to reform anything until you thoroughly understand it, and then perhaps you won't see the use.

A girl suspects the man who will flirt and neglects the man who won't.

Logic is logic, and when it isn't it is a woman.

It may be our own fault when things go wrong, but it looks as if most anybody else is to blame.

Being kind to our neighbors is sometimes a duty more urgent than pleasant.

It helps a lot to take it as a matter of course that people will laugh at us when our backs are turned and then forget us.

Spring.

There's a life infusing tonic
In the air
And a promise that is truly
On the square
Of some weather that has posies
On the string,
And we know by this same token
It is spring.

In the lot behind the bushes
Hear the hen
Singing of her laying exploits
Once again.
So industrious the creature is,
Though humble,
That we know that eggs must shortly
Take a tumble.

Far away in distant meadows
Hear the calf
Learning from its patient mother
How to laugh,
And the small boy wanders creekward
With his hook
After whales and other monsters
In the brook.

How that tired feeling penetrates
Man's bones
As he thinks about the work ahead
And groans
As he wades forth fixing fences
In the mud.
He is sure he needs a tonic
For his blood.

Fitted For His Calling.

"What is a prophet, pa?"

"One who can read the signs of the times."

"Do they ride in street cars."

"Yes; the prophets don't have automobiles."

"That makes it fine for them, because the signs of the times are stuck up all around. Will I be a prophet after I have finished the third grade?"

When Tramping.

Counting the milestones is often as fatiguing as covering the distance between them.

Combination God.

"What business are you in?"

"Making idols for the heathen."

"Are they any better than the home grown ones?"

"Great improvement. These have ridges cut in the base so that they can use them to grind corn with when they become more enlightened."

A Comparison.

"She fell in love with me at first sight."

"Where was she raised?"

"Right in this town."

"Impossible."

"Why?"

"Then she would have seen some other men."

Running a Bluff.

A cat may look at a king,
Poor thing!
It will not make her blind,
And man may price an auto car—
Just ask offhand how much they are—
Although he couldn't find
The money in his pocketbook
To pay the wages of a cook.

He Knew.

"I'd like to know who pays the bills," thundered the irate father.

"Nobody," returned the observing youth.

Servant Girls In Defoe's Day.

It is evident from the comment below, found in "Gleanings After Time," that there is nothing new to be said on the servant question:

Defoe, castigating the extravagances of his time, fell foul of the downward spread of fashion. His theme was a familiar one—the heinousness of a servant girl's attempt to imitate her mistress' costume.

"Her neat leathern shoes," Defoe's amusing indictment runs, "are now transformed into laced ones with high heels, her yarn stockings are turned into the woolen ones with silk clocks, and her high wooden pattens are kicked away for leathern clogs. She must have a hoop, too, as well as her mistress, and her poor linsey woolsey petticoat is changed into a good silk one, four or five yards wide at the least. Not to carry the description further, in short, plain country Joan is now turned into a fine city madam, can drink tea, take snuff and carry herself as high as the best."

Vivisecting Thieves.

Breaking into houses where funerals have just taken place and plundering them is spoken of by the Berliner Tageblatt as a trick of the thieves of that city. While this may be a new form of criminality in Berlin, says the writer, it is really only an imitation of an incident described by Dion Cassius as having taken place 2,500 years before Christ. The historian says that when the consort of the emperor was laid away in the mausoleum at Memphis a band of Greek marauders entered the deserted palace of the pharaoh and took all the precious stones and metals and the women slaves and reached the banks of the Red sea with their plunder. Only two of the band were captured, and they were turned over by the ruler to the wise men, by whom they were vivisected in the interest of science. No matter how much the robbers of the modern houses of mourning may be despised, they need not fear that form of punishment.

The Newsboy.

Do you see the newsboy?

You can hear the newsboy a long time before you can see him.

What does the newsboy say?

It doesn't matter what the newsboy says. You know he is the newsboy because he has the papers to prove it.

What has the newsboy concealed in his hand?

The newsboy has a cigarette butt in his hand. He saw it smoking in the gutter and was afraid it would set fire to the street, so he picked it up. Good little newsboy, you will be a fire chief some day!

Did ever you try a trick on the newsboy?

Give him a nickel some time for your paper and tell him to keep the change. Ten chances to one he will do it.

Does the newsboy never sleep?

Oh, yes, the newsboy sleeps, but never on his job.

P. S.—Lots of people can learn something from the newsboy.—Boston Herald.

Hungry Thespians.

They looked like actors, or, rather, they looked as if they would have been actors if some manager with more than the usual discernment would recognize their ability and give them a job, says the Stroller in the Portland (Me.) Express. Just now they were staring through the window of a popular priced restaurant in Congress street, absorbed in the unerring accuracy of the chef as the griddlecakes were flipped into the air by him, only to fall gracefully back into the grease mark they had just quitted. The tall man jingled some keys in his pocket, and the little one pulled his belt another notch.

"Lord!" said the big one. "I'm hungry enough to eat my own words."

"I'm in just as bad," complained the little one. "I feel as though I could bolt a front door."

Animals and Electricity.

Man has much greater power of electrical resistance or much less susceptibility than many other animals. A leech placed upon a copper plate which rests upon a larger plate of zinc is unable to crawl off on account of the feeble electric action excited by the contact of the metals. Horses are troubled by slight differences of potential. An ox treated for rheumatism with electricity succumbed to a current absolutely inoffensive to man.

Exactly.

Little Mrs. Hunter had heard so many jokes about the brides who couldn't market successfully that she made up her mind that the first request she made of the marketman would show her to be a sophisticated housewife. "Send me, please," she said, "two French chops and one hundred green peas."

The Timidity.

Her Mother—Mabel, dear, do you ever feel timid about asking your husband for money?

The Bride—No, indeed, mamma, but he seems to be rather timid about giving it to me.—Exchange.

Pretty Thin.

"Thin!" repeated the man who was talking about a mutual acquaintance. "Well, he's so thin that when he eats macaroni he can only swallow it one piece at a time!"

The Fun of It.

Mother—Did you enjoy your ice cream soda, Dickie?

Dickie—Yes, ma; there were seven other boys lookin' through the window at me.

What is not necessary is dear at a penny.—Cato.

BRIEFS

George T. Defrees, who died at his home in Hingham on March 13th, for several years had a dry goods store in the Greenleaf block, opposite the Ledger office.

Fore River soccer team against the Boston Rovers this afternoon at the Fore River grounds, Washington street. The game is in the Williams cup series.

Mrs. Eugene C. Stetson of Reading, Mass., and Mrs. George Roundy of Lynnfield Center, Mass. ,have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Gearwar the past week.

A children's party under the auspices of First Church Sunday school is to be held in the chapel on Wednesday evening, April 7th, to be followed by a dance at Colonial hall.

There will be a meeting of the officers and teachers of First Church Sunday school in the chapel at half past seven Monday night.

On account o fthe illness of Mrs. Robert Park ,the meeting of the Wollaston Y. P. R. U., will be postponed one week ,that is, to April fourth.

The Rev. Harold Burrill of All Saints, Ashmont, is the visiting clergyman at the 12.30 and 8 P. M. Lenten service at St. Chrysostom's church next Wednesday.

The Easter concert for the Atlantic Memorial church is now under way, under the supervision of Miss Annie Harding and Miss Maude Read. Miss Harding's concerts and cantatas have always been a great success and the townspeople appreciate her undertaking every year.

The Woman's Bible class of the Baptist church was organized Wednesday evening ,at the home of Amos D. Albee's, Prospect avenue, with thirty-two members. Mr. Albee, teacher; Mrs. Walther, president; Miss Kendall, secretary; Mrs. Goodspeed, treasurer. Constitution and by-laws presented by Mrs. George A. Brown were read and adopted. After short talks by Rev. Mr. Walther, Mr. Albee, Mr. Durgin and Miss Albee, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments served.

About 5.45 o'clock last Saturday afternoon while driving through the Village Edward A. Morse of Copeland street, Quincy, a driver for the Eaton Ice Co., who was in charge of a four horse stone team of Loud & Son of Quincy, fell from his wagon near the corner of Adams and Eliot streets. He was struck by one of the wheels and so badly injured that Dr. Kite, after an examination at the police station, ordered his removal to the Massachusetts General hospital. At the hospital it was stated that he is doing nicely and is able to sit up.

Wollaston Young People's Religious Union enjoyed a musical program at its meeting Sunday evening. Louis B. Weston led the devotional services and introduced the soloists. Miss Penley sang a very delightful solo, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Lacey at the piano and Ernest Merrill on the violin, after which Miss Alice Day of Sioux City, played a very attractive nocturne. Mrs. Frank Page and Miss Ernestine Litchfield sang the duet "The Lord is my Shepherd." This was the banner meeting of the year for attendance.

QUINCY TO THE FRONT.

That Quincy is becoming known as a place o fhistorical interest is shown by the following clipped from the patriotic column of the Boston Transcript:

"Framingham Chapter, D. A. R., was entertained by its regent Miss Clara Davis ,and her sister at their home in Framingham at the regular March meeting. "Quincy "was the subject of the afternoon, and an interesting literary program had been arranged by the pilgrimage committee. A paper on "Historic Places of Quincy" was read by Mrs. Woodward. Miss Furber had written a paper on "Some Noted Persons of Quincy," which was read by Miss Gertrude Coolidge. "The Famous Dorothy Q's of History and Their Ancestral Homes" was the subject of a paper by Mrs. Stearns, and Mrs. Miller read Dr. Holmes's famous poem "Dorothy Q."

PARENTS OF QUINCY.

Mr. Henry W. Holmes of the department of education of Harvard university will speak at the annual meeting of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten committee at the residence of Mr. Frank K. Linscott, 15 Lincoln avenue on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock subject "Why should the Kindergarten be made a part of our public school system?" Just now when the legislature is considering this question Mr. Holmes' lecture should be of interest to every one and a cordial invitation to hear him is extended by the committee. If you do not believe in Kindergartens you are especially urged to attend the lecture. Mr. Linscott's house is the first on the right from Newport avenue and near the car line.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Another lecture under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Braintree, is announced for Sunday afternoon, April 4, at the hall in Post Office block, when the people of Braintree and vicinity will have the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Sue Harper Mms, C. S. D. of Atlanta, Georgia. Mrs. Mms is a member of the Christian Science board of lectureship of the Boston church, and a pleasing speaker. No tickets will be required, and the public is invited.

GENTLEMEN'S NIGHT.

The Tan Kappa Gamma club of Quincy High school of 1911 gave a gentlemen's night last evening at the home of Miss Marion Bolster, 22 Verchild street. Progressive games were played during the evening.

Miss Olive Fay won the first prize in whist while the second was won by Leon Brown. There were also vocal and instrumental selections by some of those present. Refreshments were served.

RECEPTION AND BANQUET.

On Thursday evening the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Wollaston Baptist church gave a banquet to welcome the new pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Walther. The banquet was served at seven o'clock and was enjoyed very much by over fifty members. After dinner toasts were given, the subjects of which were selected from the leading magazines. They were very well given and were both humorous and serious. A delightful solo was rendered by Miss Penley, accompanied by Mrs. Roach and a piano solo by Mrs. Walther was greatly applauded. The program was as follows:

Toast Master, Mr. Charles Roach.
The Outlook, Robert Pinkham
The Cosmopolitan, Miss Fannie Blain
Solo, Miss Penley
The Youth's Companion, Miss Eleanor Dunn
The World's Work, Mr. Walther
Piano Solo, Mrs. Walther
Everybody's—poem, Miss Eva Sheldon

Business matters followed the program, after which one verse of "God be with you till we meet again" and the Mizpah benediction closed the evening. Miss Grace Schermerhorn was chairman of the committee in charge of the banquet.

A musical vesper service is to be held in First church on Sunday at four o'clock.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Sprunk of Montclair extend sympathy on account of the death of their youngest son who passed away yesterday after a short illness.

AMUSEMENTS.

Boston Theatre.

The two weeks beginning Monday the 29th instant at the Boston theatre will be devoted to Grand Opera by the famous Manhattan Grand Opera Company, Mr. Oscar Hammerstein, director. First week—Monday evening, "Lucia;" Tuesday evening, "Thais;" Wednesday evening, "Traviata;" Thursday evening, "Pelleas and Melisande;" Friday evening, "Tales of Hoffmann;" Saturday matinee, "Boheme;" Saturday evening, "Aida."

Keith's Theatre.

The most dramatic of all actresses, Nance O'Neil is announced for the headline feature at Keith's theatre the week of March 29th, and in Boston this means considerable, as it was in this city that Miss O'Neil made her first great start as a star that finally landed her on Broadway. Sam Chip and Anna Marble, another new vaudeville combination, will be seen here for the first time after a strong New York success. Also on the bill are Matthews and Ashley in a sketch; Hardeen, the handcuff king, who is now doing feats that is said to surpass anything formerly done in this line, as he escapes from trunks, straight jackets and especially devised apparatus for holding prisoners. Others on the bill are The Barrows-Lancaster Co.; the Onlaw Trio, the Delaur Trio; the Asahi Troupe and other special features to be announced later.

Castle Square Theatre.

There is a laugh to each minute to "All On Account Of Eliza," the farce that John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week. Its author Leo Ditrichstein, who also wrote "Are You a Mason?" and the many thousands who enjoyed that amusing play at the Castle Square a few months ago, will certainly want to see another specimen of the clever dramatist's skill and humor. Its scenes are laid in the country, and its plot concerns the doings of a fair young schoolmistress an dthe talk of the town about her. Every type of character common to the rural districts of New England and New York is present in the play for the sake of emotional and humorous contrast, and in addition there are two Germans that add especial amusement by means of their eccentric speech and manners. "All On Account of Eliza" was one of the great successes of Louis Mann and Clara Lipman several seasons ago, and it promises to have no less popularity during its one week's run at the Castle Square. The play will be staged under the direction of William Parke, and each of its acts will give picturesque representation of scenes in a country village. The Cast will be arranged so as to bring about the full resources of the John Craig Stock Company. Mr. Craig will appear as Walter Hochstuhl, Donald Meek as Frank Hochstuhl, William Evarts as Jeremiah Haskins, George Hassell as Frank Donovan, Gertrude Binley as Elizabeth Carter, Mabel Colcord as Mrs. Lavinia Appleton, Minnette Cleveland as Mrs. Tabitha Haskins, and Beverly West as Miss Sallie Lennon.

Orpheum Theatre.

As might be expected the champion of all champions. James J. Jeffries, is to be held over at the Orpheum theatre for another week. Those who were fortunate enough in securing seats last week were surprised at the excellent physical condition of the champion. Many of the sporting fraternity came expecting to see his giant frame loaded down with superfluous flesh, instead they saw a development seldom equalled by any person. Suplementing Jeffries will be another star bill that combines variety with delightful novelty. America's foremost dancer and comedienne, Miss Mayme Gehrue, will appear with a splendid company of five actors in a one act western play "June." This piece was written by Edmund Day, author of the "Round Up" and it is played by Miss Gehrue in a manner to satisfy the most fastidious. It will be a complete dramatic production in every respect differing only from the style of the "Round Up" in the length o ftime it takes to play it. The musical end of the program will be taken care of by Stuart Kollins and the Carmen Sisters who are banjo experts to the finger tips. The balance of the bill will include Campbell & Barber, comedy and acrobatic cyclists; Ripon ,the Scotch ventriloquist, William Cahill, the man from Ireland and other features.

FROM BRAES TO BUSH.

It is announced by Mr. R. G. Knowles that next Friday evening April 2 and Saturday afternoon April 3 at Tremont Temple, he will take his audiences from the braes of "bonnie Scotland" to the bush lands of New Zealand affording opportunities seldom enjoyed to hear of and see the characteristics of these strongly contrasted lands. During his travels in the two countries Mr. Knowles had great good fortune in his quest for attractive scenes and incidents so that he has made this one of the strongest lectures of the series he has planned for Boston to continue three more Friday evenings and Saturday afternoons. He will include in the talk about the scenes shown many historical and personal anecdotes connected with them and combine information and amusement in his own peculiar fashion. The motion pictures gathered in New Zealand are of an unusual character and some of the colored reproductions of scenes in "Auld Scotland" have been heartily praised. The subjects of the remaining lectures will be Friday and Saturday April 9 and 10, "Fisher folk of France and Flanders;" and Friday and Saturday April 16 and 17, "A trip to South Africa."

INNER SIDE OF A LAWYER'S LIFE

J. P. Maginis Tells K. of C. Stories of the Bar.

The members of the local council Knights of Columbus spent a pleasant afternoon Sunday, when James P. Magenis of the Boston School Board a prominent attorney and a member of the Robert Fulton council of Boston, gave a talk on "Legal Reminiscences." There were also remarks from two others not down on the bill, these being Maurice O'Brien, supervisor of the Boston evening schools and Philip L. McMahon past grand knight of the Robert Fulton council, Knights of Columbus. All three speakers were very interesting and altogether the afternoon was well spent.

Mr. Magenis was the chief speaker and his talk gave some idea of the inside life of a lawyer. He told of some of the interesting things that occured in the life of an attarney, giving instances of a sad as well as funny character. Mr. Magenis is a red-hot Knight of Columbus and is always working in the interest of the order.

Both Mr. O'Brien and Mr. McMahon spoke highly in praise of the local council and gave a few ideas as to what might be done by the Quincy men. All three men were given a rising vote of thanks at the conclusion of their talks.

On April 15, after the regular meeting the council will be addressed by E. Mark Sullivan and on Sunday April 25, by Hon. John F. Fitzgerald, ex-mayor of Boston.

FRUIT STORE ENTERED.

It was discovered this morning that parties unknown had entered the Italian fruit store in the Jenness block on Hancock street sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning but as far as can be lerned, nothing of value was taken. The parties gained entrance by forcing a window in the basement.

AT MEMORIAL CHURCH.

Secretary of Everett Y. M. C. A. Occupies Pulpit.

The Sunday morning sermon at the Memorial Congregational church was preached by Secretary H. A. Maxwell of Everett. Mr. Maxwell is secretary of the Everett Y. M. C. A. and came to Atlantic in behalf of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. through Mr. Gay of Quincy and William F. Cummings of Atlantic.

The one thing that Mr. Maxwell left with the people who attended church Sunday morning was the fact, that never before since the history of the church of Christ, or since the history of the industrial era, or harvesting periods has there ever been so great a challenge for men, and that the work in the harvesting line today is not conducted by American young men but by the men from foreign countries who come to America to work, and are influenced by friends to join the Y. M. C. A., become christianized and are examples for young men in the world of today. Thousands of dollars are spent in this work and our Quincy Y. M. C. A. is recognized as one which is greatly progressing.

HELD INTERESTING MEETING.

The Junior C. E. society held an interesting service at the Point church Sunday evening. It was in charge of the Junior Supertendent Christine Brent. During the meeting a beautiful picture of Hoffman's head of Christ was presented by the Junior president, Charles Momm, to the retiring Supertendent, Helen Sherburne. The pastor, Rev. A. R. Atwood promoted over 30 Juniors into the intermediate society and explained the work of the graded organizations. The Juniors recited their entire catachism without a mistake. The following new officers were proposed: Treasurer, Erwin Luck; president, Mabel Roache; vice president, Mahitable Knights; secretary, Alice Cook.

MRS. CATHERINE GOLDEN.

Mrs. Catherine Golden, aged 55, widow of James Golden, died suddenly on Saturday at her home 32 Newbury street, Atlantic. Mrs. Golden was one of Atlantic's best known residents and has lived there many years. She is the mother of Timothy Golden of the Quincy police department. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic.

COMPARISONS OF RAILWAY FIGURES

Average Rates On New England Roads Shown

The report for 1908 of the railway commission of Massachusetts, just came to hand, contains two groups of figures which happen this year to be of exceptional interest, though unlikely to attract instant attention. They are the two tables which show the average rate per ton-mile for freight and the average passenger fare per mile on the three prominent railway system of New England—the Boston & Albany, the Boston & Maine, and the New York, New Haven & Hartford.

The special significance this year rests in the fact that ere long the last two systems will probably be united in form as they are already, in many respects united in fact.

The event of merging the two systems will come very likely within a few months, and when it comes there will be an end of any comparison in the state railway commission reports of figures for freights and fares on the two roads.

During the last few years we have referred a number of times to a territorial status of the railways of New England which makes that region of six small but highly populated states unique. In the south is a well nigh complete railway monopoly represented by the New Haven system, intensified and conserved by boat line and trolley ownership. In northern New England is the Boston & Maine without boat line ownership, holding but a single trolley line and its territorial occupancy somewhat less than that of the New Haven. It stands for qualified monopoly. Between lies the Boston & Albany, which is no monopoly at all.

We have thus in New England, in an intensive railway traffic region, monopoly, qualified monopoly and non-monopoly so closely related that they may be studied on the same screen ;and the best test of their threefold outworking in the direction of public necessity and convenience is undoubtedly the variation downward of freight rates and passenger fares through a considerable period of time.

The tables for the three decades and the year 1908 follow:

	Average freight rate per ton-mile.
	1880	1890	1900	1908
Boston & Albany	1.21	1.11	0.82	0.87
Boston & Maine	2.56	1.76	1.44	1.04
N. Y. N. H. & H.	2.41	2.07	1.45	1.42
	Average passenger fare per mile
	1880	1890	1900	1908
Boston & Albany	2.09	1.86	1.75	1.77
Boston & Maine	2.14	1.83	1.73	1.71
N. Y. N. H. & H.	1.92	1.73	1.78	1.59

In the Boston & Albany return for freight rate the absolutely low rate due to its large volume of low class through freight from the West must be noticed as well as the drop in the last entry of the Boston & Maine rate due to absorption several years ago (1901) of the Fitchburg line, a "through" line toward the West which before its absorption was carrying freight at the low rate of eight-tenths of a cent per ton-mile. Its merger in 1901 dropped the general freight rate of the Boston & Maine from 1.44 cents to 1.13 cents, a difference of 0.31 cents. which would imply say 1.35 cents in 1908 instead of 1.04 cents, the actual return. It seems fair to let such a change stand.

Reduced to percentages the variation downward for 28 years becomes then for the Boston & Albany 28.1 per cent;, for the Boston & Maine 47.3 per cent. and for the New Haven 41.1 per cent. For passengers the corresponding figures are: Boston & Albany, 15.3 per cent; Boston & Maine 20.1 per cent, and New Haven, 17.2 per cent.

The New Haven "monopoly" thus stands midway in passenger fares between qualified monopoly and non-monopoly, and far ahead of the latter in reduction of freight rates; and would, very likely be ahead of the Boston & Maine in passenger fares reduced if the recent reduction to 2 cents a mile on its whole system were fully in the computation. Its absolute low passenger rate far below both monopoly and qualified monopoly will also be noticed.

But a fairer test is a comparison of 1908 with 1896, when, by its control of the New York & New England lines, the New Haven all but rounded out its railway monopoly of the southern freight rate per ton-mile the figures are.

	1896 Cts	1908 Cts
Boston & Albany	0.94	0.87
Boston & Maine	1.53	1.04
N. Y. N. H. & H.	1.57	1.42
	1896 Cts	1908 Cts
Boston & Albany	1.75	1.77
Boston & Maine	1.79	1.71
N. Y. N. H. & H.	1.76	1.59

Stated in percentages, the freight rate variation downward is for the Boston & Albany 7.4 per cent.; Boston & Maine 11.S per cent., allowing for the Fitchburg merger, and for the New Haven 9.6 per cent. Corresponding figures for the passenger fares are: Boston & Albany, 1.1 per cent. increase; Boston & Maine, 4.5 per cent. decrease and New Haven, 9.7 per cent. decrease, which would probably be considerably more with just allowance for the New Haven's 2 cents a mile reduction, while the much lower New Haven absolute rate is still conspicuous.

It is to be noted also that in New England we have the spectacle of a monopoly which has reduced rates voluntarily, both freight and passenger, and the passenger reductions were made against the filed protests of both qualified monopoly and non-monopoly, and we may add in passing that both were later compelled to lower rates themselves.—Railroad Age Gazette.

CHRISTIAN GENTLEMAN ALWAYS.

Rev. E. N. Hardy Pays Glowing Tribute to Fr. Johnstone.

In the calendar of Bethany Congregational church, which was distributed at the services Sunday morning, was the following tribute to Rev. Julian E. Johnstone by Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy:

"The transfer of Rev. Fr. Johnstone from St. John's church in this city to St. Teresa's church, West Roxbury, is a matter of regret to the best people of Quincy. The pastor has known Fr. Johnstone intimately. A fine speaker, a thorough student, an author, public spirited, tolerant, a Christian gentleman always, he will be greatly missed here, and the best wishes of a host of friends will follow him wherever he goes."

Rev. W. J. Heath Ends Pastorate at Wollaston Church.

There was hardly a dry eye in the congregation as Rev. W. J. Heath closed his last service as pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church on Sunday morning, having completed 52 years of an active life as a Methodist preacher.

"My work is done," said Rev. Mr. Heath in closing. "I have sought to preach the true gospel and sought to cheer, comfort and rebuke those with whom I have come in contact."

In his sermon, Mr. Heath took for his theme the subject of religion.

Down through the ages, he said, it is not the Gospel that has changed, but the methods of applying it.

The Word, he said, has its place today but that is not all. It is with preaching as it is with medicine—the theory will not affect a condition but the remedy must be applied.

In closing, the old familiar hymn, "God be with you till we meet again" was sung by the congregation with great feeling.

Rev. W. J. Heath was born in Marlborough, Wiltshire, England, in 1835 and came to this country with his parents in 1850, then a lad of fifteen.

His father, Rev. Andrew Heath, was a preacher of the Wesleyan Methodist Episcopal church of England and in this country was a member of the Troy conference.

While learning the trade of a book binder, Mr. Heath felt the call to preach. He prepared for the ministry at Schohavie academy near Albany, N. Y., and in 1857 was admitted to the Troy conference.

In the same year he was assigned to his first church in Gallupville. Since then he has held the following pastorates, all in New York state with but one exception:

Raymestown, 1858; Stillwater, 1859-60; Peru, 1861; Glens Falls, 1862-63; Schuylerville, 1864-65; Canajohasie, 1866-67; Harts Falls, 1868; Amsterdam, 1869-70; Albany, 1871-73; Burlington, Vt., 1874-76; Schnectady, 1877-79; Cohoes, 1880-82; Cambridge, 1883-85.

From Cambridge, N. Y., he was transferred to the New England conference and assigned to Springfield, Mass. His pastorate in Massachusetts have been as follows:

Springfield (Grace) 1886-90, Hyde Park 1891-94, Sumnerfield (Broadway) 1895-96, Springfield (Asbury) 1897-1901, Cochituate 1902, Wollaston 1903-1909.

Rev. and Mrs. Heath celebrated their golden wedding about a year ago at their home at 52 Brook street.

Mr. Heath has a son, Frank Heath, a broker in Boston, and a daughter, Marianna, dwelling with him and three dughters in other cities.

He has a brother in the army, Lieut. Col. Frank Heath, who is in command of the Frankfort arsenal at Philadelphia, Pa.

At the Methodist conference, which meets at Lowell on March 31 and continues for a week or more, Bishop Joseph F. Berry, presiding, it is expected that Rev. Wesley Wiggin of Whitinsville will be assigned to the Wollaston church.

The Wollaston Methodist church was organized on January 4, 1874, at a meeting held in the Wollaston school house.

Its history from this date until 1883, when the church was reorganized and since when regular pastors have held office, is somewhat obscure.

This interval was, however, a period of advances and recessions, during which Dr. Trafton preached as his health permitted.

During this period, around the years 1875-76, Rev. S. L. Beiler was secured as pastor for a time.

Contributions having been raised, a church was built at the corner of Central avenue and Beale street. In response to the demands of a growing population, in April 1897, the building was moved to its present site, corner of Beale and Safford streets, raised a story and quarters for a Sunday school installed underneath.

The list of its ministers from the year 1883 until the present time is as follows:

Rev. L. D. Tounkin 1883, Rev. F. H. Knight 1884-87, Rev. H. B. Swartz 1887-89, Rev. Luther Freeman 1889-92, Rev. W. S. Fritch 1892-93, Rev. C. W. Wilder 1893-96, Rev. Seth C. Cary 1896-97, Rev. Joseph E. Waterhouse 1898-1900, Rev. Jesse Wagner 1901-1902, Rev. W. J. Heath, April 1902-1909.

FIRE ON SCHOOL STREET.

Baxter House Damaged to the Extent Of Two Hundred Dollars.

The alarm from Box 37 at 10.34 Sunday morning was for a lively fire in the old Baxter house on School street occupied as a boarding house by Mrs. Nelson. The fire was caused by a defective chimney and did a damage of $200. A fire was built in an open fire place during the morning and a short time later an odor of smoke was detected, but it was laid to the burning wood in the fire place. A little later it was discovered that the house was on fire and an alarm sounded. The fire worked in behind the walls and was a difficult one to put out.

SCHOOL HOUSE SITES INSPECTED

Council Committee Makes Another Trip to Houghs Neck.

Despite the stormy weather of Sunday, four of the members of the Joint Committee of the City Council made a visit to Houghs Neck and inspected the three lots available for a school house site.

Councilmen Walsh, Gardner and Gilson arrived at the Neck about two o'clock and were met by the new school committee of the Houghs Neck Associates headed by Captain Oliver G. Fosdick as chairman.

The visit was strictly informal, the Councilmen making the visit for the sole reason of refreshing their memory with the advantages of each site. The Cavanagh site was first inspected. This is the lot wanted by the majority, of the people at Houghs Neck.

The Norteman lot was next inspected.

The residents of the Neck who were going the rounds with the Councilmen made it very apparent that they did not want the Norteman lot.

The land owned by the Peterson estate was the last visited. The party then adjourned to the house and had an informal chat. John T. Cavanagh was present nd agreed to be present at the public hearing tonight and have his proposition in writing.

About four o'clock Councilman Whiton arrived in company with Principal Assessor Adams and made a tour of the lots. He said that there was no question but the Cavanagh lot was the best suited.

ATHLETIC NOTES.

Two events of interest to lacal people with athletic ambitions are scheduled at the Y. M. C. A. for April 8th and -9th.

The first is to be a handicap indoor meet, open to all full members over 16 years old.

The events are 15 yard dash, rope climb ,shot put, high dive, three broad jumps, running high jump, dips, pull ups, and potato race.

The handicaps will even up the chances of all competitors ,giving all a chance to win a prize.

The athlete who makes the best actual performance in each eevnt will have his name and record put on the shields which adorn the walls of the trophy room.

On April 19th the second annual 440 yard championship will be run on the course on Adams street. Last year the race was won by Joe Elcock in the fast time of 54 1-5 seconds. Efforts will be made to break this record this year.

It was inadvertently stated in a Boston paper on Sunday that J. Marcus Arnold ,the well known Braintree grocer, was dead. J. Marcus is very much alive, the dead man being Franklin E. Arnold of Washington street.

Great bargains in go-carts at H. L. Kincaide & Co.'s.

According to Dana Estes, wild game in Africa is as tame as American cows. Won't T. R. be disappointed.

Evidently the person or persons who attempted to blow up the new Boston Opera House, do not appreciate music.

The shocking accident at South Quincy saturday afternoon, when a little girl was struck by the cars and killed, again brings to mind the fact that the abolition of the grade crossings particularly at South Quincy can not come too soon.

The Water street crossing has always been known as a death trap and many persons have been killed in its immediate vicinity.

It is a down grade between Braintree and Quincy Adams and trains especially the expresses come down through there at a high rate of speed. The east side of the tracks is the residential side and the west side the business side. Across the tracks there are numerous paths in which men cross in going too and from their work. Children going too and from the Lincoln school also use these paths and women doing shopping also use them as short cuts rather than walk down Presidents avenue to the Water street crossing.

There is therefore at nearly all hours of the day people crossing and recrossing between the hundreds of outward and inward trains. All recognize it as a very dangerous thing to do yet just as long as it is possible for them to cross they will continue to do so taking their lives in their hands as they dodge between trains. The only wonder is that more people do not lose their lives than do.

When the grades are separated this death trap will be wiped out but no one knows when that will come as the special commission have dropped no hint of when they will report.

In the mean time it would seem that something should be done to prevent a repetition of Saturday's fatility. If there is no other way, a high board fence might be built and although it would be unsightly it would be far better than to sacrifice the lives of any more children.

"A Boston contemporary" says the Brockton Enterprise "is much exercised because searching parties of police in this State have discovered camps in the woodland where tramps had been spending the night. We have, then, come upon the time when it is a crime merely to live unless you have money enough for a room at a hotel or a lodging house. The fields have become so valuable that men may not lie upon them or build a fire on them in the opinion of some people although dogs may roam upon them at will. The laws have barred them from police stations at night, and if they beg on the streets the State farm may be their shelter for a long time. If they become rough and dirty in appearance they are liable to be railroaded on general principles as vagrants, even though they may apply for work around a town; it will be considered that they are apparently seeking work as a blind, and are likely at any time to become dangerous—which, of course, if they continue to be hungry, may become the fact. But the really dangerous men, the skilled burglars and pickpockets and hold-up men in the big cities, are not as a rule tramping over the country and living in camps in fields. They don't have to as a rule; they are too smart and too successful in getting money, and they spend it in the cities and sleep in beds at night."

While, what the Enterprise has to say is partly true, still criminal statistics show that a large per cent of crimes are committed by tramps and not by the "dangerous men" who frequent cities and sleep in beds.

Another fact also to be considered is, what chance would a farmer have to harvest his crops if tramps were allowed to roam the fields at their own sweet will? They might not steal his vegatables in great quantities, but stealing a few every day would soon reduced his crop and likewise the size of his pocketbook.

Then there is always the danger from fire to be considered. While the "conditional" tramp is to be helped and pitied the best thing to do, is to keep them all on the move as has been done in the past.

—"Eliminate treating and bar drinking," says the Spencer Leader, "and seven-tenths of the curse of the American liquor business would be removed.

"It may be true that drug stores and dives sell liquor to some extent, even in the best enforced no license communities, but if the no vote did nothing else than to cut out the open saloon bar and its treating system, it would be well worth the while.

"The greatest of all considerations in the liquor question is the poor, weak, workingman's pay envelope, which good-nature and the American treating system so often empties of the money that is bitterly needed elsewhere."

GAS LIKEWISE ELECTRICITY.

Editor of the Ledger:

Several interesting articles on the gas question have appeared recently in these columns. But it seems to me rather childish to attempt to make rates for that company. That plan has been tried many times, holding up petitions for locations, always to the great inconvenience of our citizens.

For instance, the turn out at Music Hall.

Double tracking from City Square to Dr. Welch's corner withheld for many years thereby causing delays to the traveling public.

At present the application of the gas company to lay mains to accommodate tax payers who wish for that light which they have a perfect right to ask for, is still pending.

It has been said that what is best for corporation is generally best for the people served by them, especially when safeguarded by the state. Naturally stockholders in railways, telephone and gas companies, etc., are looking for future dividends but they have to keep their equipment up to a high standard, and pay their running expenses also. No one wishes for the sake of cheap fares to ride on an unsafe railway or one where the help are poorly paid or to burn a poor quality of light because it is cheap.

Light is a necessity. This present company looked over the situation and found that for a comparatively small sum they could secure the very valuable perpetual franchise, and if Quincy, as is estimated in 1950 will have over 100,000 inhabitants that company or its legal successor only will still furnish the gas. The price per thousand will always be regulated by the State and not by the City Council.

But will the gas company wait until compelled to reduce? Not a bit of it. Electricity is yet but a baby in the cradle and will keep them guessing. It is already the recognized proper light for hotels, theatres, churches, etc., and the ease with which it can be carried over rock and under water to what were formerly inaccesable points, together with the fact that a whole city can be lighted instantaneously has to be reckoned with.

Still gas will always be used largely, and personally I prefer it, but I believe that in less than ten years electricity will be so cheap that it will not pay to turn off the lights even in the day time.

We have always had some citizens who had faith enough to finance enterprises, but the general public, they desired to help were cold. We did our best to fight off the steam railway as unnecessary. Those who wanted to go to Boston, if they didn't own a horse could ride in a stage coach. The Gas Company and Street Railway built in 1863 would never pay—why build them?

Water works were frowned down on—everybody had a good well. Sewers—because no one would ever connect, except Dr. Faxon. It was easy to sell stock for an Electric Railway to be built in Kansas, but when some enterprising men wanted to build a line to Quincy Point it was difficult to sell the shares, also when the Electric Light Plant was started. The Gas Company didn't pay—who wants to put money into Electric Light Stock? We did not want any new business enterprises to come to Town because it might bring an undesirable class of people who might drink rum.

But in spite of these croakers we are gradually moving forward, and I believe the city is in better shape then ever.

Elisha Packard.

CRAZY SNAKE'S SON TORTURED

Compelled to Tell How to Trace Father's Murderous Band

REAL INDIAN UPRISING IS ON

Governor Haskell Orders Out Oklahoma Militia and Pursuit of Renegades Is Begun—Latter Number About Two Hundred, Are Armed With Modern Rifles, and Have Plenty of Ammunition

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 29.—Five companies of Oklahoma militia marched last night against Crazy Snake's band of Creek Indians, half-breeds and negroes, entrenched in the Hickory Hills, seven miles from Henryetta. A battle is regarded as inevitable, as the heavily armed troops set out either to capture or exterminate the murderous band, which, since Thursday, has caused the death of six men, the wounding of many others, and brought about a condition of terror in Henryetta, Pierce and all the surrounding country.

Crazy Snake's men number about 200, all armed with modern rifles and plentifully supplied with ammunition. They had prepared for two months for this, their final stand against lawful authority. They defiantly sent out word Sunday that they would fight to the death. The militiamen's officers declared that they would shoot to kill from the first.

Crazy Snake's band strongly entrenched itself early in the day and was reinforced from time to time by roving companies which were scared away from Henryetta by the approach of the troops.

Crazy Snake is in personal command. This was established by the testimony choked out of his college-bred son, by means of a rope. Young Harjo was strung up by the determined deputies until nearly dead. Then he gasped out that his father was in command, named the Indian who killed the deputies, told the officers how to trail the band, and did everything which a stoical red man is supposed not to do when in the hands of his enemies.

This first real Indian uprising of years has held this region on edge for four days. It had been plotted and prepared for two months. It broke out last Thursday when several deputy sheriffs went to Henryetta to arrest negro cattle thieves. They were fired on by negro and half-breed friends of the criminals and forced to retreat.

A few hours later they returned with additional forces and were fired on by the band, then augmented by a number of Crazy Snake's Indians. In this fight three negroes were killed and five wounded, according to the official reports, although it is thought many more Indians were wounded, as scores of shots were fired at close quarters. This clash resulted in forty-one arrests.

Meantime Crazy Snake's followers determined on an aggressive campaign. The chief's plans had to be prematurely sprung on account of the unexpected attack of deputies on Henryetta. Deputies fanned the flame by hunting strenuously for the leaders, and Crazy Snake, forced to the wall, determined to strike a hard blow in an effort to escape.

Saturday night part of his band was run to cover by deputies in a search for leaders of Thursday's fight. Marshal Baum and Deputy Odom paid their lives as a price. They were shot down, according to Crazy Snake's son, by Charles Coker, a Seminole Indian. This event aroused the state authorities.

Governor Haskell ordered out the militia and the word was passed that the band must be captured or killed.

Not till Sunday did the people of Henryetta realize the dangerous situation. Threatened by raids by some of Crazy Snake's men, they hurriedly armed, patrolled the roads leading to the town, sent to surrounding towns for arms and ammunition, and sent urgent appeals to Governor Haskell to hurry the militia to the scene.

Not until the soldiers arrived last night were the people's fears relieved. Then the Indian bands scurried away to avoid a battle with the military, preferring to cast their lot with the large band entrenched under Crazy Snake's in Hickory Hills, and to take part in a guerilla fight that appeared inevitable.

When the state troops reached Crazy Snake's camp last night they found it deserted and every tepee, hut and tent in flames. The Indians had fled to a stronger position to the north, where a battle likely will be fought today.

COMMERCE COUNCIL MEETS

Discusses Needs of Trade With Secretary of Commerce and Labor

Washington, March 29.—The first official meeting of Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel with the national council of commerce took place today in the department over which the secretary presides. Secretary Nagel expressed much interest in the work of the council, which was organized during the term of his predecessor, Secretary Straus. Plans for extending the usefulness of the council were discussed.

CHARLES NAGEL

The council bears the character of a national chamber of commerce or board of trade, furnishing the secretary with information as to the needs and conditions of various industries.

About fifty large bodies belong to the council, including such organizations as the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Cotton Manufacturers' association and the Cattle Raisers' association.

STRANGLED HIMSELF WITH TOURNIQUET

Unique Method of Murderer to Take His Own Life

New York, March 29.—James Vango, a young negro, who, after his arrest in Chicago, confessed that he had murdered Isadore DeVallant, night clerk in the eastern hotel here, for the purpose of robbery, strangled himself in his cell in the Tombs prison.

Vango twisted a handkerchief around his neck and, after tieing it securely, tightened it with a small piece of lead pencil, which he used as a tourniquet until it closed his windpipe. He then threw himself on his cot, placed his hands under his abdomen, buried his face in the pillow and waited for death.

With the same pencil he had previously written two notes of farewell, one to his wife and the other to Detective Murphy, who captured him in Chicago.

Union Labor Officials Seek "Vindication of Personal Liberty"

New York, March 29.—In a letter to the Central Federated union, read at the meeting of that organization here, Samuel Gompers spoke of the recent decision of the supreme court of Washington sentencing him and his fellow officers of the American Federation of Labor.

Should a vindication of personal liberty not be forthcoming from the higher court to which the case had been appealed, congress will be asked to intervene, he said.

"Not simply in our own cases," said Gompers in his letter, "but for the rights of all our fellow countrymen, we shall contend for the inherent principles of human liberty."

SUNDAY LID ON TIGHT

Newspapers and Drugs Are Tabooed In Two Maine Towns

Sanford, Me., March 29.—All business in Sanford and Springvale was closed tight Sunday as a result of the action of the local branch of the Maine Civic League to enforce the Sunday blue laws.

No drugs were sold by the druggists, and the only place where a Sunday paper could be bought was fifteen miles distant, at Kennebunk.

Sanford and Springvale have a combined population of 10,000.

MAY EXONERATE HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Farmer Makes a Statement on Eve of Her Death

SHE GOES TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Separated by Heavy Bars and Impenetrable Screen In Parting Interview With Husband, Who Is Also Under Sentence of Death For Killing of Mrs. Brennan—Receives Spiritual Consolation In Last Hours

Auburn, N. Y., March 29.—Mrs. Mary Farmer died in the electric chair in the state prison here at sunrise today for the murder of Mrs. Sarah Brennan at Brownville. She made a statement which she believes will exonerate her husband, who is also under the sentence of death for the same crime. Mrs. Farmer prepared the statement in the presence of a notary public and Father Hickey, her spiritual adviser. James Farmer's case is now before the court of appeals.

MRS. MARY FARMER

Father Hickey had told the condemned woman that if she could truthfully make any statement that would exonerate her husband she should do so. Mrs. Farmer replied that she had no desire to make any confession, but that she would make a statement concerning the case. It was, however, at the suggestion of Mrs. Farmer that the notary public was called in.

Brought from the woman's prison to the receiving cell in the condemned row, Mrs. Farmer bade farewell to her husband last night and was then lodged in the cell that adjoins the execution chamber, to await the call to the chair.

James Farmer, the husband, was taken to another part of the prison that he might not hear the witnesses on their way to the room of execution or the march of his wife to her death.

The last words between herself and her husband, separated in their parting interview by heavy bars and an impenetrable screen, were affecting to the two women attendants and the captain of the guard. As the law does not permit it, there was no farewell embrace last night when the time came for separation.

When the steel door of Mrs. Farmer's cell had closed and James Farmer, weeping, had been led away, the woman fell upon her cot and wept for a few moments and then began to pray. Her attendants did not tell her of the death chair in the next room.

Father J. J. Hickey visited Mrs. Farmer at 3 o'clock this morning and remained with her to the end. The priest administered the last sacrament and offered prayers for the dying before the short march to the execution chamber.

In the subdued light that found its way into the cell, Mrs. Farmer dressed last night for her execution. She clothed herself in a prison gown and waist, and carefully arranged her hair. Early this morning a woman attendant bifurcated the gown to the knee and slit the stocking so that the electrode could be applied to the limb. A lock of hair was clipped from the head in order to form a perfect contact for the electrode.

At 6 o'clock this morning the march across the prison yard to the execution chamber begun. Captain Patterson knocked with a cane on the door leading to the condemned corridor and Mrs. Farmer was brought in. Father Hickey and an assistant led the death march. The leg electrode was adjusted by Patterson and two women nurses assisted him. When all was in readiness State Electrician Davis turned on the current, which measured about 1840 volts and 7½ amperes.

Mrs. Mary Farmer suffered the death penalty for her share in the murder of Mrs. Sarah Brennan, a neighbor. The Farmers coveted the home of their neighbor in Brownville. At the county clerk's office Mrs. Farmer impersonated Mrs. Brennan and secured title to the latter's property. The Farmers then killed Mrs. Brennan and moved into her home. The body was later discovered in a trunk. Mrs. Farmer was the second woman to die in the electric chair in New York state.

Mortgagees' Sale of Real Estate.

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Henrietta B. Pratt and E. Granville Pratt to the Quincy Savings Bank dated November 1, 1890, and recorded in the Registry of Deeds for the County of Norfolk book 645, page 209, for breach of the condition contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction, on the first mentioned lot of the hereinafter described premises, on TUESDAY, the thirteenth day of April 1909, at two o'clock, in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, namely:—The following parcels of land, viz:

A certain lot of land, containing about 23,740 square feet, with all the buildings thereon situated in said Quincy, and being the homestead estate of the late Seth Spear, and bounded Northeasterly on Spear street, Southeasterly on land of Franklin Hardwick and of F. P. Loud, southwesterly on land of N. B. Furnald and of Nash; northwesterly on land of Prescott.

Also a strip of land bounded southeasterly on lot 3 on plan of Orchard Lot, estate of Seth Spear, four (4) feet; southwesterly on said private way twenty-six (26) feet; northwesterly on said land now or late of C. A. Spear, five (5) feet; northeasterly on land of Kemp about twenty-six (26) feet. For my title to said premises, reference may be made to a deed or the record thereof, of Edwin W. Marsh, Executor of the last will of Seth Spear, of even date and record herewith.

Also another lot of land containing about 41,120 square feet, situated in said Quincy and bounded and described as follows:—Southwesterly on Spear street two hundred (200) feet; northwesterly on land of Tupper and of Hersey, two hundred and twelve (212) feet; northeasterly on land of N. B. Furnald and of C. A. Spear, one hundred and ninety-one (191) feet; southeasterly on said lot No. 4, above described being land now or late of C. A. Spear and on lot No. 5, hereinbefore conveyed, two hundred and eight (208) feet. Be all these measurements more or less. Being the premises bequeathed to me, said Henrietta, by my father, the late Seth Spear, by his will, duly proved and allowed by the Probate Court for Norfolk County, May 9, 1888, and the same conveyed to him by S. Henry Spear by his deed dated December 17, 1868 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds in Libro 374, folio 175.

The above described premises comprise the property conveyed by said mortgage except those parcels which have been released by partial releases duly recorded. This property will be sold subject to all unpaid taxes, tax titles and assessments if any.

$500.00 will be required to be paid in cash by the purchaser at the time and place of sale.

Balance cash in ten days from said sale on delivery of deed.

METROPOLITAN WATER.

Complaints have been numerous lately of the peculiar taste and odor of the city water.

According to the Metropolitan board authorities the odor, which has been described by some as like that of a crushed geranium leaf, and the taste, which is most often described as fishy, is caused by the excessive growth in the reservoirs and storage basins of the system of a low form of animal or vegetable growth called asteronella. This along with numerous other minute organisms, is constantly present in the water and does no harm. Owing, it is believed, to the open weather in February, this asteronella developed more rapidly and more extensively than usual, with the result that its presence became apparent. It can be seen in water under a microscope, but it is claimed that it does not impair the quality.

It is not uncommon for some growth of this sort to develop in individual reservoirs, and in that case the reservoirs are shut off until it disappears. In the case of the Asteronella, however, it has been found in all the reservoirs, so its introduction into the mains could not be prevented.

The amount of the asteronella is decreasing, as shown by tests made by the engineers of the Metropolitan water board, and it is believed that it will entirely disappear in a short time. It is not known where the growth comes from or what becomes of it but the abnormal quantity is short-lived.

TEACHING ALIENS SELF BETTERMENT

Y. M. C. A. Doing Great Work Along this Line

Yesterday was Y. M. C. A. day in several of the city churches.

Dr. G. W. Tupper of Boston spoke at the Congregational church, Wollaston. His main subject was in relation to the work which the Association is doing for the imigrants or the "Newer Americans" as President Eliot calls them.

After giving some interesting facts regarding the work of the local Association and of the world wide movement Dr. Tupper said that the three main causes for the great increase in alien population are first, the extraordinary activities of the steamship companies; second, the force methods which are used and are still successful to a considerable degree in spite of our laws, and last the natural imigration for self betterment. eW need these people in our industrial world and they are a tremendous asset if they can be properly assimulated. Otherwise they are a grave danger to our civilization. The Young Men's Christian Association is helping to meet this problem in several vital ways one of them through the teaching of English citizenship and governmental ideas to this very important class of young men, the latter two subjects through the use of the stereopticon.

In Massachusetts there have been classes at twenty-seven different points this winter touching more than 2,000 of them in this way and still only the border of the problem is being touched. The Quincy Association has had one class of Italians numbering twenty held in South Quincy.

Classes for two other nationalities and a second group of Italians can be started as soon as teachers can be found to do this patriotic service.

DOWNS AND PARK.

Nearly a year ago an offer of $1000 was made by the Congregationalist Building society to the Park and Downs Congregational church, if a like sum should be raised by the church within a certain time. This time expires on April first and the requisite sum, within a few dollars has been raised.

Miss Gertrude Sass of Cushing Academy is enjoying the spring vacation at her home on Hamilton street.

Mrs. Thomas Murray and daughter Miriam are visiting Mrs. Murray's brother in Wollaston Park.

A social supper and reception will be held at the Park and Downs Congregational church on Wednesday evening, March 31.

Roger Nicholson, who has been visiting at the National Sailors' Home, has left for Port Deposit, Maryland.

April 14 is the date set for the play "The Morning After" which will be given by the Excelsus class of the Park and Downs Congregational church in Colonial hall.

Robert McTear and two comrades are spending the week end with Mr. McTear's uncle, Ellis McTear of Beach street. Mr. McTear formerly lived on Hancock street, Wollaston, later moving to San Francisco and is now electrician on the New Jersey, one of the battleships which participated in the recent world-cruise.

Ground has been staked out for another bungalow corner Elm avenue and Willow street. This seems to be the locality for this form of building construction as several have been built in this vicinity and others are in contemplation.

TODAY'S COURT.

Augustus L. Lovett, Jr., Stephen Page, Nelson Smith and Hugh Brady were arraigned for building a fire in the Blue Hills reservation at Milton and were fined $1.00 each.

Guseppi Romeri was arraigned for threatening to assault F. Wesley Fuller at Quincy. He was put under $100 bonds to keep the peace for one month.

Harry Fabiano was fined $15 for assault at Braintree.

Napoleon Parentan was arraigned for larceny of money from William H. Ford at Weymouth. He was sentenced to two months in the house of correction.

Eugenio Ciardelli was arraigned for violation of the liquor law at Quincy. Case continued until next Monday.

—The Mansfield News, William White, editor and proprietor, observed its 36th birthday March 26th, rounding out years of usefulness in the towns of Mansfield and Foxboro.

WOLLASTON

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Whiteacre and their children went Saturday to New Hampshire. Their large farm is in Plainfield and borders on the Connecticut river, from the high land magnificent views are to be had of the surrounding country. The family have many friends in Wollaston who much regret their leaving and best wishes follow them to their new home.

Edwin C. Snowden of Arlington street has bought the Robert W. Whiteacre home on Safford street.

The Loyal Temperance Legion will meet in the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church on Friday afternoon, April 2, at 3.45.

In the absence of Frank A. Page, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney took charge of the Sunday school services of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday.

George McClintock of Beale street is confined to his home by illness.

The monthly vesper service of the Wollaston Congregational church was held on Sunday afternoon. In addition to the congregational singing instrumental selections by the violin 'cello and organ were enjoyed. The hymn "Jerusalem the golden" was the subject of Rev. E. A. Chase.

A meeting will be held in the vestry of the Wollaston Baptist church on Tuesday evening, March 31 at 7.45 at which time Mrs. Joseph Walther will meet all the young ladies interested in the formation of a Nearer and Farther Lights society.

The all day sewing meeting which was to have been held on Wednesday in the Wollaston Baptist church has been postponed one week to Wednesday, April 7.

Mrs. George H. Penfield of Beale street has been called to East Hadden, Conn., owing to the serious illness of her eldest sister.

The monthly church social and supper of the Wollaston Congregational church will be held in the vestry on Thursday evening, April 1, at 6.30.

On next Sunday, which will be Palm Sunday the first movement from the cantata "Olivet to Calvary" will be sung by the choir of the Wollaston Methodist church.

Dr. W. G. Curtis of Bedford formerly of Wollaston was in town on Saturday when he visited several of his old patients.

During the week preceding Easter, which is April 11, services will be held at the Wollaston Congregational church on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and a bible reading will be given on Wednesday afternoon.

It was announced at the Wollaston Baptist church Sunday that the church had raised over $1,500 for the Boston Baptist Board of Foreign Missions. Of this amount $1,200 had been raised since the coming of Rev. Mr. Walther in February.

Miss Elsie Patterson of South Central avenue is visiting her sister Mrs. Lyman F. Hewitson of Dorchester.

—Editors all over the country see the same conditions in their town or city as appears to be the case in Spencer. Editor Heffernan says: It is a rather striking situation that it is from the poll tax payers we hear the most strenuous talk of the amount that will be saved in taxes if a town votes for license, and that the property tax payers, and the heaviest ones at that, seem to be the most ardent advocates of no license.

A great many poll tax payers on the other hand are quite liberal in voting to expend money on town improvements and extravagances which the property owners must dig into their jeans to provide.

BALKAN CRISIS IS DISAPPEARING

Austria and Germany Score a Great Diplomatic Victory

SETTLEMENT NEAR AT HAND

Servia to Admit Having No Right to Bosnia and Herzegovina, While Austria Will Make Generous Economic Concessions—Russia and France Not Kindly Disposed Toward Unexpected Turn of Affairs

London, March 29.—While London has yet to receive the full details, it is understood here that the crisis in the Balkans has been adjusted.

Austria and Servia are both willing to make concessions, and any immediate chance of armed conflict appears at an end.

While Foreign Secretary Grey has enhanced his reputation by his successful efforts to maintain peace, it is realized that Austria and Germany have scored a great diplomatic victory over the members of the triple entente.

It is understood that in the declaration agreed upon Servia will announce that she has no right with regard to Bosnia and Herzegovina; that she is ready to live on friendly terms with Austria, and will demobilize at once. In return Austria is to make generous economic concessions to Servia.

Russia Is Piqued

St. Petersburg, March 29.—The solution of the Balkan crisis has been received here with rage and shame, rather than with a feeling of relief. The press and chauvinistic public blame Foreign Minister Iswolski for the surrender of Slav interests, without considering the circumstances which have dicated the Russian policy.

Papers of all shades of opinion publish leading editorials assailing Iswolsky in the most virulent fashion.

The resentment in Pan-Slavic circles may take the form of a social boycott; which a few high society women are openly advocating. In government and higher army circles, however, no illusions are entertained with regard to the hard necessities which have forced Russia to a humble role during the crisis.

France Also Bitter

Paris, March 29.—The reverse inflicted upon the Anglo-Franco-Russian alliance by the Austro-German combination in the Balkan negotiations has created much bitterness here.

French diplomats hold that Iswolsky is largely responsible, charging that in order to vindicate himself he made a deal with Baron VonAehrenthal and secured the privilege of directing the negotiations on the ground that Russia was predominantly interested in the Balkans.

France and Great Britain, whose purpose was to safeguard the principle that the treaty of Berlin could not be modified without the consent of the signatories, loyally ranged themselves behind Russia.

Alexander Is Heir to Throne

Belgrade, March 29.—Crown Prince George's renunciation of his right of succession to the throne was read at the national assembly, together with the letter from King Peter, accepting the renunciatton and declaring Prince Alexander, his second son, heir to the throne. Both communications were approved, the proceedings lasting only a few minutes.

LEFT TO MRS. TAFT

President's Wife May Select Summer Home In Bay State

Washington, March 29.—If President Taft is to have a summer home, and thus create a successor to Oyster Bay as a center of government control during the torrid season, the task of selection undoubtedly will fall upon Mrs. Taft.

During the president's recent trip to New York and New Haven, Mrs. Taft made a flying trip to Boston and to Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass. The latter place has been greatly fancied by foreign diplomats stationed in Washington, and it is so far the only summer resort that seems to have been seriously considered.

Training School's Third Fire

South Orange, N. J., March 9.—For the third time in its history the main building of Seton Hall college, South Orange, N. J., was burned to the ground. The loss is $50,000. Seton Hall college is the foremost training school for the Catholic priesthood in New Jersey.

Law Will Take Its Course

Waltham, Mass., March 29.—Unwilling to bear the ordeal of another trial, Mrs. Rose Silsby, sentenced to ten years at the woman's reformatory for killing Clinton E. Childs, has ordered her attorney not to press for a new trial. She will begin her sentence within a few days.

He Was Perfectly Frank With Her.

"I will never marry a man," said a haughty young woman, "whose fortune has not at least five ciphers in it."

"Take me," replied her admirer, a young lawyer. "Mine is all ciphers."—Ladies' Home Journal.

BOSTON ROVERS MEET DEFEAT

Fore River Soccor Team Piles Up Score of 5 to 0

In a game for the Williams cup Saturday at the Fore River grounds, Quincy Point, the Fore River soccer team defeated the Boston Rovers by a score of 5 to 0. It was an easy victory for the local kickers, the Boston Rovers not showing the class that was expected.

This team won the championship of the Boston district league from such teams as Brockton, Hopedale Rovers and Boston Americans, and it was expected that it would put up some kind of an argument. However, the victory was not wholly due to anything really brilliant on the part of the Fore River team, although they outclassed the visitors. Their playing Saturday would never have defeated the Fall River Rovers.

Fore River won the toss and taking advantage of the strong south wind that was blowing ,chose to defend the south goal. This helped them considerably in scoring the three goals that they secured in the first half. "Danny" McDonald through some good team work got two of these and Roe, a new man, got one.

The Boston Rovers had the advantage of the wind in the second half and their rooters thought they would get away with the game easily. However they couldn't get the ball by Temple, the "Rock," and Malcolm, and hence couldn't score at all. In the meantime Fore River was busy and against the wind scored two more goals, Roe and Nuttal caging the ball once each.

Several times the Rovers carried the ball down the field, but they couldn't seem to connect with the goal posts. Besides the five goals credited to Fore River, two others were made, but were not allowed because Fore River was offside.

J. McDonald, D. McDonald, Temple and Roe excelled for Fore River, while Smith, Gray and Collins played best for the Rovers. The summary:

The Sacred Goose.

In Egypt the goose was the emblem of Seb, father to Osiris. A precious figure of it is extant inscribed "The Good Goose Greatly Beloved." It was the national flag of Burma and of Kandy, Ceylon. Wherever Buddhism rules the goose is venerated. Therefore it is a leading motif in the art of Japan and a symbol of peace and happiness in China. Figures of geese are as indispensable at a Chinese wedding as is bride cake with us. In both countries, as also in Burma and Siam, weights are made in the shape of a goose as a token of good faith, though the connection is not obvious. But in ancient Egypt the same custom ruled, and Layard found goose weights among his first discoveries at Nineveh. A row of gigantic geese surrounds the great Buddhist temple at Anajapoora. The devout cherish a fond fancy that all geese perform an aerial pilgrimage to the holiest of lakes in the Himalayas every year, transporting the sins of the neighborhood, returning with a new stock of inspiration for the encouragement of local piety.

When the Play Fails.

"Patiently, morning, noon, night, sometimes far into the dawn, the rehearsals go on, first the steps, then the music, then the words, then the situations with principals and stars in rehearsal and always the business, the exacting command, the sharp rebuke, the tireless round.

"How would you like to rehearse day and night, seven weeks, without pay, and find yourself out of a job after the first night?

"Wouldn't you rather read of a glorious triumph and see the managers and authors and composers rake in the shekels, the golden, glittering shekels, even though they grew fat on them, for the sake of the people who had rehearsed seven weeks without pay?

"The tragedy of failure is back in the land of make believe, down in the crowded dressing room, down where the girls huddle together and tremble, down where one weeps silently and dries her eyes on the skirt of a useless costume."—Smith's Magazine.

Out.

When you have a deep desire
In the land of dreams to scout,
Then it is the furnace fire
Goes and dies completely out.

When you're driven to distraction
And your wits are put to rout,
Then your housemaid takes quick action
And goes permanently out.

But don't gamble much on outing.
If you do, you scarce will win.
You will find out past all doubting
Bill collectors catch you in.

"CLASH IS INEVITABLE"

Prediction That United States Will Yet Govern Sister Countries

Asheville, N. C., March 29.—That the whole of the American continent will eventually become one great republic under the government of what is now the United States is the prediction made by former Governor Folk of Missouri in an interview here.

Folk declared that a clash between the United States and Canada in inevitable, and that it will come in the not distant future is his belief. The great influx of Americans into the grain field and lumber region of southwest Canada, each carrying with him his natural allegiance to the United States, is the leaven which he thinks must eventually develop the clash between the United States and Canada.

The natural antagonism of the Mexicans to the American mining interests in that country, which has been kept under by President Diaz, Folk thinks, will break out afresh at the death of the Mexican president.

CHILD LABOR LAWS

Southern States Plan More Comprehensive and Uniform System

New Orleans, March 29.—In furtherance of what is believed will become one of the most important movements ever launched for the improvement of child labor conditions in the south, official representatives from eleven southern states met here today for a conference to extend over a period of three days.

The gathering occurs upon the invitation of Governor Sanders, who recently asked the governors of other southern states to name delegates for a meeting here which would have for its object the adoption of a more comprehensive and uniform system of child labor laws in the south, safeguarding both the welfare of youthful laborers and the legitimate interests of the employers.

DYNAMITE USED ON NEW BUILDING

Part of Boston's Grand Opera House Is Blown Up

Boston March 29.—An 18-inch piece of time fuse, the remains of a percussion cap and sections of three-inch iron pipe with tarred paper wadding was all the evidence the police could secure in their investigations to unravel the mystery of the explosion which late Saturday night blew out a part of the southeast corner of the nearly completed grand opera house on Huntington avenue.

The explosion shook the entire business section of the city a mile away, as well as creating consternation in the fashionable residential section nearby. Great granite blocks and bricks were thrown far across the avenue, but no one was injured.

It is not thought the steel structure is damaged and that the injury can be repaired by merely filling in the blocks of granite and brick again.

Superintendent Nash, representing George W. Harvey, the contractor, says he has received several veiled threats since the trouble with labor organizations last December.

AFTER THIRTY-FIVE YEARS

Pennsylvanian Says He Thinks Himself the Lost Charlie Ross

Pittsburg, March 29.—William G. Eyester of McKees Rocks, a suburb, formerly a coal miner at Shamokin, now a railroad brakeman, states that he believes he is the Charlie Ross kidnapped from Germantown, Pa., thirty-five years ago.

He says he tallies in every respect with the description of Charlie, even to moles on his body. Memories of his early home, he says, agree with descriptions of the Ross home. His foster parents, who lived at Shamokin, are dead, and he has no evidence of his identity.

A LEPROSY VACCINE

Dr. Clegg Cultivates the Bacillus of the Dread Disease

Manila, March 29.—Dr. Moses Clegg, bacteriologist of the bureau of science at Manila, has succeeded in cultivating the leprosy bacillus. He has been equally successful in his cultures with the germs of amoebic dysentery, establishing a symbolic relationship between the germs of the two diseases.

The bureau of science has prepared a leprosy vaccine and proposes to carry forward a series of experiments for the purpose of establishing a specific treatment for leprosy.

Freya's Commander Acquitted

Kiel, March 29.—A naval court-martial has acquitted Captain Maass, commander of the German cruiser Freya, on the charge of unskillful navigation. The Freya ran down and sank the American fishing schooner Maggie and May about sixty miles off Halifax Harbor. Nine men of the schooner were drowned.

Sleeping Sickness In Paris

Paris, March 29.—A sensation has been caused by a case of sleeping sickness in the heart of Paris. The victim is a missionary who contracted the disease on the Upper Ubanghi, a river of equatorial Africa. The condition of the man is very serious.

EACH TEAM GETS THREE EVENTS

Standing In K. of C. Tournament Still Unchanged

Quincy and Weymouth Knights of Columbus broke even again Monday night in the card, checker and pool tournament now on betweent the two councils. Of the six events each team took three, Quincy winning the cribbage, whist and forty-five and Weymouth the checkers, pitch and pool.

This adds three points to each side and leaves Weymouth still in the lead 13 to 11. All the games were close and in some cases exciting. With the exception of the pitch and checkers, every contest was won by a single point. Butler, the crack checker player of the Weymouth council, beat his man again, six games to one.

The pool game proved to be the most exciting event of the evening. Only one fifty point game was played, "Jack" King of Quincy playing "Sam" Sullivan of Weymouth. Jack lost 50 to 49 after playing a hard uphill game on a strang table. Not until the very last ball was shot off by Sullivan was the game decided.

At the end of the fifth frame King was 13 balls behind, Sullivan leading 11 to 31. Jack went in then and showed some class, running off 13 balls and getting into the game. With the score 46 to 44 in favor of Sullivan, the last and deciding frame was started. Everybody was anxious now, for King had an excellent chance of pulling the game off the fire and the balls were going good.

Sullivan broke and it certainly was a pretty break, forcing King to play safe. Jack left one shot for his opponent, who got the ball, but failed to leave himself in position for another. Jack then got three and Sullivan one more leaving the score 48 to 47 for Weymouth. With three to go King started after the game. He got two hard shots and took the lead. Everyone said the game was over then for King had an easy side-pocket shot. It happened to be too easy, however, Jack missing the pocket by an inch. Sullivan then went in and ran off two and the game. It was easily the most exciting game of the whole tournament so far, and shows that Jack King must be considered now as a strong candidate for pool honors.

The other scores were: checkers, Weymouth beat Quincy 6 to 1; whist, Quincy beat Weymouth 66 to 65; pitch, Weymouth beat Quincy 5 to 2; cribbage, Quincy beat Weymouth 4 to 3; forty-five Quincy beat Weymouth 20 to 17.

The score by points:

	QUINCY	WEYMOUTH
From last week	8	10
Checkers	0	1
Pitch	0	1
Whist	1	0
Cribbage	1	0
Forty-five	1	0
Pool	0	1
Total	11	11

After the games were over, refreshments were served, followed by an entertainment by the Weymouth and Quincy brothers. The tournament will be continued next Monday night at Quincy.

MAJORITY OF SPEAKERS FAVOR CAVANAGH LOT

Large Delegation From Houghs Neck Attend Hearing At City Hall

City Hall was filled with Houghs Neckers Monday evening, both ladies and gentlemen showing the keen interest they felt in the selection of a site for the proposed new school building in this section. It had been announced that the joint committee of Finance and Public Buildings, to whom the order appropriating money for the lot had been referred, would give a public hearing on the matter.

Councilman Gilson presided at the hearing and each speaker was allowed fifteen minutes.

Arthie F. Beard was the first speaker. He said that he was the president of the Houghs Neck Associates. He did not know much about the matter of a site as that matter was in the hands of a sub committee. There was no doubt but what the Cavanagh lot was the best lot. In reply to questions he said he preferred that lot if it could be had at a reasonable price. He considered 15 cents per foot reasonable. In reply to further questions he said that he had signed the Norteman petitions as he understood the Cavanagh lot could not be considered. He would rather have the Norteman lot than none at all.

Capt. Fosdick chairman of the school committee of the Houghs Neck Associates addressed the committee very dramatically in favor of the Cavanagh lot. Mr. Cavanagh had made a proposition, he said, and ninety-five percent of the residents desired this lot. As he passed along the streets, Captain Fosdick said, heads came out of the windows and voices said "Capt. do your duty. Get the Cavanagh lot." He then presented a plan of the Cavanagh lot. He said there were today over 200 children at the beach and at the rate of increase it will not be long before the question will be where will you build the next one.

Mr. Cavanagh made a proposition for the city to select three men to select the site. He would make a fair price and if not satisfactory it could be left to three disinterested men and he would abide by their decision.

In reply to questions he said he had signed the Norteman petition. He would have signed the Cavanagh petition but he objected to the phaseology as it was a distinct insult to Mr. Norteman. He did not think 15 cents an extravagant price. Whatever money is paid for a school lot is money well invested. The people at large favored the Cavanagh lot.

Mr. Maloney said the Cavanagh lot was endorsed by the associates and it was the proper site. Tides rise around the Norteman lot and it would be dangerous to little children. People would not allow their children to walk over the sewer to the lot. He had rather go without than take the Norteman lot.

John P. Sullivan favored the Norteman lot. You would get three times as much land and in ten years the lot will be worth ten times what it now is and it can not be duplicated for $12,000. The tides do not come within a hundred feet of the lot.

One of the councilmen asked the speaker if he had a family. He replied yes a wife. Have you any children? Nothing yet replied Mr. Sullivan and the audience roared. Mr. Sullivan said he did not think 75 per cent favored the Cavanagh lot.

Henry W. French favored the Norteman lot. He said that the committee of the Associates represented the Houghs Neck end of the beach. The people of Germantown, Adams shore, and Rock Island were not considered. We must look ahead for 5, 10 or 15 years. The Norteman lot was not a swamp or bog hole. He did not think 95 per cent favored the Cavanagh lot.

Mr. Wall representing Matha Peterson presented that lot containing 56,000 feet for 10 cents per fott.

Personally he belived the Cavanagh lot the most suitable. He said he would not be satisfied to have a school back of the sewer. He had signed the Peterson petition. The Cavanagh lot was nearer Rock Island than Norteman's.

A. N. LaBrecque addressed the committee as a proud father of a boy who he did not want to send to the Norteman lot when he grew up. He was the secretary of the Houghs Neck Associates and he told of the vote at the meeting when the Cavanagh lot was favored. From four to six that voted had no right to under the by-lows, of the eleven who voted for the Norteman lot four were members of the family and two were directly or indirectly connected. He said it would be better to pay 15 cents for the Cavanagh lot than to get the Norteman lot for nothing.

In hard storms in winter it would be impossible to get to the Norteman lot.

Mr. Regan said there was no comparison between the two lots. In reply to a question he said he would not hesitate to pay 12 cents per foot for the Cavanagh lot.

Capt. Woodbury spoke briefly in favor of the Cavanagh lot.

Mr. Dunkley said there was no question but what the Cavanagh lot was the best. He claimed that if 15 cents was paid for this land it would fix an assessable value for the balance of the land.

Mr. Norteman, Jr., when asked to speak said that the Council committee knew all about the lot they had reported in favor of and had used the Cavanagh lot as an argument to get a low price on his father's lot.

Capt. Fosdick then requested that the Council committee ask all those in favor of the Cavanagh lot to arise. The request was granted and a large number arose. When Mr. Fosdick requested those in opposition to the Cavanagh lot to arise no one did so.

The public hearing was then closed and the Council committee went into executive session.

MORE RIGID FOOD LAW.

Only Solution of Beef Problem Says Boston Doctor.

"A more rigid national food inspection law with veterinarians trained in comparative pathology who will actually inspect is the only solution of the controversy over the sale of infected beef," said Dr. P. B. Hagenburger, speaking Monday evening at the Quincy House, Boston, to the Boston Stewards' Association, on the sale of diseased foodstuffs.

"No matter how rigid we make our law in this state its purpose will be defeated if meat slightly infected can be brought here from Vermont or any other state and be sold.

"Why shouldn't our national meat inspection give the same protection to the American public that it gives to the people of Europe? Under the existing law even the poor man of Europe is protected from diseased American beef. He must be, or our meat cannot enter those ports. Why haven't American citizens the same right to protection? Does the United States care more for the citizens of Germany or any other European nation than for her own?

"The only way to obtain the end desired is to petition our legislators and agitate the matter through the aid of the press."

GETTING READY FOR SUMMER.

Local Yachtsmen Busy Overhauling Their Crafts.

The season for yachting is near at hand and the owners of the white sail flyers are getting their craft ready to be put overboard.

A trip along the shore front any pleasant day will find scores of yachtsmen in their overhauls busily at work scraping spars and the bottom of their craft getting them ready for oiling and painting.

One of the most popular places that yachts are hauled up is at the old Lelois yards at the foot of River street. Here half a hundred or more prize winners are hauled up and undergoing repairs. Some of the boats are already in the water, particularly power boats and on pleasant Sundays scores of these crafts can be seen in the harbor.

There is every indication that the coming yachting season in Quincy waters will be a busy one.

One of the things that will stimulate this sport is the races for the Quincy Yacht Club challenge cup. These races are sure to create a lively interest and bring a host of visiting yatchtemen to our shore front.

The regatta committees of the Quincy, Squantum and Wollaston clubs are busy arranging their racing schedules. These will be announced early next. month.

With the races every week, hops, etc., there will be something doing every day along the shore front.

TO BLOW UP OLD DAMS.

The blowing up of the several old and unused dams in the Neponset river between Mattapan and Milton Lower Mills to make an uninterrupted water way for canoeing, may also clear up the mystery that envelops the disappearance of Curtis Guild, 5, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gould of Milton, who, it is believed, fell into the river and was drowned the latter part of December.

Dynamite and other powerful explosives will be used to demolish the aged structures and, if the body of the boy is caught on some obstruction at the bottom the concussion will, experts declare, be so great as to free it and the remains will immediately rise to the surface. At the time of the lad's disappearance a reward of $250 was offered for his return, dead or alive.

To make the Neponset river from Hyde Park to Dorchester Bay a rendezvous for canoeists, the same as the Charles river between the Newtons and Waltham, is the desire of the members of the Mattapan Canoe club.

Bordered on both banks by state reservations—the Blue Hills and the Neponset reservations—the river is an ideal stream for the frail crafts. The only drawback are the dams, and experts in explosives claim that these obstructions can be easily destroyed.

—It is reported from Berkeley, Cal., that a seismograph at the Berkeley High School used in experiments in the physical geography laboratory told of the entrance of burglars in the building, and had it been attached to a gong would have sounded the alarm at the police station. This arouses dire suggestions of the seismograph's scope of usefulness. Obviously, it would indicate late home arrivals and uncertain use of the family latch key.

ON COMPLAINT OF CHINAMAN

George Wickstrom Accused Of Robbing Laundry

George Wickstrom aged 18 years and residing on Vane street Atlantic, was arrested Monday by Officer Donovan on a complaint charging him with robbery.

The person it is alleged Wickstrom robbed is George Yee a Chinaman who runs a laundry in the Poland block at Norfolk Downs.

According to the story Yee tells the police Wickstrom entered his laundry last Friday evening. After some little talk to detract his attention Yee says that Wickstrom grabbed him. A tussle ensured during which Wickstrom secured $15 of his money and ran out of the laundry. He was able to recognize the man and informed the police who secured a warrant which was given to Officer Donovan to serve.

Wickstrom was arraigned in court this morning for robbery and was held in $1000 for his appearance Thursday.

BASE BALL NEWS.

In beating Dallas, 3 to 2, one day last week, all the runs scored by Washington were made on home runs.

Jim McGuire is umpiring the practice games for the Naps and is coaching the young pitchers at the same time.

Connie Mack and Cantillion have gone on record as favoring the Clevelands for this year's American league championship.

G. T.—Backer's first name is Beals and he was secured for the Doves' outfield last summer. He formerly played for Pittsburg.

Harry Hippen will again accompany the Harvard nine on its southern trip as mascot, the guest of coach Pieper and Capt. Currier.

Heitmuller, Philadelphia's latest outfielder, didn't need much spring training, having come east from California after a season of 205 games.

This year the Boston Americans will make 29 railroad jumps and will travel 11,721 miles while the Doves will make 25 jumps, traveling 11,256 miles.

Not so much has been heard of McGraw's $11,000 beauty, Marquard, since he was touched up for three runs and four triples down at Martin.

Old "Cy" Young made a good start with the Naps, giving New Orleans only one hit in five innings, and fielding his position in old-time form.

A meeting of the City Council Committee on Ordinances will be tonight.

At the public hearing on the purchase of a lot for the proposed new schoolhouse at Houghs Neck only two persons spoke in favor of the Norteman lot, all the rest favoring the Cavanagh land, as the most desirable for school purposes. Now it is up to the city to purchase what the majority calls for.

The Boston Advertiser says "Although the idea of having separate subway cars for women does not meet with the approval of New York's interborough rapid transit company, a decisive test of the plan will be made on the Hudson tunnel system beginning Wednesday. If it is found to work satisfactorily it will be made a permanent feature of the line. Will women give up their seats to other women?" About as quickly as men give up their seats to men or women either.

The problem of dustless streets is one that is being seriously considered by those having charge of streets in cities and towns of the commonwealth.

Street commissioner Charles W. Ross of Newton is one of those, who with the assistance of government experts, who have been making extensive experiments in this line.

Commissioner Bainbridge of Quincy is thoroughly alive to the situation and is keeping a close watch on the experiments carried on with a view of putting them i noperation in Quincy. In an interview Commissioner Bainbridge says:

"I have been aware for some time that Mr. Ross of Newton was making a series of experiments, and I have been out to his city to see the operations and intend to go again. Every official in the state who has the care of streets in his keeping has been giving this subject careful and serious consideration since automobiles have become numerous.

"We street department men have experimented with all kinds of oils and combinations and I think we have come to an understanding that natural oil is the only kind of oil that can be used successfully. Asphalt oil seems to be a favorite at the present time, and I have been giving consideration to a combination of asphalt oil and soap, or some other ingredient.

"I think most of us street men have come to the conclusion that the old-fashioned macadamized road ought to be a thing of the past. New streets that will stand up under the automobile traffic that goes over our streets now will have to be treated with a mixture of stone and asphalt or some other substance that will hold the stones together. In other words, the street of the future has got to be a waterproof street, and we are bending our energies toward planning the most substantial and economical kind of one."

Up to the present time experiments have been made with a combination of molasses, lime and oil with which a small amount of cement was mixed. This gives a hard surface and from which the wind raises no dust.

Another method in use is a preparation of tar oil.

The appropriation made this year for street watering reads "Watering or oiling streets" this giving the commissioner authority to use the oil preparation if it is deemed wise.

Under the old system streets had to be watered two or three times a day and even then in very dry hot weather they were dusty.

It is claimed that under the new process of treating streets they are not only made dustless but the expense is cheaper than water.

FATHER OF THE BISHOP'S BUNCH

Former Quincy Resident Dies In England

Mr. William Henry Bishop, a well-known and highly respected retired stonemason, passed away at his residence at Hame-terrace, Wendrom, England, on Monday night, at the ripe age of 74 years. Deceased had been in failing health for the past 12 months, during which time he kept his bed, but the end came almost suddenly. Deceased was well known in the granite district and about 20 years ago moved, with his wife and twelve children, from Morcomb's Row, Mabe, where he then resided, to Quincy, Mass., U. S. A., where his seven sons are now engaged in a most successful granite business, known as "The Bishop's Bunch." Several years ago, however, Mr. Bishop and his late lamented wife, again left for the old homeland, and resided in the locality ever since, Mrs. Bishop predeceasing her husband about eighteen months since. Much sympathy is expressed with the nine children, eight of whom are in Quincy, Mass., and Mr. Edwin Bishop, who has been home for some time with his aged father. The fnueral of the deceased took place on Thursday afternoon at Edgcumb Wesleyan burial ground amidst many manifestations of sympathy. The Rev. Harvey Swithenbank very impressively conducted the service, both in the church and at the graveside. The hymn "O God our help" was impressively sung, Mr. James Richards presiding at the organ. A magnificent floral wreath was placed on the coffin by Mr. Eddie Bishop (son,) on behalf of the brothers and sisters, bearing the inscription "To our dear father from his loving sons and daughters." The coffin, which was of polished elm, with brass mounts, bore the following inscription:—"William H. Bishop, died March 15th, 1909, aged 74 years." Mr. John Pryor (Carnkie) was the undertaker. The chief mourners were:—Mr. Eddie Bishop (son,) Mrs. Mary Pascoe (sister,) Messrs. William Bishop, Arthur Bishop and W. H. Pascoe (nephews,) Mesdames Arthur Bishop and W. H. Pascoe (nieces) together with the following friends:—Mrs. James Dennis, Messrs. W. Blee, J. J. Collins, J. Richards, Eli Symons, J. W. James, C. Tremayne, Richard Reed, W. J. Moyle and J. Pascoe, Sr., Mesdames W. H. Symons, W. C. Chegwidden, A. Dunstan, J. Medlyn, P. Tresidder, T. Francis, Miss A. Collins and Mr. F. Symons. The bearers were Messrs, J. H. James, G. Champion, A. Opie, John Pascoe, James Pascoe, John Knowles, N. Chegwidden, W. C. Chegwidden, F. Spiller, F. Caddy and J. Vincent.—Falmouth Packet, England.

OF INTEREST TO YACHTSMEN.

In point of enthusiasm, well filled financial lockers and numerous orders for new boats, the general opinion is that the season of 1909 will stand out as a banner year in the annals of the sport.

* * *

Sonder class contests are apparently to retain their popularity, as seven of the recent list of 13 orders for boats of this description have been sent in by local sportsmen.

* * *

While the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts has placed Sunday racing under the ban, evening contests will be held, beginning the second week in June by the Winthrop Y. C. Cups will be awarded. Motor boats and knockabouts of 15 feet and 18 foot classes will contest.

* * *

The interclub races will be sailed this year under the waterline plus one-third overhang instead of under the progressive handicap system of last year.

* * *

The Eastern Y. C. German- American race committee has made up a list of 12 boats which are now building for the trial races off Marblehead in August. Among those who are having boats built are Max Agassiz, Lawrence F. Percival, Rudolphe L. Agassiz, Charles Francis Adams 2d, Reginald Boardman, J. L. Stackpole, Herbert M. Sears, Francis B. Crowninshield and Caleb Loring. Mr. Adams is regarded locally as the best small boat sailer in America.

—The official figures of the coal consumption of the scout cruisers Birmingham, Chester and Salem on their recent run of 1,000 miles at a speed of 10 knots an hour were given out Saturday, and vary from the unofficial figures announced Friday night only in the case of the Salem. The Birmingham, which is fitted with reciprocating engines, consumed 32 tons of coal every hour, the Chester fitted with English turbines, 40 tons, and the Salem, fitted with American turbines, 48 tons.

WEYMOUTH

The twenty seventh annual fair of the Ladies Cemetery Improvement association opened at Lincoln hall last evening and there was a good attendance.

The interior of the hall and the various booths and tables were very prettily decorated and were in charge of the following:—fancy table—Mrs. George P. Niles; Domestic—Mrs. George F. Rowell; china and box—Mrs. James Qualey; candy—Mrs. John O. Bicknell; punch—Mrs. E. T. Jordan; cake—Mrs. Joel F. Sheppard; ice cream—J. R. Walsh.

The entertainment last evening was in charge of Mrs. Anna King and consisted of selections by a Boys' orchestra, fancy dancing; Mae and Morrill Allen; character readings and songs. Joe Beal; Japanese song in costume, Miss Helena Dexter; readings, Mrs. Kate N. Ball and the two act play "Miss Van Winkle" with the following in the cast: Lawrence Cate, Alfred Worthen, Porter Thompson, Edith Bicknell, Mae Allen, Lillian Davis and Edith Hollis.

The fair will continue through Wednesday evening. The officers of the association are: president, Miss S. Jane Clapp; secretary, Mrs. D. G. Doane; treasurer, Mrs. E. T. Jordan.

Judge Sanderson of the Norfolk Superior court at Dedham yesterday granted a divorce to Mrs. Elinor C. Bates from Dr. Edward N. Bates the well known dentist with offices in Boston and East Weymouth. The doctor is ordered to pay $8 a week alimony to Mrs. Bates and she is given the custody of four year old John E. Bates. Mrs. Bates charged the doctor with cruel and abusive treatment and intoxication.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Quincy People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Quincy.

Nicholas Albanese, living at 16 Gilmore street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I was annoyed by a dull backache for some time and often while at work, sharp shooting pains would dart through my loins and cause me great misery. I also had dizzy spells and my eyesight seemed to be affected. I tried many remedies but did not receive relief and as a last resort, decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store, began their use and was instantly relieved. I have no hesitancy in giving Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure and I highly endorse them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

DEATH GRAPPLE NEAR AT HAND

Oklahoma Militia Drive Chief Crazy Snake Into a Trap

STIFF BATTLE IS EXPECTED

Ammunition Wagons In Wake of Heavily Armed Troops, Who Receive Orders Not to Allow Old Chieftain to Slip Through the Lines—Body of Three Hundred Men Closing In on Him

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 30.—Chitti Harjo (Crazy Snake) was surrounded at midnight in the north Canadian bottoms near Pierce. Three hundred militia, cowboys and deputy sheriffs are closing in on him and his capture is expected today.

Scouts have been keeping in close touch with Crazy Snake many hours and on information supplied by them the militia officers placed their force in such a way as to drive the old Indian into the trap.

The news that he was surrounded by men who would not be likely to allow his escape was hurried into Camp Hickory by couriers. Immediately all was commotion. Believing that they had the main body of Indians trapped with the chief, the militiamen dispatched a large detachment to Pierce, fifteen miles distant, on forced march. These men will join in a death grapple with the old chieftain.

Colonel Hoffman was sure the Indians would fight, so all the troops went heavily armed and ammunition wagons brought up the rear. A big posse also started from Checotah on horseback at dawn to join in the attack.

Colonel Hoffman issued orders that by no chance should Crazy Snake be allowed to slip through the lines, realizing that by his capture the expected mobilization and final stand of the Creeks might be averted. People for miles around rallied to the aid in the attack on the Indians, as great fear prevails within a radius of twenty-five miles from the Hickory grounds.

A battle was expected during Monday, but the only thing approaching it was an attack by deputies on a company of Indians in which one of the latter was killed and eight captured. The remainder fled, with the deputies in pursuit.

CRAZED BY ALCOHOL

An Heir to Swift Millions Threatened Murder and Suicide

Chicago, March 30.—Herbert L. Swift, 33 years old, son of the late Gustavus F. Swift, founder of the packing firm of Swift & Co., was adjudged insane by a commission of physicians and sent to the Kenilworth sanitarium.

Louis F. Swift, a brother, testified that Herbert Swift had threatened to kill himself and members of the family. Excessive use of alcohol was given as the cause.

Swift is married, but has no children. He has an annuity of $8000 from his father's estate. At the end of four years he will receive $1,000,000. A conservator will be appointed for his estate.

MORSE'S SYMPATHY

It Leads the Banker to Intercede For Fellow Prisoner

New York, March 30.—Magistrate Crane received a letter Monday from Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker, saying that Morse had become convinced that one of his fellow prisoners was innocent of the crime for which he was awaiting sentence and asking the magistrate to call on Morse in prison, if convenient, to discuss the case. The man had been discharged by two city magistrates before the grand jury indicted him, Morse said. Crane called on Morse later in the day and promised that he would do anything he could for the man.

OHIO COUNTY GOES DRY

Vote Against the Saloon Aided by Women and Children

Springfield, O., March 30.—With the heaviest vote in local history, Clark county voted "dry" by eleven majority in the local option election. The election affects ninety-seven saloons in the county and three breweries.

The excitement was intense. On every hand the women were pulling at and entreating the voters to vote dry and at some polls the school children surrounded the voting booths and urged the voters to cast dry ballots.

La France
SHOE FOR WOMEN

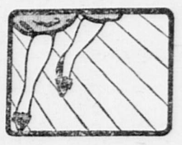

Have you ever seen the La France Flexible Welt?

We would welcome a chance to show it to you. The picture illustrates its remarkable flexibility, and this quality makes it the easiest shoe you ever saw. Its wonderful ease on the foot does not, however, make it clumsy. On the contrary, it is a natty, snappy model, full of grace and beauty. It is so different from the ordinary so-called "flexible welt" that you ought to see it right away.

Women who have trouble with their feet, or who walk or play outdoor games, will find in the LA FRANCE Flexible Welt a shoe that solves all their troubles, affords real comfort and satisfaction—and at the same time a shoe of real style and elegance. Come and see it.

TAFT'S VIEWS ON THE TARIFF

They Will Not Be Officially Imposed Upon Congress

FAVORS DOWNWARD REVISION

Is For Inheritance Tax Because Collection Is Easy and It Comes From Unearned Money—Prefers Stamp Tax to Tax or Duty on Foodstuffs—South America Hurt by Proposed Countervailing Duty on Coffee

Washington, March 30.—President Taft, it is stated, thinks it is too early in the fight to feel called upon to present specific views as to the various tariff schedules. The broad general policy of reducing the tariff on the necessities of life—the imports that go to help feed and clothe the great masses of the people—is the one that appeals to the president and the one which he is said to feel hopeful that congress will adopt.

President Taft, it is said, believes that the system of taxation to be adopted to meet the growing deficiency in the treasury should be one calculated to cause the least friction. It is for this reason that he strongly favors the inheritance tax idea. The collection of such a tax is easy and comes from unearned money. The fact that several of the states have gotten ahead of the national government in adopting the idea is the only drawback to the scheme. The government's adoption of the principle would mean double taxation in some states and might cause some friction between the national and state governments. This is the argument made to the president against it.

The president does not believe that a stamp tax would be a great burden upon the people. Such a tax would be far better, it is declared at the White House, than the imposition of such a tax or duty on foodstuffs as would cause unrest and anxiety on the part of the general public.

President Taft has let it be known that he approves the Payne bill in principle and that he believes more schedules in the Dingley tariff should be revised downward than upward—if any should go upward at all. His message to congress shows how averse he is to imposing his personal views as to the tariff upon congress and he intends to adhere to his policy in this respect. His only utterances to members of congress on the subject have been in response to their direct requests for his views as to certain things.

President Taft does not share the general belief that the senate is opposed to the principle of a maximum and minimum tariff as proposed by the Payne bill, and he appears to be confident of the ultimate outcome.

Mr. Barrett of the bureau of American republics on Monday presented to Mr. Taft his views as to the effect of the proposed new tariff bill on the export trade of the United States with Latin America. His interview had especial reference to the proposed countervailing duty on coffee. He said he believed that the imposition of this tariff and a further tariff on the raw products of South America which are not produced in this country will set at naught all the recent efforts to build up an increased trade with the southern republics.

If Brazil should be forced to remove its export tax upon coffee Barrett believes that the republic would retaliate by imposing such a heavy import tax against the United States as to wipe this country out of their market.

PAYNE BILL NOT POPULAR

Republicans Urge Higher Duties on Several of Its Schedules

Washington, March 30.—The tariff question was again discussed in the house of representatives Monday in a ten and a half hours' session. Not one of the many speakers favored the Payne bill in its entirety, while the Democrats found much in it to criticize and condemn.

The maximum and minimum features of the proposed measure were especially obnoxious to them, while Republicans urged higher duties on lumber, iron, pottery and zinc ore, as well as a duty on coal.

Mr. Moon (Tenn.) scathingly denounced those of his Democratic colleagues who adopted the caucus resolution disciplining the twenty-three Democrats who supported the Fitzgerald amendment to the rules.

Old Orchard Must Pay Taxes

Augusta, Me., March 30.—Governor Fernald vetoed the resolve in favor of the town of Old Orchard for the receipt of the state treasurer for state taxes, to be given said town on a valuation of $100,000, which was presented on account of the big fire at Old Orchard in August, 1907.

Many New England Creditors

Boston, March 30.—New England firms are among the principal creditors of the bankrupt shoe houses of Frazin & Oppenheim, which conducted numerous retail stores in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. Liabilities are placed at $1,122,431 and nominal assets at $914,143.

BOYLE IS HELD IN $25,000 BAIL

Formally Arraigned For the Abduction of Willie Whitla

BADLY SCARED BY CROWDS

Expresses Relief at Being Back Safe In Jail Again—Indications That Mrs. Boyle Will Escape Prosecution at the Request of Father of Kidnapped Boy—Sharon People's Suspicion Aroused

Mercer, Pa., March 30.—The preliminary hearing and safe return to the Mercer jail of James H. Boyle and the rumor that his woman companion may entirely escape prosecution and soon regain her liberty are the developments in the Whitla kidnapping case.

No one but Boyle had any fears for his safety when he was taken to Sharon for arraignment, but he was badly frightened. Quivering with fear and nervously begging the officers for protection he faced a crowd of hundreds of persons attracted merely out of curiosity, and is happier in his cell than he has been since his arrest.

Dreading the return to his home town, Boyle was very nervous Sunday night and slept little. He was scarcely able to murmur the words waiving a hearing in the courtroom at Sharon and almost collapsed at the station when 500 persons surrounded the patrol wagon while he was awaiting the arrival of the train for Mercer. Last night he told the sheriff he was thankful to be back safe in his cell again.

The opinion is spreading among the people of this county that Mrs. Boyle will not be prosecuted, but that she will very soon be quietly eliminated from the case and be allowed to depart. There is said to be no local proof to connect her with the abduction and as she absolutely refuses to aid the local officials in the slightest, the supposition is that she will soon be free. This is borne out by the delay in arraigning her.

It required but a few minutes at Sharon for the preliminary hearing of Boyle, charged with the abduction of Willie Whitla. Two questions and answers made up the proceedings.

"What is your name?" asked Justice Gilbert.

"James H. Boyle," was the reply.

"Do you want a hearing on the charge of abduction now?" he was asked.

"Not at this time," he replied, and the hearing was over. Bail was fixed at $25,000.

A conference was held last evening at Sharon, at which Whitla was present, in an endeavor to devise some way whereby Mrs. Boyle can waive a hearing without being taken from Mercer to Sharon. It is said her prosecution is not eagerly desired by Whitla, whose wises are likely to be respected.

This action is regarded with the utmost suspicion by the people of Sharon. They are satisfied, it is said, there is some secret reason for desiring the woman to be kept out of Sharon, where she might be identified.

STAND OF MINE OWNERS

Employes Will Suffer If Present Agreement Is Not Extended

Shamokin, Pa., March 30.—From local operators in close touch with President Baer of the Reading railway and Morris Williams of the Pennsylvania Coal company it is learned that unless officials of the United Mine Workers of the three anthracite districts sign another three years' agreement the same as the one now in force the coal companies will insist on all conditions reverting back to 1900.

This would mean the abolition of the sliding scale and a reduction of 20 percent.

WORRIED OVER NOTORIETY

Marriage of Archdeacon's Daughter to Jap Leads Him to Resign

Oakland, Cal., March 30.—Archdeacon Emery, who for almost a decade presided over the missionary field of this jurisdiction, has resigned.

The notoriety coming at this time through the marriage of his daughter, Helen G. Emery, to Gunpiro Aoki, a Japanese, has been a source of great worry to the clergyman, and because of the criticism it caused he thought it best to resign.

Death of Old Writer

Boston, March 30.—Henry Wood, one of the pioneer writers of metaphysical and mental healing works and the author of a score of books on the subject, is dead. He was born in Barre, Vt., in 1834, and for the past ten years was connected with a local publishing house. He leaves a widow.

Trotting Park Changes Ownership

Hartford, March 30.—Charter Oak Park, one of the best known of the grand circuit meeting places, and Luna Park, an adjoining amusement place, were purchased by the Connecticut Fair association at a price said to be $175,000.

SUFFRAGE LEADER BUSY

Mrs. Catt, Head of the Movement, Speaks to German Women

Berlin, March 30.—In an effort to rouse the women of Germany to greater interest in the worldwide movement for woman suffrage Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, the president of the International Woman Suffrage Alliance spoke today to a great mass meeting of women in this city.

CARRIE CHAPMAN CATT.

Mrs. Catt's appearance here was part of her program leading to the alliance meeting in London the latter part of next month. She has been touring Germany and parts of Austria-Hungary in behalf of the suffrage cause and reports gains in many sections.

The suffrage movement is backward in Germany owing to laws which have long debarred women from political activity of any sort. The suffrage cause has heretofore been supported only by the Social Democratic party, which makes equal suffrage for both sexes one of its regular platform planks.

GREAT BRITAIN'S NAVAL PROGRAM

Endorsed by Commoners After Notable Speech by Grey

London, March 30.—By a strict party vote of 353 to 135, the house of commons last night refused to express lack of confidence in the government's naval policy.

The leaders of both sides spoke, in addition to several lesser lights. A. J. Balfour and A. H. Lee accused the cabinet of incompetence and demanded that eight Dreadnoughts be laid down immediately. Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, reproached their opponents for making a party question of the most vital matter of the country's foreign relations.

Secretary Grey dwelt on the diplomatic aspects of the British-German rivalry and the hopelessness of expecting any cessation of the race for armaments and he predicted eventual European bankruptcy if it continued. He frankly declared that the British navy was designed solely for protection against Germany and outlined the steps already taken by the admiralty to secure plants capable of coping with any acceleration in warship building that the situation might demand. He assured the house that the government had taken adequate steps to place British capabilities of construction beyond doubt.

SORROW IN PENITENTIARY

Chicago Bank Wrecker Gives Up His Long Battle For Liberty

Chicago, March 30.—Gustav F. Sorrow, vice president of the Bank of America, which failed some years ago as a result of conspiracy of some of its officials to defraud the stockholders and depositors, is now serving an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary at Joliet.

Tired of fighting a sentence to prison and convinced that every means had been exhausted in the effort to retain his liberty, the former bank official went quietly to Sheriff Strassheim and asked that he be taken to the penitentiary.

GOT LAND BY FRAUD

Fuel Company Relinquishes It After Paying $200,000 In Court

Salt Lake City, March 30.—The Utah Fuel company pleaded guilty in the United States court here to the fraudulent acquisition of 14,040 acres of coal land, paid a fine of $8000 and $192,000 for the coal extracted and relinquished the land.

The land was acquired through "dummy" entrymen as agricultural land.

Weston Has Lame Ankle

Olean, N. Y., March 30.—Suffering considerably from a wrenched ankle, Edward P. Weston arrived in Olean last night. He retired early and at 3 o'clock this morning he started for Jamestown, fifty-one miles from here, where he expects to arrive tonight.

Black Fighter Has White Plague

Denver, March 30.—Joe Gans, former world's championship lightweight pugilist, has developed tuberculosis of the lungs, it is said, and he may never again be seen in the ring.

AN AFTERNOON OF DESERTS

Many Tempting Dishes Made At Cooking Lecture

The fourth of Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill's demonstration lectures on cooking under the auspices of the Wollaston Kindergarten committee, was given Monday afternoon in Brasee hall. Apparently the interest is growing, as more ladies attended this lecture than any previous one. Mrs. Hill began by saying, we do not give enough attention to food. After air and water, food must make the bones, blood and tissues and keep the body in repair. If the right food is not provided and we are not fed properly, warped nerves and bones not made, is the result. We are what we eat. People with good stomachs have been able to rid themselves of consumption and other diseases. Pupils asked her where to get all this information about food and she said it was not to be found in any one book or magazine, but that we must keep up to date on the subject of foods by reading the latest.

We often hear people say "Don't give children sweets." Sweets have their objects as does more substantial food, sugar is a stimulant and it is craved ; it is not the main thing but should be eaten at the end of the meal. To make one happy and contented need not be elaborate. Stewed figs and properly prepared dates were natural sweets and she told how to cook them. Men with that craving for sweets supplied did not take to alcoholic drinks and children must be given sweets or they satisfied that longing at the candy store or soda fountain, which should be discouraged.

Custard Renversee, the dish in which it was baked was first coated with caramel, and when turned from the mould makes a sauce around the custard—was the thing made and is an entirely new dish.

Caramel Charlotte Russe made in a mould lined with lady fingers and garnished with whipped cream, chopped pistachio nuts and slices of cherry—should have been photographed—and was just as good to eat as it looked.

Rebecca Pudding, made of corn starch, milk, sugar cocoanut and eggs and turned into a mould to become chilled and served with currant jelley and a boiled custard which Mrs. Hill explained in detail how to make so that it would not curdle.

Custard Souffle with Salbayon Sauce was a delicious concoction, she said it was a favorite dessert in Germany and explained how the sauce could be used as a dessert, in fact spoke of a place in Boston which served it and called it Zabione. Orange and lemon juice could be used in place of sherry wine, but why object to a cooking wine which contains no more alcohol than does vanilla. Pineapple Omelet was pronounced by all the finest yet. It not only contained pineapple but was surrounded with pineapple and lemon juice, which brings out the flavor and powdered sugar was sifted over the top. She said the subject of omelets is a fascinating one, as interesting as a novel. A pan should be kept for the purpose so as to be smooth and she explained the way of making both French and puffy omelets though not on the list.

Apricot Dessert, Easter style was appropriately named and looked like a poached egg and it was a delectable dish. Mrs. Hill said it could be varied according to what you have in the house.

Mrs. Hill not only gave details as to making all these good things which the ladies enjoyed eating but gave valuable hints as to the easiest way of doing things and also several receipts not down on the program, and it was a most practical and instructive afternoon.

In closing her lecture Mrs. Hill told the ladies the importance of cooking the food for her family. Have the sewing and sweeping done if necessary, but a woman's first duty was to see that her family was well fed; that they get proper nutriment especially young children. After attending a lecture like this we go home and work with more enthusiasm leaving nothing to regret in after years.

The next lecture on April 5, will be on Desserts Frozen.

WOMEN ARE VICTIMS

INDOOR LIFE AND LACK OF EXERCISE CAUSES PILES.

More women than men have piles. It is because they take so little outdoor exercise and are so often constipated. There is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowel, and no amount of cutting or treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove this cause.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, an internal, tablet medicine, will permanently cure any case of piles, removing the cause. Price $1 at Clyde T. Cox's. Quincy, Mass. Fully guaranteed. Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet.

BRIEFS

Everett Sherman of Plymouth spent the week end with relatives in Quincy.

Miss Mila Bates of Dimmock street is at home from Orleans for her spring vacation.

Mrs. Frank E. Edgar of Grand View avenue is visiting relatives in Newburg on the Hudson, N. Y.

There have been an unusual large number of deaths in Quincy during the past few days.

Wallace Bennett of Ridgefield, Conn., is spending the Easter holidays at his home on Arlington street.

A petition is being circulated addressed to Senators Lodge and Crane protesting against a tariff being placed on tea.

Mr. and Mrs. John Norrie, Ethel Parker, of Belmont street have issued invitations for an at home on Thursday afternoon and evening.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. and L. T. L. will be postponed until Thursday April 8th, on account of the hall being otherwise engaged.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Robert Park will speak to members of the Wollaston Y. P. R. U., on "Choosing a Soul." Walter Lacey will lead the meeting.

Mrs. Herbert Snow of Portland, Me., whose husband died a short time ago, has come with her two children to live with her mother-in-law, Mrs. E. A. Snow of West Elm avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Wonson of Gloucester will be special guests of the Quincy Choral society during the social hours directly following the annual business meeting, which is announced for Wednesday evening at Colonial hall.

The base ball season has opened and crowds seem to congregate as soon as school is over and on Saturdays, on the playground. The grammar school has organized a splendid team and are very enthusiastic players.

On Friday evening next there will be a meeting of all those who are eligible to membership in the Sons of Veterans. The meeting will be held in G. A. R. hall and as this is the last meeting before the camp is installed, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

Mrs. Clara Linton of Weymouth whose funeral took place this afternoon ,was a member of Paul Revere W. R. C., No. 103, of this city. Several members attended the services, taking with them a beautiful floral maltese cross; the emblem of the order.

The members of Christ church parish as well as the general public will be pleased to know that Prof. Frank Wrigley has been appointed organist and choirmaster. Mr. Wrigley held this position for a long time several years ago. All members of the present choir and all members of Mr. Wrigley's old choir are invited to be present at the first rehearsal, Friday evening, April 2, at 7.30 o'clock at the parish house.

A. L. Jordan and familuy moved Monday from Faxon avenue to Weymouth.

William F. Doake of Marlboro spent Sunday with L. F. Loring of Willow street.

Ground was broken this morning on Russell park for a house to be erected and occupied by Miss Young.

Ernest W. Arnold of Berlin street entertained a few friends at his home Monday evening in celebration his birthday.

Miss Robinson, teacher of art at Quincy Mansion school, moved from Atlantic into her new house on Willow street Monday.

The Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, meet Thursday evening in Greenleaf hall. The first degree will be exemplified and a large number of candidates are expected to take the degree.

John A. Boyd Camp, No. 2, entertained eighteen tables at whist at Electa hall, Monday evening. Souvenirs were awarded J. A. Ide, C. L. Lewis, S. Macerlio, A. R. Newcomb, Mrs. H. A. Gould, Mrs. H. L. Eldridge, Mrs. George Spooner and Miss Mabel Wentworth.

WHY WOOD DECAYS.

Piles driven by the hut dwellers of the Baltic centuries ago are as sound today as when first placed. The wooden coffins in which the Egyptians buried their dead are still preserved in perfect condition after thousands of years of service.

The longevity of timber under these two extremes of climate and moisture conditions has naturally made people ask, What causes wood decay? The answer is, fungi and bacteria, low forms of plant life which live in the wood and draw their nourishment from it. The little organisms are so little that a microscope is required to see them, yet their work results in the destruction of billions of feet of timber each year and the railroad corporation with its cross tie bill running up into seven figures and the farmer who spends a hundred or so dollars a year for fence posts are alike drawing upon the knowledge of experts in all parts of the world in efforts to learn the most economical and most satisfactory method of preserving wood against the inroads of decay.

The small organisms can grow either in light or in total darkness: but al l of them require requisite amounts of air, food, moisture and heat. If one or more of these essential requirements is lacking, they cannot live, and the decay of timber will not take place. Wood constantly submerged in water never rots, simply because there is an insufficient supply of air. This condition accounts for the soundness of the old Baltic piles. On the other hand, if wood can be kept air-dry it will not decay because there will then be too little moisture. The timber used by the Egyptians will last indefinitely so long as it is bone-dry.

TODAY'S COURT.

Geo. Wickstrom was arraigned for robbery at Quincy and was held in $1000 until Thursday.

Charles Belkis was sentenced to six months in the house of correction for assault at Weymouth.

Michael Vrinskis, Charles Golba, William Dunlanis and John Ruda were fined $5 each for disturbing the peace at Weymouth.

Thackeray's "Jeames."

The "fashionable reporter" (Mr. R. F.) of the Post was a familiar figure at weddings and receptions in the forties and fifties, and Thackeray always spoke of him as "Jeames" and voided the vials of ridicule on him and his works. "Jeames" avenged himself by carefully leaving Thackeray's name out of all his lists. "Jeames" had one direful experience. When Prince Albert went to the Isle of Wight to inspect Osborne the "fashionable reporter" managed to get on board the royal yacht before she left Cowes. When the boat was halfway across the Solent the presence of a stranger on board was detected, and he was interrogated by one of the suit. Jeames announced his professional position and was informed that he had been guilty of an unwarrantable intrusion. He was forthwith bundled into a small boat which was attached to the yacht, and as the sea was rough he was drenched to the skin in a few minutes. When the yacht arrived at Portsmouth the tide was low, and Jeames was pulled out of the boat and compelled to wade to the shore through the mud as best he could.—London Truth.

He Paid.

A well known actor was leaving a small Illinois town, near which he had spent the summer, for Chicago to attend rehearsals. The actor was driven up to the rural railroad station and deposited on the platform, together with his two trunks. As the train was about to start he approached a stranger near by and said:

"Are you going to Chicago on this train?"

"I am."

"Have you any baggage?"

"No."

"Well, friend, you can do me a favor and it won't cost you a cent. I've got two good sized trunks here, and they always make me pay excess for one. You can get one checked on your ticket and save me some money."

"Yes, but I haven't any ticket."

"But you just said you were going on this train."

"So I am. I'm the conductor."

The actor paid the excess, as usual

BRIEFS

Miss Helen Roberts who has been spending the last two weeks with her sister, Mrs. H. Ruppel, of Prospect street, left Monday for her home in Lebanon, N. H.

Friends of Mrs. Sylvia H. Ramsdell quietly celebrated the passing of her seventy-ninth mile stone at her home on Billings street Monday the 29th.

Mrs. Seth Ellis Pope and son David of Newbury avenue who have been spending the winter months in Germany returned to Atlantic late Monday afternoon. They enjoyed themselves immensely and had some very interesting experiences.

John Olson of the firm of E. Van-Noorden Co., has purchased from Maurice E. Kilpatrick his new home, corner of Webster and Squantum streets, and will soon occupy the same.

Friends of Mrs. John Holsworth of South Framingham, were grieved to hear of her death on last Thursday, March 25. She formerly lived on Fulton street, Norfolk Downs. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held in the first Methodist church, South Framingham and was in charge of the Rebekas.

Miss Lucy Katherine Robinson and her mother moved into their new house on Willow street, Wollaston Park, Monday. They have had rooms at Mrs. George Burr's on Billings street Atlantic while their house was in construction.

QUINCY POINT

James Muse, who has been in Bath, Maine, during the winter, is renewing old acquaintances at the Point.

Fred Smith, the well known local base ball player, leaves this week to join the Providence Eastern league team. Fred has signed as a catcher and his friends hope that he will make good. Good luck, Fred.

Manager Frank Mahoney of Arnold street has issued the schedule of the Bigelows for the coming season. The team is out for the 16-17 year old championship of the state and will meet all comers at any time. Several new faces will be seen in the line-up when the team opens the season.

Francis R. Dorlay of Baxter lane has severed his connection with the firm of Penniman & Son, and has accepted a very desirable position as chauffeur for Joseph A. Dasha of Washington street. Mr. Dasha has a new 30-horse power Cadillac touring car.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Washington Street Congregational church will give an entertainment Thursday evening in the vestry.

Mrs. Catherine Connor of South street, who has been seriously ill for the past few weeks, is now convalescent.

John Melville of Howard street, who is connected with the U. S. Calalry in Des Moines, Iowa, is at his home for a few days. Jack went west three or four years ago and this is his first visit home since that time.

Solomon sits at Pittsburg. A baker, arrested charged with a minor offense, begged the police magistrate to be allowed to go, saying he would present a dozen real home made pies as soon as he could go home and bake them. "You're on. You're fined a dozen home made pies for the station house force of officers, and see that you pay the fine before dark." But then, not all unfortunates can be bakers of home made pies.

WANTED ROOSEVELT'S LIFE

Man Who Tried to Assault Ex-President Is Placed in Irons

New York, March 30.—Giuseppi Tosti, a steerage passenger on the Hamburg, threatened ex-President Roosevelt, according to a dispatch from Horta, Azores, to The World.

The incident happened soon after the Hamburg was losing sight of America. Then Tosti broke from his companions in the steerage and started for the upper deck, where Roosevelt was standing.

"He has let them take away my child," Tosti is said to have shouted in English. "Now he shall pay for it."

Sailors seized Tosti, quickly mastered him, carried him below, and, by the captain's orders, put him in irons. Tosti refused for days to eat, crying "Roosevelt is trying to poison me."

The ship's doctor must now taste all food offered to Tosti before he will eat it.

ANNEXATION RECOGNIZED

Much-Discussed Balkan Question Will Soon Be at Rest

Belgrade, March 30.—The intervention of the powers with respect to the controversy between Servia and Austria-Hungary has been postponed, as the Russian minister has not yet received instructions from St. Petersburg.

It was the intention of the representatives of Great Britain, France, Russia and Italy to inform the Servian government Monday afternoon of the recognition by the powers of the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria-Hungary and to advise Servia to accept the settlement as it had been arranged.

Notwithstanding the fact, however, that this action has not yet been taken, Servia has accepted the plan in principal. The settlement apparently has not met with popular approval.

COUNTRY'S OLDEST VEHICLE MAKERS

Financially Tied Up For Second Time In Ten Years

Concord, N. H., March 30.—For the second time within ten years the Abbott-Downing company, the oldest vehicle manufacturing concern in the United States, is in financial difficulties. Justice Wallace has appointed George A. Foster receiver. The company has offices and salesrooms in Boston and in New York. The liabilities are not yet known.

When the first embarrassment was announced on Feb. 17, 1900, the liabilities were placed at $200,000 and nominal assets at $600,000.

The Abbott-Downing company was originated in 1813. The celebrated western stage coaches were made by the concern, the first one being built in 1827. One of these coaches is on exhibition in the postoffice department museum at Washington.

LANGFORD IN POOR TRIM

But He Easily Gains a Victory In His Fight With Harris

New York, March 30.—Sam Langford, the Boston negro, whose pugilistic ambitions are leading him onward in quest of the heavyweight championship title, met and easily defeated Morris Harris, another dark-hued gladiator. Harris was all in in the seventh round from a left hook to the jaw and the referee humanely stopped the bout and forestalled what otherwise would have been a knockout.

Langford was in poor shape physically, but nevertheless he put up a good fight. The unanimous verdict was that in good condition the Boston man would make lots of trouble for the best of fighters.

TO CAST LOT WITH BOXER

Hugh McLean Retires From a Successful Bicycling Career

Northboro, Mass., March 30.—Hugh McLean, holder of the world's middle-distance motor-paced bicycle championship and holder of the world's records for one and two miles, announces his retirement from the bicycle track.

McLean states that his condition is better than at any time during his twelve years of professional riding and that it is a desire for a change that prompts his action. It is understood he will manage the boxing career of Sandy Ferguson.

Havana Has $11,000,000 Fire

Havana, March 30.—Two piers of the Havana Central railroad were totally destroyed by fire. It is reported that the fire was of incendiary origin. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

Against Direct Nominations

Boston, March 30.—Without division, the house accepted the adverse committee report on a bill providing for the direct nomination of candidates for United States senator.

Partly So.

"Confess," he thundered, "you are another's!"

She shivered.

"Partially," she faltered. "This hair"—she pressed her hand to her brow—"and the upper teeth I wear are borrowed; the rest—yours."

PRETTY HOUSE PARTY.

Miss Minnie Wilson Giles of Trafford street gave a very pretty house party in honor of the home-coming of Harrison E. Roberston, from the United States fleet. The house was very prettily decorated and every room was put to some use. Games and music, both vocal and instrumental were enjoyed and a dainty buffet collation was served. It was in the wee hours of the morning that the jolly party broke up. Among those present were, Miss Minnie Wilson Giles, Harrison E. Robertson, Miss Florence M. Wiliams, William Baker, Miss Lizzie Grassick, William Pratt, Miss Anna R. Giles, Charles Grassick, Miss Margaret Craig, Joseph E. Collins, Miss Margaret McLeod, John Q. Giles, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Giles, William Giles, Walter Robertson.

Bullying the Hens.

Years spent in providing food for boarders, in watching them eat it and in hearing them comment on it had accustomed Mrs. Orne to all sorts of complaints, reasonable and otherwise. She was a pleasant woman and tried to anticipate the objector's objections and to smooth his feelings as speedily as might be. Once in awhile her readiness with a soft answer was a trifle too quick.

It was at breakfast, and Mr. Smith, who, since his attack of typhoid, had been consuming vast quantities of eggs, looked up from his fourth with a slightly offended air.

"I wish," he said from the opposite end of the table, "that these hens could be got to lay their eggs fresh!"

"The last two words only caught Mrs. Orne's ear. "I know it," she said emphatically, "and I think just the way you do about it. It seems somehow as if it couldn't be done any more. Years ago, before Mr. Orne died, it wasn't like this at all. Then you could make them give you fresh ones."—Youth's Companion.

A Quaint Cookbook.

Amid the horrors of the siege of Paris in 1871 one Cadol found time to issue a book of recipes for the preparation of the strange fare to which the city was reduced. "Our stomachs are turned into natural history museums," he wrote, "but we must make the best of circumstances and render our food as palatable as we can." So housewives were instructed how to disguise the flesh of dogs, horses, asses, rats and mice and were shown that, despite the old adage, one can make an omelet without breaking eggs. The recipe for an eggless omelet was as follows: "Soak an army biscuit in sugared water flavored with orange flower, chop finely and spread on a hot dish, powder well with sugar and then pour over and set light to a liberal helping of rum." With eggs at $6 a dozen and rum at but little more than its normal price, this palatable imitation of an "omelette au rhum" became a most popular dish.

Professional Advice.

The irate victim blustered into the office of the secondhand automobile dealer.

"Look here, sir," he thundered, "the automobile you sold me yesterday won't run. One of the cylinders is cracked, the spark plug is badly connected, the steering gear is loose, one wheel is wabbly, and—and"—

"Hold on a minute," the dealer interposed. "Did I sell you a machine yesterday?"

"You certainly did."

"And you paid me for it?"

"Of course I did!" was the emphatic response.

"Then the machine belongs to you, doesn't it?"

"Why, to be sure it does."

"Well, that being the case, I'd advise you not to amble through the city shouting about its defects. If you do, I'd like to know how you expect to sell it."—Lippincott's.

Birthdays and Health.

For several years I have noticed that in a period of from about three to two weeks preceding the anniversary of my birth I have had a feeling of returning vigor, a renewal of vitality such as I have not experienced at any other time of the year. This has lasted for from two to eight days, but has always ceased some days before the anniversary; hence it has occurred to me that there may be some connection between the approach or recurrence of one's birth date and the maintenance of one's health.—London Graphic.

A Modern Miracle.

"I caused the dumb to speak today."

"How was that?"

"I was stopped in the street by a beggar with a 'I Am Deaf and Dumb' placard on his breast, and when I expressed the opinion that he was an impostor he immediately recovered his speech and in vigorous Anglo-Saxon requested me to go to—er—the place that the new theology tells us doesn't exist and mind my own business and he'd mind his!"—New York Times.

A Useless Invention.

"This new collection box," argued the inventor, "has some unique advantages. When you drop in a quarter or more it doesn't make a sound. Drop in a dime and it tinkles a bell, a nickel blows a whistle, and a penny fires a shot. And when you don't drop in anything the box takes your picture."

"No, thanks," said the pastor wearily; "I already have pictures of my entire congregation."—Louisville Herald.

How It Is Done.

"I don't see how you can write so many"—

"Alleged witticisms?" interrupted the press humorist. "Oh, I get an idea occasionally, and every idea is good for several hundred jokes."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

PSYCHISM AND ITS POSSIBILITIES

Boston Physician Explains "New School" Treatment

The Wollaston Congregational Men's club were addressed at their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening by Dr. Frank C. Richardson on the subject: "Psyche—the popular goddess."

Dr. Richardson is professor of clinical neurology at the Boston University school of Medicine and is an authority on the subject under discussion last evening.

In his address he spoke of the possibilities and limitations to which this epidemic of psychism is subject.

He deplored the weight laid on the supernatural in this method of the treatment of disease and said that we should look more toward its cause in order to apply the remedy.

Dr. Richardson touched on the subconscious mind, hypnotism and other allied subjects, illustrating a point now and then with an interesting anecdote or experience.

His whole talk was a statement of facts stated so clearly and accurately as to leave no doubt in the minds of his auditors as to the truth or results of any remarks which he made.

At the close of his address Dr. Richardson was asked many questions regarding the subject by interested members of the audience.

In the business meeting of the club, upon the motion of Wendell H. Hall, it was voted that the president should appoint a committee of five to look into the advisibility of forming a good government association.

Responding to a question from Rufus B. Tobey, Mr. Hull stated it was the intention that this association should spread and in time take in all the interests of the city.

The committee was to consider whether the movement should be fostered by the club or started as an independent organization with the informal endorsement of the club.

At the next meeting of the club, which occurs in April the report of this committee will be heard.

It was voted to notify the president of the City Council and the councilmen from Ward Five as to the club's attitude toward the granting of express licenses.

This, in brief, is that the number of express licenses for the carriage of liquor shall not be increased over that of last year and that the laws governing the same should be more strictly enforced.

A nominating committee consisting of W. H. Hull, Rev. E. A. Chase, J. B. Cornish, C. P. Hutchins and B. H.

MAKES PLEA FOR KINDERGARTENS

H. W. Holmes Speaks At Annual Kindergarten Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Wollaston Free Kindergarten was held at the residence of Mrs. Frank K. Linscott, 15 Lincoln avenue on Tuesday evening.

A talk most instructive and interesting on the question: "Why should the kindergarten be made a part of our public school system?" was delivered by Henry W. Holmes of the education department of Harvard University.

Mr. Holmes opened by mentioning the kindergarten bill which has been reported upon favorably in the Legislature.

This bill requires that all towns with more than 10,000 inhabitants shall be required to maintain one or more kindergartens.

This bill, he said, will probably have the referendum attached to it by the House. This, however would do no harm as it has nothing to fear from the light of publicity.

There are, in Massachusetts, Mr. Holmes said, twenty cities and towns of from 10,000 to 20,000 population and eleven with over 20,000 which have no kindergarten.

This would make a total of thirty-one which would be affected by this bill. Quincy, he said, is among these.

Massachusetts has forty kindergartens operated with a total cost of $336.000. The cost per child for a year ranges from $4.50 in Sutton to $20 in Chicopee and $21 in Boston.

A fair allowance per child, he said, would be about eighteen dollars. The cost however should be reckoned per kindergarten as well.

The cost of operation of the average kindergarten for one year, Mr. Holmes stated, should be about one thousand dollars.

To equip a kindergarten costs from $175 to $200. The cost of breakage in a certain kindergarten for the year was $37.50.

A kindergarten of 100 is too large while one of 60 is crowded and needs two teachers.

There are two lines of return as a result of the kindergarten, said Mr. Holmes. One of these is along the industrial and moral line. The only sure foundation for this is in the kindergarten.

Another advantage is that it permits the child to save time in the elementary schools.

The professional lines of work are requiring more and more time for study and preparation. The average professional man today is from twenty-six to thirty years of age before he is able to begin the productive part of his work.

It takes the doctor ten years longer than it used to and it effects the lawyer, engineer and other professions to nearly the same extent.

There is a tendency to reduce every line of work to scientific elements in order to make it teachable.

Mr. Holmes said that by the time that a kindergarten child was out of the primary school he was nearly always a year ahead of the one who had not atended kindergarten.

The kindergarten pays for itself by the prevention of crime. The kindergarten, he said, puts into the moral fibre of the child a sort of iron which makes it strong and of more proof against temptation.

It develops affection in the child that is neglected at home and does away with the selfishness in the spoiled child.

The kindergarten child is not found on the police records. Isn't it cheaper to establish kindergartens than forts and prisons?

The great feat of Froeble was the characteristic to seize the play of a child as a means for education and to make the play bear educational fruit.

At first the school master thought that a child should play while he played and work while he worked. This is now changed and the two are intermingled.

One authority calls play an excess of activity. You might as well, said Mr. Holmes, consider the Sistine Madonna an excess of paint.

The kindergarten is not a substitute for the home but the best supplement to it.

He spoke of the gifts and occupations in the kindergarten which train the hand and eye to discriminate size shape and color.

It also brings the child's individual taste into play and instils some idea of the sense of mathematical proportions and the beauty of design.

This is all woven into the nervous tissue of the child at its most plastic age.

The clay should be taken while it is still wet to be moulded in the shape given it by the potter.

The kindergarten he said is certainly a good investment for any city or town.

At the business meeting preceding the lecture the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. W. S. Pinkham, chairman, Mrs. C. I. Campbell secretary and Miss I. L. Albee treasurer.

The committee of fifteen which served last year were reelected.

These consist of Mrs. W. S. Pinkham, Mrs. H. G. Kingman, Mrs. C. I. Campbell, Mrs. C. E. Goodspeed, Mrs. F. K. Linscott, Mrs. J. A. Jewell, Mrs. O. A. Blaisdell, Mrs. A. B. Hillman, Mrs E R. Johnson, Mrs H. S. Sewmour, Mrs. C. L. Sevey, Miss I. L. Albee, Miss H. E. Turner, Mrs. H. Y. Follett and Mrs. C. E. Bates

The treasurer's report showed receipts of $705 and expenditures of $461 leaving a balance on hand of $243. The expenses to the end of the year are estimated at $375. This leaves a balance of about $131 to be raised.

The secretary's report told of the means which are being adopted to raise money and she spoke of the cooking lectures which are now in progress for the benefit of the kindergarten.

Miss Grace A. L. Parker, the kindergartner also spoke. She told of the attendance during the year which varied from thirty to twelve. The small number she said was due to an epidemic of whooping cough which was prevalent at the time.

The gardens which were worked in by the children were spoken of, also the Christmas tree which was indulged in in the holiday season.

The visitors list she said showed an attendance of four fathers besides the large number of mothers.

VACATION TO BE EXTENDED

Pupils At Lincoln School To Have Additional Week.

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening all members with the exception of Dr. Curtis being present.

It was voted to extend the vacation at the Lincoln school until Tuesday April 20, that the contractor for the addition might make the necessary changes, in the old building.

The resignation of Edward P. Tingley janitor of the Cranch school was accepted and Robert Neill appointed to the position under the civil service rules.

An informal discusion was held on the proposed lots at Houghs Neck for a school building. The committee while not desiring in any way to take part in the discussion now on in the City Council in regard to the location of a lot voted to visit the beach Friday afternoon to look at the several sites proposed.

The question of manual training in the public schools was discussed and it was decided to postpone action on the matter for the present.

The expenditures of the department to date were reported as follows.

	Appropriation.	Expended.	Balance.
Salaries	$114,450	$33,429.44	$81,020.56

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Catherine Phelan.

Mrs. Catherine Phelan, wife of Thomas Phelan, was buried this morning from her late home at 11 Phipps street. A requiem high mass was celebrated in St. John's church at 10 o'clock, Rev. John J. Casey officiating. The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir with John Mahon at the organ. Miss Mary McConarty sang the "Pie Jesu."

The pall bearers were: Timothy F. Ford, Michael Daly, Enos Costa and Edward F. Ferguson. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Mrs. Catherine Cunningham.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Cunningham of Bay View, Gloucester, was held this morning from the home of her daughter Mrs. Daniel Walsh of 13 Kidder street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. John's church by Rev. Francis H. Houston. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, Miss Mary McConarty singing the "Pie Jesu." John Mahon presided at the organ.

Besides Mrs. Daniel Walsh, a son and a daughter survive, William Cunningham of Bay View and Mrs. M. J. McNierny of Lanesville.

The body was taken to Gloucester where it will be interred in the family lot in Oak Hill cemetery.

POLICE FIND PARENTS.

Four Year Old Boy Takes Trip All By His Lonesome.

Officer John J. Duane performed an act of charity this morning, when he took a small child who had been brought to police headquarters and started out to look for a home for the child. The child was brought to the station by Patrick Driscoll and turned over to the police.

In his roamings Officer Duane met Andrew Kartunen of 3 Hillside street, West Quincy, who said the child was his four-year-old son and that he had wandered away from his home this morning. Officer Duane turned the child over to its parents who were overjoyed to have their little one returned to them.

CALLS NEW PASTOR.

At a meeting of the Water Street Presbyterian church society Monday evening, a call was extended to Rev. James Matherson of Delanaco, N. J., to become the pastor of the church.

It is not known as yet whether he will accept the call but it is intimated that he will.

Rev. Mr. Matherson has occupied the pulpit several Sundays recently and is very much liked.

The Iroquois club has planned a great yachting schedule for the big 35-foot sloop yacht that they intend to buy. Capt. John T. Cain, Jr., has looked the craft over and has given it as his opinion that the boat is just the thing for a summer cruise. The yacht was formerly raced under the colors of the South Boston Yacht club.

MEMBERS RENDER PLEASING PROGRAM

Concert at Swedish Baptist Church Well Attended.

A free concert under the auspices of the Swedish Baptist society was held Tuesday night in the church chapel before a large and enthusiastic audience.

The concert opened with a gospel hymn by the audience, and was followed by Rev. A. P. Hanson who said he was glad to see so many present from the different Swedish church congregations of this city, as well as their other out of town guests. Rev. Mr. Hanson then gave them all a cordial welcome.

The next number on the program was a piano duet by Enor and Clarence Lundin and was followed by Miss Esther Sundberg who sang a solo. This was followed with a song from the men's choir of the Swedish Congregational church.

A piano solo by Miss Whiting and Miss Lindegren was then rendered. Clarence Lundin a pupil of Miss Whiting then played a selection on the piano. Miss Whiting was followed by a selection on the piano by Enos Lundin.

Master Kenneth Johnson recited a piece on the curses of drink which made a decided hit with the audience. This was followed by a selection by an orchestra composed of violin, guitar and piano.

There was another solo by Miss Sunberg and then Rev. A. P. Hanson made a few brief but interesting remarks. He told about the winning of the piano in the Folsom Tea contest and for that reason the free concert was held. Rev. Mr Hanson then thanked all those who had helped the church society in the piano contest.

The next number was a song by the men's choir of the church and was followed by Kenneth Johnson who recited another piece on the bad habits of using tobacco. Miss Sunberg then rendered a piano solo. The closing number was a selection by the male choir. Rev. Mr. Hanson had charge of the program.

Another month and the Assessors will buckle on their armor and go forth to set a value on the property of the city.

Now that Quincy has voted to purchase a new steam fire engine the Mayor will probably learn more about fire engines than he ever dreamed of before.

The need of a large committee room at City Hall was made apparent Monday night when fourteen men had to be crowded into one of the small rooms.

Commenting upon the abolition of the tariff on art, the Boston Advertiser says "It is, perhaps, too much to expect that the United States customs appraisers will be sufficiently intelligent to know a real "old master" from a spurious. It is almost superfluous to observe that a fraudulent painting which will fool a collector will fool a customs appraiser. But it is apparent that some extra precautions will be necessary to protect this country, in some degree, against a flood of extremely modern paintings with somewhat venerable signatures. It is cabled already from Paris that a few dealers are emphasizing the possibility of a brisk trade in these spurious paintings, as soon as the tariff on paintings more than 20 years old is removed. It is even claimed that there are thousands of spurious Corots, Daubignys and even Botticellis and Raphaels, not to mention others, waiting in storage for the coming opportunity. However, this is not a new industry. It may be believed that if a fraud is sufficiently clever to find sale as a genuine "old master" it need not await the removal of the duty. The chief danger in the removal of duty, in this matter of frauds, lies in the assumption that there will be a stimulated trade in valuable paintings with the duty's removal. However, the trade in high-valued paintings is not sufficiently impetuous to raise any grave alarm at the prospects. Extra precautions, however, may fairly be urged upon the United States customs department."

This idea of palming off on Americans spurious works of art is in some respects warranted for there is probably no other race of people so willing to give up their good money for what they are told are works of the old masters, as Americans.

If the duty on art is removed, and it should be, it probably won't be long before Vandykes? Raphaels? etc., will be sent to this country by boatloads, while their former owners will be jingling American coins and thinking how innocent and unsophisticated we Americans are.

At one of the recent meetings of the City Council an order was adopted requesting the Mayor to obtain from the estate of Zenas Arnold the price at which he would sell his property abutting the Coddington school lot on Coddington street to the city.

The object of the gentleman who offered the order undoubtedly was if the price was not too high for the city to purchase the estate that it might become a part of the school lot.

The new Coddington school building is undoubtedly one of the handsomest school buildings in the city, but owing to the peculiar shape of the school lot its sightliness is considerably marred. At the time the building was contemplated and the order for it was pending an effort was made to obtain a price upon the Arnold lot, but none could be obtained. This was doubtless due to the reason that the parties interested in the matter were not clothed with the proper authority.

If the Arnold lot can be purchased at a reasonable figure the building thereon could be moved away and the lot thrown into the school yard. This would give an unobstructed view of the building from the street and give a large playground for the children between the building and Coddington street. It might also do away with the necessity of purchasing the Faxon lot on the easterly end of the present lot as proposed by another order that is pending before the council.

In connection with the Coddington school is another matter. That is the disposal of the old building. It has been suggested that it would be an economical thing if the city should move this building to Houghs Neck and remodel it for the school building ing for that section.

A new four room brick building will cost in the vicinity of $20,000 as the average price paid for new buildings today is $5,000 per room.

If this building therefore could be moved to the site selected at Houghs Neck it could doubtless be remodellel into a modern wooden building for $10,000 and perhaps less.

A howl of indignation would doubtless go up from the residents of Houghs Neck. Yet the building could readily be made attractive. This would furnish this section with the necessary school accommodations and save the city considerable money.

WEYMOUTH

The school committee will hold a meeting next Tuesday evening at which time it is expected a superintendent of schools will be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of A. A. Badger. This town being located so near Boston the acknowleged educational centre of the east is looked upon as a very desirable field by superintendents and the committee has received a large number of applications for the position not only from Massachusetts but from New York and every New England state. Of the superintendents who have had charge of the Weymouth schools in the past dozen years, two resigned to accept positions as teachers in the Boston schools at an increased salary and two others resigned to continue the same work elsewhere at an increase in salary.

Monday night there was a record breaking attendance at the 27th annual fair of the Ladies Cemetery Improvement association. Last evening there was also a large attendance when a company of local players gave the two ct drama "Once On a Time." The cast was made up of the following: Lyman C. Williams, Franklin P. Whitten, Russell G. Niles, Harold Hyland, Alice M. Nash and F. Adelaide McCarthy. This evening the cantata "A Garden of Singing Flowers" will be given with Joseph W. Blanchard as the gardener, and Miss Emma L. Clapp, accompanist.

The funeral of Mrs. P. H. Linton took place from her late residence Tuesday afternoon. Rev. F. B. Cressey of Cambridge conducted the service. The interment was at Village cemetery.

Mrs. M. B. Sanborn of Chelsea is spending the week with friends in town.

Wildey lodge of Odd Fellows celebrated its 34th anniversary Tuesday evening with an entertainment and banquet.

Charles A. Clapp and Russell Nash have gone west on business trips.

The members of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Baptist church tendered the pastor Rev. C. H. Carey a surprise party at the parsonage a few evenings ago and presented him a purse of gold.

OUTLAW LEADER LODGED IN JAIL

Crazy Snake Is Badly Injured In a Brush With Troops

TROUBLE IS NOT YET OVER

Officers Predict, However, That There Will Be Little Shooting From This Time On—Seminoles Reported to Be Preparing to Join Outlaws—Leader Wants Promise Made by Christopher Columbus Adhered To

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 31.—A dispatch from the scene of the Indian uprising reports that Crazy Snake, the leader of the band of outlaws, has been captured after being badly wounded and that he has been taken to the federal jail at Muskogee.

Thre is now no reason to believe that there will be a general encounter with the fugitives. Ambuscades in some force, however, are not impossible, although officers left in charge at Camp Hickory, as the hamlet of tents has been named, predict that there will be little shooting from this time on. The moral effect of militia uniforms and glistening bayonets has been great.

Great excitement prevails among Seminole freedmen near Holdenville because of the arrest of one of their number, Frank Coker, charged with killing Marshal Baum and Deputy Odom during the fight at Crazy Snake's house on Saturday.

Residents of that region are frightened over reports that the Seminoles are arming to join Crazy Snake's band. Negro agitators worked among the Indians to incite an uprising. One story declares that the Seminoles marched in armed bodies. This is not confirmed.

Crazy Snake's Grievance

Washington, March 31.—Probably the best statement of his grievances which Crazy Snake, the Creek Indian, who is now making trouble for the authorities in Oklahoma, has ever made was given to a senate committee which visited Oklahoma, then Indian territory, in the fall of 1906.

In his statement Crazy Snake insisted on going back to the time of the landing of Columbus, who, he said, had promised that "as long as the sun rises, as long as the waters run, as long as the grass grows," his agreement to care for and protect the Indians should last. When the Indians were removed from Alabama to Indian territory, he said, these promises had been repeated.

"That," he said, "was the agreement and the treaty, and I and my people came out here and settled on this land. We carried out these agreements in all points and violated none.

"I went through death for this cause (referring to his services as a Union soldier during the war). I served the father faithfully, and as a reward I regained my country and I and my children will remain in it and live here as we did in the old time. I believe it. I know it is right. I know it is justice."

No Federal Intervention

Washington, March 31.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger announces that he can see no reason for federal intervention in the Indian troubles, and that the state authorities are well able to handle the affair without government interference.

$1,000,000 BRIDGE OPENED

Newsies Not Far Behind Mayor In Being the First Across

New York, March 31.—The new Queensborough bridge connecting New York and Long Island City was informally opened to pedestrians and vehicles Tuesday. Thousands of people and a long procession of automobiles gathered at either end of the bridge, all anxious to be the first over after Mayor McClellan had crossed the 7749 foot roadway in an automobile.

A crowd of newsboys beat everyone out but the mayor, by running from Manhattan to Queensborough as fast as they could sprint. The formal ceremony of opening the bridge will be held on June 12.

The new bridge is of the cantilever type, cost about $1,000,000, and has been about ten years in building.

WORK WILL CONTINUE

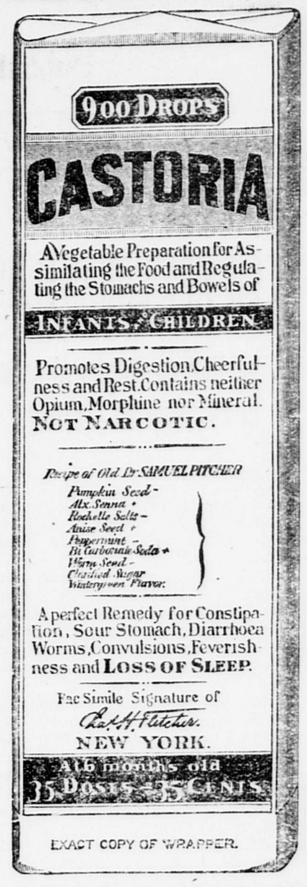

Will Be No Lockout In the Mahanoy District Collieries

Mahanoy City, Pa., March 31.—All doubts as to a lockout at the mines on April 1 was removed by the announcement that the collieries of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company in the Mahanoy district will continue operations after this date until further notice.

The Mill Creek Coal company and the Dobson Coal company have decided to pursue a similar policy.

Refugee Pouren Freed

New York, March 31.—Jan Janoff Pouren, the Russian refugee, whose extradition has long been sought by the Russian government, was discharged from custody by Commissioner Hitchcock, who found that Pouren was guilty of arson, attempted murder and burglary, but that he had acted as a revolutionist and without criminal intent.

ELIOT IS OFFERED AMBASSADORSHIP

President of Harvard Has Matter Under Consideration

Washington, March 31.—President Taft, speaking at a dinner tendered to President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university in this city last night, announced by direct inference that Eliot had been tendered and was considering the appointment of ambassador to Great Britain.

Senator Root of New York had indicated the selection of Eliot earlier in the evening, and President Taft made the announcement stronger by declaring he endorsed all that Root had said.

FORBIDDEN TO MARRY

Novel Action by Court In Dealing With a Young Criminal

New York, March 31.—A judicial order of much interest to sociologists was issued by Judge Foster in the case of Albert E. Johnson, 20 years old, several times arrested for theft. The magistrate forbade the youth to marry under penalty of a long term of imprisonment, which he declared he would impose in punishment of a larceny committed three years ago and on which he had at the time suspended sentence.

As he was about to be sentenced for this offense for breaking his parole, a young girl who declared she was his fiancee interceded for him. It was at this juncture that Foster issued the novel order.

"I have no intention of permitting a marriage which will breed more criminals," said he. "I will again suspend sentence on the grand larceny charge, but if I hear of your marrying without first obtaining my consent I will send you to jail for a long term."

KNIFE AND PISTOL FIGHT

Hunchagist Society Row Leads to Fierce Conflict In Darkened Hall

Boston, March 31.—One man was probably fatally shot and six others were stabbed at a meeting in the Brighton district last night, following exceptions taken to a statement by Moses Shenian of New York, who, it is claimed, advocated extreme measures to be taken with those rich Armenians who would not subscribe to the fund of the Hunchagist society, which he represented.

A gun was drawn and Karelkin Essian, aged 20, was shot in the back. Then the lights went out and a general mixup followed, in which shots were fired and knives used.

The police descended on the hall and hurried Essian to a hospital, where it is not believed he can live. Six other Armenians were found to be suffering from stab wounds, but none were seriously injured.

The police detained twenty men pending an investigation.

KILLED GIRL HE LOVED

Man to Be Arrested For Crime of Thirty-Two Years Ago

Terre Haute, Ind., March 31.—Charged with the murder of Rose Tritt at Sanford, Ind., thirty-two years ago, Sylvester Burnham is to be arrested in Texas. Requisition papers have been obtained from Governor Marshall at Indianapolis. Burnham is said to be a wealthy ranch owner.

The man who is said to have murdered Rost Tritt was, it is alleged, a laborer on her father's farm and was madly in love with the girl. She and her family declined to receive him as a suitor and he murdered the girl. The suspected laborer disappeared. According to the police he joined the navy and afterward established himself in Texas.

LIQUOR TRANSPORTATION

Further Restrictions by Action of New Hampshire Legislature

Concord, N. H., March 31.—No-license cities and towns in New Hampshire will be rigidly protected from the bringing in of liquor from other places within the state by the action of the senate, which concurred in the house amendment to a senate bill for the protection of no-license territory, the amendment prohibiting the transportation of liquor by express companies from a license community into a no-license place.

The bill now goes to the governor, who is expected to sign it. As originally passed by the senate, the bill merely prohibited the soliciting of orders for liquor in no-license places.

CHINA GUILTY OF DISCOURTESY

She Is Accused of Submitting to "Malign Influences"

A STRONG NOTE FROM JAPAN

Asserts In Positive Terms That Government Is Unable to Accede to China's Suggestion That Pending Questions With Regard to Manchuria Be Referred to The Hague Tribunal For Arbitration

Tokio, March 31.—Answering a request for an expression of the views of the government concerning China's proposal that the Manchurian questions be referred to The Hague, in connection with which special dispatches say that China has officially requested the United States to use its influence to persuade Japan to accept, the foreign office gave out the following carefully worded statement:

"Several questions between Japan and China of more or less importance, with reference to Manchuria, still remain unadjusted. Some are complicated, but all readily could be made to yield to the diplomatic process of give and take. Japan, fully appreciating the advantages of removing all causes of misunderstanding from her relations with her neighbor, made proposals to China looking to the final settlement of outstanding differences.

"These proposals were framed in a spirit of consideration and conciliation. China at first apparently accepted Japan's friendly overtures in the spirit in which they were tendered, and even went so far as to express approval of some of the projected solutions. But malign influences ultimately were permitted to prevail, and without discussing the questions or making any counter proposals China categorically rejected Japan's offers and suggested recourse to the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague.

"In adopting this extraordinary course China is guilty not only of slight courtesy to Japan, but she has disregarded one of the expressed provisions of The Hague convention and has completely reversed the usual course of procedure. Article 41 of The Hague convention declares that the court is maintained for the 'object of facilitating recourse to arbitration of international differences impossible to settle by diplomacy;' thus unsuccessful diplomatic effort is made an essential prerequisite to arbitration.

"In the present case the resources of diplomacy have not only not been exhausted, but they have not yet even been appealed to. The questions in dispute have not been made the subject of full detailed discussion and negotiation between the two governments, and no attempt has been made to compose the differences or ascertain how far they are irreconciliable.

"Even if the differences in this case could at any time appropriately be referred to The Hague, that time has not arrived. The questions are not ripe for such references; diplomatic effort would first have to be exhausted and the exact points at issue ascertained and specified. To invoke at this time an arbitral solution would be to request the permanent court at The Hague to undertake duties which necessarily appertain exclusively to the foreign offices of Tokio and Pekin.

"But these differences are not of a nature to admit of arbitral determination, which is limited necessarily to the questions actually at issue. The controversy covers a wide range of interests and calls for a correspondingly wide range of accommodation. The powers immediately concerned, having plenty of authority to pool all issues, if necessary, are alone competent to settle the questions in a satisfactory manner, and no solution not satisfactory to all concerned will stand the test of time and the stress of competing interests.

"It is therefore extremely unfortunate," the foreign office statement sets forth in conclusion, "that China, failing to take advantage of Japan's complaisant mood, has allowed herself to be persuaded to make the wholly impracticable suggestion of arbitration."

SOCIALISIM AS A THEORY

The Only Manner In Which American People Are Interested In It

New York, March 31.—"Socialism is making no progress in America," declared Louis U. Wilkinson on the eve of his departure for Europe. Wilkinson is a University of Cambridge lecturer who has just completed a tour of the eastern states, during which he had spoken before more than a hundred colleges and learned societies on Socialistic subjects.

"There is no general sympathy in this country for Socialistic doctrines," he continued. "The Americans seem to enjoy the study of Socialism as a theory, but as a practical proposition it does not interest them."

Coffee Duty Stricken Out

Washington, March 31.—Recognizing that Brazil is powerless to suspend her export tax on coffee because for the next several years at least this tax is indissolubly linked with her foreign debt, the senate committee on finance decided to strike out of the Payne bill the countervailing duty proposed.

HUNGARIAN MINERS DRIVEN FROM CAMP

Result of Constant Squabbling With the Americans

Terre Haute, Ind., March 31.—Hungarian miners employed at the Bogle colliery at Jasonville, after engaging in a gun fight with American miners, in which eleven persons were wounded, accepted the inevitable and scattered to different parts of the country. Harry St. John, an American, was shot in the stomach and may die.

The Hungarians and the Americans had been at odds for a long time. Each faction fired into the houses of the other and street fights were common.

The Americans ordered the Hungarians to leave Tuesday afternoon, and the latter, knowing the odds were against them, piled their goods on wagons and drove away in all directions. An American flag is flying over the mining camp schoolhouse.

THE DOVE OF PEACE

Does Not Appear to Have Yet Alighted In Central America

Mexico City, March 31.—Private telegraphic advices received here set forth that Guatemala has concentrated a large portion of her army on the Honduran frontier.

The situation in Central America is regarded in Mexico City with pessimism, in spite of various denials of hostile intention. This latest reported move on the part of President Cabrera of Guatemala is thought to have been taken to checkmate President Zelaya of Nicaragua and President Davila, who are said to contemplate a joint assault on Guatemala.

DINNER OF OPTIMISTS

An Organization Which Looks on the Bright Side of Life

New York, March 31.—"Looking on the bright side of things" is the specialty of the members of the Optimists' club, who will hold their first annual dinner in this city tonight. The "smile makers," as the Optimists call themselves have a long roll of distinguished members, many of whom will attend the dinner. Their honorary president is Andrew Carnegie, and the "Star Spangled Scotchman" will preside at the dinner.

A feature of the dinner will be the singing of some original optimistic songs, written especially for the occasion.

Speaking of the club and its purposes, Mr. Carnegie said:

"The optimist is needed these days. Never was there so much cause for exultation. Instead of moaning over our imperfections we should take a glance backward and rejoice that man was created with an instinct of turning his face toward the sun and absorbing its spiritualizing light, always ascending, never retrograding; no limit to his ascent short of perfection. This is the rock of my salvation. All is well since all grows better."

The founder and secretary of the Optimists' club is William J. Robinson of this city. Among the members is General J. Franklin Bell, chief of the general staff of the army, who has nominated every man in the army for membership and has requested Mr. Robinson to send to every soldier literature calculated to make him a "smile maker."

TALK WITH PRESIDENT TAFT

Porto Rican Kickers Are Instructed How to Proceed

Washington, March 31.—The commissioners from the house of delegates of Porto Rico who seek settlement of the present legislative difficulties in the island called Tuesday on President Taft to ask for his aid.

The president asked the commissioners to prepare for Secretary of the Interior Ballinger a brief memorandum containing the wishes of the house of delegates and to take up with him ways and means of ending the immediate troubles caused by the closing of the recent session of the legislature without passing an appropriation bill.

"The president announced," said Chairman Rivera of the commission, "that he would appoint a special commission to go to Porto Rico to study the general state of affairs in the island, but that it would be necessary first for the house of delegates and executive council to pass the appropriations for the coming year."

The Newfoundland Deadlock

St. John's, March 31.—Another general election in Newfoundland within a few months is regarded as a probability by leading politicians who think it impossible to end the deadlock in the legislature, since neither side was able to elect a speaker at the opening session Tuesday.

Rochester Landmark Burned

Rochester, March 31.—Reynolds' Arcade at the Rochester Four Corners, one of the landmarks of the city, was practically gutted by fire, causing a loss estimated at $170,000.

A Coincidence.

"I'm afraid, George," said his fiancee, "that you are going from bad to worse."

"Quite a coincidence," muttered George. "That's what Clara said when I threw her over for you."

SERVIA'S RIGHTS NOT VIOLATED

King Peter's Government Accepts Decision of Powers

ROW WITH AUSTRIA SETTLED

Formula Agreed Upon Presented by Representatives of Foreign Nations at Belgrade—Servian Princes Swap Names, Alexander Becoming George While George Will Be Known as Alexander

Belgrade, March 31.—The furmula agreed upon by the powers of Europe and Austria-Hungary for the settlement of the dispute between the dual monarchy and Servia was accepted by the Servian government Tuesday.

The formula was presented at the foreign office by the British, French, German, Russian and Italian ministers, and Servia will, through her minister at Vienna, deliver to the Austrian government today a note to the following effect:

First, Servia declares that her rights have not been violated by the annexation by Austria-Hungary of Bosnia and Herzegovina and accepts the powers' decision to annul paragraph 25 of the treaty of Berlin; second, Servia will not protest against the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina; third, Servia will maintain peaceful relations with Austria-Hungary; fourth, Servia will return her military forces to normal conditions and will discharge the reservists and volunteers; she will not permit the formation of irregular troops or bands.

This note has been prepared at the suggestion of the powers and will be sent with the object of terminating all misunderstandings between Austria-Hungary and Servia. First, however, it, together with the former note to Austria, will be submitted to the national assembly for approval.

On Tuesday King Peter issued a ukase changing the names of his sons. The step is taken to preserve the name of George as head of the house of Karageorgevich.

The former crown prince, George, who last week renounced his rights to the throne, will henceforth be known as Alexander, while Alexander, George's younger brother, who has been recognized as crown prince, will be known as George.

George, the new crown prince, has been made a lieutenant in the army. The local press is urging that he be sent to European colleges to complete his education.

DRIVEN INTO A FRENZY

Tosti Tried to Assault Roosevelt Because Son Was Deported

Paris, March 31.—A special dispatch from Rome says that Giuseppi Tosti, ex-President Roosevelt's assailant on board the steamer Hamburg, emigrated from Italy to New York with his son. The latter was deported as a dangerous character and Tosti appealed to the White House to have the order of deportation rescinded. This appeal at first was not answered, but finally Tosti was informed that Roosevelt could not interfere in the matter.

According to the dispatch, Tosti then decided to rejoin his son and embarked on the steamer Hamburg by pure chance. Being under the delusion that the ex-president wished to harm his son the sight of Roosevelt drove him into a frenzy.

The authorities at Naples will take charge of Tosti on the arrival of the Hamburg and place him on trial.

TWO AMERICAN ENTRIES

Races Will Follow Motor Boat Exposition In France

Nice, France, March 31.—The international motor boat exposition, in which motor enthusiasts of many countries are interested, was opened at Monaco today. The exposition precedes the motor boat races, which will be sailed at Monaco from April 4 to 11. All the entries in the races are shown in the exposition, the conditions of the race requiring them to be placed on exhibition. The two American entries, the Dixie II, international champion of last year, owned by Edward J. Schroeder of New York, and the Standard, owned by Price McKinney of Cleveland, are attracting much attention.

Indian Revolt In Mexico

Mexico City, March 31.—Maya Indians in the southern part of the Yucatan peninsula have revolted. Colonel Royes was killed by them and four fellow officers were either killed or mortally wounded. The disturbance occurred in a penal settlement. Many Yaqui Indians have been banished to the place.

BRIEFS

Dr. H. C. Hallowell returned this morning from a ten days' pleasure trip to Chicago.

Miss Abbie Souther of Cohasset is the guest of her sister Mrs. Alexander Rose of Warren avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon S. Brokaw of South Central avenue are visiting friends in Brooklyn, New York.

The Central station combination was called out Tuesday evening for a grass fire near Newcomb square.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Goodrich of Lincoln avenue have gone to Oneida, N. Y., to remain until October first.

Edward Hayden of Washington court has accepted a position in the Geo. E. Keith shoe factory at East Weymouth.

The regular weekly cribbage party of the Washington Social club was held Tuesday evening in the clubhouse on Washington street.

The Central station combination was called out on a still alarm shortly before noon today for a grass fire on the Adams farm on Sea street.

The annual dance of the Pine Tree State Association tonight at Faxon hall promises to be an enjoyable occasion and a grand good time is assured all who attend .

The many friends of Miss Elizabeth Kimball formerly of Quincy will be sorry to hear of her death which occurred at Danvers on Tuesday last. The body will be interred in Mt. Wollaston cemetery on Friday at 3 o'clock.

The big 28-foot motor boat now being built by Alfred T. Bullock and Edward Costello, is fast nearing completion. She will probably be put into the water by the middle of April and by the first of May will be in full running shape.

The Roundabout club held its sixth meeting with Miss Helen L. Curtis of Atlantic street, Tuesday evening, March 30th. A very pleasant evening was spent in playing games and a few musical numbers after which refreshments were served.

Charles Starr of Revere road, who is on the U. S. S. Kearsarge, returned to his ship Tuesday afternoon after a two weeks' vacation at his home. Charlie goes to Philadelphia where the Kearsarge is now stationed after its "around the world" cruise.

Miss Marjorie Wood of Flatbush, N. Y., niece of Mrs. Sewell B. Elwell formerly of Atlantic but now of Everett, made a flying visit to Atlantic Tuesday afternoon, on her way to Dublin, N. H., where she spends the summer every year.

The Y. P. R. U. of First church is to hold an Easter service Sunday evening in the chapel, when Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney will read. There will be a pantomine by Miss Beatrice Morrison and Miss Ruth Penniman and music by Mrs. Slade, Miss Minnie Hardwick and J. D. Gourlie.

Members of the Unity club of Wollaston are anticipating their closing meeting of the season, an attractive program having been arranged by Mr. Willard E. Keyes, ably assisted by club members. The annual election will also be held. The meeting will be held as usual in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry.

MRS. RAMSDELL REMEMBERED.

Atlantic Woman Receives Check From Caleb Chase Estate.

Mrs. John Ramsdell of Atlantic was one of the highly favored beneficiaries this week by the will of the late Caleb Chase of the firm of Chase & Sanborn. With the check was a card bearing these words, "Under the terms of the will of our late beloved senior, you are named to receive the inclosed ,and it is a most pleasant duty of the executors to hand you this amount from the Caleb Chase Sunshine Fund, created in his loving heart, to be used as an agent in conveying his warm regard for, and personal interest in you and your associates connected with the organization."

ELRICK—LEIGHTON.

William C. Elrick of 20 Quincy street and Miss Mabel A. Leighton also of Quincy, took a trip to Providence on Saturday last, and while there made a call on a clergyman and were united in marriage. Mr. Leighton is well known in Quincy and is on the U. S. S. Georgia. He is the son of William Elrick who is well known in the Scotch circles of the city.

THREE MORE ARRESTS MADE.

Three more arrests were made early this morning by Inspectors McKay and Goodhue in the Chinese robbery case at Norfolk Downs. The parties arrested were Arthur C. Setterland, John J. Gillon and P. J. Duggan. They were arraigned in court this morning and their cases continued until Thursday morning for a hearing.

BOWLING.

The Bulldogs defeated the Bantams in the second last game of the Houghs Neck Associates bowling league Tuesday night. Archie F. Baird of the Bulldogs was high man with a single of 106 and three string total of 279. This game was the last regular one of the league schedule. A protested game will be bowled Thursday night.

The score was as follows:

Woman and Her Back.

In Henry Baerlein's novel "Yrivand" there is a discovery about the expression of the emotions which even Darwin forgot to record. It is to the effect that woman chiefly uses her back to convey her sentiments. And, indeed, any close observer of the human comedy can hardly fail to notice that does a woman wish to annihilate a rival and cast despair into the soul of a lover she simply turns an expressive back upon them. No tears, no wrath, no indignation, can vie with this maneuver, which has, too, the advantage of being noncommittal, for no one, in the current jargon, can "give herself away" with her back. The expression of the emotions by this part of the anatomy is dignified, if a trifle limited. When a woman cries she is too apt to make a deplorable grimace. Does she get angry, her face will assume an unbecoming red. Very few understand the use of the gesture of the hands and arms. That is why woman, with her primordial instinctive wisdom, uses her back, especially when it is beautiful, as one of the chief weapons in the eternally diverting war of the sexes.

Toward the Pole.

Ice eight feet thick on the ocean and snow falling even in summer—such is the weather experienced in the polar regions. When the air is dry and still it is remarkable how low a temperature can be borne with ease. One explorer tells us that with the thermometer at 9 degrees it was too warm for skating. The summer weather in this region is, moreover, in some respects pleasant and healthful. Within the arctic zone there are wonderfully colored sunrises and sunsets to be seen. They are both brilliant and impressive, says a writer in the Penny Pictorial. But the nights—the nights are monotonous and repelling, a rigid world buried in everlasting snow, silent save for the cracking of the ice or the wail of the wind. Travelers in these regions experience many discomforts. The keen air causes their skin to burn and blister, while their lips swell and crack. Thirst, again, has been much complained of, arising from the action of the low temperature on the warm body.

When Your Joints are Stiff and your muscles sore from cold or rheumatism, when you slip or sprain a joint, strain your side or bruise yourself, Painkiller will take out the soreness and fix you right in a jiffy. Always have it with you, and use it freely. The oldest, the cheapest and the best medicine for internal and external aches and pains in man is Perry's Painkiller, and for over seventy years it has been the great standby for emergencies in thousands of families all over the world. Don't go home without a 50c or one of the new size 35c bottles.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Falling Hair
Ayer's Hair Vigor promptly destroys the germs that cause falling hair. It nourishes the hair-bulbs, restores them to health. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly.

Dandruff
Ayer's Hair Vigor just as promptly destroys the germs that cause dandruff. It removes every trace of dandruff itself, and keeps the scalp clean and in a healthy condition.

We wish you to positively and distinctly understand that Ayer's Hair Vigor does not affect the color of the hair, even to the slightest degree.

MARRIAGES.

ELRICK—LEIGHTON—In Providence, March, 27, William C. Elrick and Mabel A. Leighton both of Quincy.

Established 1870 Telephone
JOHN HALL
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
Carriage and Ambulance Service
1485 Hancock Street, Quincy, Mass.

THE
Young Men's Christian Association
OF QUINCY, MASS.
(Legal Title Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an Endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the Donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an Endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the Donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)
INCORPORATED 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the Donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams St Quincy, or the Treasurer RICHARD D. CHASE Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

AMONG THE CLUBS.

A meeting of the executive board of the Quincy Women's club will be held Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the club house. Although it is April first it is no joke and a large attendance is looked for.

* * *

Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution meet for their April meeting on Monday afternoon, April 5, at half past two with Mrs. Charles H. Sprague 52 Pearl street, South Braintree.

* * *

The Quincy Day Nursery association holds its monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon, April 6, at the club house of the Quincy Women's club.

* * *

Mothers association has an evening meeting, or gentlemen's night, next week which will take the form of a public meeting. It will be held Wednesday at quarter of eight in Bethany chapel and will be addressed by Rev. Chauncy J. Hawkins his subject being, "The Power of Suggestion in the Home." Miss Alice Gertrude Coe of Atlantic will be the soloist and add much to the meeting, her rich contralto voice always giving pleasure to her listeners. The meeting will close with a reception.

* * *

Quincy Alliance is preparing for its annual meeting on April 26th, when there will be reports and an election of officers.

* * *

Junior Friday club had an interesting meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Alice Keith Prescott the program being arranged by Mrs. William H. Whitney with "Foreign Residents in Rome" as the subject.

* * *

Mrs. Sturgis of the Women's Auxiliary is to address the Guild of St. Chrysostom's church on Friday at two o'clock in the parish rooms, taking for her subject, "Foreign Missions." Refreshments and a social hour follow the address and women of the parish are welcome.

* * *

A conference of Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. of the fourth district was held Tuesday at the Baptist church, North Abington. Mrs. Amos Albee of Wollaston was on the committee of arrangements and Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard was one of the speakers.

* * *

Friday club will be entertained on April 9th at the home of Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Brook street, Wollaston, with Mrs. Wilson Marsh as chairman of the afternoon. "Venice as seen and described by Famous Writers" should make up an unusually pleasing program.

* * *

April 8th the Shakespeare society of Atlantic will take up for reading act three from scene three and act four to scene six of "Kink Lear."

* * *

The Child Nurture club will meet with Mrs. Blaisdell, 126 Grand View avenue, on Tuesday, April 6, at 2.30 P. M. The meeting will be in charge of Miss Grace Parker, who will give a paper on "Music in the Home," illustrated by both vocal and instrumental music. Members please notice change of date.

* * *

Mrs. W. H. Binnian of Presidents hill was hostess Tuesday for the Conversational club, when an extremely interesting paper on Emerson was given by Miss Gertrude Babcock.

* * *

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

But two more meetings before the annual are scheduled for this season for the Quincy Womens club. April 13th under the auspices of the Arts and Crafts committee, Anna Seaton Schmidt will speak on William Morris and applied decorative art. It is understood that her subject is a broad one and of much interest. A social tea will follow the lecture. The same afternoon in the Arts and Crafts room there will be an exhibition of book plates by E. B. Bird of Wollaston.

Mystery afternoon on April 27th sounds illusive and attractive. The program committee has prepared a most entertaining program but the details are shrouded in mystery and some happy surprises may be anticipated. Local clubs have been asked to contribute features, and some clever bits may be expected.

The election committee is at work reparing to send out preliminary ballots, that members may express their choice for officers for 1909-1910 and a large vote is hoped for.

Members are asked to bring any old rubber they wish to dispose of to the club house as Mrs. N. G. Nickerson is making a collection for charity purposes.

NEIGHBORING.

At the annual meeting of the Abigail Smith Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution of Weymouth, held March 2d, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Regent, Miss G. A. Robbins; vice regent, Mrs. Abbie J. Bicknell; recording secretary, Mrs. Emily V. Loud; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Abbie J. Bicknell; treasurer, Mrs. Mary P. Sheppard; historian; Mrs. Harriet B. Newcomb; executive committee, Miss A. Lillian McGregor, Miss Carrie Lowery, Miss Josie M. Cummings, Mrs. S. Josephine Avery. Delegates to the meeting of the General Society to be held in Boston in May: Regent, Miss G. A. Robbins; her alternate, Mrs. S. J. Avery; Mrs. Mary P. Sheppard; her alternate, Mrs. Harriet B. Whitcomb.

* * *

A household economics conference of the State Federation will be held in South Framingham, Tuesday, April 13, at two o'clock, by invitation of the Framingham Woman's club. Miss Maria W. Howard of Simmons College, will speak on the "Cost and Nutritive Value of Foods," and Miss Flora McDonald will talk on "Home Furnishings." Miss Georgie A. Bacon and Mrs. Eliza J. Bates, chairman of the household economics committee, will also speak briefly and there will be an open discussion. Members of home departments, presidents and secretaries, or their representatives are invited.

* * *

On April 16, the forestry committee of the State Federation will have a conference at the rooms of The Twentieth Century club, on Joy street, Boston. The speakers will be Mrs. Emmons Crocker, Mr. F. W. Rane, Massachusetts State forester, Mrs. C. E. Stevens and Mr. Edwin A. Start.

* * *

The presidents' conference held at Readville recently, says the Boston Transcript, was one of the most helpful and suggestive gatherings in the annals of the State Federation. Its purpose was to acquaint clubs with the plans and accomplishments of the various standing committees. Club women are not, unless they have taken particular pains to inform themselves, familiar with all that the federtion committees undertake, yet it is highly important that this knowledge should be shared by every member of a woman's club in order that the cooperation of the whole federation may be counted upon in urging or pursuing its policies. All that benefits the federation is beneficial to each individual club. Anything that helps the individual club to realize its ambitions strengthens the power of the federation.

* * *

The annual meeting of the State Federation will be held at Springfield, Wednesday and Thursday, May 19 and 20, by invitation of the Springfield Woman's club. It will be remembered that a few years ago a federation meeting was held at Springfield by invitation of the Teacher's club, and that it was a most enjoyable occasion.

—If trade follows the flag the world should now expect to see a magnificent fleet of American merchant ships sailing over the course taken by the battleship.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Anyway, it is sometimes some relief just to think of all the mean things we dare not call a man.

According to her husband's way of looking at it, the smaller the bill the more scrumptious the hat.

In trying to do better the trouble with most of us is not that we don't try hard enough, but that we didn't start soon enough.

One good way to weaken the rascals is to keep honest yourself.

It is as hard to keep on good terms with a hysterical, egotistical woman as it is for her to keep on good terms with her temper.

Watching some one else take his punishment should teach us to be careful and not get caught.

You never hear the possessors of riches maligning them. It is the fellow that hasn't got them that knows so much about their undesirable qualities.

The less you hear about some people the better you like them.

Narrow Escape.

"There is the man who invented a new breakfast food."

"What did they do to him?"

"Nothing."

"Do the police know about it?"

The Proud Man.

Many a man who is proud of himself daren't tell why.

Annual Reminder.

Does your heart
Give a throb
As it works
On the job
Of viewing
The wonderful signs
In windows
Displayed
At hand
For the trade
Of new
And improved valentines,
Where love
And affection
Are making Connection
In ancient
And time honored lines?
Each year
On the date
That souls
Seek a mate
And joy
Has the mail burdened down
We think
Of the lass,
The pride
Of our class,
Who once
Was the belle of the town.
Though lost
To us now,
We think
Of the vow
We made
When he hoped she'd say "Yes"
And stifle
A sigh
Of sorrow—
For why?
We don't
Even know her address.

Cheap Pleasure.

"Do you believe in the ground hog?"

"Yes, I guess so."

"Why do you?"

"Well, it doesn't cost anything to believe in him."

Good Proof.

"He may be a great editor, but he is no judge of poetry."

"How do you know?"

"I sent him some."

Clever Boy.

"What have you been doing all morning?" asked the frate employer.

"Missing my train," responded the truthful youth.

NORFOLK ss. PROBATE COURT.

TO the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of late of Quincy, in said County, deceased, intestate.

JULIA THERESA PIERCE,

Whereas, a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased, to Frank P. Pierce of Quincy, without giving a surety on his bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy, in said County of Norfolk, on the fourteenth day of April, A. D., 1909, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.

Witness JAMES H. FLINT, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-ninth day of March, A. D. 1909.

JOHN D. COBB, Register.
